Brackett caught sight of his streaming coat-tails as he vanished through the side door, bounded over the bar and after him like a noble red man of the forest, caught him in a few steps from the Court-House, and from the rapidity with which they fell no man could well count the number of head and shoulder cuts he gave that Judge with the cowhide between that point and the old tavern. The Judge at once procured a livery team and started on his way to Bellevue. A capias, with an order to hold to bail in the sum of $5,000, was obtained from the Circuit Court for the arrest of Beardsley, at the suit of Brackett, for slander; and within three hours that dignitary was overhauled, arrested, brought back, gave bail, and was off for home without having gone through with the formality of adjourning his court. An indignation meeting was then proceeded with, and divers speeches were made denunciatory of county courts in general, and not at all complimentary of one particular Judge thereof.

Michigan then had a statute by which attorneys could stipulate all County Court cases into the Circuit. This was done with every case on that County Court calendar, including the half-tried slander case. Beardsley came over to Charlotte to hold the next term, and found that every old and new case had been stipulated into the Circuit. Then he grew thoughtful, and concluded he was not popular with the bar, as a Judge. So he resigned in disgust, left the country, and when last heard of was expounding the gospel after the fashion of the Church of England.—Lansing (Mich.) Republican.

WHAT A BRICK DID.

A gentleman living in the western part of the city underwent a somewhat remarkable experience a few nights ago. The indefinite name of Smith will do well enough to call him by, and his wife would undoubtedly prefer to be designated Mrs. Smith rather than by the family title. Mrs. Smith is sometimes troubled with restlessness at night, much to Mr. Smith's disgust, and he has always insisted that it is because she eats too much supper! To charge a woman with too great an appetite is to commit a grave error, and to even go so far as to say that she absolutely eats so much as to make her restless is to breed the spirit of a great revenge in her bosom every time. Mr. Smith knows it now, but he didn't a short time ago, and took great satisfaction in explaining learnedly just how her rest was affected by over-eating. He'd say that the stomach would contain more than the secretions for digestion could operate upon, and that the pressure of an additional weight of food actually prevented the proper circulation of the blood, and the adequate supply of that desirable liquid to all parts of the body, and then he'd branch off into a disquisition on the functions of organs in general that would nearly throw Mrs. Smith into spasms, with its prosiness. She didn't comprehend much of what her husband said, and she didn't believe his explanation of her wakefulness the correct one, but her curiosity was somewhat aroused, and she determined to learn for herself if a weight upon the stomach would really cause wakefulness or a disposition to nightmare. After much deliberation she resolved to experiment upon Mr. Smith.

"It'll serve him right, anyhow," she said, "for his unfeeling language to me when I've been in such pain."

What Mrs. Smith resolved to do was to put a brick upon Mr. Smith's stomach when he was asleep, and then to note the symptoms to see if restlessness followed. "If it makes him have awful dreams," she remarked to herself, "I'll believe there may be something in all his bothersome talk about overloading the stomach."

Upon the very first night after making up her mind to try the experiment, Mrs. Smith carried the thing into practice. Smith came home late and found Mrs. Smith intent upon some woman's work or other which she said would still occupy her for an hour. Smith went to bed at once, and his wife waited until his peaceful snore reverberated through the house, when she slipped up stairs with a big brick she had secured for the occasion. Smith was sleeping, flat on his back, the sleep of perfect health, his breathing was regular, and the benignant expression upon his countenance indicated that if he dreamed at all it was of pleasant things. Once he moved a little and from his lips came softly the words, "Mary Ann." This was a name unfamiliar to Mrs. Smith, and she hesitated no longer. "You wretch!" she muttered, as she proceeded with her enterprise. Deftly she turned down the counterpane and the sheets, and delicately placed the heavy brick squarely upon the stomach of the sleeping man. Then she turned back the bed clothes and sat down to await results. What ensued was interesting. For a few moments after the application of the brick Smith slept on as before, but gradually a change came. There was a twitching of the body, and the face assumed an expression awfully weird and solemn. Smith appeared to be seeing ghosts! His lips moved, and it became apparent that he was going to speak. The sound was at first indistinct, but rapidly grew louder. He was quoting ghastly poetry:

> "Oh! I stood on a swampy field of battle,
> And of bones and skulls I made a rattle
> To frighten the wolf and the carion crow,
> And the hungry dog—but they would not go!"

Then the sleeper quivered all over and started and gasped, and the look on his face grew weirder than ever. The brick was evidently getting heavy, and in his dreams Smith was transformed into something dismal. He broke out again:

> "Ha! my greatest joy is to lure and decoy
> To the chasm's slippery brink
> The hunter bold, when he's weary and old,
> And then let him suddenly sink!
> A thousand feet! Dead! He fell like lead!
> Ha! he couldn't leap like me;
> With broken back, like a felon on rack,
> He hangs in a split pine tree!"

Smith was getting worse and Mrs. Smith was getting nervous, but she was afraid to approach the bed to take the brick off. She crept up softly, but keeled over backward as Smith howled:

> "And there 'mid his bones that echoed with groans,
> I made me a nest of his hair;
> The ribs, dry and white, rattle loud as in spite,
> As I rock in my cradle there."

The man's voice was rising with every utterance, and Mrs. Smith began to think of insanity. She thought of calling in the neighbors, but was afraid of an exposure by the brick. She didn't know what to do and was just approaching the bed again when her hair was raised by the shout:

"Whoop? It's a ghost without any skin on! Dodge it! Ring the bell softly; there's crape on the door! Scrape on the door!"

And then he calmed down for a moment or two only to start again suddenly and shriek:

"When you get a black cat skin him to the tail! No quarter! Hew them down! Brain the women and children!"

There was a pause for a moment, when the face of the sleeper turned pale and he hissed:

"Is this a dagger that I see before me? Come, let me clutch it, and plunge it in me bowels! Aha!"

As he concluded the sentence, Smith made a wild plunge with his hands. Mrs. Smith had crept up to the bed and was feeling softly for the brick at the very moment he made the dive. One hand landed in her hair, the fingers closed with the grip of a giant, and Mrs. Smith was the next moment in the grasp of the man.

"Aha! I have thee now!" he roared. "I'll tear thy false heart from thy shuddering form, and rend thee limb from limb!"

And undoubtedly he would have accomplished the rending if Mrs. Smith had not lifted up her voice in a scream piercing enough to raise the dead. It woke Smith and he sprang up in bed, the brick rolling off unnoticed as he moved.

"Jane, I've had the worst dream I ever had in my life!"

Mrs. Smith suggested, as he had often done to her, that her husband had eaten too much supper, a proposition he was inclined to dispute, attributing his nightmare to a nervous condition induced by overwork down town. Finally he dropped off to sleep again, and Mrs. Smith improved the opportunity to remove the brick from the bed. Smith, even yet, doesn't know what caused his terrible dream, but Mrs. Smith, though never explaining the matter to him, has become a convert to her husband's views on one subject, and insists that restlessness at night is always the result of overloading the stomach. She learned a great deal in her experiment with the brick, when she got a handful of hair loosened.—St. Louis Republican.

The French Criminal Hero of Fiction.

The criminal hero of fiction among rogues in London is the brutal Blueskin, without any extenuating wit or manner; in Paris it is Robert Macaire, who, it is true, stops at nothing in swindling or robbery, but attaches much importance to the form. Blueskin kills with an oath; Macaire sends his victim into the next word, politely apologizing for the necessity of the act. When M. Macaire takes the property of another he borrows it with polite speech and profound bow: His conversation is full of high-flown sentiment, accompanied with majestic attitudes. The artistic get-up of his dandy rogue of rents and patches, with his creaking snuff-box and club-stick, his bland imperturbability and unscrupulous philosophy, his dilapidated hat gayly cocked on one side, is so impressed on the mind that one is almost constrained to believe that the man really existed. To kindred souls in Faubourg St. Antoine there never was such a taking rogue as this; and better people were never tired of his dandified airs and rags, as represented on the stage by Frederic Lemaitre, or portrayed by the pencils of clever artists like Philipon and Daumier, one of whose happiest efforts was where M. Macaire, arrayed in kingly garments, gives royal opinions of a pernicious character to his follower, Bertrand, who receives them with the commentary of "Ah, vieux blagueur, va." The Faubourg St. Antoine laughed over these oddities until the tears ran down its cheeks; but it would have turned away from the brutalities of Blueskin with disgust.—Albert Rhodes' French at Home.

A REMARKABLE ANIMAL.

Old "Romp," of Jackson, Aged Fifty-one Years—The Oldest Horse Known to the Present Generation.

Undoubtedly the most remarkable horse in the world—at least so far as age is concerned—is now owned in this city. He was foaled in the town of Clarence, Erie county, N. Y., the property of Col. Cronk, at the time a large breeder of race horses, in June 1824, and is, consequently, 51 years old. We have obtained the following interesting history of this venerable animal:

The sire of "Romp," for that was the name given at his birth, was the race-horse Dragon, who was noted as a winner at all distances. The dam of "Romp" was an imported English mare, taken at the battle of Lundy's Lane, in 1812, from an English officer, and purchased by Col. Cronk and kept on his farm for breeding purposes. In the spring of 1827 the colt "Romp," then three years old, was purchased of Col. Cronk by P. L. Carter of this city, and broken by him for a race horse. In his trials he proved to be a very fast runner.

In the autumn of 1827 Mr. Carter made a match to run Romp against a horse that was traveling through the village of Alexandria, Genesee county, N. Y., for $500. The horses started in the race, but before the close of the mile Romp stepped on a rolling stone and broke his near ankle, which so disabled him that he could not finish the race. Mr. Carter, disgusted with the whole affair, of losing his horse and the race, looked about for some person to kill the animal and put an end to his misery. A farmer in the neighborhood offered to take the horse home, on account of his remarkable symmetry and beautiful points, and pay Mr. Carter $10 for him, and try and cure his broken limb. The purchase being made, the horse was placed in a sling obtained in a blacksmith's shop near by, such as was used for shoeing oxen, the bones of the ankle put in place as well as could be, and in two years he was well enough to do ordinary work on a farm.

Mr. Carter retained the interest he at first manifested in the recovery of his favorite animal, and frequently visited him while he remained in New York. In 1836 Mr. Carter moved to this city, where he now resides. In his various visitings to his old home in New York he always paid his old favorite a visit, until the year 1854, when he found that he had been sold to come West, and he lost track of him. In the fall of 1858, however, he saw the old horse in the southern part of this county, and immediately bought him and brought him to his own home in this city. After using him in a buggy for two years and the horse getting a little clumsy, on account of his stiff ankle, he sold him to Mr. A. J. Henderson, who put him into a team for hauling coal from the coal mines in Spring Arbor to this city, a distance of four miles. In this coal wagon he has worked every day (Sunday excepted) for fifteen years. The usual weight of a load of coal is a little more than two tons, and this horse has been half of the team, without the loss of a single meal by sickness or any other cause, and has seen six good young horses die, one after the other, in trying to mate him in his daily round of labor. —Jackson Patriot.

Names of Great Lakes.

A writer in the Cleveland Herald says: The names of the lakes seem to be determined in spite of effort, and are generally Indian names. The first discoverer of Ontario called it "St. Louis;" the after early French called it "Frontenac," after the Governor, who was not unwilling to be complimented, but it was after "Ontario or Frontenac." The English, as they first claimed dominion, called it "Katarakui, or Ontario" (Washington's Journal); Mitchell, "Ontario or Catarakui;" and Pownall the same; but the name Ontario was always used.

Huron was named from the unfortunate tribe on its shore when it was first discovered, "des Hurons," of the Hurons. From Homans, 1706, and De L'Isle, 1729, it received the alias of "Michigan;" Hennepin, in 1698, and Coxe, in 1721, called it "Huron, or Karegnondi," Washington's Journal in 1754, "Ouatoghi, or Huron." No one of the lakes so uniformly received the same name.

Lake Michigan, persistently called at first "Illinois," was called in 1719 "Michigan," by Sener, in 1744, by Charlevoix, and it continued generally after this to have that name.

Superior, called by Champlain, its first topographer, "Grand Lac," was named by the Jesuits in their wonderful map "Tracy," or "Superior." Called by the English Sener in 1719 and Coxe in 1721, as an alias, after the Nadoussians (Sioux) on its shore, it uniformly had from the time of the Jesuit map its present name, with occasionally in early maps the name Tracy.

Lake Erie received its name from the Eries on its bank, and uniformly had that name. The tribe was otherwise called the Cat nation, whence the lake had sometimes the alias of "the Cat," "Felis," "Du Chat." Sener in 1719 called it also "Cadaragua," the name sometimes given to Ontario. Washington's Journal, Mitchell and Pownall called it also Okswego.

A Flying Machine.

The Gainsville (Ga.) Eagle has been visited by Mr. Micajah Dyer, of Union county, in that State, who has recently obtained a patent for an apparatus for navigating the air. The machine is certainly a most ingenious one, containing principles entirely new to aeronauts, and which the patentee confidently believes have solved the knotty problem of air navigation. The body of the machine in shape resembles that of the fowl, an eagle for instance, and is intended to be propelled by different kinds of devices, to-wit: wings and paddle-wheels, both to be simultaneously operated through the instrumentality of mechanism conducted with the driving power. In operating the machinery the wings receive an upward and downward motion, in the manner of the wings of a bird, their outer ends yielding as they are raised, but opening out and then remaining rigid while they are being depressed. The wings, if desired, may be set at an angle so as to propel forward as well as to raise the machine in the air. The paddle-wheels are intended to be used for propelling the machine in the same way that a vessel is propelled on water. An instrument answering to a rudder is attached for guiding the machine. A balloon is to be used for elevating the flying ship, after which it is to be guided and controlled at the pleasure of its occupants.

A GREAT NEWSPAPER.

The "London Times"—Its Wonderful Resources and Revenues.

[London Cor. New York Graphic.]

The Times to-day consists of 120 columns of solid matter. There are twenty pages, each, as you know, just the size of the pages of the New York Tribune. But there is no "display" in the Times; every page is packed solid, and there is not a vacant line. There is no leaded matter, except the leading articles, the special telegraphic dispatches, and one of the foreign letters. The type is small; it is brevier, minion, and nonpareil. If the amount of matter in this number of the Times was given to any of the New York morning papers to print in their usual style, all of them except the Sun would fill not less than forty of their pages with it. There are sixty-seven columns of advertisements. It is easy enough to calculate what these advertisements paid, for the terms of the Times can be ascertained, and there is never any abatement or discount from them. The sixty-seven columns in to-day's issue, according to my calculation, brought in £1,765, and I am sure that I am not £50 out of the way. If the Times had this amount of advertising every day its income from this source would be £552,445 a year. But generally the Times contains but sixteen pages, and all the year round it has about fifty columns of advertisements a day. At this rate its income from advertisements would be about £430,000 a year; and it is from this source that it must wholly—or chiefly—pay all its expenses other than those of its paper-makers, its compositors, and its presswork. At threepence a copy the Times probably pays the cost of its actual mechanical production, but no more. Out of the £430,000 received for advertisements all its other expenses must be defrayed. These expenses are vast; but with £430,000 one may pay all of them and probably have a clear balance of £100,000 or £120,000 profit.

In this number of the Times, as I have said, there are sixty-seven columns of advertisements. How are the other fifty-three columns filled? Correspondence—by mail—from Australia, from Paray-le-Monial, from Ghent and from Dublin fill six columns; an account of the horse show at Alexandra Palace occupies two columns; a description of a sewage farm, one column; university intelligence, two columns; the money article and the stock lists fill five columns; the semi-monthly report on the public health takes one column; the special telegraphic dispatches of the Times' own correspondents from Philadelphia (about the Bunker Hill centennial), New York, Paris, Vienna and Berlin take up three columns; other telegrams fill two columns; commercial and railway intelligence fills three columns; the reports of the previous night's proceedings in Parliament, with the admirable summary thereof, take ten columns; the leading articles, of which there are four, fill five columns; the law and police reports fill three; the shipping news and mail news two; and the remaining eight columns are made up of letters to the editor, accounts of the doings of the Sultan of Zanzibar, and miscellaneous news. You may take it for granted that none of your able editors in New York would make up such a paper—they would produce something far more lively; but when they had done it your Englishman would not worship it as he does the Times. The men who make the Times know exactly what is wanted, and they produce it. Every one reads it, almost every one growls at it, but every one is more or less influenced by it. It is, by all odds, the greatest power in the kingdom in certain ways, and its present managers have recently given proof of their determination to increase its influence and to widen the sphere of its dominion. Its four great features are its money article, its leaders, its special dispatches, and its advertisements. In these respects it is unequaled—all the other London papers put together cannot hold a candle to it in these four departments. And, when the occasion arises, its foreign correspondence is shown to be superior to any that its rivals can obtain. The Daily News or the Telegraph may occasionally have a letter better or fresher than that of the Times correspondent from the same spot, but in the long run the old Thunderer beats them all out of sight.

How They Do it in California.

The following actually occurred in our vicinity this week. The parties thereto are well-known and respectable; the lady is 55 years of age, and the gentleman five years her senior. They had frequently heard of each other through mutual friends, but had never met until a few days ago, when the following conversation took place:

Gent—Madam, what is your name?

Lady—My name is——.

Gent—My name is——. I live in Livermore, where I own a ranch. Ahem! how would you like me for a husband?

Lady—Well, really, I don't know. I've heard your name, Mr——, but how would you like me for a wife?

Gent—Madam, the sight of you more than does justice to what I have heard. Will you be my wife?

The lady assented. The gentleman went immediately to Oakland to get a license, and twenty-four hours after their first meeting the couple were man and wife, and by this time are on his ranch at Livermore.—Alameda County (Cal.) Independent.

Flavor of Eggs.

There is a vast difference in the flavor of eggs. Hens fed on clear, sound grain, and kept on a clean grass run, give much finer flavored eggs than hens that have access to stable and manure heaps and eat all kinds of filthy food. Hens feeding on fish and onions flavor their eggs accordingly, the same as cows eating onions or cabbage, or drinking offensive water, impart bad taste to the milk and butter. The richer the food the higher the color of the eggs. Wheat and corn give eggs the best color, while feeding on buckwheat makes them colorless, rendering them unfit for some confectionery purposes.—Moore's Rural New Yorker.

PETTICOAT LOGIC.

I hate the men, I detest the men,
I hated them years ago;
I hate them now and despised 'em then,
They're not a bit better—but better than when
I didn't dislike them so.
I hate the class, and I wish to purge
Our planet of all the fry;
They rule the roast, and I always urge
That class legislation's a terrible scourge—
Which nobody dares deny.

We're much more fit, as you all will own,
To marshal the social van,
Because to woman, as widely known,
The fountain of knowledge was certainly shown
Before it was shown to man.
And yet men say, with sarcastic ring,
But quasi-regretful air,
That we're at the bottom of ev'rything—
And there to retain us located they bring
Their worst endeavors to bear.

Of hope a glimmer has somewhile shone—
Whene'er we're ridden of late,
We've haply managed to trowsers don,
And some of us manage the keeping them on,
Too, in a domestic state.
So, sternly vow that you won't give way,
All ye of my sex so fair.
Undaunted struggle, and struggling, pray—
The sooner the better the reckoning day.
Then, gentlemen all, beware!

Pith and Point.

Astronomy is the eye-road to Heaven.

Naughty behavior of yachting men—Hugging the shore.

"What's going on?" said a well-known bore to Douglas Jerrold. "I am," was the reply, and on he went.

The young Napoleon is said to be a close student. Why, therefore, does he resemble trouble? He never reigns, but pores.

"Six feet in his stockings!" exclaimed Mrs. Partington. "Why, Ike has only two in his, and I can never keep 'em darned at that!"

The Buffalo Express swoops down on Dr. Mary Walker like the wolf on the fold, and utterly knocks her out of her boots with the terrible name, "philanthropantaloonatic."

"If Jones undertakes to pull my ears," said a loud-mouthed fellow on a street corner, "he will have his hands full, now." The crowd looked at his ears, and thought so too.

A doctor's wife attempted to move him by tears. "Ah," said he, "tears are useless. I have analyzed them. They contain a little phosphate of lime, some chloride of sodium, and water."

A man who was about to be hanged in Alabama, sang, "Oh, the bright angels are waiting for me." Whereupon the local editor wrote, "And then the angels stirred up the fire and looked brighter."

Adolph Storoskemodrachopskey was lodged in a New Haven station house, the other night, for drunkenness. When they had shut him up in his cell the futher end of his name was still trailing out upon the street.—Detroit Tribune.

A seventeen-year-old son in the family has the hardest work. He comes home two hours after midnight so weary and worn out with playing at billiards and carrying a scarf-pin the size of your fist, almost, that it is as much as he can do to get out of bed in time for dinner.

A physician who had been greatly annoyed by numerous questions concerning the condition of a certain patient, was stopped while on his busy rounds with the old question: "How's Mr. ——?" "Sick," replied the physician. "Does he keep his bed?" "Of course he does; you don't suppose he's fool enough to sell his bed because he's sick, do you?"

A bald-headed man in New York, who had fallen into the habit of lighting matches on his scalp, was cured of the practice one day last week by using a phosphorous match, which missed fire and left sufficient lighted sulphur on his head to make him appear like a traveling lighthouse, while he howled like a Modoc, and butted a hole through a six inch brick wall before he could be brought to reason the matter.

Lovers are proverbially incautious A Nelson street lover was taking leave of his girl, Tuesday evening, on the veranda. The house had been newly painted that morning. He had a new silk hat. He bought it that day for $8, and had worn it up to the house to give her an agreeable shock. Just as he was going down the steps he saw a cat sitting on the veranda, and in the exuberance of his delight he murmured: "Just see me knock lightning out of that cat," and promptly lifting the new hat he shied it at her. It didn't hit the cat, but it scraped fifty cents worth of paint from the house, knocked over a flower pot worth thirty cents, and broke a plant which cost a dollar and a quarter. Then he silently picked up his hat, jammed it over his eyes, and stalked moodily out into the night.—Danbury News.

The New York Census.

The scattering returns of the State census already received indicate that the population will reach the figure of 5,000,000. At least one-third of this number are in the counties of New York and Kings, whose representation in the Legislature will be increased to ten or eleven Senators and upward of forty Assemblymen. All the cities are expected to show an increase over the census of 1870. New York will return nearly a million and a quarter of people, and Brooklyn about half a million. Buffalo promises to show a population of 150,000. The rural districts proper will not make as good returns as five years ago, owing to the fact that the cities are constantly drawing people from the country faster than the natural increase. Twelve of the interior counties, at least, will each lose a member of Assembly, and the area of Senate districts of the interior will necessarily be augmented. Some of the counties now having three Assemblymen will be reduced to two. The enumerator's returns should all be in by the 15th inst., but in some instances they will not be ready, and the time will be extended.

Oswego has a population of 22,280, a gain of 1,370 since 1870. Troy has a population of 49,232, a gain of 3,400 in five years.—Syracuse (N. Y.) Journal.

The Savannah Advertiser remarks: "After all the street car conductors who have committed suicide because their honesty was doubted, the New York companies now find that they have saved over a million dollars by the use of the bell punch."

Dogs for the Arctic Expedition.

In addition to the sledges drawn by the men, the expedition will be furnished with fix or six sledges to be drawn by dogs, of which sixty are to be taken on board the ships at the Danish settlement of Uppernavik, on the coast of Greenland, to be used when sledging operations commence. Sir Leopold McClintock states, as the result of his experience, that two dogs can drag as much as one man. Several tons of the choicest dog biscuit have been provided for their use, although some doubts are entertained whether they will be duly appreciated, experience having proved that the Greenland dogs prefer devouring each other to any food which can be offered them. "Nothing," says Admiral Osborn, "can be more exhilerating than dog sledging in the Arctic regions on a fine day. The rattling pace of the dogs, their intelligence in choosing the road through the broken ice; the strict obedience paid by the team to one powerful dog whom they elect as leader; the arbitrary exercise of authority by the master dog; the constant use of the whip, and the running conversation kept up by the driver with the different dogs, who well know their names afford constant enjoyment." However useful they may be, these Arctic dogs seem to be deficient in that affectionate disposition which endears their species so much to man. Capt. Vesey Hamilton stated, at a meeting of the Royal Geographical Society, that he believed the Esquimaux dogs to be the most ungrateful creatures in creation. He had traveled for several hundred miles by sledge, and for six weeks it was his duty regularly to feed the dogs; but after only a week's absence, on the conclusion of the journey, they would not recognize him in the slightest degree. Sir Leopold McClintock, who may be said to have originated this mode of Arctic traveling, states that it would be a mistake to attempt to house the dogs, as they can live near the ships during a whole winter, and if treated differently would sicken and die.—Blackwood's Magazine.

Meeting of Brothers After Forty-Five Years.

The Cortland Republican has an account of the strange meeting of two brothers after a prolonged separation. It says: "About sixty years ago, Mr. Richard Almy, then living in East Homer, had his wife's brother, John Wright, come from Schoharie county, to live with him. John lived with him until he was twenty years old, when he went to work for Gen. Miller, on what is now the Loring farm, and afterward for others. About 1825 he induced his brother, Eliakim, ten years younger than himself, to come to Homer. Eliakim lived with Mr. Almy for a while and then began to work for others. He worked a year for Mr. J. Barber, during which time he aided in digging the cellar of his present house. He worked a year for Mr. B. Tubbs. In 1827 John left Homer, lived several years in the western part of the State, and then moved to Michigan, where he still has his home. In 1828 Eliakim went to live in Cattaraugus county, N. Y., where he still resides. In 1830 they lost track of each other. Neither, however, forgot the other's existence, and both lived on in hope of meeting again. Three weeks ago last Monday John left his Michigan home for the East, determined, if possible, to find his brother, from whom he had heard nothing in forty-five years. The next morning Eliakim started from his New York home on the same errand. Each had decided to come to Homer and institute inquiry. They reached Syracuse within two hours of each other. John took the noon train for Homer, and Eliakim the evening train. Upon making inquiries here, both were separately directed to Mrs. St. John, their neice. Neither of them knew that she was here. They called upon her, and the next morning she had the pleasure of introducing them to each other. The meeting, as may be readily imagined, was an affecting one."

French Economies.

When a Frenchman in a cafe puts two of the little slabs of white sugar in his coffee, and the remaining two in his pocket, it is not meanness, but economy. The four consecrated to the demitasse are paid for; and the purchaser may carry them home to the canary bird, present them to the children of the concierge as a means of maintaining pleasant relations with that person, or keep them for eau sucree. Life is not large as in the United States, where there is elasticity in the incomes. Here they are fixed; so much a year, month, and day. The line about the budget of expense is rigid, especially in the case of small rentiers, who abound in France. The man of 3,000 francs a year rides on the top of the omnibus for three sous; reads the papers in one of the small reading-rooms for four sous; smokes one or sous worth of Caporal tobacco a day, in a pipe; goes to the theater once a week for three to five francs, and to the cafe chantant once or twice, where his consommation costs him ten sous each time; he eats two-franc dinners, followed by that indispensable black coffee, for six sous, with one or two sous gratuity, at one of the second-class cafes. The chief part of his time he strolls on the boulevards, looking in at the windows of the people—never failing, under any circumstances, to admire a pretty woman—and in sitting in the public gardens, all of which is gratuitous pleasure.—Albert Rhodes' French at Home.

A Club for Women as well as Men.

The Albemarle Club in London is an association organized on the principle of ignoring sex, and giving to men and women together the ordinary facilities of a London club. It is the first experiment of the kind. There is a club for women separately already in existence on a small scale, but there never has been one where the two sexes meet on even terms. It has the countenance of some of the best women and men in England, and it begins with over 300 members, having accommodations for 500. There is a separate drawing-room for ladies and a smoking-room for men, from which ladies are expressly excluded—though smoking among ladies is not unknown. The dining-room is open to both, but if a lady likes a cup of tea in the ladies' drawing-room she may have that. At present there is nothing in the rules to prevent a member of the club of either sex from asking a friend of either sex to lunch or dinner. The only security taken on this point is that the name of the guest and host shall be entered together in a book open to inspection.—New York Tribune.

An Unreliable Timepiece.

One night Mr. Cooley's clock suddenly got out of order, and at midnight it struck six. Cooley happened to be awake, and when he heard it he jumped from bed, and, after routing out Mrs. Cooley, he dressed himself. Then he was surprised to find that the servant girl was not up, and he waked her and told her to make the best possible time she could and hurry up breakfast. Then the whole family came down stairs wondering how it was they felt so sleepy. But they lighted the gas and bustled about as usual, preparing for the day's work. Cooley's brother Bill had been out to a party, and about half-past twelve he came home. When he saw the light in the house he suspected at once that it had been entered by burglars. So he crept up to the door and listened. He could distinctly hear the robbers moving about inside, and he concluded that he would get a gang of policemen and capture them. While he was gone on his errand the clock struck seven, and Mrs. Cooley said she thought it was queer that it was still so dark out of doors.

Pretty soon Bill returned with two officers, and they determined to act promptly and decisively. Bill unlocked the front door, and as he did so a policeman fired his revolver at a burglar he saw going through a door at the other end of the hall. Then the whole party opened on the robber, and he dropped, howling; and the other robbers in the back room began to scream. Then Bill rushed up and saw it was Cooley, and he ascertained that the yells came from Mrs. Cooley and the hired girl. Cooley was shot in the leg. When his brother Bill recognized him he began to apologize, but Cooley said:

"G'way from here, you scoundrel! I'll have you hung for murdering me! What d'you mean, anyhow?"

Before Bill could reply the clock struck eight; and Cooley said it was an outrage for him to stay out all night and come home shooting at his family at eight o'clock in the morning. Then Bill insisted it was only two o'clock, and the policeman said he was right. Cooley began then to grasp the situation, and he was just about to swear at the clock when it struck fifteen. Then he told Bill to stop that clock or he would go crazy, and when Bill stopped it, it struck twenty-six. This excited Cooley so much that he seized a chair and flung it at the timepiece, whereupon it promptly struck two hundred and thirty-four. Then Bill threw it into the street, where it struck straight ahead until five o'clock, while the Cooleys and Bill all went to bed. Mr. Cooley purchased a chronometer on the following Saturday, and forbade anybody to bring a striking clock anywhere near the house.—Max Adeler.

A Much-Married Woman.

Benjamin Abbett and Mrs. Mary Pratt were recently wedded at Smyrna, Del. This is the seventh time the bride has been led to the altar, and the Smyrna Times prints some interesting gossip concerning her past life. The contracting parties to these nuptials, it says, are well up the ascending grade to eighty years. The groom is a quiet, unassuming old man, a widower, with means enough (particularly if combined with her income) to meet his not very numerous wants. The bride was the relict of the late ex-Sheriff Henry Pratt, of Kent county, who was the last anti-Democratic Sheriff who filled that office in that county. He was elected Sheriff in 1844 by the Whigs. His descendants, children, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren, at the time of his marriage, numbered 156, and yet he had never then had but one death in his family—his first wife. Mrs. Abbott's names have been eight in all—Miss Williams, Mrs. Truax, Mrs. Farrow, Mrs. Riggs, Mrs. Wallace, Mrs. Berry, Mrs. Pratt, and now Mrs. Abbott. "In every instance," says the Times, "save the first, she has married a widower, some of them with a goodly number of children. She, however, has never sustained the maternal relation by consanguinity. She was reared in this community, as have been all her husbands, so far as we can learn, and hence her record has been as an open book to all her seven companions, yet record, age, nor aught else seems to work fatally to 'the charm that wins,' whatever that may be—and to find that out is the rub. The five years and over of widowhood that exists between her last and her present husband is the longest that she has endured."

Wonderful Wood-Sawyers.

They tell of some extraordinary Cincinnati wood-sawyers. Old Mr. Crabapple is very much pleased with a gentleman whom he has engaged to saw wood. "When he piles the wood," said old Crabapple to his friend, "if one stick projects beyond the other he pounds it with the ax." "He's a slouch," replied old man Stubble; "you should see my wood-sawyer. When he gets the wood all piled he takes off the rough projecting ends with a claw-hammer saw." "Does he? Well, he couldn't pile wood for me," broke in old Spikenberg: "my sawyer piles the wood carefully, then goes over the ends with a jackplane, sandpapers them down, and puts on a coat of varnish before he thinks of asking for his pay." Then they all went into the Grand Hotel before Syntax could tell how his wood-sawyer silver-plated all the ends of the wood, and nailed a handle on each and every stick to pick it up by.

American Engines for South America.

The Baldwin Works, Philadelphia, have twenty-two locomotives in progress for South America. The Pullman Palace Car Company are making nine of their palace cars to fill an order from Italy, and eleven to satisfy an English order, before similar orders from Canadian railways and Turkish and Russian firms have been completed. The items show that the beginning has not only been made but increases, and contributes so much to strengthen the confidence of those who believe that American manufactures will become a greater figure in our export tables.

A FOOL AND HIS MONEY.

The Adventures of an Iowa Wool-Buyer.

Mr. F. Radhman, a heavy wool-buyer and shipper of Iowa City, Iowa, went to Chicago the other day on business, taking with him $1,850 in cash. After transacting a little business he took a stroll about town, and what befell the wool-dealer, is thus related by the Chicago Tribune:

He partook of several glasses of lager beer during the forenoon, and while on Clark street, near Harrison, met a young man who represented himself as a fireman on the railway, and proposed a visit to a resort which he said was kept by a woman called "Big Frenchy." The half stupid man accompanied the fellow to No. 429 Clark street, where he met "Big Frenchy," or Caroline Richards, as she calls herself, Ogene Ledzong, and Ida Lebrick. While in a room in the house he foolishly laid his large wallet containing the money on a bureau, and states that he noticed one of the women come into the room and leave in a suspicious manner. A cry of "Police!" was raised by some one in the house, and Radhman was hustled out of a back door for fear of arrest. He examined his wallet after leaving the place, and found $350 missing from it. Without contemplating making any complaint to the police, he wended his way down Clark street, and was met by a young man who accosted him by name, and asked him where he had been. He informed the man of his loss, and the latter told him he was an attorney, and he would get back his money for him. He was taken up into some apartment of a building on Clark street, he thinks, near Harrison, and there gave the fellow $25 as a retaining fee. The so-called lawyer soon disappeared from the worse than foolish man, and left him to look out for himself, something he did not do, as the sequel shows. He walked northward on Clark street, and about 7:30 o'clock was opposite the Grand Pacific Hotel when two men came up to him, and one of them seizing him by the arm and, showing him a star on the lappel of his coat, said he was a United States officer, and arrested him as a counterfeiter. Then thrusting his hand into the inside pocket of Radhman's coat, where the wallet still containing $1,500 was placed, he drew it out and exclaimed, "Here's the evidence against you!" holding the money before his face, and taking care to keep it out of the reach of the boozy German. Radhman became scared and implored the men to let him alone and give him back his money, and asserted his innocence of any crime. In spite of his expostulations, he was seized by both arms and rushed down to the southern entrance of the Kentucky Block, where a third man was met. The man who had the wallet left Radhman in charge of the other two and ran up the stairs, telling the prisoner that he was going to see about the matter, and to remain quiet at the foot of the steps. The man with the wallet disappeared quickly into the hall on the second floor, and, of course, ran to the entrance at the northern end of the hall, and thence again into Clark street. Radhman, as if to carry out the programme of the well-laid plot to rob him, broke away from his captors, who readily let him go, and ran up the stairway to see what became of the "United States officer" who had his wallet and $1,500—every cent he had about him. It is scarcely necessary to say that the other two rogues scampered off to meet their confederate and divide the spoils.

Detectives were made acquainted with the robbery, and then Officer Londergan took the unfortunate man to the Armory, and received orders from the Sergeant on duty to proceed with Radhman at once to the house on Clark street kept by Caroline Richards, and arrest all the inmates. Ogene Ledzong was booked on the charge of larceny, Radhman recognizing her as the person who entered the room under suspicious circumstances. The others were charged with being inmates of a house of ill-fame. None of the missing money was found on them.

The poor dupe of this robbery is in a fearful state of mind on account of his folly, and will not be reconciled. He asserts that he does not care so much for the loss of the money—as he has plenty of it—as he does for the situation in which he has been placed. He is detained at the armory to await the result of the efforts of the officers to find the thieves.

Which Is the Old World?

The efforts of Max Muller, Lubbuck and other scientists to establish the theory that all the present races on the planet are derivative, and that they have their ancestral roots on the Iranian plains of Central Asia, seems likely to be unsuccessful. Many scientists have arisen during the last decade who earnestly controvert the hypothesis, and, like Aggesiz, insist upon a diverse origin, and even claim that the western continent may have been the birthplace of the race. There are some curious facts that tend to confirm this theory.

It is well known that the first rock that made permanent appearance above the chaos of the molten globe is the Laurentian ridge of granite which trends southwestward from Nova Scotia to Lake Superior. In the natural process of evolution, why should not the first soil become earliest fitted for the abode of man? Moreover, while comparative philology demonstrates the kinship of most of the peoples of the eastern hemispheres, the most careful scrutiny reveals no relationship between them and those races which may be generally known as the Tartars—including under this designation not only the Calmuck and Cossacks of Russia, and the Siberians and North Chinese, but the Esquimaux, North American Indian Mound-builders, Aztecs, Tolticans, and ancient Peruvians. How early the primitive races emigrated from America to Asia cannot even be conjectured, but intercourse across the Upper Pacific must from the earliest ages have been comparatively easy.

This belief finds corroboration in the high civilization attained in Mexico and Peru. Under the long dynasty of the Incas civil engineering was carried to a perfection in many branches which it has not yet recovered in any part of the world. Two thousand years before Christ Peru had a population larger than that of the present United States. They had made more progress in astronomy than even the Ptolemaic school in Alexandria had made a thousand years later; they had invented the mariner's compass and used it, and their agricultural processes were equal to those of Holland today. If further and closer scientific research should confirm this hypothesis, the question will be, not how was the American continent first populated, but how came the new eastern world to be inhabited, and did the Indo-Europeans start into being because a fertile soil was ready, or did they colonize the Orient from the shores of Mexico—the prima cradle of the race?—Graphic.

Protection Against Flies.

"M. W. S.," of Sloansville, N. Y., writes to the New York Tribune: If any information or suggestion can be given which will tend to reduce the discomfort arising from the prevalence of house flies, that information or suggestion will benefit at least one-half the people of this country, particularly at this season of the year, when the pests are being armed and equipped for the Summer campaign. On this subject there are a few things worth publishing and knowing. One is that the eggs of flies are never laid or hatched in the house, and scarcely ever in the shade. There are a few favorite localities where the eggs are deposited, which can be easily discovered. One is upon the lower side and along the main rib of the leaves of certain kinds of trees and shrubs. If the leaves curl, and upon examination a mass of minute insects are found, or color from dusky brown to black, and flies small to full grown are about the tree, one may know that tree or shrub is the hatching-place for flies. A small tree is sufficient to produce millions of them. I have at different times been compelled to dig up a beautiful purple-leaved beebery and an English cherry of the yellow Spanish variety for the reason that they were breeding ground for flies, and in too close proximity to my house, which they were yearly filling with this filthy insect. Another favorite place for depositing their eggs is where the flow from a sink is allowed to stand and grow putrid on the surface of the ground. Where favorite food is furnished them and light is freely admitted they will be attracted a long way, but in dining-rooms and kitchens all sweet and moist food should be secured as soon as the table is left by the family and the light excluded. If these few suggestions are heeded the annoyance of flies and the consequent reputation of a slovenly house can be easily avoided to a great extent. This will pay good interest, first in a reputation for cleanliness, and secondly in being relieved of a nuisance which is often past human endurance.

The Widow's Money.

A poor woman, who lived in an unprotected part of Scotland, became unexpectedly possessed of a large sum of money, with which property she was as much troubled as "Captain Jack" with the money which he dared not spend, was afraid to show, and could not carry about him for lack of pockets. She would have taken it to the bank, but could not leave the house. At last she asked the advice of a butcher of her acquaintance, telling him that she was afraid to live alone in the house with such a sum of money.

"Never fear," said the butcher; "I will leave my dog with you, and I'll warrant you that no one dare to enter your house."

So toward evening the dog was brought, and chained up close to the place where the money was kept. In the middle of the night a robber made his way into the house, and was proceeding to carry off the money, when he was seized by the dog, who held him a prisoner until assistance came. The thief was the butcher himself, who thought that he had made sure of the money. He had not considered that his dog was a better moralist than himself, and, instead of betraying a defenseless woman, would even take her part against his own master.

A son of Mr. Rich, of Weyauwega, Wis., was stung by a bee one day last week, and in less than five minutes from the time of the sting the poison seemed to have affected every part of his body. His limbs were swollen to mammoth proportions, and his face was swollen so bad as to completely shut his eyes. He suffered great pain, and medical assistance was immediately sent for.

WILHOFT'S FEVER AND AGUE TONIC.—This medicine is used by construction companies for the benefit of their employes, when engaged in malarial districts. The highest testimonials have been given by contractors and by the Presidents of some of the leading railroads in the South and West. When men are congregated in large numbers in the neighborhood of swamps and rivers, Wilhoft's Tonic will prove a valuable addition to the stock of medicines, and will amply reward the company in the saving of time, labor and money. We recommend it to all. WHEELOCK, FINLAY & CO., Proprietors, New Orleans.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

THE relaxing power of Johnson's Anodyne Liniment is truly wonderful. Cases are already numerous where bent and stiffened limbs have been limbered and straightened by it. When used for this purpose, the part should be washed and rubbed thoroughly. Apply the liniment cold, and rub it in with the hand.

A CROWD of "Horse Men," and others, daily throng the stores in country and town for Sheridan's Cavalry Condition Powders. They understand that horses cannot be kept in good condition without them, and with them can be on a much less quantity of grain.

HEARING RESTORED.—Great invention Book free. G. J. WOOD, Madison, Ind.

GLEN FLORA SPRING WATER, at Waukegan, Ill., cures all kidney diseases.

HOW TO GET A HOME. See advertisement.

A MAN OF A THOUSAND.

A CONSUMPTIVE CURED.—When death was hourly expected from Consumption, all remedies having failed, accident led to a discovery whereby Dr. H. James cured his only child with a preparation of Cannabis Indica. He now gives recipe free on receipt of two stamps to pay expenses. There is not a single symptom of Consumption that it does not dissipate—Night Sweats, Irritation of the Nerves, Difficult Expectoration, sharp Pains in the Lungs, Nausea at the Stomach, Inaction of the Bowels, and Wasting of the Muscles. Address CRADDOCK & CO., 1032 Race Street, Philadelphia, Pa., giving name of this paper.

SILVER TIPPED SHOES

Those who like to see a ragged toe and dirty stocking will not care to buy SILVER TIPPED Shoes. But those who would rather have a neat Silver Tip should insist that their shoe dealer should always keep them.

To have comfort and health, wear Boots and Shoes that will not leak and are pliable—such only are made with the CABLE SCREW WIRE. Try them. All bear the Patent Stamp.

CABLE SCREW WIRE

NEW BOOK, "Gleanings," Now Ready. Agents address LOUIS LLOYD & CO., Chicago.

WANTED AGENTS. Samples and Outfit free. Better than Gold. A. COULTER & CO., Chicago.

EVERY FAMILY WANTS IT. Money in it. Sold by Agents. Address M. N. LOVELL, Erie, Pa.

$10 to $25 per day. Send for Chromo Catalogue. J. H. BUFFORD'S SONS, Boston, Mass.

$250 A MONTH.—Agents wanted everywhere. Business honorable and first-class. Particulars sent free. Address WORTH & CO., St. Louis, Mo.

$490 A MONTH and EXPENSES to all. Articles new, staple as flour. Samples free. C. LININGTON, NEW YORK or CHICAGO.

3 Pounds of Butter from 1 Quart of Milk. Can be made anywhere, by any one. No churning required. Receipt sent for 25 cents. Address P. O. Box 1741, Philadelphia, Pa.

SOMETHING for you. Sells at sight. Our Agents make money. We have work and money for all, men or women, boys or girls, whole or spare time. Send stamp for Catalogue. Address FRANK GLUCK, New Bedford, Mass.

PENNSYLVANIA MILITARY ACADEMY, Chester, Pa., Opens Sept. 8th. Location healthful, grounds ample, buildings commodious. Civil Engineering, the Classics and English thoroughly taught. For Circulars apply to COL. THEO. HYATT, President.

WANTED AGENTS—Everywhere for the Centennial History—600 pages, 250 engravings, selling well. Address H. O. HOUGHTON & CO., 4 Somerset Street, Boston, Mass.

10 DOLLARS PER DAY { AGENTS WANTED to sell THE IMPROVED HOME SHUTTLE Sewing Machine. Address Johnson, Clark & Co., Boston, Mass.; New York City; Pittsburgh, Pa.; Chicago, Ill.; or St. Louis, Mo.

FOR SALE. Chicago Suburban Lots at $100 each—$15 down and $5 monthly for balance—within a short distance of city limits, with hourly trains and cheap fare. Send for circular. IRA BROWN, 142 LaSalle Street, Chicago, Ill.

GEO. P. ROWELL & Co.

$10. to $500. Invested in Wall Street often leads to fortune. A 72-page book explaining everything, and copy of the Wall Street Review SENT FREE. JOHN HICKLING & CO., Bankers and Brokers, 72 Broadway, N. Y.

AGENTS WANTED for the fastest-selling BOOK ever published. Send for circulars and our extra terms to Agents. NATIONAL PUB. CO., Chicago, Ill., or St. Louis, Mo.

OPIUM CURE The most successful remedy of the present day. Send for Paper on Opium Eating. Prof. D. Meeker, P. O. Box 475, Laporte, Ind.

AGENTS WANTED FOR A NEW BOOK. SUCCESS IN BUSINESS. HOW TO MAKE MONEY. Selling very fast. Send for circulars. P. W. ZIEGLER & CO., 201 S. Clark-st., Chicago, Ill.

TEAS.—The choicest in the world—Importers' prices—Largest Company in America—staple article—pleases everybody—Trade continually increasing—Agents wanted everywhere—best inducements—don't waste time—send for circular to ROBERT WELLS, 43 Vesey-st., N. Y., P. O. Box 1287.

50 Of the prettiest CARDS you ever saw, with your name handsomely printed on them, sent, postpaid, upon receipt of 20 cents. Your friends will all want them when they see yours. Address W. C. CANNON, 46 Kneeland St., Boston, Mass.

VISITING CARDS 50 finest white, with name neatly printed sent free for 25 cts.; 100 for 35 cts. Send stamp for specimens, to ERNEST HART, Rochester, N. Y.

WANTED AGENTS FOR THE best-selling Prize Package in the world. It contains 15 Sheets Paper, 15 Envelopes, Golden Pen, Pen Holder, Pencil, Patent Yard Measure, and a Piece of Jewelry. Single Package, with elegant Prize, post-paid, 25 cents. Circular free. BRIDE & CO., 769 Broadway, New York.

HOW TO GET A HOME. IOWA LANDS, 500,000 ACRES. Rich Soil, good Climate, excellent Water, growing Settlements, good Schools. We offer the Lands of the Sioux City and St. Paul R. R. and the McGregor and Missouri River R. R. at $4 to $8 per acre, on easy payments. Two years rent will buy a farm. Apply to DAVIDSON & CALKINS, R. R. Land Office, Sibley, Osceola Co., Iowa.

PEOPLE WILL HAVE OUR GOODS. Send 25 cents and we will send by mail, prepaid, our LAMP FILLER, with which you can fill any Kerosene Lamp without removing chimney or getting grease outside of Lamp. At same time we mail you all our circulars and terms to agents on twenty useful household articles with which any person can make from $5 to $10 daily. We want Agents everywhere. NATIONAL AGENTS' EMPORIUM, BOSTON, MASS.

AGENTS WANTED For the Great CENTENNIAL HISTORY of the UNITED STATES, by BENSON J. LOSSING, now ready! In both English and German. 800 pages, 450 engravings—one large, yet low-priced volume, richly bound. Full and splendidly illustrated account of the approaching Grand Centennial Celebration. Intense interest everywhere in the thrilling history of our country; hence, sure chance for AGENTS seeking a first-class book. Fail not to send for description and liberal terms. F. A. HUTCHINSON & CO., CHICAGO, ILL., or W. E. BLISS, TOLEDO.

CAUTION.—NOTICE.—The GENUINE EDITION. LIFE AND LABORS OF LIVINGSTONE. (Including the "LAST JOURNALS,") unfolds vividly his 30 Years strange adventures, also the curiosities, Wonders and Wealth of that marvelous country, and is absolutely the only new complete work. Hence it sells; just think, 12,000 first 7 weeks. Agents' success would astonish you, more wanted. Send for terms and positive proof of genuineness. HUBBARD BROS., Pubs., 144 W. 4th St., Cinn., O.

AGENTS WANTED! To sell Holgate & Tupper's Celebrated Preserving Compound for preserving fruits, vegetables, meats, eggs, etc., etc. The fastest selling, best paying, and most useful household article ever offered to agents. Experience not necessary; sells at sight, no humbug; agents now in the field are making $50 to $80 per week. Put up in tin boxes neatly labeled, with full directions, and numerous testimonials accompanying each box. Satisfaction guaranteed. For particulars, send stamp to T. J. VAUGHN, Fond du Lac, Wis., General Agent for Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa and Minnesota.

ELASTIC TRUSS. This new Truss is worn with perfect comfort night and day. Adapts itself to every motion of the body, retaining rupture under the hardest exercise or severest strain until permanently cured. Sold cheap by the Elastic Truss Co., NO. 683 Broadway, N. Y. City. Sent by mail. Call or send for Circular and be cured.

SEA FOAM. Keeler, Holmes & Co., Grocers, Norwalk, Ct., say—"We have the assurance of our customers that Sea Foam is the best Baking Powder. Our sales of it increase continually." Geo. L. Claflin & Co., Druggists, Providence, R. I., say—"Your Sea Foam is steadily gaining in favor. All speak well of it." It is the best. Farmers' wives can excel New York Hotel Cooks by using Sea Foam. Try it and be happy. Send for circular to GEO. F. GANTZ & CO., 176 Duane St., New York.

OPIUM Morphine Habit AND Intemperance. Speedily cured by DR. BECK'S only known and sure Remedy. NO CHARGE for treatment until cured. Call on or address Dr. J. C. BECK, 112 John St., Cincinnati, O.

CLARK'S BOOK-KEEPING. Self-instructive. Price $1.00, postpaid. Send for Circular. W. S. CLARK & CO., 145 Race Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Established 1858. TRADE MARK, PATENTED. The best and cheapest Paint in the World for Iron, Tin or Wood. For sale by Dealers everywhere. PRINCE'S METALLIC PAINT CO., Manuf'rers, 96 Cedar St., New York. CAUTION.—Purchasers will please see that our name and trade mark are on each and every package.

BOOK AGENTS Wanted to sell "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser." It is the cheapest book ever published; 885 pages, over 250 illustrations, $1.50. Thousands buy it at sight who could not be induced to purchase the high-priced books treating of Domestic Medicine. Unlike other books sold through agents, this work is thoroughly advertised throughout North America. This fact, together with the large size, elegant appearance, and many new features of the book, causes it to sell more rapidly than any work ever published in this country. Those of my agents who have had experience in selling books say that in all their previous canvassing they never met with such success or made so large wages as since commencing the sale of my work. For terms and territory, address (inclosing two postage stamps and stating experience) R. V. PIERCE, M. D., World's Dispensary, Buffalo, N. Y. Note.—Mark envelope "For Publishing Dep't."

TARRANT'S SELTZER APERIENT. Trifling with Biliousness Won't Do. In this way chronic disease is brought on. A disordered liver is the consequence of a foul stomach and obstructed bowels, and the very best preparation in existence to put them in perfect order and keep them so is Tarrant's Effervescent Aperient. SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

NICHOLS, SHEPARD & CO.'S "VIBRATOR" THRESHER.

The BRILLIANT SUCCESS of this Grain-Saving, Time-Saving THRESHER, is unprecedented in the annals of Farm Machinery. In a brief period it has become widely known and FULLY ESTABLISHED, as the "LEADING THRESHING MACHINE."

NICHOLS SHEPARD & CO
VIBRATOR

GRAIN RAISERS REFUSE to submit to the wasteful and imperfect work of other Threshers, when posted on the vast superiority of this one, for saving grain, saving time, and doing fast, thorough and economical work.

THRESHERMEN FIND IT highly advantageous to run a machine that has no "Beaters," "Pickers," or "Apron," that handles Damp Grain, Long Straw, Headings, Flax, Timothy, Millett and all such difficult grain and seeds, with ENTIRE EASE AND EFFECTIVENESS. Cleans to perfection; saves the farmer his thresh bill by extra saving of grain; makes no "Litterings;" requires LESS THAN ONE-HALF the usual Belts, Boxes, Journals, and Gears; easier managed; less repairs; one that grain raisers prefer to employ and wait for, even at advanced prices, while other machines are "out of jobs."

Four sizes made with 6, 8, 10 and 12 horse "Mounted" Powers, also a specialty of Separators "alone," expressly for STEAM POWER, and to match other Horse Powers.

If interested in grain raising, or threshing, write for Illustrated Circulars (sent free) with full particulars of sizes, styles, prices, terms, etc.

NICHOLS, SHEPARD & CO., Battle Creek, Michigan.

DR RIDGE'S FOOD for INFANTS AND INVALIDS. Sold in cans by Druggists, 35 cents and upwards.

Hear what a Physician says:—"A man from Crestline, O., came to Bucyrus, disabled from kidney trouble. His sufferings were very acute and the case unpromising. Being unable to take care of himself he was taken to the County Infirmary for treatment. The physician put him on Hamilton's Buchu and Dandelion; in ten days a marked improvement took place, and after three weeks he was dismissed a cured man, and is now pursuing his trade with his former vigor. Dr. Fulton is a witness to the statement and regards the cure as a very remarkable one." Trade supplied by KRESS MANUFACTURING COMPANY, Cincinnati, O.

Out of the Poor-House

DR. WHITTIER, No. 617 St. Charles Street, St. Louis, Mo., continues to treat all cases of obstacles to marriage, blood impurities, every ailment or sickness which results from indiscretion or imprudence, with unparalleled success. Dr. W.'s establishment is chartered by the State of Missouri, was founded and has been established to secure safe, certain and reliable relief. Being a graduate of several medical colleges, and having the experience of a long and successful life in his specialties, he has perfected remedies that are effectual in all these cases. His patients are being treated by mail or express everywhere. No matter who failed, call or write. From the great number of applications he is enabled to keep his charges low. 36 pages, giving full symptoms, for two stamps.

MARRIAGE GUIDE, 260 pages, a popular book which should be read by everybody. No married pair, or persons contemplating marriage, can afford to do without it. It contains the cream of medical literature on this subject, the results of Dr. W.'s long experience; also the best thoughts from late works in Europe and America. Sent sealed, post-paid for 50 cts.

C. N. U. No. 30

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS, please say you saw the advertisement in this paper.

MERCHANT'S
GARGLING
MERCHANT'S
GARGLING
GARGLING OIL

Whether for use on man or beast, Merchant's Gargling Oil will be found an invaluable Liniment and worthy of use by every resident in the land. We know of no proprietary medicine or article now used in the United States which shares the good will of the people to a greater degree than this. Yellow wrapper for animal, and white for human, flesh.—N. Y. Independent.

MERCHANT'S GARGLING OIL is the Standard Liniment of the United States. Established 1833. Large size, $1.00; medium size, 50 cents; small size, 25 cents. Small size for family use, 25 cents. Manufactured at Lockport, N. Y., by Merchant's Gargling Oil Company. JOHN HODGE, Secretary.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN INDIANA, JULY, 29, 1875.

A dreadful church scandal is reported from Fall River, Mass. The clergyman had been receiving a salary of $1,200 a year, but recognizing that the times were hard, he requested his congregation to cut it down to $200. He didn't want an increase of salary in his, and all that implies.

Senator Morton is advertised to make ten speeches in Ohio this year. He agreed to make the same number in 1873, but threw up his engagement after the second. He made a personal attack on old William Allen who rose up and flayed Morton alive. The Indiana Senator agreed to abandon the Ohio campaign if Governor Allen would make no further reference to him in his speeches. Unless Morton guards his tongue this year he will have Governor Allen after him like a hurricane.

The charges of Mr. Marsh, against the management of the Indian Bureau are now before the country. They are explicit and are accompanied with the evidence. One would naturly think that the guilty parties would be thrust out of office. Unfortunately the American people have not the right to hope for any such a thing. Under the present administration, to prove an official guilty of wrong-doing only insures his permanent retention in office. Messrs Delano and Smith may laugh Professor Marsh to scorn.

Germany, following after the experience of France and England, is now suffering from the heavy rains and the consequent overflow of its rivers. There has been already, a great destruction of property, and crops, and even life has been sacrificed in many instances. The effect of these successive disasters will be to create an increased demand for our breadstuffs, an indication of which has been given by a decided rise in the price of wheat, both in the European and other home markets.

What course the Liberals represented at Saratoga will ultimately pursue, remains to be seen. One thing, however, to us seem clear. The very worst use they could make of their following would be to lead it into the Republican camp. The best, and indeed, the only way of reform the Republican party of the nation, is to treat it next year as the people have already done in a majority of the states turn it out of power, and thus afford it an opportunity to ruminate over its grievous defects and repent of its deep transgressions.

The Chicago Times gives reports from 900 counties as to the crops: The wheat crop is one of more importance perhaps than all the others. In Wisconsin the crop will be above the average yield. In Indiana and Illinois there has been considerable damage done by rains and insects, but the farmers will be able to harvest three forths of a crop. Further west, in Kansas, Minnesota, and Iowa, notwithstanding the threatened ravages of grasshoppers, the wheat crop will be much larger than in any previous year. This is certainly cheering news the more so as the wheat in those states is of a superior quality. In the souther states there is presented something of a novelty. Enough breadstuffs will be raised in that section this year for home consumption. This is a feat never accomplished before, the great staple, cotton, has not been neglected and the present crop is said to be the largest grown for many years Not only does the south raise its own food stuffs, but it will have as large a cotton crop to dispose of as in the days when cotton was king. Oats, rye and barley, though not very important crops, are reported to be quite as good as usual. Corn is a good full crop, but backward in Minnesota, Michigan and Wisconsin where there will not be more than a half yield. Potatoes have done well and matured finely, and a full crop is reported from all sections. Of the fruit crop not so much can be said. In many of the states, there is no yield, while in a few it is very good. There will be something of a scarcity in this department. This is a failure which cannot be vital to the people of the country for though a large fruit crop is a blessing, it is, after all, in the nature of a luxury and can, on a pinch, be dispensed with. Although the prospect is very cheering.

Know Nothings

The Republican party of Ohio, having exhausted Andersonville and Libby prison clap-trap war cries, and finding the overtaxed citizens more concerned about the present than the past, who meet the cry of disloyalty with a stern demand for justice, economy and integrity, on the part of those who have administered the political affairs of the country for the ten years succeeding the close of the war, are now organizing a model Know Nothing party, the outline of which is printed in the Democratic journals of that State.

It is thought this will make an excellent substitute for the loyalty business, and continue to divert the masses from the iniquities of Ring rule. This miserable appeal to prejudice, to secure political triumph by exciting religious animosities, will not win. The people are in dead earnest, and too well informed as to the real nature of their grievances to be hood-winked by any silly cries about Church and State, Common Schools and the Bible The men who talk most about these things, care the least and only use them to continue in power. These huckstering politicians place too low an estimate upon the intelligence of the people and will find themselves as thoroughly rebuked this year as they were last.

JUSTICES' BLANKS.

We have just printed a fine lot of Justices' Blanks, as follows, for sale at this office:

Summons,
Subpoenas,
Garnishees,
Attachments,
Executions, &c.

TAKE SIMMONS' LIVER REGULATOR

Nearly all diseases originate from Indigestion and Torpidity of the liver, and relief is always anxiously sought after. If the Liver is regulated in its action, health is almost invariably secured. Want of action in the Liver causes head ache, Constipation, Jaundice, Pain in the shoulders, cough, chills, dizziness, sour stomache, bad taste in the mouth, billious attacks, palpitation of the heart, depression of spirits, or the blues, and a hundred other symptoms, for which Simons' Liver Regulator is the best remedy that has ever been discovered. It acts mildly, effectually, and being a simple vegetable compound, can do no injury in any quantities that it may be taken. It is harmless in every way; it has been used for 40 years, and hundreds of the good and great from all parts of the country will vouch for its being the purest and best.

Simmons' Liver Regulater,

OR MEDICINE,

Is harmless,
Is no drastic violent medicine,
Is sure to cure if taken regularly,
Is no intoxicating beverage,
It is a faultless family medicine,
Is the cheapest medicine in the world,
Is given with safety and the happiest results to the most delicate infant,
Does not interfere with business,
Does not disarange the system,
Takes the place of Quinine and Bitters of every kind.
Contains the simplest and best remedies.

Price $1. Sold by all Druggists. April 22, 1875

For sale at F. E. DAVENPORT'S drug store.

ADMINISTRATOR'S SALE.

NOTICE is hereby given, that by virtue of an order of the DeKalb Circuit Court, the undersigned Administrator of the estate of DAVID PERRY, deceased, will offer for sale at public auction, on the premises, on the equal undivided third part of the undivided thirteenth twentieth of the tracts of land hereinafter described, situated in DeKalb county, in the State of Indiana, and subject to the life estate of NANCY FISHER, surviving widow of said decedent therein, to-wit:

SATURDAY, AUGUST 14th, 1875,

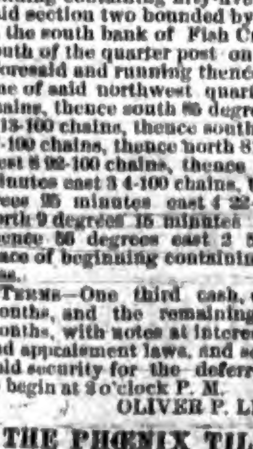
A part of section two in township thirty-five[35 north of range fourteen (14] east, bounded by a line commencing at the northeast corner of the northwest quarter of said section two [2] and running thence east on the county line 3 70-100 chains, thence south 46 degrees west one chain, thence south 56 degrees west 1 26-100 chains, thence south 68½ degrees west, 2 40-100 chains, thence south thirty-four degrees west 7 chains thence north 45 degrees west 1 53-100 chains, thence north 37 degrees west 2 63-100 chains, thence north 87 degrees west 9 47-100 chains, thence south 84 degrees west 10 65-100 chains, thence south 75 degrees 34 minutes west 16 86-100 chains, thence north 80½ degrees east 7 30-100 chains, thence south 58¼ degrees west 6 37-100 chains, thence north 16 85-100 chains to the northwest corner of the northwest quarter, thence east on the county line to the place of beginning containing fifty-five acres, and a part of said section two bounded by a line commencing at the south bank of Fish Creek 3 17-100 chains south of the quarter post on the north side line aforesaid and running thence south on the east line of said northwest quarter aforesaid 7 3-100 chains, thence south 85 degrees 55 minutes west 3 13-100 chains, thence south 1¾ degrees west 2 37-100 chains, thence north 81 degrees 45 minutes west 8 92-100 chains, thence north 25 degrees 55 minutes east 3 4-100 chains, thence north 64 degrees 25 minutes east 4 22-100 chains, thence north 9 degrees 15 minutes east 5 36-100 chains, thence 56 degrees east 2 50-100 chains to the place of beginning containing five acres more or less.

TERMS—One third cash, one third in nine months, and the remaining third in eighteen months, with notes at interest waiving valuation and appraisement laws, and secured by good freehold security for the deferred payments. Sale to begin at 2 o'clock P. M.

OLIVER P. LEARNED, Adm'r.

THE PHŒNIX TILE MACHINE.



SEND FOR CIRCULARS.

IT is well adapted to the wants of Tile Makers. It is easily driven by the power of two horses. [illegible] of the machine. It may be converted into a single delivery machine. It has a simple and ready means of taking up the wear on the plunge head and [illegible] of the chamber, thus [illegible] all leakage of mud, and adding years of service to the machine. It makes from [illegible] rods of tile per day. It is fully warranted. It may readily be adapted to Steam Power. The [illegible] Doors and Trucks at [illegible] prices.

CHANDLER & TAYLOR
Patentees and Manufacturers,
Indianapolis, Ind.

Notice of Administration.

NOTICE is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed Administrator of the estate of Frederick Raut, late of DeKalb county, deceased. Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

CHARLES RAUT, JR., Adm.

July 1, 1875.

NOTICE.

STATE OF INDIANA, DeKalb County } Sct:

In the DeKalb County Circuit Court, September Term, 1875.

George Hensler, versus Isaac M. Johnson, David Fay, John W. Boyle, Albert J. Mason, Samuel Grenamyer, James E. Rose, Edward W Fosdick and John Sprott } Complaint No. 140.

Now comes the the plaintiff, by P. V. Hoffman his attorney, and files his complaint herein, together with an affidavit that said defendant John Sprott is not a resident of the Statet of Indiana

Notice is, therefore, hereby given said defendant that unless he be and appear on the first day of the next term of the DeKalb County Circuit Court, to be holden on the 4th Monday of September A. D. 1875, at the Court house in Auburn, in said County and State, and answer or demur to said complaint, the same will be heard and determined in his absence.

Witness, my name and the seal of said Court affixed at Auburn, this 8th, day of July, 1875.

J. R. LANNING Clerk.

July 15

Notice to Heirs of Petition to Sell Real Estate.

STATE OF INDIANA, DeKalb County. }

NOTICE is hereby given, that Oliver P. Learned Administrator of the estate of Gilbert C. Everitts, deceased, has filed his petition to sell the real estate of the decedent, his personal being insufficient to pay his debts; and that said petition will be heard at the next term of the Circuit Court of said county. Attest

J. R. LANNING, CLERK.

July 15

NOTICE TO HEIRS OF PETITION TO SELL REAL ESTATE.

State of Indiana, DeKalb Co., } ss

Notice is hereby given that George Barney, administrator of the estate of Asa Hall, deceased, has filed his petition to sell the real estate of the decedent, his personal being insufficient to pay his debts; and that said petition will be heard at the next term of the circuit court of said county.

J. R. LANNING, Clerk

NOTICE.

STATE OF INDIANA, DeKalb County } In attachment before J. P. Widney J. P. of Union-tp

Charles Lockwood versus Richard Cantling }

It appearing by the return on the writ issued herein that said defendant is not found.

Notice is therefore given to said defendant to appear to said action at my office on the 4th day of September 1875 at ten o'clock a. m.

J. P. WIDNEY, J. P.

Dated July 8, 1875.

Penfield & Moody, attys for plff.

NOTICE.

STATE OF INDIANA, DeKalb County. } Sct.

In the DeKalb Circuit Court, September term, 1875.

Cyrus S. Stoy, versus John Burrell, Winefred Burrell, John W. Boyle, Samuel Grenamyer, Albert J. Mason, James E. Rose, Ed. W. Fosdick, and John Sprott. } Complaint No. 139.

Now comes the plaintiff, by P. V. Hoffman, his attorney, and files his complaint herein, together with an affidavit that said defendant John Sprott is not a resident of the State of Indiana.

Notice is, therefore, hereby given said defendant that unless he be and appear on the first day of the next term of the DeKalb circuit court to be holden on the 4th Monday of September a. d 1875, at the court house in Auburn, in said county and State, and answer or demur to said complaint, the same will be heard and determined in his absense.

Witness, My name and the seal of said court affixed at Auburn, this 8th day of July 1875.

J. R LANNING, Clerk.

July 15

NOTICE TO HEIRS OF PETITION TO SELL REAL ESTATE.

State of Indiana, DeKalb County, sct.

Notice is hereby given that Benjamin F. Cornelius, administrator of the estate of Asahel Bryant, deceased, has filed his petition to sell the real estate of the decedent, his personal being insufficient to pay his debts; and that said petition will be heard at the next term of the circuit court of said county.

J. R. LANNING, Clerk

July 21.

NOTICE.

State of Indiana, DeKalb County } In the DeKalb circuit court September term 1875.

Sarah Jenkins vs. Albert Jenkins } Complaint for Divorce.

Now comes the plaintiff, by McBride & Morlan her attorneys and files her complaint herein together with an affidavit that said defendant, Albert Jenkins is not a resident of the State of Indiana.

Notice is, therefore, hereby given said defendant that unless he be and appear on the first day of the next term of the DeKalb circuit court, to be holden on the 4th Monday of September a. d. 1875, at the court house in Auburn, in said county and State, and answer or demur to said complaint, the same will be heard and determined in his absence.

Witness, my name and the seal of said court affixed at Auburn, this 24th day of July 1875.

J. R. LANNING, Clerk.

NOTICE.

STATE OF INDIANA, DeKalb County } Sct.

In the DeKalb Circuit Court, September term, 1875.

Orpha Blake versus Eliza Franklin Reuel Franklin Laura Franklin, Joseph W. Snell, Fred. L. Andrews } Complaint No. 99

Now comes the plaintiff, by Penfield & Moody her attorneys, and files her complaint herein, together with an affidavit that the residence of said defendants, Reuel Franklin and Laura Franklin is unknown and that the defendant Joseph W. Snell is not a resident of the State of Indiana.

Notice is, therefore, hereby given said defendants that unless they be and appear on the first day of the next term of the DeKalb circuit court to be holden on the 4th Monday of September a. d. 1875, at the court house in Auburn, in said county and State, and answer or demur to said complaint, the same will be heard and determined in their absence.

Witness, My name and the seal of said court affixed at Auburn, this 13th day of July 1875.

J. R. LANNING, Clerk.

July 15

NOTICE.

STATE OF INDIANA, DeKalb Conny. } Sct:

In the DeKalb Circuit Court, Sept. term, 1875.

Thomas Watkins, vs. Mary Watkins. } Complaint for divorce.

Now comes the plaintiff, by McBride & Morlan his attorneys and files his complaint herein together with an affidavit that said Defendant, Mary Watkins, is not a resident of the State of Indiana.

Notice is, therefore, hereby given said defendant that unless she be and appear on the first day of the next term of the DeKalb Circuit court, to be holden on the 4th Monday of September A. D. 1875, at the court house in Auburn, in said county and State, and answer or demur to said complaint, the same will be heard and determined in her absence.

Witness, my name and the seal of said court affixed at Auburn, this 6th day of July, 1875.

J. R. LANNING, Clerk.

NOTICE TO HEIRS OF PETITION TO SELL REAL ESTATE.

State of Indiana DeKalb Co. } ss

Notice is hereby given that George Barney, administrator of the estate of John Milliman, deceased, has filed his petition to sell the real estate of the decedent, his personal being insufficient to pay his debts; and that said petition will be heard at the next term of the circuit court of said county.

J. R. LANNING, Clerk.

S. U. Tarney

AUBURN MEAT MARKET!

KEEPS ALWAYS ON HAND

Fresh Beef, Pork, Veal, Mutton and Bologna Sausage, clean and sweet. Prices reasonable. Main-st first door north of Miller & Casebeer's store.

BARGAINS!

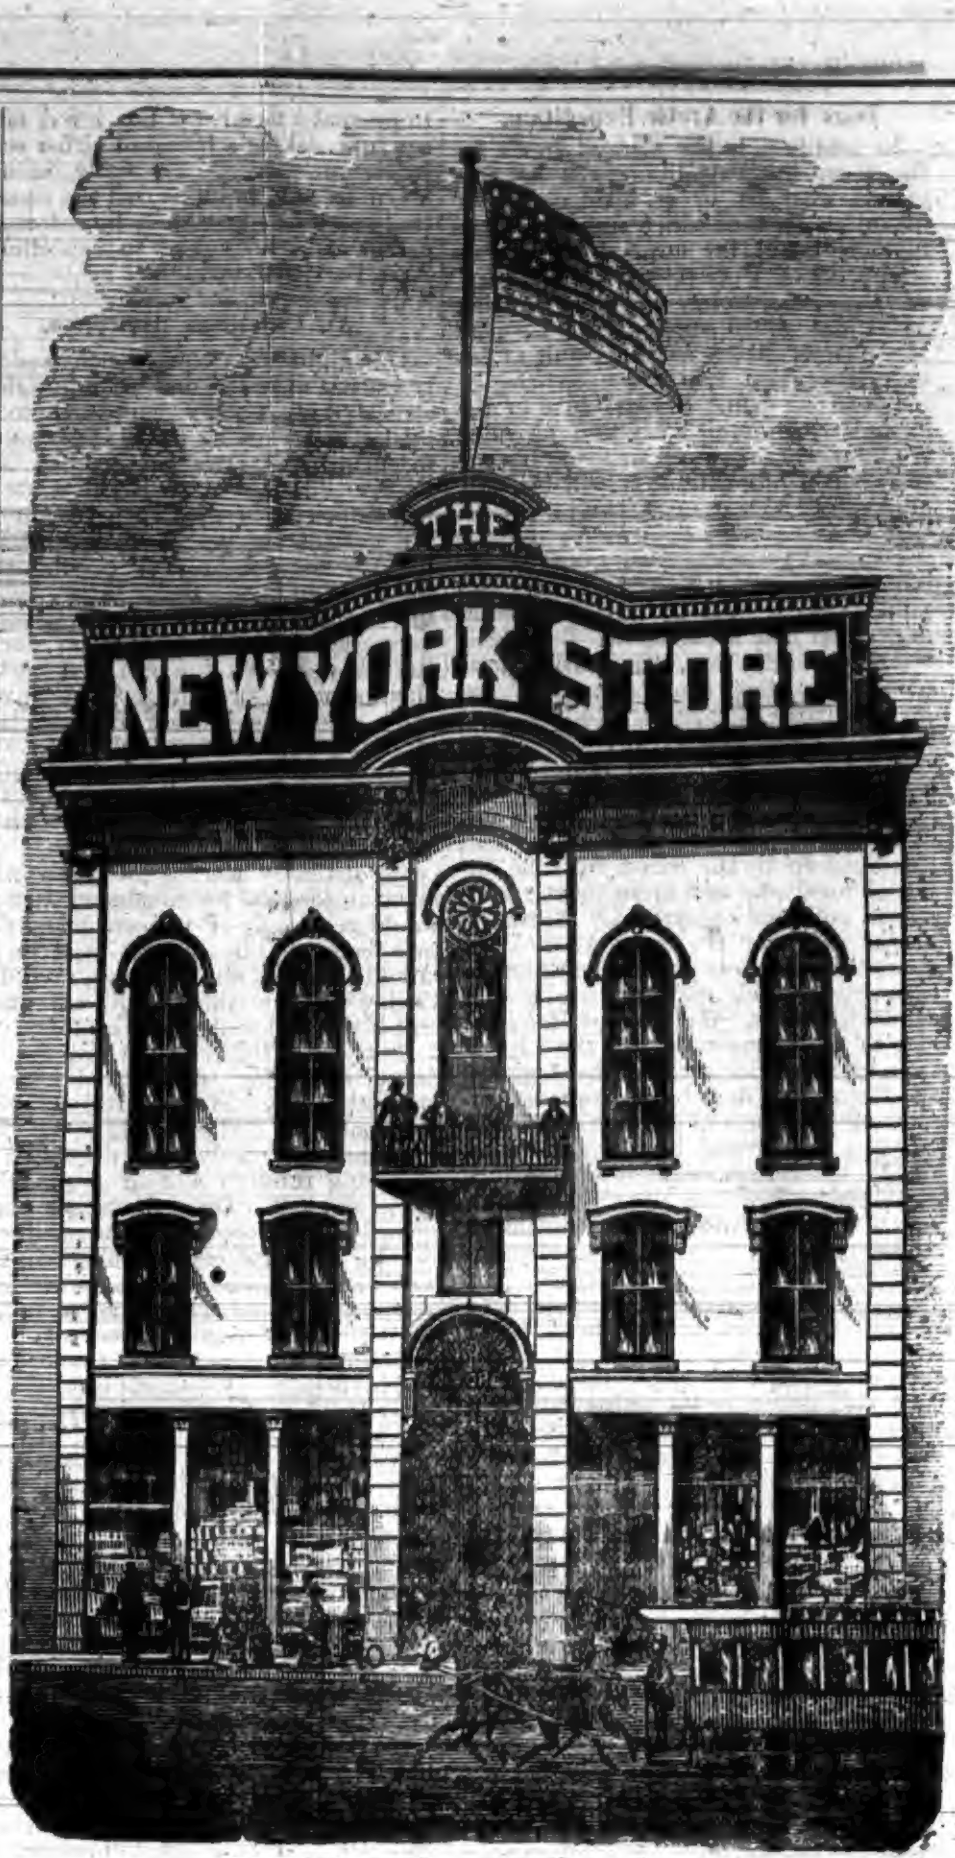
AT THE

Great Clearing out SaleS

OF

Miller & Casebeer,

The Leading Merchants of Auburn, Ind.



We Keep Our Trade

ACTIVE & LIVELY

Notwithstand the general complaint of dull trade and hard times, from the fact that we are daily in receipt of fresh, attractive goods, which we offer to our patrons at as low prices as are named by any house in the western country.

EXAMINE

Bargains in Suit Department, Bargains in Lace Shawls, Bargains in Lace Jackets

Bargains in Black Grenadines, Bargains in Stripe Grenadiaes, Bargains in Summer Silks

Bargains in Black Silks, Bargains in Thin Dress Goods, Bargains in Suiting Goods

New Parasols,

New Kid Gloves. New Embroideries. New Fancy Ties. New White Goods. New Hosiery. New Fancy Goods. New Hamberg Net. New Rufflings, Etc., Etc,

CARPET DEPARTMENT.

Complete in every respect, and prices much lower than they will probably be after the first of August.

ROOT & COMPANY,

46 and 48 Calhoun St., Fort Wayne,

☞ Opposite the Court House. ☜

STORE ESTABLISHED IN 1839.

GEO. DeWALD & CO.

Dry Goods & Notions.

Black Silks & Fine Dress Goods a Specialty

We can make it to the interests of every person to trade with us. We buy for CASH and sell for CASH, keep the best goods, and sell at one price

ALSO AGENTS FOR THE

"Domestic" PATERNS.

The Best in Use. Send for a Catalogue.

Geo DeWald & Co
No. 1 Columbia Street
Fort Wayne Ind,

THE AUBURN

Marble Works!

The undersigned beg leave to announce that they have permanently located in Auburn, and are now prepared to attend to all orders for which they are prepared to turn out in a superior manner at reasonable rates. Works west the Bakery.

Monuments, Tomb-Stones, &c.,

STATE OF INDIANA DeKalb County. } ss.

John O. Gilkerson vs Dollas Hooper } Before John S. Barns Justice of the peace for Richland tp.

It appearing by the return of the writ herein that said defendant is not found, and it further appearing by affidavit filed herein that said defendant is a non-resident of the State of Indiana, and a writ of garnishment in said case having been served on the Baltimore Pittsburg & Chicago Railway Company Indiana Division.

Notice is therefore given to said defendant to appear to said action at my office on the 18th day of August, 1875, at 10 o'clock A. M. and answer or demur to the complaint herein, or the same will be determined in his absence.

JOHN S. BARNS, J. P.

A NEW PLACE

TO GET A

Nobby Suit!

TOM WILLIAMS,

The champion cutter of Fort Wayne formerly with M. E. Woodward, is now going it alone, and can be found at No. 21 Calhoun street with Mr. A. Foster, where he will be pleased to see all his old friends, and a list of new ones. If you want a nice nobby suit made to fit you, you will find him the an.

THE FIRST

National Bank

OF AUBURN, INDIANA.

Capital Stock $50,000

Deposits received on time or subject to check on sight

Exchange, available in the United States, Canada and Europe, furnished.

Checks and drafts, payable in any part of th U. S. cashed at our counter, or collected and proceeds accounted for to holder.

Collecíions made and promptly remitted for on day of payment.

Loans negotiated and business papers discounted.

Government and other securities bought and sold.

Directors:

J. R. LANNING, NICHOLAS ENSLY,
O. C. CLARK, WM. McINTYRE,
GEO. HAZZARD.

Officers:

JOSEPH R. LANNING, Prest.
JAS. V. HAZZARD, Cashier.

April 29, 1875.

Auburn Courier.

Local and Miscellaneous.

WANTED.

Five Hundred Cords of Elm Stave Bolts, is wanted immediately at the Stave Factory of Beugnot & Co., for which they will pay the cash. tf.

AUBURN MARKETS.

CORRECTED WEEKLY.

Wheat—White	$1.10	Hogs—live	$6.00
Amber—red	1.0	Hogs—dressed	......
ye	75	Turkeys—live	.08
Oats	35	Chickens—live	.07
Corn	@ 65	Butter	.15
Potatoes	@1.25	Lard	.12
Flax Seed	1.60	Eggs	12
Clover Ceed	6.50	Tallow	.05
Wool	45 @ .60	Timothy Hay	12.00

Peaches, apples, &c., are in the market.

The Baltimore paycar went through Monday.

New cabbage is in the market at low figures.

A new roof has been put on Beuret's tin shop.

Another nice little rain was enjoyed last Monday.

And now our farmers begin to haul in the new hay.

Charley Baker has been quite sick for several days.

The boys in blue played a good game of ball last week.

A large crowd of people attended the show Tuesday.

The streets are very dusty. We had better have a sprinkler.

Our bakers could'nt furnish pies for the crowd on show day.

Our friend McGonigal of Newville, was in town on show day.

The lemonade stands payed from two to five dollars lincense.

Mike Long, Jr., has gone to Chicago for a stock of organs.

Our millers are expecting some new wheat in, in a fortnight or less.

Kenny Rush, from Michigan, is visiting his home this week.

Harvesting is about all over, and we can look for a good trade soon.

William McIntyre has returned to the city after a long visit at Milwaukee.

The boys are all trying to throw "underhanded." Many of them are doing well.

Don't forget that we have all kinds of Justices' Blanks, and are selling them cheap.

There is talk of a music store to be located on Main street, next to Abright's store.

The Albion boys play another game of base ball here, with our boys, this afternoon.

Mr. S. Hall and wife, of Corunna, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Long last Sabbath.

The Presbyterian Church was crowded last Sabbath morning, the Rev. Mr. Johnson officiating.

Those wishing to go to Chicago must have tickets or notify Mr. Yandes before the 1st of August.

Mich Houston has put a span of black horses to his butcher wagon. The market will be well supplied now.

Dr. J. H. Ford, of Auburn, was in the city last Saturday.—Kendallville Standard.

The Chicago "Times" says Donalson is all hunk-a-dora. We are glad to hear it thus.

The huckleberry season is here; but don't take a fellow for one when its not necessary.

The boys made a success of the dance on last Tuesday, and it was enjoyed by a large crowd.

Pete Brandon is now the boss at the Eight street billiard hall. He has it all cleaned up in good style.

The ball game played here, last Thursday, between Auburn and Albion boys, was won by the former.

C. Ward, of Kendallville, spent the Sabbath under his paternal roof, this week.

Thieves and swindlers have made themselves scarce for awhile back. Suits everybody.

The usual amount of ginger-bread slingers attended the cir-a-cuse, last Tuesday.

New Robinson's bill boards will not hide the public gaze from the new jail and court yard.

There is only six "roosters" in the old jail at present, but none of them very hard characters.

The Waverly House, at Butler, under the management of S. G. Green, is commanding a large business.

Mr. Markle has his new hotel in running order, and is starting out with a good showing of success.

It is universally admitted that Davenport has the best five cent cigars in the city.

Jno. Hebel is having a new roof put on his residence and also on his saloon building.

Mr. V. E. Simons, the excellent manager of the pleasant resort at Pleasant Lake, gave us a call last Tuesday.

"Davenport's cigars are bully, I told you they was fine; I think I ought to know, cause I smoke 'em all the time.

The Presbyterian society go to Pleasant Lake to-morrow. Everybody is invited. The fare will be at excursion rates.

The grain depots are not very lively at present. It will only be a short time, however, until business will revive up again.

Mr. Maurice, who has been in the employ of Si Lock for a while back, has left the city. Mr. Carter is filling the vacancy.

Harry Rush, Tom Morris and their "gals," of Angola, were the guests of Mr. W. E. Rush the forepart of the week.

Williams and McDougal have a "portable" soda fountain. It furnished the beverage for the ball players last Thursday.

Albert Davis has been confined to his bed since the Jackson excursion. We are sorry to see Al. have so much sickness.

Profuse quantities of garden truck are making their way into market, and sickness is increasing accordingly. Wake up, dock's.

We see, from the Fort Wayne "Gazette" that that city has a place called "Five Points." Wonder if its named after our shebang.

Mrs. Wm. Sheffer and Mrs. Rainier have return from an extended visit to Clinton, Illinois. They were highly pleased with that State.

Trade is getting better, and our merchants should begin to advertise. How can business firms be popular when their name is never before the public.

Great excitement was had among the ball players last week. Three of the "cloth hat" boys returned their suits to the committee.

The Butler boys wants to play Auburn boys a game of base ball for one hundred dollars. Just play Edgerton awhile boys, 'till we get some practice.

And now the reaper reapeth, the mower moweth, and the little bumble-bee getteth up the busy farmer's trousers leg and bumbleth.

The "Republican" says the game of ball played between Auburn and Butler decides the championship of the county. We'd like to know how that comes.

Joe Beugnot and Mr. Rickel have purchased lots of Mr. Fluke, this side of the Bank, and Beugnot will take immediate steps toward building.

Guy Plum's new residence is almost ready for occupancy. Its the handsomest structure in town. Men who have money should follow suit.

Ed. Picker's wife, living at Toledo, O. died last week, leaving a baby of six weeks old. Geo. Picker has adopted the little one, and it will make as good a home as could have been found.

Whenever you get ready for good paper take the COURIER.

Col. Zollars, Mr. Kirtley, Capt. W. H. Meyrs, Ike Wets, Mace Long, Wm. Gronour and others from Fort Wayne, were in town Tuesday.

The new livery barn of Luce & Stevens, have been getting some splendid new buggies, and also a costly city cab. Give them a share of public patronage, as they deserve it.

The party who took a trowel from the Jail building last Tuesday, about noon, is known, and he will find it to his advantage to return it immediately.
GEO. PICKER.

At the base ball meeting, Monday evening, is was decided to work the "old nine," and we hope each one will be willing to take hold of the matter in a friendly spirit.

We learn from the majority of the ball club that they want a change made in the captain, and we suggest that T. H. Sprott be the man with Billy Baldock assistant.

Billy Brown says that a new thresher is to be introduced in this county by Mr. F. Sattison, that will clean the grain as bright as a dollar, without the use of fans Billy Brown is to furnish the wind

A large stone while being hoisted to its position, slipped from the hooks, and in its fall broke two large stones estimated to be worth $150. This takes off the profits of contractors.

Charley Squires, who called for the dance Tuesday, done his work better than our dancers were accustomed to, and, of course, it was appreciated by all in attendance.

Mr. G. W. Lewis, at the Lumber Yard of Wright & Co., has the foundation for his new residence under headway.—Mr. L. has the get-up about him to have one of the neatest and most tasty building on Van Beuren street.

The circus has played hob with the base ball ground. A good ground could be laid out on the creek bottom by putting the home base opposite the saw mill. Its most too far to the old ground for evening exercise, and we think this the best place.

While an old gentleman was driving a colt past Eddy's board house, someone emptied a cast of water from the window facing the street, which frightened the steed, and making a plung threw him from the buggy, cutting his hands and face badly. We did not learn his name, but think he was too well along in years to handle so young and lively a horse.

A man by the name of Todd, near Garrett, got mad, abused his wife, sold his horses for $100, several acres of corn for $10, took his two children and came to Auburn last Tuesday evening and next morning brought the children to Sheriff Meese. He gave the Sheriff $10 to give to his wife and the children were taken back. Todd has since lit out, as there is a warrant out for him.

Gordon & Roth have desolved partnership, Mr. Gorden continuing in the business. He has engaged the service of Prof. Goddard, an experienced artist, who will assist in furnishing to the public a quality of work never before equaled in the county. Those who have been procrastinating in the matter of pictures should take advantage of these inducements.

The Waterloo "Press" says: The firm doing business unker the title of the "DeKalb County Bank" has been dissolved, and the business is being settled up as rapidly as possible. We understand it is the intention of Judge Best, C. O. A. McClellen Esq., and O. T. Clark, to continue the Banking buiness in the old room in Clark's block.

One of our estimable young ladies, finding the coat of her lover in pawn at a soda fountain ruthlessly rushed forth and redeemed the ragged raiment, this being the only redeemable feature about the whole thing. It was only ten cents. Such devotion reminds us of early days when a brother-in-law would go three hundred miles to thrash his sisters husband.

The ladies Social of the Presbyterian church of this place, will meet at Pleasant Lake next Friday, July 30th. Extra coaches will be attached to the mail train north, passing a little before noon and an extra train will return in the evening; thus giving plenty of time at the lake. Regular half fare excursion tickets to be purchased at the station. Mite for supper 25c. A cordial and general invitation is extended to all.
MRS. W. S. ALLEN, Sec't.

The County Commissioners held a special session last Monday; Isaac Garver was allowed $20 for building bridge in Jackson tp.

O. C. Clark and others petitioned for a bridge across branch of Cedar Creek between Butler and Richland tp., Com. Griffith was appointed to superintend and make necessary allowances.

Dan'l Culver was awarded contract for building bridge across Fish Creek, near Casebeer Mill, in Troy tp., Com. Duncan to superintend. After allowing a few bills the Board adjourned.

Remember the excursion to Chicago.
It is only $3 for the round trip.
Every car is a passenger car.
The train is to arrive there 10 o'clock in the morning.
Meals can be had in Chicago for 25c, so those who prefer can go without provisions.
We are authorized to say that a train will leave Butler in time to connect with this excursion at the Junction, and parties at that place are invited to join the excursion.

Carrett In Blood!

Murder, Mobbery and Mud!

Hundreds of Citizens in Ashes.

Linching by Moonlight!

This is about the way the daily papers write up the late "unpleasantness" at Garret City, this county. One would think on reading the telegraph dispatches about the affair, that our neighboring town out rivalled the palmy days of frontier towns in lawlessness. After gleaning the facts from the large amount of chaff, the hideousness of the crime is not near so startling, and blood curdling as was at first supposed. Ed. Keelan the wounded man, is an engineer on the switch engine at Garret city. He had been disipating in strong drinks for several days. The day before the affair, he went into Bells saloon and got a drink. Chapman the bar keeper asked him his name, as he had been notified by one Kircher his brother, not to let him have any more liquor. Keelan got into a fuss with an Irshman and the bar keeper interfered. Next morning Keelan came in and wanted liquor. Chapman refused him. While someone was drinking, Keelan grabbed the bottle, took a drink and paid for it. Came in again with a man, named Keys and raised a fuss. After this, about six o'clock on Friday evening Chapman went over to Atwaters restaurant to get some tabacco. Keelan and several others were there Keelan made a remark about Chapman being of canine paternity. Chapman said Keelan had abused him long enough and walked toward him. Another man got between Chapman and the door, and he drew back to hit him, when another interfered and pushed him into the back room. Several then went for Chapman and he drew a revolver, Crain, a partner of Atwater lying on the lounge in the back room told him to keep quiet.—Chapman says while he was in the back room he heard some confusion in front, and opened the door, when he saw Keelan standing up and bleeding from the head. Saw Graves behind the counter. The crowd made for Chapman and Atwater forced Chapman in the back room and out of the window.

Joseph Graves is the man who struck the lick, and is a carpenter. He had an engagement with a man that evening to stake out the foundation of a house and took his hatchet with him. Went in to Atwater's, then Keelan said to him "Dam you, be you the bully of Garret?" Told him he was not, when Keelan squared for a fight, and made several passes at him. Graves backed away, tried to get out of the door but another man stepped in between, kept backing until he got between the counter and partition and against the wall, when he struck Keelan with the hatchet. Atwater tried to quiet the disturbance but no one else interfered.

Keelan is the man who shot Bidler at Logansport a year or so ago, and when intoxicated is quarrlesome, though many speak of him as a gentleman when sober The wound was inflicted above the right temple with the pole of the hatchet, and it is said that part of his brains oozed from the wound. The man is still living with some hopes of his recovery.

Graves and Chapman were arrested and are now in jail to await an examination set for next Monday. Some of Keelan's railroad friends threatened to lynch Graves and Chapman, and it is said ropes were prepared, but Sheriff Meese arrived about 8 o'clock with deputies G. C. Ralston and John Sommers, and though things looked exciting for a little time, they got their prisoners and brought them to jail on a special train kindly furnished by the agent. A dispatch was afterwards received by the Sheriff that if Keelan died within a few hours he might expect a strong detachment from Garret, and they would want the prisoners.

ARE YOU DYSPEPTIC?

If so, and you desire immediate relief, go to the drug store of F. E. Davenport and get a bottle of Deosta's Radical cure. It will tone up the stomach, assist digestion restore the appetite, regulate the liver, and in fact make a new man of you. Delicate females will fine it peculiary adapted to their varipus disorders. It is the most efficacious antidote for all diseases arising from a disorded stomach, liver or a low state of the system, that has ever been prescribed or advertised. Try it just once, and you will, like thousands of others become its enthusiastic advocate Trial sized 25 cents.

Notice to the Public.

F. N. Wright & Co., will for the next four months sell for cash cheaper than has ever before been offered in DeKalb county. Parties wishing to build will find this an opportunity worthy of notice. This company will keep a large assortment of Lumber, Lath and Shingles, graded from common to the best grades, manufactured from pine. Shingles from $1,25 to $3.90. Lath, present prices, $2.60 per m.

At all times will be found Holt's brand of Genava White Lime and sold at the very bottom figures. Louisville and Akron cements. Hair, Grand Rapids & N. Y. Calciem Plaster. Silver sand for hard finish on hand at all times. Sash Doors and Blinds a specialty.

Lumber furnished by car lots at prices worth looking after, delivered at Auburn Junction, Garret City or, any point to suit.

Dated Auburn, Aug. 1, 1875.

TO CHICAGO.

Parties who are preparing to take the excursion trip to Chicago, August 5th, must either buy their ticket or let Mr. Yandes know that they intend to make the trip, before the first of August, so that the committee can make arrangements. They do not want to pay for cars if they are not needed, and consequently will only make arangements for about as many coaches as will accommodate the number of tickets sold.

A Grand Excursion.

A fine Methodist church was recently destroyed at Hanover, Mich., and a novel plan was hit upon to secure money for its rebuilding, by mean of which the persons paying it will get more than value received besides assisting a worthy object. This plan is the running of an excursion train over the Fort Wayne Jackson & Saginaw railroad form Jackson, Wilson's, Baldwins, Hanover, Stony Point, Mosherville, Jonesville, Angola, Waterloo and Auburn to this city on the 11th of August. The fare for the round trip will be $2; children under 12 years $1. A grand picnic will be given on the Northern Indiana fair grounds.

State Board of Education.

At the July meeting of the Board, for the purpose of examining candidates for State certificates, fourteen applicants appeared, some asking for a first grade and others for a second. The examinations were very rigid, and seven only of those who applied succeeded in passing. Among the successful ones we find the name of J. A. Barns, of this county, who received a first grade license on an examination in twenty branches. This speaks pretty loud for the educational interests of little DeKalb, and this is an honor and a distinction that all will feel proud of it, being the first State Certificate ever received in this part of the State. It may stimulate others here to make a trial for the same grand prize.

The following are the names of those licensed: J. A. Barns, Waterloo; Sarah D. Harmon, Warren, O; Susan T. Knell Red Cloud P. O. Knox Co., Ind; Alice O. Allen, Greencastle; Anna S. Kenedy, Franklin; J. M. Mayhew, Weaveland; A. W. Jones, Poolsville.

The County Printing.

Our neighbor of the "Republican" is "squealing" because the county work is not furnished to him in sufficient quantities to satisfy his appetite. He attacks the Commissioners and charges them with paying Democratic debts with the peoples money. We know of but one or two instances where the Commissioners have ordered publications to be made, and one of these was the advertisement for sealed proposals for the construction of the new jail. The COURIER was selected at this place because it had the largest circulation, and has a general circulation, where the "Republican" circulates. The "Press" was selected because it has the largest circulation in its vicinity, and would reach a a greater number of Republicans.—It would have been extravagant upon the part of the Commissioners to have ordered it in three papers when two of them would give it general circulation. The "Rep." is mistaken when it says the Commissioners have no printing at their disposal. The advertisement referred to above was directly connected with their special business and was under their direct control.

The last printing ordered to be published in the COURIER and "Press," by the Commissioners, was the allowances made by the Board and they received their authority for so doing from a law passed by the last Legislature requiring this to be done, at a stated price. These two papers offered to insert the same in their combined edition for the am't stated, each paper getting half that am't Perhaps our neighbor objects because the Board did not order this in his paper at full price, thus getting it before a much less number of the people? Had any of these advertisements been ordered in the "Republican" there never would have been one word said about paying Democratic debts with the people's money.

The following allowances were made at the last session of the Board for county printing:

Auburn Courier	$1.00
Waterloo Press	4.00
DeKalb Republican	19.00

From the foregoing it would hardly seem justifiable for our neighbor to squeal on county printing.

There is nothing in newspaper enterprise, like having associated press dispatches. For instance the "Sentinel" of last night has a telegraphic report of the murder at Garret, full particulars of which appeared in our colums on Saturday night—only forty-eight hours in advance of the telegraph.—[Fort Wayne News.

Yes, and great heavens, what particulars they are, too. Read the facts in another column, and see where your particulars go to.

NOTICE.

STATE OF INDIANA, } In the DeKalb circuit
DeKalb County } court Sept. term, 1875

Joseph Sewell }
vs. } Complaint No. 143.
Andrew Kepler }

Now comes the plaintiff by Rose & Hartman his attorneys, and files his complaint herein together with an affidavit that said defendant, Andrew Kepler is not a residence of the state of Indiana.

Notice is, therefore, hereby given said defendant that unless he be and appear on the first day of the next term of the DeKalb circuit court, to be holden on the 4th Monday of September a. d. 1875, at the court house in Auburn, in said county and State, and answer or demur to said complaint, the same will be heard and determined in his absence.

Witness, My name and the seal of said court affixed at Auburn, this 15th day of July, 1875
J. R. LANNING, Clerk.

BUTLER ITEMS.

Local items are scarce, caused by the busy harvest.

—The farmers are getting along well though the weather has been unpropitious for several days past.

—A base ball meeting was held here last Monday evening for the purpose of organizing a stock company to buy grounds and have them fenced, as follows: Chas Haines, Prest; F. F. Fanning, Vice Prest; Moses Stiefel, Sec'y, Will P. Carpenter, Treas. Directors, W. L. Blair, H. S. Madden, E. W. Fosdick, F. F. Conner.

—There were two cases before Justice Fay last Saturday. Hirschler for assault and battery and Brown for drunkenness, both being fined.

—Kinsely & Co. have sold their immense stock of Drugs to Hoopingarner & Son, and they will move them into their new store now completed. Tim and Dave will be found at the old stand for the purpose of settling up.

—The game of base ball played here last Monday, between the fat men and the lean men resulted in favor of fat as follows:

Innings..	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11
Fat......	4	0	0	1	2	3	1	5	0	2	7—25
Lean....	0	1	3	0	6	1	2	0	4	2	2—20

F. W. Fanning made the only 2d base hit in the game. E. W. Fasdick acted as umpire.

KATE

THE FALL TERM OF

AUBURN UNION SCHOOL

WILL COMMENCE ON MONDAY,

August 23rd, 1875.

A new school building is being erected for the accommodation of two of the lower grades. This will prevent the overcrowding formerly experienced in the old school building.

The old school building is being repaired, papered, re-seated with new and commodious seats and thoroughly fitted up in every respect.

Pupils living out of town who wish to attend school, may consult Mr. J. J. Littlefield, Prest. of the School Trustees.

Board can be obtained in private families at $3 to $4.

Particular attention will be given to students who intend to teach during the winter.

Classes will be commenced in Latin German, Higher Mathematics and Higher English. The following corps of teachers have been hired:

Mr. O. M. Record, Principal; Mr. Jas W. Ottis, Asst; Mrs. A. Thomas, Miss Laura Clark, Miss Ida Mahuran, Miss Mattie Miller, Miss Hattie Griswold.

J. J. LITTLEFIELD, }
J. W. RICKLE, } School Trustees.
W. GRISWOLD, }

FORT WAYNE

MORNING GAZETTE!

A LIVE, WIDE-AWAKE DAILY PAPER!

Issued in Time to Meet all the Early Morning Trains Leaving Ft. Wayne

Containing Each Day the Latest [illegible] Fullest Telegraphic, Monetary and Commercial News.

On July 1st the Fort Wayne Daily and W[illegible] Gazette Printing House passed into the [illegible] WILLIAMS & HOSSLER, late of the "N[illegible] Indianian," of Warsaw, who design to ma[illegible] just such a paper as the people of the [illegible] which it is published need. Arrangem[illegible] already made to have it delivered to [illegible] in all the neighboring towns on all the road[illegible] ing out of Fort Wayne, and as the paper can b[illegible] ceived in this way from 4 to 6 hours in advance of any other, the advantages of subscribing [illegible] "Morning Gazette" can be seen at a glance.

THE LATEST STOCK, MONEY AND COMMERCIAL NEWS

Will receive the closest attention of the managers and in every instance can be relied upon as correct in every particular. The Gazette is [illegible] receiving the highest encomiums of the press and the people. Terms of the Morning Gazette:

One year (in advance)	[illegible]
Six Months "	4.50
One Month "	.75
Per Week "	.20

GILES' LINIMENT

IODIDE OF AMMONIA

Cures Neuralgia, Face ache, Rheumatism, Gout, Frosted Feet, chilblains, sore throat Erysipelas, Bruises or Wounds of every kind in man or animal.

Giles' Liniment Iodine of Ammonia has been used by myself and family with satisfactory results. I recommend it to all persons suffering with pains or aches of any kind. It surpasses anything I have ever used. G. H. MILLER, Pres. Real Estate & Savings Bank, Baltimore, Md

Sold by all Druggists. Depot No. 451 Sixth Avenue, New York. Only 50c and $1 per bottle. Sold by J. H. EHLERS.

No. 29 4w

NOTICE.

STATE OF INDIANA, } Sct.
DeKalb County }

In the DeKalb Circuit Court, September term, 1875.

George Shutt,
versus
David W. Comer,
Hiram P. Housel,
Mrs Hiram P. Housel
Alonzo Lockwood.
Complaint No. 109.

Now comes the plaintiff, by Penfield & Moody, his attorneys and files his complaint herein, together with an affidavit that the residence of said defendant, David W. Comer is unknown.

Notice is, therefore, hereby given said defendant that unless he be and appear on the first day of the next term of the DeKalb circuit court, to be holden on the 4th Monday of September a. d. 1875, at the court house in Auburn, in said county and State, and answer or demur to said complaint, the same will be heard and determined in his absence.

Witness, My name and the seal of said court affixed at Auburn, this 15th day of July 1875.
July 15 J. R. LANNING, Clerk.

NOTICE.

STATE OF INDIANA, } Sct.
DeKalb County }

In the DeKalb Circuit Court, September Term 1875.

Cyrus S. Stoy
John W. Boyle
versus
Isaac M. Johnson
Samuel Gronamyer
Albert W. Mason,
James E. Rose,
Edward W Fosdick and John Sprott.
Complaint No. 138.

Now comes the plaintiff, by Moss & Hoffman, their attorneys and files their complaint herein together with an affidavit that said defendant John Sprott is not a resident of the State of Indiana.

Notice is, therefore, given, said defendant that unless he be and appear on the first day of the DeKalb Circuit Court, to be holden on the 4th Monday of September A. D. 1875, at the Court House in Auburn, in said County and State and answer or demur to said complaint the same will be heard and determined in his absence.

Witness my name and the seal of said Court affixed at Auburn, this 6th day of July, 1875.
J. R. LANNING Clerk.

AUBURN COURIER

THURSDAY, JULY 29, 1875.

THE NEWS CONDENSED.

THE EAST.

THE New York banks have received notice to look out for forged notes on the Bank of England and Bank of France....Hon. Wm. A. Foster, Chief-Justice of the Vermont Circuit Court, was wounded in the arm by a shot being fired in the car window, while riding between Concord and Boston recently. No clue to the perpetrator of the act....At Pittsburgh, Pa., last week, while the family of John S. Hays were at dinner at the Monongahela House their rooms were entered and robbed of $2,000 in diamonds and jewelry....The Roman Catholic clergy of Lawrence, Mass., have published a card condemning the rioters in the severest terms, and expressing the hope that they will be punished to the full extent of the law.

A WHOLE family named Hessler, consisting of father, mother and three children, were killed last week in Montgomery county, Pa., by the falling of their house during the prevalence of a tornado....A gentleman in New York City has brought a case to test the constitutionality of the amended Postal law, claiming that it originated in the Senate.

JAMES L. BAILEY shot and killed his father, in New York city, last week. The murdered man was a wealthy and prominent citizen, and has for many years been connected with the Hudson River railroad.

POMEROY, the boy murderer, of Boston, has written the story of his life, in which he retracts all his former confessions. He claims to have been goaded by the police into making a confession of being guilty of the crime for which he was first arrested, and that he was entirely innocent.

THE great thirteen-mile swimming match between B. Johnson, of England, and Thomas Coyle, of Chester, Pa., for the championship of the world, came off in the Delaware river, at Philadelphia, and was won by the Englishman. Coyle became exhausted and gave up on the tenth mile. The entire distance swam by Johnson was 10¾ miles, and the time three hours and ten minutes. After being taken from the water he was as fresh as when he entered, and began dancing a jig....Hugh Donahue, of Springfield, Mass., has just accomplished the unparalleled feat of walking 1,100 miles in 1,100 consecutive hours. During the last few days of his weary tramp he was very nervous, and almost prostrated by loss of sleep, and fire-arms had to be discharged to wake him for his hourly toil.

THE WEST.

SPRAGUE, who murdered a saloon-keeper named Dwyer, in Holden, Mo., last year, and who afterwards escaped, has been convicted of murder. The murderer will have to serve two years in the Missouri Penitentiary before being punished for the murder....The statement of John D. Lee, of Mountain Meadow massacre notoriety, exonerates Brigham Young and the leaders of the Mormon Church from the charge of being connected with the massacre....Crop reports from Dakota are very encouraging. The wheat yield will be this year about 7,000,000 bushels.

PROF. DONALDSON, accompanied by an Evening Journal reporter, left Chicago in a balloon for an aerial voyage on Thursday evening, July 15, going in a northeasterly direction. Nothing had been seen or heard of them up to Saturday, the 17th, and the impression prevailed in Chicago, that the unfortunate aeronauts had been wrecked by the storm that swept over Lake Michigan on Thursday night.

IONIA, Neb., has a volcano, from which great clouds of smoke and steam ascend. The heat is rapidly increasing, and it is expected the mountain will soon be red hot.

A DISPATCH from Beaver, Utah. states that the substance of John D. Lee's confession is that thirty Mormons, with the assistance of a large number of Indians, decoyed the emigrants from their intrenchments by a flag of truce; that all were murdered except seventeen children; that the deed was done under the orders of the leaders of the Mormon church; that he took the news of the massacre to Brigham Young, who deplored the transaction, and said it would bring disaster on the Mormon people. The statement of Lee, so far as known, only confirms the previous reports in regard to the massacre....During the progress of a fire at Cincinnati, a few days ago, the Chief Engineer of the Fire Department, Enoch G. Megrue, and ten firemen were buried beneath the ruins of a falling building. Fortunately only one of them, Richard Holcomb, was killed, though nearly all were sadly bruised. Chief Megrue's injuries were the most serious, but hopes are entertained of his recovery....A Laporte (Ind.) clairvoyant claims that Donaldson and Grimwood, the missing balloonists who recently ascended from Chicago, are not lost. He says the air ship came down on the east side of Lake Michigan, at some point where two lakes are connected by a stream, on some sort of an island, in the midst of sand hills and pine trees. That in coming down one of the men was cut under the eye and on one arm, the other being unharmed. He says they are alive and will shortly be heard from.

THE Chicago Journal thinks there is a chance that the lost balloon is still drifting about in the high upper atmosphere, its passengers lifeless, and the vessel at the mercy of the currents. If so, it will, of course, ultimately descend to the earth and be heard from.

EDMONS AND COCHRANE, accused of participation in the Vandalia railroad murder at Long Point, Ill., have been fully identified, and committed to trial without bail....The trial of John D. Lee, for the Mountain Meadow massacre, is in progress at Beaver, Utah. The jury consists of eight Mormons and four Gentiles. ....A terrible explosion occurred the other day in the paper mill of Close & Son, at Iowa City, Iowa, resulting in the death of five workmen, the bodies of three of whom were blown a distance of 500 feet across the tops of houses. The mill was valued at $250,000, and was badly injured.

THE SOUTH.

MUCH excitement exists over the report of the prevalence of yellow fever at Norfolk, Va., and a quarantine has been ordered against the city....Considerable excitement prevails in St. Louis and vicinity over the arrest of Gen. Waddy Thompson. He is one of the Missouri Penitentiary lessees, and was arrested at Jefferson City a few days ago on a requisition from the Governor of Tennessee, charging him with horse-stealing, larceny and perjury. Between sheriffs, lawyers and writs of habeas corpus the General is tossed about like a football, and it is probable he will never reach Tennessee.

THE reports of yellow fever at Norfolk, Va., turn out to be untrue....The Baltimore Board of Public Works has sued the Baltimore American for libel, and demand $30,000 compensation for damage sustained....The defalcation in the Internal Revenue Collector's office at Louisville is found to reach the very respectable sum of $75,000, instead of $45,000, as first reported.

AT Columbia, S. C., the jury in the case of Parker, the defaulting State Treasurer, rendered a verdict that $75,000 is the amount of the deficit.

IT is reported that a terrible fight occurred in Perdido, Escambia county, Ala., a few days ago, between two families named Hallett and Byars, in which six men, consisting of the father and two sons on each side, were engaged. Five of the party were killed outright, while the sixth and last has a load of buckshot in his side, which must cause death. It was an old family feud.

E. G. JOHNSON, a revenue officer and member of the Florida Legislature, was recently shot by unknown assassins at a distillery near Fernandina, in that State....Ex-Confederate Gen. Joseph E. Johnson has been elected President of the Arkansas Industrial University....E. Nutting & Co., stove manufacturers, of Indianapolis, have failed. Liabilities, $200,000; assets, $150,000.

WASHINGTON.

THE Secretary of the Interior has appointed Member of Congress-elect N. H. Van Voorhes, of Ohio; Judge I. C. Parker, of Missouri; and Indian-Inspector Kemble, as a Commission to visit the Osages and examine into their condition....Gen. H. H. Wells succeeds Fisher as United States Attorney for the District of Columbia.

THE new State Department building has been completed, and was occupied by Secretary Fish last week.

THE Postmaster-General is in earnest in his proceedings against mail contractors who fail in their obligations. Suits have been commenced against the bondsmen of over forty contractors who failed to comply with the terms of their contracts.

PRESIDENT GRANT paid a flying visit to the Capital on Wednesday, held a three hours' cabinet meeting, at which all the ministers except Belknap were present, and returned to Long Branch the same afternoon.

AT a recent meeting of the Cabinet the Cuban question was discussed, and it was authoritatively announced that the United States will no longer maintain a strict neutrality, but accede belligerent rights to the struggling patriots.

GENERAL.

DISPATCHES received from all parts of the country, East, West, North and South, report an unusually abundant harvest in corn, rye, barley, oats and potatoes, with a fair yield of wheat, while the yield of the grasses is said to be enormous. The failures noted are in comparatively few and limited localities. A large proportion of the crop is already harvested.... The July returns to the Department of Agriculture show that the acreage in corn is about 8 per cent. greater than last year. New England has reduced her acreage about 11¼ per cent., and the Pacific States about 1 per cent. All the great corn-growing regions have increased their acreage, the Middle States 2 per cent., the South Atlantic States 3, the Gulf States 10, Inland Southern States 12, States north of the Ohio 7, States west of the Mississippi 14. The condition of the crop is below the average in the New England, Middle and South Atlantic States, the minimum condition, 82, being in Rhode Island. Florida and Alabama are also below the average, but the other Gulf States and Inland Southern States are above, the maximum, 112, being in Mississippi. All other States, except Missouri, 108, are below the average, minimum condition, 82, being in Wisconsin.

CHEWERS of "the weed" will take comfort in the announcement by the Department of Agriculture that the tobacco crop promises a heavy yield.

POLITICAL.

PRESIDENT GRANT has made the following internal revenue appointments: Gaugers—Thos. T. Davis, Seventh Indiana District; Enoch Stillwell, First Missouri District; John W. Lane, Second Kentucky District; James McElroy, Seventeenth Pennsylvania District. Storekeeper—Webster W. Castro, Seventh Indiana District.

A CALL has been issued in Indiana for a convention to meet at Richmond, on August 12, to form a new party sympathizing with the principles of the Cleveland National Convention. ....The Connecticut House of Representatives has indefinitely postponed, by a vote of 102 to 82, the proposition to give women the right to vote in Presidential elections.

THE Democratic State Convention of Maryland, in session at Baltimore last week, nominated John Lee Carroll for Governor and Levin Woodford for Comptroller of the Treasury.... Hon. S. Q. C. Laman has been nominated for Congress in Mississippi.

FOREIGN.

A BLOODY religious riot recently occurred in the city of San Miguel, in Salvador. A mob attacked the cabilao, and liberated some 200 persons. They then proceeded to assault the small garrison, killed Gens. Espinosa and Castro, cut the former to pieces, and threw the pieces at each other; split the skull of Gen. Castro and threw him over a wall, where he was picked up by his mother, and died in three days. The garrison were nearly all assassinated, and many prominent citizens killed. After this, the fanatic mob set fire to some sixteen houses with kerosene. It fortunately happened that H. B. M. ship Fantome was at La Union. She landed her marines, which allowed the garrison there, united with some troops from Amapala, in Honduras, to march to the relief of San Miguel, and put down the mob....Lady Franklin, the venerable widow of Sir John Franklin, is dead.

THE American riflemen now in England have succeeded in carrying off the St. Leger stakes at Wimbledon, beating picked marksmen from the entire kingdom of Great Britain. The accuracy of their aim at both the long and short range was a matter of astonishment to the English.

A LONDON firm that recently failed for several millions has got into trouble. Its members have been arrested and sent to Newgate for trial on the charge of obtaining about a million by false pretenses. English courts do not appear to treat big thieves with as much consideration as do American jurists....Reports of the floods in England represent the damage done as immense. In many sections not only the growing crops, but those crops already harvested have been destroyed. The returns of the agriculturists there will be exceedingly small, and the English people will have to depend to a great extent upon the American markets for a supply of breadstuffs. Happily we are in a condition to supply all their wants, and there need be no suffering on account of a scarcity.... Alexander and William Collie, of a London firm which recently suspended, have been arraigned charged with putting afloat $6,000,000 of bogus paper on the market. The London and Westminster Bank loses $1,500,000 by these fraudulent bills.

THERE was a lively scene in the British House of Commons the other day, during the discussion of the Shipping bill. Mr. Plimsoll, the philanthropist, charged that some of the vessel-owners purposely sent out unseaworthy vessels, in the expectation of gaining the insurance, and intimated that members of the House of Commons were guilty of such practices. The scene following this declaration is described as unparalleled. The Speaker, on motion of Mr. Disraeli, ordered Mr. Plimsoll to be removed from the House, but the latter, undismayed by the howls of indignation, continued speaking and shaking his fist at the Government benches. A fellow-member, after Mr. Plimsoll had left the Chamber, apologized for the latter's unfortunate harangue by pleading temporary insanity....Destructive rain-storms are reported in Silesia....The Canadian government has received information of another rebellion in Manitoba; that there has been a general uprising of the half-breeds and Indians, and that some of the mounted police were killed.... The Irish riflemen have won the Elcho Challenge Shield, defeating the English and Scotch teams. The Americans kept target for the Irishmen and superintended their shooting, which probably accounts for their success.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

Weekly Review of the Chicago Market.

FINANCIAL.

The offerings of bonds were liberal, and the market was dull. Interest rates were very low, 6@7 per cent. per annum for 60 days and 7@10 per cent. on long loans. New York exchange firm. Government bonds firm.

	Buying.	Selling.
U. S. 6's of '81 (ex. int.)	121⅜	121⅝
U. S. 5-20's of '62 (ex. int.)	115⅜	115⅝
U. S. 5-20's of '64 (ex. int.)	117⅜	117⅝
U. S. 5-20's of '65 (ex. int.)	119⅜	119⅝
U. S. 5-20's of '65 January and July	118⅝	118⅞
U. S. 5-20's of '67 January and July	120⅛	120⅜
U. S. 5-20's of '68 January and July	119⅞	120⅛
U. S. 10-40's	117⅜	117⅝
U. S. new 5's of '81 (ex. int.)	115⅜	115⅝
U. S. currency 6's	122⅜	122⅝
Gold (full weight)	113⅞	114⅛
Gold Coupons	114	114⅛
Gold exchange	114	114¼

BREADSTUFFS.

The grain markets were more or less excited during the past week and fluctuations in values were both frequent and quite severe. As a general rule a higher range was established, but the outside prices were not maintained for any of the articles. The shipments of wheat were liberal, and the advices from the East were of a favorable tenor, encouraging shippers to buy, while the receipts were lighter and holders of cash grain were very firm in their views. Prices advanced to $1.16 for July, but closed at $1.13¾. Corn was also firm and higher, with the closing quotations showing no decline or advance. Oats were very firm at the opening, but a failure of a prominent bull operator caused a break and a subsequent decline of about 4c per bu, which was partially recovered before the close. Rye was steady and firm. Barley met with a good demand, and prices were higher all round.

The following table shows the prices current at the opening and close of the past week:

	Opening.	Closing.
No. 2, sp'g wheat, cash	$1.06¼@1.09	$1.12¼@1.12¾
No. 2, seller July	1.07½	@1.13¾
No. 2 seller August	1.07¼@1.08½	@1.12¾
No. 2, seller September	1.05 @1.06	1.08¾@1.10¾
No. 2 corn, cash	.69 @ .69½	.69 @ .69¾
No. 2 corn, seller July	.69 @ .69¾	@ .69¾
No. 2 corn, s. August	.70½@ .70¾	@ .70¾
No. 2 corn, seller Sept.	.70¾@ .71½	.71½ bid
No. 2 oats, cash	.51 @ .51½	.49½ bid
No. 2 oats, seller July	.49½@ .50½	.49
No. 2 oats, s. August	.38 @ .39	.38¾ bid
No. 2 oats, s. Sept	.36 @ .37	.36½
No. 2 rye, cash	@1.02	1.02
No. 2 rye, s. Aug	@ .75	.78
No. 2 barley, cash	@1.28	1.30 @1.32
No. 2 barley, s. Sept	.98 @ .98½	1.02½

PRODUCE.

The shipping demand was very light for butter during the past week, and the business transacted was only moderate. The local demand was fair, but buyers were taking only the better qualities, and for medium and common grades sales were slow. There was no particular change in prices, though for the common qualities, of which the offerings were quite large, a weak feeling prevailed; quotable at 19@23c for extras, 17@20c for firsts, 14@17c for seconds, 13@15c for thirds, and 11@12c for inferior stock. Beans were rather quiet, but prices remain steady at $1.85@1.90 for prime Eastern mediums, and $1.00@1.80 for common to prime Western. A good trade was reported in broom corn, and the market ruled firm at 11½@14c for No. 1 to extra hurl, 11@13c for good to choice stalk braid, and 6@8½c for crooked. Beeswax was quiet at 28@30c for prime yellow. There was a good demand for grain bags and bagging, and a firm feeling prevailed. Quotable at $28.00 for Amoskeag and American A, seamless cotton; $30.00 for Otter creek, Lewiston, Montauk and Ludlow; $32.00 for Stark A, and wool sacks 55@60c. There was nothing of consequence done in either cider or cranberries, and prices were entirely nominal. There was quite an active shipping movement in cheese and the market ruled firm at about previous quotations. Sales in lots were made at 10@10½c and in a retail way at about 11c. Dried fruits were very quiet, but the offerings of apples were somewhat lighter and a steadier feeling was developed, but blackberries ruled weak. Quotations range at 7@7½c for prime New York and Michigan apples. There were no Southern or Ohio offered, and prices for these descriptions were nominal. Peaches 8½@9c for halves, 7½@8c for mixed and 18@19c for pared. Blackberries quiet at 8¾c. There was no change in dried peas—quotable at $2.00@2.10 per bu for choice green and $1.70@1.75 for marrowfat. Dried sweet corn was very slow of sale at 6@7c per lb for choice. Feathers were also dull; prime live geese 48@52c per lb, and choice turkey tail 20@25c. Eggs were in large supply and the market was very dull; prices ruled weak and lower, at about 14c for fresh in carriers. Green fruits were in large supply, and the market ruled active. There was a fair demand for all kinds but apples, but for these the market was dull. The market closed at 35c@$1.00 for poor to good peaches in one-third bu boxes; $1.50 for choice, and $1.75 for fancy Crawfords. Apples 30@50c per box and $1.50@3.00 per brl. Choice red plums $1.75@2.00 per box, but common wild were slow at $1.00@1.50. Grapes sold at $2.50@3.00 in twenty-four quart cases. Hides were quiet and rather easier. Green salted 7¾@8c all round; calf 12½@13c, and dry kip 18@19c. Hops were inactive and nominal at 20@30c for good to choice. There was nothing done in honey; nominal at 18@23c per lb for comb and 10@11c for strained. Vegetables were very dull and it was almost impossible to close out the receipts of Southern. Trade was light in wool but prices remain unchanged. Quotable at 38@42c for washed, 25@30c for unwashed and 40@50c for tub, according to condition and weight.

PROVISIONS.

There was an increased speculative business transacted in this market during the past week, and prices show some improvement over the quotations of the previous week. The advices received from Eastern markets were firmer in tone and the movement for the week shows somewhat of a decrease in the supply. The receipts of hogs were fair and the tendency of values was to a higher figure. The improvement on mess pork was about 20@25c on the whole range, and lard was about 15@20c per 100 lbs higher. The market closed at $19.50 for cash mess pork, $19.47½@19.50 seller August, and $19.70 seller September. Cash lard closed at $13.25, seller August at 13.25, and seller September $13.40.

SEEDS AND HIGHWINES.

The seed market was in about the same condition as for some weeks past. There was a slight increase in the amount of Timothy offered, but there were a number of Eastern orders on the market and good lots sold readily at former prices. Sales were made at $2.30 for common white; prime lots sold at $2.60@2.75. Clover was quiet but firm at $7.15@7.25. Flax nominal at $1.55 spot and $1.60 was paid seller August. Hungarian was dull and orders could have been filled at about buyers' own prices; at the close a small lot of prime sold at 75c. Millet dull and unsettled; quotable at $1.35@1.75. Buckwheat nominal at 85@90c.

COOPERAGE, LUMBER AND WOOD.

There is but little doing at present either at the packing houses or distilleries, and the demand for heavy cooperage was very light, while for flour barrels the demand continues moderate. The offerings, however, of the different kinds were not large, and there was no change of importance in prices. Quotations range at $1.12½@1.15 for pork barrels and $1.35@1.45 for lard tierces; $1.90@2.10 for whisky barrels, and 45@50c for flour barrels. It should be understood that the outside prices for lard tierces is only paid for "standard" packages—the new size adopted recently by the Packers' association. Trade in lumber was also very light, and the offerings throughout the week were in excess of the demand. Prices were a trifle weaker, but the decline sustained was slight. The market closed at $7.75@8.00 for joist and scantling, $8.00@14.00 for strips and boards, $2.20@2.70 for shingles, and $1.50 for lath. Wood was very dull, but at the same time prices remain steady and unchanged. Quotable at $8.00 per cord for hickory, $7.00 for maple, $6.00 for birch, and $4.00 for slabs at the yards.

Telegraphic Market Reports.

NEW YORK.
Beeves	10	@	10½
Hogs—Dressed	10	@	10½
Cotton	14	@	14½
Flour—Superfine Western	5 25	@	5 75
Wheat—No. 2 Chicago	1 34	@	1 36
No. 1 Spring	1 37	@	1 42
Corn	87	@	87½
Oats	61	@	61½
Rye	..	@	1 15
Pork—New Mess	21 00	@	21 75
Lard—Steam	13	@	13¼
ST. LOUIS.
Wheat—No. 2 Red	1 31	@	1 35
Corn—No. 2	68	@	71
Oats—No. 2	59	@	61
Rye—No. 2	97	@	1 00
Pork—Mess	20 50	@	20 75
Lard	12	@	13
Hogs	6 85	@	7 25
Cattle	4 50	@	6 50
MILWAUKEE.
Wheat—No. 1	1 26	@	1 28
No. 2	1 25	@	1 27
Corn—No. 2	67	@	69
Oats—No. 2	..	@	59
Rye	94	@	96
Barley—No. 2	..	@	1 06
CINCINNATI.
Wheat—Red	1 35	@	1 37
Corn	72	@	74
Oats	58	@	61
Rye	1 18	@	1 20
Pork—Mess	20 00	@	20 25
Lard	13	@	14
TOLEDO.
Wheat—Extra	..	@	1 44
Amber	..	@	1 36
Corn	79	@	80
Oats	..	@	54½
DETROIT.
Wheat—Extra	..	@	1 42½
Amber	..	@	1 41
Corn	..	@	77
Oats	..	@	56
CLEVELAND.
Wheat—No. 1 Red	..	@	1 36
No. 2 Red	..	@	1 31
Corn	74	@	78
Oats	59	@	62

THE MISSING AERONAUTS.

Nothing Heard from Donaldson or Grimwood—Belief That They Perished in Lake Michigan.

[From the Chicago Journal, 19th.]

The last lingering hope to which the friends of Donaldson and Grimwood have clung so earnestly, despite the stern facts which almost forbade hope, has died away, and the two must now be given up for lost. For four days we have been listening intently to every click of the telegraph, anxiously inquiring of every incoming vessel, assiduously hunting down every rumor, no matter how idle, and tenaciously cherishing every theory of safety and deliverance to them, only to be confronted at last with the sorrowful reality which must now, we fear, be acknowledged as such, that they met their death in the terrific hurricane of Thursday night, and are buried beneath the waters of the lake. Exactly how they met their doom it is impossible that we should ever know. Undoubtedly in the storm, which a frail airship like the one which carried them could by no possibility withstand. But how long and desperately they struggled for life, how they cheered each other so long as they remained together in the basket in which they were borne on their journey, how they recalled their friends on the land, and regretted the venturesome spirit that induced them to take their lives in their hands and go out on such a perilous journey, are all matters of the merest conjecture. The balloon, caught in the gale, driven hither and thither, like a desperate creature gone mad, could not have made a long resistance. When that became useless to them, either by being torn in pieces or being cut loose by themselves, it left the two men engaged in a fearfully unequal struggle for life; a hard and valiant struggle no doubt it was against wind and wave. They could hear only the thunderings of the storm and the screaming and hissing of the waters; they saw only the vivid flashes of the lightning and the foaming heads of the waves. The wildness of such a scene can only be imagined. The struggle could not have continued long—the odds were too great.

There is good cause to believe that for some reason or other, Donaldson intended before starting on this last fatal trip, to attempt a voyage across the lake. Whether it was because he had been upbraided for not making a more sensational trip on the previous day, as is circumstantially asserted, is unknown. But if he only contemplated an ascent similar to that of Wednesday, why was it that he insisted that only one of the newspaper men should accompany him? Two were intending to go; they were actually in the car, but at the last moment one was compelled to get out and remain behind. They had 800 pounds of sand, 150 pounds of which might have been left and another passenger taken, had the aeronaut not been intent on making an unusual performance. But of that intent his companion, Grimwood, and his friends had no knowledge. He and they only knew that the day before four newspaper men went up, remained an hour or two and descended in safety. There was apparently no reason why this should not be repeated with the same results. And it was with this expectation, and in no spirit of recklessness, and with no thought that any unusual feat was to be attempted, that Grimwood was induced to go on this journey of disaster and death. However unjust this was to Grimwood, poor Donaldson, so far as he was responsible, is as far beyond the reach of censure, as the victim is beyond recalling the resolution, made in ignorance of facts which should have been divulged to him.

[From the Chicago Journal, July 27.]

To the universal inquiry "Have you heard from the balloon?" there is the same monotonous answer of yesterday, the day before and every day since it went out of sight. Nothing has been seen or heard that throws any light on its fate. It seems most extraordinary that if it went into the lake, as is now the almost universal opinion in Chicago, no certain traces of it or the men who were in it have been discovered. As one of the lake men remarked this morning, the vessels that have gone out from and come into Chicago and other ports during the last six days have been so numerous that every square mile of the surface of Lake Michigan has been crossed again and again. And yet with the exception of the reports, which were not verified by any tangible evidence, of three boats which reached this port last Sunday, not a relic or trace of balloon or men has been seen. Those who have held to the opinion that they got over the lake and went into the wilderness, find their hopes of the men ever being seen alive fast giving way, too. For if they came down in the forest they have certainly not yet succeeded in finding civilization, while exposure and hunger must by this time have told upon them fearfully, if indeed they have lived so long. If there was any hope of their being restored yesterday, it is less to-day. But it would be an intense relief to suffering friends to have some certain indication of their fate. It is curious to note the flying rumors, and especially of balloons being seen flying through the air in one direction and another in various parts of the country. No person can be found on the street but has either lately seen a balloon in the air himself or seen some one who has. For instance, a balloon was plainly seen going over the city in a southeasterly direction yesterday morning. From various points in Indiana there are similar reports of flying balloons.

It may be that the balloon reported as having been seen at several points in the air is the one sought, and that it is wandering through the air with the bodies of the men, who may have died from escaping gas or from exposure.

New Postal Regulations.

People who write letters and mail newspapers to their friends the "wide world over," will find something to interest them in the following change in postal regulations which have of late been made:

The department is prepared to commence the issue of postage stamps of the denomination of five (5) cents, to meet the new letter-rate of postage, under the treaty of Berne, to the following countries, viz: Germany, Austria, Hungary, Belgium, Denmark (including Iceland and the Faroe islands), Egypt, Spain (including the Belearic isles, the Canary islands, the Spanish posessions on the northern coast of Africa, and the postal establishments of Spain upon the western coast of Morocco), Great Britain (including the island of Malta), Greece, Italy, Luxemberg, Norway, the Netherlands, Portugal (including the island of Madeira and the Azores), Roumania, Russia (including the Grand Duchy of Finland), Servia, Sweden, Switzerland, and Turkey.

The changes in foreign postage will render unnecessary further issue of the 7, 12, and 24 cent stamps and stamped envelopes, and they will accordingly be discontinued.

In order to avoid the liability to mistake caused by the near similarity in color between the 2-cent and 10-cent stamps, the former will in future be printed in vermillion, the color of the discontinued 7-cent stamp.

The department will also issue a revised schedule of stamped envelopes, to take effect on the 1st of July. Among the changes, all of which need not be here specified, as they will appear fully in the schedule, is the addition of 5-cent envelopes, in suitable sizes and qualities for foreign postage. There will also be added, in appropriate denominations, a new size of envelopes, 3⅞ by 5¼ inches, to be designated as No. 4½ commercial. The new size is a medium between the full letter and extra letter, and is well adapted to business requirements. The attention of the public is especially invited to it.

Human Strength.

Among the Arabs, the Persians and the Turks, you do not meet those undersized, rickety, consumptive beings who are so common in Europe—you do not meet with such pale, wan, sickly-looking countenances. Their complexions are bright and florid. They are strong and vigorous, able to ride a hundred miles a day, and capable of performing other most amazing feats. I remember seeing a most striking instance of their powers. A band of men from the Himalaya mountains had come to Calcutta for the purpose of exhibiting feats of strength, and they were indeed perfect Samsons. Their size struck me with admiration. I know nothing that I can compare to them. But perhaps some of you have seen the statue at the bottom of the stairs at Somerset House; it is Hercules leaning on his club, is seven feet high, looking like being capable of executing the most difficult task; and such were the Athletæ. We selected five men on board the Glasgow frigate, a similar number from one of the regiments, and likewise from an Indiaman—all fine, picked men. And yet upon a trial of strength it was found that a Himalaya mountaineer was equal to two and three-quarters of the strongest Europeans. They could grasp a man and hold him in the air like a child; and if they had not been under control, I am convinced they could have crushed him to death. I felt them, and I never felt such flesh in my life—great rolls of muscle. These men never tasted spirits.—Buckingham's Travels.

THE Fourth must have been a dull day in New York and vicinity. In the metropolis itself there were only twenty-one cases of deadly assault, and of those but ten have terminated fatally. Brooklyn furnishes a beggarly score of nine, mostly cases of maiming, though there are two in which the victims are believed to be beyond cure.

OUT of ninety three members of the graduating class in Yale College only nine intend to become clergymen. What a change!

The Golden Rule.

"What's this boy doing here—this innocent looking, white-haired boy?" asked his Honor.

"Gittin' up a dog fight," explained Bijah.

"My son, is this true?"

"I never said a word—the other boys got up the fight!" wailed the lad.

"I do not know what I can do with you. We keep a cross-cut saw here to saw boys in two, but it is Saturday morning and I don't want to muss up the station house. I suppose we——"

"The boys lied on me!" exclaimed the boy, trembling all over.

"They did, eh! Now, boy tell me the solemn truth—did—did you have hold of either dog?"

"No, sir—you may kill me if I did!"

"Did you say sickem?"

"No, sir—no!"

"Didn't you bet five marbles against three jaw-breakers that the red dog would win?"

"No—no!"

"Well, boy, this is a serious case, but I am going to overlook it. I think you have told the truth, but you had no business there. In the distant future you want to remember that it is four times better to pull weeds in the garden than to attend a dog fight."

"I will, sir."

"And remember to keep truth in your handkerchief pocket all through life. One ounce of truth is worth more in the wholesale market than forty tons of lies."

"Yes, sir."

"Now, you can go."

The boy reached the door to encounter the band, who marched off, singing:

"Oh, bury Bartholomew out in the woods,
In a beautiful hole in the ground,
Where bumble-bees buzz and the wood-peckers sing,
And the straddle-bugs tumble around;
So that in winter when the snow and the slush
Has covered his little bed,
His brother Artemus can go out with Jane
And visit the place with his sled.
—Detroit Free Press.

Submarine Telegraphy.

There are now five cables between Europe and the United States, of an aggregate length of 9,026 miles, besides which twenty-nine have been laid between other countries since 1867 of a total length of 28,660 miles.

The following table, from the Journal of the Telegraph, shows the time at which and the countries between which they were laid:

Date.	From	Length in miles.
1867	Malta to Alexandria, Egypt	925
1869	Bushire, Persia, to Jask, Beloochistan	505
	St. Pierre to Duxbury	749
1870	Suez to Aden, Arabia	1,460
	Aden to Bombay, India	1,818
	Porthcurno, England, to Lisbon	823
	Gibraltar to Malta	1,120
	Madras to Penang	1,408
	Singapore to Batavia	557
	Malta to Alexandria, Egypt	904
	Batabanó, Cuba, to Santiago, Cuba	520
	Java to Australia	1,082
1871	Singapore to Cochin China	630
	Saigon to Hong Kong	976
	Hong Kong to Shanghai	1,100
	Hong Kong to Japan, thence to Siberia	1,200
	Antigua to Demerara, West Indies	1,028
	Porto Rico to Jamaica	582
1873	Falmouth, England, to Lisbon	1,150
	France to Denmark	550
	Pernambuco to Para, Brazil	1,382
	Alexandria, Egypt, to Brindisi, Italy	930
1874	Lisbon to Madeira	633
	Madeira to St. Vincent	1,360
	St. Vincent to Brazil	1,953
	Jamaica to Colon, S. A.	640
	Brazil to Rio Janeiro	1,240
	Jamaica to Porto Rico	582
	Rio Janeiro to Rio Grande del Sul	840

The lines between Europe and America, except the one whose completion is now announced, are under the management of the Anglo-American Telegraph Company. The subjoined statement gives the years of their completion and their respective lengths:

Year.	From	Length.
1866	Ireland to Newfoundland	1,896
1869	Brest to Duxbury, [illegible], via St. Pierre	3,330
1873	Valentia to Newfoundland	1,900
1874	Valentia to Newfoundland	1,900

Quickly Woven and Made.

The Jamestown (N. Y.) Journal of a recent date says that the proprietors of an alpaca factory at that place, on Tuesday, succeeded in manufacturing cloth from the wool of the Angora goat and having it upon the person of a lady in the form of a mohair dress within twelve hours. The detailist describes thus: "Nearly a year ago Mr. H. A. Whittemore purchased two Angora goats and conveyed them to his farm at Fluvanna. Early this morning, before dawn, they were taken to the alpaca factory, and the work of shearing commenced, by a preconcerted arrangement, the last clip of the shears being given as the first rays of the sun were visible in the East. The wool was then seized by the workmen in waiting, washed, bleached, dried and passed through the various preparations for combing; was combed, spun, woven into cloth and placed in the hands of the dress-makers at 2 o'clock this afternoon, and it will probably appear upon the person of Miss Jennie Whittemore about the time this article goes to press, anyway long before the setting of the sun, the given time. It seems hardly credible that such a work could be performed in so short a time, but if we are to believe the evidence of our own senses and the veracity of the gentlemen who have had the work in charge, it is certainly so, and the wool that was this morning protecting an Angora goat, is to-night a beautiful mohair dress, performing the same office for a favored young lady."

Kicked Into the River.

A country dog came into town on business with his master this morning, and went down to the steamboat landing to inspect the Sunnyside. There he met two city dogs who were strutting around looking for something to eat or a fight. They proceeded to make the acquaintance of the country dog, but not inclined to such sociability, country walked away, but was followed by the city curs, who were not long in kicking up a three-cornered fight. The dispute was near the edge of the dock, and within three feet of a horse's heels. The horse turned his head to see what the noise was all about, and taking in the situation at a glance, turned partly around, and giving one of the city dogs a broadside kicked him clear into the river. The unpleasantness between the other two dogs ceased at once. When the kicked dog came out of the river, he trotted down Second street in a reflective mood, while his city companion stood behind a bale of cotton undecided what to do.—Troy Press.

UP to about the last of June 312 miles of railroad were completed in the United States in 1875, against 570 miles reported for the same period in 1874, and 1,271 miles in 1873.

AUBURN COURIER

T. C. MAYS, Publisher.

GOSSIP OF THE DAY.

A COLORED base-ball club in New Haven have a queer way of testing their opponents' ability to stop balls. One of them sent a bullet at the first baseman just as he was about to put him out, made second, and had only just time to reach third base when the pistol gave out and left him on base.

A HORRIBLE and unnatural murder, committed in Raleigh, N. C., last March, has just come to light. A man named Scott Portin killed his wife by cutting her throat, then cut her head off, unjointed her at every joint, then cut the flesh off her bones, and attempted to burn up her body, but did not succeed. Then he murdered his little boy, a child eight months old, in the same manner.

THERE is great rivalry between the amateur oarsmen of Red Wing, St. Paul and Stillwater, Minn., and it is charged that in order to win a race the other day the Red Wing people imported Ellis Ward, of Newburg, N. Y., a professional oarsman. A large amount of money changed hands on the result, and there is much indignation at the Red Wingers in hiring a professional rower under an assumed name.

A CHICAGO merchant has received from Kansas a worm which is at present receiving the admiring attention of the farmers. It is fully 18 inches long, and was found in the head of a grasshopper. As might have been expected, it is not large, hardly exceeding a hair in diameter. When examined under a microscope it appears to have joints like the tape-worm sometimes found in man. It is proving a great detriment to the well-being of the grasshopper.

IN Pennsylvania drunkenness is held to be a partial excuse for crime. The policeman Mervine, who murdered Alexander in Philadelphia, has been found guilty in the second degree only because he was grossly intoxicated at the time. The verdict was given under the direction of the court. Very appropriately does the Philadelphia Times say in commenting on the case: "Hereafter let all who contemplate murder first get grossly intoxicated. There is great moral potency in rum."

THE farewell meeting of Moody and Sankey, the American revivalists, was held in London, last week, and 188 clergymen of the church of England were present, far outnumbering the other denominations. The following is the number of meetings held by the revivalists in London during the past four months, with the aggregate attendance: Camberwell, 60 meetings, attended by 480,000 people; Victoria, 45 meetings, attended by 400,000; in the Opera-House, 60 meetings, attended bn 330,000; in Bow street, 60 meetings, attended by 600,000; and in Agricultural Hall, 60 meetings, attended by 720,000. The amount of money expended for building, printing, stewards, etc., is $140,000.

THE details of the trial of the Norwich (Eng.) contested election, which have just been published, confirm all that has been said about the painful prevalence of bribery in English Parliamentary elections. Here are two specimen cases: A grocer was paid $2.12 for distributing four circulars, or rather more than 50 cents a circular. As soon as he began work, the other side hired him to leave four of their circulars at the same places, and paid him $2,25. By an odd coincidence, he voted for the candidate of the latter party. A man who could not read was sent to scatter circulars, and then another who could read was hired to go with him and show him where to put them where they would do the most good. The wages were liberal, and both circulars and votes were delivered as per agreement.

A NEW YORK paper says it is no easy matter to calculate the cost of the trial of the cause of Tilton against Beecher. It is not generally known to any newspaper man what fees counsel receive. The trial has cost the county of Kings at least $40,000. The jurors have received $3,000. The total jury expense, including panels of 1,500 men, amounts to $5,194. The County Treasurer has paid out $26,154 as the county's share of the expenses of the Tilton-Beecher trial. This does not include the pay of the detailed policemen, which will foot up a large sum, neither does it embrace the bill of Mr. Parker for feeding the jury. Mr. Beecher's trial expenses can hardly be less than $70,000. Mr. Tilton is out of pocket some $15,000, which amount he will easily earn as soon as the lecture season begins. All told, $140,000 is a moderate estimate of the cost of the great suit.

A PENURIOUS old citizen of Watertown, N. Y., recently received a letter signed "Conscience Stricken," and reading as follows: "Ten years ago, in a business transaction, I swindled you out of $10. My conscience smote me for it, and I have ever since lived an unhappy life. Inclosed you will find a $50 note, which you will please change and deduct the $10, forwarding the balance to my address in care of the Postoffice." The benevolent old gentleman was rejoiced at this unexpected windfall, but after he had forwarded the $40 and discovered that his $50 bill was counterfeit, he did not get up much of a religious centennial in honor of the event. On the contrary, he withdrew from the church in which he was a member, and in a confidential talk with his pastor, declared that he believed Satan to be a more honest and upright man than half of those with whom he had had dealings in his lifetime.

THERE was a murder trial lately, in St. James parish, La., which had a curious and rather unusual termination. Two negroes were on trial for killing a man of their own color. The jury and the Sheriff were also of African descent. The jury went out, after the charge, to find a verdict, and were locked up in a room to look for it. The Sheriff had the key, and the court adjourned. The next morning when the court convened the Judge inquired after the jury. The Sheriff said they had found a verdict and gone. He had let them out, supposing the State had no farther use for them, and he had agreed to deliver their verdict, "Not guilty." It was all right. He had not turned the prisoners loose too, because the jailer was pig-headed and would not accept his authority. The Judge was quiet, but got very red. There is no other way but to go all over that trial again. The Sheriff thinks there ought to be an amendment of the jury system. So there ought.

THE customs receipts, says a Washington dispatch, have shown a steady decline for the past two years. At the close of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1874, the receipts were in the neighborhood of $188,500,000. The following year they fell off $25,000,000, and the sum total of the receipts for this year show a still further falling off of some $7,000,000. The cause of this is explained partially by the Commissioner of Customs, upon the ground of the dull state of business throughout the country. There is also a growing system of smuggling that adds great difficulties to the collection of the customs revenues. One of the easiest and the most secure methods of smuggling is through the mails. Valuable laces are thus smuggled with impunity. There will be presented to the next Congress a proposition to make Postmasters ex officio custom-house officers, authorized to open suspicious letters and packages; but this proposition, if carried, would give such opportunity to tamper with the mails that it is not likely to be received with favor. One of the favorite plans of the Treasury Department to aid the customs revenues, is to have Congress re-enact the tax upon tea and coffee.

POLITICS AND POLITICIANS.

SENATOR LOGAN is rusticating in California.

CALIFORNIA will elect four Congressmen September 1.

B. GRATZ BROWN has been invited to Ohio, to take part in the canvass of the State for Allen.

SENATOR MORTON will make a dozen speeches in Ohio, beginning about the 1st of August.

THE Syracuse (N. Y.) Courier is for S. S. Cox for Speaker of the next House of Representatives.

THE St. Louis Globe-Democrat nominates Blaine and Beveridge for President and Vice-President.

FREDERICK W. SEWARD is named as a probable candidate of the Republican party for Governor of New York.

IT is said that the Richmond Enquirer will be removed to Washington, and become the national organ of the Democratic party.

IT is rumored that General Adam Badeau, at present United States Consul at London, will succeed J. Russel Jones as Minister to Belgium.

GOV. TILDEN has vetoed the bill passed by the New York Legislature for shortening life sentences on account of good behavior of the convicts.

VICE-PRESIDENT WILSON will spend the summer at Saratoga, where he will devote himself to drinking the waters and writing on his history.

AN old farmer was once asked what a politician was. He answered: "Well, he is a man that serves God as far as he can to not offend the devil."

GOV. ALLEN, of Ohio, has accepted an invitation to deliver an address at the Lynchburg, Virginia, agricultural fair, to be held early next autumn.

HON. SHEPHERD LEFLER, the Democratic candidate for Governor of Iowa, is a Virginian by birth. He settled in Iowa while it was still a Territory.

CONGRESSMAN CAULFIELD (Democratic) of Chicago, has been interviewed concerning the Speakership of the next House. He thinks Sam Randall is the coming man.

WE learn by our Pacific coast exchanges that General Joseph Lane is still alive and vigorous. He killed a panther near Roseling about the first of July, and delivered an oration on the 5th.

MR. CHARLES WENTWORTH ROBERTS, the Democratic candidate for Governor of Maine, is a native of Bangor, about 45 years of age; graduated at Bowdoin in 1851; entered the Union army at Lieutenant-Colonel at the breaking out of the war, and was discharged in 1863, declining a Brigadier-Generalship; was candidate for Governor in 1870, when Perham was elected.

INDIANA NEWS.

THE Newcastle jail is empty.

BARTTOWN is an Evansville suburb.

DIPHTHERIA prevails in the vicinity of Vernon.

A MONTHLY periodical is talked of at Richmond.

VEVAY pays its School Trustees $25 a year each.

GOSHEN has a minister who is an enthusiastic boxer.

FATHER IMHOFF, of Richmond, has celebrated his centennial.

SAMUEL B. EDSON has been appointed Postmaster at Frankton, Madison county.

THERE are seventeen different varieties of trees in the court yard park at Marion, Grant county.

The existence of the law, which was approved May 27, 1852, is probably not known to a majority of our Justices.

AN individual named Vanskyhawk recently sailed into the Grant county jail. Such a name ought not to be at large.

MISS MAGGIE THOMPSON is doing a large amount of preaching for the United Brethren in different parts of Switzerland county.

A LIST of over forty old settlers who have died in the last two years was read at the old settlers' meeting last Saturday, at Newcastle.

A CONTEST at base ball will come off in September between the Seymour and Columbus clubs for $100 a side. Best two in three.

Some wealthy Indianapolis gentlemen talk some of establishing a home for invalids somewhere on the banks of the Laporte lakes.

A NEW breed of hens is said to be raised in Bartholomew county which begin at four months old and lay through life without a setting fit.

A MAN in Rushville, named Richmond, chastised his daughter with a wagon whip so brutally that she had to be placed under the care of a physician. He reposes in jail.

IN Morgan, Bartholomew, Carrol, Fayette, Shelby, Ripley, Dearborn and Knox counties the rains have seriously interfered with the harvest, and much corn has been ruined by the overflows.

MR. J. B. DAVIS, of the firm of William Helphinstine & Co., Indiana Creek Coal mine, Bicknell Station, Knox county, committed suicide by taking morphine at Indianapolis last week. Cause, strong drink.

CLAY county is to have a new building for the use of its paupers. It will be erected upon the farm recently purchased by the county, and will be constructed after approved plans at an expense of about $10,000.

MARION and Newton, two more townships of Jasper county, are notified to vote, on the 21st of August next, upon a proposition to contribute seven or eight thousand dollars to the Indianapolis, Delphi & Chicago railway.

OLD CROWING CHARLIE, a negro well known about police headquarters in Evansville, is dead. He was killed at Newburg, by a drunken rowdy because he wouldn't crow as he was accustomed to do in singularly accurate imitation of a rooster.

NEAR Lafayette, on Tuesday last, a farmer named Hiram Russell had a dispute with a young son, in which the son drew his knife and stabbed the old man in the ribs, inflicting a dangerous wound. The trouble seems to be the son thought it was time to quit work and the father thought different.

A TEST case is being made against the Singer Sewing Machine company by Henry Wolff, of Fort Wayne, on the validity of leases taken in the sale of sewing machines, especially to the poorer classes. The Singer company attempted to take possession of Wolff's machine for alleged breach of contract. The matter will be adjusted in the courts.

A MAN named Fred Dow left his home in Fort Wayne, lately, since which time he has been unheard of. He was a widower, with three children, the oldest being eight years of age. It is feared by his friends that he has met with some serious accident, as he was a worthy and respectable man. The children are left without a protector.

THE various roads centering in Indianapolis have lately been reducing the forces in their mechanical departments. The railroads always discharge a number of their men at this season of the year, but the discharges this year were not as heavy as during the last two years. Most of the men will be re-engaged again in September and October.

SAYS the Bedford Star: "Among the relics gathered up by Prof. Collett a few days ago, in Owen county, is an ancient sword blade of curious make, with an inscription on either side, which has not yet been deciphered. It is related that it was found in the decayed trunk of a tree. The supposition is that it was hidden in the tree while it was standing in the long ago, but when or by whom is yet to be determined by those versed in ancient relics."

SUSAN VANDERMARK, a young grass-widow living near Warsaw, was recently murdered under peculiar circumstances. She had been receiving the attentions of a fast young man named Martin Beckleth-ermer. The two went buggy riding, when he induced her to drink some wine. She felt a burning sensation in her throat and stomach, and after reaching home was thrown into convulsions, and died next morning. It is said the wine contained cantharides, administered for a sinister purpose.

A FORT WAYNE dispatch has the following: "A short time since a family residing on Bass street moved to Grand Rapids. Last Saturday a family named McGrath moved into the house. In the corner of a room was a large pile of straw, which had been emptied from an old bed tick. A little daughter of Mr. McGrath's, while playing in it, came across a roll, which she gave to her father, who found $7,000 worth of paper in the roll, partly in certificates on the First National Bank, and partly in notes."

IT will be remembered, says the Indianapolis Journal, that the Rush county Justice, who was first applied to for a warrant for the arrest of Keemer (the negro who was recently lynched in Hancock county), refused to issue one on the ground that, as the offense was committed in another county, the law did not allow him to act in the case. A correspondent calls attention to the fact that there is a law in existence authorizing such proceeding, which will be found on page 434 of the second volume of Indian Statutes (Gavin & Hord). The provision of the statute referred to reads as follows:

> "If any person having committed a crime in one county, shall flee to another, any Judge of the Supreme Court, or Court of Common Pleas, or any Justice of the Peace within the county where said fugitive may be, shall, on the oath of any person charging such fugitive with such crime (either directly or on the belief of the affiant) issue his warrant and cause such fugitive to be brought before him," etc.

Health Proverbs.

MILK is especially pernicious in all of those complicated and obscure cases of indigestion, to which the phrase "nervous debility" is usually applied.

ONE of the great and evils of imperfect mastication is decaying teeth. It is a law of all vital organisms that every structure or post must do its own work or die.

PARASOLS, except in the middle of the day during the "heated term," are pernicious things, as are the veils with which so many fashionable ladies shade their faces.

LADIES suffering from nervous debility in summer should beware of over-exercising. The fault with too many invalids is that they overdo when trying to recruit, and thus seriously retard their improvement.

THE influence of the imagination on the vital functions has always been recognized, and it was this recognition that enabled the ancient physicians to be so successful with charms, amulets and incantations.

THE error of regarding dyspepsia as a local disease instead of a constitutional infirmity, leads to the mischievous practice of local medication. Dyspepsia is but a name for universal physical deterioration.

IF seats were properly constructed, persons would sit upright, for the reason that it would be the most comfortable position. It would be painful to sit otherwise. The chairs, benches, sofas, pews, or other seats, should fit the small of the back, the curves of the hips, and the whole length of the thighs, as accurately as a well-made shoe is shaped to the foot, or harness to the body of a horse.

A Bottomless Pit.

A correspondent of the Atlanta (Ga.) Herald tells a very remarkable story of death in a quagmire near Marshallville, Georgia. A farmer, whose wife with her infant child had gone forth in the morning to search for a favorite cow in a swamp, became alarmed at her prolonged absence, aroused the neighborhood and began a search. Over a well-known quagmire in the middle of the swamp was found a piece of the missing woman's dress, and the surface of the slough was broken and depressed, showing that somebody had fallen in and had been struggling. A pole twelve or fifteen feet long was sent down its full length, but nothing could be felt nor could the bottom be reached. Another rod, longer than the first, was then fastened to it, and an examination made with a like result. Any further attempt to recover the dead bodies was therefore deemed useless. This quagmire has been known to all the occupants of the farm from its earliest settlement, but never till now has any conception been formed of its depth. Full thirty feet of it has been sounded, yet its lower part, if any it has, is still to be ascertained. The main diameter of the pit proper, for some fifteen feet down, is about three and a half feet.

Turning Over a New Leaf.

A boy's father sent word to his teacher that if he did not study, she must whip him. Thinking that persuasion might do more good, the teacher said, "Now, David, my boy, if I were in your place I would let my father see that I could study without being whipped. Just turn over a new leaf, and see what a good student you can be."

"Yes'm," answered David, glad to escape the whipping.

The next day David's class was called, but he did not appear. On being summoned, with a look of utter astonishment he exclaimed, "Why, am I in that class? I thought you told me to turn over a new leaf."

And so he had, and had studied the lesson on the next page.

TWO FAMOUS Australian running horses, managed by a Mr. Bowers, are coming to compete for the $30,000 purse offered at San Francisco for the October races.

AGRICULTURAL AND DOMESTIC.

Around the Farm.

ANYTHING which is kept from air is preserved indefinitely, and if it is kept dry the effect is measurably the same. Paint upon buildings prevents the contact of air and moisture. If the whole fence cannot be painted, the heads, at least, of the nails therein should be touched.

THE male turkey does not attain its greatest vigor until the third or fourth year; therefore a cock two or three years old is better than one year old for breeding. But it is well to change the male every year, which is believed to produce healthier and stronger chicks; and hens two years old and upward are also best for breeding.

THE mixture recommended by an English authority, Mr. Fisher Hobbs, as an antidote to the turnip fly, consists of one bushel of fine coal ashes; one bushel of fresh lime, dry slaked; six pounds of sulphur, and ten pounds of soot. These are reduced to a fine powder, well mixed, and the mixture sprinkled on the turnip plants very early in the morning, before the dew has dried. The above quantity is sufficient for two acres.

THE National Live Stock Journal declines to place faith in the reports of bullocks that weigh "4,000 pounds and upward," nor does it deem that such increase would be desirable, even if possible. "The medium-sized bullock is not only the best beef, as a general rule, but is by far the most profitable. The big steers are always fed at a loss, unless the owner gets his money back by exhibitions, or some other means than the sale of the carcass."

THERE is great danger in turning stock on a grass-field on which plaster has been recently sown, or until the plaster has been taken up either by rain or heavy dews. At Roanoke, Virginia, some stock turned upon a field on the same day on which it was plastered all died in a few hours. There were no indications of "hoven," the stock being in good condition, and the sudden death was believed to be solely the effect of the sulphate of lime.

A RECENT English writer recommends a mixture of the following grasses and clovers for meadows, which list may be useful to American readers: Meadow foxtail, sweet vernal, crested dogtail, rough cocksfoot, hard fescue, meadow fescue, various-leaved fescue, sheep's fescue, red fescue, evergreen rye-grass, Sutton's perennial rye-grass, Pacey's perennial rye-grass, timothy, smooth-stalked meadow-grass, rough-stalked meadow-grass, yellow trefoil, perennial white clover, perennial red clover, Alsike clover.

D. B. WHEELOCK, of Barre, Vt., says that he tried a series of experiments to test the comparative value of beets and potatoes. He fed four cows each one peck of beets daily, and accurately weighing the milk, found it to increase 13 per cent. Four others, fed on an equal amount of potatoes, increased only 8 per cent. At the end of two weeks the feeding and cows were reversed. Those formerly fed with beets shrank two per cent. on potatoes; and those previously fed on potatoes increased six per cent. on beets. He has successfully fed hogs wholly on beets in winter.—Country Gentleman.

THE Practical Farmer says: "It is well settled, in the opinion of all our best dairymen, that bran greatly promotes the milk secretions in cows, and it is fed almost universally. About equally mixed with corn meal is the usual proportion. This mixture seems to promote both quantity and quality of milk. Hungarian grass is also found for milch cows to be rather superior to the ordinary run of hay. The last year or two Hungarian grass has loomed up wonderfully in the estimation of our dairy farmers, and a very large scope of land will be sowed with it the coming season. It matures for cutting in about sixty days, and produces two to four tons per acre—the latter, of course, on good soils. Three pecks to the acre is the usual allowance of seed.

About the House.

A GOOD way to take ink out of linen is to immerse the part that has ink on it in boiling hot tallow; when cool, wash out in soapsuds and the linen will be as white as ever.

WASH floor cloths in clear, warm water, then go over them again with a wash composed of an egg well beaten, and mixed with a pint of clear, warm water. This will give them a newness which will be quite lasting.

BY rubbing metallic surfaces with soda amalgam, and pouring on a solution of chloride of gold, gold is taken up by the amalgam; and it is only necessary to drive off the mercury by heat, to obtain a gilded surface that will bear polishing.

MINUTE SPONGE CAKE.—Beat 6 eggs two minutes, add 3 cups sugar, beat five minutes; add 2 cups flour, with 2 teaspoons of cream tartar, beat one minute; add cup of cold water and 1 teaspoon soda, beat one minute; add 4 cups flour, juice and rind of one lemon and a pinch of salt.

GRAHAM BREAD.—One coffee-cup flour, 2 coffee-cups Graham flour, 1 cup warm water, ½ coffee-cup yeast, a little molasses, a teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon soda dissolved in water; make as stiff as it can be stirred with a spoon; let it rise over night, and bake about an hour in a moderate oven. This quantity makes one loaf.

AN excellent furniture polish is made of ten cents' worth of beeswax placed in a tin cup and melted in a hot oven. Into this pour two ounces of turpentine and let stand to cool. Apply it briskly to the furniture with a woolen rag, and give it a finishing rub with an old silk handkerchief. This polish is almost equal to a coat of varnish.

CHOCOLATE PASTE.—One cup milk boiled, and when boiling stir in it 2 tablespoons corn starch dissolved in ½ cup cold water; then add 2 ozs. Baker's flavored chocolate grated, the yolk of 1 egg beaten, 1½ teaspoons vanilla; stir this over the fire, and when a little cold add 1 cup powdered sugar. This will make a thick paste to spread between the layers of cake.

ROLLED VEAL.—Bone a loin of veal and stuff it with forcemeat made of bacon, bread crumbs and eggs, and flavored with lemon peel, sweet herbs, salt, cayenne, and pounded mace. Tie it up, keeping it the shape of a large sausage; lay some slices of fat bacon on it, and stew gently for four hours in well-flavored stock. Let it cool; remove from the stock, and put it under heavy weights till quite cold. Glaze it, garnish the dish with thin slices of Lyons sausages and small pieces of savory jelly placed alternately.

Dueling.

There was a French regiment, says the London World, in which dueling was all the rage. The officers were always fighting each other, or getting up little affairs with the officers of other regiments. At last, the War Office wearied out of patience, changed the commanding officer. A Colonel was sent down who would be sure to stamp out such nonsense. A few days after his arrival two of the officers came to ask his permission to go out and fight. To the amazement of everybody he gave his consent; the officers went forth to fight, they slightly wounded each other, and "honor was satisfied," as the phrase goes upon these occasions. They were no sooner recovered than they received an order to wait upon the Colonel. "You have to go out and fight again to-morrow," he said; and as they looked at him with questioning astonishment, he explained: "When officers fight in the regiment I have the honor to command, they kill. Go!" The officers went out again, and this time made right good holes in each other, which it took them six months to heal. The story is very horrible. They were sent out again and again, at last they killed each other; but henceforth forever in that regiment, and a good many besides, there was an end to dueling. The fate of the young men who were sacrificed to bring about such a result was sad, but they brought it on themselves, inasmuch as being fully aware that this Colonel was sent to repress dueling, they chose almost on his arrival to demand that he should stultify himself and permit them to have their way. It is, we have said, only on the condition of the duel being thoroughly in earnest and a fight to the death that its has a vrai, raison d'etre in modern society; and the history of this French regiment proves that it flourishes in these modern days chiefly on the credit of being innocuous. When the duel comes really to mean death, and not merely an exchange of shots, it must be an event of the rarest occurrence in refined society. We shall not undertake to kill each other without the most irresistible reasons; and if we can settle our bargains without killing, we may laugh at the code of honor which insist on pistols. There is a comical story told of two Americans who settled their quarrel in a fashion which would have made the hair on a Parisian fencing-master bristle with horror, but which, nevertheless, had an inspiration of common sense in it. They were both in love with the same lady, and it became necessary to their feelings that they should fight for possession of her. One of the two must clearly be put out of the way. Yet why should they kill each other? They bore each other no malice; each would be glad that the other should speed with some other fair one; they only insisted upon being left in sole possession of the lady in dispute. The question resolved itself to an issue—which was the better shot? And they determined to settle this question by shooting, not at each other, but at a tree. The tree was shot at; the inferior marksman perforce admitted that he would have been annihilated by his rival, and agreed to vanish, not by giving up the ghost, but by leaving the country. Here were all the results of a duel obtained without its mock heroics, and without more tragedy than belongs to all renunciation.

Auction Sale of Express Parcels.

One of the most stirring occasions in the routine of express duties is the sale by auction of the "old hoss," or unclaimed freight which accumulates from time to time. When every possible method to find the owners has been tried and has failed, an auctioneer is called in and the articles are sold to defray expenses. No package is allowed to be opened or examined until has been purchased, and a spirit of speculation is thus excited in those who assemble. Small, carefully sealed packages bring the highest prices, on the supposition that they may contain jewelry. An avaricious old customer once paid ten dollars for a neat little brown parcel sealed with evident care at each end. It contained a hundred or more rejected "addresses" from a swain to "the fair sun of all her sex." Another similar parcel was knocked down to a bidder for $8, and was found to contain a set of false teeth. Patent medicines, whisky (a still more patent medicine), toys, old clothes, surgical instruments, disinfectants, preserved animals, old magazines, false hair, and many stranger things, are usually found among the "old hoss" packages. It may be assumed that most of them are of small value, as we have said, inasmuch as either the sender or the consignee of valuables would take care to have a thorough search made for any valuable property.—Harper's Magazine.

Department of Agriculture Report for 1874.

Through the courtesy of J. R. Dodge, the able statistician of the Department of Agriculture, we have advance sheets of a portion of the Department Report for 1874. We give the product, acreage and value of the leading farm crops of the United States in 1874:

CROP OF 1874.

	Bushels.	Acres.	Values.
Corn	850,148,500	41,036,918	$550,043,070
Wheat	308,102,700	24,967,027	291,107,895
Rye	14,990,900	1,116,716	12,870,411
Oats	240,369,000	10,897,412	125,047,530
Barley	32,552,500	1,580,626	[illegible]
Buckwheat	8,016,600	452,590	5,477,893
Potatoes	105,981,000	1,310,041	[illegible]
Tobacco (lbs)	178,355,000	351,402	33,362,765
Hay (tons)	25,133,900	21,769,772	331,420,738

The product of corn, wheat, rye, oats, barley, buckwheat, and potatoes, was 1,561,160,200 bushels, 81,361,230 acres, and the value $1,087,353,900. The average yield per acre of the different crops was: Corn, 20.8; wheat, 12.3; rye, 13.4; oats, 22.0; barley, 20.6; buckwheat, 17.7; potatoes, 80.9 bushels; tobacco, 633.2 pounds; hay, 1.11 tons.—Western Rural.

A New Store

With an entire new stock of

BOOTS & SHOES,

New STYLES of all kinds at the LOWEST PRICES at

J. E. WOODFORD'S

I have located at Auburn with a fine stock of BOOTS and SHOES, which will be sold at the Lowest Figures for Cash!

My Facilities for making and those favoring me— certain of getting the best material. CUSTOM WORK are not excelled anywhere —with their orders may be
W. W. HUMES, Foreman.

To the trade, great inducements are offered in Leather, Findings, &c. Please call and examine my stock before purchasing.

The Pioneer

HARDWARE

Emporium!

Now full to overflowing with an Immense stock of

HEAVY AND SHELF

Hardware, Cutlery, Tin Ware.

I would call special attention to my depapt ment of

HARDWARE,
FURNISHING &
BUIDERS STOCK,

in which will be found everything at the very

LOWEST PRICES,

Such as:—

OILS, PAINTS,
GLASS,
NAILS,
SASH.
DOORS, ETC

—A FIST-CLASS—

Tin-Shop,

n connection with the Hardware Store, with a skillful foreman. All kinds of Tin-ware manufactured and repaired on short notice.

JOHN L. DAVIS,

CARPETS,

FOR 1875.

Are offered at prices lower than have prevailed for many years. Our stock of all grades is large, well selected and we invite inspection. We have added to our stock and the line is unusally fair.

Wall Paper

Terrys,
Reps,
Gimps,
Fringes and a general line of Upholstery Goods with Shades,
Lace Curtains,
Oil Cloths,
and Mattings
in great variety. The manufacture of Lambrequins a specialty.

ELLSWORTH, ANDREW & CO,

26 East Berry street;

Sure to Please the Ladies.

CATLIN'S SAD IRON HEATER!

PRICE $1.25.

SAVES one half the fuel, and makes comfort for Ladies while ironing in warm weather. Agents wanted everywhere. Send stamp for terms—
Address, VAN ALSTINE & CATLIN,
Sharon, Wis.

Ho, for Chicago.

Grand Excursion

Over the Baltimore & Ohio,

AUGUST 5th, 1875

A Grand Basket Pic-nic in Lincoln Park.

It is also proposed to visit the principal places of interest in the city.—Conveyance by Steamer or Street Car to and from the Park at all times.—Round trip tickets may be had at the follow rates of fare:

Auburn	$3.00	Garrett	$2.85
Avilla	2.65	Albion	2.50

Trains will leave the different stations as follows:

Auburn	4:00 am	Garrett	4:10 am
Avilla	4:27 "	Albion	4:57 am
Chicago ar	11:27 "

and return leaving Chicago at 9 pm. Proceeds to be applied to building M. E. Church at Albion.

AUBURN LIVERY

—AND—

SALE STABLE!

Ryan & Mader, pro's

Having on hand everything in the line of

Carriages, Buggies, Wagons, etc

y are prepared to furnish rigs at all times a nable prices. Stable east of Court House.

South Main Street

re now in full running order and all orders fo

WAGONS BUGGIES &c.

promptly attended to Special care taken in getting the best Seasoned Timber. Our prices are ery reasonable and we solicit the public to give a call and ascertain our prices.

Pittsburg, Baltimore & Ohio R.R

IS COMING.

Therefore buy your

Dry Goods,

Notions, etc., of

CHARLES KLOTZ

AT HIS

Old Stand

ON MAN STREET,

Opposite Court Square

AUBURN, INDIANA

Where he may be found at all times ready to accommodate customers, and sell them such good as they may need,

CLOTHING

Of all descriptions, and

HANDSOME SUITS

Made to Order!

TELEGRAPH INSTITUTE.

"CHOOSE YOUR VOCATION AND HONOR IT."

The Independent Telegragh Institute, located in Auburn Dekalb Co. Ind., are offering the best opportunity of learning Telegraphy Railroad business and Phonographical writing ever offered to the public. Tuition very low and good boarding furnished Students for $3,50 to $3.75 per week, and situations furnished students as soon as they are capable of taking charge of a Telegraph office. Wages from $40 to $100 dollars per month. For further information address, Independent Telegraph Institute, Lock Box 76, Auburn Indiana.

OFFICERS.

J. E. SHREVE, Superintendent.
Prof. S. S. Shaner Principal Instructor R R. Dep't.
Dr. L. Sanders Instructor Phonographical Writer.

C. P. Houser, & Co.,

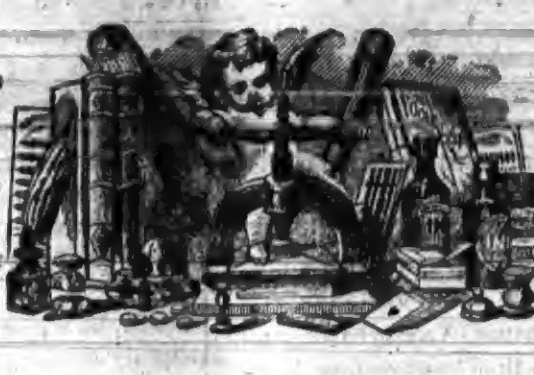
—Dealer In—

BOOKS AND STATIONERY

BEST

Window Paper

HOLLAND'S and Oil Shades always on hand and CHEAP for CASH.



PICTURES,

FRAMES,

CORD, and TASSELS, Curtain and Window Fx'trs the Best in the Market.

—The Largest and finest assortment of—

WALL PAPER

EVER BROUGHT TO THIS MARKET.

Their store is located in Ensley's new brick block North of the Court House, AUBURN, INDIANA.

THE OLD RELIABLE.

F. E. DAVENPORT,

Corner Main and Eighth-Sts.,

—DEALER IN—

Pure Drugs and Medicines,

DYE STUFFS, PERFUMERY,

Toilet Soaps Cosmetics, Hair Oils, Brushes, Combs. Toilet Mirrors and Druggists' Sundries in General.

BOOKS AND STATIONERY!

Wall and Window Paper!

Oiled, Linen and Slat Window Shades, and Shade Fixtures.

All the latest POEMS and MISSELANIOUS BOOKS constantly on hand or ordered. Blank Books, Pocket Memorandas, Portmonies and Bill Books, WRITING PAPERS. All Styles and prices ALBUMS! ALBUMS! ALBUMS just received for the Holliday trade

Over $300.00 worth of Juvenile and Toy Books, which will be sold at panic prices, Smith's Gold Pens, warranted the best. Also steel Pens, Penholders, Pencils, Ink and Ink Stands &c.

SCHOOL BOOKS

Covered with best Cover ever invented Free Of Charge

Dav exclusive right to use this book cover in Auburn, and will give the benefit of the same

---

GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICES AT

ABRICHT'S

In American & Swiss Watches,

TOYS

FANCY GOODS,

and everything kept in a first class jewelry establishm'nt It will pay you to call and be convinced that I am selling goods cheaper than any firm in Northern Indiana.

J. Abright.

Repairing fine Watches a Specialty

Ladies Gold Watches,

Jewelry,

Clocks, Silver Ware!

GOLD PENS,

Ladies GOLD Chains,

Gents Chains,

Gold and Silver Rings,

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS,

B. W. Raymond
Elgin Ill.

V. A BEARD

Grocer in Auburn, North of Court House on Seventh Street,

DEALER IN

GROCERIES and PROVISIONS

TEAS, COFFEES, SUGARS, SALT FISH,

Flour and Feed, Tubs Pails, Buckets, Sugars Boxes, Etc. A large variet

TOBACCOS AND CIGARS,

Confectioneries of all kinds, and Fancy Notions, Cove Oysters, &c. A speciality in Green and Dried Fruits, and Canned Fruits. Goods delivered inside the corporation.

RAILROADS.

Indianapolis Peru & Chicago R. R.

TIME TABLE No. 12—Dec. 20, 1874.

Northward.

Stations.	No. 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Indianapolis	6 30a	12 25p	3 55p	12 20
Noblesville	7 44	12 29	5 10	1 30
Tipton	8 30	1 13	5 57	2 15
Miami	9 37	1 50	6 38	2 58
Kokomo	9 12	2 26	7 04
Peru	10 06	3 15	7 40

Southward.

	No. 2	No. 4	No. 6
Indianapolis	6 00p	[illegible]	[illegible]
Noblesville	4 47	3 13	5 34
Tipton	3 56	2 28	7 44
Kokomo	4 13	1 50	7 02
Miami	2 46	1 16	6 35
Peru	2 10	12 50	6 00

R. O. MURPHY, Supt. Mich. Div,
R. M. HAWLEY, Master of Tran.
C. B. ROBINSON, General Sup't,
F. P. WADE, Gen. Ticket Agt.

Lake Shore & Mich. SouthernR.R

Air Line Division

ON and after Sunday, Nov. 15, 1874 Passenger Trains will leave Waterloo City and other Stations as follows, daily except Sundays.

GOING WEST.

	Special Ex.	Pacific Ex.	Accom'd'n
Butler	2:40 p m.	2:36 a m.	2:30 p m
Waterloo	2:56 "	2:53 "	3:10 "
Sedan	3,05	3,00	3,30 "
Corunna	3,10	3,06	3,35 "

GOING EAST.

Corunna	2.15 pm	11,30 pm	6:50 p m
Sedan	2.20	11.36	7:02 "
Waterloo	2:28 "	11:44 "	7:11 "
Butler	2:40 "	x12:00 a m	7:35 "

CHAS. PAINE, Gen. Supt.
J. W. CARY, Gen Tic. Agt
J. E. CURTIS, Division Su.

Ft. Wayne, Muncie & Cin R. R.

Time Table to take effect May 23, 1875.

Going South.

Fort Wayne	1 15 pm	2 00a.m	5 25pm
Ossian	2 02		6 42
Bluffton	2 34	3 10	7 17
Keystone	3 02		7 37
Montpelier	3 12	3 41	8 08
Hartford	3 35pm	4 05	8 30
Eaton	4 02		9 05
Muncie	4 27	4 47	9 45
McCowan's	4 58	5 05
New Castle	5 30	5 40
Cam. City	6 01	6 11
Beesons	6 22	6 27
Connersville	6 35	6 40
Indianapolis	6 30	6 50
Louisville	11 10	12 45pm
Cincinnati	10 30	9 40

Going North.

Cincinnati	7 30am	1 20pm
Louisville		[illegible] 40	7 00pm
Indianapolis		7 25	4 30am
Connersville	10 32	7 35
Beesons	10 45	7 52
Cam City	11 04	8 12
New Castle	11 40	8 55
McCowans	12 15pm
Muncie	12 32	9 55	6 50am
Eaton	1 02	10 28	7 29
Hartford	1 24	10 50	7 54
Montpelier	1 49	11 17	8 32
Keystone	1 58		8 36
Bluffton	2 30	11 58	9 15
Ossian	2 59	11 28am	9 52
Ft. Wayne	3 45	1 16	11 00

W. W. WORTHINGTON, Supt.
ROBT. BILLIE, Gen'l Ticket Agt.

Ft. Wayne, Jackson & Sag. R. R

Short Line between

Michigan and the South.

Time card in effect May 23d—run by Chicago time.

Going North.

Stations	Mail	Accom.	Jack. Acm
Cincinnati		7 30
Louisville	7 00pm
Indianapolis	4 25am
Ft Wayne	10 45	4 35
Auburn	11 40	6 07
Waterloo	11 56	6 37
Summit		7 45
Pleasant Lake
Ar. Angola	12 5	8 00	8 00 a
Reading	1 7		7 32
Bankers	1 12		7 52
Jonesville	1 30		8 20
Jackson	3 40		10 10
Detroit	6 30p m		2 05p
Grand Rapids	9 30
Lansing	5 47
Saginaw	9 05
Bay City	9 55

Going South.

Bay City	6 40 a m			2 45p
Saginaw	7 30			3 38
Lansing	10 40			9 55
Grand Rapids	7 30			12 00
Detroit	9 50			8 40
Jackson Dep	12 40			9 30
Jonesville	1 55			10 30
Bankers	2 12			10 47
Reading	2 26			11 00
Ar Angola	3 26		6 15	11 55
Pleasant Lake			6 26
Waterloo	4 05		7 55	12 33a
Auburn	4 20		9 25	12 49
Auburn Junction			8 30
Fort Wayne, Arrive	5 15		11 10	1 40
Indianapolis			10 30	6 50
Louisville				12 45p
Cincinnati				9 40a

P. B. LOOMIS, Pres't
S. K. HOOPER Gen. Ticket Ag't.

DETOIT, EEL RIVER & ILLINOIS Rail Road.

Short Line between Auburn and the East and West.

Trains run on Cleveland time. Through trains will run on the following time, in effect Sunday June 20th, 1875.

Going East. No. 7 Thro'	No. 5 Frei't	Mail	STATIONS	Going West. Mail	No. 6 W. F	No. 8 Local
3.40p	7.00a	10.50	lv Logansp't ar	5.15p	7.25p	12.10p
4.08	7.30	11.08	Adamsboro.	5.55	7.00	11.43
4.30	7.55	11.23	Hoover's	5.41	6.30	11.26
4.50	8.25	11.32	Mexico	5.31	6.25	10.55
6.00	9.30	11.45	Denver.	5.20	6.00	10.25
					5.10	10.50
6.15	9.50	12.15	Chili	5.13	4.55	9.05
6.46	10.40	12.31	Roann	4.57	4.25	9.20
7.14	11.20	12.47	Laketon	4.40	3.30	8.48
7.40	12.10	12.57	N. Manchest'r	4.29	3.25	8.40
8.00	1.10p	1.06	Lib. Mills	4.19	2.40	8.10
8.25	1.40	1.16	Collamer	4.07	2.00	7.47
8.40	2.10	1.22	S. Whitley	4.02	1.50	7.40
9.05	2.35	1.33	Taylor's	3.50	12.30	7.20
9.50	2.57	1.47	Columbia city	3.38	12.05	7.00
10.15	4.10	2.03	Collin's	3.12	11.[illegible]	6.15
10.45	4.50	2.14	Churubusco	3.08	10.32	5.50
11.10	5.15	2.24	Potter's	2.57	9.53	5.20
11.30	5.35	2.32	G. R. Crossing	2.49	9.35	5.05
11.45	5.55	2.40	Cedar Creek	2.40	9.20	4.50
12.15	6.30	2.52	Aub. Juncti'n	2.28	8.50	4.20
12.30	7.00	2.58	Auburn	2.20	8.00	4.10
1.00	7.30	3.15	Mooresville	2.02	6.57	3.35
1.25a	7.55	3.25p	ar. Butler lv.	1.50	6.25	6.25

CONNECTIONS—At Logansport with Pittsburgh, Cincinnati & St Louis, Logansport, Crawfordsville & Southwestern and Toledo, Wabash & Western R. R's. At Denver with Indianapolis, Peru & Chicago Railway, for Rochester, Plymouth, LaPorte, Michigan City, Peru, Kokomo and Indianapolis At N. Manchester with Cincinnati, Wabash & Mich R'y. At Columbia City with Pittsburg, Ft. W. & Chicago, for Ft Wayne Lima, Crestline and Pittsburg. At Grand Rapids crossing with Grand Rapids R'y. At Auburn Junction with Ft. Wayne Jackson & Saginaw, for Angola, Jackson and Saginaw R'y, for Butler with Lake Shore & Mich. Southern Co. Toledo, Detroit and all eastern cities.

J. A. HUGHSTON, Gen. Ticket Agt.
A. B. SOUTHARD, Gen. Supt.

THE STAR WELL AND PROSPECTING AUGER.

THE BEST IN THE WORLD!

Mr. LEVI BROWN, living two miles south of Corunna, has purchased the right of this celebrated Auger, and is now prepared to put in wells. Everything is warranted and satisfaction guaranteed.

LEVI BROWN.

Pittsburg, Ft. W. & C. R. R.

Condensed time card, May 23, 1875.

GOING WEST.

	No. 1 Fast ex.	No. 5 Mail.	No. 7 Pac. ex.	No. 3 Night ex
Pittsburgh	2 00 a.m	....	9 00 a.m	2 00 p.m
Rochester	3 09 "	....	9 22 "	3 13 "
Alliance	5 53 "	....	12 30 p.m	5 54 "
Orrville	7 19 "	....	2 25 "	7 31 "
Mansfield	9 07 "	....	4 40 "	9 26 "
Crestl'e ar.	9 40 "	....	5 15 "	9 55 "
" lv.	10 00 "	6 50 a.m	5 35 p.m	11 00 "
Forest	11 18 "	8 00 "	7 27 "	11 34 "
Lima	12 20 p.m	8 10 "	8 45 "	12 27 a.m
Ft. Wayne	2 40 "	11 20 "	11 35 "	2 55 "
Plymouth	4 40 "	2 25 p.m	2 35 a.m	5 25 "
Chicago	7 50 "	6 30 "	6 30 "	8 50 "

GOING EAST.

	No. 4 Night ex	No. 2 Fast ex.	No. 6 Pac. ex.	No. 8 Mail.
Chicago	9 20 p.m	9 20 a.m	5 35 p.m	5 15 a.m
Plymouth	12 50 a.m	12 10 p.m	9 00 "	9 20 "
Ft. Wayne	3 50 "	2 45 "	11 45 "	12 20 p.m
Lima	6 15 "	4 35 "	1 55 a.m	2 40 "
Forest	7 36 "	5 34 "	3 01 "	3 56 "
Crestl'e ar.	9 30 "	6 55 "	4 40 "	5 35 "
" lv.	9 40 "	7 15 "	4 50 "	....
Mansfield	10 20 "	7 43 "	5 20 "	....
Orrville	12 35 p.m	9 33 "	7 10 "	....
Alliance	2 35 "	11 10 "	9 00 "	....
Rochester	5 30 "	1 07 a.m	11 12 "	....
Chicago	6 55 "	2 10 "	12 15 p.m	....

No. 1, daily, except Monday, Nos. 2, 4, 5, 7 and 8, daily except Sunday, Nos. 3 and 6 daily.

F. R. MYERS,
General Pass. and Ticket Agent.

BALTIMORE & OHIO R. R

FROM 135 TO 6 MILES

The shortest route from the West to

Washington, Baltimore

AND THE EAST.

CONDENSED TIME TABLE, THRO' TRAINS

VIA PARKERSBURG, Dec. 13, '74	Express	Fast Express.	St. Louis Ex.
Lve. Cincinnati	9 00‡ am	†4 30 p m	‡11 10pm
Arr. Chillicoth	12 55d n'n	s7 40	3 00 am
" Portsmouth	5 35 p m		11 10
" Marietta	5 56	12 05 n't	7 22
" Parkersburg	5 25 s	1 30	b8 50
Arr. Grafton	9 45	3 40 a m	11 10
" Cumberland	2 00 a m	s7 40	p3 30
" Martinsburg	4 55	10 15	6 10
" Harper's F'y	5 19 a m	10 54	6 51
" Staunton		5 15 p m
" Washington	7 15	12 40 n'n	8 50
" Richmond		10 30p m	4 50 am
" Baltimore	‡9 05 a m	1 50 a m	10 20‡pm
" Philadelphia	1 20 p m	6 50 p m	2 35 am
" New York	‡5 10	10 22	†6 15
" Boston.	5 50 a m		4 50 pm

VIA BELLAIRE—Dec 13, 1874	Express	Fast Express.	Fast Line
Lve. Cincinnati (via Dayton S. L.)	6 30 a m		‡3 50 p m
" Cincinnati (via P. C. & St. L.)	†7 00		†7 10 p m
" Columbus	11 35	4 00‡p m	12 20†
Arr. Newark	1 00 p m	5 25	1 45 a m
" Zanesville	2 10	8 55	2 57
" Bellaire	5 20	12 55	6 50
" Wheeling	6 45 p m	12 30 ngt	8 00
" Grafton	9 35	3 35 a m	11 05
" Cumberland	2 00 a m	7 40	p3 30 pm
" Martinsburg	4 55	10 15	6 10
" Harper's F'y	5 19 a m	10 54	6 51
" Washington	7 15	12 40 n'n	8 50
" Richmond		10 30 p m	4 50 a m
" Baltimore	9 05	1 50†	10 20†pm
" Philadelphia	1 20 p m	6 50	2 35 a m
" New York	5 10	10 22†	†6 15
" Boston	4 50 a m		4 50 p m

b—Breakfast. d—Dinner. S—Supper. †Daily ‡Daily ex. Sunday. §Daily ex. Monday.

PULMAN PALACE SLEEPING CARS

from Louisville, St. Louis, Cincinnati and Columbus, to

WASHINGTON AND BALTIMORE!

—AND—

PHILADELPHIA

WITHOUT CHANGE.

Through Tickets, and further information can be obtained at all principal Ticket Offices throughout the West and South West.

THOS. P. BARRY, West. pass agt., Cin.
L. M. COLE, Gen'l ticket agt., Bal. Md.
THOS. R. SHARP, Mas. of Tran.

J. G. FLEDDERMAN,

No. 27, East Main-St.

FORT WAYNE, IND'A

Has the larfiest and fines stock of

CLOTHS, COATINGS, CHEVIOTS,

—AND—

CassimereS

in Ft. Wayne. The finest line of

Made up Clothing!

ever shown in Fort Wayne

Youths' and Children's Clothing!

Furnishing Goods, &c.

Mrchant Tailoring.

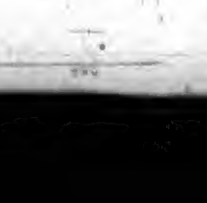
All work done in all the latest styles, promtly attended to. Go and see his largest stock of G

☞ MANY New and Choice Goods on sale at Bond's Novelty Store, 21 West Main-st., Fort Wayne, Indiana. New goods arriving daily. Special bargains in

Table Linen,

Corsets, Gloves, Hosiery; Muslins, Flannels, White Goods, Ladies Ties, Handkerchiefs, Portmonies and many goods not kept elsewhere. Large four-story stone front building, 21 West Main-st., Fort Wayne, Ind.

THE PHŒNIX TILE MACHINE.



[illegible]

CHANDLER & TAYLOR
Indianapolis, Ind.

Recorder's Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Devoted to the Interests of the Democratic Party and to the Collection of Local and General News.

Volume 5. AUBURN, DeKALB COUNTY INDIANA, AUG. 5th, 1875. Number 30.

The Auburn Weekly Courier

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY, BY

TOM. C. MAYS.

One Year,........$2. | Six Months,.......$1.

Advertising Rates.

Space.	1m.	3m.	6m.	1y.
One Square......	2 50	5 00	7 00	12 00
¼ Column........	6 00	12 00	18 00	30 00
½ Column........	10 00	18 00	30 00	50 00
One Column......	15 00	30 00	50 00	100 00

Legal Notices 10 cents per line, first insertion, 5 cents each insertion thereafter. Business cards Five Dollars.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

ROSE & HARTMAN,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW. Have complete abstracts of the records of DeKalb County. Office in Case's Block, Auburn, Indiana.

H. C. PETERSON,

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public. Office over Davis' hardware store, Auburn, Ind.

WOODHULL and CROXTON,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW Angola, Indiana. Practice in Steuben and DeKalb Counties.

RICKEL & TEFFT.

ATTORNEYS AT LAW, Auburn, Ind. Office in the Court House.

J. W. RICKEL, R. DEXTE TEFFT.

A. F. PINCHIN

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public, Butler, DeKalb Co., Ind. Insurance and real estate business promptly attended to.

McBRIDE and MORLAN

ATTORNEYS AT LAW, Waterloo, Indiana. Will practice in any of the courts of the State. Office over O. T. Clark's Dry Goods store.

GUY PLUM,

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public. Office in the Court House. Special attention paid to the collection of claims. Also agent for Home Insurance Company.

CHAS. A. O. McCLELLAN.

ATTORNEY AT LAW, Waterloo, Indiana. Will practice in the Courts of DeKalb and Steuben counties. Liberal Advances Made on all First-class Claims left in my hands for collection.

COURTS IN STEUBEN CO.	COURTS IN DEKALB CO.
1st Monday in February	3rd Monday in Feb.
4th Monday in April	2nd Monday in May
1st Monday in September	3rd Monday in Sep.
4th Monday in November	2nd Monday in Dec

PHYSICIANS.

DR. J. A. COWAN,

PHYSICIAN & SURGEON, Auburn, Ind. Office on Main street, over Central Grocery.

W. S. ALLEN.

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON, Office over McQuiston's store. Cool's Block, North of Court House.

J. J. LITTLEFIELD,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON. Office over Miller and Casebeer's Store, Auburn, Indiana.

DR. L. SANDERS,

ECLECTIC PHYSICIAN & SURGEON will attend to all calls in the time of his profession. Gives special attention to the treatment of all forms of chronic and surgical disease. Will also treat all diseases of women and children at his dispensary, up 1st stairs east of postoffice. As he had a 11 years of successful practice, he feels confident of his share of patronage. Office open every day of the week.

DR. J. M. SHUTT.

ELECTIC PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON, will attend to all calls belonging to the medical profession, promptly. Possessing al the benefits that can be derived from forty-two years experience, of one of the most active and successful Physicians in the western part of Ohio, and several years of personal experience enables me to treat all famous of diseases with the best of success, "without the use of calomel. My medicians are purely vegetable, and therefore, I am able to treat all kinds of diseases without producing any bad effect, upon the nervous system," and will break the worst case of ague, without the use of quinine. No matter what your disease is, give me a call, for I am prepared to handle all, at my office on fifth street, between Main and Cedar Auburn Indiana.

HOTELS.

SWINEFORD HOUSE.

CORNER MAIN AND NINTH STREETS, opposite the Court House. S. C. SWINEFORD, Pro.

AVELINE HOUSE,

MILLER & MORITZ, Prop's., corner Calhoun & Berry Sts., Fort Wayne, Ind.

AMERICAN HOUSE

AT FORT WAYNE, only $2 a day. Good accommodations for traveling men.

C. B. OAKLEY, Prop'r.

WOOD'S HOTELL.

NOS. 34 & 36 EAST WASHINGTON STREET, opp Field, Leiter, & Co's retail dry goods store; and adjoining D. B. Fisk's wholesale millinery store, between State street & Wabash Avenue, Chicago. O SANDS, Prop'r.

$2.00 per day. GEO. S. PALMER, Clerk.

MISCELLANEOUS.

H. Wartenslaben

PAINTER and paper hanger. House painting a specialty. Residence corner Williams and Cedar street.

Medical Society.

OF DeKALB COUNTY, meets at Auburn, Ind., the 2nd Tuesday in each month.

J. H. FORD, Pres't.

J. A. COWAN, Sec'y.

Joseph H. Stophlet.

ARCHITECT. Office over No. 17 Court street 1st door north of Empire Line office, Ft. Wayne, Ind. Drawings and specifications furnished for all classes of buildings, at reasonable rates.

PRINTING.

COURIER OFFICE.

JOB PRINTING neatly executed. Fine work a specialty. Office in Odd Fellows' Building 2nd floor.

John M. Miller,

Manufacturer and Dealer in

FINE FURNITURE,

CHAIRS

Husk & Hair Matrasses

50 and 52 East Main Street,

FORT WAYNE, IND.

Thomas Baldock

Building Contractor

AUBURN INDIANA.

will be ready at all times with an experience corps of workmen to erect Houses, Barns, and d carpenter and joiner work of all kinds at reasonable rates.

Hoosier Drain Tile!

ONE OF THE BEST INVENTIONS IN THE WORLD.

LANHAM & HOSE have now on hand some of the above Tile, which they are selling at a very low figure. We offer

Four Inch Sizes at 50 cts. per Rod.

Six " " " 75 " " "

Every person who intend to put in tile should xamine this article.. A sample can be seen at this office. LANHAM & HOSE, v6n11 Auburn, Indiana.

J. J. VanAuken,

COUNTY SURVEYOR.

Will attend promptly to all surveying. Office with Rose & Hartman, Auburn Indiana. Persons requesting work by letter, should give township andsection.

THE PHŒNIX TILE MACHINE.

It is well adapted to the wants of Tile Makers. It is usually driven by the power of two horses. It delivers tile at the two opposite ends of the machine. It may be converted into a single delivery machine. [illegible] It makes from 300 to 700 rods of tile per day. It is fully warranted. It may readily be adapted to Steam Power. The dies are finished with much care. [illegible]

SEND FOR CIRCULARS.

CHANDLER & TAYLOR

Patentees and Manufacturers, Indianapolis, Ind.

JAS. CLIFFORD,

WATERLOO, IND.

Keeps constantly on hand the best and choicest brands of all kinds of

Wines and Liquors,

Cigars, Tobaccos, &c.

He also has, in connection with the above a first-class

BILLIARD HALL.

To our citizens and the traveling public, we would say that this is the populor resort at Waterloo. First door south of the railroad.

BAKER BROS.

PROPRIETORS OF Auburn Bakery!

AND

EATING HOUSE

Fresh baked Pies, Cakes etc., always on hand. Good lunches served at all hours.

BAKER BROS.

AUBURN

Meat Market.

Main St. Next door to Klotz's.

MICH HOUSTON

PROPRIETOR.

Having fitted up my establishment in first class style, with increased facilities, I am now prepared to furnish Fresh Meats in the best of order at reasonable rates. Give me call.

A NEW PLACE

TO GET A

Nobby Suit!

TOM WILLIAMS,

The champion cutter of Fort Wayne formerly with M. E. Woodward, is now going it alone, and can be found at No. 21 Calhoun street with Mr. A. Foster, where he will be pleased to see all his old friends, and a list of new ones. If you want a nice nobby suit made to fit you, you will find him the an.

NOTICE.

STATE OF INDIANA, } Set.
DeKalb County }

In the DeKalb Circuit Court, September term, 1875.

George Shutt,
versus
David W. Comer,
Hiram P. Housel,
Mrs Hiram P. Housel
Alonzo Lockwood.
} Complaint No. 106.

Now comes the plaintiff, by Penfield & Moody, his attorneys and files his complaint herein, together with an affidavit that the residence of said defendant, David W. Comer is unknown.

Notice is, therefore, hereby given said defendant that unless he be and appear on the first day of the next term of the DeKalb circuit court, to be holden on the 4th Monday of September a. d. 1875, at the court house in Auburn, in said county and State, and answer or demur to said complaint, the same will be heard and determined in his absence.

Witness, My name and the seal of said court affixed at Auburn, this 13th day of July 1875.

July 15 J. R. LANNING, Clerk.

A FIGHT FOR SUPREMACY.

An Authentic Incident of Travel in the Southwest.

Vicksburg (Miss.) Herald.

A gentleman residing in this city had occasion a few days since to take a journey down the river and several miles back from it, using a saddle horse. Darkness overtook him in a sparsely settled district, and as the roads were in a bad condition and the evening looked threatening, he halted before a forlorn looking hut, and asked if could find lodging.

"I recken ye mought," replied the long-haired, sorrowful-eyed squatter, after hesitating a moment.

The Vicksburger found little to eat, and his horse found still less. The squatter and his wife were all alone and they had but a few words for the stranger, and scarcely spoke to each other. When the evening grew old the traveler camped down on the floor on a blanket, and being very tired he fell asleep, while the host and hostess were smoking their black clay pipes at the other end of the room. He had slept about two hours, when the squatter shook him by the shoulder and said:

"Stranger, I'm powerful sorry to disturb ye, but I want to ax a favor."

"Yes—yes—what is it?" inquired the Vicksburger, as he rubbed his eyes and set up.

"Ye like to see fa'r play, don't ye stranger?"

"Yes, of course."

"Wall, me'n the old woman can't agree; somehow she's cross and tetchy and I guess I'm tirfle ugly. Leastwise, we don't hug up worth old boots. We've fit and fit; I'm old and she chuck full o' grit, and its about an even thing."

"Well, I'm sorry," but in the Vicksburger, as the squatter hesitated.

"We've been a-balkin' since ye com, stranger, and we've made up to ask ye to hold the candle and to let us go in for an old rouser of a fight—a reg'lar old sockdologer, which shall settle our fuss! If I lick, she'll go; if she licks I'll travel!"

"I'm sorry if there is any trouble, and I hope you won't fight.

"We've got to do it, stranger. I won't live with a man who can lick me, and [illegible] as good as the run o' men, but he's lazy and sassy, and he wants to wear his hat on his ear."

"She's right, stranger, and this cabin can't hold both of us any longer. It's to be a square fight—no kicking or clubbing, and we won't go back on your decision."

The Vicksburger protested, but the woman placed a lighted candle in his hand, and posted him in the door, and man and wife stepped out upon the ground.

"Suke, I'm going to wallop ye right smart in just four hoots and a holler!" said the squatter, as he pushed up his sleeves.

"Sam, ye don't weigh 'nuff into three tones!" she replied in a grim voice, and the battle commenced.

The Vicksburger mentally bet twenty to one on the man at the start, and in two minutes he had reduced the odds to ten, and in two minuts more he was betting even. The wife was like a wild cat, springing, dodging, striking and clawing, and pretty soon her husband had to stand on the defensive.

"Look out for the Bengal tigar, Suke!" he warned as he clawed the air.

"I can whip the boots off'n ye Sam!" she replied and the battle grew fiercer.

One of the woman's sharp nails struck the husbands' eye and blinded him for an instant. As he threw up his arms she seized both her hands into his hair yanked him down and in another moment he had the "gouge" on him:

"Sam, do you cave?" she asked as they lay quiet.

"That's the dead word, Suke, and I'm a licked man!"

She let him up and he turned to the Vicksburger and inquired:

"Stranger was it a fa'r fought?"

"I guess it was."

"Then I travel!"

He entered the hut, put on his coat and hat, took up his rifle, and as he came out he reached his hand to his wife and said:

"Good-bye, Suke! We agreed fa'r and squar, and here I go!" Then turning to the traveler he added:

"Much obleeged, stranger—ye held the candle plumb fa'r and didn't holler for either one of us."

And he walked down to the fence leaped over and was soon lost to sight.

"Good 'nuff on the shoot, but his fighting weight is clar run down to nothin!"

The Democratic party in Ohio was never as well organized and ready for work as it is now. The people are with Democracy and are going to sweep away Radicalism elsewhere.

Child Killed by a Rooster.

Gadsden (Ala.) Times.

On Tuesday a child of Mr. A. Langley who lives two miles from town, while playing in the yard was attacked by a rooster and was knocked down and spurred several times in the face and head before the mother could rescue it. Dr. Ewing, who was called in, found that one stroke of the spur had penetrated the brain. The little sufferer—12 months old—lingered in great agony until Saturday morning, when death came to its relief. Dr. Ewing says that during a practice of over twenty years he never met with or heard of such a case before, and it is perhaps the first in the history of the world.

The temperance war has revived in Iowa, under the following circumstances. A little girl seven years old, daughter of R. T. Blair, of Harlan, Selby County, Iowa, was bit in the leg by a rattlesnake whild she was walking through a garden. The limb commenced swelling very rapidly, and the child was immediately dosed with whisky, and common soda was bound on the bite, and application being charged every half hour. The child recovered, and while the temperance men attributed her recovery to the soda the antis are loud in their vociferations that the whisky wrought the cure. The town is divided on the issue, and unless a third party shall come up which shall give the credit to the combination of the two remedies there is no telling where the war wili end.

The action of the ex-Confederate soldiers of St. Louis in adopting resolutions eulogistic of the late Frank P. Blair, jr., and attending his funeral, was at once graceful and just. The dead man was emphatically a brave man, and as such entitled especially to the homage of those against whom his courage was displayed.— [illegible] owed it to him more than any other man that St. Louis, and practically Missouri, were snatched from their grasp at a moment when their possession seemed assured and to promise momentous consequences, it was to him that they also owed their restoration to the rights and privileges of which Radical intolerance had striven to rob them. The honors that his former opponents and later allies have paid to his remains were specially appropriate at this time of reconciliation and forgetting of past antagonisms, but at at any time no more than just.

The Presidential circle has devised a fresh amusement to while away the hours at Long Branch. It takes the edge off of horse-racing, boating gambling and other innocent amusements. The President's son-in-law, Sartoris, brags of his muscle, not having anything else to brag of, excepting a baby. It appears the young man had been drinking pretty freely with a few friends and considerable discussion arose as to who was the best man. Growing somewhat heated by by wine and self conceit, a fight was gotten up between Sartoris and a young New York broker named Goiconria. An hour was appointed and the stable of Tom Murphy selected as the spot. From all accounts, the President, Tom Murphy, and five or six carriage loads of friends gathered in to see the young broker licked. But a few minutes settled the pugilistic hash of Sartoris. He got knocked down, pummeled, bled, stepped on and skinned unmercifully. Then the Presidential family withdrew their champion from the ring, sponged him down and returned to their cottage.

Mr. Samuel Grosh having purchased the interest of his partner, Mr. Tarney, in the Lower Flouring Mill, will here after conduct it alone. He is manufacturing a splendid brand of flour and keeps mill feed constantly on hand. Mr Grnish, is an experienced miller, will assist in turning out flour that cannot fail to suit everybody. tf

---

A gentleman of Jackson, Tenn., has preserved in alcohol, a bed-bug which was caught in a bed that General Jackson slept in.

How Pendleton Became a Rag Money Howler.

Chicago Times.

Gentleman George Pendleton informed the assembly Gallipolitans that when in congress he voted against the legal tender act, "believing the law unconstitutional, and the policy unwise." He believed the legal tender act unconstitutional when others thought in necessary in order to provide the means ot crushing the conspiracy against the life of the nation. But after the conspiracy had been crushed and when nobody any longer thought that legal tender paper was necessary for any purpose, then "Gentleman George" changed his mind and concluded that the authorization and emission of some fifteen hundred millions of legal tender paper would be perfectly constitutional, and first rate policy. What was unconstitutional when a war for the union was to be carried on, became perfectly constitutional when it became desirable to repudiate a debt contracted for the purpose of saving the union. If the Times might hazard an opinion in view of this tergiversation, it would say that "Gentleman George" is either a blockhead or an enemy of his country,—or at least that he was before he spit on his own platform, and went to advocating hard money.

Two Sides of a Joke.

Charley Backus, the minstrel performer and practical joker, was in a small town in Connecticut the other day, and as he started for New York he stood on the platform of the rear car of the train. As the whistle was blown and the cars began to move, Backus espied a big fellow lounging at the depot, and shaking his fist at him in assumed rage, he shouted:

"Oh, there you are, you villian. I've been looking for you all over this cursed town. Oh you knave, you thief, you scoundrel."

At this time the train was rapidly moving out of the depot, and Backus wildly shook his fist at the astonished stranger. "Don't I wish I had time to get off and thrash you, you scoundrel!"

To the horror of the minstrel joker the train was stopped and backed into the depot. Backus made a rush for his [illegible] locked himself [illegible] drawing-room [illegible] fisted depot lounger boarded the train and howled:

"Where is that d——d duffer who has been looking all over this'ere town for me?"

Backus kept himself in his prison until he reached New York.

Clandestine Marriage.

Of ninety-nine cases in a hundred, the girl who consents to be privately married gives herself cause for life-long regret. Even though her parents overlook the escapade, and receive her again into favor, the man she marries never forgets the fact that a disobedient daughter seldom makes an obedient wife, and the first matrimonial quarrel is apt to betray his private opinion on the subject. Yet, reprehensible though stolen matches may be, the absolute cruelty which parents too often display toward their thus erring children is barbarous. For instance a merchant, ascertaining that one of his clerks had privately married his daughter, a mere school-girl, immediately disowned the misguided child, and not contented with that, discharges the clerk on accusation of theft. Now, the unhappy husband is out of work, his character gone, staring pitiless poverty in the face. Do you think that love will linger by their fireless hearth? Another story of the same kind is told of a wealthy, retired down-east ship captain. A young man a thorough sailor, had just secured his ship and at the same time secured the hand of the retired captain's daughter, against the will and protest of the father. It was purely a love match, but the father was so indignant at it that he put forth every effort to have his revenge. He had it. Possessing influence, he drove his newly found son-in-law from his ship, and following him, drove him from the employ of the company, and still following, prevented his getting employment as a mate. The result was the young captain took to drink, first neglected and then abused his wife. She clung to him as long as she could, but finally was driven to the grave, dying still young, of a broken heart. The father had his revenge, but it could have brought little comfort to his heart. The acute reader will perceive that the moral of this article is two-edged.

A boy 16 years old, named Forman, living in Kedvan township, Nebraska, while out in the woods gathering fuel was bit on the finger by a rattle snake with pluck and presence of mind he went to the wagon procured an ax and immidiately chopped off the finger above the joint.

Be Steadfast.

Catskill Recorder.

Heaven help the man who imagines that he can dodge enemies by striving to pleas everybody. If such an individual ever succeeded we would be glad of it—not that one should be going through the world trying to find beams to knock and thunder his poor head against, disputing every man's opinion, fighting chewing and crowding all who differ with him. That, again is another extreme Other people have a right to their opinions—so have you. Don't fall into the error of supposing that they will respect you more for turning your coat every day to match the color of theirs. Wear your own coat in spite of wind and weather, storm and shunshine. It costs the vacillating and irresolute ten times the trouble to win and shuffle and twist that it does honest, manly independence to stand its ground.

Mitchellville, Iowa, is a nice little town on the Rock Island road. A short time since a man went there and built a fine new house intending to start a saloon. After he had got it finished to his satisfaction a party of 50 masked men interviewed the premises and when they got through there wasn't enough of it left to talk about.

A balloon supposed to be Prof. King's of St. Louis, that gentleman having been engaged by Barnum's show to take Donalson's place, passed over Chicago Sunday evening at five o'clock. The great height at which the balloon was sailing suggested that probably the Professor intended a trip equal, if not greater, than that made by Prof. Wise in 1860.

An assistant street inspector at Cleveland, O., made an assault upon Mr. Cowles, of the "Leader" Saturday afternoon in the latter's office, whereat Mr. Cowles laid an iron cane over his assailant's head, which bent the weapon double.— People will find out one of these days that editors will fight.

Geo. Fridricks, of New York, died on the 22d inst., in that city from the effects of an overdose of morphine, administered by himself. The cause assigned for the rash act was that the company who employed him wouldn't pay him $50 back dues.

A prisoner at Fort Leavenworth while working in a stone quarry, Saturday, was sunstruck, and because he was unable to work, the officer in charge of the men beat him so badly that he died soon after.

And now it is said that an Indian has been found who is insane. Is it any wonder that they "kick" against having their country settled up by weak headed white men.

At LaPort, on last Thursday, twenty head of sheep, out of a flock of twenty-one, were killed by one stroke of lightning. They had taken shelter under a tree.

The Terre Haute authorities have arrested the two men who had the armor made, which was used by the express robbers at Long Point, Ill.

King Calico, or Kal—well, never mind —of the Sandwich Islands, wants our government to recognize his, among the family of nations.

It is one of the curiosities of natural history that a horse enjoys his food the most when he has not a bit in his mouth.

In Arkansas, when a man walks into a house and shoots the proprietor and others, he is styled by the community "an intruder."

There is one thing about a constantly idle man to his advantage. He never labors under a mistake.

Its the high price of slate pencils that is driving the saloon Keepers to the poor house.

Bergh appeals to the public not to muzzle the dog. Has Bergh no legs— no feeling?

Everybody that wants a good, neat and tasty job of printing done should call at the COURIER Office.

An egg underdone and an egg overdone are alike in that both are hardly done.

Habit is a cable. Every day we weave a thread, and soon we cannot break it

---

Now is a good time to try the COURIER.

$500,000 to loan on improved farms in Northern Indiana, in sums of one thousand dollars and upwards, on five years time. Security must be first mortgage.

WILLIAM FLEMING,

tf Fort Wayne Ind.

THE ORIGIN OF SPELLING-BEES.

BY E. S. BROOKS.

(Recently Discovered Addenda to the Lost Tales of Miletus.)

To Jove, Olympus-throned, from lunch refraining—Ambrosia o'er—Minerva came, complaining;
"My Gracious Liege!" she said, "this is my mission—
To bring you to a sense of your position.
Your over-leniency, dyspepsia breeding,
Allows the gods too much of over-feeding,
By which their palates check their brains' progression,
And dull their intellects by retrogression.
And seeing this, O Jove, I crave permission
To counteract it by direct attrition;
In order thus their intellects to strengthen,
Their minds to polish, and their memories lengthen."

Permission given, straight Minerva took
Out of her pocket Webster's Spelling-Book,
Around the circle test-words quickly hied,
Which each Immortal missed as soon as tried.

On "trousseau" Juno weakened; Mars on "foes,"
While pouting Venus came to grief through "beaux;"
On "[illegible]," [illegible] Vulcan on "crescendo,"
While gray-beard Neptune caved on "innuendo."
Bacchus with "reeling" made a perfect funk,
At which Minerva tartly cried, "You're drunk!"
One "s" in "messenger" gave Mercury trouble,
And Ceres, weeping, bit the dust on "stubble;"
Apollo stoutly tried his luck on "rooster,"
And then, appealing, said he spelled by Worcester;
On which the Graces held, as referees,
He was "so nice" he might spell as he pleased.
Jove, last of all but than the rest no better,
In spelling "empty" lost a needed letter.

Then the whole circle begged her to give o'er;
The gods all called her spelling-bee a bore.
The ladies said "blue-stocking!" and "a fright!"
And the three Judges held such language—right.
Pluto said, "Nervy, let's to Hades go,
And try this latest torment down below."

Straightway Minerva rose, and closed her book,
And 'round the circle cast a withering look;
"Immortal Gods!" she said, "henceforth the schools
Shall better call you all Immortal Fools!
Olympus," here she wept, "so glorious once,
Is now fit only for the dullest dunce.
Down to the earth I'll go, and quickly mass
The suffering nations in a spelling-class.
Thus I'll reform the world, and as for you,
Degenerate Deities, for awhile, adieu!
I shall return, and till that time—ah, well!
I'll leave Olympus for a little spell."
So saying, she turned, nor longer deigned to stay,
But glided swiftly down the milky way.

Minerva thus her earthward journey took,
And from her pocket drew her awful book.
America soon gave the chance she sought,
And a new "Battle of Lexicon" was fought;
Fierce grew the conflict, quick the test-words flew,
Ponderous six-syllables and puzzling two.

And thus we wrestle, while, serene and still,
Minerva sits enthroned on Learning's Hill.
And, till she wearies, thus, I fear, shall we Still be a-spelling at a spelling-bee!

—Scribner for August.

A DOLL'S HEAD.

Lottie Middleton was an uncommonly amiable and pretty young lady. When I say pretty, I do not mean that she possessed superlative beauty—not in the extravagant sense of the term, at least. In fact, there was nothing superlative about her—save her golden-brown hair—and that was really wonderful, its wealth of shimmering waves shading in shining masses of puffed and coiffured mystery her fair white forehead, and making a pair of very limpid expressive blue eyes a shade more intense in their hue. She was a petite, shapely little person, with nothing peculiar about her, only with that simple winningness which in such women makes for itself an affinity in the eyes of almost every susceptible masculine that crosses its path.

In modern accomplishments she was moderately accomplished, although her education had been an expensive one. When Lottie was nineteen the hand of fate deprived her of her mother. Her father, supposed to be wealthy, soon lost all by unfortunate speculations, and Lottie's bright life-dream vanished into something like a shadow. For the fine house in the city was sold—the carriage and piano went with it. In less than a month's time, Lottie found herself a penniless orphan, for her father, unable to bear up against the storm, had succumbed to his troubles.

Thrown upon her own resources, the girl developed a fortitude, which, perhaps, would never otherwise have been developed. Nothing had been left of her poor father's estate—all had been swept away; all save some Western claims, which, situated in the far-off wilderness, were deemed worthless by the creditor whose share they fell to.

"Their titles are no good, to my mind, either, but I'll take them," he had said to the legal functionary who had done the business of settling up the bankrupt's estate.

And he took them.

This gentleman was a heavy banker who had loaned money to her father, wherewith to pursue his schemes of wealth, and who professed to have lost heavily thereby. He was a widower, but lived in style, his house being kept by his sister—a maiden of the spinster type of antiquity, who had been on familiar terms with the Middletons prior to their loss of fortune. Perhaps this person pitied the girl. At any rate, she did the orphan the kindness to offer her, in a condescending way, the position of governess in the banker's family. Lottie said:

"I will call and give you my answer to-morrow."

She thought it over, meanwhile. It was the best she could do, so it seemed to her; and she must do something. She had no one to go to for advice, assistance or encouragement. So she accepted the position, and became an inmate of Mr. Coupons' household, took the reins of his nursery, and exercised what wholesome restraint she could over the ill-disciplined spirits of his three wayward little ones.

For a time it was a sore trial to poor, refined, sensitive little Lottie. Miss Mehitable Coupons—the spinster aunt—was a torment in petticoats. She was one of those angular beings, whose notions of existence are fashioned by the square and compass of horrible exactitude, minus mathematical proportion, after a manner which easy-going people hesitate to contemplate; the rythm seemed all gone out of her life, at some fresher, though awfully distant period, and only the punctuation marks left. Altogether she was an odd volume, this Aunt Mehitable Coupons, and it was evident that rebinding would have done her no good, for the finger-marks of rigid experience had worn so deep that the original vellum even could not have been replaced. Lottie's experience of the peculiarities of this eccentric person was at once oppressive, irritating, discouraging and ludicrous. Three things were self-evident. Miss Mehitable was a very determined person. She considered herself the sole and omnipotent guardian of the fortunes, present and future, of the whole Coupons family. And Lottie must let her consider herself so, and get on with her as best she could.

For a time Lottie's only consolation lay in the care of little Bess, a pretty, though somewhat perverse little fairy, four years old. The child exhibited a fondness for only two persons in her little world, so far—Lottie and her "big brother Bertie," as she used to call him.

Now the aforesaid "Bertie," was a stalwart young gentleman, past the age of man's estate; a quiet, fine-looking, long-headed, cool-thinking fellow, and possessed, like his father, of more than average force and determination of character.

He had not moved in society—being just from college and law school—and Lottie had not known him in her bright and gay day of social position. Somehow she rather liked him. They met at meals; the old gentleman—old Coupons—always said grace; and that was about all he did say. But on these tri-urnal festive occasions the superannuated female saint who guided the domestic destinies of Mr. Coupons' house was ever garrulous. And as a retailer and disseminator of social intelligence, she was quite a marvel, while at the same time she was a walking edition of notes and morals, a perfect index of dates and figures in every matter, trivial or otherwise, pertaining to other people.

Consequently, the time was not wasted, and the conversation between the young people remained for some time quite limited in its extent. Gradually, however, the two seemed to grow to understand each other. They instinctively adopted modes of expression more subtle than words—a look, a sigh, a side glance, a sweep of the eye-lashes—seemed to convey a meaning. And it was strange what a sudden affinity Mr. Bertrand Coupons seemed to have acquired for the nursery! To be sure, little Bess had always been his pet. But now, she was his constant companion when he was indoors. And he generally managed to entrap Bess in the nursery. He generally found Lottie there, too, on these occasions.

And so things went on. Lottie began to find life quite endurable—she hardly knew why.

But all this did not escape the keen eye of Miss Mehitable Coupons. At first she simply expressed her disapprobation by short, but emphatic ahems. Presently, as matters to her keen vision began to thicken, Bert and Lottie generally found themselves intruded upon after a lapse of five minutes' privacy in the nursery, by Miss Mehitable, who would croak forth some melodious demand for Lottie's services.

At last, deeming reticence upon an affair of such impropriety of no further virtue, she one day confided the secret of her awful suspicion, as guardian of the destinies of the house of Coupons, to the head of the house of Coupons.

"The long and short of it is, he's getting in love with her, and it's my opinion the gal's drawing him on," she concluded, with a lengthy and wordy harangue, descriptive of the tender affairs she deemed brewing between the young people. Then she heaved a kind of withered sigh and peered into the banker's face till the wrinkles in her yellow one seemed to straighten out in eagerness to hear the coming fiat.

Old Coupons never moved a muscle, nor blinked an eye, only his lips seemed to compress a shade firmer.

"Talk to 'em, Hitty. Lecture them out of it. You ought to be able to do it."

And this was all the answer the maiden guardian of the house of Coupons got. He returned to his newspaper, and she turned away to fulfill her commission.

The "lecture" she read for the benefit of these two aforesaid, need not be delivered for the benefit of the reader. It was the beginning of a course, and it would be unfair and impartial to give one and not all, and—well, they would be tedious—as they were to Bert and Lottie.

But it did no good.

"Lottie is a good girl," said Bertrand. And that was all the satisfaction his solicitous aunt got out of him.

Poor Lottie! She soon found herself in a most embarrassing position. To put it mildly, the "lectures" were extremely distasteful to her. But Bert often consoled her. She more than once determined to leave her position, Bert begged her not to, and she kept it for his sake. Bert was her good angel—he and little Bess.

Miss Mehitable reported progress to the head of the family. Old Coupons invited his first-born to an interview, and opened the ball by peremptorily ordering his son never again to speak to the pretty governess, save in his, the senior's presence, under pain of disownment. Old Coupons demanded a promise. Bertrand moodily walked the floor—and promised; for a week the son kept his own counsel. Lottie seemed to understand why he did not come to the nursery, and only spoke to her at meal times. His eyes told her something more.

One day Bertrand sat in the library, whither of late it had been his wont to betake himself. Bess came romping in.

He smiled, kissed the child, and gave her some pictures to look at. Then he sat moodily thinking for a while. Lottie had not appeared at meals that day—had sent word that she was feeling unwell. All at once he scratched a few lines on a piece of paper, picked up Bessie's wax doll, lying on the floor, where the child had dropped it carelessly, and tucked the paper into the doll's hollow neck. Then he put on hat and overcoat and went out.

At tea time, Lottie appeared, and he managed to articulate, so that she alone heard him.

"Examine the doll's head!"

Not without some little wonder and perplexity did Lottie fulfil his directions, and till she drew the paper from its curious hiding-place, she did not fully comprehend the significance of his injunction. She gave a little cry of joy and intelligence and perused the lines. They ran:

"LOTTIE, DARLING: I have found out I love you—that you belong to me and I must have you. I know you are a brave and true little woman. Is your answer yes? Reply through the doll's head.

"BERTRAND."

Next day in the library, Bess came to him. He told her a story, and played with her doll the while. Presently he stopped in what seemed to her a very interesting part of the narrative. That young person looked up at him.

"What you dot?" she said.

"Only a piece of paper, pussy," he said.

It read:

"DEAREST BERTRAND: I do love you, and I will write yes. But your father and—aunt! Oh, Bertrand, what will happen when they know of it?"

Bertrand looked at Bess. She was asleep. He studied a minute and the lines around his fine mouth grew more compressed. He wrote on the back of the paper hurriedly, tucked it back in the doll's hollow head, and took the child into her aunt's boudoir and laid her gently on the bed.

Bess woke up, of course—noted her demure relative sitting in the apartment, then, in the pensive mood, which in childhood usually succeeds a nap, began working at her doll. What prompted her to explore the hidden mysteries of its head we cannot tell. Some wicked fairy, perhaps.

Something dropped out of the doll's head. Bess picked it off the counterpane and examined it.

"O fy! how funny. I spec Bertie hid dat in dere 'o purpose to plague me!" she said.

The evil genius of curiosity, common to her sex, caused the elderly matron to examine the piece of paper also, as she came at the child's solicitation, soon after, to lift her down off the bed.

Her appearance it would be difficult to describe, as she perused the affair. The reader knows what one side contained. On the other it read,—

"Be ready to-morrow night. Come out of the front door at ten. I will be there.

"BERTRAND."

This almost stunned the lady. A marriage between the penniless governess and her nephew was not down in the bills. And a runaway marriage, too!"

"I'll serve them a trick—we'll see—we'll see!" she muttered, as she clinched the paper in her hand.

"The audacious hussy. I'll discharge her at once!—no, that won't do at all—it would thwart my plans. Well, I'll see about this—I won't say nothing to nobody, but I'll see about it!"

Bertrand, after leaving the house, walked down to the bank.

"Well—do you want anything—I'm just starting for Worcester; am in haste."

"Nothing in particular. Ah, yes, now I think of it, there was something I was going to mention to you. You knew those titles to Iowa claims, Middleton left. Will you sell them to me?"

"I'll give them to you—here they are—and a fine little present it is, my boy. The titles, I have since found out, are perfectly good. I was a little in doubt of them at first. Guess they'll prove a fat thing," said the banker, going to his desk and bringing forth a lot of papers.

"Will you give me a conveyance of them?"

"Yes—but haven't the time now. Go to Mr. Blackstone—he'll fix it up for you. I was looking at them to-day. I was thinking of doing this very thing."

Bertrand had the little matters arranged by the lawyer. Then he completed other preparations.

The following night, he stood in the dim glimmer of the street lamp in front of his father's dwelling. As his watch pointed ten, the door opened, and a closely muffled figure came out. He said no word, but led the figure a few steps up the street, put it into a carriage in waiting and took a seat beside it. Once he attempted to bestow a kiss upon the face of the figure but it would not raise its veil. Just then, however, a glare of the street lamp struck full upon the veil. If Bertrand had not been in the shadow, the figure would have seen him start.

In a moment they stopped at a railway station. They were almost behind time. Bertrand hurried the figure aboard the train without waiting to purchase tickets, and took a seat beside it. The train began to move. There was a crowd in the aisle of the car, and a general cram and commotion. Bertrand slipped out of the seat, made his way to the door and jumped off the train at the risk of his neck and the no small detriment of his nether drapery. His first movement on reaching a street corner was to call a passing carriage. Driving home he went into the house.

"Now, Lottie, I have come for you. Put on your things quick. I've left my aunt half way to Providence. Guess she'll see she's outwitted before the express gets there!" And he explained matters while the trembling girl got herself in readiness.

They drove to a clergyman's and were married. Bertrand gave the gentleman an ample fee. In an hour the happy pair were on their way West, on the wings of steam.

The Iowa claims proved valuable. Bertrand sold the poorest. Towns and cities were springing up rapidly in the new country. The rest of the land would in a few years amount to a colossal fortune.

They returned East. The marriage had been published in the next morning's papers. Old Coupons had raved with fury on returning and hearing the news. Miss Mehitable had torn her hair. But the bridal pair completed their honeymoon by a trip to Europe. By this time the elders were reconciled.

Bess is a handsome young lady now, but her aunt is no more. The shock killed her. Old Coupons and the prominent young lawyer, live happily in the old house, and Mrs. Coupons Jr., rules its affairs.

ON opening a bale of cotton at the mill of one of the largest Liverpool spinners, the other day, much surprise was manifested at the discovery within it of a box of lucifer matches bearing the following label: "Superior telegraphic matches; manufactured by Capples & Marston, St. Louis; every box warranted." The matches were of the ordinary kind, and on one or two of them being tried they were found to ignite with the greatest readiness. The cotton came to Liverpool from Mobile, and the most serious consequences might have resulted had the least amount of friction been applied to the lucifers during the voyage, or even after the cotton had reached its destination.

"WHAT are ye dancing around fur?" inquired a boot-black yesterday of a boy acquaintance, whose face was covered with smiles, and who was executing a double-shuffle. "Glory 'nuff fur one day!" replied the lad, jumping still higher, "cow got into the garden this morning and tramped every bed flat as yer hat, and I won't have to pull a weed this summer!"—Vicksburg Herald.

THE average State and city tax of every person in Massachusetts is $17.10.

CURED BY PRAYER.

Remarkable Recovery of a Woman for Ten Years Bedridden.

(From the Washington Republican.)

Mrs. Lamb, wife of Mr. Francis Lamb, manufacturer of looking-glasses and picture frames, residing at No. 1912 Fourteenth street, northwest, has, for the past fourteen years, been an invalid, and for nearly ten years of that period been confined to her bed and deprived of the use of her limbs. When first taken sick it was supposed her indisposition would be brief, and only a short time would elapse ere she succeeded in recovering her accustomed health; but as the days rolled on that improvement looked and hoped for failed to appear.

Her situation baffled the professionals' knowledge and skill, and several of them confessed being unable to prescribe medicine that would produce a cure. Still they attended upon her, watching for any change that might occur, in the hope of being able to furnish relief and prolong life should death threaten to intervene and take her hence. In this condition, unable to rise from her sick-bed, had she passed from year to year, hoping for the good time coming, when, re-endowed with strength and the usefulness of her limbs, she might again become a perfect being of the world. In all this prolonged sickness and prostration the invalid was never known to murmur at her situation or complain of her misfortune. But, on the contrary, being a devout Christian, placing her trust and reliance in Him who afflicts as well as relieves, she daily and almost hourly invoked the blessing of the Almighty, and that, in His chosen time, He would send that relief which she believed could only proceed from Him.

Her friends were frequently with her and mingled their prayers with hers for the desired change. A little more than a week ago she sent a request to the members of the Young Men's Christian Association, asking that they would make her condition the special object of their prayers that she might be raised from a lingering disease, which had confined her on her bed for nearly ten years, and be restored to health. The request was granted and the prayers made. A few days afterward, while a lady friend was writing, she conversed of her religious feelings and said that she believed she would soon leave the sick bed; in fact, she believed that she could walk at that that time. The lady, while wishing that such would be the case, could not believe it possible for her to accomplish such an undertaking, and so expressed herself. Strange as it may appear, Mrs. Lamb, confident of her ability to walk, rose from her bed and in her stocking feet actually walked across the room, and returning sat down in a chair. It was not to be wondered at that her friend should be astonished, and, asking how Mrs. Lamb felt, received the reply that she was better. To further questioning as to what had caused her sudden and miraculous improvement, the sick lady replied that she sincerely believed it to be the result of constant, faithful prayer to heaven for the bettering of her condition, and that her prayers must have been answered.

The fact of Mrs. Lamb having got up and walked soon spread, and many friends visited the house to see her and congratulate the family on the happy change. In the evening a prayer-meeting was held, at which she related her feelings before and since walking, and believed that the change was permanent. The following Sunday so much had she improved that she rode in a carriage to the Mount Zion church, and attended divine service. Since that time other prayer-meetings have been held, and she is unceasing in her devotions, praise, and thanksgiving to God for raising her up and making her whole. She believes that it will not be many days ere she has become perfectly sound and healthy. At present she experiences some trouble in walking, her feet being very tender from want of exercise. The case is a strange one, and attracts much consideration and talk among the church people.

Umbrellas in the East.

All over the East the umbrella has been used from remote ages, though at first mainly as an emblem of royalty. But for centuries past these useful appendages have afforded shelter to all classes from the fierce storms and burning sunshine of those fervid climes. In form and size the ordinary umbrella is nearly like our own, but the material is silk, or paper beautifully painted or glazed, and thus rendered perfectly waterproof. Though not very durable, these umbrellas are light and pretty, and so very cheap—about twenty cents each—that one does not mind their wearing out occasionally. They have been made and used in China, in just the same style, for fifteen centuries, and in the neighboring countries for perhaps nearly as long a time.

The state umbrella is quite a different affair—much larger and of the richest materials. It is placed over the royal couches, thrones, and chairs quite as generally as carried in the open air. They are borne by high officers over the King and other members of the royal family wherever they go, and "umbrella holders" are recognized members of the royal household both in Burmah and Siam. One of the numerous titles of his Majesty of Siam is "Lord of the White Elephant and Supreme Owner of the Umbrella"—that is, of the umbrella of state, which it would be high treason to raise over any head but that of the giver. It is of crimson or purple silk, Kyn [illegible] embroidered in precious stones, lined usually with white satin, inwrought with silver flowers and seed pearls in exquisite clusters, and trimmed with heavy gold fringe and costly lace. Sometimes, on great occasions, umbrellas are carried in tiers of two, three, and five, one above the other, diminishing in size toward the top, and forming a perfect pyramid; while from the rim of each umbrella depend scores of tiny gold or silver bells, which, moved by the passing breeze, make sweet music, that floats upon the air like the sounds of an Æolian harp. In Burmah the king's umbrella is white, and that of the court red while in the royal city, but elsewhere they carry gold or gilded ones; and always over the dead bodies of the nobility are placed gold umbrellas, usually the gift of the sovereign. Both in Burmah and Siam there are many state umbrellas, all of precisely the same pattern, and one or more is carried over the king's head on all occasions, whether sitting or reclining, riding or walking, at home or abroad.

The Emperor of China, who never does anything in moderation, has twenty-four umbrellas carried before him whenever he goes out hunting—perhaps as a protection against wild beasts. But then, as he has an equal or larger number to herald his coming on other occasions, we may conclude it is only a love of displaying his wealth or grandeur—rather an absurd display it would seem to us. The heir to the crown has ten umbrellas, and other princes and nobles five, three, two, one, respectively, according to their rank. So one may usually read the rank of a noble he sees approaching by the number and style of his umbrellas, as he discovers the rank of a mandarin, or civil officer, by the color of his buttons.—Fannie Roper Feudge, St. Nicholas for August.

A Famous Horse.

The New York Times reviews the history of the famous horse Lexington, whose recent death in Kentucky has occasioned such sorrow among turfmen everywhere. His great prowess as a race-horse, as well as his remarkable career as a sire, had endeared the name of Lexington to every lover of thoroughbred stock in the country. While upon the turf Lexington overshadowed all his contemporaries, and for twenty years his record remained as a mark of admiration. Lexington first appeared as a three-year-old in 1853, at Lexington, Ky., under the name of Darby, in the Association stakes for three-year-olds, mile heats, which he won in two straight heats. After this he came into the hands of Mr. R. Ten Broeck, and won a large number of races all over the country. Subsequently Mr. Ten Broeck sold Lexington for $15,000, and he has stood at the Woodburn farm, in Kentucky, until his death. Lexington, in his career, was beaten but once out of seven starts, and his total winnings were $56,500. His pedigree extends to the Arabians, and the purity of his blood has been thoroughly established. He was a blood bay, about 15 hands 3 inches high. Up to the year 1866 he had sired 52 winners at mile heats who won 122 races, 39 winners at two miles and heats who won 102 races, 16 winners at three miles and heats who won 30 races, and 8 winners at four miles and heats who won 12 races. Since 1866 the winning sons and daughters of Lexington have added double this number, and his fame will live in the memories of turfmen for generations to come. Lexington founded a line of race-horses unequaled by the offspring of any other other stallion in this country or England. In his declining years he even bettered the record of his early career as a sire, for Tom Bowling, Harry Bassett, Preakness, and Wanderer stand as fitting representatives of the noble animal.

A Hard Time for Newspapers.

I can recall no time within twenty years when the newspapers have had so hard sledding here in New York as during the last six months. One thing that they have sadly missed is the advertising of large financial houses. Prior to the last panic and financial crisis, firms like Henry Clews, Jay Cooke & Co., and Fisk & Hatch, paid enormous sums every year to the New York papers for advertising railway bonds, loans, etc. Now all that sort of thing is done with. Half of these heavy houses have gone into bankruptcy, and the remainder are floating no loans of any description, with one or two exceptions. The fact that the advertising of all the various departments of the city is now given to the Official Record, a little sheet published expressly for this purpose, likewise makes a big difference in the receipts of some of the papers. Then, again, the general prostration in business causes a great diminution in the general advertising of the metropolis. But, while the receipts have thus very materially fallen off, the expenses of running the daily papers have not diminished. The Beecher trial has been a great drag upon them. Mr. Jones, the proprietor of the Times, recently stated that the trial had cost that paper fully $50,000. While it caused the sale of a few more copies, our papers received, with the exception of the Tribune, comparatively nothing for the outlay in reporting and printing the proceedings of the protracted trial.—Late New York Letter.

The First Declaration of Independence.

It wasn't Mecklenburg, nor Philadelphia, where Independence was first proclaimed, but in a letter from Mrs. John Adams to her husband. When the King issued his proclamation for suppressing rebellion and sedition, after the failure of the mission of Richard Penn, Mrs. Adams wrote to Mr. Adams in Philadelphia: "This intelligence will make a plain path to you, though a dangerous one. I could not join to-day in the petitions of our worthy pastor for a reconciliation between our no longer parent State, but tyrant State, and these Colonies. Let us separate; they are unworthy to be our brethren. Let us renounce them, and instead of supplications, as formerly, for their prosperity and happiness, let us beseech the Almighty to blast their counsels, and to bring to naught all their devices." This was a declaration of independence preceding by months that which Jefferson wrote.

Origin of the Word Humbug.

Mr. F. Crossley suggests as the origin of the word humbug the Irish uim-bog, pronounced "um-bug;" literally "soft copper," or "worthless money." James II. issued from the Dublin mint a mixture of lead, copper and brass so worthless that a sovereign was intrinsically worth only two pence, and might have been bought after the revolution for a half-penny. Sterling and humbug were therefore expressions of real and fictitious worth—merit and humbug. Churchill uses the word in 1750. Crossley's suggestion is very ingenious, but probably the mystery lies nearer the surface. To "hum" used to signify to applaud, to express admiration; hence, to flatter, to cajole for an end. The noun signified sugared words, worthless rumors. In reports of State trials we find the expression, "Gentlemen, this humming (expression of applause) is not at all becoming the gravity of the Court."

"MY brethring," snarled a poorly paid minister, "you have your cattle on a thousand hills, and your minister on only one hill, and a mighty poor hill at that."

THE MOON AND THE HARE.

A HOTTENTOT FABLE.

The moon, in pity to the race
  Of man, in his despair,
Sent to them from her shining place
  Her messenger, the hare.

"Go, nimble one, and say to men
  That as I fade and die,
Then rise and brightlier shine again
  Above them in the sky;

"So they must fall and fade away,
  But only die to rise
Where resurrection paves the way
  To fairer, friendlier skies."

But out of dullness, trick, or feud,
  The message which was sent
The reckless little hare construed
  With most malign intent.

"O race of men, the moon hath said
  That as she lives and dies,
So unto death you shall be led,
  And nevermore shall rise."

Now when the moon had heard the case,
  Her ax, with force and grip,
She struck into the meek hare's face,
  Which caused the [illegible] hare-lip.

The hare, incensed, with claws upborne,
  Scratched back with right good grace,
And, since that day, the moon has worn
  A rough and ragged face.

—Joel Benton, in the Galaxy for August.

Pith and Point.

THE best headquarters—Brains.

How to please a lady—Let her do as she pleases.

"MY success is owing to my liberality in advertising."—Bonner.

SHORT man (to tall man)—"Now, then, look alive, Harry! How is it that you are always the last?" Tall man—"Because I'm the longest!"

A JERSEY CITY merchant puts acid on the boxes around his store door, and when a young man takes a seat, he seems to suddenly remember that he forgot something at home, and he walks off with surprising acid-uity.

A CALIFORNIA octogenarian had buried three wives whose maiden names were Green, Grass and Groze. He stirred up the fire with kerosene the other day, and now he lies in the cold, cold grave, and the green grass grows above him.

THE Peruvian authorities have quite an effective way of dealing with libellous editors, by first making them swallow a copy of their own newspaper, and then shooting them. The latter part of the ceremony would be unnecessary in this country.

A TRAMP who called upon a Danbury woman was shocked to hear in answer to his appeal for food—"No, we've got nothin' for the likes of you. Washington's monument isn't finished yet, and everything we've got to spare must be given to that."

DURING a recent Detroit fire a young lady rushed up and down Montcalm street wildly shouting, "Save 'em—oh, save em!" "What is it? Who? Where?" shouted a man, as he seized her arm; "is any one burning up?" "Not as I know of," she wailed, "but won't some one dash in there and save my croquet set?" No one dashed.

"MARY, why did you kiss your hand to the gentleman opposite this morning?" said a careful mother to her blooming daughter. "Why, the gentleman had the impudence to throw a kiss clear across the street, and, of course, I threw it back indignantly! You wouldn't have me encourage him by keeping it, would you?"

NEW potatoes are in market. Not the potatoes of our boyhood days, you know, the size of butternuts, creamy in flavor, and eaten (fourteen of them) with the skins on. But the latest inspired potato, as large as your fist, and with the skin of a veteran on its back—looking for all the world like a white-faced, small-eyed boy with his father's coat on. When scientific culture struck the potato it made an ass of itself.—Danbury News.

YESTERDAY, as two citizens stood in front of the postoffice talking business, one of them pointed to a lady across the street and asked: "Who is that woman with the Kangaroo walk?" "That woman, sir, is my wife!" replied the other. "Oh—ah—I thought it was mine!" was the ready reply, but somehow or other a wet blanket was thrown upon further conversation.—Vicksburg Herald.

A GOOD story of a well-known American, now in England, is revived by the late ill-natured remarks of the London Standard. In conversation with the wife of a British Cabinet Minister, the lady remarked: "Well, England made America all she is, anyhow." "Pardon me, madam," was the reply; "you remind me of the boy's answer to his Sunday-school teacher. "Who made you?" asked the teacher. "Made me?" "Yes, who made you?" "Why," answered the boy, holding his hands about a foot apart, "God made me about so long, but I growed the rest."

Rattlesnake Hunters.

The Reading (Pa.) Eagle gives an account of some rattlesnake hunters who search for these reptiles in the Blue Mountains. The hunters go in pairs always; so that if one is bitten the other can come to his rescue. Their boots are very heavy and thick, and the soles are covered with rubber, so that they can move noiselessly and with safety across slippery and rocky places. At noon is the best time to catch snakes, for then is the time that they stretch themselves across the rocks to sun themselves. A rattlesnake very rarely closes its eyes, and its power of scenting is very great. It moves very slowly, and bites only when provoked. The men carry iron hooks with a prong at the end. Others have an iron with a curve at the end of it, which they press down over the snake's head on the rock. They take a pair of wooden pincers, nip the reptile in the jaws, holding them very tight, and thus raise them and put them into a box with a wire screen over the the top of it. That is the way the snakes are captured alive. The men kill them for pleasure, and the skins are preserved as trophies, just as the Indians value the scalps of their victims.

THE Federal authorities have decided that the handling or circulation, in any manner, of advertising circulars gotten up in any degree whatever in imitation of United States currency, is a violation of law, and lays the person so issuing them liable to heavy fine and imprisonment.

Not That Kind of Beet.

They were standing in Lexington market—Mr. Vaughn from the country and Mr. Green of this city. Mr. Vaughn is a dairyman and his interest in milk commenced when he was a child. Indeed, he has never been weaned off of it; and now when he comes to market he has it in cans—and in his mind's eye all the time, and it was in the latter that he had it on Saturday while conversing with Mr. Green.

"I have fed beets very frequently," said Mr. V. (It seems that when cows re fed in a particular way in the winter ime they become troubled with murrain, and that the feeding of beets in time prevents the disease from coming upon them.)

"So have I," said Mr. Legge, coming up and joining in the conversation, after having been introduced by Mr. Green to Mr. Vaughn. (Mr. L. is a city inhabitant and dwells in a mansion of highly attractive external appearance.) "I believe I have fed more beats than any other man in the city of Baltimore, and I'll be —— if I'll do it any more."

"Well, sir," said Mr. Vaughn, "I'm in favor of feeding them."

"I'm not," said Mr. L., emphatically. "They're a nuisance."

"You get a good deal more milk by feeding them in the winter time than any other way I know of," said Mr. V.

"Milk!" exclaimed Mr. L. "By —, that just what I lost the other day. A fellow came along and carried off the milk-can, and that, too, after he had been fed."

"How many head have you got?" inquired Mr. V., who began to think Mr. L. was a little "off," or had just escaped from a lunatic asylum.

"Head!" exclaimed Mr. L., "why, I've got one good one, anyway."

"Where, in the city?"

"Yes, I should think it was; it's right here on my shoulders. What do you think of it?"

"Well, I don't know what to think of its contents. You don't seem to know any more about the feeding of beets than a hog."

"Sir!" exclaimed Mr. L., "this is an insult."

But just then Green exploded. An explanation ensued, and then the trio joined each other in a glass of milk all 'round, in that form in which the nutmeg is the last thing put on top to impart a spicy flavor to the punch.—Baltimore Gazette.

A Coney Island Romance.

A man and his wife, who had been separated for more than two years, met on the steamboat Arrowsmith yesterday morning. Both were going to Coney Island. Mr. George Augustus Gunn, the husband, boarded the Arrowsmith for a day's excursion. In his rambles through the boat he met his wife—his first and only love—and prostrated himself at her feet. She was accompanied by a sister and two other ladies. A feeling akin to love at first sight sprang up and the young man and woman confounded those around them by their loving demonstrations. Mutual explanations were indulged in and mutual misunderstandings seem to have been buried.

When the boat was fastened to the wharf in front of ex-Senator Norton's hotel, husband, wife, and friends walked up the sandy passage together. After taking some refreshments at the hotel the party went to the beach with the intention of bathing. Gunn was very anxious that his wife should go in bathing with him. Indeed, he was so anxious as to excite the suspicion of Mrs. Gunn's sister, who urged her strongly not to go into the water. Acting upon her sister's advice she declined to bathe. Notwithstanding the seeming rebuff, Gunn hired a bathing box and bathing suit.

On his way to the surf equipped for a swim, Gunn encountered his wife and her friends. He said to his wife: "So you'll not go in, won't you? I knew you dare not."

Then laughing in his wife's face he said, "What kind of mourning would you like to wear?"

"Red, white and blue," replied his his wife coquettishly.

"I knew you were Irish when I married you, and I think your best mourning will be the green above the red. Good bye; you'l be a widow in twenty minutes." So saying the husband darted headlong into the surf. He spoke truly, for Gunn disappeared, and before help could reach him he was drowned.

The suicide was a dentist about 28 years old, of large and lucrative practice, but of late, owing to family matters, neglected it and himself.—New York Sun.

Petrifaction of the Dead.

About twenty years ago the wife of a prominent citizen of Davenport died and was interred in the city cemetery. The casket that held the body was of the heavy iron pattern that had just been introduced. A few days since the grave was opened and the casket raised for removal to Oakdale. A view of the remains was taken, and what was the astonishment of the friends to find that the face and upper portion of the body had been turned to stone! The features were well preserved—forehead, closed eyes and all—the likeness of the departed being as clear to the observers as though a marble bust of the body had been executed when she was living. Even the pleats of the shroud had been preserved in stone. The strange artist in the depths of the grave, and beneath the casket lid, executed his commission faithfully and well. There was evidence that the casket had been nearly filled with water at a time not far removed. The casket was borne to Oakdale and given a new place of interment. We believe that this is the third instance of remains in the city cemetery being found in a state of petrifaction after years of interment.—Davenport (Ia.) Gazette.

A Monstrosity.

The Aiken (S. C.) Courier-Journal says: "On the 26th of June last colored twins were born on the farm of Mr. Joseph Ashley, near Dumbarton, with a ligamentary connection near the stomach. One of the twins has neither eyes, nose, hands nor feet, and the only orifice answering for a mouth is a perpendicular slit running lengthwise of he face. It seems be to perfectly dumb and to receive nourishment entirely from he other child, who is healthy and well ormed. If the dumb child is touched the other one feels it, and if asleep immediately awakens. The perfectly formed child, as may be supposed, is a female, while the dumb animal belongs to the male persuasion. Quite an excitement is created down in that region and several enterprising Barnums have already appeared upon the scene and made extravagant offers to the parents to allow their abnormal offspring to go on exhibition."

Failures for First Six Months of 1875.

We present herewith very complete returns of the number of failures which have occurred throughout the United States in the first two quarters of the present year, together with the amount of liabilities:

States.	Failures.	Am't Liabilities.
Alabama	28	$523,000
Arkansas	17	211,500
California	116	2,507,870
Colorado	24	365,102
Connecticut	60	914,064
Delaware	14	124,500
District of Columbia	9	88,100
Florida	11	925,000
Georgia	79	2,986,216
Idaho	1	3,000
Illinois	175	3,888,226
Indiana	123	1,860,383
Iowa	78	426,052
Kansas	27	218,000
Kentucky	93	2,456,060
Louisiana	16	630,983
Maine	60	587,173
Maryland	68	1,098,185
Massachusetts	377	10,853,500
Michigan	81	749,111
Minnesota	79	812,125
Mississippi	86	1,045,750
Missouri	105	2,328,550
Nebraska	24	146,000
Nevada	16	271,100
New Hampshire	65	353,600
New Jersey	20	816,250
New York	283	5,712,797
New York city	335	14,762,500
North Carolina	25	263,400
Ohio	160	2,594,950
Oregon	13	202,948
Pennsylvania	504	8,743,445
Rhode Island	43	779,594
South Carolina	111	2,042,572
Tennessee	52	326,167
Texas	114	1,153,300
Vermont	83	274,200
Virginia and West Virginia	103	1,383,684
Wisconsin	94	752,719
Total	3,377	$74,940,869

Accurate comparison of the above figures for the same six months in previous years is impossible, owing to the absence of previous quarterly and half-yearly returns; but dividing by one-half the number of failures for the entire twelve months of previous years, the following will show a comparison sufficiently near the mark for all practical purposes:

	Total failures for year.	One-half of same.	Total liabilities for year.	One-half of same.
1872	4,067	2,037	$121,056,003	$60,528,000
1873	5,183	2,591	228,499,000	114,248,000
1874	5,830	2,915	155,239,000	77,819,000
1875	1st 6 mos.	3,377	1st 6 months	74,940,869

While the above comparison shows a very trifling increase in the number of failures, it will be seen that the amount of liabilities is considerably less than the average of the four years.—Circular of R. G. Dun & Co.'s Commercial Agency.

A Few Commissions.

Habitues of the summer hotels and watering places, says the Boston Commercial Bulletin, will recognize the following as a correct specimen of the domestic dialogues which take place while paterfamilias is waiting for the omnibus to drive up to the front piazza, or his buggy to take him to the steamboat landing, or for the whistle of the expected locomotive:

"You have got the pattern for the muslin, my dear?"

"Yes."

"And you won't forget Charley's slippers and my bathing dress in the lower bureau drawer?"

"No, darling."

"And the cold cream and camphor from the upper shelf in the closet, and to bring us some books from the library, you know, and a bottle of cologne."

"Yes, yes."

"And baby's caps, you know, and tell the dressmaker about having my dress sent by express, for I want it for the hop. And do ask Aunt Maria to send my driving gauntlets; I forgot them."

"Anything else?"

"No darling, nothing, only if you could step over to ma's and ask her to lend me that purple and white hood, and bring me down a new sun umbrella, and my India rubbers to wear when we go out in the boat, it is so damp that—'

"Stop, darling! I've just thought of something I want to do myself."

"What is it, my dear?"

"Why, I want to run in my store for five minutes for my own business, if there's any time left after transacting yours."

"Lor' now, Charles, I hope you are not going to be disagreeable about a few little errands, I'm sure."

Charles—"Oh, not in the east, only I haven't quite got used to this express business yet, and I can only give nine-tenths of the time to it this summer, that's all, tootsicums—there's the engine whistle."

"Good-by, dear, don't forget the—"

But the rest of the sentence was lost in the rattle of wheels that bore Charles on his way to town.

THE western boundary line between Connecticut and the State of New York is still in dispute. In 1860 the Assembly of New York adopted as the boundary a line reported to them by the Commissioners of New York, but without the concurrence of Connecticut. The question will have to be settled by the U. S. Supreme Court.

WILHOFT'S TONIC!—UNFAILING AND INFALLIBLE!—This great Chill Tonic cures Chills without the intervention of doctors and their bills. No consulting visits—no prescriptions to be filled—no huge bills, entailing pecuniary embarassments, added to loss of health. It is the friend of the poor man, because it enables him to earn a living, and of the rich, because it prepares him to enjoy his wealth. This great boon to mankind is cheap, safe and prompt. WHEELOCK, FINLAY & Co., Proprietors, New Orleans.
FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

FARMERS and stock raisers have frequently told us that they have seen very good results from giving Sheridan's Cavalry Condition Powders to cows and swine before and after they drop their young. The powders put them in good condition, and give them strength to care and provide for the sucklings.

WE have often wondered whether there is a person in the country who does not know and appreciate the value of Johnson's Anodyne Liniment as a family medicine? It is adapted to most all purposes, and is the best pain destroyer that can be used.

THE peach crop of Delaware is estimated at 10,000,000 baskets.

GLEN FLORA SPRING WATER, at Waukegan, Ill., cures all kidney diseases.

HOW TO GET A HOME. See advertisement.

NEBRASKA.

Emigration—Position—Soil—Health—Cost of Lands—Villages and Cities—Schools and Churches—The Pioneer.

COLUMBUS, Neb., July 2, 1875.

EMIGRATION TO NEBRASKA.

The State is filling up rapidly. The trains bring out great numbers daily, and the prairie schooners are on all the roads. I don't wonder at it; for certainly Nebraska offers wonderful inducements to settlers.

It has the most pleasant and equable climate of any of the Western States, and its soil cannot be excelled. Then its is very favorable. It is midway between the oceans, and the great thoroughfare from East to West passes over it. Its farmers find a profitable market west of them among the miners of the Territories, and as good a market east as any of the States have. The Nebraska farmer finds a quick profitable market east, west and north, with a very short haul to his consumer. The distance between the producer and consumer does not eat up the grain.

POSITION

SOIL.

There is no better soil in the United States than Nebraska has, nor one more easily worked. The land drains itself. The whole State is a system of valleys and uplands, with beautiful streams running through the valleys. The soil both in the valleys and uplands is from five to twenty feet deep, without stones or stump. The prairie may be broken up in the spring and a crop produced in the fall, enough to pay for the land and the cost of breaking. This has been done in thousands of instances.

HEALTH.

There is no healthier country in the world. The whole State is drained perfectly—indeed there is not a marsh or swamp in it, so there is no malaria to contend with. The air is pure and bracing and the water excellent. All the conditions of health and long life exist in Nebraska.

VARIETY OF CROPS.

In no country can there be so great a variety of crops profitably produced. The western part of the State is a magnificent grazing country, while the eastern and central are adapted to wheat, corn, oats, etc. The dairying business has been demonstrated to be profitable everywhere. Fruit can be grown in any part of the State, with a certainty of a good yield every year. Sheep raising is a very profitable business in Nebraska.

COST OF LANDS.

Lands may be had in Nebraska at any price, from nothing up to $10 per acre. The government has vast bodies of excellent land, which can be had by merely settling on it, and the Union Pacific Railroad Company has lands adjacent to the road at prices varying from $2 to $10, according to location.

The railroad makes very liberal arrangements for the transportation of settlers.

VILLAGES AND CITIES.

The villages and cities of Nebraska are growing with a rapidity unparalleled. None of them are in debt to any extent. The government has set apart lands ample for school purposes, and a great railroad was built by government bonds, so no debt has been incurred for schools or roads. The villages have not only grown rapidly but the growth has been healthy. Omaha is a splendid city, and Fremont, Columbus, North Platte, Grand Island, and a score of other places on the line of the road, are prosperous and thriving.

SCHOOLS AND CHURCHES.

No State has a better school system than Nebraska, and all the churches are represented. As a rule the church edifices are large and elegant, and the societies prosperous. The schools are supported by an endowment of lands set apart for that purpose.

To sum it all up in a word, the man who goes to Nebraska now and secures land cannot but make himself independent in a few years. He can get lands with railroads, towns, school-houses and churches all built, as cheaply to-day as he could have got them twenty years ago, when none of these things were done.

THE PIONEER.

O. F. Davis, Esq., the Land Commissioner of the Union Pacific Railroad, publishes a paper called The Pioneer, which gives very full and reliable information concerning Nebraska. It sets forth fully how to get lands of the railroad and government, how to get to them, and how to pay for them, with a mass of information valuable to all who desire to know anything about the country. Copies of the Pioneer will be sent free to any address. Send a postal card to O. F. Davis, Omaha, Nebraska, and get a copy. It will richly repay a perusal, and will give in detail information which I have only been able to touch.

P.

WHAT WE KNOW ABOUT IT.

ORILLIA, SIMCOE, ONTARIO, May 8, 1875.

Messrs. CRADDOCK & Co.:

You will be glad as well as myself to hear the young man has improved so very rapidly under the effect of your medicine. He had used but one bottle when he was almost well; the second did its work, and the third bottle he gave away. Please send three more bottles and two boxes of pills as soon as possible, for other friends.

Respectfully,
(Nevis Post Office) REV. JOHN MCLEAN.

UNION RIVER, SHEBOYGAN, WIS., January 4, 1875.

Send another $12 box of the East India Hemp. This is the only medicine that will do me any good, and I had given up all hopes of getting better.

ADELIA THOMPSON.

N. B.—This Remedy speaks for itself. A single bottle will satisfy the most skeptical. There is not a single symptom of Consumption that it does not dissipate—Night Sweats, Irritation of the Nerves, Difficult Expectorations, Sharp Pains in the Lungs, Sore Throat, Nausea at the Stomach, Inaction of the Bowels, and Wasting of the Muscles.

$2.50 per bottle, or three bottles for $6.50. Pills and Ointment, $1.25 each. Address
CRADDOCK & CO.,
1032 Race Street, Philadelphia.

Send for Circular.

Asthma and Catarrh.—See D. Langell's adv't.

SILVER TIPPED SHOES — The fact that five million of pairs of SILVER TIPPED Shoes are made a year, shows how those who use them feel about it. They know that they last three times as long.

Economy is wealth—but the best Shoe is the CABLE SCREW WIRE. They never rip, leak or come apart. Try them. All genuine goods stamped. GABLE SCREW WIRE

OPIUM CURE. Cheap, quick, private. No pain. DR. ARMSTRONG, Berrien, Mich.

EVERY FAMILY WANTS IT. Money in it. Sold by Agents. Address M. N. LOVELL, Erie, Pa.

NEW BOOK. "Gleanings." Now Ready. Agents address LOUIS LLOYD & CO., Chicago.

$10 to $25 per day. Send for Chromo Catalogue. J. H. BUFFORD'S SONS, Boston, Mass.

WANTED AGENTS. Samples and Outfit free. Better than Gold. A. COULTER & CO., Chicago.

Guns. Catalogue Free. Rudolph & Co., 1013 N. 5th St. Louis, Mo.

$490 A MONTH and EXPENSES to all. Articles new, staple as flour. Samples free. C. LININGTON, NEW YORK or CHICAGO.

WANTED AGENTS—Everywhere for the Centennial History—600 pages, $40 engravings, selling well. Address H. O. HOUGHTON & CO., 2 Somerset Street, Boston, Mass.

CLARK'S BOOK-KEEPING. Self-instructive. Short method. Price $1.00, postpaid. Send for Circular. W. S. CLARK & CO., 143 Race Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

$250 A MONTH—Agents wanted everywhere. Business honorable and first class. Particulars sent free. Address WORTH & CO., St. Louis, Mo.

FOR SALE. Chicago Suburban Lots at $100 each—$10 down and $5 monthly for balance—within a short distance of city limits, with hourly trains and cheap fare. Send for circular. IRA BROWN, 142 LaSalle Street, Chicago, Ill.

GEO. P. ROWELL & Co.

INVESTMENT. For exchange for dry goods, notions or cash, five thousand acres mineral and timber land in Tennessee, at a sacrifice; abstracts of title furnished; 50 cts. an acre. Lock Box 214, Pittsburgh, Pa. TENNESSEE LANDS.

SOMETHING for you. Sells at sight. Our Agents coin money. We have work and money for all, men or women, boys or girls, whole or spare time. Send stamp for Catalogue. Address FRANK GLUCK, New Bedford, Mass.

PENNSYLVANIA Military Academy, Chester, Pa. Opens Sept. 8th. Civil Engineering, the Classics, English and Military Art thoroughly taught. For circulars apply to COL. THEO. HYATT, President.

10 DOLLARS PER DAY. AGENTS WANTED to sell THE IMPROVED HOME SHUTTLE Sewing Machine. Address Johnson, Clark & Co., Boston, Mass.; New York City; Pittsburgh, Pa.; Chicago, Ill.; or St. Louis, Mo.

DOUBLE YOUR TRADE. Druggists, Grocers and Dealers—Pure China and Japan Teas, in sealed packages, screw-top cans, boxes, or half chests—Growers' prices. Send for circular. THE WELLS TEA COMPANY, 201 Fulton-st., N. Y., P. O. Box 4560.

AGENTS WANTED for the fastest-selling BOOK ever published. Send for circulars and our extra terms to Agents. NATIONAL PUB. CO., Chicago, Ill., or St. Louis, Mo.

$10. to $500. Invested in Wall Street often leads to fortune. A 72-page book explaining everything, and copy of the Wall Street Review SENT FREE. JOHN HICKLING & Co., Bankers and Brokers, 72 Broadway, N. Y.

WANTED AGENTS FOR THE best-selling Prize Package in the world. It contains 15 Sheets Paper, 15 Envelopes, Golden Pen, Pen Holder, Pencil, Patent Yard Measure, and a Piece of Jewelry. Single Package, with elegant Prize, post-paid, 25 cents. Circular free. BRIDE & CO., 769 Broadway, New York.

BURR MILLS FOR CORN, FLOUR & FEED, large capacity, small weight & price. My specialty 30 years. Gold Medals for fast grinding and small power. Over 400 sold. 20 patents for grinding & bolting vegetables and minerals, by hand, horse, wind, steam, or water power. Send stamp for cuts & prices. EDWARD HARRISON, New Haven, Conn.

HOW TO GET A HOME. IOWA LANDS, 800,000 ACRES. Rich Soil, good Climate, excellent Water, growing Settlements, good Schools. We offer the Lands of the Sioux City and St. Paul R. R. and the McGregor and Missouri River R. R. at $4 to $8 per acre, on easy payments. Two years rent will buy a farm. Apply to DAVIDSON & CALKINS, R. R. Land Office, Sibley, Osceola Co., Iowa.

CAUTION—NOTICE.—The GENUINE EDITION. LIFE AND LABORS OF LIVINGSTONE, (Including the "LAST JOURNALS,") unfolds vividly his 28 Years strange adventures, also the curiosities, Wonders and Wealth of that marvelous country, and is absolutely the only new complete work. Hence it sells; just think, 12,000 first 7 weeks. Agents' success would astonish you, more wanted. Send for terms and positive proof of genuineness. HUBBARD BROS., Pubs., 144 W. 4th St., Cinn., O.

ELASTIC TRUSS. This new Truss is worn with perfect comfort night and day. Adapts itself to every motion of the body, retaining rupture under the hardest exercise or severest strain until permanently cured. Sold cheap by the Elastic Truss Co., NO. 683 Broadway, N. Y. City. Sent by mail. Call or send for Circular and be cured.

N. F. BURNHAM'S TURBINE WATER WHEEL Was selected, 4 years ago, and put to work in the Patent Office, Washington, D. C., and has proved to be the best. 19 sizes made. Prices lower than any other first-class Wheel. Pamphlet free. N. F. BURNHAM, York, Pa.

SEA FOAM. Keeler, Holmes & Co., Grocers, Norwalk, Ct., say:—"We have the assurance of our customers that Sea Foam is the best Baking Powder. Our sales of it increase continually." Geo. L. Claflin & Co., Druggists, Providence, R. I., say:—"Your Sea Foam is steadily gaining in favor. All speak well of it." It is the best. Farmers' wives can excel New York Hotel Cooks by using Sea Foam. Try it and be happy. Send for circular to GEO. F. GANTZ & CO., 176 Duane St., New York.

D. LANGELL'S NEW ASTHMA AND CATARRH REMEDY. Having struggled twenty years between life and death with ASTHMA, I experimented by compounding roots and herbs and inhaling the medicine. I fortunately discovered a wonderful remedy and sure cure for Asthma and Catarrh. Warranted to relieve instantly so the patient can lie down to rest and sleep comfortably. Druggists are supplied with sample packages for FREE distribution. Call and get one, or address D. LANGELL, Apple Creek, Ohio. Sold by Druggists. Full-size Package, by mail, $1.25.

INQUIRE FOR W. A. DROWN & CO'S UMBRELLAS. PHILADELPHIA and NEW YORK.—The qualities marked with their name are confidently recommended.

Can not BE BEAT. The new BUFFALO BILL REVOLVER—sent prepaid to any part of the United States on receipt of $2.40. 30,000 already sold. Beats anything of the kind ever made. For accuracy and distance it has no equal. Address all orders to WESTERN GUN WORKS, CHICAGO, ILL. N. B.—We have every revolver examined by an experienced gunsmith before it leaves our works, and warrant them perfect in every way. Liberal discount to the trade.

FREE.—A fine colored picture of, and circulars describing the Aultman-Taylor Threshing Machine. Write to Aultman & Taylor Manufacturing Co., Mansfield, O. This machine is warranted to do better work in wheat, oats, rye and barley, than any other style on the continent, and is the only perfectly successful Flax and Timothy thresher in the world.

Smith Organ Co., BOSTON, MASS. These Standard Instruments Sold by Music Dealers Everywhere. AGENTS WANTED IN EVERY TOWN. Sold throughout the United States on the INSTALLMENT PLAN: That is, on a System of Monthly Payments. Purchasers should ask for the SMITH AMERICAN ORGAN. Catalogues and full particulars on application.

PEOPLE WILL HAVE OUR GOODS. Send 25 cents and we will send by mail, prepaid, one LAMP FILLER, with which you can fill any Kerosene Lamp without removing chimney or getting grease outside of Lamp. At same time we mail you all our circulars and terms to agents on Twenty useful household articles with which any person can make from $5 to $20 daily. We want Agents everywhere. NATIONAL AGENTS' EMPORIUM, BOSTON, MASS.

ELECTRICITY IS LIFE. MEDICINE RENDERED USELESS! VOLTA'S ELECTRO BELTS and Bands are indorsed by the most eminent physicians in the world for the cure of rheumatism, neuralgia, liver complaint, dyspepsia, kidney disease, aches, pains, nervous disorders, fits, female complaints, nervous and general debility, and other chronic diseases of the chest, head, liver, stomach, kidneys and blood. Book with full particulars free by VOLTA BELT CO., Cincinnati, Ohio.

TARRANT'S SELTZER APERIENT. Forestall Summer Fevers and all the complaints generated by excessive heat, by keeping the blood cool and the bowels free with Tarrant's Effervescent Seltzer Aperient, at once a most refreshing draught and the best of all regulating medicines. SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

YOUNG MEN. BOYS AND MIDDLE-AGED MEN Trained for a successful start in business life, taught how to get a living, make money, and become enterprising, useful citizens. EASTMAN BUSINESS COLLEGE, POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., on the Hudson, the only institution devoted to this especially. The oldest and only practical Commercial School, and only one providing situations for Graduates. Refers to patrons and graduates in nearly every city and town. Now Building now open. Applicants enter any day. Address for particulars and catalogue of 3,000 graduates in business.
H. G. EASTMAN, LL. D., Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Out of the Poor-House. Hear what a Physician says:—"A man from Crestline, O., came to Bucyrus, disabled from kidney trouble. His sufferings were very acute and the case unpromising. Being unable to take care of himself he was taken to the County Infirmary for treatment. The physician put him on Hamilton's Buchu and Dandelion; in ten days a marked improvement took place, and after three weeks he was dismissed a cured man, and is now pursuing his trade with his former vigor. Dr. Fulton is a witness to the statement and regards the cure as a very remarkable one." Trade supplied by KRESS MANUFACTURING COMPANY, Cincinnati, O.

NICHOLS, SHEPARD & CO.'S "VIBRATOR" THRESHER. The BRILLIANT SUCCESS of this Grain-Saving, Time-Saving THRESHER, is unprecedented in the annals of Farm Machinery. In a brief period it has become widely known and FULLY ESTABLISHED, as the "LEADING THRESHING MACHINE." GRAIN RAISERS REFUSE to submit to the wasteful and imperfect work of other Threshers, when posted on the vast superiority of this one, for saving grain, saving time, and doing fast, thorough and economical work. THRESHERMEN FIND IT highly advantageous to run a machine that has no "Beaters," "Pickers," or "Apron," that handles Damp Grain, Long Straw, Headings, Flax, Timothy, Millett and all such difficult grain and seeds, with ENTIRE EASE AND EFFECTIVENESS. Cleans to perfection; saves the farmer his thresh bill by extra saving of grain; makes no "Litterings;" requires LESS THAN ONE-HALF the usual Belts, Boxes, Journals, and Gears; easier managed; less repairs; one that grain raisers prefer to employ and wait for, even at advanced prices, while other machines are "out of jobs." Four sizes made with 6, 8, 10 and 12 horse "Mounted" Powers, also a specialty of Separators "alone," expressly for STEAM POWER, and to match other Horse Powers. If interested in grain raising, or threshing, write for Illustrated Circulars (sent free) with full particulars of sizes, styles, prices, terms, etc. NICHOLS, SHEPARD & CO., Battle Creek, Michigan.

DR. WHITTIER, No. 617 St. Charles Street, St. Louis, Mo., continues to treat all cases of obstacles to marriage, blood impurities, every ailment or sickness which results from indiscretion or imprudence, with unparalleled success. Dr. W.'s establishment is chartered by the State of Missouri, was founded and has been established to secure safe, certain and reliable relief. Being a graduate of several medical colleges, and having the experience of a long and successful life in his specialties he has perfected remedies that are effectual in all these cases. His patients are being treated by mail or express everywhere. No matter who failed, call or write. From the great number of applications he is enabled to keep his charges low. 36 pages, giving full symptoms, for two stamps. MARRIAGE GUIDE, 260 pages, a popular book which should be read by everybody. No married pair, or persons contemplating marriage, can afford to do without it. It contains the cream of medical literature on this subject, the results of Dr. W.'s long experience; also the best thoughts from late works in Europe and America. Sent sealed, post-paid for 50 cts.

"PSYCHOMANCY, or Soul Charming." How either sex may fascinate and gain the love and affection of any person they choose, instantly. This art all can possess, free, by mail, 25 cents; together with a Marriage Guide, Egyptian Oracle, Dreams, Hints to Ladies, &c. 1,000,000 sold. A queer book. Address T. WILLIAM & CO., Pub's, Philadelphia.

The Wonders of Modern Chemistry. Sarsaparillian and Its Associates. Changes as Seen and Felt as They Daily Occur after Using a Few Doses of DR. RADWAY'S Sarsaparillian Resolvent, THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER.

1. Good spirits, disappearance of weakness, languor, melancholy; increase and hardness of flesh and muscles, etc.
2. Strength increases, appetite improves, relish for food, no more sour eructations or waterbrash, good digestion, calm and undisturbed sleep, awaken fresh and vigorous.
3. Disappearance of spots, blotches, pimples; the skin looks clear and healthy, the urine changed from its turbid and cloudy appearance to a clear sherry or amber color; water passes freely from the bladder through the urethra without pain or scalding; little or no sediment; no pain or weakness.
4. Marked diminution of quantity and frequency of involuntary weakening discharges (if afflicted that way), with certainty of permanent cure. Increased strength exhibited in the secreting glands, and functional harmony restored to the several organs.
5. Yellow tinge on the white of the eyes, and the swarthy, saffron appearance of the skin changed to a clear, lively and healthy color.
6. Those suffering from weak or ulcerated lungs or tubercles will realize great benefit in expectorating freely the tough phlegm or mucous from the lungs, air cells, bronchi or windpipe, throat or head; diminishing of the frequency of cough; general increase of strength throughout the system; stoppage of night sweats and pains and feeling of weakness around the ankles legs, shoulders, etc.; cessation of cold and chills, sense of suffocation, hard breathing and paroxysms of cough on lying down or arising in the morning. All these distressing symptoms gradually and surely disappear.
7. As day after day the SARSAPARILLIAN is taken, new signs of returning health will appear; as the blood improves in strength and purity, disease will diminish, and all foreign and impure deposits, nodes, tumors, cancers, hard lumps, etc., be resolved away and the unsound made sound and healthy; ulcers, fever sores, syphilitic sores, chronic skin disease gradually disappear.
8. In cases where the system has been salivated, and Mercury, Quicksilver, Corrosive Sublimate, (the principal constituent in the advertised Sarsaparillas, associated in some cases with Hyd. of Potassa) have accumulated and become deposited in the bones, joints, etc., causing caries of the bones, rickets, spinal curvatures, contortions, white swellings, varicose veins, etc., the SARSAPARILLIAN will resolve away these deposits and exterminate the virus of the disease from the system.
9. If those who are taking these medicines for the cure of Chronic, Scrofulous or Syphilitic diseases, however slow may be the cure "feel better," and find their general health improving, their flesh and weight increasing or even keeping its own, it is a sure sign that the cure is progressing. In these diseases the patient either gets better or worse—the virus of the disease is not inactive; if not arrested and driven from the blood, it will spread and continue to undermine the constitution. As soon as the SARSAPARILLIAN makes the patient "feel better," every hour you will grow better and increase in health, strength and flesh.

The great power of this remedy is in diseases that threaten death—as in Consumption of the Lungs and Tuberculous Phthisis, Scrofula, Syphiloid Diseases, Wasting, Degeneration, and Ulceration of the Kidneys, Diabetes, Stoppage of Water (instantaneous relief afforded where catheters have to be used, thus doing away with the painful operation of using these instruments), dissolving stone in the bladder, and in all cases of Inflammation of the Bladder and Kidneys, in Chronic cases of Leucorrhea and Uterine diseases.

In tumors, nodes, hard lumps and syphiloid ulcers; in dropsy and venereal sore throat, ulcers, and in tubercles of the lungs; in gout, dyspepsia, rheumatism, rickets; in mercurial deposits—it is in these terrible forms of disease, where the human body has become a complete wreck, and where every hour of existence is torture, wherein this great remedy challenges the astonishment and admiration of the sick. It is in such cases, where all the pleasures of existence appear cut off from the unfortunate, and by its wonderful, almost supernatural agency, it restores the hopeless to a new life and new existence where this great remedy stands alone in its might and power.

In the ordinary skin diseases that every one is more or less troubled with, a few doses will in most cases, and a few bottles in the more aggravated forms, work a permanent cure.

Those afflicted with chronic diseases should purchase a package containing one dozen bottles. Price $10 per dozen, or $5 per half dozen bottles, or $1 per bottle. Sold by druggists.

RADWAY'S READY RELIEF WILL AFFORD INSTANT EASE.

INFLAMMATION OF THE KIDNEYS, INFLAMMATION OF THE BLADDER, INFLAMMATION OF THE BOWELS, CONGESTION OF THE LUNGS, SORE THROAT, DIFFICULT BREATHING, PALPITATION OF THE HEART, HYSTERICS, CROUP, DIPHTHERIA, CATARRH, INFLUENZA, HEADACHE, TOOTHACHE, MUMPS, NEURALGIA, RHEUMATISM, COLD CHILLS, AGUE CHILLS.

The application of the READY RELIEF to the part or parts where the pain or difficulty exists will afford ease and comfort.

Twenty drops in half a tumbler of water will, in a few moments, cure CRAMPS, SPASMS, SOUR STOMACH, HEARTBURN, SICK HEADACHE, DIARRHEA, DYSENTERY, COLIC, WIND IN THE BOWELS, and all INTERNAL PAINS.

Travelers should always carry a bottle of RADWAY'S RELIEF with them. A few drops in water will prevent sickness or pains from change of water.

IT IS BETTER THAN FRENCH BRANDY OR BITTERS AS A STIMULANT.

Price 50 Cents. Sold by Druggists.

DR. RADWAY'S REGULATING PILLS

Perfectly tasteless, elegantly coated with sweet gum, purge, regulate, purify, cleanse and strengthen. RADWAY'S PILLS, for the cure of all disorders of the Stomach, Liver, Bowels, Kidneys, Bladder, Nervous Diseases, Headache, Constipation, Costiveness, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Bilious Fever, Inflammation of the Bowels, Piles and all Derangements of the Internal Viscera. Warranted to effect a positive cure. Purely Vegetable, containing no mercury, minerals, or deleterious drugs.

☞ Observe the following symptoms resulting from Disorders of the Digestive Organs:

Constipation, Inward Piles, Fullness of the Blood in the Head, Acidity of the Stomach, Nausea, Heartburn, Disgust of Food, Fullness or Weight in the Stomach, Sour Eructations, Sinking or Fluttering at the Pit of the Stomach, Swimming of the Head, Hurried and Difficult Breathing, Fluttering at the Heart, Choking or Suffocating Sensations when in a Lying Posture, Dimness of Vision, Dots or Webs before the Sight, Fever and Dull Pain in the Head, Deficiency of Perspiration, Yellowness of the Skin and Eyes, Pain in the Side, Chest, Limbs, and Sudden Flashes of Heat, Burning in the Flesh.

A few doses of RADWAY'S PILLS will free the system from all the above-named disorders. Price 25 Cents per Box. SOLD BY DRUGGISTS.

Read "FALSE AND TRUE."

Send one letter-stamp to RADWAY & CO., No. 32 Warren Street, New York. Information worth thousands will be sent you.

AGENTS WANTED FOR A NEW BOOK. SUCCESS IN BUSINESS. HOW TO MAKE MONEY. Selling very fast. Send for circulars. P. W. ZIEGLER & CO., 518 S. Clark st., Chicago, Ill.

DR. RIDGE'S FOOD FOR INFANTS AND INVALIDS. Sold in cans by Druggists. 35 cents and upwards.

C. N. U. No. 31

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS, please say you saw the advertisement in this paper.

Whether for use on man or beast, Merchant's Gargling Oil will be found an invaluable Liniment and worthy of use by every resident in the land. We know of no proprietary medicine or article now in the United States which shares the good-will of the people to a greater degree than this. Yellow wrapper for animal, and white for human, flesh.—N. Y. Independent.

MERCHANT'S GARGLING OIL is the Standard Liniment of the United States. Established 1833. Large size, $1.00; medium size, 50 cents; small size, 25 cents. Small size for family use, 25 cents. Manufactured at Lockport, N. Y., by Merchant's Gargling Oil Company. JOHN HODGE, Secretary.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN INDIANA, AUGUST,5, 1875.

Bishop Ames confesses that he can't cope with Delano, and he resigns. The Bishop has been engaged in Christianizing the Indians and Delano in robbing 'em, and Bishop Ames gives it up. Everybody resigns but Delano.

* * *

In speaking of Morton as a Presidential candidate, the Wolcotville Register says that Morton, it thinks "made so serious a mistake in the salary grab business, that his action was repudiated by the Legislature of his own State, and will place his friends in a very embarrassing position in case they are called upon to sustain him for the Presidency."

* * *

Some Difference.—When Beecher was charged with adultery, he did not confess his guilt as his sister advised him. He knew enough of human nature to know that Plymouth Church would have turned him out in disgrace. So he fought it through, claiming to be innocent. Not so with Rev. Mr. Rood of the Presbyterian church at Pittston. He committed years ago but it was only recently discovered. Mr. Rood confessed also, and declared that he repented; and yet he was not only turned out of the ministry, but out of the church.

* * *

A preacher named Mahin, at Elkhart, in "good and regular standing" as an apostle of Christ and Temperance, says with regard to the turning of water into wine, that "Christ was guilty of transcending the bounds marked out for Him by the Deity for creating that which God had not created, and what he knew would be the ruin of men, the curse of wives and the blight of children's years, and moreover the manufacture and use of an article that is the cause of more sorrow and misery than war and pestilence and famine combined."

* * *

TWEED'S LUCK.

Tweed's star seems to be in the ascendant. His lawyers moved a few days ago before Judge Donohue to compel the plaintiffs to make the complaint more definite in certain respects, and to give a detailed statement of each bill on which each of the 151 warrants that made up the whole $6,000,000 claimed against Tweed was founded, specifying which items were false and overcharged.

The motion was granted, the court holding that the plaintiffs shall elect whether they will sue Tweed as having caused the loss to the city by his neglect to examine the claims against it or by criminal conspiracy with Watson to defraud it, and abandon one of these grounds.

This seems impossible from the fact that of the 151 bills fraudulently paid 141 were stolen on the night before they were to have been produced by Controller Connolly before a joint committee of citizens and aldermen. These can not be reproduced. The ten remaining constitute but a small percentage of the claim against Tweed and under the ruling of the court, requiring specifications as to what portion of them are fraudulent and what not, will furnish but poor material for the prosecution to work upon. It is likely, therefore, that this important suit for the recovery of some six millions of dollars will be abandoned and Tweed be allowed, after all, to spend the remainder of his life rich, infamous and happy. Such is the web of the law, that catches only the weak and is snapped and broken by the strong. It seems that our criminal statutes operate only against the petty thieves—the feeble who have not had the opportunity of stealing enough to render them powerful. Many small criminals, in Kentucky have been more severely punished for stealing ten dollars than Tweed has been for stealing ten millions.

GILES' LINIMENT
TRADE MARK
IODIDE OF AMMONIA

Cures Neuraligia, Face ache, Rheumatism, Gout, Frosted Feet, chilblains, sore throat Erysipelas, Bruises or Wounds of every kind in man or animal.

Giles' Liniment Iodine of Ammonia has been used by myself and family with satisfactory results. I recommend it to all persons suffering with pains or aches of any kind. It surpasses anything I have ever used. G. H. MILLER, Pres. Real Estate & Savings Bank, Baltimore Md. Sold by all Druggists. Depot No. 451 Sixth Avenue, New York. Only 50c and $1 per bottle.

Sold by J. H. EHLERS.

No. 29 4w

TAKE SIMMONS' LIVER REGULATOR

Nearly all diseases originate from Indigestion and Torpidity of the liver, and relief is always anxiously sought after. If the Liver is regulated in its action, health is almost invariably secured. Want of action in the Liver causes headache, Constipation, Jaundice, Pain in the shoulders, cough, chills, dizziness, sour stomache, bad taste in the mouth, billious attacks, palpitation of the heart, depression of spirits, or the blues, and a hundred other symptoms, for which Simons' Liver Regulator is the best remedy that has ever been discovered. It acts mildly, effectually, and being a simple vegetable compound, can do no injury in any quantities that it may be taken. It is harmless in every way; it has been used for 40 years, and hundreds of the good and great from all parts of the country will vouch for its being the purest and best.

Simmons' Liver Regulator,

OR MEDICINE,

Is harmless,
Is no drastic violent medicine,
Is sure to cure if taken regularly,
Is no intoxicating beverage,
It is a faultless family medicine,
Is the cheapest medicine in the world,
Is given with safety and the happiest results to the most delicate infant,
Does not interfere with business,
Does not disarange the system,
Takes the place of Quinine and Bitters of every kind.
Contains the simplest and best remedies.

Price $1. Sold by all Druggists. April 22, 1875

For sale at F. E. DAVENPORT'S drug store.

ADMINISTRATOR'S SALE.

NOTICE is hereby given, that by virtue of an order of the DeKalb Circuit Court, the undersigned Administrator of the estate of DAVID PERRY, deceased, will offer for sale at public auction, on the premises, on the equal undivided third part of the undivided thirteenth twentieth of the tracts of land hereinafter described, situated in DeKalb county, in the State of Indiana, and subject to the life estate of NANCY FISHER, surviving widow of said decedent therein, to-wit:

SATURDAY, AUGUST 14th, 1875,

A part of section two in township thirty-five [35] north of range fourteen (14) east, bounded by a line commencing at the northeast corner of the northwest quarter of said section two [2] and running thence east on the county line 3 70-100 chains, thence south 46 degrees west one chain, thence south 56 degrees west 1 26-100 chains, thence south 63½ degrees west, 2 40-100 chains, thence south thirty-four degrees west 7 chains thence north 45 degrees west 1 58-100 chains, thence north 27 degrees west 2 68-100 chains, thence north 87 degrees west 9 47-100 chains, thence south 84 degrees west 10 65-100 chains, thence south 75 degrees 34 minutes west 16 86-100 chains, thence north 60½ degrees east 7 30-100 chains, thence south 56¼ degrees west 6 37-100 chains, thence north 16 85-100 chains to the northwest corner of the northwest quarter, thence east on the county line to the place of beginning, containing fifty-five acres, and a part of said section two bounded by a line commencing at the south bank of Fish Creek 3 17-100 chains south of the quarter post on the north side line aforesaid and running thence south on the east line of said northwest quarter aforesaid 7 3-100 chains, thence south 85 degrees 55 minutes west 3 13-100 chains, thence south 1½ degrees west 2 37-100 chains, thence north 81 degrees 45 minutes west 8 22-100 chains, thence north 25 degrees 55 minutes east 3 4-100 chains, thence north 64 degrees 25 minutes east 4 22-100 chains, thence north 9 degrees 15 minutes east 5 56-100 chains, thence 84 degrees east 7 58-100 chains to the place of beginning containing five acres more or less.

Terms—One third cash, one third in nine months, and the remaining third in eighteen months, with notes at interest waiving valuation and appraisment laws, and secured by good freehold security for the deferred payments. Sale to begin at 2 o'clock P. M.

OLIVER P. LEARNED, Adm'r.

NOTICE TO HEIRS OF PETITION TO SELL REAL ESTATE.

State of Indiana, DeKalb County, sct.

Notice is hereby given that Benjamin F. Cornelius, administrator of the estate of Asahel Bryant, deceased, has filed his petition to sell the real estate of the decedent, his personal being insufficient to pay his debts; and that said petition will be heard at the next term of the circuit court of said county.

J. R. LANNING, Clerk

July 22.

NOTICE TO HEIRS OF PETITION TO SELL REAL ESTATE.

State of Indiana, } ss
DeKalb Co., }

Notice is hereby given that George Barney, administrator of the estate of Asa Hall, deceased, has filed his petition to sell the real estate of the decedent, his personal being insufficient to pay his debts; and that said petition will be heard at the next term of the circuit court of said county.

J. R. LANNING, Clerk

NOTICE TO HEIRS OF PETITION TO SELL REAL ESTATE.

State of Indiana } ss
DeKalb Co. }

Notice is hereby given that George Barney, administrator of the estate of John Milliman, deceased, has filed his petition to sell the real estate of the decedent, his personal being insufficient to pay his debts; and that said petition will be heard at the next term of the circuit court of said county.

J. R. LANNING, Clerk.

NOTICE.

State of Indiana, } In the DeKalb circuit court
DeKalb County } September term 1875.

Sarah Junkins }
vs. } Complaint for Divorce.
Albert Junkins }

Now comes the plaintiff, by McBride & Morlan her attorneys and files her complaint herein together with an affidavit that said defendant, Albert Junkins is not a resident of the State of Indiana.

Notice is, therefore, hereby given said defendant that unless he be and appear on the first day of the next term of the DeKalb circuit court, to be holden on the 4th Monday of September a. d. 1875, at the court house in Auburn, in said county and State, and answer or demur to said complaint, the same will be heard and determined in his absence.

Witness, my name and the seal of said court affixed at Auburn, this 24th day of July 1875.

J. R. LANNING, Clerk.

NOTICE.

STATE OF INDIANA, } In the DeKalb circuit
DeKalb County } court Sept. term, 1875

Joseph Sewell }
vs. } Complaint No. 148.
Andrew Kepler }

Now comes the plaintiff by Rose & Hartman his attorneys, and files his complaint herein together with an affidavid that said defendant, Andrew Kepler is not a residence of the state of Indiana.

Notice is, therefore, hereby given said defendant that unless he be and appear on the first day of the next term of the DeKalb circuit court, to be holden on the 4th Monday of September a. d. 1875, at the court house in Auburn, in said county and State, and answer or demur to, said complaint, the same will be heard and determined in his absence.

Witness, My name and the seal of said court affixed at Auburn, this 15th day of July, 1875

J. R. LANNING, Clerk.

STATE OR INDIANA } ss.
DeKalb County. }
John O. Gilkerson } Before John S. Barns
vs } Justice of the peace
Dollas Hooper } for Richland tp.,

It appearing by the return of the writ herein that said defendant is not found, and it further appearing by affidavit filed herein that said defendant is a non-resident of the State of Indiana, and a writ of garnishment in said case having been served on the Baltimore Pittsburg & Chicago Railway Company Indiana Division.

Notice is therefore given to said defendant to appear to said action at my office on the 18th day of August, 1875, at 10 o'clock A. M. and answer or demur to the complaint herein, or the same will be determined in his absence.

JOHN S. P. BARNS,

BARGAINS

AT THE

Great Clearing Out SALES!

OF G. H. MUNN.

I shall sell some at COST; I Shall sell some at LESS than COST.

GREAT BARGAINS

In Dress Goods!

BOOTS AND SHOES AND HATS,

25 per cent. BELOW COST. Call and see him in Auburn, at the Grand Central, one door south of Jno. L. Davis' Hardware.

GEO. H. MUNN.

BARGAINS!

AT THE

Great Clearing out Sales

OF

Miller & Casebeer,

The Leading Merchants of Auburn, Ind.

NOTICE.

STATE OF INDIANA, } Sct:
DeKalb County. }

In the DeKalb Circuit Court, September Term 1875.

Henry G. Olds }
John D. Olds }
vs } Complaint No. 18
Henry J. Geiger }
Alexander J. Bodkins }

NOW comes the Pliantiffs, by P. V. Holman, their attorney, and files their complaint herein, together with an affidavit that said defendants Henry J. Geiger and Alexander J. Bodkin, are not residents of the State of Indiana.

Notice is, therefore, hereby given said defendants that unless they be and appear on the first day of the next term of the DeKalb Circuit Court to be holden on the 4th Monday of September A. D. 1875, at the Court House in Auburn in said County and State, and answer or demur to said complaint, the same will be heard and determined in their absence.

Witness my name and the seal of said court affixed at Auburn, this 4th day of August 1875.

J. R. LANNING, Clek.

* * *

Try the Courier.

BRICK FOR SALE

FRITZ GROESCOP.

Having just burned a fine kiln of brick, about one hundred thousand, is now ready to supply all who want good brick at reasonable figures. Residence two miles north of Auburn on the Kutzner road; three miles south west of Waterloo,

JUSTICES' BLANKS.

We have just printed a fine lot of Justices' Blanks, as follows, for sale at this office:

Summons,
Subpoenas,
Garnishees,
Attachments,
Executions, &c.

ROOT & COMPANY,

Wholesale and Retail Dealers in

DRY GOODS,

CARPETS,

CURTAINS,

And Housekeeping Goods!

Hosiery, Gloves

FANCY GOODES!

NOTIONS, ETC., ETC.

AT BOTTOM PRICES

We are now clearing out our entire stock of.

SUMMER GOODS

and offering all above mentioned goods at a great reduction from former prices

Examine our great

CARPET DEPARTMENT

before you purchase, and save money.

GRAIN BAGS all the best brands at

ROOT & COMPANY'S

46 and 48 Calhoun St., Fort Wayne,

☞ Opposite the Court House. ☜

FRUIT HOUSE BULLETIN!

GRANGER HEADQUARTERS.

Twenty Per Cent. Saved on the $1. No Advance in Prices.

Teas, Fish, Spices, Sugars, Syrups, Wines, Liquors & Tobac's

Cheaper than Ever.

TEAS—Our Tea trade is the wonder of the country. No one ever dreamt such a trade could be built up. We sell more chests daily than some houses do pounds, and still our trade is increasing. It is no uncommon thing for us to purchase two hundred chests at a time, and here is the great element of our success. As by purchasing such larger quantities direct of the Importers we save our consumer, at least the three extra profits of jobbers, speculator and wholesale grocer, who make 10 to 20 cents per pound. This our customers get the benefit of. No middle men with us. As with teas, so with sugar coffee, syrup and all other goods. No secret—it is simply in purchasing all our goods at first hands and re-selling direct to our customers at small margin, and save them at least 20 to 40 cents a pound on teas and 20 per cent on all other goods.

Young Hyson,	20, 60, 80, $1 00, best 1 10	Oolong	30, 60; best 95
Gunpowder	60, 1 00; best 1 10	Uncolored Japan,	50, 60; best 90
Imperial,	60, 90; best

SUGARS! SUGARS!

WHITE, YELLOW AND BROWN.

Coffee A,	10½c	N. O. Genuine,	9c
Coffee B,	9½c	Good Brown	8c

COFFEE! COFFEE! COFFEE!

Best Rio, per pound,	25c	Roasted Coffee,	20 and 27c
Second Best Rio,	23c

CANNED FRUITS.

At Prices never Before Heard of.

Peaches per can	20c	Damsons per can,	20c
Blackberries per can,		Green Gages per can,
Tomatoes per can,	10 c	Strawberries per can,
Corn per can,	10 c

Wines and Liquors.

Still a few Gallons Left.

Sherry and Port per gallon,	$1 50 and 2 00	Old '76 for medical use	$3 00
Sherry and Port in bottles,		Port Wine per gallon	1 50 and 2 00
California Angelica and Sweet Muscatelle, per gallon,	1 50 2 00	California wine per gallon	1 50 and 2 00
New England Rum, per gallon,	best 2 00	Sweet Cawba Wine per gallon	1 25
Holland Gin, Old Tom,	1 50 and 2 50

SYRUPS, SYRUPS.

Best Sugar, Loaf, per gallon,		Extra Golden per gallon,	60
White Dripps, per gallon,	85 $1 00	New Orleans per gallon,	70c to 1 00
Silver Dripps per gallon,	75	Cuba Molasses per gallon,

CANDIES! CANDIES!

Stick, French and American.

Best Stick per pound	18c	Bon Bons	30c
French Mixed	25c	Japanese Cocoa Nut	25c

☞ We have a hundred other different kinds of candies ☜

No Middle Men with us, either on Teas, Coffees, or Sugars. With all the complaints of dull times, our Tea trade has doubled within the last three years. No secret in it—simply purchasing of the Importers and selling direct to the consumer, thereby saving to our customers the profits of the Speculator, Jobber and Wholesale Grocer, which is at least 10 to 20 cents on each dollar,

Oils! Oils! Oils!

Fish and Neats Foot Oil per gallon,	1 00	Head Light Oil per gallon,	25c
Coal and Rose Oil per gallon,	20c	Machine Oil per gallon,	50c

FISH, FISH, FISH, FISH,

A Large Assortment of both | Salt Water and Lake Fish

No. 1 White Fish ½ bbl	6 00	No. 1 Mackeral in Kits	1 25
No. 2 do do	5 00	No. 1 Famils in Kits
No. 1 Lake Shad ½ bbl.		George's Bank Codfish per pound
No. 1 Pickeral ½ bbl		Extra Mess Mackeral	1 50 and 1 75
White Fish in kits No. 1	1 25	Herrings each	1c
White Fish family No. 3	1 00	Pickeral and Trout ½ bbl	50

TOBACCOS, TOBACCOS.

The duty of 4c cents per pound goes on tobacco March 1st. This thing we anticipated, and in consequence we have a large stock ahead, so that our customers, as long as the present stock lasts, shall have goods at the old price.

Choice Plug, Five Bros. per pound		Fine Cut	60, 80, and 90c
Good Richmond Navy per pound	50c	Shorts	40c
Ladies Twist, very fine	65c	Smoking	35c best 40c
Long John Tens	50c

25 Cents on the Dollar Saved at

THE FRUIT HOUSE

THE FIRST

National Bank

OF AUBURN, INDIANA.

Capital Stock $50,000

Deposits received on time or subject to check on sight

Exchange, available in the United States, Canada and Europe, furnished.

Checks and drafts, payable in any part of th U. S. cashed at our counter, or collected and proceeds accounted for to holder.

Collecitions made and promptly remitted for on day of payment.

Loans negotiated and business papers discounted

Government and other securities bought and sold.

Directors:

J. R. LANNING, NICHOLAS ENSLY,
O. C. CLARK, WM. McINTYRE,
GEO. HAZZARD.

Officers:

JOSEPH R. LANNING, Prest.
JAS. V. HAZZARD, Cashier.

April 29, 1875.

Auburn Courier.

Local and Miscellaneous.

WANTED.

Five Hundred Cords of Elm Stave Bolts, is wanted immediately at the Stave Factory of Beugnot & Co., for which they will pay the cash. tf.

AUBURN MARKETS.

CORRECTED WEEKLY.

Wheat—White	$1.10	Hogs—live	$6.00
Amber—red	1.05	Hogs—dressed
ye	75	Turkeys—live	.08
Oats	55	Chickens—live	.07
Corn	50 @ .55	Butter	.15
Potatoes	@1.25	Lard	.12
Flax Seed	1.60	Eggs	12
Clover Ceed	6.50	Tallow	.06
Wool	45 @ .60	Timothy Hay	12.00

A new crossing has been put down across Eight street.

Miss Frankie Ryan is visiting friends at Kendallville.

Beard has the best stock of lead-pencils in town. The cheapest, too.

The Spencerville school will open August 17th, with D. M. Allen as principal.

The weather has been cold and wet for several days past, fires coming very handy.

Our boys are receiving challenges from every quarter to play ball. Well, that's what we want.

Mr. Maurice is again at the billiard parlors of S. J. Lock, and we learn will remain among us.

Throw salt in your cabbage, and keep the army worms from feasting thereof.

The Albion boys are more than likely satisfied now on the base ball business. Our boys beat them over two to one.

J. J. VanAuken has returned to the city again, after a several weeks stay in Steuben County.

The little child taken by Geo, Picker to raise, a few weeks ago, died last Tuesday.

Joseph Graves and Chapman, connected with the Keelan affair at Garrett, are at liberty. The preliminary examination has been postponed until next Monday.

See advertisement of G. H. Munn, of the Central Dry Goods Store in another column. Special bargains are offered in this line of trade.

Mr. A. Marvin at Garrett City, has just fitted up a new barber shop, and has everything looking neat and tasty. He is doing a large business.

Prof. Tice, of St. Louis, says we are to have more violent storms this month than we had last. We hope the Professor will be proved a false prophet.

The Ladies Social of the Presbyterian Church held their society at Pleasant Lake last Friday. Good weather and a large crowd made it a success.

The base ball nine comes out for practice about once every summer. That's too often, it makes some of 'em play reckless.

A Sabbath school pic-nic is to be held at Emanuel's Grove two miles northeast of Spencerville and one mile west of Coburn's Corners on Thursday August 12th, 1875.

Horse-racing wasn't very profitable this year. The association, it is reported, lost $600 at Goshen, $1,000 at South Bend, and upwards of $1,000 at Fort Wayne.

We were pleased to receive a call from D. Kahn, Esq., of Indianapolis, who contemplates putting in a large stock of clothing at this place in a few weeks.

The ladies of this State are going to hold a Centenniel Tea Party at the State Fair this fall, a lady from each district representing each of the thirteen original States.

Next Friday, so they say, Garrett City will send up a base ball nine to play a match game on our grounds. A pretty good club may be expected.

Spink & Co., are selling plow coulters like hot cakes, every farmer that has an opportunity will purchase one as they prevent cloging and makes the draft much lighter.

Peter Brandon, Jr., has charge of the Eight street Billiard Hall and in connection with the hall has a good lunch at all hours, such as pickeled tongue, cakes &c. Call in.

See in another column the prospectus of the Fort Wayne Daily "Gazette." It is received here every morning, and is brim full of the early morning news.—Get a coppy at Houser's.

FOUND.—A pocket book was found on the Spencerville road last week containing money. The owner can have it by proving property and paying for this notice. Enquire at this office.

Miss Sallie Shaw, the vivocious and agreeable clerk of Mr. Stamets, left yesterday for her home in Bucyrus Ohio, on a short visit. There will be an aching void in the hearts of many until the dear girl returns again.

Reub Lent has built a fine opera house at Toledo, and opens out with the best talent in the country. The programme each evening is replete with the best features now seen upon any stage. Reub is enterprising and is bound to win.

If the local editor of the Fort Wayne "Gazette" don't stop using our name in vain, there'll be a "local" shot some fine day, and a fine item instead. We don't make any threats, but we mean what we mean.

Our old townsman, Dick Burninston, has located at Garrett City, where he intends running a first-class blacksmith shop. Dick is a tip-top workman and will give entire satisfaction in every particular.

Prof. O. M. Record, the new principal of our school is here making every arrangement in conjunction with the School Board for the success of the coming term. Foreign scholars will find it to their advantage to attend the coming term.

The Auburn Graded Schools open Aug. 23d, with a fine corps of teachers. The buildings are all repaired over, and the new school house at the north end of town will make everything convenient in our educational matters this fall and winter. A large number of foreign scholars are expected to be present.

The citizens in and about the Junction are realizing the want of a good school house, and the four townships of that corner there should go to work and erect a large substantial brick building something like the one now being erected in the north part of town.

It would be gratifying if the Fort Wayne "Sentinel" would let our Democratic friends in Ohio manage their own affairs. If it realy desires the defeat of Allen why don't it say so.—[Columbia City Post.

Just what we think. If the "Sentinel" thinks it knows more that the Democracy of Ohio, suppose it change places, and give us a rest.

The editor of the Hicksville "Independent" has bought a safe, and now some of his jealous cotemporaries are poking fun at him. Its got so now-a-days that an editor can't have a safe or a fast-horse without being the subject of numerous remarks. The tendancy of the age is bad, neighbor, so don't pay any attention to them.

We are glad to greet the return of our old friend W. H. Dills, Esq., last Monday, looking bright and happy as in days long past. Will has not been himself for several years; he has been, as it were, under a cloud. We trust that it has passed and that the bright dawning of a happy and prosperous future lies before him.

> "Now is the winter of our discontent
> Made glorious summer by the sun of York,
> And all the clouds that lower'd on our house,
> In the deep bosom of the ocean buried."

Our enterprising ice merchant A. S. Wells, having exhausted his supply of ice secured here last winter, and having agreed to supply his customers through the season, has just shipped in from Pleasant Lake several car loads of the most beautiful crystal ice we have ever seen. Of course it is more expensive but then his word is out and he never goes back on the poor. It is a pleasure to do business with a reliable person and Al. wont lose heavily in the end.

ARE YOU DYSPEPTIC?

If so, and you desire immediate relief, go to the drug store of F. E. Davenport and get a bottle of Doosta's Radical cure. It will tone up the stomach, assist digestion restore the appetite, regulate the liver, and in fact make a new man of you. Delicate females will fine it peculiary adapted to their various disorders. It is the most efficacious antidote for all diseases arising from a disorded stomach, liver or a low state of the system, that has ever been prescribed or advertised. Try it just once, and you will, like thousands of others become its enthusiastic advocate Trial sized 25 cents.

W. B. Dancer left for Chicago yesterday. Sure he did.

NOTICE

The stockholders of Patrons of Husbandry, will on next Saturday the 14th day of August at their hall in Auburn for the purpose of electing officers for the ensuing year, Auburn August 4th, 1875.

J. E. SHILLING, P. A. of P.H.

The ball nine had a meeting in the COURIER office Tuesday evening for the purpose of electing a captain. Tom Sprott was the unanimous choice. We think that Tommy will make a good one, and as the committee were afraid to do their duty in changing the captian, they will, of course, let him manage and control the nine to the best of his notion.

A South end gentleman, after the family have retired for the night, smears the gate and doorstep with paint and watches closely the next day the wearing apparel of the young men he encounters to see which one it was that took his daughter home, the night before, from prayer meeting. The old man found out, and the young man had better send a hack for her after this and not run any risk by going so close to the house himself.

Robinson's show seems to have given very general satisfaction. The circus performance was good and the animal show full and complete. One animal advertised did not appear—the Giraffe. It died the Sunday before at Marion, this State, after a very short illness, aged about three years. The value of this rare curiosity was about $8,000. There are only three or four giraffes in the United States, and Old John Robinson has already secured one of these.

Mr. Snyder, the blacksmith in the lower part of the town, had a fine lot of cabbage on Monday night, but the next morning there was not a single head left, all the neighboring cows having paid it a visit during the night. We are in favor of the passage of an ordinance requiring citizens to keep up their stock at night. There is no protection for any one against these depredations unless they individually watch through the night In fact the citizens should voluntarily do this, without the aid of an ordinance.

Garrett is making rapid progress in the way of a town, and new houses spring up every day. They are not of a very substantial character, but then they will do to start with. The foundation for the new brick hotel is being laid, and is also that of the large machine shops. The foundation for the Railroad house looks as big as a race track, and these structures will add largely to the place. New comers are arriving every day, and speculators are on the alert. Garrett may yet prove handsome, but certainly will not have contributed much to that end.

A new bank has been organized in Waterloo, called "The Citizens Bank." Jacob Kahn, John Leas, Mr. Boyer, Mr. Corbett and Mr. Langan, formerly cashier of the other bank, are the principal stockholders. The new organization will be a popular one, as several of the very best citizens of Waterloo are identified with it. Mr. Langan is cashier.

The old bank will still continue in business, Messrs. Best, McClellan & Clark being largely connected therewith.

Mr. A. J. Little has about completed a nice little business room next to Abright's store, and to give an idea of the demand for business stands in this place, Mr. Little informs us that there has been seventeen applications for this room, as follows:—One book store, music store, harness shop, two barber shops, two doctor's offices, one china store, one cigar, one notion store, one millinery store, and dressmaking, besides for other purposes. Houser & Co. are to occupy it with their book store.

Our enterprising barber, Sammy Pommert, not being satisfied altogether with his German journeyman, has made another change. This time he has got the boss of all bosses, Mr. Robert Napier, of Chicago, who will remain with him in the future. Mr. N. comes highly recommended, and with Sam's reputation as a first class barber, they will make a terrible stout team to pull against. His shop is located over Cool's grocery store, on Seventh street, and our citizens should patronize these rooms, as the style of work they turn out gives them a claim for public patronage.

Advertised Letters

The following are letters not called for in the Auburn Post Office.

Bodmer Rev. John	Mathews Miss M.
Baumgorter J. G.	Moellner William 2
Bailey Lissie	Mowery John H.
Clark Mollie E.	Philow J. F.
Faron W. H.	Rex J. M.
Follett Ben.	Rolfer Daniel J.
Faber Syloana	Steel R. C.
Garst G. P.	Smoth Chas W.
King Jas	Stiles J. B.
King John	Smith Mrs. A. J.
Long H. B. 2	Switser Benjamin
Lewis Mrs. Mary	Shof Eddie
Lampshire A.	Linnerman E.
McMellen Milton 3	Williams John
	Willis Miss Nanie

When calling for these letters please say advertised.

S. L. YANDES P. M.

We notice that the best dressed portion of our population are wearing goods furnished by our woolen mills, being regarded as the most stylish and serviceable to be found in the market. A fine assortment of cassimeres, jeans, flannels, &c., is kept on hand at all times. Goods changed or cash paid for wool.

BOND CASE SETTLED.

At last this great case, celebrated for its longevity, has been settled, the County taking judgment against Mr. Blair and his sureties for $5,800. We believe this will be generally satisfactory. There was no element of revenge in the case, the main object being to establish the precedent that officers and their bondsmen must be held accountable for all moneys in their hands. A "vigorous" prosecution has done some good.

DEATH OF ANDREW JOHNSON.

Ex-President and Senator elect Andrew Johnson died at his house in Greenville, Tenn., last Saturday morning, from a stroke of paralysis. He was the seventeenth president of the United States and was the only surviving ex-president. He was born in North Carolina, and was 67 years old. He was elected to the U. S. Senate last fall.

The Army Worm.

A very general complaint is made by the farmer in this section relative to the ravages of the army worm. A large portion of the oats crop has been destroyed especially where it was green and lying down some. Few fields are not touched, while others show nothing but the bare stock. They seem to climb upon the stock and cut the main fibre that holds the oats and the ground is covered with grain. They do not seem to be doing as much now as at first and it is hoped that they will soon disappear and not injure the corn.

Excursion to Put-in-Bay

On the 11th of August, 1875, over the Air Line Road, will be a grand excursion to the above place, starting from Kendallville, and stopping at intervening stations along the line. It is gotten up for the benefit of the Christian Church at Waterloo and Butler, and a large turn out from all over the country will only be giving to a good cause. The accommodations will be first-class, as this road has plenty of coaches for all that may attend. The attractions at the Bay will be very interesting.

Notice to the Public

The Butler graded school will open there fall term on Monday, August 23d, 1875. The Boord of Trustees have secured the survice of Prof. J. G. Bowersox as Principal, who will take charge of the school for the comming season, and will be assisted in the different departments by Miss Lorinda Daniels, Miss Mary Brundage and Mrs. Morilla Snivels. With this corpes of instructors the patrons of the school and the public at large, may confidently expect a successful and profitable term of school. The school building has been refitted, and everything convenient and comfortable. Students desirous of attending school this fall, will find it to their advantage, to attend the Butler school, as the Trustees will spare no pains to their stay with us, both pleasant and profitable. Teachers class will be formed at the commencement of the term, and particular attention will be paid to those wishing to teach. Boarding can be had be applying to the undersigned.

Lewis Panson,
W. L. Blair,
J. R. Sunley. } Trustees.

AN OLD TRAMP.

One of those peculiar characters, of which the world knows but little, was in town last week. His name is W. P. Hargett, and he is known among the printing fraternity of "The Old Tramp" For years he has traveled over the country, most of the time on foot, a restless, weary wanderer. Without an object in life, homeless and almost friendless, he has existed upon the cold charities of the world, asking work here and receiving friendly assistance there, and often starving and freezing in the midst of plenty. He was the guest of the COURIER office three days last week, the most of which time he used in "sobering off," and getting ready for the great duties of life. He was a man of fine intellect at one time, knows Shakespeare and other standard poetical works by heart, appreciates a kindness and feels an insult as keenly as the most sensative. He differs from other tramps in that, he is cleanly and honest, and is a judge of good whisky. He told us of an adventure on the great prairies of Illinois, in mid winter, how he was caug't in a blinding snow storm miles from any habitation, how he struggled on till dark, when he heard the squeal of pigs, and following the sound, found them in an old strawstack, how he crept in and slept with them until the morning to keep from freezing. But whisky has done a good deal for Hargett, is doing for him now, and soon another, and about the last of the old timers, will have found a place to rest his weary head in the great grave.

his na-
ediate
at the dless.
shore
the iecre-
of
of are have they all wned man robbere hich feet ght es-yeast, a very little salt. Stir sufficient to make a batter.

rings over the fire.

A NEW HAMPSHIRE family kee vinegar in a white lead keg, a surprised the other day to find selves badly poisoned.

DO NOT permit case knife bl forks to stand in hot water. It the steel and cracks the handles.
handles should never be placed in

FLUID glue may be prepared solving one pound of good glue pint of hot water, to which are three ounces of nitric acid; aft evolution of nitrous vapors has the liquid is cooled, when it is use.

LOAF CAKE.—1½ pounds of flo pounds of sugar

WHEN !

SEPTEMBER 1, '75.

WHAT!

THE FALL TERM OF

AUBURN UNION SCHOOL

WILL COMMENCE ON MONDAY,

August 23rd, 1875.

A new school building is being erected for the accommodation of two of the lower grades. This will prevent the overcrowding formerly experienced in the old school building.

The old school building is being repaired, papered, re-seated with new and commodious seats and thoroughly fitted up in every respect.

Pupils living out of town who wish to attend school, may consult Mr. J. J. Littlefield, Prest. of the School Trustees.

Board can be obtained in private families at $3 to $4.

Particular attention will be given to students who intend to teach during the winter.

Classes will be commenced in Latin German, Higher Mathamatics and Higher English. The following corps of teachers have been hired:

Mr. O. M. Record, Principal; Mr. Jas W. Ottis, Asst; Mrs. A. Thomas, Miss Laura Clark, Miss Ida Mahuran, Miss Mattie Miller, Miss Hattie Griswold.

J. J. LITTLEFIELD,
J. W. RICKLE,
W. GRISWOLD, } School Trustees.

FORT WAYNE

MORNING GAZETTE !

A LIVE, WIDE-AWAKE DAILY PAPER!

Issued in Time to Meet all the Early Morning Trains Leaving Ft. Wayne

Containing Each Day the Latest and Fullest Telegraphic, Monetary and Commercial News.

On July 1st the Fort Wayne Daily and Weekly Gazette Printing House passed into the hands of WILLIAMS & HOSSLER, late of the "Northern Indianian," of Warsaw, who design to make it just such a paper as the people of the region in which it is published need. Arrangements are already made to have it delivered to subscribers in all the neighbori g towns on all the roads leading out of Fort Wayne, and as the paper can be received in this way from 4 to 6 hours in advance of any other, the advantages of subscribing for the "Morning Gazette" can be seen at a glance.

THE LATEST STOCK, MONEY AND COMMERCIAL NEWS

Will receive the closest attention of the managers and in every instance can be relied upon as correct i every particular. The Gazette is already receiving the highest encomiums of the press and the people. Terms of the Morning Gazette:

One year [in advance]		$9.00
Six Months	"	4.50
One Month	"	75
Per Week	"	20

Is Your Life Worth 10 Cents.

SICKNESS prevails everywhere, and everybody complains of some disease during their life—When sick, the object is to get well. Now we say plainly that no person in this world that is suffering with Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint and its effects, such as Indigestion, Costiveness, Sick Headache, Sour stomache, Heart-burn, Palpitation of the Heart, Depressed Spirits, Billiousness, &c, can take GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER without getting relief and cure. If you doubt this, go to your Druggist and get a sample bottle for ten cents, and try it. Regular size 75 cents. Two doses will relieve you.

NOTICE TO HEIRS OF PETITION TO SELL REAL ESTATE.

STATE OF INDIANA,
DeKalb County. } Set:

NOTICE is hereby given that James H. Rose Administrator "Debonis non" of the estate of Christian Buss deceased, has filed his petition to sell the real estate of the decedent, his personal being insufficient to pay his debts; and that said petition will be heard at the next term of Circuit Court of said County.

J. R. LANNING, Clerk.

NOTICE.

NOTICE is hereby by given to citizens, witnesses and all others interested, also to the Petit Jorros heretofore summoned for the May term, 1875, of the DeKalb Circuit Court, that court was adjourned, by the Judge thereof, to a special term commencing on Monday August 30th 1875, for the trial and determination of causes pending and not disposed of, or said May term 1875 of saed Court. Witness my hand and the seal of said court this 2d day of August, 1875

J. R, LANNING, Clerk.

NOTICE.

STATE OF INDIANA,
DeKalb County. } Set:

In the DeKalb Circuit Court, September term, 1875.

Rowland Tefft
vs
Nettie Hamilton
Charles Hamilton
Isaacs D. Toll } Complaint No. 131

NOW comes the plaintiff, by C. O. A. McClellan his attorney, and files his complaint herein, together with an affidavit that said defendants Nettie A. Hamilton, Charles Hamilton and Isaac D. Toll are not residents of the State of Indiana. Notice is, therefore, hereby given saiddefendant that unless they be and appear on the first day of the next term of the DeKalb Circuit Court, to be holden on the 4th Monday of September A. D. 1875, at the court house in Auburn, in said County and State, and answer or demur to said complaint, the same will be determined in their absence.

Witness my name and the seal of said Court affixed at Auburn this 4th day of August, 1875.

J, R LANNING, Clerk.

NOTICE.

STATE OF INDIANA,
DeKalb County } Set.

In the DeKalb Circuit Court, September term, 1875.

William York
versus
George Egnew,
Alice Egnew,
William W. Egnew,
& Harriet E. Egnew, } Complaint No. 132.

Now comes the plaintiff, by C. A. O. McClellan, his attorney, and files his complaint herein, together with an affidavit that said defendants William W. Egnew and Harriet E. Egnew are not residents of the State of Indiana.

Notice is, therefore, hereby given said defendants that unless they be and appear on the first day of the next term of the DeKalb circuit court to be holden on the 4th Monday of September a. d. 1875, at the court house in Auburn, in said county and State, and answer or demur to said complaint, the same will be heard and determined in their absence.

Witness, My name and the seal of said court affixed at Auburn, this 4th day of August 1875.

J. R. LANNING, Clerk.

NOTICE.

STATE OF INDIANA,
DeKalb County } Set.

In the DeKalb Circuit Court, September Term 1875.

Samuel S. Danford
versus
Jonathan J. Miller, and David Delong, } Complaint No. 151.

Now comes the the plaintiff, by P. V. Hoffman his attorney, and files his complaint herein, together with an affidavit that said defendant Jonathan J. Miller is not a resident of the Statet of Indiana

Notice is, therefore, hereby given said defendant that unless he be and appear on the first day of the next term of the DeKalb County Circuit Court, to be holden on the 4th Monday of September A. D. 1875, at the Court house in Auburn, in said County and State, and answer or demur to said complaint, the same will be heard and determined in his absence.

Witness, my name and the seal of said Court fix ed at Auburn, this 4th day of August, 1875.

J. R. LANNING Clerk.

AUBURN COURIER

THURSDAY, AUGUST 5, 1875.

THE NEWS CONDENSED.

THE EAST.

INGLESIDE, a well-known summer resort near Holyoke, Mass., has been totally swept out of existence by fire.

AT Philadelphia, on Monday, a fool named Conor playfully pointed a gun at his young wife and pulled the trigger. He thought it was empty, but it wasn't, and Conor is now a widower....A locomotive boiler exploded the other day at Port Jervis, N. Y., with frightful effect. Three men were killed outright—the body of one of them, the engineer, being blown a distance of over a thousand feet, where it lodged in a tree....A large amount of spurious five-cent nickel coin has been placed in circulation by a Brooklyn gang of counterfeiters.

A SYRACUSE (N. Y.) dispatch announces the death of Celia Burleigh, the woman's rights advocate, aged 48....A New York telegram announces the suspension of the old and prominent banking and brokerage firm of Duncan, Sherman & Co. The failure was caused by heavy advances made on stocks and cotton account. The liabilities of the firm are between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000. The news of the failure produced the wildest excitement in Wall street. Baring Brothers, of London, are heavy losers. Americans traveling in Europe will also suffer largely by the failure. For a time it was feared that the collapse of this great house was but the beginning of a great financial crash, but an exposition of the causes that led to the suspension showed that these fears were unfounded.

THE Commercial Warehouse Company, of New York, has suspended. Liabilities estimated at $1,500,000. The stock of the company is owned principally in Cuba....J. B. Ford & Co., publishers (not proprietors), of the Christian Union and "The Life of Christ," are greatly embarrassed, and their suspension is looked for.

THE Trenton Banking Company, of Trenton, N. J., which lost $160,000 by the Jay Cooke failure, loses $100,000 by the suspension of Duncan, Sherman & Co.

THE WEST.

NEWS has been received at Gen. Sheridan's headquarters in Chicago that 500 Ponca Indians have abandoned their reservation. It is also reported that Spotted Tail, with 260 Sioux warriors, had left his reservation with the intention of visiting the Ponca Agency and massacring first the whites on the reservation and then the Poncas....Kansas will have no State fair this year, because no city can afford a sufficient subsidy.

JOHN GARRETTY, a Peoria pedestrian, succeeded the other day in walking seven miles in 57½ minutes....Howe's circus was sadly demoralized by a tornado at La Crosse, Wis., a few nights ago....A prisoner at Fort Leavenworth, while working in a quarry, was sunstruck, and it is said that while in that condition, Sergeant Hogan, in command of the gang, commenced to beat him, and inflicted injuries from the effects of which he died soon after.

A REPORT comes from the Black Hills, by way of Fort Laramie, that new and richer gold-fields have been discovered about thirty-five miles northeast of Harney's Peak, and that all the miners in the Hills, about eight hundred, were rushing pell-mell for the new diggings. It is reported that nuggets have been found worth $1 and upward....Judge Booth, of the Circuit Court of Cook county, Ill., has rendered a decision to the effect that the bondsmen of David A. Gage, late City Treasurer of Chicago, are liable for the full amount of the claims of the city against Gage—a little less than a million dollars.

A MIXED train on the Northern Pacific railroad, consisting of twenty-two cars, recently went through a bridge across the Mississippi river at Brainard, Minn., killing five persons. The bridge is about eighty feet high.

A FREIGHT train on the Louisville, New Albany and Chicago railroad went through a trestle forty feet high, near Cloverdale, Ind., on Thursday, killing the engineer, conductor and head brakeman. The fireman had one leg and one arm broken....A dispatch from Springfield, Mo., states that a report has reached there that Col. Wm. P. Ross, principal chief of the Cherokee Indians, and candidate for re-election to that position, had been assassinated near Fort Gibson, by a party of Downing men, his political opponents. Col. Boudinot, who was in the Territory, is said to have fled north.

THE report that Chief Ross, of the Cherokee Nation, had been assassinated, is denied.

THE SOUTH.

LEGAL proceedings have been commenced in New Orleans against State Auditor Clinton, Treasurer Dubuclet, Secretary of State Deslonde, and Speaker Lowell. The charge is misdemeanor in office, for funding warrants to a large amount representing an illegal claim against the State of Louisiana.

A MAN named Johnson, with his wife and five children, attempted to ford the Coosawattee river, near Atlanta, Ga., a few days since, but their wagon got into deep water, and all the children were drowned.

A WAR of races has broken out in East Feliciana parish, La. A bad feeling has existed between the whites and blacks in that parish for some months, which threatens to break out into open hostilities.

THE St. Louis delegates to the Missouri Constitutional Convention, now in session at Jefferson City, have finally decided to recommend a plan for the complete division and separation of the city and county of St. Louis. The city to sustain the same relation toward the State as a county, and to become the owner of all penal and charitable institutions and public buildings within the extended limits, and to assume the entire indebtedness of the county; the county to organize as a new county, and the county seat to be selected by a majority vote of the people of the county.

WASHINGTON.

THERE has been a small steal in the Treasury Department—only a thousand dollars—but it occurred among the girls who are engaged in counting the packages sent for redemption by the banks, and consequently created a good deal of flutter....Avery, the indicted Chief Clerk of the Treasury Department, has been dismissed.

THE Mountain Meadow massacre trial is fairly under way at Beaver, Utah. Several eye-witnesses of that cruel slaughter have given their testimony. The evidence locates the crime conclusively upon the Mormon leaders, and, unless disproved by an overwhelming array of rebutting evidence, forever sets at rest the story that the luckless emigrants perished at the hands of Indians alone. The story these witnesses tell agrees in the main, and surpasses in minuteness any of the horrible details which have been published heretofore. Although eighteen years have passed since the massacre occured, the recital of its awful particulars strikes with fresh force, and with the feeling of sick horror which comes over the reader there is mingled the righteous passion of vengeance, and a wish that the fate of the slaughtered women and children might be visited upon such of the Mormon fiends as are still on the hither side of hell.

SECRETARY FISH has received information that an association of counterfeiters, with their headquarters at Barcelona, Spain, are preparing to issue in this city $12,000,000 in counterfeit notes on the Bank of England and Bank of France....The President has appointed ex-Gov. Wells, of Virginia, to succeed Fisher as Attorney for the District of Columbia.

COMMISSIONER WATTS, of the Agricultural Department, in an interview with a correspondent the other day, stated that the late reports concerning the harvest of fall wheat justified him in saying that doubtless 75 per cent. of a full crop would be realized, when 85 per cent. has really been anticipated. He thinks the spring crop will prove a full one. He is not confident about a flush market making low prices. He says that he has often seen the contrary, where wheat would advance very steadily upon a flush market. He says the scanty harvests in France, Germany, and England this year will do much to keep up a good price for our home wheat....A curious story has been raked up among the old accounts in the War Department, showing how a clerical error had a tragic result. An officer during the war was wrongfully charged with a defalcation amounting to $1,600, and, being unable to readily demonstrate his innocence, he committed suicide.

JAMES GILFILLAN succeeds Avery as Chief Clerk of the Treasury Department....The late defalcation in the Treasury Department, attributed to theft by some of the female employes, has been found to be a mistake, and the missing $1,000 turns up all right....Additional reports have been received by the War Department from prominent army officers complaining of gross frauds upon Indians by their agents.

AVERY, late Chief Clerk of the Treasury Department, was arrested at Washington the other day, and required to give bail for his appearance before the St. Louis Criminal Court.

THE Comptroller of the Currency has advised the Secretary of the Treasury of the issue of $1,270,590 additional national bank circulation, for the month ending July 28, 80 per cent. of which is to be retired in legal tender notes, making the whole amount of legal tender notes retired since the passage of the act of Jan. 14, 1875, $7,244,892....Bishop Ames declines to serve on the Sioux Indian Commission.

GENERAL.

A CABLE telegram announces the stranding, on the English coast, of the steamer Abbotsford, of the American line, Philadelphia. All the passengers and a portion of the cargo were saved....It is now highly probable that a stop will be put to the cattle-stealing operations of Mexican bandits. The United States government has purchased the steamer Planter, which draws only four feet of water, and is arming and manning her for service on the Rio Grande. Other steamers of a similar character will be purchased and fitted out for the same purpose.

FOUR millions of silver, it is stated by a Washington telegram, will be coined at the several mints before the close of August, and the Treasury Department promises that hard money shall shortly take the place of bank notes and greenbacks....A London telegram announces the death, at the age of 64 years, of Isaac M. Singer, the inventor of the sewing machine....The Postmaster-General has decided to put on a fast mail train between Chicago and New York. It is the intention to make the run between the two cities in twenty-four hours, a gain of twelve hours over the present time.

THE excitement occasioned by the failure of Duncan, Sherman & Co., has been succeeded by a quiet feeling, and there is no reason to expect other important suspensions on their account.

POLITICAL.

THE Republican State Convention of Minnesota was held at St. Paul on the 28th ult. John S. Pillsbury was nominated for Governor, and J. B. Wakefield for Lieutenant-Governor. The financial plank of the platform reads: "That on the present questions of the day we favor that policy of finance which shall steadily keep in view a return to specie payments."

FOREIGN.

COUNT DZEMBECK, his mother and a chambermaid have been arrested at Landeck, in the district of Breslau, charged with being concerned in a conspiracy to assassinate Prince Frederick William....The loss by the floods in the south of France is officially stated at $15,000,000....Meetings are being held in England to indorse the course of Plimsoll, the agitator, in denouncing the government.

AND now comes news of the failure of the crops in many districts of Portugal, caused by drought. The cattle are dying of hunger, and a famine is threatened....The reported plot to assassinate the Crown Prince of Germany was a hoax....The English ship Stuart, bound from London to Bombay, has been lost at sea. Thirty-eight of the crew perished.

ONE hundred and fifty-six out of the 162 cotton mills in Oldham, England, are closed on account of a strike of the operatives, and in Ashton fifty mills are closed and 8,000 operatives idle....The Russian wheat crop promises a good average.

GRANT'S cotton-mills at Glasgow, Scotland, were recently destroyed by fire. The loss is $2,500,000....Thirty-one cotton-mills have closed at Dundee, Scotland, and 12,000 persons are out of employment....Reports from Canada are to the effect that the crop prospects are favorable. Fall wheat is below the average, while spring wheat is better than usual. Oats, barley and potatoes promise an abundant yield. ....Dispatches from London and Liverpool report that there has been no appreciable effect on the general market in those cities occasioned by the failure of Duncan, Sherman & Co.

MR. PLIMSOLL having read an apology in the English Parliament for his previous unjust remarks, he was discharged without reprimand. ....Large meetings of workingmen have been held in England to protest against the proposed grant of £142,000 to defray the expenses of the Prince of Wales' visit to India....In Switzerland the Gothard tunnel workmen, numbering 2,200, united in a strike and riotous proceedings. The government troops dispersed them, after killing two and wounding many more.... A large body of Carlist troops has been completely invested at the Spanish town of Seo de Urgel, and must eventually surrender.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

Weekly Review of the Chicago Market.

FINANCIAL.

There was no change to note in the condition of the money market. Demand for favors rather light, with an abundance of loanable funds. Interest rates 6@7c for sixty days, 8@10c for long loans. Bonds firm and steady.

BREADSTUFFS.

To say that the grain markets were excited during the past week would scarcely convey a good idea of the prevailing state of affairs. The attendance of local speculators was large, and the leading grains—wheat, corn and oats—attracted more than the usual amount of attention. The fluctuations in values were very frequent and unusually severe, especially in wheat. The movement was mainly on speculative account, and the governing influences were generally speculative in their tenor, although there was considerable encouragement in the tone of the advices received from Europe and also from New York. Crop reports from Europe were unfavorable and higher prices were reported both for wheat and corn. At New York an urgent export demand for wheat existed and higher prices were readily obtained. The evident firmness of the market affected the "short" interest and made them anxious to provide for their outstanding contracts, while it materially aided the "bull" element in their endeavors to force prices to a higher range. Spring wheat for August opened at $1.18, sold at $1.30, but closed at $1.21½. Corn opened at 70½c, sold to 77c, closed at 73½c August. Oats sold as high as 42½c. The smaller grains were comparatively quiet.

The following table shows the prices current at the opening and close of the past week:

	Opening.		Closing.
No. 2 sp'g wheat, cash		@1.16½	1.19	@1.20
No. 2, seller July		@1.14½		@1.19
No. 2, seller August		@1.19		@1.21½
No. 2 seller September		@1.11½		@1.20
No. 2 corn, cash		@ .69½	.72½	@ .72½
No. 2 corn, seller July		@ .69½		@ .73½
No. 2 corn, s. August		@ .70½		@ .73½
No. 2 corn, seller Sept		@ .71½		@ .78½
No. 2 oats, cash		@ .49	.54	@ .54½
No. 2 oats, seller July		@ .49		@ .54
No. 2 oats, s. August		@ .38½		@ .40½
No. 2 oats, s. Sept		@ .36½		@ .37
No. 2 rye, cash		@1.02		@1.09
No. 2 rye, seller Aug	.76	@ .80		@ .83
No. 2 barley, cash	1.30	@1.32		@1.33
No. 2 barley, s. Sept	1.05	@1.07		@1.01

PROVISIONS.

There was a fair degree of activity in this market during the past week, but a very unsettled feeling prevailed, and the fluctuations in prices were both frequent and severe. The market was governed mainly by local influences, and sympathized somewhat with the change in grain. The market closed quite steady, however, at the following quotations: Cash mess pork, $20.50@20.65, seller August $20.50, seller September $20.65, and seller October $21.15. Lard, cash, $13.60, seller August closed at $13.55@13.60, seller September, $13.75@13.80.

PRODUCE.

There was only a moderate amount of business transacted in butter during the past week, and the bulk of the round lots sold were taken by parties using it for repacking purposes. There was a fair local demand for the better qualities, however, and the supply of these being rather light, prices ruled steady and firm. There was but little inquiry on shipping account, and for medium and low grades the market ruled dull and stocks have accumulated somewhat. The supply of the lower grades was very liberal and among the receipts there were but few choice lots. The quotations given below are for the following classifications, adopted by the National Butter Association: Extras—Shall be composed of selections from the finest grades of fresh made sorts, and shall be of the highest standard of table butter. Firsts—Shall be a good quality of butter, of uniform natural color, in season, sweet and properly seasoned, in good uniform style of package, and in good condition. Seconds—Shall consist of a good, sweet, solid grade of butter, uniform in color, in good style of package, and in good condition. Thirds—Shall embrace all sorts between the quality too poor to be classed as seconds, and the grade above grease butter. Quotable at 19@23c for extras, 16@19c for firsts, 14@16c for seconds, 12½@14c for thirds, and 11@12c for inferior stock. There was a good trade reported in broom corn and prices were firm as follows: 11½@14c for No. 1 to extra hurl, 11@13c for good to choice stalk braid, and 6@8½c for crooked. Beans were quiet and values were a trifle easier. Eastern medium quotable at $1.80 per brl in lots, and $1.85 in a small way; Western do $1.00@1.75 according to quality. Beeswax sold slowly at 26@28c per lb for prime yellow. There was quite a falling off in the shipping demand for cheese, and the market ruled quiet. There was no change, however, in prices; round lots sold at 10@10½c, and in a retail way 11c was obtained. Cider and cranberries are out of the market. There were a good many cherries received during the latter part of the week and prices were easier. Sold at $3.50@4.00 per bu. Trade was exceedingly light in the dried fruit market, but there was no change in prices. Michigan and New York apples quotable at 7@7½c. Halves peaches at 8½@8¾c, and blackberries were offered at 8½c. There was no sale for dried peas; nominal at $2.00@2.10 for choice green and $1.60@1.75 for marrowfat. Eggs were dull and unsettled, and the bulk of the offerings were in poor order; closed at 14@14½c in carriers, according to reputation of shipper. Feathers were dull and nominal at 48@52c for prime live geese and 20@25c for good to choice turkey tail. There was a good demand for the different kinds of green fruits and the market ruled quite active. The receipts were fair, but for choice stock former prices were maintained. Qutations range at 50c@$1.00 for poor to common peaches, $1.25@1.50 for good, and $1.75 for choice Crawfords. Apples sold at 25@60c per box, and $1.00@4.00 per brl, according to quality. Plums firm at $1.75@2.00 for choice red, and pears steady at $1.00@1.50 for good to choice in third bu boxes. There was good demand for hay, and prices under light offerings ruled firm at $15.50@19.00 for No. 2 to prime timothy, and $9.00@16.00 for No. 2 to prime prairie. Hides were quiet and easy; closed at about 7½c for good lots of green salted, and 13@13½c for calf. There was no demand for old potatoes, and new were brought in by neighboring farmers in such liberal quantities, which they were selling to the usual buyers, that the demand was exceedingly light, and the market ruled dull and lower; quotable at $1.00@1.25 for Southern Illinois in brls, and $1.75@2.00 per brl for choice Baltimore. Salt was steady, and a fair business was reported; quotable at $1.70 for ordinary coarse, $1.80 for Onondaga and [illegible]

NOTICE.

OF INDIANA, } Set:
alb County. }
DeKalb Circuit Court, September Term

. Olds
Olds
vs } Complaint No. 18
. Geiger
der J. Bodkins

comes the Plaintiffs, by F. V. Hoffman, r attorney, and files their complaint hereether with an affidavit that said defendants J. Geiger and Alexander J. Bodkin, are idents of the State of Indiana.

ice is, therefore, hereby given said defen that unless they be and appear on the first f the next term of the DeKalb Circuit court holden on the 4th Monday of September 1875, at the Court House in Auburn in said ty and State, and answer or demur to said plaint, the same will be heard and determin their absence.

ness my name and the seal of said court day of August 875.

75@90c, according to ... good demand for highwines and the market was as active as the offerings would admit. The market closed at $1.17.

COOPERAGE, LUMBER AND WOOD.

For the lighter descriptions of cooperage the demand continues fair, but for tight barrels there was little inquiry and the market ruled dull. The offerings were fair, and former prices were maintained. Quotations range at $1.12½@1.15 for pork barrels and $1.35@1.45 for lard tierces; $1.90@2.10 for whisky barrels, and 45@55c for flour barrels. It should be understood that the outside prices for lard tierces is only paid for "standard" packages—the new size adopted recently by the Packers' Association. There was more activity in the lumber market during the past week and an improved feeling was developed. The arrivals were fair and the bulk of the sales were made at former prices. The market closed at $7.75@8.00 for joists and scantling, $9.00@15.00 for common boards and strips, $2.10@2.70 for shingles, and $1.50 for lath. Wood was very quiet and sales were slow at the following prices: $8.00 per cord for hickory, $7.00 for maple, $6.00 for beech, and $4.00 for slabs at the yards.

Telegraphic Market Reports.

NEW YORK.
Beeves	9 50	@10 50
Hogs—Dressed	10	@ 10½
Cotton	14	@ 14½
Flour—Superfine Western	5 25	@ 5 75
Wheat—No. 2 Chicago	1 33	@ 1 34
No. 1 Spring	1 34	@ 1 36
Corn	84	@ 85
Oats	64	@ 66
Rye	1 08	@ 1 10
Pork—New Mess	20 00	@21 40
Lard—Steam	13	@ 13½
ST. LOUIS.
Wheat—No. 2 Red	1 36	@ 1 38
Corn—No. 2	67	@ 67½
Oats—No. 2	53	@ 57
Rye—No. 2	96	@ 98
Pork—Mess	21 00	@21 25
Lard	12	@ 13
Hogs	6 00	@ 7 80
Cattle	4 50	@ 6 00
MILWAUKEE.
Wheat—No. 1	..	@ 1 21½
No. 2	..	@ 1 19½
Corn—No. 2	..	@ 70
Oats—No. 2	..	@ 50½
Rye	96	@ 1 00
Barley—No. 2	..	@ 1 04
CINCINNATI.
Wheat—Red	1 40	@ 1 41
Corn	72	@ 74
Oats	63	@ 65
Rye	1 08	@ 1 20
Pork—Mess		@20 75
Lard	12½	@ 13½
TOLEDO.
Wheat—Extra	..	@ 1 [illegible]
Amber	1 36	@ 1 37½
Corn	75½	@ 76
Oats	57	@ 58
DETROIT.
Wheat—Extra	..	@ 1 37½
Amber	..	@ 1 34
Corn	..	@ 75
Oats	..	@ 67
CLEVELAND.
Wheat—No. 1 Red	..	@ 1 38
No. 2 Red	..	@ 1 33
Corn	74	@ 75
Oats	59	@ 61

GOLD IN ILLINOIS.

The Auriferous Metal Found in Gulches and Streams Near Decatur in Paying Quantities.

A telegram from Decatur, Ill., to the Chicago Journal says: A party of old miners yesterday visited the recently-discovered gold field near this city, and after prospecting in different places along the stream, a pan of dirt was taken out of Dutch gulch, washed and found to contain from twenty to thirty cents worth of the shining yellow metal. Some of the party not feeling satisfied, and fearing that a trick of some sort had been perpetrated, procured another pan of dirt, this time taking it off the top, which was washed and found to contain from three to four cents worth. This last pan was pronounced by Captain Mason and Mr. Crow, who have followed mining in California, as being rich enough in gold to pay well for mining, either on a large or small scale.

The latest report to-day is that gold has been found on the land belonging to Dr. L. N. Bills, adjoining that of Mr. Kepler. A specimen found here was brought to the city to-day, and we learn that it stood the test applied to it. Further developments will be awaited with great interest. Mr. Kepler has refused $2,000 per acre for his eighty acres of land.

One of Mr. Lincoln's Stories.

In his speech at Mr. Beecher's house at Peekskill on Monday night, the Hon. Chauncy M. Depew was impelled, by an allusion to the great amount of testimony and the little evidence taken in the six months' trial of the Tilton suit, to tell an anecdote of the late President Lincoln which we do not remember to have seen printed. Mr. Depew prefaced it by saying that when, as Secretary of State of New York, he visited Washington in 1864 to look after the army vote, he had occasion frequently to refer matters directly to Mr. Lincoln, who one day was reminded of a story, which he declared was one of the only two anecdotes original with him, notwithstanding his reputation for story-telling. "I only apply the good stories others tell me," the President said. The story which he thereupon preceeded to tell Mr. Depew was to the effect that many years before, when practicing in Illinois, he had appeared for the defendant in a case of assault and battery, in which the complainant did not seem to be very much injured, although he had been through a long series of brawls. In the course of the plaintiff's examination Mr. Lincoln asked, "How much ground did you fight over?" "About six acres," was the reply. "Don't you think," asked Mr. Lincoln, "that was an almighty small crop of fight for so much ground?" Amid the roars of laughter which followed, and in which the voice of Mr. Beecher was heard above all the others, Mr. Depew suggested that it was needless to make the application to such a quickly appreciative audience.—New York Herald.

A Realistic Centenarian.

The Lebanon (Pa.) News says: On the top of South Mountain, in Lancaster county, lives an old man by the name of Frederick Moyer, who is fast approaching his one hundredth year. On Saturday morning he walked all the way from his house to Womelsdorf, a distance of five miles, over rough, rocky, and y roads, and attended to financial siness, after which he went to the nor store of Sell & Schonour and purased a quart of Oberholtzer whisky, ying that was the stuff that kept him so long, and expects, if he can get it, keep it always in his house. He inends to visit Philadelphia next year and e the Centennial. Mr. Moyer is hale nd hearty, and works hard every day ut in the fields. He says if he does t take the lead it would not go.

BR

Hy

Having hundre want two mi three

J
W
lot low
S
S
C

A MAN hanged himself last month, in aris, in the presence of his paralyzed ife, who was unable to move or cry for sistance, and who was obliged to witess the horrifying sight of his death ruggles.

A BIRD-SELLER in Paris advertises that he will teach parrots to talk sensibly, and an effort is to be made to secure his services in some one of the American colleges before commencement day comes around again.

A BELLIGERENT RODENT.

The Chief Engineer of the Navy Vanquished by an Enormous Rat.

[Washington Cor. New York Sun.]

No less a person than Engineer-in-Chief of the Navy W. W. W. Wood came hobbling, like a wounded soldier, and with his ankles bandaged, into Welker's this morning in search of a breakfast.

"Gout, gout," said I; "too much of Robeson's old Madeira."

"No, no," he replied solemnly. "Rat, rat!" and he proceeded to tell me of a desperate combat, lasting nearly an hour, that he had had with a monster rat the night before. The family being away, and the rats not getting anything to eat for some days, had become hungry and desperate. Mr. Wood was sleeping alone in a back room, the bed being near a door. About 1 o'clock in the morning he was awakened suddenly by a severe pain in his foot, and heard something jump heavily to the floor. A light revealed the fact that a deep gash had been made on the ball of his left foot, from which the blood was flowing freely.

As there was no cat in the house, Mr. Wood at once concluded that it was a rat, and that it had made its exit. After washing and bandaging the wound, he again stretched himself on the bed and fell into a doze. The rat came at him again, this time making an ugly gash in the heel of his right foot. After bandaging the second wound, Mr. Wood went in search of the rat, resolved to kill him if possible. But his ratship had eaten his way into a bureau in the front room. A screw-driver was brought into use and one by one the drawers were opened, and there in the lower one was found, to use Mr. Wood's own word, "Mr. Rat half as big as the water pitcher, and looking directly at him with a pair of the wickedest eyes. Then he made a desperate jump directly in my face." Mr. Wood had shut the door and the only thing he had to defend himself was a small rattan. The rat made a desperate fight with him, more than a dozen times jumping to the top of the bureau, and thence in Mr. Wood's face and at his throat. The combat lasted nearly an hour by the clock, when, finding that he could neither kill nor wound the infuriated thing, and that he might get more seriously injured, he withdrew, leaving the rat in possession of the field, and, indeed, the victor.

Wood waited for morning and his servant man to arrive. In the meantime the rat went desperately to work gnawing at the door, in order to again attack the chief engineer, and had got more than half way through when the servant came, and the two entered the room, armed with stout sticks, to renew the combat. Removing all the furniture but the bureau, into which the rat had again retreated, they drove him out and renewed the fight. The infuriated creature fought as desperately as before, now jumping at the throat of one of his assailants, now at the other, inflicting ugly wounds on both; and it was not until after the battle had lasted twenty minutes that the rat was killed. His big head is now exhibited at the Navy Department as a trophy.

Two Millions of People.

The State census returns of this city and Brooklyn are not yet completed, but enough is known to make safe the estimate that the population of New York is about a million and a quarter, and that of Brooklyn half a million. Add to these figures add the population of Jersey City, Hoboken, Newark, and the Jersey Oranges of all sizes, colors, and at all points of the compass, which has its day residence in New York, and we have a city of 2,000,000 of souls struggling for existence on Manhattan Island.

The population of London by the census of 1870 was 3,214,707 persons; that of Paris by the census of 1867, 1,889,462 persons; Constantinople, 1,075,000 by the census of 1864. New York proper will therefore rank next after Paris, and leaving out the cities of China, is now the third city in the world in population. If we could take in our Brooklyn offshoots and those of Northern Jersey, which of right belong to us—are as much a part of the great city as the so-called Sunnyside is of London—we should step into place as the second city of the world, and show a population two-thirds as large as that of the greatest hive of human beings the history of the cities of the earth has ever shown—London.

We are away ahead of Vienna, with its 825,165 inhabitants, as given in its census of 1860; 50 per cent. larger than Berlin, with its 702,437 people, as reported by its census of 1867. Brooklyn comes up to Liverpool with 517,567 inhabitants, enumerated in the census of 1870. Of course these European cities have grown since the dates of their censuses, but none of them so greatly as to deprive New York of its place as the second city of the world in population if we counted in all our chickens.—New York Sun.

How It Feels to be Hanged.

A Paris newspaper gives this extract from the notes of a young fellow who tried to commit suicide and was cut down before suffocation was complete. He was delighted to return to life, and it is noted that would-be suicides who are rescued from their self-sought fate rarely renew their attempt to shuffle off this mortal coil. "When I stood on the chair the mirror on the mantlepiece involuntarily attracted me, and I looked at myself as I fastened the slip-knot around my neck. Blood flowed to my head, for my face was very red; something took place at the same time in my optic nerves, for it seemed to me that my face suddenly began to make grimaces. My eyes and nose changed place instantly, like the pieces of a kaleidoscope. I kicked the chair from under me and fell with the sensation that I had been struck on the top of my head with a hammer. I did not at first feel the rope around my neck. The only very clear impression which followed the blow with the hammer on my skull was that of great heaviness in the head. It seemed to me that my head was larger and heavier on my shoulders than the great bell of Notre Dame. At the same time I felt an immense night falling around and in me. Then I felt extremely cold at my lower extremities, and at the same time an acute, terrible pain in my neck, which was produced by the rope, which cut my skin and sawed my veins. Then I felt nothing. Evidently this was the moment when my good aunt Cecile entered my room and cut me down."

Arresting the Wrong Man.

Over in W. one of the churches recently called a clergyman named Rev. Jos. Striker. In that city, by a most unfortunate coincidence, there also resides a prominent prize-fighter named Joseph Striker, and rumors were afloat a few weeks ago that the latter Joseph was about to engage in a contest with a Jersey pugilist for the championship. Our Sheriff considered it his duty to warn Joseph against the proposed infraction of the laws, and so he determined to call upon the professor of the art of self-defense. Unhappily, in inquiring the way to the pugilist's house, somebody misunderstood the Sheriff and sent him to the residence of the Rev. Joe. Striker, of whom he had never heard. When Mr. Striker entered the room, in answer to the summons, the Sheriff said to him, familiarly:

"Hello, Joe, how are you?"

Mr. Striker was amazed at this address, but he politely said:

"Good-morning."

"Joe," said the Sheriff, throwing his legs lazily over the arm of his chair. "I came round here to see you about that mill with Patsey Dingus, that they're all talking about. I want you to understand that it can't come off anywhere around here. You know well enough it's against the law, and I ain't a-going to have it."

"Mill! Mill, sir? What on earth do you mean?" asked Mr. Striker, in astonishment. "I do not own any mill, sir. Against the law! I do not understand you, sir."

"Now, see here, Joe," said the Sheriff, biting off a piece of tobacco and looking very wise, "that won't go down with me. It's pretty thin, you know. I know well enough that you've put up $1,000 on that little affair, and that you've got the whole thing fixed with Bill Martin for referee. I know you're going down to Pea Patch island to have it out, and I'm not going to allow it. I'll arrest you as sure as a gun if you try it on, now mind me."

"Really, sir," said Mr. Striker, "there must be some mistake about—"

"Oh, no, there isn't. Your name's Joe Striker, isn't it?" asked the Sheriff.

"My name is Joseph Striker, certainly."

"I know it," said the Sheriff, spitting on the carpet, "and you see I've got this thing dead to rights. It shan't come off, and I'm doing you a favor in blocking the game, because Patsey'd curl you all up and sicken you anyway if I let you meet him. I know he's the best man, and you'd just lose your money and get all bunged up besides; so you take my advice, now, and quit. You'll be sorry if you don't."

"I do not know what you are referring to," said Mr. Striker. "Your remarks are incomprehensible to me, but your tone is very offensive, and if you have any business with me, I'd thank you to state it at once."

"Joe," said the Sheriff looking at him with a benign smile, "you play it pretty well. Anybody'd think you were innocent as a lamb. But it won't work, Joseph; it won't work, I tell you. I've got a duty to perform, and I'm going to do it, and I pledge you my word if you and Dingus don't knock off now, I'll grab you and send you up for ten years as sure as death. I'm in earnest about it."

"What do you mean, sir?" asked Mr. Striker, fiercely.

"Oh, don't you go to putting on any airs about it. Don't you try any strutting before me," said the Sheriff, "or I'll put you under bail this very afternoon. Let's see how long were you in jail the last time? Two yeas, wasn't it? Well, you go fighting with Dingus and you'll get ten years, sure!"

"You are certainly crazy!" exclaimed Mr. Striker.

"I don't see what you want to stay at that business for, anyhow," said the Sheriff. "Here you are, in a snug home, where you might live in peace, and keep respectable. But no, you must associate with low characters, and go to stripping yourself naked, and jumping into a ring to get your nose bloodied and your head swelled and your body hammered to a jelly, and all for what? Why, for a championship! It's ridiculous. What good'll it do you if you are champion? Why don't you try to be honest and decent, and let prize-fighting alone?"

"This is the most extraordinary conversation I ever listened to," said Mr. Striker. "You evidently take me for a—"

"I take you for Joe Striker, and if you keep on, I'll take you to jail," said the Sheriff, with emphasis. "Now, you tell me who's got those stakes, and who's your trainer, and I'll put an end to the whole thing."

"You seem to imagine that I am a pugilist," said Mr. Striker. Let me inform you that I am a clergyman."

"Joe," said the Sheriff, shaking his head, "it's too bad for you to lie that way—too bad, indeed."

"But I am a clergyman, sir—pastor of the Church of St. Sepulchre. Look here is a letter in my pocket, addressed to me."

"You don't really mean to say that you're a preacher named Joseph Striker?" exclaimed the Sheriff, looking scared.

"Certainly, I am. Come up stairs and I'll show you a barrelful of my sermons."

"Well, if this don't beat Nebuchadnezzar!" said the Sheriff; "this is awful! Why, I mistook you for Joe Striker, the prize-fighter! I don't know how I ever—a preacher! What an ass I've made of myself! I don't know how to apologize, but if you want to kick me down the front steps, just kick away. I'll bear it like an angel!"

Then the Sheriff withdrew unkicked, and Mr. Striker went up stairs to finish his Sunday sermon. The Sheriff talked of resigning, but he continues to hold on.—New York Weekly.

IN Elkhart, Ind., a man learned that a thief was in his hen-house stealing chickens. The owner immediately got some boiling hot water, with which he scalded the thief terribly, and then shot him three times.

BERGH has left the poor horses of New York to swelter the summer out, while he rolls in the shade at Newport.

AUBURN COURIER

T. C. MAYS, PUBLISHER.

GOSSIP OF THE DAY.

Senator Cameron, of Pennsylvania, commenced life as a printer's devil, and is now reported to be worth $2,000,000. Young man, go and be a printer's devil.

The Prince of Wales wants £710,000, or about four millions of dollars, for the expense of his royal jaunt to India. As he is going for pleasure, he don't take his wife. The British tax-payer grumbles and submits—his time of triumph is not yet.

The Beecher case has been a Big Bonanza for the lawyers. Mr. Evarts received $25,000, Mr. Tracy $10,000, Mr. Hill $5,000, Mr. Beach $5,000, Mr. Fullerton $2,500, Mr. Morris $2,500, and Mr. Pryor $2,500. Mr. Shearman refused to accept money for his services.

A summary of the losses of the fire insurance companies for the first six months of this year shows that they aggregate more than the entire losses for 1874. The losses this year, too, have fallen, not upon the great cities, but chiefly upon the country towns, on property destroyed in which the insurance companies have paid about $26,000,000.

Little Rhody has just completed an enumeration of her children, which shows a healthy increase. The population of the entire State is 258,132, against 217,353 in 1870, and 184,965 in 1865—a gain of 73,167 in ten years. The city of Providence boasts 100,648, against 68,904 in 1870; Newport, 14,020, with a gain of 1,500. There is an increase throughout the entire patch.

This is the era of statements and certificates. A citizen of Missouri recently took the liberty of thrashing one of his neighbors, and afterward fortified himself with a paper, on which a jury of the vicinage, consisting of twelve mutual acquaintances, approved of the deed. In their vague and formal language they said, "We do here certify and consider him perfectly justifiable in whipping," etc.

Under the new indictment of the Washington correspondent Buell for telegraphing that Senator Chandler was drunk, the offense of libel at Washington is alleged to consist of simply filing the dispatch. This raises the question whether it is a publication of a libel, and Chandler's lawyers will probably be beaten on it, and then have to end the matter by trying the offender at Detroit, where the dispatch was printed, or not at all.

The Evansville (Ind.) Medical Society have turned out Dr. Tyrrel for advertising in the newspapers. But how much worse is this than advertising by flattering women, getting notices of great cures or surgical operations in the papers, being called out of church during meeting-time, driving fast through the public streets, and generally tickling you for tickling me? And can all the other Evansville doctors hold up their hands in assertion that they have done none of these things?

A terrible fate was that of John I. Filkins, the Albany express robber, who disappeared suddenly, last year, from the Clinton (N. Y.) State Prison. Workmen cleaning the main sewer of the building, a few days since, found his skeleton there, into which it is now evident he crawled through one of the water closets in the hope of securing his liberty by passing through the sewer and out at its mouth, which is strongly closed by bars of heavy iron secured on either side by walls of heavy masonry.

The latest estimate of the Colombian earthquake is 14,000 lives and $10,000,000, the destruction of the city of Cucuta alone being reckoned at $7,000,000. All the better and more substantially built houses were of course most destructive in their fall, so that the wealthy class were the especial victims of the disaster, affording tempting booty to the criminal classes, freed from all restraint. The Chicago Tribune foots up the destruction of human life by famines, earthquakes, floods, and other disasters as amounting to 96,500 already within the present year.

The latest British sensation is basket burial. The idea of popularizing the practice of cremation has been abandoned, and now a movement has been inaugurated for displacing metallic and wooden coffins with baskets, on the supposition that the sooner the body returns to its original element the better. The natural instinct of bereavement is to protect the remains from decomposition as long as possible. The basket proposition comes from an eminent physician, Mr. Seymour Hayden, and has the enthusiastic support of the Duke of Sutherland, who owns more land than any other man in England.

Some of the Indianapolis physicians are hopeful about Robert Dale Owen, who has just been placed in an asylum near that city, and think his insanity may be cured. He imagines himself immensely wealthy, and is constantly telling how he will dispose of his property by endowing colleges, etc. He is restless and is desirous of traveling, and seems to have lost all idea of space and time; he speaks of going to New York in an hour, and of walking over to Philadelphia in a few minutes. His son thinks the insanity is traceable to a nervous-bilious fever he had five weeks ago.

Another nation has just been celebrating a battle anniversary, having reference to an engagement fought 200 years ago, on June 15, 1675. The parties in that battle were the Swedes on one side, and the adherents of a small but plucky electorate on the other, then known as Brandenburg. The place was Fehrbellin; the leader of the Swedes was Field Marshal Wrangel, and the leader of the Brandenburg army was the grand elector, Frederick William. The former had 4,000 cavalry, 9,000 infantry, and 38 cannon. The latter had less than half the number of men, and only 13 guns. But the valorous 6,000 of the grand elector went in "as a single man," and, after six hours sabreing and lancing, hewing, hacking, and stabbing, the Swedes gave way, losing 4,000 men killed and wounded, and over 1,000 prisoners, together with all their munitions, baggage, and cannon. This small electorate with its army of 6,000 men is now somewhat better known as Prussia. It has grown somewhat since then. Its army of 6,000 men and 13 cannon has expanded and grown in a most marvelous manner. The grand elector, who ruled over a country about the dimensions of a California ranch, has expanded until he is King of Prussia and Emperor of Germania. The little mob of 6,000 horsemen, and the artillery of 13 pieces, have enlarged until now, when what with Landwehr, Landsturm, and the like, the total expansion is represented by 1,634,000 soldiers, 45,000 officers, 3,000 field pieces, and 1,000 siege guns.

INDIANA NEWS.

The authorities of Mishawaka combine the calaboose with the cattle pound.

The best sign painter in Logansport spells it "sandwage" and "doenut" on a restaurant sign.

Joel Sayre, of Wabash, has received the appointment to a $1,200 clerkship in the Treasury Department at Washington.

Track-laying has been commenced on the east end of the Lafayette, Muncie and Bloomington road, at Muncie and Frankfort.

A prize fight was recently broken up by the Fort Wayne police. There was but very little knowledge of the "manly art" displayed.

Benjamin Coquillard, one of the very first settlers of South Bend, and in fact of that section of the West, died recently at an advanced age.

An Evansville joker who undertook to make a parrot imbibe liquor had his jugular pinched by the bird in a savage and nearly fatal manner.

Sheriff Manly, during the last thirty-five years, has buried upward of 16,000 people in Cass county, a larger number than the present population of Logansport.

Work on the harbor at Michigan City is being rapidly pushed; the pile-driver is kept working late and early, taking advantage of all the favorable weather possible.

At Aurora they are now agitating the question of water-works—getting a supply of water from the hills back of the city, affording sufficient fall to protect the town from fire.

The house of B. F. Simcoke, Treasurer of Lynn township, Dallas county, was entered by burglars on Sunday night of last week, and robbed of $1,299 in money and $800 in bank checks.

The first paper ever issued in Lawrence county was in 1833; it was called the Western Spy, and was edited by R. W. Thompson. Since then twenty one papers have been started in Bedford.

The Indianapolis Sentinel has been sold to Hon. John C. Shoemaker. The business control of the paper has been placed in the hands of Lucien G. Matthews, formerly of the New Albany Ledger.

James Jenkins, employed in the saw mill of his brother-in-law, John Thomas, at Plymouth, was killed by the bursting of an emery wheel on Friday last. He was struck on the head by one of the pieces.

Preparations are in progress at Rockville, Parke county, for a reunion of soldiers (enlisted men and officers) of the late war, to be held on the 6th and 7th of September. It is expected that soldiers from all parts of Indiana and Eastern Illinois will participate.

The country in the vicinity of Goshen is infested with thieves, who carry off clothing and provisions. All the old rusty shot guns in the vicinity of the depredations are being loaded with shot, and the death of one or more of the midnight marauders is expected nightly.

Considerable excitement has been created in Sycamore by the discovery of pieces of copper, one of which weighs over three pounds. It is not copper ore, but the metal in its purest state, and was unearthed on the farm of William Streby, by workmen who were delving in the earth.

"One of the b'hoys says that the reason the hunters who go out from town do not of late bring in more game is that the price has raised. The country boys now charge ten cents per head instead of five as heretofore, and the town chaps can't afford to pay it." So says the Ripley Index.

Mr. George Crocker, of Laporte, has received the contract to survey a route for a canal from Lake Michigan, beginning at Michigan City, to the Wabash river. This route, if completed, will connect our lakes with the Mississippi river and Gulf of Mexico.

While a steam thresher was being operated near New Ross the other day, the boiler exploded, completely wrecking the engine. Mr. Wm. Tipton, one of the owners of the machine, who was running the engine at the time, was struck in the left side by a flying fragment, and, as the doctors think, fatally injured.

Harrison, Hines & Miller have brought suit on behalf of the Indianapolis Journal Company and John Dougherty against the State Printing Committee, consisting of the Governor, Secretary, Auditor and Treasurer of the State, for damages arising from a wrongful letting of the contract for State printing.

The United States keeps two river signal-lights burning opposite Rising Sun every night in the year, one at the head of the bar on the Indiana side, and the other at the foot of the bar on the Kentucky side of the river. The compensation of the men having charge of the lights is fifty cents per night, and a barrel of oil is sent to each man every three months.

On Wednesday of last week a terrific whirlwind struck the house of Aaron Wright, in Brownsbury, Hendricks county, completely demolishing it. Wright was instantly killed, and his wife and six children severely injured. The force of the wind was so great that a large cottage organ was carried 200 yards through the air and landed in a corn-field, but slightly damaged. The house, although a two-story log building and weather boarded with plank, was scattered about like so many straws.

New patents issued to citizens of this State: Driers, J. F. Gent, Columbus; railroad wrenches, J. B. Finley, Delhi; processes for cleansing gas-retorts, H. S. Wolf, South Bend; spoke-sockets, B. Poulson, Fort Wayne; turbine-water wheels, S. R. Jenner, Milltown; potato-diggers, J. H. Louch, Rome; sad-irons, S. Elliott, Indianapolis; automatic air brakes for cars, A. James, Seymour; bearings for journals, A. B. G. A. Williams, Goshen; tailors' measures, W. D. C. Tilney, Crawfordsville.

The cyclone which demolished the house and injured the family of James Wright, in Hendricks county, on Tuesday night of last week, also struck at Harveysburgh, in Fountain county, killing five women, injuring many others, and tearing houses to pieces generally. The names of the killed, so far as ascertained, are Mrs. Somers, Mrs. Sample, and Mrs. Patterson. A hired girl and a little child of Mrs. Somers are also among the victims. The cyclone was half a mile wide and a mile and a half long. It swept everything before it, trees, fences, and houses.

Two men named Leander Kennedy, alias Allen Lees, and Columbus Voorhees, alias Frank Clark, have been arrested at Terre Haute for complicity in the Long Point murder and attempted express robbery. They show pretty conclusively that they did not actively participate in the murder, they being at Greencastle at the time; but Mr. King, foreman of Englis & Over's foundry, of Indianapolis, who made the armor found near the spot where the engine and express cars were slipped, and Frank Glazer, who fitted the armor together, and who were brought from Indianapolis, identified Kennedy and Voorhees, on sight, as the parties who had the armor made.

Frightful Frequency of Drowning Accidents.

Accidents by drowning are reported from all parts of the country with such frequency as to excite remark. There are always many deaths by drowning during the warm months; this summer the number is unusually large. Two or three very sad calamities of this nature have happened in our immediate vicinity, and it would appear that the loss of life in each case was needless. Proper precautions by persons on shore might have prevented death in the water. It is also true that the indiscretion of bathers is often the cause of their tragical taking off. Many of these fatal accidents, however, are among young people, who should have some competent guardian when they go into the water. Six little fellows, all under ten years of age, were drowned at Fall river, in a place where a man could have saved them by wading, probably; and we hear of another case where a boy was drowned in a pond in which the water was only three or four feet deep. These sorrowful incidents ought to be taken to heart by parents, and especially by inexperienced bathers.—New York Times.

AGRICULTURAL AND DOMESTIC.

Follow Up the Plow.

Hard times are upon us,
 And the people are in debt:
The country's full of trouble,
 And the worst is coming yet.
'Tis not without its causes,
 And we'll plainly tell you now,
The only way to stop it
 Is to "follow up the plow."

Chorus—

Then follow up the plow, boys,
 Follow up the plow;
If you would build the country up,
 Just follow up the plow.
Then follow up the plow, boys,
 Follow up the plow;
If you would build the country up
 Just follow up the plow.

Fill up your fields and prairies
 With a crop that's "good as gold,"
And mine your hills and valleys wide,
 For iron, salt and coal.
The earth is the producer,
 And we can tell you how
To make a princely fortune—
 'Tis to "follow up the plow."

Chorus—

There are too many people,
 Who from their duty shirk,
Who'd rather make a fortune
 By some other means than work.
The man who plants tobacco,
 Corn, wheat or cotton now,
Is king among the "moneyed men;"
 He "follows up the plow."

—Will S. Hays.

Around the Farm.

Liquid manure from under the stalls is vastly more valuable than the solid mixed up in water.

We have now in the United States 38 agricultural colleges, with 389 professors, and 3,917 students. Few of the graduates, however, become farmers.

To keep seeds from the depredations of mice, mix some pieces of camphor gum with the seeds. Camphor placed in drawers or trunks will prevent mice from doing them injury.

Pick up all the stones on your place and cart them off. It is not very pleasant business, but it is work that should be done promptly and with great care. It is much better to spend a few days in picking stones every spring than to have valuable time wasted and money required to repair broken mowing machines.

Rules for Farmers.—Take good papers and read them. Keep an account of farm operations. Do not leave implements scattered over the farm, exposed to snow, rain, and heat. Repair tools and buildings at a proper time, and do not suffer subsequent three-fold expenditure of time and money. See that fences are well repaired and cattle not grazing in the meadows or grain fields or orchards.

A writer in the Agricultural Gazette cites his observation in reference to the healing of broken bones in cattle. An ox fractured his leg above the knee, a heifer broke her thigh, a compound fracture, another suffered a simple fracture, but in spite of differing doctors these animals were turned out to take their chances, and each and all actually made a good recovery in the course of a few weeks.

A New Breed of Sheep.—Wm. Crozier, in charge of an extensive farm on Long Island, is endeavoring to establish firmly a new breed of sheep, produced by crossing Cotswolds and Southdowns. He has produced, says the American Agriculturist, a sheep with a heavy fleece of combing wool, superior in quality and equal in weight with that of the pure Cotswold, and with as good quality of flesh as the Southdown, and one-half greater size.

A favorite and rather new kind of mash for horses is coming into use, composed of two quarts of oats, one of bran, and a half a pint of linseed. The oats are first placed in the stable bucket, over which is spread the linseed; boiling water is then added to the bran, and the mixture covered with an old rug, and allowed to rest five hours, after which the mass must be well stirred up. The bran absorbs while retaining the vapor, and the linseed binds the oats and bran together.

Flavor of Eggs.—There is a vast difference in the flavor of eggs. Hens fed on clear, sound grain, and kept on a clean grass run, give much finer flavored eggs than hens that have access to a stable and manure heaps and eat all kinds of filthy food. Hens feeding on fish and onions flavor their eggs accordingly, the same as cows eating onions or cabbage, or drinking offensive water, impart bad taste to the milk or butter. The richer the food the higher the color of the eggs. Wheat and corn give eggs the best color, while feeding on buckwheat makes them colorless, rendering them unfit for some confectionery purposes.—Moore's Rural New Yorker.

A writer in the Chicago Tribune says: The carbon contained in the vegetable organism of which the coal is composed, and the bituminous matter also, together with the sulphur, lime and other mineral matter composing the coal, furnish substances which swine seem to need. We have for several years kept 500 hogs on the refuse of city hotels, and had no cholera or other serious disease among them. They were allowed all the soft coal and rotten wood they would consume. Sometimes they would eat largely of it, and then again it would be left untouched for days at a time. We should not hesitate to allow hogs all the soft coal they wanted.

About the House.

Plain Cup Cake.—Take 1 cup of butter, 1 cup of milk, 4 eggs, 2 cups sugar, and soda and nutmeg according to judgment.

Muffins.—One pint of milk, ½ cup yeast, a very little salt. Stir in flour sufficient to make a batter. Cook in rings over the fire.

A New Hampshire family keep their vinegar in a white lead keg, and were surprised the other day to find themselves badly poisoned.

Do not permit case knife blades or forks to stand in hot water. It expands the steel and cracks the handles. Ivory handles should never be placed in water.

Fluid glue may be prepared by dissolving one pound of good glue in one pint of hot water, to which are added three ounces of nitric acid; after the evolution of nitrous vapors has ceased the liquid is cooled, when it is fit for use.

Loaf Cake.—1½ pounds of flour, 1½ pounds of sugar, 1 pound of butter, 6 eggs, ½ pint of milk, 1½ pounds of fruit (raisins and currants), 1 teaspoonful of soda, spices, lemon, etc. Beat the whites and yolks of the eggs separately. Dissolve the soda in the milk. Stone the raisins and rub them and the currants in a little of the flour to prevent them settling in the cake. Rub the sugar and butter to a cream. Add the eggs, milk with soda, spices, lemon, flour, and lastly the fruit.

Strawberry Shortcake.—With 1 quart of sifted flour mix thoroughly 2 teaspoonfuls of cream tartar and 1 of soda, or the equivalent of these in baking powder, rub in a bit of butter the size of an egg, add a little salt, and sweet milk enough to form a soft dough. Roll half an inch thick and bake in a shallow pan 15 or 20 minutes; have ready two quarts of fine, fresh strawberries; split the cake, place half the strawberries between, and cover thickly with white sugar and cream; put the other half on the top and cover in the same way; serve as soon as done.

Carving.—Fifty years ago the art of carving was regarded by the most polished society in England and in this country as the indispensable accomplishment of every lady who had to preside at the head of her table. It was a reflection upon her fitness for that post to say that she managed the carving-knife with little skill, or was ignorant of the choice parts of each dish. Fashion has changed all that, and the office of carving is now assigned chiefly to gentlemen; but there is no reason why ladies should not know all the niceties of the art, and be able, when circumstances require, to preside with ease and skill at the head of the table. A good carving-knife, fork, and steel renders this office a pleasure to the accomplished carver.

A Danbury Accident.

One of the most painful of the accidents happening on Independence Day, occurred to a family living on Osborne street. Two of the young sons had improvised a cannon from an old gun barrel. The father gave them a pound of powder, and took a lively interest in the firing. It was not an ornamental piece, but it made a most astonishing noise, which is of more importance.

"Ram her down tight this time," suggested the exultant father, a little impatient to increase the sound.

"But what will the neighbors think!" mildly protested his wife. "You'll jar their heads off."

"Fudge on their heads. This is the glorious Fourth, and it don't come but once a year. Ram her down, boys, an' make her sing."

They did. They worked like veterans, and put in a lot of grass, and hammered away at the wadding like a pair of pile-drivers. Then they fixed it for touching off. The father was sitting on the fence, waving to and fro, and smiling with all his might. The match was applied. There was a siss, a flash, and then a discharge which seemed to shake the very center of the earth. At the same instant the patriotic father left the fence backward, and went crashing end over end into the next lot, his eyes and mouth driven full of dirt and sand. The piece had exploded, and a portion of the barrel, weighing nearly two pounds, flew across the yard with such force as to completely rend the seats from two pairs of new overalls hanging on a line, and then ploughed into the earth just in front of the owner of the garments, knocking him over as stated. When he got on his feet, and his eyes and senses sufficiently cleared to learn what had happened, he unhesitatingly said:

"Come, now, there's been enough of this cussed foolishness for one day."—Danbury News.

Forests and Rain.

The much-discussed question of the influence of forests upon rainfall has lately been made the subject of very interesting observations by Fautrat and Sartiaux in France. Instruments for determining the amount of rainfall, degree of saturation of air (by moisture), evaporation and temperature were placed at an elevation of about six meters (18½ feet) above the tops of the trees—oak and beech—in the midst of a forest covering 5,000 hectares (12,350 acres). At the same elevation, fourteen or fifteen meters above the surface of an adjoining portion of cleared and cultivated land, and at a distance of 300 meters (984 feet) from the edge of the forest, similar instruments were placed, and simultaneous daily observations made.

The first report of these, from February to July, 1874, inclusive, showed, for the period of six months, a total rainfall over the forest of 192.5 millimeters (7½ inches), while that over the open ground was only 177 millimeters. The average for each of the six months was larger over the forests than the cleared land. The same was true of the degree of saturation of the atmosphere, the monthly average in the one case being 63 per cent., and in the other 61.7 per cent.

The authors conclude that if the daily observations in the future accord with those already made, it may be regarded as demonstrated that forests form vast apparatus for condensation of moisture, and that there is more rain upon them than upon open land.—Harper's Magazine for July.

An English Cure for Drunkenness.

There is a prescription in use in England for the cure of drunkenness, by which thousands are said to have been assisted in recovering themselves. The receipt came into notoriety through the efforts of John Vine Hall, commander of the Great Eastern steamship. He had fallen into such habitual drunkenness that his most earnest efforts to reclaim himself proved unavailing. At length he sought the advice of an eminent physician, who gave him a prescription—which he followed faithfully for seven months, and at the end of that time had lost all desire for liquor, although he had for many years been led captive—which he afterward published, and by which so many drunkards have been assisted to reform, as follows: "Sulphate of iron, 5 grains; peppermint water 11 drachms, spirit of nutmeg, 1 drachm, twice a day." This preparation acts as a stimulant and tonic, and partially supplies the place of the accustomed liquor, and prevents that absolute physical and moral prostration that follows a sudden breaking from the use of stimulating drinks.—Scientific American.

Charles Reade says American clergymen steal their sermons from him.

THE GROWING CROPS.

Reports of their Condition in All Parts of the Country—An Encouraging Outlook.

The Chicago Times of a recent date publishes reports of the condition of the growing crops, and the progress of the harvest east of the Rocky Mountains. The dispatches comprise reports from over nine hundred counties. Of these reports the Times makes the following analysis:

The wet weather of the past two months has resulted in an extraordinary growth of all kinds of grasses; consequently the hay crop will be large in all parts of the West; and as it has been very generally harvested, and is therefore free from all danger of damage, there need be no fears of a scarcity of hay. Wheat has been harvested in the section lying south of the forty-fourth degree of latitude. In Wisconsin it is much above the average in quantity and quality. In Illinois and Indiana some damage has been done to the crop by rains, bugs and other causes, so that the yield will not probably exceed three-fourths of the average. In Kansas, Nebraska, Minnesota and Iowa, the reports show that the crop will be largely in excess of last year. In the two first States the depredations of the grasshoppers have been comparatively insignificant. Unless some unlooked for calamity occurs, the producers will realize a far greater return for their labor than ever before. In Kentucky, Michigan, Ohio, Missouri and the Eastern States, there is every prospect of a far better yield than heretofore, and the production will be far in excess of consumption. The product in these States is represented as being much superior in quality to that of former years.

It is notable that for the first time in twelve years the South will raise sufficient breadstuffs for home use. This will, of course, relieve the North from the necessity of shipping grain in that direction, and enable us to supply the deficiency in the European markets. Oats promise an extraordinarily large yield. In some sections the heavy rains that have fallen recently have lodged the grain somewhat, and the chinch bug elsewhere has caused some damage, but there is every indication that the yield will be at least forty-five to fifty bushels to the acre, and in many sections much larger. Rye and barley promise well. These crops are not extensively grown, but there is every indication that the supply will be fully equal to the demand.

Corn is not yet matured in the Northwest. In Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia and some parts of Arkansas and Tennessee, the crop has been harvested, and is more abundant than for many years. In Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, Ohio and Indiana, the crop is backward, but unless frost should occur previous to the middle of September, there is no reason to apprehend a short crop. In Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan, the backwardness of the crop is such that there is little hope of more than half a crop, but as these States raise but little corn the diminution of the crop there will have but little influence on the supply.

Potatoes will yield a full crop in all sections. The Colorado bug is only seen for the most part in the Eastern States. In the West it has disappeared, having been almost entirely exterminated by the heavy rains. Some complaints of its depredations come from points east of the Ohio, but none from the West.

Reports from the cotton crop are exceedingly favorable. The army worm, so destructive to the plant, has appeared in but in few sections, and has been deterred from active operations by exigencies of the weather. Consequently the cotton product of Tennessee, Arkansas, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia and Virginia will be the largest ever produced. The plant is flowering in even the more northerly latitudes, and in the extreme South picking has commenced. Planters are sanguine of a splendid crop, and as there has been no trouble with negro laborers there will be no danger of loss from incomplete harvesting. As to fruit and vegetables, dispatches are not very full, but as these products supply but a temporary want, and there is no complaint of failure, there will be probably enough.

A Wife's Trick.

A lady occupying a high position at Washington, whose husband was of the government, made a trip to Europe with him. She "doted" on lace, and here was her opportunity. Talking of the acquisitions she would make in this line, he told her she should purchase any reasonable quantity, provided she would not smuggle any. To this she acceded. The gentleman took as part of his wardrobe a dressing-gown, for like most Americans in the privacy of his room he liked to pull off his coat. Several times on the trip he observed the care his wife took of this garment, and was gratified at her anxiety for his comfort. Once when smoking, while lighting his cigar, he set his gown on fire, and quite a hole was burned in the skirt. His wife was considerably agitated, and he was flattered that so trifling a danger to him had so moved her. One morning, immediately after their return to this country, he found before he reached his office that keys he needed he had left at home, and retraced his steps to get them. Letting himself in with his latch-key he proceeded to his chamber, and on opening the door found his wife on her knees on the floor, his dressing gown divested of its lining and spread before her, and she, scissors in hand, disengaging from it a white, flimsy fabric with which it was covered. She sprang up on seeing him, laughed, and exclaimed, "You are the smuggler. You wore that lace all over Europe, and brought it home."—Cincinnati Times.

The bonded indebtedness of the railroads of the United States is estimated at $1,700,000,000, more than one-third of which is said to be not now paying interest. But the whole capital invested in the railroads of the United States is about $4,000,000,000, considerably more than half being in stock, and it is considered not too large an estimate to say that two thousand millions of money invested in railroads have ceased to pay interest.

About 240,000 women are engaged in the production of lace in the departments of Calvados Auverene, France. Flax, silk, gold and silver wire, are the materials. That made from flax is the most valuable.

A New Store

With an entire new stock of

BOOTS & SHOES,

New STYLES of all kinds at the LOWEST PRICES at

J. E. WOODFORD'S

I have located at Auburn with a fine stock of BOOTS and SHOES, which will be sold at the Lowest Figures for Cash!

My Facilities for making CUSTOM WORK are not excelled anywhere and those favoring me—with their orders may be certain of getting the best material.

W. W. HUMES, Foreman.

To the trade, great inducements are offered in Leather, Findings, &c. Please call and examine my stock before purchasing.

The Pioneer

HARDWARE

Emporium!

Now full to overflowing with an Immense stock of

HEAVY AND SHELF

Hardware, Cutlery, Tin Ware.

I would call special attention to my department of

HARDWARE,
FURNISHING &
BUIDERS STOCK,

in which will be found everything at the very

LOWEST PRICES,

Such as:—

OILS, PAINTS,
GLASS,
NAILS,
SASH.
DOORS, ETC

—A FIST-CLASS—

Tin-Shop,

in connection with the Hardware Store, with a skillful foreman. All kinds of Tin-ware manufactured and repaired on short notice.

JOHN L. DAVIS,

CARPETS,

FOR 1875.

Are offered at prices lower than have prevailed for many years. Our stock of all grades is large, well selected and we invite inspection. We have added to our stock and the line is unusally fair.

Wall Paper

Terrys,
Reps,
Gimps,
Fringes and a general line of Upholstery Goods with Shades,
Lace Curtains,
Oil Cloths,
and Mattings
in great variety. The manufacture of Lambrequins a specialty.

ELLS WORTH, ANDREW & CO,

26 East Berry street

THE AUBURN

Marble Works!

The undersigned beg leave to announce that they have permanently located in Auburn, and are now prepared to attend to all orders for which they are prepared to turn out in a superior manner at reasonable rates. Works west the Bakery.

Monuments, Tomb-Stones, &c.,

AUBURN LIVERY

—AND—

SALE STABLE!

Ryan & Mader, pro's

Having on hand everything in the line of

Carriages, Buggies, Wagons, etc

y are prepared to furnish rigs at all times a nable prices. Stable east of Court House.

South Main Street

re now in full running order and all orders fo

WAGONS BUGGIES &c.

promptly attended to. Special care taken in getting the best Seasoned Timber. Our prices are ery reasonable and we solicit the public to give a call and ascertain our prices.

Pittsburg, Baltimore & Ohio R.R

IS COMING.

Therefore buy your

Dry Goods,

Notions, etc., of

CHARLES KLOTZ

AT HIS

Old Stand

ON MAN STREET,

Opposite Court Square

AUBURN, INDIANA

Where he may be found at all times ready to accommodate customers, and sell them such good as they may need,

CLOTHING

Of all descriptions, and

HANDSOME SUITS

Made to Order!

TELEGRAPH INSTITUTE.

"CHOOSE YOUR VOCATION AND HONOR IT."

The Independent Telegragh Institute, located in Auburn Dekalb Co. Ind., are offering the best opportunity of learning Telegraphy Railroad business and Phonographical writing ever offered to the public. Tuition very low and good boarding furnished Students for $3.50 to $3.75 per week, and situations furnished students as soon as they are capable of taking charge of a Telegraph office. Wages from $40 to $100 dollars per month. For further information address, Independent Telegraph Institute, Lock Box 78, Auburn Indiana.

OFFICERS.
J. E. SHREVE, Supeintendent.
Prof. S.S. Shaner Principal Instructor R R. Dep't.
Dr. L. Sanders Instructor Phonographical Witer.

The Auburn

WAGONS

Made from the Best Materials,

And constructed with all the late improvements—

The new and extensive

WAGON SHOPS

—OF—

J. W. SHAFFER

Work of every description done promtly, and warranted. Blacksmithing attended to in good style.

C. P. Houser & Co.,

—Dealer In—

BOOKS AND STATIONERY

BEST
Window Paper
HOLLAND'S
and Oil Shades
alwayson hand
and CHEAP for CASH,

PICTURES, FRAMES,
CORD,
and TASSELS,
Curtain and Window Fx'trs
the Best in the Market.

—The Largest and finest assortment of—

WALL PAPER

EVER BROUGHT TO THIS MARKET.

Their store is located in Ensley's new brick block, North of the Court House, AUBURN, INDIANA.

THE OLD RELIABLE.

F. E. DAVENPORT,

Corner Main and Eighth-Sts.,

—DEALER IN—

Pure Drugs and Medicines,

DYE STUFFS, PERFUMERY,

Toilet Soaps Cosmetics, Hair Oils, Brushes, Combs, Toilet Mirrors and Druggists' Sundries in General.

BOOKS AND STATIONERY!

Wall and Window Paper!

Oiled, Linen and Slat Window Shades, and Shade Fixtures.

All the lattest POEMS and MISSELANIOUS BOOKS constantly on hand or ordered. Blank Books, Pocket Memorandas, Portmonies and Bill Books, WRITING PAPERS. All Styles and prices ALBUMS! ALBUMS! ALBUMS just received for the Holliday trade Over $300.00 worth of Juvenile and Toy Books, which will be sold at panic prices. Smith's Gold Pens, warranted the best. Also steel Pens, Penholders, Pencils, Ink and Ink Stands &c.

SCHOOL BOOKS

Covered with best Cover ever invented Free Of Charge

Dav exclusive right to use this book cover in Auburn, and will give the benefit of the same.

GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICES AT

ABRICHT'S

In American & Swiss Watches,

Lady Elgin
No. 40037
Elgin, Ill.

TOYS

FANCY GOODS,

and everything kept in a first class jewelry establishm'nt It will pay you to call and be convinced that, I am selling goods cheaper than any firm in Northern Indiana.

J. Abright.

Repairing fine Watches a Specialty

Ladies Gold Watches,
Jewelry,
Clocks, Silver Ware!
GOLD PENS,
Ladies GOLD Chains,
Gents Chains,
Gold and Silver Rings,
MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS,

V. A BEARD

Grocer in Auburn, North of Court-House on Seventh Street,

DEALER IN

GROCERIES and PROVISIONS

TEAS, COFFEES, SUGARS, SALT FISH.

Flour and Feed, Tubs Pails, Buckets, Sugars Boxes, Etc. A large variety

TOBACCOS AND CIGARS,

Confectioneries of all kinds, and Fancy Notions, Cove Oysters, &c.
A speciality in Green and Dried Fruits, and Canned Fruits. Goods delivered inside the coporation.

RAIL ROADS.

Indianapolis Peru & Chicago R. R.

TIME TABLE No. 12—Dec. 20, 1874.

Northward.

Stations.	No. 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Indianapolis	6 30a	12 25p	3 55p	12 20
Noblesville	7 44	12 29	5 10	1 30
Tipton	8 30	1 13	5 57	2 15
Miami	9 37	1 50	6 38	2 55
Kokomo	9 11	2 26	7 04
Peru	10 05	3 15	7 40

Sotuhward.

Stations.	No. 2	No. 4	No. 6
Indianapolis	6 00p	4 10a	9 55a
Noblesville	4 42	3 15	8 34
Tipton	3 56	2 29	7 44
Kokomo	3 13	1 40	7 02
Miami	2 46	1 15	6 35
Peru	2 10	12 55	6 00

R. C. MURPHY, Supt. Mich. Div.
E. M. HAWLEY, Master of Tran.
C. B. ROBINSON, General Sup't.
F. P. WADE, Gen. Ticket Agt.

Lake Shore & Mich. Southern R.R

Air Line Division

ON and after Sunday, Nov. 15, 1874 Passenger Trains will leave Waterloo city and other Stations as follows, daily except Sundays:

GOING WEST

	Special Ex.	Pacific Ex.	Accom'd'n
Butler	2:40 p m.	2:35 a m.	8:00 p m
Waterloo	2:56 "	2:53 "	8:19 "
Sedan	3,05	3,00	8:30 "
Corunna	3,10	3,06	8:35 "

GOING EAST.

Corunna	2.15 pm	11,30 pm	6:50 p m
Sedan	2.20	11,35	7:02 "
Waterloo	2:28 "	11:44 "	7:11 "
Butler	2:40 "	x12:01a m	7:55 "

CHAS. PAINE, Gen. Supt,
J. W. CARY, Gen Tic. Agt
J. E. CURTIS, Division Su

Ft. Wayne, Muncie & Cin R. R.

Time Table to take effect May 23, 1875.

Going South.

Fort Wayne	1 15 pm	2 00a.m	5 35pm
Ossian	2 02		6 42
Bluffton	2 30	3 10	7 17
Keystone	3 02		7 57
Montpelier	3 12	3 44	8 08
Hartford	3 40pm	4 05	8 40
Eaton	4 02		9 08
Muncie	4 37	4 47	9 45
McCowan's	4 53	5 05
New Castle	5 30	5 40
Cam. City	6 05	6 11
Beesons	6 22	6 27
Connersville	6 35	6 40
Indianapolis	6 30	6 50
Louisville	11 10	12 45pm
Cincinnati	10 30	9 40

Going North.

Cincinnati	7 30am	1 20pm
Louisville		2 40	7 00pm
Indianapolis		7 25	4 30am
Connersville	10 32	7 35
Beesons	10 45	7 52
Cam City	11 04	8 12
New Castle	11 40	8 55
McCowans	12 15pm
Muncie	12 32	9 56	6 50am
Eaton	1 02	10 28	7 29
Hartford	1 24	10 50	7 54
Montpelier	1 49	11 17	8 52
Keystone	1 56		8 36
Bluffton	2 30	11 58	9 15
Ossian	2 59	11 28am	9 52
Ft. Wayne	3 45	1 15	11 00

W. W. WORTHINGTON, Supt.
ROBT. RILLIE, Gen'l Ticket Agt.

Ft. Wayne, Jackson & Sag. R. R

Short Line Between

Michigan and the South.

Time card in effect May 23d—run by Chicago time.

Going North.

Stations	Mail	Accom.	Jack. Acm
Cincinnati		7 30
Louisville	7 00pm
Indianapolis	4 35am
Ft Wayne	10 45	4 35
Auburn	11 40	6 07
Waterloo	11 56	6 37
Summit		7 45
Pleasant Lake
Ar Angola	12 5	8 00	6 00 a
Reading	1 7		7 32
Bankers	2 12		7 52
Jonesville	2 30		8 20
Jackson	3 40		10 10
Detroit	6 30p m		2 00p
Grand Rapids	9 30
Lansing	5 47
Saginaw	9 03
Bay City	9 55

Going South.

Bay City	6 40 a m		2 45p
Saginaw	7 30		3 38
Lansing	10 40		9 55
Grand Rapids	1 30		12 00
Detroit	9 50		5 40
Jackson Dep	12 40		9 30
Jonesville	1 55		10 30
Bankers	2 12		10 47
Reading	2 26		11 00
Ar Angola	3 25	6 15	11 55
Pleasant Lake		6 26
Waterloo	4 05	7 35	12 33a
Auburn	4 20	9 25	12 49
Auburn Junction		6 30
Fort Wayne, Arrive	5 15	11 10	1 40
Indianapolis		10 30	6 50
Louisville			12 45p
Cincinnati			9 40a

P. B. LOOMIS, Pres't
S. K. HOOPER Gen. Ticket Ag't.

DETOIT, EEL RIVER & ILLINOIS

Rail Road.

Short Line between Auburn and the East and West.

Trains run on Cleveland time. Through trains will run on the following time, in effect Sunday June 20th, 1875.

Going East.				Going West.
No. 7 Thro'	No. 5 Frei't	Mail	STATIONS	Mail	No. 6 W. F	No. 8 Local
3.40a	7.00a	10.50	lv Logans't ar	6.15p	7.25p	12.10p
4.08	7.30	11.08	Adamsboro.	5.55	7.00	11.41
4.30	7.55	12.23	Hoover's	5.41	6.40	11.24
4.50	8.25	11.32	Mexico	5.33	6.25	10.55
6.00	9.30	11.45	Denver.	5.23	6.00	10 25
					5.10	10.50
6.15	9 50	12.15	Chili	5.13	4.55	9.05
6.46	10.40	12.31	Roann	4.57	4.25	9.20
7.14	11.20	12.47	Laketon	4.40	3.50	8.48
7.40	12.10	12.57	N. Manches't'r	4.29	3.25	[illegible]
8.00	1.10p	1.06	Lib. Mills	4.19	2.40	8.10
8.25	1.40	1.16	Collamer	4.07	2.00	7.47
8.40	2.10	1.22	S. Whitley	4.02	1.50	7.40
9.05	2.35	1.33	Taylor's	3.50	12.30	7.20
9.50	2.57	1.47	Columbia city	3.38	12.05	7.00
10.15	4.10	2.03	Collin's	3.18	11. a	6.15
10.45	4.50	2.14	Churubusco	3.08	10.32	5.50
11.10	5.15	2.24	Potter's	2.57	9.53	5.20
11.30	5.35	2.3?	G. R. Crossing	2.49	9.35	5.05
11.45	5 55	2.40	Cedar Creek	2.40	9.20	4.50
12.15	6.30	2.52	Aub. Juncti'n	2.26	8.50	4.20
12.30	7.00	2.58	Auburn	2.20	8.00	4.10
1.00	7.30	3.15	Mooresville	2.02	6.57	3.35
1.25a	7.45	2.25p	ar. Butler lv.	1.50	6.25	6.25

CONNECTIONS—At Logansport with Pittsburgh, Cincinnati & St Louis, Logansport, Crawfordsville & Southwestern and Toledo. Wabash & Western R. R's. At Denver with Indianapolis, Peru & Chicago Railway, for Rochester, Plymouth, LaPorte, Michigan City, Peru, Kokomo and Indianapolis At N Manchester with Cincinnati, Wabash & Mich R'y. At Columbia City with Pittsburg, Ft. W. & Chicago, for Ft Wayne Lima, Crestline and Pittsburg. At Grand Rapids crossing with Grand Rapids R'y. At Auburn Junction with Ft. Wayne Jackson & Saginaw, for Angola, Jackson and Saginaw R'y, for Butler with Lake Shore & Mich. Southern R'w. Toledo, Detroit and all eastern cities.

J. A. HUGHSTON, Gen. Ticket Agt.
A. B. SCUTRAHD, Gen. Supt.

S. U. Tarney

AUBURN MEAT MARKET!

KEEPS ALWAYS ON HAND

Fresh Beef, Pork, Veal, Mutton and Bologna Sausage, clean and sweet. Prices reasonable. Main-st first door north of Miller & Cassbeer's store.

Pittsburg, Ft. W. & C. R. R.

Condensed time card, May 23, 1875.

GOING WEST.

	No. 1 Fast ex.	No 5 Mail.	No. 7 Pac. ex.	No. 3 Night ex
Pittsburgh	2 00 a.m	....	6 00 a.m	2 00 p.m
Rochester	3 09 "	....	9 22 "	3 12 "
Alliance	5 53 "	....	12 30 p.m	5 54 "
Orrville	7 10 "	....	2 25 "	7 31 "
Mansfield	9 07 "	....	4 40 "	9 29 "
Crestl'e ar.	9 40 "	....	5 15 "	9 55 "
" lv.	10 00 "	4 50 a.m	5 35 p.m	11 00 "
Forest	11 15 "	6 30 "	7 27 "	11 24 "
Lima	12 30 p.m	8 10 "	8 45 "	12 27 a.m
Ft. Wayne	2 40 "	11 20 "	11 35 "	2 55 "
Plymouth	4 40 "	2 25 p.m	2 35 a.m	5 25 "
Chicago	7 50 "	6 30 "	6 30 "	8 50 "

GOING EAST.

	No. 4 Night ex.	No. 2 Fast ex.	No. 6 Pac. ex.	No. 8 Mail.
Chicago	9 20 p.m	9 20 a.m	5 35 p.m	5 15 a.m
Plymouth	12 50 a.m	12 15 p.m	9 05 "	9 20 "
Ft. Wayne	3 55 "	2 45 "	11 55 "	12 20 p.m
Lima	6 15 "	4 26 "	1 56 a.m	2 40 "
Forest	7 06 "	5 34 "	3 01 "	3 58 "
Crestl'e ar.	9 20 "	6 55 "	4 40 "	6 35 "
" lv.	9 40 "	7 15 "	4 50 "	....
Mansfield	10 20 "	7 43 "	5 20 "	....
Orrville	12 45 p.m	9 33 "	7 10 "	....
Alliance	3 05 "	11 10 "	9 00 "	....
Rochester	5 40 "	1 07 a.m	11 12 "	....
Chicago	6 55 "	2 10 "	12 15 p.m	....

No. 1, daily, except Monday, Nos. 2, 4, 5, 7 and 8, daily except Sunday, Nos. 3 and 6 daily.

F. R. MYERS,
General Pass. and Ticket Agent.

BALTIMORE & OHIO R. R

FROM 135 TO 6 MILES

The shortest route from the West to

Washington, Baltimore

AND THE EAST.

CONDENSED. TIME TABLE, THRO' TRAINS

VIA PARKERSBURG, Dec. 13, '74	Express	Fast Express,	St. Louis Ex.
Lve. Cincinnati	9 00‡ am	†4 30 p m	‡11 10pm
Arr. Chillicoth	12 55d n'n	s7 46	3 00 am
" Portsmouth	5 35 p m		11 10
" Marietta	5 56	12 06 n't	7 22
" Parkersburg	5 25 s	11 30	b6 50
Arr. Grafton	9 45	3 40 a m	11 10
" Cumberland	2 00 a m	s7 40	b3 30
" Martinsburg	4 35	10 15	6 10
" Harper's F'y	5 19 a m	10 54	6 51
" Staunton		5 15 p m
" Washington	7 15	12 40 n'n	8 50
" Richmond		10 30p m	4 50 am
" Baltimore	‡0 05 a m	1 50 a m	10 20‡pm
" Philadelphia	1 20 p m	6 50 p m	2 35 am
" New York	‡5 10	10 22	‡6 15
" Boston.	5 50 a m		4 50 pm

VIA BELLAIRE—Dec 13, 1874	Express	Fast Express.	Fast Line
Lve. Cincinnati (via Dayton S. L.)	6 30 a m		‡3 50 p m
" Cincinnati (via P. C. & St. L.)	†7 00		†7 10 p m
" Columbus	11 55	4 00‡p m	12 20†
Arr. Newark	1 00 p m	5 25	1 45 a m
" Zanesville	2 10	6 55	2 57
" Bellaire	5 20	10 55	6 50
" Wheeling	5 45 p m	12 30 ngt	8 00
" Grafton	9 35	3 35 a m	11 05
" Cumberlain	2 00 a m	7 40	b3 30 pm
" Martinsburg	4 35	10 15	6 10
" Harper's F'y	5 19 a m	10 54	9 51
" Washington	7 15	12 40 n'n	8 50
" Richmond		10 30 p m	4 50 a m
" Baltimore	9 05	1 50†	10 20†pm
" Philadelphia	1 20 p m	6 50	2 35 a m
" New York	3 10	10 22†	†6 15
" Boston	4 50 a m		4 50 p m

B—Breakfast. D—Dinned. S—Supper. †Daily ‡Daily ex. Sunday. ∮Daily ex. Monday.

PULMAN PALACE SLEEPING CARS

from Louisville, St. Louis, Cincinnati and Columbus, to

WASHINGTON AND BALTIMORE!

—AND—

PHILADELPHIA

WITHOUT CHANGE.

Through Tickets, and further information can be obtained at all principal Ticket Offices through out the West and South West.

THOS. P. BARRY, West. pass agt., Cin.
L. M. COLE, Gen'l ticket agt., Bal. Md.
THOS. R. SHARP, Mas. of Tran. "

J. G. FLEDDERMAN,

No. 27, East Main-St.

FORT WAYNE, IND'A

Has the larfest and fines stock of

CLOTHS, COATINGS, CHEVIOTS,

—AND—

CassimereS

in Ft. Wayne. The finest line of

Made up Clothing!

ever shown in Fort Wayne

Youths' and Children's Clothing!

Furnishing Goods, &c.

Mrchant Tailoring.

All work done in all the latest styles, promtly attended to. Go and see his large stock of G

☞ MANY New and Choice Goods on sale at Bond's Novelty Store, 21 West Main-st., Fort Wayne, Indiana. New goods arriving daily. Special bargains in

Table Linen,

Corsets, Gloves, Hosiery; Muslins, Flannels, White Goods, Ladies Ties, Handkerchiefs, Portmonies and many goods not kept elsewhere. Large four-story stone front building, 21 West Main-st., Fort Wayne, Ind.

STATE OF INDIANA } ss.
DeKalb County. }
John O. Gilkerson } Before John S. Barns
vs } Justice of the peace
Dollus Hooper } for Richland tp.,

It appearing by the return of the writ herein that said defendant is not found, and it further appearing by affidavit filed herein that said defendant is a non-resident of the State of Indiana, and a writ of garnishment in said case having been served on the Baltimore Pittsburg & Chicago Railway Company Indiana Division.

Notice is therefore given to said defendant to appear to said action at my office on the 16th day of August, 1875, at 10 o'clock A. M. and answer or demur to the complaint herein, or the same will be determined in his abscence.

JOHN S. BARNS, J. P.

Beecher is to receive $100,000 year, as his salary, in place of $20,000 The first thing we know there will a general demoralization among the preachers in order that their salaries may be raised.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Devoted to the Interests of the Democratic Party and to the Collection of Local and General News.

Volume 5. AUBURN, DeKALB COUNTY INDIANA, AUG. 12th, 1875. Number 31.

The Auburn Weekly Courier

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY, BY

TOM. C. MAYS.

One Year,........$2. | Six Months,.......$1.

Advertising Rates.

Space.	1m.	3m.	6m.	1y.
One Square........	2 50	5 00	7 00	12 00
¼ Column.........	6 00	12 00	15 00	30 00
½ Column.........	10 00	15 00	20 00	60 00
One Column.......	15 00	20 00	50 00	100 00

Legal Notices 10 cents per line, first insertion, 5 cents each insertion thereafter. Business cards Five Dollars.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

ROSE & HARTMAN,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW. Have complete abstracts of the records of DeKalb County. Office in Case's Block, Auburn, Indiana.

H. C. PETERSON,

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public. Office over Davis' hardware store, Auburn, Ind.

WOODHULL and CROXTON,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW Angola, Indiana. Practice in Steuben and DeKalb Counties.

RICKEL & TEFFT,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW, Auburn, Ind. Office in the Court House.
J. W. RICKEL, R. DEXTR TEFFT.

A. F. FINCHIN

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public, Butler, DeKalb Co., Ind. Insurance and real estate business promptly attended to.

McBRIDE and MORLAN

ATTORNEYS AT LAW, Waterloo, Indiana. Will practice in any of the courts of the State. Office over O. T. Clark's Dry Goods store.

GUY PLUM,

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public. Office in the Court House. Special attention paid to the collection of claims. Also agent for Home Insurance Company.

CHAS. A. O. McCLELLAN,

ATTORNEY AT LAW, Waterloo, Indiana. Will practice in the Courts of DeKalb and Steuben counties. Liberal Advances Made on all First-class. Claims left in my hands for collection.

COURTS IN STEUB N CO.	COURTS IN DEKALB CO.
1st Monday in February	3rd Monday in Feb.
4th Monday in April	2nd Monday in May
1st Monday in September	3rd Monday in Sep.
4th Monday in November	2nd Monday in Dec

PHYSICIANS.

DR. J. A. COWAN,

PHYSICIAN & SURGEON, Auburn, Ind. Office on Main street, over Central Grocery.

W. S. ALLEN.

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON, Office over McQuiston's store, Cool's Block, North of Court House.

J. J. LITTLEFIELD,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON. Office over Miller and Casebeer's Store, Auburn, Indiana.

DR. J. M. SHUTT.

ELECTIC PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON, will attend to all calls belonging to the medical profession, promptly. Possessing al. the benefits that can be derived from forty-two years experience, of one of the most active and successful Physicians in the western part of Ohio, and several years of personal experience enables me to treat all lamque of diseases with the best of success, "without the use of calomel. My medicines are purely vegetable, and therefore, I am able to treat all kinds of diseases without producing any bad effect, upon the nervous system," and will break the worst case of ague, without the use of quinine. No matter what your disease is, give me a call, for I am prepared to handle all, at my office on fifth street, between Main and Cedar Auburn Indiana.

HOTELS.

SWINEFORD HOUSE.

CORNER MAIN AND NINTH STREETS, opposite the Court House. S. C. SWINEFORD, Pro.

AVELINE HOUSE,

MILLER & MORITZ, Prop's., corner Calhoun & Berry Sts., Fort Wayne, Ind.

AMERICAN HOUSE

AT FORT WAYNE, only $2 a day. Good accommodations for traveling men.
C. B. OAKLEY, Prop'r.

WOOD'S HOTELL.

NOS. 34 & 36 EAST WASHINGTON STREET, opp Field, Leiter, & Co's retail dry goods store; and adjoining D. B. Fisk's wholesale millinery store, between State street & Wabash Avenue, Chicago.
O SANDS, Prop'r.
$1.00 per day. GEO. S. PALMER, Clerk.

MISCELLANEOUS.

H. Wartenslaben

PAINTER and paper hanger. House painting a specialty. Residence corner Williams and Cedar street.

Medical Society.

OF DeKALB COUNTY, meets at Auburn, Ind., the 2nd Tuesday in each month.
J. H. FORD, Pres't.
J. A COWAN, Sec'y.

Joseph H. Stophlet.

ARCHITECT. Office over No. 17 Court street 1st door north of Empire Line office, Ft. Wayne, Ind. Drawings and specifications furnished for all classes of buildings, at reasonable rates.

PRINTING.

COURIER OFFICE.

JOB PRINTING neatly executed. Fine work a specialty. Office in Odd Fellows' Building 2nd floor.

John M. Miller,

Manufacturer and Dealer in

FINE FURNITURE,

CHAIRS

Husk & Hair Matrasses

50 and 52 East Main Street,

FORT WAYNE, IND.

$500,000 to loan on improved farms in Northern Indiana, in sums of one thousand dollars and upwards, on five years time. Security must be first mortgage.
WILLIAM FLEMING,
tf Fort Wayne Ind

Thomas Baldock

Building Contractor

AUBURN INDIANA.

will be ready at all times with an experience corps of workmen to erect Houses, Barns, and do carpenter and joiner work of all kinds at reasonable rates.

Hoosier Drain Tile!

ONE OF THE BEST INVENTIONS IN THE WORLD.

LANHAM & HOSE have now on hand some of the above Tile, which they are selling at a Very low figure. We offer
Four Inch Sizes at 50 cts. per Rod,
Six " " " 75 " " "
Every person who intend to put in tile should xamine this article. A sample can be seen at this office.
LANHAM & HOSE,
v5n11 Auburn, Indiana.

J. J. VanAuken,

COUNTY SURVEYOR.

Will attend promptly to all surveying. Offic with Rose & Hartman, Auburn Indiana. Persons requesting work by letter should give township andsection.

THE PHŒNIX TILE MACHINE.

It is well adapted to the wants of Tile Makers. It is usually driven by the power of two horses. It delivers tile at the two opposite ends of the machine. It may be converted into a single delivery machine. It has a simple and easily means of taking up the wear on the plunger head and sides of the chamber, thus correcting all leakage of mud, and adding years of service to the machine. It makes from [illegible] to [illegible] rods of tile per day. It is fully warranted. It may readily be adapted to Steam Power. The dies are finished with much care. Drums and Trucks at moderate prices.

CHANDLER & TAYLOR
Patentees and Manufacturers,
Indianapolis, Ind.

SEND FOR CIRCULARS.

JAS. CLIFFORD,

WATERLOO, IND.

Keeps constantly on hand the best and choicest brands of all kinds of

Wines and Liquors,

Cigars, Tobac-os, &c.

He also has, in connection with the above a first-class

BILLIARD HALL.

To our citizens and the traveling public, we would say that this is the popular resort at Waterloo. First door south of the railroad.

BAKER BROS.

PROPRIETORS OF Auburn Bakery!

AND

EATING HOUSE

Fresh baked Pies, Cakes etc, always on hand. Good lunches served at all hours.

BAKER BROS.

AUBURN

Meat Market.

Main St. Next door to Klotz's.

MICH HOUSTON

PROPRIETOR.

Having fitted up my establishment in first class style, with increased facilities, I am now prepared to furnish Fresh Meats in the best of order at reasonable rates. Give me call.

A NEW PLACE

TO GET A

Nobby Suit!

TOM WILLIAMS,

The champion cutter of Fort Wayne formerly with M. E. Woodward, is now going it alone, and can be found at No. 21 Calhoun street with Mr. A. Foster, where he will be pleased to see all his old friends, and a list of new ones. If you want a nice nobby suit made to fit you, you will find him the an.

NOTICE.

STATE OF INDIANA, DeKalb County. } Set:
In the DeKalb Circuit Court, September Term 1875.
Henry G. Olds
John D. Olds vs
Henry J. Geiger
Alexander J. Bodkins } Complaint No. 151

NOW comes the Plaintiffs, by P. V. Hoffman, their attorney, and files their complaint herein, together with an affidavit that said defendants Henry J. Geiger and Alexander J. Bodkins, are not residents of the State of Indiana.

Notice is, therefore, hereby given said defendants that unless they be and appear on the first day of the next term of the DeKalb Circuit Court to be holden on the 4th Monday of September A. D. 1875, at the Court House in Auburn in said County and State, and answer or demur to said complaint, the same will be heard and determined in their absence.

Witness my name and the seal of said court affixed at Auburn, this 4th day of August 1875.
J. R. LANNING, Clerk.

FORT WAYNE

MORNING GAZETTE!

A LIVE, WIDE-AWAKE DAILY PAPER!

Issued in Time to Meet all the Early Morning Trains Leaving Ft. Wayne

Containing Each Day the Latest and Fullest Telegraphic, Monetary and Commercial News.

On July 1st the Fort Wayne Daily and Weekly Gazette Printing House passed into the hands of WILLIAMS & HOSSLER, late of the "Northern Indianian," of Warsaw, who design to make it just such a paper as the people of the region in which it is published need. Arrangements are already made to have it delivered to subscribers in all the neighboring towns on all the roads leading out of Fort Wayne, and as the paper can be received in this way from 4 to 6 hours in advance of any other, the advantages of subscribing for the "Morning Gazette" can be seen at a glance.

THE LATEST STOCK, MONEY AND COMMERCIAL NEWS

Will receive the closest attention of the managers and in every instance can be relied upon as correct in every particular. The Gazette is already receiving the highest encomiums of the press and the people. Terms of the Morning Gazette:

One year [in advance]	....	$6.00
Six Months	"	4.50
One Month	"	75
Per Week	"	20

The Auburn

WAGONS

Made from the Best Materials,

And constructed with all the late improvements—

The new and extensive

WAGON SHOPS

—OF—

J. W. SHAFFER

Work of every description done promptly, and warranted. Blacksmithing attended to in good style.

☞ MANY New and Choice Goods on sale at Bond's Novelty Store, 21 West Main-st., Fort Wayne, Indiana. New goods arriving daily. Special bargains in

Table Linen,

Corsets, Gloves, Hosiery; Muslins, Flannels, White Goods, Ladies Ties, Handkerchiefs, Portmonies and many goods not kept elsewhere. Large four-story stone front building, 21 West Main-st., Fort Wayne, Ind.

CARPETS,

FOR 1875.

Are offered at prices lower than have prevailed for many years. Our stock fo all grades is large, well selected and we invite inspection. We have added to our stock and the line is unusally fair.

Wall Paper

Terrys,
Reps,
Gimps,
Fringes and a general line of Upholstery Goods with Shades,
Lace Curtains,
Oil Cloths,
and Mattings
in great variety. The manufacture of Lambrequins a specialty.

ELLSWORTH, ANDREW & CO,

26 East Berry street

Filling up the Bloody Chasm.

He had a wooden leg, three fingers were gone from the left hand and he had to use a crutch. In the dusk of evening he sat down on a dry-goods box on the street corner, and striking the ground with his crutch he exclaimed:

"Well old pard, the war's over. Gimme your hand—shake hand!"

He shook the crutch with a hearty good-will, and then continued:

"There's no more Reb—no more Yank! We're all Americans, and standing shoulder to shoulder—South Carolina alongside Massachusetts—we can lick the boots off'n any nation under the sun!"

He waited awhile, and then went on:

"No more skirmishes—no more fouts Uncle Robert is dead, Gen Grant wants peace, and they're melting up swords and bayonets to make cotton-mill machinery! We're about through camping out, old pard, and we haint sorry—not a bit."

He leaned the crutch against the box lifted his wooden leg and said:

"Lost a good leg at Fredericksburg, when I was under Barksdale, and Burnside thought he could whip old uncle Robert and Stonewall Jackson together, Good Lord! but wasn't it hot that day, when the Yanks had their pontoons and got for us! And when we got up and got for them, wasn't it red hot!"

He stopped to ponder for awhile, and his voice was softer as he said:

"But I forgive 'em! I took the chances, and lost, I'm reaching out now to shake hands with the Yanks who shot me, and I'll divide my tobacco half and half with him! It was a big war, Yank and Reb stood right up and showed pluck, but it is time to forgive and forget."

He cut off a chew of his plug, took off his battered hat and continued:

"Didn't we all come of one blood? Hain't we the big American nation? Isn't this here United States the biggest plantation on the river, and is there a nation in the world that dares knock the chip off our shoulder?

"Maryland, my Maryland; Michigan, my Michigan."

He put down his leg, looked at his crippled hand, and soliloquized:

"Three fingers gone—but I'm satisfied. Folks who go to war expect to feel bullets. We stood up to the Yanks. They stood up to us—it was a fair fout, and we got licked. Two fingers ain't as tive, but they are good enough to shake hands with! Come up here, you Yanks, and grip me. We raise cotton down here—you raise corn up there—less trade!"

He lifted his crutch, struck it down hard, and went on:

"Durn a family who'll fight each other. We've got the biggest and best country that ever laid out doors, and if any foreign despot throws a club at the American eagle, we'll shoulder arms and shoot him into the middle of next week!"

He sat and pondered while the shadows deepened, and by and by he said:

"There's lots of graves down here—there's heaps of war orphans up north; I'm crippled up and half sick, but I'm going to git up and hit the onery cuss who dares to say a word agin either. We've got through fighting, we're shaking hands now, and durn the man who says a word to interrupt the harmony! It's one family—ole Uncle Sam's boys, and girls, and babies—and we're going to live in the same house, eat at the same table, and turn out bigger crops than any other ranch on the globe!"

He rose to go, rapped on the box with his crutch, and continued:

"Resolved," "That this glorious family stick together in the old homested for the next million years to come."—[Vicksburg Herald.

A Little Church Dialogue.

Quite a sensation was created in one of the negro churches in this city on Sunday last. The preacher was expatiating upon the sin of intemperance and denouncing all who were engaged in the traffic, when a bullet headed negro, who bosses a low-down gin-mill, rose up and said:

"Here, parson, is you 'luden to me in dem confections you'se making up dar?'

The preacher promptly said they were for "whoever the cap fitted"

"Dat's all right, den," said the wrathy fellow, "kase ef you mean't me; I'd peal you!" and then sat down just in time to escape arrest.—[Atlanta (Ga.) Constitution.

Mr. Samuel Grosh having purchase the interest of his partner, Mr. Tarney in the Lower Flouring Mill, will hereafter conduct it alone. He is manufacturing a splendid brand of flour and keeps mill feed constantly on hand. Mr Grnish, is an experienced miller, will assist in turning out flour that cannot fail to suit everybody. tf

The Soda-Fountain Boy

He was rensing the glasses when the old lady entered the store. It was hot weather, and the soda fountain looked so tempting that she conquered her avarice and walked over and told the boy that she would take a glass.

"Do you wish for a fly in it?" he inquired in a whisper.

"A fly! grashus no." she replied, a look of disgust on her face.

"Just as you say, madam," he went on, as he drew some lemon syrup.—"People are so different in taste, you know. Some object to flies and some don't. I will mix some pineapple syrup with this lemon, and now will you have a great deal of gas and a little water, or a great deal of water and a little gass?"

"I'm pretty thursty," she said.

"Well, then you want more water than gas, and there won,t be so much danger of an explosion."

"Explosion?" she enquired.

"That was the word, madam. We have had but few such accidents here this summer, and I truly hope that we may have no more."

"Does soda-water blow up folks?" she replied.

"That depends on the state of their health. Some people could stand here and drink all day, while others might get the glass tipped up this way, and boom! they'd go!"

"Bust?"

"Yes'm—fly into a thousand pieces You never saw a human being explode, did you?"

"Mercy no!"

"Well, you don't have the least warning. They may be laughing or talking and all at once the store is filled with false hair, monogram garters, bustles, corsets, feet, teeth, and rolled plated jewelry. It makes a great muss around here, and if we hadn't three of the smartest negros in town to pick up and sweep out we would have to shut up the store for a whole afternoon after an explosion."

He stood with the glass in his hand agitating the syrup and waiting, and she said:

"I didn't suppose it was dangerous stuff."

"Well, as I told you, it depends on the state of the system. If your liver is torpid, and your digestion impaired, one glass of soda water would blow you higher than Gilderoy's kite, and the coroner would be lucky to find as much as your spectacles to hold an inquest on. If your system is all right you might drink a hundred glasses and feel no disastrous effects. Now, then, you'll have a good deal of water and but little gas eh?"

She made a deprecatory motion and asked:

"How's the stuff made?"

"Well I can't go on and explain all the process. There's marble dust, acid, gas, sugar-coated pills, gland powder, cologne water, and kerosene, all mixed together and then distilled. The distilled liquid is placed in a retort, where a chemical action seperates it, and the gas forces it up seperate pipes."

"Kerosene and pills!" she gasped.

"That's what I said, madam, You look innocent and honest, and I hope you won't say anything about it. If you should say anything I'd be discharged, and if I were discharged I should commit suicide. You'll have pleanty of water, eh?"

"No sir, I won't," she replied. Do you suppose that I'd drink acid and kerosene?."

"Not in their crude state, madam, but this process——"

"I don't care for the process! I wouldn't touch the stuff?"

"It is a mild beverage, madam, and the doc——"

"Well, I don't want any. When I go to swallering tar, and lard, and kerosene you'll know it! S'posen I'd drink some and explode!"

"Don't mention it?" he whispered.—"Don't speak of it!"

"I'm sorry for you, young man, but there's a constable living right in sight of our house, and I think—I—I—!"

"You'll drive me to a suicide's grave, you mean?"

She lowered her spectacles, took a long look at him, and went out without replying.

The Judge Catches a Tartar.

The next one was also a woman—a thick set, scowling woman of forty—who came out of the corridor with the full intention of freeing her mind if it killed her.

"This is a case of ——," commenced his honor, when she snarled:

"'Tain't a case either—it's only spite?'

"You are charged, Mrs. Baker, with ——"

"I don't care a snap for your charges,' said she.

"Mrs Baker, will you shut up!"

"No, sir!"

"Not even to oblige?"

"No, sir!"

"Then Mrs. Baker I shall shut you up."

"You cant do it."

"Mrs. Baker, would you rather eat mush and molasses in the house of correction for the next three months than remain at liberty and be privileged to go to pic-nics and have some loafer with a red nose step on the trail of your dress and tear the skirt off?" he asked.

"Well, nobody can boss me around?" she exclaimed.

"You are an ugly woman."

"You are a mean man!"

"And I'll send you up."

"And I don't care!"

"And it's three months."

"Make it four!"

"I'll do it!"

And he did.

There were no other cases, and when the Maria drove around Mrs. Baker said she'd murder the first man who dared lay hands on her. Four of the officers surrounded her and carried her to the vehicle, handcuffed her to the seat, and the band threw orange peel at her red nose and sang:

Her hair is red, her nose the same,
Her temper is fearful to see;
She ought to be caged, the same as a beast,
Or somebody's death she will be.

—[Detroit Free Press.

Lost—A Fashionable Woman's Baby

A New York correspondent of a Western paper tells this story:

One year ago to a fashionable mother was born a baby boy. She got a wet nurse who remained with her six months and then as the child liked the bottle best, was discharged. When the baby was born the grandmother was there from her distant Western home, and shortly after returned, to come no more till this summer. In the mean time the young mother has seen her child sometimes once a day, sometimes once a week as the case might be. The first thing on grandma's arrival was a loud call for Tommy, and Tommy was forthcoming. He was kissed and hugged and praised and petted, and grandma just lugged him about till finally old lady like, she stripped him to see how much he had grown. Then came a shriek "Where was Tommy's extra toe?" Tommy was born with six toes; grandma knew it. The family doctor was sent for, and when an examination of Tommy was made the M. D. unhesitatingly pronounced in not the simonpure Tommy by any means. There had been a malformation of the orignal Tom's feet that time would not have remedied. Then all sorts of speculation were in order. But one servant had anything to do with the baby, and she had been six months away no one knows in what direction. Thomas sits up in a dubious position. If he ain't Tommy, who is he?

A Short Sermon on Marrying.

"It is better to love a man that you can never marry than to marry a man that you can never love. This is a short text for a long sermon. says some wise man or woman; and a writer in the Philadelphia "Times" continues "We do not propose to anyone with a long sermon upon it: This weather is discouraging to long sermons—even where they worthy to be endured at any season. A few words on the text are enough A loveless marriage is much worse for a woman in every respect than a man. In the first place woman has all the credit whether she deserves it or not, of being much more refined, of possessing much more delicacy and sensibility than the stronger sex. Being thus higher, her degradation, when it comes, is much more thorough and terrible. Few things can conduce to this result in a greater degree than the constant and intimate relation of married life with a man whom she does not love. We have heard refined young women speak with disgust of the coarseness shown in the conversation of a class of their married lady acquaintances, and in many cases have traced this disagreable trait back to its cause—a well-known loveless wedded life. Then again, perhaps the woman who marries for support, for a home, an establishment, or because she has never loved anyone and fears that the present will be her last chance (dreadful thought) afterward meets some one whom she can and does love. The result is easily fore seen; either a life spent in a terrible effort to subdue an unhappy passion, or divorce court. After all the good old Quaker custom is best, due deliberation and reflection before entering into the married state. Marrying in haste to repent at leisure is very fashionable now-a-days, but it is a fashion which can be profitable or pleasant only to lawyers and not to them if they have any pity for the unhapy victems of anti-nuptial foolishness and post-nuptial misery."

AUBURN COURIER

THURSDAY, AUGUST 12, 1875.

THE NEWS CONDENSED.

THE EAST.

A MAN named Miller was killed by his own son at Brunswick, Me., the other day. Miller was engaged in the pleasant occupation of beating his wife, when the son interfered and shot him....Mr. Beecher's hundred thousand dollar salary is a good thing undoubtedly, but the Plymouth people do not appear to be willing to fork over the amount. It has transpired that not more than three thousand dollars of the amount has been subscribed, and that the congregation will be obliged to look to outsiders for the balance.

THE bad-smelling Tilton-Beecher volcano threatens to burst forth again. Theodore Tilton's counsel have notified Mr. Beecher's lawyers that they will move for a new trial of the case on the 1st of September.

THE New York Times prints a statement to the effect that Donaldson, the missing balloonist, is not dead, but is alive and well in Michigan. Little credence is placed in the story.... There is considerable excitement in the oil regions of Pennsylvania over the discovery of fresh oil wells of large capacity.

THERE is a lockout in all the mills of Fall River, Mass., and 15,000 operatives are idle.... The infants of New York city are dying at the rate of 100 a day, chiefly from cholera infantum.

THE miners in the anthracite regions of Pennsylvania, are said to be preparing for another contest with the operators....Foster Brothers, carpet-weavers of Brooklyn, N. Y., have failed. Liabilities, $265,000.

THE WEST.

IN the Southern section of Illinois, known as "Egypt," during the month of July, the extraordinary amount of nine and a half inches of rain fell. The wheat crop will prove almost a total failure, and corn, tobacco and hay have been seriously damaged.

O'LEARY, the Chicago pedestrian, has failed in a second effort to walk 150 miles in 32 hours. Despite his failure, however, he did some fine walking. He walked his 50 miles in 9 hours and 7 minutes, and 100 miles in 20 hours and 14 minutes....At Denver, Col., the other day, there was a wrestling-match between two athletes named Williams and McMann. The latter was thrown by Williams, whereupon a desperado named Cleveland who had bet heavily on McMann, was so incensed at his losses that he drew his revolver and shot him dead. The murderer escaped....The police of Chicago found the body of Frederick Burger in the lake, which at first they were sure was the lost aeronaut Donaldson, and now they mourn the loss of the $700 reward.

A BOTTLE purporting to contain a card written by Newton S. Grimwood, Donaldson's associate in the recent disastrous balloon ascension from Chicago, was picked up on the beach near that city, a few days ago. Grimwood's friends doubt its genuineness....George L. Dunlap has been appointed and confirmed City Marshal of Chicago.

A CONVENTION of colored newspaper men was held in Cincinnati last week. Nearly all the newspapers in the United States under the control of colored men were represented.... Woodruff, late Treasurer of the Western Development Company, a San Francisco corporation, is the champion defaulter of the year. His "irregularities" are something over a million dollars.

Prof. King made a perilous balloon ascension from Bloomington, Iowa, a few days ago. He passed through a heavy thunder-storm, and narrowly escaped being struck by lightning. The rain freighted the balloon heavily, and caused it to fall rapidly, lodging in a tree near Olena, Ill., tearing and damaging it seriously, though not injuring the inmates....A locomotive was thrown from the track of the Wabash railroad near Catlin Station, Ill., on Thursday last, causing the death of the engineer and the serious wounding of the fireman. The cause of the disaster was a misplaced switch, done by some villains, with the intention, it is believed, of robbing the express train, which followed closely after the wrecked locomotive.

WASHINGTON.

SECRETARY BRISTOW is on a visit to his "old Kentucky home."....Attorney-General Pierrepont is after the Marshals in the Southern States with a sharp stick. He wants them to explain some of the extraordinary charges in their accounts.

THE following executive order was issued by the President upon the reception of the news of the death of Andrew Johnson:

> It becomes the painful duty of the President to announce to the people of the United States the death of Andrew Johnson, the last survivor of his honored predecessors, which occurred in Carter county, East Tennessee, at an early hour this morning. The solemnity of the occasion which called him to the Presidency, with the varied nature and length of his public services, will cause him to be long remembered, and occasion mourning for the death of a distinguished public servant. As a mark of respect for the memory of the deceased it is ordered that the Executive Mansion and the several departments of the Government at Washington be draped in mourning until the close of the day designated for his funeral, and that all public business be suspended on that day. It is further ordered that the War and Navy Departments cause suitable honors to be paid on the occasion to the memory of the illustrious dead. U. S. GRANT.

THE public debt was reduced $1,294,887 during July. Appended is the official statement for August 1:

Six per cent bonds	$1,095,858,550
Five per cent bonds	613,682,750
Total coin bonds		$1,709,491,300
Lawful money debt	$14,678,000
Matured debt	10,678,907
Legal tenders	374,824,985
Certificates of deposit	64,275,000
Fractional currency	41,145,293
Coin certificates	22,725,100
Total without interest	502,965,478
Total debt		$2,237,813,048
Total interest		27,110,460
Cash in Treasury:
Coin	$68,942,300
Currency	4,316,909
Special deposits held for redemption of certificates of deposit	64,270,000
Total in Treasury		137,529,670
Debt less cash in the Treasury		$2,127,393,838
Decrease of debt during July		$1,294,887
Bonds issued to the Pacific Railway Companies, interest payable in lawful money; principal outstanding		$64,623,512
Interest accrued and not yet paid		323,117
Interest paid by the United States		28,202,807
Interest repaid by transportation of mails, etc.		6,214,150
Balance of interest paid by United States		21,988,647

THE rumor of a quarrel between Secretary Bristow and Treasurer New turns out to be false. These gentlemen are not only on the best of terms in their official capacity, but are on terms of intimacy in their social relations.

THE SOUTH.

THE funeral obsequies of ex-President Johnson, at Greenville, Tenn., on the 3d inst., were witnessed by an immense concourse of people.

A TERRIFIC explosion occurred Friday last on a farm in Maury county, Tenn. The boiler of a steam thresher exploded, instantly killing three men, and seriously wounding seven others, two of whom will die. The head of one man was found in a field some distance away, and another man was blown a distance of 75 yards.

POLITICAL.

THE majority of McCreary, Democrat, for Governor of Kentucky, it is estimated will be about 35,000.

KENTUCKY, Alabama and Texas have voted affirmatively on the question of calling State constitutional conventions.

GENERAL.

PRESIDENT GRANT was out driving at Long Branch when informed of the death of Andrew Johnson. He was visibly affected.

THE recent rain-storms in Ohio, Indiana, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, and portions of Illinois and Missouri, were of unprecedented violence, and the damage entailed will amount to millions of dollars. Whole sections of country were inundated, and crops in the lowlands entirely destroyed.

THE Irish population of the country celebrated in a spirited manner the one-hundredth anniversary of the birth of Daniel O'Connell.

FOREIGN.

LATE advices from Cuba report the capture of an immense Government convoy and the routing of its escort, by a body of patriots....The Spanish Bank of Havana has refused to loan the Government of Spain another $2,000,000 on account of non-payment of previous loans ....Rochefort, the Communist leader, now sojourning in Geneva, recently challenged the noted Paris fighting editor, Paul de Cassagnac. The latter replied with an excessively abusive letter, giving Rochefort the choice of weapons. The latter chose pistols at five paces, which means death to both parties. For the the first time in his life Cassagnac, who is the hero of twenty-five or thirty duels, refused to fight on the terms proposed, and, according to the French code, is henceforth to be regarded as a coward....The British Parliament has passed the act for tunneling the English channel.

THE Braidwood Weaving Factory, in Belfast, has been burned. Loss, $750,000....The harvest prospects in England and on the Continent are improving....An immense meeting in favor of amnesty for Fenian convicts was held in Hyde Park, London, last week. It is estimated that 100,000 persons gathered around the various speakers' stands.

COLONEL VALENTINE BAKER, who committed an assault upon a young lady in a railway car, has been found guilty and sentenced to imprisonment for one year and to pay a fine of $2,500.

HON. L. A. DESSAULLES, Clerk of the Crown and Peace for Montreal, Canada, has absconded, leaving behind him debts to the extent of about $100,000....Advices from Madrid report that the Alfonsists have gained several important victories recently....France has ratified the Berne Postal Convention.

HANS CHRISTIAN ANDERSSEN, the well-known Danish poet and novelist, died recently at Copenhagen, aged 70 years....The Turks are collecting in large force to crush the insurrection in Herzegovina....The French Assembly has adjourned until Nov. 4.

MUCH distress has been entailed upon Americans abroad by the failure of Duncan, Sherman & Co. Over 1,000 holders of the firm's letters of credit have been heard from in Germany alone. Many are utterly destitute, and have been compelled to apply for relief to the local authorities or to the American Consuls....Disastrous floods, attended by considerable loss of life, are reported in the East Indies....Renewed assaults upon foreigners are reported from Pekin, China....Thirteen persons were drowned the other day by a huge water-spout, near Berlin, Germany....There is great mourning in Denmark over the death of Hans Christian Anderssen.

DISASTROUS FLOODS.

Havoc Caused in Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Other States—Imperfect Estimates of the Damage to Crops and Other Property.

The daily papers are filled with reports of damage by the recent floods in the West and South, which for violence and widespread destructiveness are without parallel. The following summary will give a fair idea of the magnitude of the disaster:

ILLINOIS.

The Chicago Tribune estimates the damage from the recent rains in Cook county at $100,000. Throughout Central and Southern Illinois all the streams were swollen as they never were before, and the damage to the crops is incalculable. In many sections the grain has sprouted in the shock, and even that which had been stacked is so badly damaged that it will hardly pay to thrash it. In Morgan county alone the damage to crops is estimated at a quarter of a million dollars.

INDIANA.

The Hoosier State has suffered from the floods to as great an extent, probably, as any of her sisters. In the Wabash valley the disaster reaches the dimensions of a calamity. The bottoms, for an average of a mile and a half wide, were submerged, and crops, both harvested and growing, were swept away, and great suffering must result to tenants, whose all is swept away. The Wabash and Erie canal, between Lafayette and Fort Wayne, was almost completely destroyed, being broken in more than a hundred places.

MISSOURI.

A dispatch from Washington, Mo., says: "The Missouri river is higher than has been known since 1844. Thousands upon thousands of acres of corn between here and St. Louis are under water. It is impossible to estimate the damage, but it will reach hundreds of thousands of dollars."

IOWA.

A dispatch from Wapello, Iowa, says: "The wheat is all cut, but is light, and of inferior quality, and is now sprouting in the shock. Not one acre in ten of the oats can be harvested in a proper manner; the crop will be almost a total loss. The hay-crop is almost ruined by continued wet weather."

OHIO.

The Cincinnati Gazette says: "No such wide-spread devastation has been known in the Ohio Valley before. For weeks and weeks the rain has fallen steadily, and all the tributary streams of the Ohio have been gradually rising day after day. The storms culminated in the rains of Saturday night and Sunday. The earth, drenched and soaking, could take no more, and the streams, swollen already to alarming dimensions, received an additional volume of water. Their banks have been overflowed, the fields that have been ready for the harvester for days are now under water. From all parts of Indiana and Southern Ohio the same gloomy tidings come. Houses have shared the calamity with lands. People living in the lowlands have been driven to the second stories. Barns and outbuildings have been swept away, bridges have yielded to the tides, railroad tracks are submerged, and highways are under water.

PENNSYLVANIA.

In Pennsylvania the destruction is widespread. The valuation of the property destroyed is estimated at upward of a million dollars.

KENTUCKY.

A dispatch from Louisville says: "The Ohio river at this point, and below here, to Cairo, is higher than for ten years. Reports from Southern Kentucky say that 1,000,000 acres of land, planted in corn and tobacco, between Owensboro and Cairo, are under water. The loss of property is immense. Reports continue to come in of the destruction by the late rains of the wheat and oat crops in the shock all through Kentucky and Southern Indiana."

TERRIFIC STORM.

The City of Geneva, Switzerland, Devastated by a Tornado.

A correspondent at Geneva gives an account in one of the papers, this morning, of a terrible storm which broke over the city at midnight, Wednesday, the 7th of July. About 8 o'clock a few heavy drops of rain began to fall, and at the same time the whole temperature of the horizon began to be fitfully illuminated by flashes of sheet-lightning, but there was no thunder. Once only, during the entire night, was there one terrific clap of thunder, and that was when the storm was just over. The lightning gradually increased in intensity, and became, indeed, actually, and without exaggeration, continuous. The entire atmosphere seemed to be an element of flames, and all this time there was not the slightest movement of air in the streets. At about 11 o'clock, small objects lying on the roofs of houses were caught up and whirled around as by a cyclone. Still there was no movement of the air in the streets below. At midnight the tempest came, mainly from the Jura range, and from the southwest, traveling in that direction toward the basin of Lake Leman; as it neared the lake, it seemed to spread out into a fan-like form, with a front sufficiently wide to embrace the entire city. It did not last much longer than ten minutes, but at the end of it Geneva was wrecked as an army of besiegers could have wrecked it in the same space of time. The storm came in the shape of an almost compact mass, a sheet of ice driven horizontally before the tempest blast. In the first instant every gas lamp in the streets, save here and there one spared by reason of some protecting roof, was smashed to atoms and extinguished, but the city was not in darkness, for the masses of coagulated hail reflected the blue light of the lightning in a ghastly and ominous manner. The windows of manufactories and residences were forced from their fastenings, besides having all their glass shivered, and bedrooms and staircases and saloons were thrown open to the storm, and in a minute or two they were half filled with masses of ice, far beyond the immediate power of the inhabitants to remove, for the storm was marked by this peculiarity, that hailstones, or ice-fragments rather, compacted themselves into a solid mass as soon as they fell. In the slope of the left bank of the river Arvie, in the suburbs of the city, the tiles of many houses were absolutely beaten to powder. Stout partitions of wooden plank were pierced by holes, such as might have been made by a musket-ball. Three persons were killed by the fall of a farm-house, in the immediate vicinity of the city. Vast quantities of small birds have been picked up, killed by the storm, and the bodies of several foxes have been found. Geneva is surrounded by pleasure-gardens, and vine-yards and market-gardens, and these have been destroyed, as if a charge of cavalry had passed over them, involving the ruin and despair of the poor and industrious peasants, whose all is now taken from them as effectually as if it had been sunk to the bottom of the sea.

The World of London.

Here are some curious statistics about London, extracted from one of the papers issued by the London City Mission.

It covers within the fifteen miles radius of Charing Cross nearly 700 square miles.

It numbers within these boundaries 4,000,000 inhabitants.

It comprises 100,000 foreigners from every quarter of the globe.

It contains more Roman Catholics than Rome itself, more Jews than the whole of Palestine, more Irish than Dublin, more Scotchmen than Edinburgh, more Welshmen than Cardiff, and more country-born persons than the counties of Devon, Warwickshire, and Durham combined.

It has a birth in every five minutes, a death in every eight minutes, and seven accidents every day in its 7,000 miles of streets.

It has an average of 28 miles of new streets opened, and 9,000 new houses built in it every year.

It has 1,000 ships and 9,000 sailors in its ports every day.

It has 117,000 habitual criminals on its police register, increasing at an average of 30,000 per annum.

It has as many beer shops and gin-palaces as would, if placed side by side, stretch from Charing Cross to Portsmouth, a distance of 73 miles.

It has as many paupers as would more than occupy every house in Brighton.

It has an influence with all parts of the world, represented by the yearly delivery in the postal districts of 288,000,000 letters.

ALBANY, N. Y., claims a population of from 85,000 to 90,000.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

Weekly Review of the Chicago Market.

FINANCIAL.

The money market has been steady with a fair demand for favors and liberal quantities of loanable funds. Rates 6@7 per cent. for short time. Government bonds firm and steady as follows:

	Buying.	Selling.
U. S. 6's of '81 (ex. int.)	120¾	121¼
U. S. 5-20's of '62 (ex. int.)	116	116¾
U. S. 5-20's of '64 (ex. int.)	116¾	116¾
U. S. 5-20's of '65 (ex. int.)	116¾	118¾
U. S. 5-20's of '65 January and July	118¾	118¾
U. S. 5-20's of '67 January and July	119¾	120
U. S. 5-20's of '68 January and July	119¾	120
U. S. 10-40's	116¾	116¾
U. S. new 5's of '81 (ex. int.)	114¾	114¾
U. S. currency 6's	121¾	122
Gold (full weight)	112¾	113
Gold Coupons	112¾	113
Gold exchange	112¾	113

BREADSTUFFS.

The grain markets were again active and more or less excitement prevailed, while the changes and fluctuations in values were more or less severe. The movement was mainly on speculative account, and the governing influences were largely of the same class, the weather having more influence and effect on the market than any other circumstance. The advices from the East at times quoted a firmer set of markets and again weakness and depression; but taken all in all local speculative causes more than counteracted the effect that would naturally be expected from the tone of the markets at the East. The receipts were larger all round, showing a more marked increase, however, when compared with the arrivals for the same time last year. The shipments were lighter all round, and the result was quite a liberal increase in the stock in store. The shipping interests were slow in taking hold and about the only inquiry for cash grain was from July shorts who had not made provision for their maturing contracts. The unsettled weather would always cause an upward movement in values, while a change to favorable weather, would favor a downward movement. At the close the tendency of prices was to a higher range.

The following table shows the prices current at the opening and close of the past week:

	Opening.		Closing.
No. 2,sp'g wheat, cash		@1.15¾		@1.22¾
No. 2 seller August		@1.18½		@1.22¾
No.2,seller September		@1.14		@1.21¾
No. 2 corn, cash		@ .70¾	.70¾	@ .71
No. 2 corn, s. August	—	@ .70½	.71	bid
No. 2 corn, seller Sept.		@ .71½	.73	bid
No. 2 oats, cash		@ .53½		@ .52
No. 2 oats, s. August		@ .39¾	.40¾	bid
No. 2 oats, s. Sept		@ .36¾	.39½	bid
No. 2 rye, cash	.96	@1.00	.90	new
No. 2 rye, s. Aug		@ .78	.80	@ .81
No. 2 rye, s. Sept		@ .76		@ .80
No. 2 barley, cash		@1.32		@1.31
No. 2 barley, s. Sept	.99	@1.01		@1.09
No. 2 barley, s. Oct	.99	@1.00½	1.07½	@1.08

PROVISIONS.

There was considerable of a reaction in this market from the previous week, the excitement that at that time prevailed giving way to quietness, and the tendency of values was decidedly downward. The amount of business transacted during the week was light, and the bulk of the trading was in the way of transfers of contracts from one month to another at the difference of about 20c per brl. on mess pork, and 17½@20c per 100 lbs. on lard. There was but little change in the tone of either Eastern or European advices, and the market was governed mainly by local influences. As compared with a week ago mess pork has declined 40c per brl., lard 30c per 100 lbs., and meats ½@¾c per lb. The market closed at $20.50 for Cash mess pork, $20.40@20.45, seller August, $20.60@20.65, seller September. Cash lard, and closed at $13.30, seller September, $13.50, seller October, at $13.60.

PRODUCE.

There was considerable improvement in the butter market during the week just past. There was quite an active demand on shipping account, and a fair amount was taken for repacking purposes. The arrivals during the week were only moderate and some reduction is noticeable in the stock. Of real choice the supply was light, and such grades were held with considerable firmness, though the commoner qualities sold at former prices. The following are the classifications adopted by the Butter Association at their last convention, for which grades the quotations are given below: Extras—Shall be composed of selections from the finest grades of fresh made sorts, and shall be of the highest standard of table butter. Firsts—Shall be a good quality of butter, of uniform natural color, in season, sweet and properly seasoned, in good uniform style of package, and in good condition. Seconds—Shall consist of a good, sweet, solid grade of butter, uniform in color, in good style of package, and in good condition. Thirds—Shall embrace all sorts between the quality too poor to be classed as seconds, and the grade above grease butter. The following were the closing quotations: Quotable at 21@25c for extras, 17@20c for firsts, 15@17c for seconds, 13½@15c for thirds, and 11@12c for inferior stock. The market was rather quiet for beans, but prices were without essential change. Quotable at $1.80@1.85 for prime Eastern medium, and $1.00@1.70 for poor to good Western do. A fair trade was reported in broom corn, and values were firm at 11½@14c for No. 1 to extra hurl; 11@11½c for good to choice stalk braid, and 6@8c for crooked. Beeswax sold steady at 26@28c for prime yellow. There was an active business reported in currants at $2.00@3.00 per bu, according to quality. Cheese was rather weak during the early part of the week, but toward the latter part the shipping was improved, and a firmer feeling was developed. Quotations range at 8@9c½ for common to good; 10@10½c for prime new factory in lots, and 10¾@11c in a retail way. Dried fruits were steady, and for apples the demand was somewhat better, but the other descriptions were very quiet. The market closed at 7¼@7¾c for Michigan and New York apples, 8¾@9c for halves peaches and 8@8½c for blackberries. Dried peas were dull and nominal at $2.00@2.10 per bu., for choice green, and $1.85@1.90 for marrowfat. Eggs were in a very dull and unsettled condition. Nearly all of the consignments received were in poor order and buyers were slow about purchasing, even at lower prices. The market closed at about 13½@14c, and for some lots that were known to be good a shade over these figures was obtained. Feathers were inactive and nominal at 48@52c for good to prime live geese, 20@25c for turkey tail, and 3@5c for chicken. There was a fair trade in foreign fruits and nuts and prices were steady as follows: $7.00@7.50 for per brl. Messina oranges and lemons, 21@25c per lb for hard to soft shelled almonds, and 38c for paper shelled. Cocoa nuts, $4.50@5.00 per 100. The receipts of green fruits were somewhat lighter, and the market ruled quite steady. Peaches, 90c@$1.25 for common to fair in ⅓ bu boxes, and $1.50@1.75 for good to choice Crawfords. Apples, 35@50c for green, and 50@65c per box for good to choice red. Brls ranged at $3.00@4.00. Hides were in fair demand and a trifle firmer; quotable at 7¾@8c for good lots of green salted all round, and 13@13½c for calf. Melons were dull at $3.00@4.00 per doz for watermelons, and $2.00@2.25 for muskmelons and cantelope. There were no old potatoes on the market, and new were again exceedingly dull; quotable at $1.00@1.25 per brl for Southern, and $1.50@2.00 per brl for choice Baltimore. Salt was steady and fairly active. Quotable at $1.50 for Onondaga and Saginaw fine, and $1.70 for ordinary coarse. There was but little doing in vegetables; sales consisting almost entirely of tomatoes; quotable at 40@60c per box for tomatoes, 12½@15c per doz. for sweet corn, and $3@3.50 per brl. for Illinois yellow onions. Wool was quiet but steady at unchanged prices; washed, fine to coarse in good condition, 38@42c; unwashed do., 25@32c; tub washed, 40@53c for poor to prime.

SEEDS AND HIGHWINES.

The receipts of timothy seed were somewhat larger during the past week and prices in consequence ruled a shade easier; sales were made at $2.30@2.50 for common to good, and at $2.52½@2.60 for prime. There were no sellers of clover on the market and prices were nominal at $7.50@8.00 for prime medium. Flax quotable at about $1.60. There was no market for millet. Hungarian and buckwheat were nominal at 75@85c according to quality. Red Top sold at 80c. Highwines were in good demand, but holders were asking more than buyers were willing to pay and trade was light; $1.17 was bid, with sellers generally asking $1.17½.

COOPERAGE, LUMBER AND WOOD.

There was but little life in the market for cooperage, and no change was observable in values. The inquiry, as usual at this time of the year, was mainly for light stock, and light barrels sold slowly. The offerings, however, were not large, and the market ruled quite steady. Quotable at $1.12½@1.15 for pork barrels, $1.35@1.40 for lard tierces, $1.90@2.10 for whisky barrels, and 45@55c for flour barrels. The movement was rather light in the lumber market, but the offerings were not large, and former prices were maintained. The market closed at $8.00@8.25 for joist and and scantling, $8.00@16.00 for common to choice strips and boards, $2.10@2.60 for shingles, and $1.50 for lath. There was but a very light demand for wood, and the market was dull and neglected. Prices, however, remain unchanged. Hickory, $8.00; Maple, $7.00; Beech, $6.00, and slabs $4.00 per cord, according to quality.

Telegraphic Market Reports.

NEW YORK.
Beeves	9 50	@ 9 80
Hogs—Dressed	10	@ 10¾
Cotton	14¾	@ 14¾
Flour—Superfine Western	6 25	@ 5 75
Wheat—No. 2 Chicago	1 30	@ 1 40
No. 1 Spring	1 41	@ 1 42
Corn	90½	@ 92
Oats	[illegible]	@ [illegible]
Rye	1 05	@ 1 10
Pork—New Mess	21 50	@ 21 75
Lard—Steam	13	@ 13¾
ST. LOUIS.
Wheat—No. 2 Red	1 50	@ 1 55
Corn—No. 2	71	@ 72
Oats—No. 2	60	@ 61
Rye—No. 2	86½	@ 87½
Pork—Mess	..	@ 22 25
Lard	12	@ 13
Hogs	6 00	@ 7 50
Cattle	4 50	@ 6 00
MILWAUKEE.
Wheat—No. 1	..	@ 1 32
No. 2	..	@ 1 29½
Corn—No. 2	..	@ 72½
Oats—No. 2	..	@ 53
Rye	..	@ 60
Barley—No. 2	..	@ 1 07½
CINCINNATI.
Wheat—Red	1 65	@ 1 75
Corn	73	@ 76
Oats	60	@ 61
Rye	98	@ 1 00
Pork—Mess	21 50	@ 21 75
Lard	13½	@ 13¾
TOLEDO.
Wheat—Extra	..	@ 1 56
Amber	1 51	@ 1 52
Corn	77	@ 77½
Oats	60	@ 65
DETROIT.
Wheat—Extra	..	@ 1 55
Amber	..	@ 1 40
Corn	..	@ 75
Oats	..	@ 61½
CLEVELAND.
Wheat—No. 1 Red	..	@ 1 54
No. 2 Red	..	@ 1 49
Corn	81	@ 82
Oats	65	@ 68

Death of Andrew Johnson.

Ex-President Andrew Johnson died at the residence of his sister, Mrs. W. R. Brown, Carter county, Tenn., on the morning of Saturday, July 31. He left his home in Greenville, Green county, on Tuesday, the 27th, in his usual health, hale, alert and vigorous, to spend a few days with his daughter. On the evening of the following day he was suddenly stricken down with paralysis, mainly affecting his left side, and rendering him unconscious, in which condition he remained for many hours. On Friday he rallied, feeling was partially restored to his left side, he conversed intelligently, and his friends had every reason to hope for his early recovery. On Saturday morning, however, Mr. Johnson received a second attack, which he survived but a short time.

A dispatch from Greenville, Tenn., to a Nashville paper gives the following particulars of Mr. Johnson's illness and death: "He had been complaining somewhat of ill health during the last month, but felt no apprehensions. Last Wednesday he took the morning train to visit his daughter, with whom Mrs. Johnson had been sojourning for the past six weeks. He rode in a hack from Carter's depot to her residence, some six miles distant, and seemed in good spirits on arrival, and ate a hearty dinner, and after a few minutes of general conversation retired up stairs, and was talking alone with his granddaughter, Miss Lillie Stover. While thus engaged, his tongue refused to utter a tone, and to her great consternation he fell from his seat to the floor. Help was instantly summoned, and almost as soon as raised he expressed indistinctly that his right side was paralyzed. After being taken to the bed, when the family spoke of sending for a physician, he forbade it, saying that he would soon recover. In this way the summoning of medical aid was deferred for twenty-four hours. When Mr. Jobe was called from Elizabethtown, some two miles distant, he instantly began a heroic treatment, aided by Dr. Cameron, and seemed at one time the next day to be succeeding. The patient conversed imperfectly in regard to domestic matters, and did not seem conscious of approaching dissolution, but his case was beyond the skill of a physician, and at 7 o'clock last night he became unconscious. Mrs. Patterson and Andrew Johnson, Jr., arrived an hour later with two physicians from Greenville, Drs. Brey and Taylor, but he did not recognize either of them, and after seven hours and a half of unconsciousness peacefully breathed his last, surrounded by his wife, children, and all his grandchildren, except the son and daughter of ex-Senator Patterson."

Mr. Johnson, a short time previous to his death, expressed a desire that his winding-sheet be the flag of his country.

Andrew Johnson was eminently a self-made man. It was his reasonable boast that from a youth of extreme poverty, which denied all advantages of education, he had steadily climbed the ladder of public preference, round by round, until he reached its highest possible point. He commenced his career at the age of ten a tailor. Death finds him at the age of sixty-seven, a Senator of the United States, who had been its President. He was born in Raleigh, North Carolina, December 28, 1808. His father's social standing and monetary worth may be imagined when it is stated that he was the city sexton, and porter of the State bank. In 1826 young Johnson moved to Tennessee, there to pursue his trade as journeyman tailor. He settled at Greenville, which, during all the years of his busy and eventful life, continued to be his home. There shortly after his arrival, he married, and it was under his wife's instructions that he learned to write and cipher. His first appearance in politics was as the organizer of a workingmen's party in opposition to the rich element which ruled the town. He was chosen an Alderman, and thenceforward, until the day of his death, was in public life. He was successively elected Mayor, member of the lower house of the State Legislature, a Van Buren Elector in 1840, State Senator, member of Congress in 1843, holding his seat through five terms. He was twice elected Governor of the State, and passed through the exciting, violent canvasses which preceded the elections, with an intrepidity which was a leading characteristic of the man. In 1857 he was sent to the United States Senate. In 1862 he was appointed Military Governor of Tennessee. His administration was marked with such vigor and at the same time such moderation, he had made so many sacrifices for the Union cause, he was so eminently a war man, that, notwithstanding his life-long association with the Democratic party, he was placed on the ticket with Abraham Lincoln in 1864.

MOUNTAIN MEADOW.

A Brief and Authentic Account of the Cruel Slaughter.

In September, 1857, an emigrant train from Arkansas, consisting of about 150 people, men, women, and children, with 40 wagons, 600 head of cattle, and 60 horses and mules, passed through the Salt Lake region, bound to California. Their property was valuable, the proceeds of it being afterward declared to exceed $30,000. The numbers and strength of the party afforded protection to a train of disaffected Mormons, who took this occasion to flee from the horrors of Salt Lake valley. Sept. 10, while camped in Mountain Meadow, about 320 miles west of Salt Lake City, the emigrants were attacked by a band of white people painted and dressed like Indians. The emigrants defended themselves with spirit after the first dash, in which they lost ten or twelve men, was made by their assailants. Behind their barricade of wagons they kept up such a vigorous fusilade that after a siege of five days the enemy withdrew. The camp was next visited by a wagon bearing a white flag and containing Jacob Haight, then one of the Presidents of the Mormon Church, and John D. Lee, a Mormon Bishop, and also adopted son of Brigham Young.

These men professed to be on good terms with the "Indians," and offered to act as mediators in the interests of peace. It was proposed that the emigrants should march out from camp, leaving everything behind, including their guns. The Mormon emissaries agreed to furnish a guard thence to the settlements. These conditions were accepted. The little procession began to move, when it was fired upon by the guard, the so-called "Indians" joining. The men were first killed; the women and children ran on a few hundred yards and then fell. The plunder was taken to Salt Lake City and the adjoining settlements, and divided. Mr. J. Forney, Superintendent of Indian Affairs for Utah, testified that the church dignitaries alone received property estimated to be worth $30,000. The skeletons of 120 persons were subsequently collected on that fatal field and buried in one mound. A pile of rocks marks the spot, and on a huge cross, erected as a monument, was placed the inscription, "Vengeance is mine, saith the Lord."

The Mormons were in a high state of excitement at that time, as one of their Bishops, Pratt by name, had just been killed in Arkansas for attempting to get a woman away from her husband. They believed that the earth and all its fullness was the Lord's, and that they were the Lord's saints and chosen people. Accordingly they had authorized a band of robbers, called Danites, to make the scheme look religious. On this same ground of communism the Bedouin Arabs follow robbery as a religious profession. These facts, and numerous other details of events connected with the Mountain Meadow Massacre, fix the responsibility of that crime upon the Mormon leaders. Indians living south of Salt Lake related all the particulars of the affair, implicating President Haight and Bishops Higbee and Lee. Some, also, of the Mormons engaged in the massacre subsequently confessed their guilt.

Cummings, then Governor of the Territory, was a weak, vain man, and failed to give the United States court any support in the attempt to ferret out and punish the murderers. Judge Cradlebaugh, then one of the associate justices for that circuit, opened court and endeavored to bring to justice the guilty men, who were notoriously conspicuous in Salt Lake City. The grand jury refused to indict their own brethren; and when the indomitable judge, dismissing the jury, issued bench warrants for the arrest of the accused persons, they fled to the mountains until the trouble had "blown over."

A Brave Woman.

A plucky lady named Miss Mollie Gilbert, in Keokuk, Iowa, discovered a burglar in her room about 2 o'clock in the morning. His entrance awakened the young lady, who called out, supposing it was another lady boarder at the house who was in the room, but upon receiving no answer, and observing the man in a crouching position on the floor, she, instead of screaming or covering her head up with the bed-clothes, as the average woman would have done, sprang to the door, which was open, and thus cut off the burglar's retreat. The villain becoming alarmed, sprang at, and caught Miss Gilbert by the throat and commenced choking her. The lady showed her bravery and grit, by hanging on to the man until in the struggle which ensued they approached the top of the stairs, down which both woman and burglar fell, a chair which was standing near, and and which Miss Gilbert had clutched at as she fell, going down with them. They landed at the foot of the stairs, the burglar first, then Miss Gilbert, and then the chair, the latter being broken by the fall. After the tumble, the rascal succeeded in slipping from Miss Gilbert's grasp, and got away through a back window. In the struggle the scoundrel used a knife, with which he inflicted a wound upon Miss Gilbert, but it was fortunately very slight.

Reconciliation.

Brooklyn people who know all the parties, are confident that Tilton will endeavor to bring about a reconciliation with his wife, and will be successful in doing so. He undoubtedly wants her to come home, and she has time and again stated in print that his influence over her was irresistible when she was fairly brought under it. It is generally supposed that the Plymouth Church people will make Mrs. Tilton financially comfortable during the remainder of her life, assuming that she remains separate from her husband. Of course, if she returns to him, it will be against the wishes of the Beecherites.—New York Letter

AUBURN COURIER

[illegible] C. SALE, Publisher.

GOSSIP OF THE DAY.

ONE HUNDRED AND [illegible] persons who never drank or smoked or chewed or swore, died in Chicago last week. They were under 1 year of age.

A BALTIMOREAN named Schroeder, nothing daunted by the mysterious fate of Donaldson, proposes to sail in a balloon from New York for London, which he expects to reach in fifty hours.

HENRY WARD BEECHER announces that he will not lecture the coming season, all reports to the contrary notwithstanding. Per contra, Theodore Tilton is preparing for an extensive lecture tour in the East and West.

THE Chicago Tribune states that a few days ago a cargo of wheat was purchased in that city and forwarded via Antwerp on account of parties in Europe, who preferred dealing direct with the Chicago market to purchasing through New York.

THE Cincinnati papers tenderly record the death of their famous little jackass, who some time since whipped the lioness of the Zoological Garden in single combat. The lioness died several weeks ago, and now the jackass, her conquerer, has followed her to that bourne where all the good jackasses and bad lionesses go.

RETURNS from the New York census indicate that the total increase of population in the State in five years is over half a million. The chief growth of population has been at and around the commercial centers. The agricultural regions have generally declined, while nearly all the cities and towns show an increase.

BOSS TWEED is slowly but surely unriveting the chains that bind him, and will soon step boldly out of prison. His present operations are directed toward defeating the city of New York in its $6,000,000 suit, and the preliminary movements, based purely on legal technicalities and pettifogging quirks, are, of course, favorable to him, for quibbles never are in favor of the wronged party.

WHEN they get up a family feud in Alabama they carry it out with a liveliness unknown in any other locality. An encounter recently took place in Escambia county, in that State, between two families, in which there was a father and two sons on each side. When the row was over there were five dead and one living man. The latter had enough buckshot in him to make sinkers for a dozen cod-fishing lines.

A FELLOW who evidently wanted to commit suicide in a novel manner "choked himself to death, in Ohio, recently, with a hoop-skirt." How or why he did it is not mentioned; but we suspect that the vicious contents of the hoop-skirt first fascinated and then crazed him. It probably jilted him, afterward, as is the wont of some hoop-skirts, and then despair deprived him of utterance—literally choked him off and let him drop into eternity.

A PARTY of gentlemen in Dallas, Texas, the other day sat down around a fine, ripe watermelon to enjoy themselves. The carver cut the melon through, and in the heart of it, very nicely imbedded, was a spotted lizard about four inches long. It is hardly necessary to add that the party lost their appetite for the melon, and the question as to how his lizardship came there occupied their attention the balance of the evening, without reaching a satisfactory solution.

THE postal rates with Europe, as fixed by the late general treaty, which went into effect, July 1, 1875, are five cents for letters weighing one-half ounce or less, two cents for postal cards, and two cents for newspapers weighing not over four ounces, to all countries except France, to which the rates are nine cents for letters and three cents for newspapers. To Egypt and Asiatic Turkey the postage has also been reduced to five cents on letters and two cents on papers.

THE latest reports of the European breadstuffs market indicate better prospects for the crops, owing to an improvement in the weather in England, whereby harvest hopes have been revived somewhat. In Russia the official crop reports represent the wheat yield a good average. Discussing the situation, the Mark Lane Express thinks that, with stocks so near exhaustion, even though fine weather should help the crops, a return to former low prices seems to be impossible.

MR. ROWELL, in his forth-coming Newspaper Directory, will show the failure of one thousand newspapers in this country during the past year, the loss to publishers, subscribers and advertisers amounting to over eight million dollars, the Republic, of New York alone losing half a million. Among those who went into the newspaper business and lost heavily were 276 [illegible] and adventurers, 315 school-teachers, 57 lawyers, [illegible], 10 farmers, 200 fanatics of various classes afflicted with literary leanings, 100 visionary young men, who drew upon their fathers, and thus suddenly exhausted large margins of the paternal capital, and 6 lottery men.

AN editor of a Boston paper recently employed a graduate of the Yale school of journalism, as a reporter, and sent him off immediately to a neighboring town to work up a murder case. After waiting two days, the editor was horrified to receive a telegram from his ambitious protege, reading "Have got all the facts and am just going out fishing. Will be down in a day or two." He was true to his word, but after looking at the editor through an opening in the door of the sanctum, he seemed to understand that journalism was not his forte and stole silently away.

INDIANA NEWS.

POSEY county is out of debt, and has $58,000 in its treasury.

A WHITE frost was quite visible at South Bend on the morning of the 4th inst.

APPLICATIONS for admission to Purdue University average eight or ten a day.

AN Italian Count is playing upon a harp and the feelings of Fort Wayne people.

THE negroes of Clarke county have been frightened into a revival on account of the big rain.

MRS. WILLIAM MCNAMARA, of Huntertown, committed suicide the other day by taking paris green.

BROOKVILLE has a man who paid $10 for the exquisite pleasure of pounding a man who booted his dog.

PETER HANCOCK, a Delaware county farmer, was kicked to death a few days ago by a team of fractious horses.

IT has been decided to hold a firemen's tournament at South Bend, Sept. 5, at which prizes will be given to the amount of $875.

THE late rains have done much damage to the grain crops in Delaware county. The army-worm is also playing havoc among the oats.

ONE man is putting up twenty-five residences in Connersville the present season. They were rented before work upon them was commenced.

TWO YOUNG ladies of Newport not being able to get the services of a carpenter, when they wanted him, erected a summer kitchen themselves.

ARTICLES of association of the Building and Loan Association of Connersville have been filed with the Secretary of State, the capital stock of which is $1,000,000.

TERRE HAUTE Journal: "Terre Haute has a prominent female member of the legal profession in the person of Miss Bessie Eaglefield, daughter of Mr. Wm. Eaglefield, the lumber merchant."

SOME kind of an epidemic has broken out among the hogs in the northern part of Allen county, carrying off the porkers by hundreds. The disease is unknown, and when a hog is attacked he lasts but a short time.

THERE is a disagreement among the officers of the Laporte Savings Bank. J. H. Vining, the cashier, published a card to the patrons of the bank, showing a net surplus of $15,240, which he claims should be applied as dividends to depositors.

CURTIS LEECH, an estimable young man, 18 years of age, while attempting to swim the Whitewater river, near Quakertown, when within a few feet of the opposite shore, was struck by a floating log and drowned. The body has not been recovered, though the river is being dragged as far as Brookville.

AT Remington, one day last week, R. R. Pettit shot his son-in-law, Charles McCullough, twice; one ball entering just above the right eye, and the other taking effect in the stomach, just over the navel, fatally wounding him. McCullough first prokoved the affray by cutting Pettit in the side. The quarrel was the result of an old feud.

THE notorious Bill Rodifer, with two other convicts, made another bold attempt to escape from the Jeffersonville Penitentiary last week. One of the guards was shot in the right arm, and Rodifer received three bullets in his body, none of which will prove fatal. The desperadoes were finally overpowered and taken back to their cells.

A CULVERT on the L., N. A. and C. road, three miles north of Bedford, was washed away by the recent storm, and the first train that approached it ran into the water. The engineer and fireman jumped and escaped. The conductor, Horace Atkinson, who was riding on the engine, was killed. The engine turned completely over. Several cars were wrecked.

A NEW BRUNSWICK court of equity has seen its way clear to declare that a deed given by a drunken man, who received a very inadequate consideration, should be treated as a mortgage only.

AGRICULTURAL AND DOMESTIC

Around the Farm.

THE Mississippi Grangers are going to establish a college.

TEXAS will have a surplus wheat crop this year of over 1,000,000 bushels.

IF you want evergreens to form stocky, compact bottoms and thus make beautiful trees, nip off the tip end of leading shoots and branches now.

PHILLIP ECKHART, a New London farmer, has been fined $75 for putting ice in his milk while carrying it to the cheese factory. He thereupon withdrew his patronage and sold off his cows.

THE following is a good receipt which will give saddles and bridles a good polish, and be entirely free from all stickiness: The white of three eggs evaporated till the substance left resembles the common gum, dissolved in a pint of gin, and put into a common wine bottle, and filled up with water.

PUT clean water near the hives where the bees can find it, especially during dry weather. By so doing your neighbors will not be annoyed by having them about their pumps and wells. Sometimes a half dozen bees will be found in a pail of water just pumped from the well. The bees were in the nose of the pump getting water.

WHENEVER seeds are gathered, they should be labled and dated. If properly gathered and preserved, beans will retain their vitality for two years; beets, seven; cabbage, four; carrot, two; sweet corn, two; cucumber, ten; onion, one; parsnip, one; peas, two; radish, three; squash, ten; tomato, seven; turnip, four.

AN inexpensive, durable method of painting old buildings is as follows: First, give them a coat of crude petroleum, which is the oil as it comes from the wells, and which can be procured for $4 or $5 per barrel. Then mix one pound of "metallic paint," which is brown or red hematite iron and finely ground, to one quart of linseed oil, and apply this over the petroleum coat. The petroleum sinks into the wood, and makes a ground-work for the iron and oil paint. The color of the iron paint is a dark reddish brown, and is not at all disagreeable; it is very durable, and is fire-proof.

CUT-WORMS.—If balls of fresh clover or other green grass be scattered through the field, the cut-worms are said to be attracted to them and crawl into them, where they can easily be destroyed. But this cannot be entirely effective, especially on sandy and badly infested, and a close watch must be kept, and whenever traces of their work are seen they must be dug out and killed. With early tomatoes and other early crops, which would justify the expense, I have saved the crop by scraping away the dirt at the surface, and applying from a pepper-box Paris green, mixed with flour or plaster. Under this treatment, though many plants were attacked, yet little damage is done. Tomatoes in particular, when eaten half off, do not seem to suffer much from it.

HOW TO FEED FOWLS.—Fowls are not fed merely for the sake of keeping them alive and healthy on the least possible amount of food. We wish to convert the food into flesh or into eggs. In feeding for quick fattening, it is understood that the poultry should be made to eat as much as possible. My rule for feeding is to throw out the feed once a day, and let them eat as much as they want, and no more. I want the fowls to eat all they will; the more they eat, within reasonable bounds, the more eggs they will lay, and the better condition they will be in. Laying fowls should take exercise, but if they can go to a trough and eat any time they wish they will take next to none. If fed but once a day, they will wander and hunt insects much more. If fed soft food, such as wheat bran alone or mixed with milk, they will be hungry again in two or three hours, and be off after insects, etc. —Country Gentleman.

PURIFICATION OF HEN-HOUSES.—The Live Stock Journal says: As the hot season advances, poultry-keepers should not neglect the purification of the fowl-house. Proper sanitary measures must be taken, or health and successful poultry raising cannot be expected, nor is it deserved. Lime is an excellent purifier, and when carbolic acid is added to the whitewash, will effectually keep away vermin from the walls. After every cleaning of the floor it should be sprinkled with carbolic acid, dilute twenty of water to one of acid. This is one of the best disinfectants and antiseptics known, and is not used as much as it deserves. The roosts should be sprinkled with it every week. This whitewashing should be done twice, at least, better three times a year. The nests of setting hens should be sprinkled with carbolic acid to keep off vermin; and the coops also, where young broods are kept for a time, should be purified in this way. If a hen gets lousy, this dilute acid will destroy them by putting it under the wings, on the head and neck. Wood ashes is excellent to be kept in fowl-houses for hens to dust themselves with. This is much more effectual than sand, but sand should always be kept for a bath. Without proper attention to these matters, poultry-keepers cannot expect to succeed.

About the House.

IN dealing with furniture, remember to keep water away from anything soluble therein, oil from everything porous, alcohol from varnish, and acid from marble.

TO EMPTY FEATHERS.—When you desire to remove feathers from one tick to another, rip a place in each tick, then sew the edges of one to those of the other, and shake the feathers into the empty tick.

PRESERVING BUTTER IN SUMMER.—A good way to keep butter fresh in the summer, where you have no cellar, is to cover the cloth which you spread over it in the jar, with charcoal.

ROASTING COFFEE.—A nice way to preserve the aroma of coffee is to add the white of one egg to every pound of coffee, just before it is quite cold. Stir it thoroughly into the mass, so that every berry will be wet with it.

RYE BREAD.—Pour boiling water on rye meal and mix into a stiff dough, make it into squares or rolls and bake in a hot oven. When the beginner can manipulate the dough readily, he may succeed in making it light in loaves three inches in diameter.

GINGER SNAPS.—One teacupful of molasses, one of sugar, one tablespoonful of ginger, one-half teaspoonful of alum dissolved in half a teacupful of boiling water, two tablespoonsful of soda, two of cinnamon, one and a half cupfuls of shortening. Mix soft; bake quickly.

STARCHING LINEN.—The following is recommended by a German journal: Make a liquid paste with good fine wheat starch and cold water, and then stir in boiling water until a stiff paste is formed, and immediately add white wax, or stearine, say about one [illegible] wax to a pound of starch (the exact proportions, however, in any case can only be determined by experience). If it is desirable that the linen should be very stiff, powdered gum arabic may be added to the cold water with which the starch is mixed. The strained starch should be thoroughly rubbed into the articles after they have been well wrung out, after which they should be placed between dry cloths and passed through the mangle, and then rubbed on an ironing-board in one direction with a soft rag to distribute any lumps of starch. Collars, etc., should be ironed dry with a hot iron and considerable pressure. The sticking of the iron may be prevented by drawing it while hot over wax, and wiping it with a rag dipped in salt.

Two to One.

David Johnson, clerk in the country store of William Christy, in Leesville, on the corner of Butler avenue and the Gratiot road, which is distant about five miles from the City Hall, woke up at an early hour yesterday morning to the consciousness that some one was moving about in the store, directly under the room; and arming himself with his revolver, crept softly down the back stairs. The stairs open into a long, narrow room back of the store, and before he had taken three steps from the door, some one stepped up behind him and struck him a heavy blow upon the back of the head, which laid him on the floor in an insensible condition. When he came to he found the robber engaged in tearing up his shirt and stuffing it into his mouth as a gag to prevent his crying out. He at once renewed the struggle, and exasperated the ruffian, who stabbed him a number of severe stabs in the arm. Before he could inflict a fatal wound Mr. Johnson caught hold of the blade with his left hand, while with his right he raised his revolver and fired a shot upward into the body of the ruffian, who was holding him down. The latter leaped up with a cry of pain, and, after kicking his prostrated antagonist in the head, started for the door, as did another burglar who about this time made his appearance. Johnson, raising upon his elbow, fired a shot at the second burglar, after which he fell back weak and exhausted from loss of blood. The two men, however, did not stop, and disappeared from view in the darkness outside.

In the morning it was evident that both bullets had told, and one of them perhaps fatally. There were blood-marks in the yard and on the stairs, and in the road, while the dust in the road was marked in a peculiar manner, indicating that the body of a man had been pulled outside of the gate and lifted into a buggy, the wheel-marks of which were plainly visible in the dust. Mr. Johnson is unable to identify any of his assailants. The burglars had lifted the money-drawer out upon the counter and had tied up about $200 worth of dry goods, ready to carry off, but nothing was stolen, owing to Johnson's prompt and courageous action.

Mr. Johnson's wounds are quite severe. In addition to those inflicted on his arm, his hand was fearfully cut and gashed by his catching hold of the murderous dagger, and it will be some time before he will be able to be out again.—Detroit Tribune.

Adventure with a Shark.

Capt. Paul Boyton relates an adventure he had with a shark while engaged in diving for coral in the Gulf of Mexico: I was down on a nasty rock bottom. A man never feels comfortable on them; he can't tell what big creature may be hiding under the huge quarter-deck sea leaves which grow there. The first part of the time I was visited by a porcupine fish, which kept sticking its quills up and bobbing in front of my helmet. Soon after I saw a big shadow fall across me, and looking up there was an infernal shark playing about my tubing. It makes you feel chilly in the back when they're about you. He came down to me slick as I looked up. I made at him and he sheared off. For an hour he worked at it, till I could stand it no longer. If you can keep your head level, its all right, and you're pretty safe if they're not on you sharp. This ugly brute was twenty feet long, I should think, for when I lay down all my length on the bottom he stretched a considerable way ahead of me, and I could see him beyond my feet. Then I waited. They must turn over to bite, and my lying down bothered him. He swam over three or four times, and then skulked off to a big thicket of seaweed to consider. I knew he'd come back when he'd settled his mind. It seemed a long time waiting for him. At last he came viciously over me, but, like the time before, too far from my arms. The next time I had my chance, and ripped him with my knife as neatly as I could. A shark always remembers he's got business somewhere else when he's cut, so off this fellow goes. It is a curious thing, too, that all the sharks about will follow in the trail he leaves. I got on my hands and knees, and as he swam off I noticed four dark shadows slip after him. I saw no more that time. They did not like my company.

IN the waters of the South Atlantic and Gulf States there is a minute insect called the teredo, which attacks and in a short time destroys all timbers which rest under water, such as bridge timbers, piling, etc. It having been discovered that creosote is a preventive of its operations, the New Orleans and Mobile Railroad Company has recently purchased 10,000 barrels of this article in the New York market, for the purpose of protecting their bridge timbers and trestle work.

AMERICA VS. ENGLAND.

A Statistical Tale of Two Countries, Showing Some Curious Facts—America Leads in Agriculture and [illegible] in Professions and Manufactures.

An industrious contributor to the American Exchange and Review presents some interesting statistics compiled from the censuses of the United States (1870) and England and Wales (1871), showing the comparative intellectual, social and industrial condition of the people of the two countries. Though it is more than four years since the date of the British census, it is only within a few months that the official returns relating to occupations have been accessible on this side of the water. The schedules of occupations have been differently framed by the Census Supervisors of the two countries, and comparisons in some instances are impossible, but in others they are and may be taken advantage of by the statistician. It may be remarked generally that the British schedule is more systematically and minutely digested than the American, and that the census returns have been more closely collected. From the article referred to, which is somewhat elaborate, the following summary of the salient points is prefaced.

All occupations in England and Wales are reduced to six grand divisions, as follows:

	Persons.
1. Professional (government officials, army and navy, learned professions)	684,102
2. Domestic (wives and others engaged in household duties, servants)	5,905,171
3. Commercial (persons who buy and sell; persons engaged in conveyance of men and goods)	815,424
4. Agricultural	1,657,138
5. Industrial (persons engaged in mining, manufactures)	5,137,725
6. Indefinite and non-productive (scholars, persons of rank and property, general laborers, and all others)	8,512,706
Total	22,712,266

The labor of comparing these occupations with those of the population of the United States is difficult on account of the differences in classification, but the compiler has been able, after sifting and rearranging, to present the following, which may relied upon as correct:

CLASS.	UNITED STATES		Per cent. England and Wales.
	Number.	Per cent.
Professional, except students	450,330	1.17	2.41
Students Domestic, indefinite and non-productive	28,191,349	78.11	.60 63.48
		—
Commercial (trade and transportation)	1,090,065	2.83	3.59
Agricultural	5,922,471	15.36	7.30
Industrial (manufactures mechanical and mining)	2,903,150	7.53	22.63
Totals	38,558,371	100.00	100.00

It will be observed that the number of professional people in England is twice that of the United States; that this is the greater agricultural country by 100 per cent., and that England is the greater mechanical, mining and manufacturing country by 200 per cent. In the proportion of persons supported by agriculture France is much more like the United States than like England and Wales. The proportion of the population engaged in agriculture in the several European States is said to be as follows: Russia, 86 per cent.; Italy, 77; Sweden, 71; Belgium, 51; France, 50; Prussia, 45; Austria, 25; Spain, 25; Holland, 16. If the domestic and indefinite population of England and Wales is distributed among those engaged in agriculture in the same proportion as in other occupations, it will give about 20 per cent. of their population as dependent upon agriculture.

A noteworthy feature of the British census of 1871 is that the proportion of persons employed in agriculture in England and Wales, as to the general population, has gradually declined since 1851, the ratios being: 1851, 10.71; 1861, 9.27; 1871, 7.30.

Some figures comparing the social condition of several countries are extremely interesting and curious. For example, the proportion of lawyers and their assistants to the whole population in these countries is as follows:

England and Wales, one to each	653
United States, one to each	946
France, one to each	1,970
Belgium, one to each	2,700
Prussia, one to each	12,000

Litigation is, therefore, comparatively unknown among the Germans, while among the English-speaking people it is a great (and expensive) institution. It may be remarked that our German population readily fall into American customs in this respect as soon as they settle down among us.

The returns show the following proportion of clergymen to population:

United States, one to each	879
England and Wales, one to each	[illegible]
Russia, one to each	328
France, one to each	233
Italy, one to each	143
Spain, one to each	34

The vast disproportion of persons in religious orders between the Catholic and Protestant countries in the active list is immediately noticeable. An interesting fact is, that the Dissenters are increasing very much more rapidly in England than members of the Established Church. The per cent. of increase of Dissenters from 1851 to 1871 was 44.6, and of communicants in the State Church 19.5.

The proportion of physicians (including chemists and druggists) in England and Wales is one in each 661 of the inhabitants, and in the United States (exclusive of druggists) one in each 612. The comparison is imperfect for obvious reasons. There are more physicians in both countries than members of any other one of the learned professions.

Of dentists England and Wales have one in 9,210 people, and the United States one in 4,919 people, which is melancholy evidence of superior adaptability of Americans to toothache and false "sets."

In England and Wales there are 20 pupils to each teacher, on the average, and in the United States 33.

Of persons engaged in administering the general Government, there are 53,874 in England and Wales, and 67,882 in the United States. As the population of this country is nearly twice that of England and Wales, it will be seen that, in spite of English criticism on American place-hunting, our cousins are as badly afflicted. The difference in their favor is that their officials hold office during good behavior, while ours depend upon the uncertain tenure of a political party.

In the United States there 2,050 members of the theatrical profession, of whom one-third are women, and in England and Wales there are [illegible], of whom one-half are women, showing the greater prosperity of the business in the old country than this, owing, undoubtedly, to the greater density of the population.

The following figures are taken from the censuses of the two countries. In observing the differences it should be remembered that the population of England and Wales is 22,717,266, and of the United States, 38,555,983, according to the respective censuses of 1871 and 1870:

Occupations.	England and Wales.	United States.
Innkeepers	[illegible]	61,679
Commercial travelers	17,922	7,262
Peddlers	44,697	16,975
Coachmen and carters	114,263	120,756
Merchant seamen	175,129	56,663
Farmers	[illegible]	2,984,229
Printers	44,814	39,369
Watch and clockmakers	21,278	8,595
Architects	5,697	2,017
Carpenters	[illegible]	344,596
Bricklayers and masons	195,161	89,710
Milliners and dressmakers	301,109	[illegible]
Boot and shoemakers	[illegible]	171,127
Butchers	[illegible]	44,354
Bakers	[illegible]	27,680
Grocers	111,094	74,410
Blacksmiths	112,471	141,774

The large number of dressmakers, milliners and bakers, in the small population of England and Wales may be accounted for by the proposition that in this country much of the work of those trades is done by housewives.

All Sorts.

FIRST understand, then argue.

NEW HAMPSHIRE'S State tax is $400,000.

CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS recommends newspapers to the college boys.

THE Louisiana census will make the population of New Orleans about 205,000.

LANDIS paid Carruth $30,000 for the fun he had in shooting him through the head.

IT is anticipated the N. Y. State census will show a population of five and a half millions.

CHICAGO has 2,496 drinking saloons, while St. Louis has only 1,225, and Cincinnati only 1,805.

"HERE'S a go for you," says Turkey, reaching over to gobble those rebellious Herzegovians.

NORTH CAROLINA furnishes three-fourths of the dried blackberries consumed in this country.

A GEORGIA planter boasts six daughters, each of them six feet tall. He thinks them a little above par.

ONE of Frank Blair's sons has accepted a position with a mercantile firm in Boston. The General died poor.

THE last census of Rhode Island shows that the whole State has only about half the population of the city of Chicago.

THIRD ASSISTANT POSTMASTER-GENERAL BARBER estimates the annual consumption of postal cards at 120,000,000.

A TOUR of the battle-fields of Virginia is now being made by Generals Fitz Hugh Lee, Longstreet, Hooker, and Colonel John P. Nicholson.

THE Philadelphia Times says it is proposed to erect a monument in Fairmount Park to the memory of the late Gen. Thomas Francis Meagher.

IN 1841 the population of Ireland was 8,171,124; in 1871, 5,412,377. In the last census there were 724 persons returned as over 100 years of age.

THE estimated annual income of the London Times from advertisements is $2,150,000, and the profits of the paper therefrom are computed at $750,000.

THE Catholic population of Pennsylvania has doubled since 1860. It is now estimated at 600,000. They have 622 churches, chapels, etc., and 541 priests.

THE Paris Financial Journal is written up by five editors, who send their copy from their places of residence. In the number of June 19 the copy of each editor was sent from a Paris prison.

AN invention for steering vessels by steam has just been perfected, by means of which one man can do in ten seconds what it requires eight men to perform in a minute and a half under the old system.

A MAN in New York is having a private edition of his poems printed. The issue will be so limited, and the style of the book so gorgeous, that each volume will cost him $60. The fool-killer might take a season's contract on him.

THE ocean penny postage lately adopted was agitated thirty years ago by the Hon. Elihu Burritt. Mr. Burritt received a few days since a postal card from an old friend in London congratulating him on the successful inauguration of his idea.

THERE is a man living in Middleton, N. Y., who was born on the 5th of January, was married on the 5th of January, and has three children, all of whom were born on the 5th of January, and there is just two years difference in the age of each.

A MACHINE for writing spoken words has been invented by M. H. Huppinger. The Revue Industrielle describes the machine as being about the size of the hand. It is put in connection with the vocal organs, the instrument recording their movements upon a moving band of paper in dots and dashes. The person to whom the instrument is attached simply repeats the words of the speaker after him inaudibly. The lip language is then faithfully written out.

A YOUNG mother in Conway, Mass., left her child in a shady place while she picked strawberries in a field. When she called to know if it were safe, she received no answer, and on going to it found that it had been completely charmed by a brown snake, and unable to speak or move. Her screams frightened the snake away, but the child quivered and cried for an hour, and it was several days before it recovered from the baneful influence of the reptile.

THERE is a bonanza to be had for the picking up somewhere along the Union Pacific railroad. Last week a gentleman and daughter, traveling East, entered the hotel car for lunch, just after leaving Ogden, Utah. At table the daughter removed several handsome rings from her fingers and handed them to her father to take care of until the lunch had been disposed of. The gentleman took up some chicken bones with the hand containing the rings, and in a moment of absent-mindedness threw bones and rings out of the open window of the car. The rings were valued at $1,700.

Auburn Courier

AUBURN INDIANA, AUG. 12, 1875.

They say that Jenny, the geologist of the Black Hills expedition, has confirmed Custer's story of there being gold among the grass roots of the region, but the scientist insinuates that there is just as much gold among the grass roots in Indiana or any other fertile state.

If the correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer, now writing up Knox county this State, is one "Pickaway," then we can say he is one of the most foul-mouthed, unprincipled whelps we know of in the State. He loves to lie and misrepresent well knowing that he would be a failure in any other capacity.

Kentucky Election

Old Kaintuck rather increased than diminished, the large majority she usually gives, this year. It the State election, Monday, August 2nd. It is thought will be elected by 45,000, which is much larger than it was four years ago. It does seem as if everything was drifting against the party of hate and corruption.

The Goshen Democrat expresses our views exactly in an article head. "Platforms and Platform makes." It shows clearly that no one can be a Democrat and throw their influence against the Democratic ticket in Ohio, on the ground that the financial plank does not suit them. We cannot afford to lose Ohio, simply because she has expressed herself on a national question.

The present aspect of political affairs is certainly anomalous, If the democratic party is divided on the currency question, no less so is the republican party. The Terre Haute Express, one of the most radical papers in this state, denounces the action of the republican leaders in Ohio for "turning the party of that state over to the control of the bullionists." If Allen carries Ohio, the Express says, the green back will do it.

If there is any paper that lowes to treat of outrages in the South, that paper is the Interocean. It can get up an outrage to order at a moments warning. Little affairs like the miners outrages in Pensylvania, the vendetta in Williamson county, Illinois, and the rapes and lynchings in Iowa, never engage its attention, but if a nigger is knocked over anywhere South of Mason & Dickson's line, then goes forth a cry of outrage from that sheet that is simply heartrending.

Charles Dickenson showed himself a good judge of character, when he said of Andrew Johnson in 1898, "A man, I should say, who must be killed to be got out of the way." It is a remarkable fact that the press of the country, with a few disreputable exceptions, treat the character and memory of the late President with kindly appreciation. It is plain that his courage self-reliance, even of those who at one time considered his destruction their only chance for safety. The people after all, loved the only man of the age whom they could not frighten into compliance.

Over a considerable portion of four States—the most important in the Union—Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Missouri, the late unprecedented rains have done incalculable damage. The wheat crop has been largely destroyed owing to inability to gather and secure it. It has, by rendering it impossible to plow and till the ground, keeping it free from weeds, reduced the corn crop largely below the average. Thousands of acres in the vicinity of rivers and creeks have been overflowed and entirely destroyed. Grass, like wheat has been largely injured. Oats have been destroyed by the ravages of the army worm in addition to the effects of the rain. Potatoes are rotting in the hills. Tomatoes and other vegetables are not ripening. This any one can say without being considered a croaker. It requires only a ride into the country over a large belt of territory to perceive it. The fruit was, by the intense cold of the weather, largely ruined in this latitude. In the far west the grasshoppers and other insects have been almost as injurious as the rain in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Missouri.

Another match game of ball Saturday, between the junior nines of this place.

SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

Nearly all diseases originate from Indigestion and Torpidity of the liver, and relief is always anxiously sought after. If the Liver is regulated in its action, health is almost invariably secured. Want of action in the Liver causes headache, Constipation, Jaundice, Pain in the shoulders, cough, chills, dizziness, sour stomache, bad taste in the mouth, bilious attacks, palpitation of the heart, depression of spirits, or the blues, and a hundred other symptoms, for which Simons' Liver Regulator is the best remedy that has ever been discovered. It acts mildly, effectually, and being a simple vegetable compound, can do no injury in any quantities that it may be taken. It is harmless in every way; it has been used for 40 years, and hundreds of the good and great from all parts of the country will vouch for its being the purest and best.

Simmons' Liver Regulator,

OR MEDICINE,

Is harmless,
Is no drastic violent medicine,
Is sure to cure if taken regularly,
Is no intoxicating beverage,
It is a faultless family medicine,
Is the cheapest medicine in the world,
Is given with safety and the happiest results to the most delicate Infant,
Does not interfere with business,
Does not disarange the system,
Takes the place of Quinine and Bitters of every kind.
Contains the simplest and best remedies.

Price $1. Sold by all Druggists. April 22, 1875

For sale at F. E. DAVENPORT'S drug store.

NOTICE TO HEIRS OF PETITION TO SELL REAL ESTATE.

State of Indiana, DeKalb County, sct.

Notice is hereby given that Benjamin F. Cornelius, administrator of the estate of Asahel Bryant, deceased, has filed his petition to sell the real estate of the decedent, his personal being insufficient to pay his debts; and that said petition will be heard at the next term of the circuit court of said county.

J. R. LANNING, Clerk

July 22.

NOTICE TO HEIRS OF PETITION TO SELL REAL ESTATE.

State of Indiana, }
DeKalb Co., } ss

Notice is hereby given that George Barney, administrator of the estate of Asa Hall, deceased, has filed his petition to sell the real estate of the decedent, his personal being insufficient to pay his debts; and that said petition will be heard at the next term of the circuit court of said county.

J. R. LANNING, Clerk

NOTICE TO HEIRS OF PETITION TO SELL REAL ESTATE.

State of Indiana }
DeKalb Co. } ss

Notice is hereby given that George Barney, administrator of the estate of John Milliman, deceased, has filed his petition to sell the real estate of the decedent, his personal being insufficient to pay his debts; and that said petition will be heard at the next term of the circuit court of said county.

J. R. LANNING, Clerk.

NOTICE.

State of Indiana, } In the DeKalb circuit court
DeKalb County } September term 1875.
Sarah Jenkins }
vs. } Complaint for Divorce.
Albert Jenkins }

Now comes the plaintiff, by McBride & Morlan her attorneys and files her complaint herein together with an affidavit that said defendant, Albert Jenkins is not a resident of the State of Indiana.

Notice is, therefore, hereby given said defendant that unless he be and appear on the first day of the next term of the DeKalb circuit court, to be holden on the 4th Monday of September a. d. 1875, at the court house in Auburn, in said county and State. and answer or demur to said complaint, the same will be heard and determined in his absence.

Witness, my name and the seal of said court affixed at Auburn, this 24th day of July 1875.

J. R. LANNING, Clerk.

NOTICE.

STATE OF INDIANA, } In the DeKalb circuit
DeKalb County } court Sept. term, 1875
Joseph Sewell }
vs. } Complaint No. 143.
Andrew Kepler }

Now comes the plaintiff by Rose & Hartman his attorneys, and files his complaint herein together with an affidavid that said defendant, Andrew Kepler is not a residence of the state of Indiana.

Notice is, therefore, hereby given said defendant that unless he be and appear on the first day of the next term of the DeKalb circuit court, to be holden on the 4th Monday of September a. d. 1875, at the court house in Auburn, in said county and State, and answer or demur to said complaint, the same will be heard and determined in his absence.

Witness, My name and the seal of said court affixed at Auburn, this 15th day of July, 1875

J. R. LANNING, Clerk.

STATE OF INDIANA }
DeKalb County. } ss.
John O. Gilkerson } Before John S. Barns
vs } Justice of the peace
Dollas Hooper } for Richland tp.,

It appearing by the return of the writ herein that said defendant is not found, and it further appearing by affidavit filed herein that said defendant is a non-resident of the State of Indiana, and a writ of garnishment in said case having been served on the Baltimore Pittsburg & Chicago Railway Company Indiana Division.

Notice is therefore given to said defendant to appear to said action at my office on the 16th day of August, 1875, at 10 o'clock A. M. and answer or demur to the complaint herein, or the same will be determined in his absence.

JOHN S. P. BARNS,

THE FALL TERM OF

AUBURN UNION SCHOOL

WILL COMMENCE ON MONDAY,

August 23rd, 1875.

A new school building is being erected for the accommodation of two of the lower grades. This will prevent the overcrowding formerly experienced in the old school building.

The old school building is being repaired, papered, re-seated with new and commodious seats and thoroughly fitted up in every respect.

Pupils living out of town who wish to attend school, may consult Mr. J. J. Littlefield, Prest. of the School Trustees.

Board can be obtained in private families at $3 to $4.

Particular attention will be given to students who intend to teach during the winter.

Classes will be commenced in Latin German, Higher Mathematics and Higher English. The following corps of teachers have been hired:

Mr. O. M. Record, Principal; Mr. Jas W. Ottis Asst; Mrs. A. Thomas, Miss Laura Clark, Miss Ida Mahuran, Miss Mattie Miller, Miss Hattie Griswold.

J. J. LITTLEFIELD }
J. W. RICKLE, } School Trustees.
W. GRISWOLD, }

A large amount of hay on the Kankakee marshes has been destroyed by recent rains.

HAVE YOU SEEN IT?

THE BOSS PLACE FOR

GROCRIES

A Large New Stock Just Opened Out!

Queensware & Glassware,

AT COST!

Glass Sets	80 to 90 Cents
Tumblers	18 for $1.00
Cups and Saucers	45 to 90 Cents

Also

Wooden and Willow Ware!

Cheap for Cash.

At Hare Bros. old stand, next door to Miller & Casebeer's

J. D. Williamson.

WHEN!

SEPTEMBER 1, '75.

WHAT!

WILL

EXHIBIT

In Auburn, Ind.

BARGAINS

AT THE

Great Clearing Out SALES!

OF G. H. MUNN.

I shall sell some at COST; I Shall sell some at LESS than COST.

GREAT BARGAINS

In Dress Goods!

BOOTS AND SHOES

AND HATS,

25 per cent. BELOW COST. Call and see him in Auburn, at the Grand Central, one door south of Jno. L. Davis' Hardware.

GEO. H. MUNN.

FRUIT HOUSE BULLETIN!

GRANGER HEADQUARTERS.

Twenty Per Cent. Saved on the $1. No Advance in Prices.

Teas, Fish, Spices, Sugars, Syrups, Wines, Liquors & Tobac's

Cheaper than Ever.

TEAS—Our Tea trade is the wonder of the country. No one ever dreamt such a trade could be built up. We sell more chests daily than some houses do pounds, and still our trade is increasing. It is no uncommon thing for us to purchase two hundred chests at a time, and here is the great element of our success. As by purchasing such larger quantities direct of the Importers we save our consumer, at least the three extra profits of jobbers, speculator and wholesale grocer, who make 10 to 20 cents per pound. This our customers get the benefit of. No middle men with us. As with teas, so with sugar coffee, syrup and all other goods. No secret—it is simply in purchasing all our goods at first hands and re-selling direct to our customers at small margin, and save them at least 20 to 40 cents a pound on tea and 20 per cent on all other goods.

Young Hyson	30, 60, 80, $1, 00, best 1 10	Oolong	30, 60; best 85
Gunpowder	60, 1 00; best 1 10	Uncolored Japan	50, 60; best 90
Imperial	60, 90; best

SUGARS! SUGARS!

WHITE, YELLOW AND BROWN.

Coffee A,	10½c	N. O. Genuine,	9c
Coffee B,	9½c	Good Brown	8c

COFFEE! COFFEE! COFFEE!

Best Rio, per pound,	25c	Roasted Coffee,	20 and 27c
Second Best Rio,	23c

CANNED FRUITS.

At Prices never Before Heard of.

Peaches per can	20c	Damsons per can,	20c
Blackberries per can,		Green Gages per can,
Tomatoes per can,	10 c	Strawberries per can,
Corn per can,	10 c

Wines and Liquors.

Still a few Gallons Left.

Sherry and Port per gallon,	$1 50 and 2 00	Old '76 for medical use	$3 00
Sherry and Port in bottles,		Port Wine per gallon	1 50 and 2 00
California Angelica and Sweet Muscatelle, per gallon,	1 50 2 00	California wine per gallon	1 50 and 2 00
New England Rum, per gallon,	best 2 00	Sweet Cawba Wine per gallon	1 25
Holland Gin, Old Tom,	1 50 and 2 50

SYRUPS, SYRUPS.

Best Sugar, Loaf, per gallon,		Extra Golden per gallon,	60
White Dripps, per gallon,	85 $1 00	New Orleans per gallon,	70c to 1 00
Silver Dripps per gallon,	75	Cuba Molasses per gallon,

CANDIES! CANDIES!

Stick, French and American.

Best Stick per pound	18c	Bon Bons	30c
French Mixed	25c	Japanese Cocoa Nut	25c

☞ We have a hundred other different kinds of candies ☜

No Middle Men with us, either on Teas, Coffees, or Sugars. With all the complaints of dull times, our Tea trade has doubled within the last three years. No secret in it—simply purchasing of the Importers and selling direct to the consumer, thereby saving to our customers the profits of the Speculator, Jobber and Wholesale Grocer, which is at least 10 to 20 cents on each dollar,

Oils! Oils! Oils!

Fish and Neats Foot Oil per gallon,	1 00	Head Light Oil per gallon,	25c
Coal and Rose Oil per gallon,	20c	Machine Oil per gallon,	50c

FISH, FISH, FISH, FISH,

A Large Assortmen of both		Salt Water and Lake Fish
No. 1 White Fish ½ bbl	6 00	No. 1 Mackeral in Kits	1 25
No. 2 do do	5 00	No. 1 Family in Kits
No. 1 Lake Shad ½ bbl.		George's Bank Codfish per pound
No, 1 Pickeral ½ bbl		Extra Mess Mackeral " "	1 50 and 1 75
White Fish in kits No. 1	1 25	Herrings each	1
White Fish family No. 1	1 00	Pickeral and Trout ½ bbl	50

TOBACCOS, TOBACCOS.

The duty of 4c cents per pound goes on tobacco March 1st. This thing we anticipated, and in consequence we have a large stock ahead, so that our customers, as long as the present stock lasts, shall have goods at the old price.

Choice Plug, Five Bros. per pound	80c	Fine Cut	60, 80, and 90c
Good Richmond Navy per pound	65c	Shorts	40c
Ladies Twist, very fine	50c	Smoking	35c best 40c
Long John Tens

25 Cents on the Dollar Saved at

THE FRUIT HOUSE.

THE FIRST

National Bank

OF AUBURN, INDIANA.

Capital Stock $50,000

Deposits received on time or subject to check on sight

Exchange, available in the United States, Canada and Europe, furnished.

Checks and drafts, payable in any part of th U. S. cashed at our counter, or collected and proceeds accounted for to holder.

Colleciions made and promptly remitted for on day of payment.

Loans negotiated and business papers discounted

Government and other securities bought and sold.

Directors:
J. R. LANNING, NICHOLAS ENSLY,
O. C. CLARK, WM. McINTYRE,
GEO. HAZZARD.

Officers:
JOSEPH R. LANNING, Prest.
JAS. V. HAZZARD, Cashier.
April 29, 1875.

Auburn Courier.

Local and Miscellaneous.

WANTED.

Five Hundred Cords of Elm Stave Bolts, is wanted immediately at the Stave Factory of Beugnot & Co., for which they will pay the cash. tf.

AUBURN MARKETS.

CORRECTED WEEKLY.

Wheat—White	$1.45	Hogs—live	$6.00
Amber—red	1.35	Hogs—dressed	......
ye	.75	Turkeys—live	.08
Oats	.45	Chickens—live	.07
Corn	62 @ 65	Butter	.16
Potatoes	@ 35	Lard	.11
Flax Seed	1.60	Eggs	12
Clover Seed	6.50	Tallow	.06
Wool	45 @ .60	Timothy Hay	12.00

The boys had a wet day to play ball Tuesday.

Brick work has commenced on Shull's new building.

For a good brand of flour go to the Eagle Mills.

We are having plenty of rain. It is time for it to pause.

New Goods, New Prices, at G. H. Munn's.

The brick work on the jail is nearly done.

Watermelons have made their appearances in the market.

A number of our citizens went with the ball boys to Albion.

Not many of our citizens attended the excursion to Toledo, yesterday.

Buy your dry goods and notions, of G. H. Munn.

Go to Sammy pomerts when you want a good shave. He can do the job.

C. Altenberg has put a neat picket fence around his residence, on Seventh street.

Keelan, who tried the temper of a hatchet at Garrett, is improving rapidly.

The roads are getting bad from the constant wet weather we are now having.

Best teeth down to $15 a set at Dr. Johnson's Dental Rooms in Waterloo.—Sixteen years experience in dentistry.

The barn owned by E. Cox, in Salem tp., was burned to the ground last Saturday.

The fair at Waterloo commences Oct. 4th, and great preparations are being made for a large showing.

The Steuben "Republican" wants the acts of the last Legislature. They have been issued since the 20th of July.

Best teeth down to $15 a set at Dr. Johnson's Dental Rooms in Waterloo. Sixteen years experience in dentistry.

The Indiana Conservatory, Ft. Wayne the popular music school, begins its 4th school year September 6th. 3t

Mr. Lessig, living east of the city, is building a store room on the King property, Main-st.

Jno. Hebel has men at work on that spot where the long looked for brick block is to tower.

Link & Weaver have dissolved partnership; Joe continuing in the business at the old stand.

The Brubecker Bros. are doing a large plastering business. The good work they do is the secret of their success.

The Indiana Conservatory of Music Fort Wayne, begins its fourth school year Monday, September 6th. 3t

Best teeth down to $15 a set at Dr. Johnson's Dental Rooms in Waterloo.—Sixteen years experience in dentistry.

C. S. Stoy, dealer in lumber, mouldings, &c., at Butler, is commanding a large trade.

Either cut worms or army worms are eating the heads of the early cabbages in some places.

The pitcher of the Union Nine could not go to Albion, but he went down to the depot and seen the boys off. Yes.

"They say" another epidemic has come among the horses, not to a very great extent, however, as yet.

We understand that the Newville club will visit our place and play a match game of ball, in a few days.

The Indiana census brings to light a matron who has nineteen children with but seven birth-days among them.

At last Fort Wayne has a fire alarm telegraph. A good pavement on Calhoun street would be of much more practical benefit.

CHANGE.—The firm of Elson & Bodine, dentists, has been dissolved, Mr. Elson continuing the busines in the old rooms.

Just received a nobby lot of clothing, also a fine lot of hats & caps of the latest styles, come around boys and see Miller & Casebeer.

Our enterprising hardware merchant, D. D. Snyder, has a new metal plow that our farmers should examine. Its highly recomended.

Good prints, fall styles, for 7c per yard, at G. H. Munn's

The juveniles have two clubs, and both have suits. You can see a match game at any time during the day by visiting the ball ground.

An excursion train will leave Defiance Hicksville and Auburn in a few days for Chicago. From Hicksville $3.50, Auburn $3.

The Garrett city nine got beautifully scooped, last Monday, by the Unions of this place. The score stood, 9 inings, Garrett 10, Unions 50.

Parties knowing themselves indebted to us on accounts and notes past due, can save costs by calling and settling immediately. MILLER & CASEBEER.

STRAYED OR STOLEN.—A white Setter dog, with brown ears and eyes, about two years old, was missing last Thursday. A liberal reward will be paid for his recovery. J. A. COWAN.

"Good as the wheat," is not considered to represent the superlative degree this season, as that staple commodity is, in many cases, in a demoralized condition.

If our boys continue having such good luck in the playing of ball they will get a good reputation "all over the land."

The Shooting Gallery, over Beard's grocery, is not meeting with much success. If they could play pool with the Air Gun it would take better.

Mr. Jno. McFadden, one of the oldest Democrats on our list, gave us a call yesterday. He is 72 years of age, sprightly and jovial as one generally finds of half those years.

The M. E. Social will meet at the parsonage on next Wednesday afternoon and evening, Aug. 18, 1875. A cordial invitation is given to all.

Having adopted the cash or ready pay system, we shall be enabled to sell goods cheaper than ever. Give us a call we can and will do you good.
MILLER & CASEBEER.

Farmers and others, are complaining of a disease that has got into their henries, killing off the fouls with great rapidity.

The Commissioners have purchased a new burglar proof safe for the County Treasurer's Office which will be here this week.

Dry Goods and Notions have never been sold at such low prices in this country, as I offer at Auburn. One door South of J. L. Davis' Hardware. G. H. Munn's.

A drunken man rolled off the bank at Niagara-falls the other day, fell 140 feet and came up the inclined plane cars to lick the sun-of-a-gun who pushed him off the fence.

The game of base ball at Albion Tuesday, between the Unions of this place and Athletics of Albion, was won by the Unions. The score stood five to eighteen.

Several of our lively, jovial young ladies had a picnic, yesterday, in Spangler's grove, south-west of town. If it hadn't been so wet a much better time would have been had.

LOST.—A pocket book containing about $60 and an excursion ticket, at or between Garrett and Avilla. A liberal reward will be given for its recovery at L. Covell & Son Garrett, or Kendallville, Ind.

J. L. Williamson, has opened out, a splended stock of groceries and provisions, queensware, glassware &c, which he is offering very low. See announcement in another column.

Of cabbage and all kinds of vegetables there is an unusual supply in our market for this season of the year, but as regards fruits, and especially early apples, there is a dearth exceedingly rare in this locality.

Wet weather and politics is damaging the prospects of the farmers in Southern Ohio to a great extent. The former is injuring the growing crops, and the latter is occupying a great portion of their time.

WHAT?—See advertisement in another column, announcing the opening of a grand exhibition here on the first of September. You want to keep your eye on that, as it is going to be something that will surprise you.

Willie Shryock, son of John Shryock, residing ner New Era, met with a serious accident one day last week. He was riding along on horse back, when the animal fell, breaking one of the legs of the rider below the knee.

Mr. A. Robinson, one of our citizens, now at the Black hills, has been heard from. By evading the Indians and Soldiers, his party finally reached the desired goal, and he now reports plenty of the shining ore on hand.

The undersigned wishes to announce to the public generally that he has located at the Junction, and will do all kind of plain and ornamental painting. He warrants his work to give entire satisfaction. C. BENNER.

If you want to have peace in the family, and enjoy a pleasant and happy life go to the Eagle Mills for your flour. They manufacture a splendid article, that never fails to give good satisfaction.

Clerk Lanning publishes all notices of interest to the people of the county generally, in all the papers. Perhaps the "Republican" will now insist that the Treasurer do the same. We shall see.

There was a bull fight down on the base ball ground the other day. A two year old made for M. Houston, and sent him to grass in short meter. Baldock run the bases while he was doing it.—It was fun for the bull and Baldock but Mich demurs as to his part in the affair.

We are glad to notice that our old friend Dan. McDonald, Esq., has went back to his first-love, and is now a partner with his excellent good brother, Platt, in the publication of one of the best papers in the State, the Plymouth "Democrat." We wish them abundant success.

A great many farmers took advantage of the fine weather we had two days the forepart of the week, to do a little harvesting. They were evidently literally following out the scriptural injunction: "If your ox or ass fall into a pit on the Sabbath day, extricate the unfortunate animal from his unpleasant predicament with as much speed as possible."

A pretty close examination convinces us that the ravages of the army worm is over-estimated. A few fields of oats have been destroyed but that crop is much better than it usually is. One field just east of town, belonging to Wm. Ashelman was all destroyed, but one would have to travel quite a long way before they could find another so badly used up.

There has been a change in the management of the Indianapolis "Sentinel" Hons. John C. Shoemaker. and Jas. B. Ryan, late State officers, being now connected therewith. There will now be no halting as to what constitutes true Democracy. The party will have a fair exponent, something the State has long been in need of at the capitol.

The Fort Wayne "Sentinel" reports a disease among the hogs in Allen county which is proving very destructive to the porkers. Its first appearance is manifested by wildness and restlessness on the part of the party attacked; it refuses to eat or drink, at times breaking forth in dismal long drawn squeals, then finally it will sneak off into a corner, meditate apparently, and then quietly lay down and die.

The "Republican" claims that we have come to the rescue of the "Press." We don't see the necessity of any rescue—The "Press" is amply able to take care of itself. We only intended to show up the fact that the Commissioners were economical in publishing certain notices in two papers, and that the "Republican" charges extravagance because they did not publish it in three. If there is any rescue in that for the "Press," then we killed two birds with one stone.

There was a legal notice published in the three county papers last week. If it had only appeared in two doubtless a cry of paying Democratic debts with the people's money would have been raised. Silence, however, is maintained, and all goes smoothly. It is published in the "Republican." Commissioners can now see that by the expenditure of a few more dollars, they could have escaped this charge. We have no objection to having advertisements inserted in all the papers, but if they should miss us, we won't cry about it.

New Grain Market.

Messrs Dunning & Fuller of Michigan have permanently located here for the purpose of buying grain. They will occupy the elevator at the Fort Wayne Jackson & Saginaw railroad depot, where they will be found ready to pay the highest market price in cash for all kind of grain. Grain will be stored on reasonable terms. Competition in this line will no doubt make Auburn a lively place for farmers.

A gin bottle was found by two young ladies the other day. They quietly emptied the contents into another vessel and filled the bottle with water, and then a watch was set to notice the result One of the most prominent young men went for it and didn't know the difference. See where the rising generation is drifting to—don't know the difference between water and gin. But the young man was sharp, when discovered, he said it was water. The girls was sharp, too. When the original contents were shown up, the young man succumbed.

DENTISTRY.—A new dentist establishment has been opened by J. E. Bodine, Esq., in Fords building up stairs, front room. He has just purchased a handsome chair, which for convenience and comfort, cannot be excelled. He also has the most improved instruments to be found in the profession, and has everything arranged so it is almost a pleasure to have a tooth pulled or filled Mr. B. has given great attention to this branch of art, and has labored earnestly to become proficient in his profession. He will not fail to give satisfaction in his work, and those needing the service of a good dentist, should give him a call.

Reports continue to arrive of the disastrous effects produced by the recent rain throughout the West, and especially in Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, and Iowa Whole sections of country are flooded and the damage to grain crops not yet harvested or standing in the shock is immense. Railway tracks and fences are washed away, and in many instances houses and barns have been distroyed. The damage to the crops is far greater than that caused by the grasshoppers and if the storms do not speedly cease the injury will become almost incalculable. Fears, too, are entertained of floods on the Lower Mississippi.—[Inter-Ocean

The "Republican" is still harping away about the Commissioners. It tries to make out that they have insulted Auditor Hague. Mr. Hague does not look at it in that light, and it is all assumption upon the part of the "Republican" Both the Commissioners and Mr. Hague understand that the new law required the Commissioners to have the allowances published. Had Mr. Hague known that it was his business to attend to this he would have said so, and there the matter would have ended. There is no conflict between the Auditor and the Commissioners. They are perfectly harmonious in their business relations and the "Republican" cannot make the people nor these offices believe that an insult has passed between them.

One of our citizens has discovered a new short line rout to Chicago and return. He made the discovery on the excursion last week. He does not make the distance much shorter in going to Chicago, but in returning is where he makes two arches at one stroke. It may appear a little singular, but he assures us this short line is by way of Hicksville. We tried to convince him that his geography was at fault, but he wouldn't harken to us. He says he's been over the rout, and knows whereof he speaks. The return from Hicksville by freight is the only objectionable feature in the short rout. If you want to hear a freight train discussed, just open the subject to Davenport. He talks to us just as though he had been carried past and was not awakened until he got to Hicksville. Its wonderful how delusive these illusions are.

down. We anticipated crossing the lake, and should if the gale had stayed its course for half an hour. The balloon, we think, is picked up—I do not know as to where—should judge it was seen near Montreal. Never mind—it is all over. Let it be a warning to others. I still am as anxious to go to London in a balloon as ever, and now can help manage one, and in time there will one go across the ocean.

"DONALDSON."

Swimming as a Science.

In London the public schools have added a new branch to their course of study, namely, the art of swimming. It is effected by the formation of swimming clubs, under the lead of a few well-known merchants, and it is said that no less than 5,000 children have already enrolled themselves in these clubs, and the experiment is proving completely successful. In this both sexes join, using separate places for their aquatic exercises,

Boots & Shoes 25 per cent below cost at G. H. Munn's.

Immense floods continue to devastate the country and many million dollars worth of property have been completely destroyed.

STOP THAT COUGH.

NO pulmonary complaint however obstinate, can resist the healing influences of Dr. Mosses' Syrup of Tar, Wild Cherry and Horehound.—Nothing that we have ever sold acts so promptly and effectly in coughs, colds, hoarseness, sore throat, asthma and all diseases of the throat, lungs and chest, leading to consumption. It is a certain cure for Whooping Cough and croup. Contains no opium and is pleasant to take.—Cough-worn victims whose lungs are racked and torn with paroxysms that threaten to choke them, find speedy relief in its use. Trial size 10c Ask for Mosses' Syrup, take no other.
F. E. DAVENPORT, Druggist.

REGATTA AT TOLEDO.

"What is a Regatta?" may be asked. It consists of a large quantity of water, a lot of boats, and a number of half-naked land lubbers, who travel on their muscle. We saw a Regatta at Toledo, last week, and it was the finest we ever saw—being the first. They hold their Regattas in high water times so that they can postpone them on account of drift-wood. It was a success—we mean the drift-wood. It was beautiful to see the great large logs glide down the stream, gondolier-like; drifting far out into the beautiful blue, to be seen no more forever. It is one of the most attractive features of the Regatta. There is a majestic grace in their movement, compared with the slashing, crashing of a few boats. There is another difference.—The logs go down and stay, the boats come back. In the first few races we regreted this very much, but got used to it toward the last.

The first race was for eight oared boats. It was a fine race, and perhaps we shall never see its like again. There were nine men in the boat and only eight oars. We did not ascertain which beat.

The next race was for double sculls—two scullions in a boat. Two started out but one returned. We were glad of this as it gave variety to the programme For this the management has our thanks.

The third race was perhaps the most unique on the programme. It was for single scullers, no married men being allowed to go. The boats were 31 foot wide and 12 inches long, and looked something like a tooth-pick, sharpened at both ends. There is grace and dexterity in these kind of rowers. One fellow had so much dexterity in practicing the night before he could not set still in the boat, and was half the time in the river. We were confidentially informed that the rowers had to part their hair exactly in the middle to balance the boat, and the addition of one single hair on the wrong side destroyed the equilibrium and comfort of the squatter. But to the race.

Four of these tooth-picks started, and while three of them went past the grand stand and returned, the fourth one went over the course. It was a wonderful race, and how the people did yell when that solitary individual came in. For our part we had given him up and thought he had gone to join Donalson. It was suggestive to see the people rejoice over the one man, who had returned, and not caring a cuss for the ninety-nine who sat smilingly by drinking their glass of beer. Oh, they are religious folks up there, sure. They are right on the relig.

The next was a six-oared race, one oar to a man, six men in a boat, and one boat to six men, and no more. They were several boats started, among them the Wah-wah—Sums, of Saginaw, who wah sum on the row. The crowd was very much disappointed in this race, because of the boats keeping in close proximity to each other.

But the last race was the most startling. It startled us from our senses: steamboats, tug boats, yatch boats and canoe boats commenced whistling. A friend at our elbow was startled at the number of pools he had on a boat that was just making the bend at the other end of the course, and the grand stand was startled by hearing above the din, a young lady exclaimed, "all down on number two, set 'em upon tother alley,' and the spectators generally, were startled to see several boats coming in abreast, and anxious to get home.

It was all in all a grand affair, but under the circumstances we could not find time to stay longer than one day, as we had engaged to be present at a game of base ball between the Little Flirts and Big Beechers, in Indiana. We were glad, however, to be present at this Regatta, because no one can look us in the face and laugh us to scorn on the Regatta business. We've been there. We had but one objection to those races.—There was a little fellow there with gold rings around his coat sleeves who kept hollowing at this and that fellow and made so much noise that the judges were in doubt as to the result of the races. We trust the management will take steps to prevent its re-currence. Another objection. When that sailor challenged Bangs to douse him into the water, he ought to have went. The honor of the navy must be vindicated.

ANGOLA, IND., August 10th, 1875.

EDITOR COURIER.—As the citizens of Angola are preparing to have one of the grandest excursions of the season, and as Waterloo people are invited, I will send you a few lines in relation to it. On September 2nd. next, there will be an excursion to Lansing, Mich., for the purpose of finishing off the Congregational and Disciple church towers of this place. A train of six coaches—and more if needed—will leave Auburn at 6 o'clock, A. M., and arrive at Lansing, at 11 A. M., leaving Lansing for home at 5 P. M. Arrangements are being made for all who may attend; a bagage car will be furnished to carry the baskets. Boats will be in readiness for a ride to the Mineral Wells, at the low price of 10c, round trip. The beautiful grove at the State House Square, will be open and, all who wish can go there, and spread their linens and partake of the good thing. A large crowd is expected to take this trip, as the fare for the round trip is only $2.00, children under 12, half price. We hope to see a large delegation from Auburn, Waterloo and other points along the road, as an invitation is extended to everybody, young and old.

ZOLO.

BASE BALL.

The Unions of this place played a return game with the Athletics of Albion last Tuesday, and were successful in a score of 18 to 5. The fifth inning showed a score of 11 to 0, but the other four innings panned out better for the Athletics. The Albion boys are good players but need practice. Our boys averaged good playing throughout the game making but few blunders. There was quite a large crowd present though the weather was very inclement. In the evening a hop was arranged for the visiting club, and a very pleasant affair it proved. The Athletics are as gentlemanly and agreeable a set of young men as one could desire to meet, and the cordial and hospitable manner in which they greeted our boys will long be remembered by the Unions. The following is the score.

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9—
Auburn	5	2	1	0	4	1	4	0	1—18
Albion	0	0	0	0	0	3	1	0	1— 5

AUBURN UNIONS.

	Outs.	Runs
D. Morris	2	3
W. Lyttle	3	2
G. C. Ralston	5	1
F. Kline	2	4
Tom Sprott	4	3
T. C. Ford	3	1
Tom Scott	3	2
J. VanAuken	3	1
W. Baldock	2	1
Total	27	18

ALBION ATHLETIC.

	Outs.	Runs.
Hanry	3	1
Clapp	3	1
Bryant	3	0
McMeans	3	1
Evans	3	0
Foster	3	0
Love	3	0
Boyer	4	0
Dice	2	2
Total	27	5

ARE YOU DYSPEPTIC?

If so, and you desire immediate relief, go to the drug store of F. E. Davenport and get a bottle of DeCosta's Radical cure. It will tone up the stomach, assist digestion, restore the appetite, regulate the liver, and in fact make a new man of you. Delicate females will fine it peculiar adapted to their various disorders. It is the most efficacious antidote for all diseases arising from a disordered stomach, liver or a low state of the system, that has ever been prescribed or advertised. Try it just once, and you will, like thousands of others become its enthusiastic advocate Trial sized 25 cents.

Application for License.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned will make application to the Board of Commissioners of DeKalb County, Indiana, at their Sept. session 1875, for a license to sell spiritous, vinous and malt liquors in a less quantity than a quart at a time, with the privilege of having the same drank upon the premises where sold, to-wit;- Lot No. 20, Block No 25, in the original plat of the town of Garrett, DeKalb county, Ind. August 5th. AUGUST THIENEL.

Application for License.

Notice is hereby given to the citizens of the town of Garrett, DeKalb County, Ind., that the undersigned will make an application to the Board of Commissioners of said county at their September term 1875, for a license to retail spiritous, vinous and malt liquors in a less quantity than a quart at a time with the privilege of having the same drank on the following premises to-wit: On lot number nineteen (19) in the town of Garrett in said county.

MATHIAS CLARK.

Application for License.

Notice is hereby given to the citizens of the town of Garrett, DeKalb County, Ind., that the undersigned will make an application to the Board of Commissioners of said county at their September term 1875, for a license to retail spiritous, vinous and malt liquors in a less quantity than a quart at a time with the privilege of having the same drand on the following premises to-wit: On lots numbers four and five in the town of Garrett in said county.

PETER BEHLER.

NOTICE TO HEIRS OF PETITION TO SELL REAL ESTATE.

State of Indiana, DeKalb County.

Notice is hereby given, that Charles Raut Administrator of the estate Frederick Raut, deceased, has filed his petition to sell the real estate of the decedent, his personal being insufficent to pay his debts; and that said petition will be heard at the next term of the Circuit Court of said county.

J. R. LANNING, Clerk.

NOTICE TO HEIRS OF PETITION TO SELL REAL ESTATE.

STATE OF INDIANA, } Sct:
DeKalb County. }

NOTICE is hereby given that James H. Ross Administrator "Debonis non" of the estate of Christian Buss deceased, has filed his petition to sell the real estate of the decedent, his personal being insufficient to pay his debts; and that said petition will be heard at the next term of Circuit Court of said County.

J. R. LANNING, Clerk.

NOTICE.

NOTICE is hereby given to litigants witnesses and all others interested, also to the Petit Jurrors heretofore summoned for the May term, 1875, of the DeKalb Circuit Court, that court was adjourned by the Judge thereof, to a special term commencing on Monday August 30th 1875, for the trial and determination of causes pending and not disposed of, at said May term 1875 of said Court. Witness my hand and the seal of said court this 2d day of August, 1875

J. R. LANNING, Clerk.

NOTICE.

STATE OF INDIANA, } Sct:
DeKalb County. }

In the DeKalb Circuit Court, September term, 1875.

Rowland Tofft
vs
Nettie Hamilton
Charles Hamilton
Isaace D. Toll
} Complaint No. 131

NOW comes the plaintiff, by C. O. A. McClellan his attorney, and files his complaint herein, together with an affidavit that said defendants Nettie A. Hamilton, Charles Hamilton and Isaac D. Toll are not residents of the State of Indiana. Notice is, therefore, hereby given saiddefendant that unless they be and appear on the first day of the next term of the DeKalb Circuit Court, to be holden on the 4th Monday of September A. D. 1875, at the court house in Auburn, in said County and State, and answer or demur to said complaint, the same will be determined in their absence.

Witness my name and the seal of said Court affixed at Auburn this 4th day of August, 1875.

J. R LANNING, Clerk.

NOTICE.

STATE OF INDIANA, } Sct.
DeKalb County }

In the DeKalb Circuit Court, September term, 1875.

William York
versus
George Egnew,
Alice Egnew,
William W. Egnew,
& Harriet E. Egnew,
} Complaint No. 132.

Now comes the plaintiff, by C. A. O. McClellan, his attorney, and files his complaint herein, together with an affidavit that said defendants William W. Egnew and Harriet E. Egnew are not residents of the State of Indiana.

Notice is, therefore, hereby given said defendants that unless they be and appear on the first day of the next term of the DeKalb circuit court to be holden on the 4th Monday of September A. D. 1875, at the court house in Auburn, in said county and State, and answer or demur to said complaint, the same will be heard and determined in their absence.

Witness, My name and the seal of said court affixed at Auburn, this 4th day of August 1875.

J. R. LANNING, Clerk.

FORTY-NINE.

BY JOHN HILL LUTHER.

Dear wife, I'm getting lonesome, and growing old they say;
No wonder, for the house is still—I'm forty-nine, to-day;
Just forty-nine, the record counts—as made by loving hands—
And what the Bible says, you know, of course forever stands.

But what care I for passing years and looks just turning gray,
While you and both the little ones are with me on the way—
On the way to rest and glory, with heart and hope as young
As when the old folks blessed us and the bridal hymn was sung?

I've been in every room to-day, and peered in every nook,
And tried to bring the absent back with each familiar look—
The two that heaven has spared us, the three who've gone to rest;
And then the sweetest of them all—the mother of the blest.

Ah! well, what if I dropped a tear on some forgotten toy—
And sighed when I recalled the face of one—our only boy?
And what if all alone I sang a well-remembered lay—
"We'll gather at the river," and smiled my tears away?
And then I thought of all the years we've walked the earth together—
Each year God's gift of toil and hope, of fair and cloudy weather;
And many more, yet brighter far, may be our lot below,
For in the path of righteous men rich fruits forever grow.

So please come back and bring the bairns—I want once more to hear
The music of their voices, and feel that very near
The angels of the little ones are listening to tell o'er
The story of our happiness to those gone on before.

Dear wife, I'm getting lonesome, and getting old, they say;
No wonder, for the house is still—I'm forty-nine to-day;
But never mind, Love's evening hath visions just as bright
As ever blessed its morning—God bless thee—wife, good-night.

—St. Louis Republican.

VOYAGE OF THE BALLOON ZENITH.

[The following account of the most remarkable balloon voyage ever attempted is translated from La Nature, of which journal M. Tissandier, the writer of the article, is chief editor.]

On Thursday, the 15th of April, 1875, at thirty-five minutes past 11 o'clock in the morning, the Zenith rose from the earth at the gas works of Villette. Croce-Spinelli, Sivel and myself had taken our places in the boat. Three bags filled with a mixture of air and oxygen, in the proportion of 70 to 100, were attached to the circle, and from the lower side of each of them a tube of caoutchouc passed through a bottle filled with aromatic liquid. This apparatus was designed to furnish in the high regions of the atmosphere the oxygen necessary to the maintenance of life. An aspirator filled with the essence of petroleum, which a low temperature does not solidify, was suspended outside the boat; it was designed to be arranged vertically at an altitude of 3,000 meters for the purpose of passing air into potassium tubes designed to test the quantity of carbonic acid present in the atmosphere. Sivel had attached within reach some bags of ballast which could be emptied by cutting the little cord which confined them. He had fixed under the boat a thick straw mattress to moderate the shock on descending. Croce-Spinelli carried his fine spectroscope, so frequently used in the preceding voyage of the Zenith. On the ropes of the boat were suspended two aneroid barometers, verified the same morning under the pneumatic machine, and giving, the first, the pressures corresponding to altitudes of 0 to 4,000 meters, the second those from 4,000 to 9,000 meters. Near these instruments hung a thermometer of reddened alcohol giving the measure of the temperatures down to thirty degrees below zero; a thermometer minimum and maximum, which, fixed by an endless cord to the valve in the vertical axis of the balloon, could rise and fall in the mass of gas. Above in a sealed box were inclosed the eight tubes, barometric witnesses, well packed in sawdust, and designed to furnish on the return to earth the precise information of the maximum of height attained by the voyagers. The instrument to test the point of M. A. Penaud, some maps, some compasses, some printed questions to be thrown from the boat, some dividers, etc., completed the scientific material of the expedition.

The balloon starts; it rises in the midst of a wave of light, emblem of joy, of hope! Three hours after the departure Sivel and Croce-Spinelli were found lifeless in the boat! At about 8,000 meters of altitude asphyxia has struck with death these disciples of science and truth!

It falls to the lot of their companion, miraculously escaped from death, to shut out for a moment grief from his heart, to drive away sad memories and gloomy visions, in order to relate the facts gathered during the exploration, and to tell what he knows of the death of his unfortunate and honored friends.

From the first moments of the ascension, beginning with a velocity of about two meters per second and slightly diminishing for a distance of 3,500 meters, and then increasing under the constant fall of ballast and the action of a blazing sun to a height of 5,000 meters, Sivel took the prudent care of letting down the anchor and getting every thing ready for approaching the earth. Hardly were we 300 meters above the ground when he said with pleasure, "We have started, my friends! I am well satisfied!" And a little later, looking at the balloon as it swelled to a round form above the boat, "Look at the 'Zenith!' How splendidly it fills! Is it not beautiful?"

Croce-Spinelli said to me, "Come, Tissandier, courage! To the aspirator, to the carbonic acid!" and I passed seventy liters of air into the potassium tubes at the height of from 4,000 to 6,000 meters. But these tubes which I could not at the last moment press into their wadded box would have broken into a thousand fragments on the descent. These misfortunes will be useful hereafter.

At the altitude of 3,300 meters the gas escaped freely from the large opening above our heads.

At 4,000 meters the sun is glowing, the sky is resplendent, numerous cirrus-clouds stretch along the horizon, resembling an opal vapor which forms an immense circle around the boat of the balloon.

At 4,300 meters we begin to breathe oxygen, not because we feel yet the need of having recourse to the gaseous mixture, but simply to satisfy ourselves that our apparatus, so well arranged by M. Limousin after the models indicated by M. P. Bert, is properly performing its work.

At an altitude of 7,000 meters, 1 h. 20 m. in the afternoon, I breathed the mixture of air and oxygen, and felt myself aroused to renewed life by its action; at 7,000 meters I wrote on the margin of my note-book the following words: "I breathe oxygen. Excellent effect."

At this height Sivel, who was a man of unusual physical power and of a sanguine temperament, began to close his eyes at short intervals, to grow drowsy, and to become a little pale. But that brave soul did not long succumb to the encroachments of weakness. He straightened himself up with an expression of determination; he made me empty the liquid contained in my aspirator after my experiment, and threw the ballast overboard in order to reach regions more elevated. Sivel last year had been at a height of 7,300 meters with Croce-Spinelli. He wished this year to reach 8,000 meters, and when Sivel wished vast obstacles had to intervene between him and his designs.

Croce-Spinelli kept his eyes fastened for a long time on his spectroscope. He was radiant with pleasure and cried out, "There is complete absence of the lines of the vapor of water." Then, after having made these words understood, he continued his observations with so much earnestness that he begged me to place on my note-book the result of the reading of the thermometer and the barometer.

During the course of this rapid ascension it was very difficult for us to give that attention to our physiological condition which was necessary. We reserved our resources in this respect for the moment when we should plunge into the air of the higher regions, without a suspicion of the fatal denouement that paralyzed our efforts. Still it was possible to obtain the following results, which were registered in our note-books:

12 h. 48 m., 4,602 meters, Tissandier, 110 pulsations to the minute;
12 h. 55 m., 5,210 meters, Croce, temperature of mouth 37.5 deg.;
1 h. 3 m., 5,300 meters, Croce, 120 pulsations to the minute;
1 h. 5 m., 5,300 meters, Tissandier, number of inspirations, determined by Croce, 26;
1 h. 5 m., 5,300 meters, Sivel, 135 pulsations to the minute;
1 h. 5 m., 5,300 meters, Sivel, temperature of the mouth 37.9 deg.

The following is a mean of the observations collected during several consecutive days previous to the ascension:

	Pulsations to the minute.	Inspirations to the min.	Tem. perature of mouth…
Croce-Spinelli…………	75 to 85	24	37.8°
Sivel…………	76 to 86	unk'wn	37.5°
Tissandier…………	70 to 80	19 to 23	37.4°

During the progress of the ascension to the height of 7,000 meters thermometric observations were regularly made. They indicate a progressive diminution of temperature up to 3,200 meters; and increase from 3,200 to 3,700, and finally a gradual diminution from 4,000 to 7,000 and above. We give the table of the readings:

TIME.	Altitude—Meters.	Temperature…
11 h. 30 m.…………	on earth	14
"	364	11
"	792	9
11 h. 40 m.…………	1,267	8
"	2,000	7
"	3,200	1
"	3,800	1.5
12 h. 15 m.…………	3,698	2
"	4,100	0
"	4,387	6
"	4,602	6
12 h. 51 m.…………	4,700	0
"	5,210	— 3
"	5,210	— 3
"	5,300	— 5
1 h. 3 m.…………	5,600	— 5
"	5,800	— 5
"	6,700	— 8
1 h. 20 m.…………	7,000	—10
"	7,400	—11
"	8,000	und'd.

For the first time we determined in an exact manner the interior temperature of the balloon, and the results obtained seem to be of great interest. Sivel had perfectly organized the cord designed for raising a self-recording thermometer into the balloon, and Croce-Spinelli made the experiment in two different ways by the aid of an apparatus I had procured. The thermometer with bent tube contained alcohol and mercury which rose in one of the branches of the tube, moving an iron index; the index was brought to the surface of the liquid by the aid of a loadstone. The thermometer indicated that the temperature of the gas of the balloon was 19 deg. at the center, 22 deg. near the valve; while we were floating at the altitude of 4,600 to 5,000 meters the temperature of the surrounding air was 0 deg.

At 5,300 meters the interior temperature of the balloon at the center attained 23 deg., while the exterior air was 5 deg. below zero. Finally the thermometer remained in the balloon at the moment of our prostration. We found it intact after the descent; it indicated a temperature of 23 deg. These new facts explain by this great difference of temperature of the gas of the balloon and of the air in which it is immersed, the rapid ascent of the aerial ship into high regions and its precipitous descent to lower levels.

I come now to the fatal moment when we were seized by the terrible influence of atmospheric depression. At 7,000 meters we are all upright in the boat. Sivel, for a moment languid, revived; Croce-Spinelli remained immovable in front of me. "See," said he, "how beautiful those clouds are!" It was beautiful indeed, that sublime spectacle presented to our eyes. Cirrus-clouds of various forms—some elongated, others lightly mammilated—formed around us a circle of silver whiteness. On leaning over the side of the boat one saw as if down at the bottom of a well, of which the cirrus clouds and the vapor below formed the wall, the surface of the earth, which appeared in the abyss of the atmosphere. The sky, far from being black and deep, was of a clear and limpid blue; the ardent sun burned our faces, notwithstanding the cold began to make its influence felt, and we had already placed our shawls over our shoulders. Numbness had seized me; my hands were cold, frozen. I wished to put on my gloves; but, without being conscious of it, the action of taking them from my pocket required on my part an effort that I was unable to perform.

At this elevation of 7,000 meters I wrote, however, almost mechanically in my note-book. I copy the following lines, which were written without any positive remembrance on my part of the act. They were traced in a manner hardly legible, by a hand that was trembling with cold:

"My hands are frozen. I am well. We are going well. Fog on the horizon, with small round cirrus-clouds. We are going up. Croce is breathing. We respire oxygen. Sivel closes his eyes. I empty aspirator. 1 h. 25 m., temperature—11 deg. Sivel throws out ballast. Sivel throws out ballast" (the last words hardly readable). Sivel, in fact, who remained some moments pensive and motionless, closing at times his eyes, recalled without doubt, his wish to pass the limit in which the Zenith was now floating. He raised up his energetic form suddenly lighted up with an unusual magnificence; he turned toward me and said, "What is the pressure?" "We have much ballast; must it be thrown out?" I replied, "Do as you please." He turned to Croce and put the same question. Croce lowers his head in token of very energetic affirmation.

There were in the boat at least five bags of ballast. There was almost as much suspended on the outside by ropes. These, we should add, were no longer full; Sivel had certainly estimated their weight; but it is impossible for us to be precise in this particular. Sivel seized his knife and cut successively three ropes; the three bags are emptied and we go rapidly up. The last clear recollection which remains of the ascension goes back to a moment a little anterior. Croce-Spinelli was seated holding in his hand the flagon of oxygen gas; his head was slightly inclined and he seemed oppressed. I had still power to strike with my finger the aneroid barometer to facilitate the movement of the needle. Sivel raised his hand toward the sky as if to show with his finger the upper regions of the atmosphere. The illustration represents the position at this time as accurately as possible.

But I had not ceased to preserve absolute immobility without doubting that I had already perhaps lost the power of motion. At about 7,500 meters of elevation the condition of depression in which one is found is extraordinary. The body and mind become feeble by degrees, gradually, insensibly, without any consciousness of loss of power. There is no suffering whatever. On the contrary there is an inward pleasure, like the effect of a radiant light coming suddenly upon you. We become indifferent; we think no more of the perilous situation or of danger; we go up and are happy in doing so. The dizziness of high regions is not a vain word; but, so far as I can judge by my own experience, this dizziness appears at the last moment; it immediately precedes prostration—sudden, unexpected, irresistible.

When Sivel had cut the three bags of ballast at the altitude of about 7,450 meters—that is, under a pressure of 300 (this is the last figure written at the time in my note-book)—I think I recollect that he seated himself on the bottom of the boat and soon took the position before taken by Croce-Spinelli. As for myself I was supported in the corner of the boat, where I kept my position, thanks to this protection. I was not slow in becoming so feeble that I could not turn to look at my companions. Soon I wish to seize the oxygen tube, but it is impossible to lift my arms. My mind, notwithstanding, is still very lucid. I look constantly at the barometer. I have my eyes fixed on the needle, which comes soon to the figure denoting a pressure of 290, then 280, which it passes.

I desire to shout, "We are 8,000 meters high!" but my tongue is like one paralyzed. Suddenly I close my eyes and fall lifeless, losing absolutely all memory. This was about 1 h. 30 m.

At eight minutes past 2 I wake up a moment. The balloon was rapidly descending. I was able to cut a bag of ballast to stop the velocity and to write on my note-book the following lines: "We are descending; temperature, 8 deg. I throw out ballast. We descend. Sivel and Croce still in a swoon at the bottom of the car. We descend very rapidly."

Hardly have I written these lines when a kind of trembling seizes me and I become enfeebled a second time. The wind was violent and denoted a rapid descent. Some moments after I feel myself shaken by the arm, and recognize Croce, who has recovered. "Throw out some ballast," said he; "we are going down." But I could hardly open my eyes, and did not ascertain if Sivel were awake.

I recall that Croce detached the aspirator, which he threw overboard, and that he threw out ballast, some blankets, etc. All this is a remembrance extremely confused, which quickly dies out; for I fall again into a condition more completely unconscious than before and it at a height of 6,000 meters. There was in the car two bags of ballast that I threw out. Soon the earth approaches. I wish to seize my knife to cut the rope of the anchor; impossible to find it. I was like one mad, and kept calling out, "Sivel! Sivel!"

By good fortune I was able to place my hand on a knife and to detach the anchor at the right moment. The contact with the earth was extremely violent. The balloon seem to flatten, and I believe would have remained stationary but for the violence of the wind before which it dragged. The anchor did not bite, and the car glided along the surface of the fields; the bodies of my unhappy friends were jolted hither and thither, and I thought that at any moment they would fall from the boat. However, I was able to seize the cord of the valve, and the balloon was quickly emptied and lodged against a tree.

On putting foot to the earth I was taken with a violent fever and sunk in a swoon. I believed myself about to join my companions in the other world. Notwithstanding, I recovered gradually. I looked about for my unhappy companions, who were already cold and shriveled. I had their bodies taken to the shelter of a neighboring barn.

The descent of the Zenith took place in the plains that border Ciron, two hundred and fifty kilometers from Paris as the bird flies. According to the questions thrown from the car and sent to the sitting of the Society of Aerial Navigation by parties who had picked them up, I am assured that the Zenith did not deviate from its route; that the wind blew in a straight line; and that the direction was constant, even to the elevation of 8,000 meters. Its velocity was certainly greater in the upper regions of the air than at the surface of the earth. The papers were occupied not less than thirty minutes in descending from a height of 7,000 meters to the earth. A paper thrown down by me at half-past 3 o'clock, at the moment of my second waking, and soiled with blood by a slight cut that I made on my hand before my first prostration, was found still flying in the air thirty-five minutes after the balloon came to the earth.

After having given the history of the ascent of the Zenith I come to the two important points which have so thoroughly taken the attention of the scientific world and the public. What is the maximum height attained by the Zenith? What is the cause of the death of Croce-Spinelli and of Sivel?

The first question is answered to-day by the opening of the tubes, barometric witnesses, invented by M. Janssen, and already employed by Sivel and Croce-Spinelli during their ascension to 7,300 meters, March 22, 1874. The examination of the tubes goes to establish the fact that the feeblest pressure was from 264 to 262 millimeters, which carries the maximum elevation from 8,540 to 8,601 meters.

It seems to me not to be doubted that the death of these unfortunate men is the consequence of atmospheric depression. It is possible to support during a time of short duration the action of this depression; it is difficult to sustain the continuous effect during almost two consecutive hours. Our sojourn in the upper regions was in fact much longer than that of any preceding ascension to a great height. I will add that the air, being particularly dry, had perhaps a fatal effect.

It will now be asked what is the cause of my safety. I owe my life probably to my peculiar temperament, essentially lymphatic, perhaps to my complete prostration and the consequent total arrest of the respiratory functions. I was hungry at the moment of departure, and thought at first that this circumstance was peculiar to me; but I have since had proof that if Sivel had eaten, Croce had, like myself, almost no food at all in his stomach.

A Strange Silence.

The Cohoes Bulletin says there is residing at that place a man aged seventy-five years, who has not spoken to his wife in twelve years. He has been married fifty years, has an amiable wife and several children and grandchildren, and considerable property. The old man and his wife lived together happily until about twelve years ago, when one morning the wife came down stairs and saluted her husband in a gentle manner, as was her wont to do, but to her astonishment he made no reply. She spoke to him again and again, but always with the same effect, and ever since that July morning in 1863 the husband has never opened his lips to his wife. He always speaks familiarly with the rest of his family and friends, but on no occasion or under any consideration would he speak one word to his wife. He always treats her with gentleness and kindness, always providing for her wants with the most scrupulous care, but not one word can be coaxed out of his lips to refer to his strange way of treating her. His wife and himself always occupy the same bed, they eat at the same table, they walk to church side by side, yet not one word has escaped that man's lips for the past twelve years to that woman. His little granddaughter lives with him, and through her he always knows his wife's wants, and no request of hers is left unheeded. Several friends of the family have tried repeatedly to fathom his strange action, but they always found it impossible to do so.

Ready for Her.

The other day a Detroit mother poured some ink on the pantry shelf near the sugar box, and went up stairs, leaving her small son playing with the cat. When she came down the boy sat by the window, wearing a placid, innocent look, but there were ink stains on his fingers.

"There! you've been at the sugar!" she exclaimed, as she seized him by the collar.

"Mother, do you think I'd steal sugar?" he asked, in a tone of surprise.

"Look at those stains on your fingers! What made 'em?"

"Those stains, mother?"

"Yes, those stains."

"Well, I cannot tell you a bold lie, mother—I think I've commenced to mortify!"

She wasn't quite sure, and he was allowed to go out and play circus.—Free Press.

THE TAILOR.—A tailor possesses the qualities of nine men combined in one, as will be seen by the following observations; 1. As an economist, he cuts his coat according to his cloth. 2. As a gardener, he is careful of his cabbage. 3. As a sailor, he sheers off whenever it is proper. 4. As a play-actor, he often brandishes a bare bodkin. 5. As a lawyer he attends many suits. 6. As an executioner, he provides suspenders or gallowses for many persons. 7. As a cook he is generally furnished with a goose. 8. As a sheriff's officer, he does much at sponging. 9. As a rational and scriptural divine, his great aim is to form good habits for the benefit of himself and others.

A MAN with a veritable wooden leg hobbles about the streets of Dunleith.

The Noble Red Man.

[From the St. Louis Republican.]

He was one of Barnum's Indians. He was one of those who each afternoon and evening chase the bounding buffalo and make him hump himself in the hippodrome and who gallop madly about after the lovely Te-he-ti, yelling with amorous ferocity. He was sitting in a lager-beer saloon, where he had just finished his first glass. His hand rested upon the empty mug on the table, and his face wore a look of gloom. Admiringly, but timorously the observer sidled up and opened a conversation:

"Is the heart of the chieftain big within him, that his brow is darkened and his face like the storm-cloud in the heavens? Does he mourn for the lodges of his people, far away to the Westward?"

"Ah—git out wid yer! It's thirsty I am, an' me last nickel just gone to the spalpeen beyant! Be aisy now!"

"And do not the thoughts of the red man revert to the past, when the numbers of his tribe were as the leaves of the forest, and when the Manitou smiled upon his wigwam? Is he not sad that so near him lie the bones of the great Pontiac, his ancestor, slain by the treacherous Illinois?"

"Begone wid ye, now, or don't be blatherin' wid yer furrin gibberish; spake English!"

"Two beers, barkeeper—will the red man partake of the firewater of the pale-faces and commune with his white brother? Will not the chieftain gladden the ears of his white brother with tales of his own prowess; how he followed like the wolf upon the trail of his foes and returned to his lodge with many scalps at his belt?"

"It's funnin' ye are, sure! I'll hist glass of beer wid ye, but how would I be tellin' of thim dime-novel things? 'Dade an' I don't know any tale barrin' wan about a banshee!"

"The chieftain reads not the heart of his white brother. The white brother would drink the fire-water and smoke the calumet with the chieftain and list to the legends of the Indian. Was the great Hiawatha one of the chieftain's ancestors?"

"Higher wather, is it? Why, begorra, the river's fallen two inches! An' me aunt had divil a sisther at all at all!"

"And was the fair Te-he-ti known to the chieftain ere they sought the haunts of the pale-faces? Many moons in the past did the chieftain wander with Te-he-ti in the forest glades and whisper to her tales of love as the stars shone through the whispering pine trees?"

"An' it's Ta-ha-ti, is it! Ah, wirra! that girrul'll be the death ov me, wid all the racin' an' plungin'! My divil ov a horse is that unaisy I'm chafed that bad I'm a martyr. Ah, it's a mane life it is!"

"And is not the chieftain lonesome in the great city of the whites? Yearns he never for his home in the forest?"

"Is't the ould sod you mane? Ah, but it's the tight little country! But the landlord wuz grippin' an' the praties failed, and', barrin' the fairs an' the chape whisky across the say, Amerik'ys betther."

"And still the red man comprehends not the language of his white brother. The face of the white brother is sad. He will go and leave the chieftain alone to his memories and his fire-water."

"An' its cracked ye are, sure! But ye did the gintlemanly thing, onyhow, in tratin'. May Saint Patrick kape an eye on yez!"

The interview concluded, the Indian speaking apparently only his native tongue and being unable to comprehend the English. It is to be regretted that no interpreter accompanies the band, as through him there could be obtained no doubt many interesting legends and incidents relating to Indian life.

How Are Diamonds Found?

The geological occurrence of the diamonds of South Africa has been often described, but some new points of interest are brought out in a recent paper read before the Geological Society of London by Prof. Maskelyne and Dr. Flight. They have found the rock at Du Toit's Pan and other similar diggings to have a soft, decomposed character, consisting of a soapy, steatite-like magma, with a hydrated bronzite, crystals of new vermiculite mineral, called vaalite, opaline silica, and other non-essential constituents. This rock has been extensively metamorphosed and fractured, and in many places broken through by dikes of an igneous diorite. It is asserted that "the diamonds occur more plentifully, if not exclusively" in the neighborhood of these dikes, or near them in the strata of the hydrous rock through which the igneous material has been ejected. In confirmation of this view the writers urge the distinctive character of the diamonds in different localities, and their sharp, unbranded character. How the diamonds have been found can hardly be explained, though it is a point of considerable interest if it may be accepted that the metamorphosed bronzite rock, possibly at places of its contact with carbonaceous shales, was the original home of the diamonds.—Harper's Magazine.

From Death to Life Again.

In France and other Continental countries the bodies of deceased persons are committed to their parent earth much sooner after death than is the custom in this country. The law, in consequence, insists on great care being taken to avoid premature interment. In Brest lately, however, a marine fell into a lethargic state, was certified as dead by the hospital authorities, and his supposed remains were conveyed under military escort to the cemetery. A few days afterward some of those who had buried him were surprised and horrified by meeting him in the street. Fortunately he had been reserved for scientific purposes, and when he was placed naked on a marble slab in the dissecting room the sudden chill revived him.

THREE years ago Frank Norton resigned a clerkship in the Interior Department and joined a professional base-ball nine in which he achieved considerable reputation as a batter and catcher. Since Mr. Norton's transformation from a government clerk to the arena of base-ball, he has married and settled in Brooklyn, and by the death of an ancient maiden aunt of his wife's, which occurred in the City of Churches a few weeks ago, came into possession of a fortune of half a million.

OLD GRIMES' HEN.

BY J. M. BARROW.

At last that speckled hen has died,
That hen of Adam the best,
She died without a sigh or groan
While in her downy nest.

Through summers' heat and winters' snow,
[illegible] long
[illegible]
[illegible]

She had a nest [illegible]
All neatly lined with hay;
Her back was brown and speckled o'er
With spots inclined to grey.

When e'er the rain came pelting down,
Or thunders dreadful roll,
She hid herself in Grimes's hat
Until the storm was o'er.

Tho' fourteen years of age, almost,
She still looked young and hale,
And, like Job's turkey, she could boast
One feather in her tail.

She never deigned the barn-yard beau
His face to look upon—
But loved that one whose long shrill crow
Was heard at early dawn.

An aged cock, who [illegible]
His descent with a sigh—
From one that cried when he was old,
His master did deny.
When poor old speckle closed her eye,
He jumped the fence and cried,
He bid the poultry all good-by
And then laid down and died.

Pith and Point.

A WAIST of time—the middle of the day.

IMPROVING one's time—Mending the clock.

WHO was the old Frenchman who seldom drank water because it has so tasted of sinners since the flood?

WHY is one of the rank and file who has failed to obtain promotion like an illicit machine? Because he is a private still!

ANCIENT Grangers—The Mower-bites and Scythe-ians. Ancient prize-fighters—The Hit-tites. Old sailors—The Tartars.

A NEW YORK wag says the railroads of the State are now built of three gauges: "Broad gauge, narrow gauge, and mortgage."

JOHN SINNER, of Rhode Island, wanted his name changed, and it was changed to John Saint. He says he'd as soon be a Sinner as a Saint.

HAVE no intercourse with an envious person, with one who has no regard for you, with a fool, an ungrateful man, with a vulgar man, or a calumniator.

ROCKVILLE, Ind., has a base-ball club the "Fleetfoot." The name was derived from the resemblance of the average boot in that club to a frigate; hence "fleet."

"DOCTOR," asked a convalescent, "can I eat a bit of pork-chop or bacon this morning?" "Hardly," replied Medicus; "to eat the chop would be rash, and the bacon rasher."

THE Western Rochefoucauld says the average gorilla of Central Africa now points to Stanley and his band of explorers, and pathetically reminds its grandchildren that it is what they may one day expect to come to.

A FRENCHMAN, incensed at a writer who is not particularly brilliant, spoke of him as an ass, and then corrected himself: "No; I am wrong. He is a mule, who has ears equally long and produces nothing."

WHEN Arthur was a very small boy his mother reprimanded him one day for some misdemeanor. Not knowing it, his father began to talk to him on the same subject. Looking up in his face, Arthur said, solemnly, "Mother has 'tended to me."

"I DON'T take much interest in anything now," said a boy to a playfellow, who was invited to go to a ball match. "Why, what's the matter? You look melancholy!" "Do I? Well, I don't wonder at it, for I'm sitting here waiting for father to come and lick me, and it isn't a cheerful business."

AN old lady, observing a sailor go by her door, and supposing it to be her son Billy, cried out to him, "Billy, where has my cow gone?" The sailor replied, in a contemptuous manner, "Gone to the d—l! I suppose." "Well, as you are going that way," said the old lady, "I wish you would just let down the bars."

ONE of the best double puns we have ever heard was perpetrated by a clergyman. He had just united in marriage a couple whose Christian names were respectively Benjamin and Ann. "How did they appear during the ceremony?" inquired a friend. "They appeared both Annie-mated and Bennie-fitted," was the reply.

ON being asked by one of his fair daughters why the bulldog's nose is placed so far behind his mouth, the reverend gentleman discovers another instance of the merciful consideration ever shown by—shall we say "Nature?"—to the humblest of her creatures, and replies: "My love it is to enable him to breathe more comfortably while he is hanging on to the nose of the bull."

AS ONE of the dozen old women who drive milk carts around Detroit was rattling across the Campus Martius yesterday a chap wearing lavender pants and a bright blue necktie motioned for her to stop, and then approached and inquired: "Do you put water in your milk?" "Yes, sir," was her prompt reply. "Ah, ha! So you own right up do you?" "Yes, sir." Her prompt replies rather staggered him, but after some hesitation he asked: "And what makes you do it?" "Because it's much healthier for calves when mixed half and half!" she retorted. She waited for him to ask another question, but he couldn't think of any.—Detroit Free Press.

Painlessness of Death from Lightning.

Here let me observe that death from lightning must be painless. The nerves of the human body do not convey a sensation of pain instantly to the nerve-centers. There is an appreciable interval before we are cognizant of what has happened. The time of an electric flash is a small fraction of this interval. While the velocity of a nervous sensation of pain is less than a hundred feet a second, that of electricity, varying under different circumstances, is many thousands and times greater. We are killed before we know it. Yet there is probably a greater dread of death from this cause than from almost any other.—Atlantic Monthly.

THE BLACK HILLS.

Dispatch from Prof. Jenney—Gold Finally Discovered in Paying Quantities.

An important dispatch from Prof. Jenney was received at the Interior Department, in Washington, a few days ago. It is dated "Camp on Spring Creek, Black Hills, Dakota, July 17." Prof. Jenney says:

"I have discovered gold in paying quantities in gravel bars, both on Spring and Rapid creeks, from twenty to thirty miles northeast of Harney's Peak. The deposits are the richest yet found in the Hills, and are favorably situated. There is a good head of water in the streams, amply sufficient for working purposes. The gold is derived from quartz ledges of enormous dimensions in a belt of clay, slate and quartz. It is twenty miles in width, crossing the Hills in a northwesterly direction. At this point the clay from the bed of the stream near the camp yields from four to eight cents to the pan, and several pieces about the value of one dollar have been found by the soldiers. I am engaged in prospecting the value and extent of the region. About 200 miners have deserted French creek, and followed me here. They are pouring into the Hills from all directions, and offer me every assistance in prospecting the country. But no matter how good the mines may be, the future great wealth of the Black Hills will be its grass lands, farms and timber. The soil is deep and fertile, and the rainfall greater and more regular than that of any region west of the Alleghany Mountains."

The Secretary of the Interior immediately sent a copy of the dispatch to the President. The Secretary states that the government will use all means at its command to keep every unprivileged person out of the mining district until the negotiations now pending shall be consummated. As soon as a course of action is decided upon, the Sioux Commissioners will be notified.

Extraordinary Murder Trial.

Extraordinary murder cases are common enough—for the reason, of course, that crimes of this description are committed by persons laboring under intense mental excitement, who are not controlled by ordinary motives, nor restrained by mere consideration of fitness. A case very far out of the usual run—if it be a murder case at all, and not a sad accident—has been brought before public notice in New York by the release on bail of Mrs. Sarah Merrigan. This woman has been in jail two years, has suffered two trials, and endured all the misery and disgrace of an accusation of murder. Her present release is supposed to be final, the bail being fixed at a nominal figure, and her counsel having assurance that the prosecution will drop. Mrs. Merrigan was charged with the murder of her dearest friend, a companion at the convent where she was educated, and an intimate acquaintance in after-life. Miss Hamill, the woman supposed to have been murdered, inherited a fortune soon after leaving school, and by this means was enabled to occupy a station in life superior to her friend. The theory of the prosecution was that Mrs. Merrigan envied the good fortune of her friend, hated her for it, and compassed her death merely to satisfy low feelings of jealousy and revenge. Miss Hamill frequently visited Mrs. Merrigan, and it was on one of these occasions that the death took place. Both women were superstitious. They consulted fortune-tellers together; and the theory of the defense is, that the rehearsal of one of these fortune-telling experiences caused the death of Miss Hamill. The story is, that Mrs. Merrigan had placed Miss Hamill on a chair for the purpose of measuring her neck, waist, and feet. While the operation was in progress, Mrs. Merrigan was called away. She had previously placed a clothes-line about Miss Hamill's neck, and thrown the end over the door of the bed-chamber, to get it out of the way. As Mrs. Merrigan passed from the room, she closed the door after her. She returned soon afterwards, only to find that Miss Hamill had been strangled in her absence, having stepped from the chair on which she was standing, without reflecting that the rope about her neck was fastened at the other end. The defense appears to be lame in many respects, but it must be remembered that it has been sufficient to secure the disagreement of two juries; and it is said Mrs. Merrigan's counsel are fully convinced of her innocence.—Chicago Tribune.

A Test for Eggs.

Among the minor troubles of city life is the difficulty of procuring a regular supply of fresh eggs. When we cannot remove our woes, the next best thing is to try to understand them. So we devote this paragraph to what will interest all out of hearing of the cheerful sounds of the barnyard. An egg is generally called fresh when it has been laid only one or two days in summer, and two to six days in winter. The shell being porous, the water in the interior evaporates, and leaves a cavity of greater or less extent. The yolk of the egg sinks, too, as may be easily seen by holding it toward a candle or the sun; and when shaken, a slight shock is felt if the egg is not fresh. To determine the precise age of eggs, dissolve about four ounces of common salt in a quart of pure water, and then immerse the egg. If it is one day old, it will descend to the bottom of the vessel; but if three days it will float in the liquid. If more than five days old, it will come to the surface and project above in proportion to its age.

Archæological Researches.

A recent London letter says that the discovery of the true method of deciphering the Sanscrit works in Chinese translations is beginning to bear valuable fruit. This discovery is, in fact, the key which has unlocked the storehouses of a vast literature which had previously remained almost wholly unknown. The whole number of believers in the Christian religion now upon earth is much less than that of the aggregate of the various sects of Buddhists; but it is only within the last fifty years that we have begun to learn who and what Buddha was. Long ago, Jesuit priests, penetrating into Thibet, found there Buddhist monks with tonsures, rosaries and censers; with sacred books in which a code of morals exceedingly like that of Christianity was taught, and with legends which seemed to be either parodies or the originals of the events related in the Gospels. These legends told of the preexistence of the Buddha, of the song of the angels at his birth, of the marvels of his youthful life, of his temptations in the wilderness, of his life of purity, and of his mission on earth. In the most important particulars, however, the legends concerning Buddha differ from the Gospel story. Buddha died peacefully, an old man of eighty, in the year 543 before Christ.

The Detroit Humorist.

M. Quad, the Detroit Free Press man, the friend of 'Bijah, has got his book out at last. His dedication is very touching, and is as follows:

TO

THE PAWNEE TRIBE OF INDIANS,

WHOSE

ENTERPRISE, TALENT AND STATESMANSHIP,

COUPLED WITH THE FACT THAT THEY RISE EARLY,

GO TO BED LATE, AND ARE ALWAYS AROUND,

WHEN WANTED, AND WHO CHEERFULLY

ROASTED ONE OF MY ANCESTORS AT THE STAKE, WITHOUT REWARD OR HOPE

OF REWARD,

IS

THIS VOLUME

RESPECTFULLY DEDICATED BY

THE AUTHOR.

DEDICATORY.

It was the authors solemn intention at the outset to dedicate this book to some newspaper man—Gregory, Piatt, Griswold, Watterson, Bayard, Waterloo, Seymour, Bailey, Swineford, Wood—to some particular one of the coterie who use the pen more than the scissors, and whose original work sustains the reputation of the American press for brilliancy. This was his intention, but when nearly five hundred newspapers, each saying a kind word for the book, had reached his table, it was plain that such a dedication would be ruled out of order. Being under obligations to the Pawnee Indians for a favor mentioned in the dedication, and hoping to push the sale of the book among such tribes as love to sit down and read, or hold spelling-bees, in preference to hunting around for scalps, the author prevailed upon himself to write such a dedication as the reader has found.

Cause of Trichinæ in Pork.

Some new cases of deaths due to the eating of pork infested with trichinæ, quoted in Western journals, should be the means of directing public attention anew to the horrible diseases of swine called trachinosis, and to the fact that, when once the parasite attacks a human being, the result is prolonged suffering, and, in a multiplicity of instances, death. The worm existing in the pork literally bores its way out of the stomach and into the muscles. It has lately been found that swine may become infested with trichinæ through eating carrion, or even decayed vegetable substances. This is a point worth consideration by farmers who incline to the belief that dead chickens, putrid swille or any other filth about the place is legitimate food for pigs. The animals are not dainty in their tastes, and will lunce off their dead relatives with infinith gusto; but it is the poorest economy to permit hogs to assume the role of scavenger. No milk-dealer will allow his cows to eat garlic if he can help it, though the brutes are crazily fond of the odoriferous weed; and there is certainly more reason for the farmer to see that his porkers have no access to unclean food. In the one case, if precaution be neglected, the taste of the milk is affected; in the other the entire flesh is rendered poisonous and dangerous food.—Scientific American.

How They Do It in California.

The following actually occurred in our vicinity this week. The parties thereto are well known and respectable; the lady 55 years of age, and the gentleman five years her senior. They had frequently heard of each other through mutual friends, but had never met until a few days ago, when the following conversation took place: Gent—Madam, what is your name? Lady—My name is ——. Gent—My name is ——. I live in Livermore, where I own a ranch. Ahem! how would you like me for a husband? Lady—Well, really, I don't know. I've heard your name, Mr. ——, but how would you like me for a wife? Gent—Madam, the sight of you more than does justice to what I have heard. Will you be my wife? The lady assented. The gentleman went immediately to Oakland to get a license, and twenty-four hours after their first meeting the couple were man and wife, and by this time are on his ranch at Livermore.—Almeda County (Cal.) Independent.

One Fool Was Enough.

At 11 o'clock last night when the Grant landed her last load there was among the passengers who had been to see the fire in Windsor a "smart" young man. Near the dock he noticed a colored roustabout sitting asleep with his head against a door-post. The young man danced up to him, gave him a rude push and impertinently demanded why he did not go over the river and help put out the blaze.

"Wa—was you dar?" inquired Sambo.

"Of course I was," replied the other.

"One fool dar's 'nuff," retorted the black one, and he calmly closed his eyes and resumed his nap.—Detroit Free Press.

Too much Risk.—"Come on now Ned," cried a New York girl at Long Branch the other day to a stripling lover at her side, "we've got clear of papa; now let's take a dive." "Your father is an awful big and stout man, ain't he?" observed the youth. "Oh, never mind that," exclaimed the Miss, petulantly; "let's take a swim. Just see the great waves." "Don't you think it dangerous?" anxiously inquired the lover, gazing up and down the beach. "Dangerous! No! There isn't hardly any under-tow at this point." "Oh, but it isn't the under-tow I'm afraid of," interrupted the young man. "Isn't it?" "No, it's your father's toe!" And she couldn't get him to risk it.

HIS HONOR AND BIJAH.

An Hour in the Central Station Court.

[From the Detroit Free Press.]

A SHADDER.

After remarking that harvest apples adn't matured enough to be half ripe yet, his Honor picked up the warrants and nodded toward the corridor. The first one out was a match-waisted female named Sophia Sullivan, and her face couldn't have looked more sorrowful had she lost fifteen cents and a coral ring.

"Mrs. Sullivan, you are charged with disturbing the peace," remarked the court; "in other words, viz., to-wit, as follows, you assaulted your husband, cut his scalp open with a plate, and reduced him to that point where he couldn't tell the difference between a Saratoga regatta and the new Sartoris baby."

"Well, I did hit him, Judge, and I hit him pretty hard," she said.

"And your excuse?"

"There's been a shadder on my life for the last five years," she went on.

"And the name of that shadder is which?"

"My husband hates me because I've got red hair and a turn-up nose!" she sobbed.

"Great shades! but is that so?"

"It is, your Honor. He comes home drunk, abuses me, and I get desperate and fight back."

"Mrs. Sullivan, go home—go back to your abiding place. Your husband is a rhinocerous—a lunatic. Hate hair and a nose like that! The man ought to be boiled in tar! I'll get him down here some day and he'll think a horse-barn fell upon him!"

"SAM."

"Got an Injun for you!" whispered Bijah, as the next prisoner came out.

He was a deck-hand on a propeller. Some one had injured his left eye, his proud spirit was down to zero, and his outfit would have sold for twenty-five cents at a second-hand clothing store. Still he was an Indian, and as good-looking an Indian as can be found on the plains.

"Is your name Okemos?" asked the Court.

"No, sir—named Sam," was the reply.

"Where is your lodge?"

"Down here ten rods."

"Where is your squaw?"

"Him run away two year ago."

"Where is your tribe?"

"Eh?"

"Where, sir, are the dignified, stoica and gallant red men of the forest who used to camp on the very spot where this station-house now stands?"

"Him in Toledo, I guess," responded Sam.

"Child of the forest—native of the prairies, I feel sad for you," said the Court as he leaned back and skucked a peanut. "No lodge—no tribe—no chief—no war-house—no scalps. Where you played when a child you will now find oyster-cans and old boots. White men are raising cabbages and such base truck on the hills where you used to hunt the wild roebuck. Where you once halted to listen to the whispers of the streamlet, you will now hear the sounds of a John Chinaman chasing a woolen undershirt up and down a wash-board. I don't want to strike an Injun after he is down. Go away, restless, broken spirit—get out of doors and try and be a better red man!"

"Heap glad—old man heap good feller!" whispered the delighted Sam as he bent his back and shot under the rope.

A DRONE.

"Erastus Washburne Harrison, the police say that you are a drone-bee in the great hive of industry," said the Court to the next prisoner.

"I can prove my character," replied Erastus, settling back on his dignity.

"I don't want any proof—proof sticks out all over you. See the whitewash on your back! Gaze at that head of hair, which hasn't been ambled over with a comb since you can remember! Behold that soiled shirt—those old clothes—your general dilapidated look. It's no crime to be poor, Mr. Harrison, but it's pizen for a poor man to be lazy!"

"I haint lazy," replied the prisoner.

"Ah! Erastus, don't talk to me! I see no ambition in your eye—no resolutions in your face—no dust around in your actions. You wouldn't crack a cocoanut for the sake of the milk and meat. Go to the ant, thou sluggard consider her way and be wise."

"I haven't got any aunt," said Mr Harrison.

"Well, you've got to ante out of this my humble friend. I'm going to make it sixty days."

The Wool-Growers.

At a meeting of the Pennsylvania and Ohio wool-growers, at Titusville, Pa., last week, it was resolved that, in view of the present unsatisfactory condition of the wool market, to hold for an advance and, at the same time appeal to all growers to continue with the Patrons of Husbandry in the furtherance of their interests. Meanwhile, an effort is to be made to deal directly with the manufacturers, failing in which they will be compelled to abandon the wool-growing business, and, in imitation of our fathers of 99 yerrs ago, declare our independence of those who are living from the handling of our produce, to the end that their difficulties may be righted. They invite correspondence from both wool-growers and manufacturers in all parts of the country. Any information will be furnished by the association's Secretary, J. A. Curtis, West Liberty, Pa.

Getting Out of Bed.—Dr. Hall does not approve of the old doctrine which was formerly instilled into the minds of children—that they should spring out of bed the instant they awake in the morning. He says: "Up to eighteen years old every child should be allowed to rest in bed, after the sleep is over, until they feel as if they would rather get up than not. It is a very great mistake for persons, old or young—especially children or sedentary persons—to bounce out of bed the moment they wake up; all the instincts shrink from it and fiercely kick against it. Fifteen or twenty minutes spent in gradually waking up, after the eyes are opened, and in turning over and stretching the limbs, do as much as good, sound sleep, because the operations set the blood in motion by degrees, tending to equalize the circulation; for during sleep the blood tends to stagnation, the heart beats feebly and slowly, and to shock the system by bouncing up in an instant and sending the blood in overwhelming quantity to the heart, causing it to assume a gallop, where the instant before it was a creep, is the greatest absurdity. This instantaneous bouncing out of bed as soon as the eyes are open will be followed by a weariness long before noon.

The Future of the Potato Crop.

Will the beetle destroy the potato crop and make the growth of this important edible either impossible or greatly restricted? We give a decided No to both these questions, frequently asked of us personally, and almost every day suggested by the fears of our exchanges.

The potato is far too important a crop to be stamped out of existence by the beetle. Intelligent and enterprising farmers would find means of growing potatoes enough for general use were the difficulties four-fold what they are. Possibly the price of potatoes might be doubled, or even trebled, but the use of the vegetable would not be discontinued, and its production would be more profitable than ever before. Potatoes have always been too easily grown. Hence the price has been low, and the farmer has not had fair pay for the hard work which handling a potato crop implies. Henceforth, by doing some additional light work in destroying potato beetles, by planting on better soil and giving better culture, the crop will be larger, the price better, and the receipts perhaps trebled, at a slight additional cost per acre. The potato beetle will, without doubt, increase the price of potatoes somewhat, and in this the consumer must suffer; but farmers who know how to deal with the enemy can and will make more money from potatoes than ever before. The potato is henceforth transferred to the list of crops not easily grown, and therefore always most profitable. It is skill and patience which best pay in farming, and not brute strength, and these are what potato culture needs. So long as it was a business that mainly employed strong arms and backs in digging and securing the crop, potato growing was not a very inviting occupation, however profitable. Now, by the perfecting of machines for planting and digging potatoes, the manual labor has been reduced 50 per cent. It is now a question of moral and intellectual qualities, and only those farmers will succeed who are able to see what is needed and have the patience and perseverance to do it. In less words, potato growing is to be in fewer hands until a larger proportion of American farmers are more thorough and successful in their business.

The potato beetle, in common with most insect enemies, will prove a blessing in disguise to American farmers. Many of them may not see this now, but ten or twenty years hence they will. The midge in wheat compelled farmers to prepare their ground better, to put in seed more carefully, and to manure better than ever before; and we believe the potato beetle will ultimately have as good an effect on growers of the potato. There is neither reason nor religion in despondency. Reason and experience tell us that when any insect becomes too numerous something is sent to check it, and we are told in the good book that while the earth endureth summer and winter, seed time and harvest shall not fail.—Rural New Yorker.

Donaldson Heard from in Spirit-Land.

[From the Chicago Journal.]

One "Dr." Chauncey Barnes, of Dubuque, a Spiritualist, again writes us that he is receiving communications from Donaldson, from the spirit world. He says the following messages have been received from a spirit "purporting to be that of Donaldson:"

"Lost in the lake—Donaldson. All lost. Write to the Chicago Journal and Times."

I then asked: "Is this your spirit, Donaldson?"

Spirit—"Yes; I knew you, Dr. Barnes. You told me I should lose my life—that I had better give up ballooning if I cared for my life," etc.

As to what I received after writing you last, Mr. Editor, it was as follows: The spirit comes again and says he was driven down into the lake by a gust of wind, and it seemed as if the water attracted the balloon. Ballast was thrown out, but it was of no use. "I threw out ballast after the basket dragged in the lake, and soon the basket sunk. The gale and the seas were more troubled, so that we were washed off. We clung to the balloon until she rolled and the waves washed us off. We saw our watery grave before us and gave up, seeing there was no hope for life. The balloon then went up, and we went down. We anticipated crossing the lake, and should if the gale had stayed its course for half an hour. The balloon, we think, is picked up—I do not knew as to where—should judge it was seen near Montreal. Never mind—it is all over. Let it be a warning to others. I still am as anxious to go to London in a balloon as ever, and now can help manage one, and in time there will one go across the ocean.

"Donaldson."

Swimming as a Science.

In London the public schools have added a new branch to their course of study, namely, the art of swimming. It is effected by the formation of swimming clubs, under the lead of a few well-known merchants, and it is said that no less than 5,000 children have already enrolled themselves in these clubs, and the experiment is proving completely successful. In this both sexes join, using separate places for their aquatic exercises, under the supervision of competent superintendents. The New York Times urges that it be tried in that city as a means of preventing a very great number of deaths by drowning, reported as high as fourteen in one week, with many cases probably not reported.

The explorations of the sledge parties attached to the British Arctic expedition now on its way toward the North Pole, will be conducted during the summer months, when continual daylight prevails in the regions of the remote North. To enable them to distinguish between day and night when they are away from the ship, the officers have been provided with watches which show twenty-four hours on the dial. The numbers from one to twelve indicate the day hours, while the night hours are indicated by the numbers thirteen to twenty-four, inclusive.

Europe has five millions of soldiers all ready for fighting, with fifteen thousand cannon and a million and a quarter of horses; its united fleet consist of 2,000 vessels, manned by 280,000 soldiers, and carrying fifteen thousand guns. The cost of these immense armaments is five hundred and sixty millions of dollars annually, three-fifths of the amount being consecrated to the armies.

Wilhoft's Tonic!—Unfailing and Infallible!—This great Chill Tonic cures Chills without the intervention of doctors and their bills. No consulting visits—no prescriptions to be filled—no huge bills entailing pecuniary embarassements, added to loss of health. It is the friend of the poor man, because it enables him to earn a living, and of the rich, because it prepares him to enjoy his wealth. This great boon to mankind is cheap, safe and prompt. Wheelock, Finlay & Co., Proprietors, New Orleans.
For sale by all Druggists.

Henry K. Bond, of Jefferson, Maine, was cured of spitting blood, soreness and weakness of the stomach, by the use of Johnson's Anodyne Liniment internally.

A want has been felt and expressed by physicians for a safe and reliable purgative. Such a want is now supplied in Parsons' Purgative Pills.

Glen Flora Spring Water, at Waukegan, Ill., cures all kidney diseases.

How to Get a Home. See advertisement.

A MAN OF A THOUSAND.
A Consumptive Cured.—When death was hourly expected from Consumption, all remedies having failed, accident led to a discovery whereby Dr. H. James cured his only child with a preparation of Cannabis Indica. He now gives recipe free on receipt of two stamps to pay expenses. There is not a single symptom of Consumption that it does not dissipate—Night Sweats, Irritation of the Nerves, Difficult Expectoration, sharp Pains in the Lungs, Nausea at the Stomach, Inaction of the Bowels, and Wasting of the Muscles. Address CRADDOCK & CO., 1032 Race Street, Philadelphia, Pa., giving name of this paper.

SILVER TIPPED SHOES
From Maine to California millions of children are wearing SILVER TIPPED Shoes. Why not? They are the cheapest and never wear through at the toe. Try them.
For Sale by all Shoe Dealers.

From the Atlantic to the Pacific the reputation of the CABLE SCREW WIRE Boots and Shoes is spreading. They never rip, leak, or fall to pieces. Look out for the Patent stamp; all others are imitations.
CABLE SCREW WIRE

$10 & $25 per day. Send for Chromo Catalogue. J. H. Bufford's Sons, Boston, Mass.

NEW BOOK, "Gleanings." Now Ready. Agents address LOUIS LLOYD & CO., Chicago.

EVERY FAMILY WANTS IT. Money in it. Sold by Agents. Address M. N. LOVELL, Erie, Pa.

WANTED AGENTS. Samples and Outfit free. Better than Gold. A. COULTER & CO., Chicago.

GEO. P. ROWELL & CO.

$490 A MONTH and EXPENSES to all. Articles new, staple as flour. Samples free. C. LININGTON, NEW YORK or CHICAGO.

SOMETHING for you. Sells at sight. Our Agents coin money. We have work and money for all, men or women, boys or girls, whole or spare time. Send stamp for Catalogue. Address FRANK GLUCK, New Bedford, Mass.

CLARK'S BOOK-KEEPING. Self-instructive. Short method. Price $1.00, postpaid. Send for Circular. W. S. CLARK & CO., 143 Race Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

$250 A MONTH—Agents wanted everywhere. Business honorable and first class. Particulars sent free. Address WORTH & CO., St. Louis, Mo.

FOR SALE. Chicago Suburban Lots at $100 each—$15 down and $5 monthly for balance—within a short distance of city limits, with hourly trains and cheap fare. Send for circular. IRA BROWN, 143 LaSalle Street, Chicago, Ill.

CINCINNATI DOLLAR WEEKLY STAR. An Independent Family Newspaper. 8 Pages. 48 Columns of Reading. $1 Per YEAR. Specimen Copy FREE. Free of postage. Address The "STAR" CO., Cincinnati, Ohio.

LOOK Your Name Elegantly Printed on 12 Transparent Visiting Cards, for 25 Cents. Each card contains a scene which is not visible until held towards the light. Nothing like them ever before offered in America. Big inducements to Agents. Novelty Printing Co., Ashland, Mass.

50 Of the prettiest CARDS you ever saw, with your name handsomely printed on them, sent, postpaid, upon receipt of 20 cents. Your friends will all want them when they see yours. Address W. C. CANNON, 46 Kneeland St., Boston, Mass.

TEAS.—The choicest in the world—Importers' prices—Largest Company in America—staple article—pleases everybody—Trade continually increasing—Agents wanted everywhere—best inducements—don't waste time—send for circular to Robert Wells, 43 Vesey-st., N. Y., P. O. Box 1287.

$10. to $500. Invested in Wall Street often leads to fortune. A 72-page book explaining everything, and copy of the Wall Street Review SENT FREE. John Hickling & Co., Bankers and Brokers, 72 Broadway, N. Y.

PENNSYLVANIA
Military Academy, Chester, Pa. Opens Sept. 8th. Civil Engineering, the Classics, English and Military Art thoroughly taught. For circulars apply to Col. THEO. HYATT, President.

Wanted Young men to know that the best place to obtain a business education and an elegant handwriting is at the WORTHINGTON BUSINESS COLLEGE, Toledo, Ohio. Address, for Circulars, B. M. WORTHINGTON, Principal, Toledo, O.

AGENTS WANTED FOR A NEW BOOK.
SUCCESS IN BUSINESS.
HOW TO MAKE MONEY.
Selling very fast. Send for circulars.
P. W. ZIEGLER & CO., 201 S. Clark st., Chicago, Ill.

WANTED AGENTS FOR THE best-selling Prize Package in the world. It contains 15 Sheets Paper, 15 Envelopes, Golden Pen, Pen Holder, Pencil, Patent Yard Measure, and a Piece of Jewelry. Single Package, with elegant Prize, postpaid, 25 cents. Circular free. BRIDE & CO., 769 Broadway, New York.

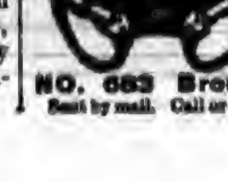
HOW TO GET A HOME.
IOWA LANDS, 800,000 ACRES.
Rich Soil, good Climate, excellent Water, growing Settlements, good Schools. We offer the Lands of the Sioux City and St. Paul R. R. and the McGregor and Missouri River R. R. at $4 to $8 per acre, on easy payments. Two years rent will buy a farm. Apply to
DAVIDSON & CALKINS,
R. R. Land Office Sibley, Osceola Co., Iowa.

PEOPLE WILL HAVE OUR GOODS. Send 35 cents and we will send by mail, prepaid, our Lamp Filler, with which you can fill any Kerosene Lamp without removing chimney or getting grease outside of Lamp. At same time we mail you all our circulars and terms to agents on twenty useful household articles with which any person can make from $5 to $9 daily. We want Agents everywhere.
NATIONAL AGENTS' EMPORIUM,
Boston, Mass.

Keeler, Holmes & Co., Grocers, Norwalk, Ct., say:—"We have the assurance of our customers that Sea Foam is the best Baking Powder. Our sales of it increase continually."
Geo. L. Claflin & Co., Druggists, Providence, R. I., say:—"Your Sea Foam is steadily gaining in favor. All speak well of it." It is the best. Farmers' wives can excel New York Hotel Cooks by using Sea Foam. Try it and be happy. Send for circular to
GEO. F. GANTZ & CO.,
176 Duane St., New York.

PORTABLE GRINDING MILLS.

Best French Burr stiff spindle under-runners, rock head upper-runners, for Farm or Merchant Work. Superior Mill Stones of all sizes. Genuine Dutch Anker Bolting Cloth, Mill Picks, Corn Shellers and Cleaners, Gearing, Shafting, Pullies, Hangers, etc., all kinds of Mill Machinery and Millers' supplies. Send for Pamphlet. Straub Mill Company, Box 1430, Cincinnati, O.



This new Truss is worn with perfect comfort night and day. Adapts itself to every motion of the body, retaining rupture under the hardest exercise or severest strain until permanently cured. Sold cheap by the Elastic Truss Co.,
NO. 683 Broadway, N. Y. City.
Sent by mail. Call or send for Circular and be cured.

Chicago Business Directory.

AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS.
CHICAGO SCRAPER & DITCHER CO., 88 LaSalle.
AWNINGS, TENTS, TWINES AND CORDAGE.
GILBERT, HUBBARD & CO., 205 to 208 South Water.
BAKING POWDER AND EXTRACTS.
Dr. PRICE'S, Steele & Price M'f'rs, 201 & 203 S. Water, Chicago, 204 N. 2d, St. Louis, 246 Main, Cincinnati.
BANNERS AND GLASS SHOW-CARD WRITERS.
MUNN & DRUM, 213 W. Madison.
BOOTS AND SHOES—AUCTION AND COMMISSION.
JAS. P. McNAMARA & CO., 27 E. Washington.
CANNED FRUITS AND CRYSTAL LAKE PICKELS.
F. A. WAIDNER, 45 and 47 River.
COWING'S DRIVE AND WELL PUMPS, &c.
DOWNER & WOOLNER, 98 and 100 Franklin.
CROCKERY, CHINA AND GLASSWARE.
ABRAM FRENCH & CO., 101 and 103 Wabash-av.
ENGRAVER, SEALS, PRESSES, STEEL AND BRASS STAMPS, STENCIL TOOLS AND STOCK.
C. H. HANSON, 38 South Clark.
ENGRAVERS.
S. D. CHILDS, JR., & CO., 115 Franklin.
ENGRAVER, DIE SINKER & MANFR. OF STENCILS.
L. BOCHE, 171 E. Randolph.
FLOWERS AND STRAW GOODS—SPECIALTY.
DALY, HENROTIN & CO., 144 and 146 Wabash-av.
FURNITURE.
A. L. HALE & BRO., 200, 202, 204 and 206 Randolph.
GLASS SHOW-CARD PAINTER.
J. J. G. BURGHOFFER, 199, 201 and 203 E. Randolph.
GRASS SEEDS.
ALBERT DICKINSON, 117 Kinzie.
GUNS—CUTLERY MANUFACTURERS.
W. E. SPENCER & CO., 54 State. Send for price-list.
HARDWARE AND CUTLERY—WHOLESALE.
EDWIN HUNT & SONS, 58 and 60 Lake.
HEAVY HARDWARE—WHOLESALE.
KIMBARK BROS. & CO., 80 to 84 Michigan-av.
HOTELS.
NEVADA HOTEL, Wabash-av., bet. Madison and Monroe. Central, convenient. $2.00 per day.
BREVOORT HOUSE, 143 and 145 E. Madison. On the European plan. H. M. Thompson, proprietor.
METROPOLITAN HOTEL—$2.50 per day. Cor. State & Wash'n, site of old St. James, opp. Field, Leiter & Co.
OGDEN HOUSE—First-class in every particular. Barber & Forrey, prop'rs. Cor. Washington and Franklin.
WOOD'S HOTEL, 34 & 36 Washington. O. Sands, prop. Price $2 per day. G. S. Palmer (late City Hotel), clerk.
IMPORTERS AND MANFRS. OF WARWICKSHIRE AND COLUMBIA SAUCES, IMPORTED CATSUPS AND FLAVORING EXTRACTS.
LEWIS & CO., 169 E. Kinzie. Send for price-list.
LUMBER.
THE PESHTIGO CO.—Green Bay Lumber. North Pier. W. E. Strong, Pres't; G. G. Hempstead, Sec'y.
REAL ESTATE.
JAS. B. GOODMAN & CO., 73 Dearborn.
SAW MANUFACTURERS.
HENRY DISSTON & SON, N. W. cor. Randolph & Market.
SEWING MACHINE COMPANIES.
HOME S. M. CO., Johnson, Clark & Co., 141 State.
WASHING MACHINES.
For Circulars, etc., address CALKINS CHAMPION Washer Co., 207 Clark. Agents wanted everywhere.
WATCHES, JEWELRY AND JEWELERS' SUPPLIES.
COGSWELL, WEBER & CO., 106 and 107 State.

CAUTION—NOTICE.—The GENUINE EDITION.
LIFE AND LABORS OF LIVINGSTONE.
(Including the "LAST JOURNALS,") unfolds vividly his 30 Years strange adventures, also the curiosities, Wonders and Wealth of that marvelous country, and is absolutely the only new complete work. Hence It Sells; Just think, 12,000 first 7 weeks. Agents' success would astonish you, more wanted. Send for terms and positive proof of genuineness. Hubbard Bros., Pubs., 144 W. 4th St., Cinn., O.

Cannot BE BEAT

The new BUFFALO BILL REVOLVER—sent prepaid to any part of the United States on receipt of $3.00. 20,000 already sold. Beats anything of the kind ever made. For accuracy and distance it has no equal. Address all orders to WESTERN GUN WORKS, Chicago, Ill.
N. B.—We have every revolver examined by an experienced gunsmith before it leaves our works, and warrant them perfect in every way. Liberal discount to the trade.

Established 1858.

TRADE MARK, PATENTED.
The best and cheapest Paint in the World for Iron, Tin or Wood. For sale by Dealers everywhere. PRINCES' METALLIC PAINT CO., Manuf'rers, 96 Cedar St., New York.
☞CAUTION.—Purchasers will please see that our name and trade mark are on each and every package. Send for a Circular.

TARRANT'S SELTZER APERIENT
Prevent Summer Fevers and all the complaints generated by excessive heat, by keeping the blood cool and the bowels free with Tarrant's Effervescent Seltzer Aperient, at once a most refreshing draught and the best of all regulating medicines.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

Hear what a Physician says:—"A man from Crestline, O., came to Bucyrus, disabled from kidney trouble. His sufferings were very acute and the case unpromising. Being unable to take care of himself he was taken to the County Infirmary for treatment. The physician put him on Hamilton's Buchu and Dandelion: in ten days a marked improvement took place, and after three weeks he was dismissed a cured man, and is now pursuing his trade with his former vigor. Dr. Fulton is a witness to the statement and regards the cure as a very remarkable one." Trade supplied by Kress Manufacturing Company, Cincinnati, O.
Out of the Poor-House

DR. RIDGE'S FOOD for INFANTS AND INVALIDS
Sold in cans by Druggists, Grocers and others.

DR. WHITTIER,
No. 617 St. Charles Street, St. Louis, Mo.,
continues to treat all cases of obstacles to marriage, blood impurities, every ailment or sickness which results from indiscretion or imprudence, with unparalleled success. Dr. W.'s establishment is chartered by the State of Missouri, was founded and has been established to secure safe, certain and reliable relief. Being a graduate of several medical colleges, and having the experience of a long and successful life in his specialties, he has perfected remedies that are effectual in all these cases. His patients are being treated by mail or express everywhere. No matter who failed, call or write. From the great number of applications he is enabled to keep his charges low. 36 pages, giving full symptoms, for two stamps.
MARRIAGE GUIDE,
260 pages, a popular book which should be read by everybody. No married pair, or persons contemplating marriage, can afford to do without it. It contains the cream of medical literature on this subject, the results of Dr. W.'s long experience; also the best thoughts from late works in Europe and America. Sent sealed, post-paid, for 50 cts.

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS, please say you saw the advertisement in this paper.

A New Store

With an entire new stock of

BOOTS & SHOES.

New STYLES of all kinds at the LOWEST PRICES at

J. E. WOODFORD'S

I have located at Auburn with a fine stock of BOOTS and SHOES, which will be sold at the Lowest Figures for Cash!

My Facilities for making CUSTOM WORK are not excelled anywhere and those favoring me—with their orders may be certain of getting the best material.
W. W. HUMES, Foreman.

To the trade, great inducements are offered in Leather, Findings, &c. Please call and examine my stock before purchasing.

STORE ESTABLISHED IN 1839.

GEO. DeWALD & CO.

Dry Goods & Notions.

Black Silks & Fine Dress Goods a Specialty.

We can make it to the interests of every person to trade with us. We buy for CASH and sell for CASH, keep the best goods, and sell at one price

ALSO AGENTS FOR THE

"Domestic" PATERNS.

The Best in Use. Send for a Catalogue.

Geo DeWald & Co
No. 1 Columbia Street
Fort Wayne Ind,

The Pioneer

HARDWARE

Emporium!

Now full to overflowing with an Immense stock of

HEAVY AND SHELF

Hardware, Cutlery, Tin Ware.

I would call special attention to my depaptment of

HARDWARE,
FURNISHING &
BUIDERS STOCK,

a Which will be found everything at the very

LOWEST PRICES,

Such as:—

OILS, PAINTS,
GLASS,
NAILS,
SASH,
DOORS, ETC

—A FIRST-CLASS—

Tin-Shop,

In connection with the Hardware Store, with a skillful foreman. All kinds of Tin-ware manufactured and repaired on short notice.

JOHN L. DAVIS,

TELEGRAPH INSTITUTE.

"CHOOSE YOUR VOCATION AND HONOR IT."

The Independent Telegraph Institute, located in Auburn Dekalb Co. Ind., are offering the best opportunity of learning Telegraphy Railroad business and Phonographical writing ever offered to the public. Tuition very low and good boarding furnished Students for $2.50 to $2.75 per week, and situations furnished students as soon as they are capable of taking charge of a Telegraph office. Wages from $40 to $100 dollars per month. For further information address, Independent Telegraph Institute, Lock Box 78, Auburn Indiana.

OFFICERS.
J. E. SHREVE, Superintendent.
Prof. S.S. Shaner Principal Instructor R.R. Dep't.
Dr. L. Sanders Instructor Phonographical Wites.

AUBURN LIVERY

—AND—

SALE STABLE!

Ryan & Mader, pro's

Having on hand everything in the line of

Carriages, Buggies, Wagons, etc

y are prepared to furnish rigs at all times a nable prices. Stable east of Court House.

South Main Street

re now in full running order and all orders fo

WAGONS BUGGIES &c.

promptly attended to. Special care taken in getting the best Seasoned Timber. Our prices are ery reasonable and we solicit the public to give a call and ascertain our prices.

Pittsburg, Baltimore & Ohio R.R

IS COMING.

Therefore buy your

Dry Goods,
Notions, etc., of

CHARLES KLOTZ

AT HIS

Old Stand

ON MAN STREET,

Opposite Court Square

AUBURN, INDIANA

Where he may be found at all times ready to accommodate customers, and sell them such good as they may need,

CLOTHING

Of all descriptions, and

HANDSOME SUITS
Made to Order!

THE AUBURN

Marble Works!

The undersigned beg leave to announce that they have permanently located in Auburn, and are now prepared to attend to all orders for which they are prepared to turn out in a superio manner at reasonable rates. Works west the Bakery.

Monuments, Tomb-Stones, &c.,

C. P. Houser & Co.,

—Dealer In—

BOOKS AND STATIONERY

BEST
Window Paper
HOLLAND'S
and Oil Shades always on hand and CHEAP for CASH.

PICTURES, FRAMES,
CORD,
and TASSELS,
Curtain and Window Fx'trs
the Best in the Market.

—The Largest and finest assortment of—

WALL PAPER

EVER BROUGHT TO THIS MARKET.

Their store is located in Ensley's new brick block, North of the Court House, AUBURN, INDIANA.

THE OLD RELIABLE.

F. E. DAVENPORT,

Corner Main and Eighth-Sts.,

—DEALER IN—

Pure Drugs and Medicines,

DYE STUFFS, PERFUMERY,

Toilet Soaps Cosmetics, Hair Oils, Brushes, Combs, Toilet Mirrors and Druggists' Sundries in General.

BOOKS AND STATIONERY!

Wall and Window Paper!

Oiled, Linen and Slat Window Shades, and Shade Fixtures.

All the lattest POEMS and MISSELANIOUS BOOKS constantly on hand or ordered. Blank Books, Pocket Memorandas, Portmonies and Bill Books, WRITING PAPERS. All Styles and prices ALBUMS! ALBUMS! ALBUMS just received for the Holliday trade
Over $300.00 worth of Juvenile and Toy Books, which will be sold at panic prices. Smith's Gold Pens, warranted the best. Also steel Pens, Penholders, Pencils, Ink and Ink Stands &c.

SCHOOL BOOKS

Covered with best Cover ever invented Free Of Charge
Dav exclusive right to use this book cover in Auburn, and will give the benefit of the same.

GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICES AT

ABRICHT'S

In American & Swiss Watches,

Lady Elgin
W. 90031
Elgin, Ills.

TOYS

FANCY GOODS,

and everything kept in a first class jewelry establishm'nt It will pay you to call and be convinced that I am selling goods cheaper than any firm in Northern Indiana.

J. Abright.

Repairing fine Watches a Specialty

Ladies Gold Watches,
Jewelry,
Clocks, Silver Ware!
GOLD PENS,
Ladies GOLD Chains,
Gents Chains,
Gold and Silver Rings,
MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS,

V. A BEARD

Grocer in Auburn, North of Court House on Seventh Street,

DEALER IN

GROCERIES and PROVISIONS

TEAS, COFFEES, SUGARS, SALT FISH.
Flour and Feed, Tubs Pails, Buckets, Sugars Boxes, Etc. A large variet
TOBACCOS AND CIGARS,
Confectioneries of all kinds, and Fancy Notions, Cove Oysters, &c.
A speciality in Green and Dried Fruits, and Canned Fruits. Goods delivered inside the coporation.

RAIL ROADS.

Indianapolis Peru & Chicago R.R.

TIME TABLE No. 12—Dec. 20, 1874.

Northward.

Stations.	No. 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Indianapolis	6 30a	12 25p	3 55p	12 10
Noblesville	7 44	12 20	5 10	1 30
Tipton	8 20	1 13	5 57	2 15
Miami	9 37	1 50	6 30	3 05
Kokomo	9 11	2 26	7 04
Peru	10 00	3 15	7 40

Sotuhward.

Stations.	No. 2	No. 4	No. 6
Indianapolis	6 00p	4 15a	9 55a
Noblesville	4 45	3 13	8 34
Tipton	3 56	2 20	7 44
Kokomo	3 13	1 50	7 08
Miami	2 46	1 15	6 35
Peru	2 10	12 30	6 00

R. C. MURPHY, Supt. Mich. Div.
E. M. HAWLEY, Master of Tran.
C. D. ROBINSON, General Sup't.
F. P. WADE, Gen. Ticket Agt.

Lake Shore & Mich. Southern R.R

Air Line Division

On and after Sunday, Nov. 15, 1874 Passenger Trains will leave Waterloo city and other Stations as follows, daily except Sunays:

GOING WEST

	Special Ex.	Pacific Ex.	Accom'd'n
Butler	2:40 p m.	x 2:35 a m.	6:00 p m
Waterloo	2:56 "	2:58 "	6:19 "
Sedan	3,08	3,00	6:30 "
Corunna	3,10	3,06	6:35 "

GOING EAST.

Corunna	2,15 pm	11,30 pm	6:50 p m
Sedan	2.20	11,35	7:02 "
Waterloo	2:28 "	11:44 "	7:11 "
Butler	2:40 "	x12:01a m	7:55 "

CHAS. PAINE, Gen. Supt.
J. W. CARY, Gen Tic. Agt
J. E. CURTIS, Division Su

Ft. Wayne, Muncie & Cin R. R.

Time Table to take effect May 23, 1875.

Going South.

Fort Wayne	1 15 pm	2 00a.m	5 35pm
Ossian	2 02		6 42
Bluffton	2 30	3 10	7 17
Keystone	2 49		7 57
Montpelier	3 12	3 44	8 08
Hartford	3 40pm	4 05	8 40
Eaton	4 02		9 06
Muncie	4 37	4 47	9 45
McCowan's	4 53	5 05
New Castle	5 30	5 40
Cam. City	6 05	6 11
Beesons	6 22	6 27
Connersville	6 35	6 40
Indianapolis	6 30	6 50
Louisville	11 10	12 45pm
Cincinnati	10 30	9 40

Going North.

Cincinnati	7 30am	1 20pm
Louisville		2 40	7 00pm
Indianapolis		7 25	4 30am
Connersville	10 32	7 35
Beesons	10 45	7 52
Cam City	11 04	8 12
New Castle	11 40	8 55
McCowans	12 15pm
Muncie	12 32	9 55	6 50am
Eaton	1 02	10 28	7 29
Hartford	1 24	10 50	7 54
Montpelier	1 49	11 17	8 52
Keystone	1 58		8 36
Bluffton	2 30	11 58	9 15
Ossian	2 59	11 28am	9 52
Ft. Wayne	3 45	1 15	11 00

W. W. WORTHINGTON, Supt.
ROBT. RILLIE, Gen'l Ticket Agt.

Ft. Wayne, Jackson & Sag. R. R

Short Line Between

Michigan and the South.

Time card in effect May 23d—run by Chicago time.

Going North.

Stations	Mail	Accom.	Jack. Acm
Cincinnati		7 30
Louisville	7 00pm
Indianapolis	4 35am
Ft Wayne	10 45	4 35
Auburn	11 40	6 07
Waterloo	11 56	6 37
Summit		7 45
Pleasant Lake
Ar Angola	12 5	6 00	6 00 a
Reading	1 7		7 32
Bankers	1 12		7 52
Jonesville	2 30		8 29
Jackson	3 40		10 10
Detroit	6 30p m		2 00p
Grand Rapids	9 30
Lansing	5 47
Saginaw	9 03
Bay City	9 45

Going South.

Bay City	6 40 a m		2 45p
Saginaw	7 30		3 38
Lansing	10 40		9 55
Grand Rapids	1 30		12 00
Detroit	9 50		5 40
Jackson Dep	12 40		9 30
Jonesville	1 55		10 30
Bankers	2 12		10 47
Reading	2 26		11 00
Ar Angola	3 25	6 15	11 55
Pleasant Lake		6 26
Waterloo	4 05	7 55	12 33a
Auburn	4 20	9 25	12 49
Auburn Junction		6 30
Fort Wayne, Arrive	5 15	11 10	1 40
Indianapolis		10 30	6 50
Louisville			12 45p
Cincinnati			9 40a

P. B. LOOMIS, Pres't
S. K. HOOPER Gen. Ticket Ag't.

DETOIT, EEL RIVER & ILLINOIS Rail Road.

Short Line between Auburn and the East and West.

Trains run on Cleveland time. Through trains will run on the following time, in effect Sunday June 20th, 1875.

Going East.				Going Wes .
No. 7 Thro'	No. 5 Frei't	Mail	STATIONS	Mail	No. 6 W. F	No. 8 Local
3.40n	7.00a	10.50	lv Logans't ar	6.15p	7.25p	12.10p
4.08	7.30	11.08	Adamsboro.	5.55	7.00	11.43
4.30	7.55	12.23	Hoover's	5.41	6.40	11.23
4.50	8.25	11.32	Mexico	5.33	6.25	10.55
6.00	9.30	11.45	Denver.	5.28	6.00	10.25
					5.10	10.50
6.15	9.50	12.15	Chili	5.13	4.55	9.05
6.46	10.40	12.31	Roann	4.57	4.25	9.20
7.14	11.20	12.47	Laketon	4.40	3.50	8.48
7.40	12.10	12.57	N. Manchest'r	4.29	3.25	3.30
8.00	1.10p	1.06	Lib. Mills	4.19	2.40	8.10
8.25	1.40	1.16	Collamer	4.07	2.00	7.47
8.40	2.10	1.22	S. Whitley	4.02	1.50	7.40
9.03	2.35	1.33	Taylor's	3.50	12.30	7.20
9.30	2.57	1.47	Columbia city	3.38	12.05	7.00
10.15	4.10	2.05	Collin's	3.18	11. a	6.15
10.45	4.50	2.14	Churubusco	3.08	10.33	5.50
11.10	5.15	2.24	Potter's	2.57	9.53	5.20
11.30	5.35	2.34	G. R. Crossing	2.49	9.35	5.05
11.45	5.55	2.40	Cedar Creek	2.40	9.20	4.50
12.15	6.30	2.52	Aub. Juncti'n	2.26	8.50	4.20
12.30	7.00	2.58	Auburn	2.20	8.00	4.10
1.00	7.30	3.18	Mooresville	2.03	6.57	3.35
1.25a	7.55	3.25p	ar. Butler lv.	1.50	6.25	6.25

CONNECTIONS—At Logansport with Pittsburgh, Cincinnati & St Louis, Logansport, Crawfordsville & Southwestern and Toledo. Wabash & Western R. R's. At Denver with Indianapolis, Peru & Chicago Railway, for Rochester, Plymouth, LaPorte, Michigan City, Peru, Kokomo and Indianapolis At N Manchester with Cincinnati, Wabash & Mich R'y. At Columbia City with Pittsburg, Ft. W. & Chicago, for Ft Wayne Lima, Crestline and Pittsburg. At Grand Rapids crossing with Grand Rapids R'y. At Auburn Junction with Ft. Wayne Jackson & Saginaw, for Angola, Jackson and Saginaw R'y, for Butler with Lake Shore & Mich. Southern Caw. Toledo, Detroit and all eastern cities.
J. A. HUGHSTON, Gen. Ticket Agt.
A. B. SCUTHARD, Gen. Supt.

S. U. Tarney

AUBURN MEAT MARKET!

KEEPS ALWAYS ON HAND

Fresh Beef, Pork, Veal, Mutton and Bologna Sausage, clean and sweet. Prices reasonable. Main-st first door north of Miller & Caseboer's store.

Pittsburg, Ft. W. & C. R. R.

Condensed time card, May 23, 1875.

GOING WEST.

	No. 1 Fast ex.	No 5 Mail.	No. 7 Pac. ex.	No. 3 Night ex
Pittsburgh	2 00 a.m	....	9 00 a.m	2 00 p.m
Rochester	3 09 "	....	9 22 "	3 15 "
Alliance	5 40 "	....	12 50 p.m	5 54 "
Orrville	7 10 "	....	2 29 "	7 23 "
Mansfield	9 07 "	....	4 40 "	9 20 "
Crestl'e ar.	9 40 "	....	5 15 "	9 55 "
" lv.	10 00 "	4 50 a.m	5 35 p.m	11 00 "
Forest	11 18 "	6 30 "	7 07 "	11 34 "
Lima	12 20 p.m	8 10 "	8 45 "	12 27 a.m
Ft. Wayne	2 40 "	11 20 "	11 35 "	2 30 "
Plymouth	4 40 "	2 28 p.m	2 35 a.m	5 08 "
Chicago	7 50 "	6 30 "	6 30 "	8 50 "

GOING EAST.

	No. 4 Night ex	No. 2 Fast ex.	No. 6 Pac. ex.	No. 8 Mail.
Chicago	9 20 p.m	9 20 a.m	5 35 p.m	5 15 a.m
Plymouth	12 50 a.m	12 15 p.m	9 05 "	9 20 "
Ft. Wayne	3 50 "	2 45 "	11 45 "	12 20 p.m
Lima	6 15 "	4 45 "	1 55 a.m	2 50 "
Forest	7 29 "	5 45 "	3 01 "	3 55 "
Crestl'e ar.	9 20 "	6 55 "	4 40 "	5 35 "
" lv.	9 40 "	7 15 "	4 50 "	......
Mansfield	10 09 "	7 45 "	5 19 "	......
Orrville	12 05 p.m	9 20 "	7 19 "	......
Alliance	2 00 "	11 10 "	9 00 "	......
Rochester	3 40 "	1 07 a.m	11 12 "	......
Chicago	5 55 "	2 10 "	12 15 p.m	......

No. 1, daily, except Monday, Nos. 2, 4, 5, 7 and 8, daily except Sunday, Nos. 3 and 6 daily.

F. R. MYERS,
General Pass. and Ticket Agent.

BALTIMORE & OHIO R. R

FROM 135 TO 6 MILES

The shortest route from the West to

Washington, Baltimore
AND THE EAST.

ONDENSED TIME TABLE, THRO' TRAINS

VIA PARKERSBURG, Dec. 13, '74	Express	Fast Express,	[illegible] Ex.
Lve. Cincinnati	9 00‡ am	†4 30 p m	‡11 10pm
Arr. Chillicoth	12 55d n'n	a7 45	2 00 am
" Portsmouth	5 35 p m		11 10
" Marietta	5 55	12 08 n't	7 20
" Parkersburg	5 25 s	11 30	a6 50
Arr. Grafton	9 48	3 40 a m	11 10
" Cumberland	2 00 a m	a7 40	p3 30
" Martinsburg	4 35	10 15	6 10
" Harper's F'y	5 10 a m	10 54	6 51
" Staunton		5 15 p m
" Washington	7 15	12 40 n'n	8 50
" Richmond		10 30p m	4 50 am
" Baltimore	§9 05 a m	1 50 a m	10 20‡pm
" Philadelphia	1 20 p m	6 50 p m	2 35 am
" New York	§5 10	10 22	§8 15
" Boston.	5 50 a m		4 50 pm

VIA BELLAIRE—Dec 13, 1874	Express	Fast Express.	Fast Line
Lve. Cincinnati (via Dayton S. L.)	6 30 a m		‡3 50 p m
" Cincinnati (via P. C. & St. L.)	‡7 00		†7 10 p m
" Columbus	11 55	4 00‡p m	12 20†
Arr. Newark	1 00 p m	5 25	1 45 a m
" Zanesville	2 10	6 55	2 57
" Bellaire	5 20	10 55	6 30
" Wheeling	6 45 p m	12 20 ngt	8 00
" Grafton	9 35	3 35 a m	11 45
" Cumberlain	2 00 a m	a7 40	p3 30 pm
" Martinsburg	4 35	10 15	6 10
" Harper's F'y	5 10 a m	10 54	6 51
" Washington	7 15	12 40 n'n	8 50
" Richmond		10 30 p m	4 50 a m
" Baltimore	9 05	1 50†	10 22†pm
" Philadelphia	1 20 p m	6 50	2 35 a m
" New York	5 10	10 22†	†6 15
" Boston	4 50 a m		4 50 p m

B—Breakfast. D—Dinned. S—Supper. †Daily ‡Daily ex. Sunday. §Daily ex. Monday.

PULMAN PALACE SLEEPING CARS
from Louisville, St. Louis, Cincinnati and Columbus, to WASHINGTON AND BALTIMORE!
—AND—
PHILADELPHIA
WITHOUT CHANGE.

Through Tickets, and further information can be obtained at all principal Ticket Offices through out the West and South West.

THOS. P. BARRY, West. pass agt., Cin.
L. M. COLE, Gen'l ticket agt., Bal. Md.
THOS. R. SHARP, Mas. of Tran.

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

IN EFFECT JUNE, 1875.

GOING WEST.

STATIONS	Exp.	Fst.Line	Fast E
Chicago Junction	7 30am	7 50pm	5 15pm
Tiffin	8 59	8 53	6 39
Fostoria	9 30	9 25	7 15
Deshler	10 33	10 32	8 23
Defiance	11 33	11 33	9 50
Auburn	1 00pm	1 03am	11 50
Auburn Junction	1 03	1 07	11 55
Garrett	1 10	1 16	12 05am
Avilla	1 30	1 34	......
Milford Junction	2 47	2 44	......
Walkertown Junction	4 06	4 08	......
Chicago	7 30	7 30	......

GOING EAST.

Chicago	8 25pm	......	8 40am
Walkertown Junction	12 13am	......	12 17pm
Milford Junction	1 41	......	1 48
Avilla	3 01	......	3 04
Garrett	3 15	6 25am	3 20
Auburn Junction	3 33	6 34	3 48
Auburn	3 36	6 40	3 52
Defiance	5 10	8 43	5 50
Deshler	6 12	10 00	6 34
Fostoria	7 '6	11 16	7 40
Tiffin	7 46	11 51	8 11
Chicago Junction	8 44	1 00pm	9 10

L. M. COLE, Gen. Tic. Agt.

J. G. FLEDDERMAN,

No. 27, East Main-St.

FORT WAYNE, IND'A

Has the larfiest and finse stock of

CLOTHS, COATINGS, CHEVIOTS,

—AND—

CassimereS

in Ft. Wayne. The finest line of

Made up Clothing!

ever shown in Fort Wayne

Youths' and Children's Clothing!

Furnishing Goods, &c.

Mrchant Tailoring.

All work done in all the latest styles, promtly attended to. Go and see hislargestock of G

BRICK FOR SALE

FRITZ GROESCOP.

Having just burned a fine kiln of brick, about one hundred thousand, is now ready to supply all who want good brick at reasonable figures. Residence two miles north of Auburn on the Kutzner road; three miles south west of Waterloo.

JUSTICES' BLANKS.

We have just printed a fine lot of Justices' Blanks, as follows, for sale at this office:

Summons,
Subpoenas,
Garnishees,
Attachments,
Executions, &c.

Recorder's Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Devoted to the Interests of the Democratic Party and to the Collection of Local and General News.

Volume 5. AUBURN, DeKALB COUNTY INDIANA, AUG. 19th, 1875. Number 32.

The Auburn Weekly Courier

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY, BY

TOM. C. MAYS.

One Year,.........$2. | Six Months,......$1.

Advertising Rates.

Space.	1m.	3m.	6m.	1y.
One Square........	2 50	5 00	7 00	12 00
¼ Column........	6 00	12 00	18 00	30 00
½ Column........	10 00	18 00	30 00	50 00
One Column........	15 00	30 00	50 00	100 00

Legal Notices 10 cents per line, first insertion, 5 cents each insertion thereafter. Business cards Five Dollars.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

ROSE & HARTMAN,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW. Have complete abstracts of the records of DeKalb County. Office in Case's Block, Auburn, Indiana.

H. C. PETERSON,

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public. Office over Davis' hardware store, Auburn, Ind.

WOODHULL and CROXTON,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW Angola, Indiana. Practice in Steuben and DeKalb Counties.

RICKEL & TEFFT.

ATTORNEYS AT LAW, Auburn, Ind. Office in the Court House.
J. W. RICKEL, R. DEXTE TEFFT.

A. F. PINCHIN

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public, Butler, DeKalb Co., Ind. Insurance and real estate business promptly attended to.

McBRIDE and MORLAN

ATTORNEYS AT LAW, Waterloo, Indiana. Will practice in any of the courts of the State. Office over O. T. Clark's Dry Goods store.

GUY PLUM,

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public. Office in the Court House. Special attention paid to the collection of claims. Also agent for Home Insurance Company.

CHAS. A. O. McCLELLAN.

ATTORNEY AT LAW, Waterloo, Indiana. Will practice in the Courts of DeKalb and Steuben counties. Liberal Advances Made on all First-class Claims left in my hands for collection.

COURTS IN STEUB N CO.	COURTS IN DEKALB CO.
1st Monday in February	3rd Monday in Feb.
4th Monday in April	2nd Monday in May
1st Monday in September	3rd Monday in Sep.
4th Monday in November	2nd Monday in Dec

PHYSICIANS.

DR. J. A. COWAN,

PHYSICIAN & SURGEON, Auburn, Ind. Office on Main street, over Central Grocery.

W. S. ALLEN.

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON, Office over McQuiston's store, Coal's Block, North of Court House.

J. J. LITTLEFIELD,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON. Office over Miller and Casebeer's Store, Auburn, Indiana.

DR. J. M. SHUTT.

ELECTIC PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON, will attend to all calls belonging to the medical profession, promptly. Possessing al the benefits that can be derived from forty-two years experience, of one of the most active and successful Physicians in the western part of Ohio, and several years of personal experience enables me to treat all famous of diseases with the best of success, "without the use of calomel. My medicines are purely vegetable, and therefore, I am able to treat all kinds of diseases without producing any bad effect, upon the nervous system," and will break the worst case of ague, without the use of quinine. No matter what your disease is, give me a call, for I am prepared to handle all, at my office on fifth street, between Main and Cedar Auburn Indiana.

HOTELS.

SWINEFORD HOUSE.

CORNER MAIN AND NINTH STREETS, opposite the Court House. S. C. SWINEFORD, Pro.

AVELINE HOUSE,

MILLER & MORITZ, Prop's., corner Calhoun & Berry Sts., Fort Wayne, Ind.

AMERICAN HOUSE

AT FORT WAYNE, only $2 a day. Good accommodations for traveling men.
G. B. OAKLEY, Prop'r.

WOOD'S HOTELL.

NOS. 34 & 36 EAST WASHINGTON STREET, opp Field, Leiter, & Co's retail dry goods store; and adjoining D. B. Fisk's wholesale millinery store, between State street & Wabash Avenue, Chicago. O SANDS, Prop'r.
$3.00 per day. GEO. S. PALMER, Clerk.

MISCELLANEOUS.

H. Wartenslaben

PAINTER and paper hanger. House painting a specialty. Residence corner Williams and Cedar street.

Medical Society.

OF DeKALB COUNTY, meets at Auburn, Ind., the 2nd Tuesday in each month.
J. H. FORD, Pres't.
J. A. COWAN, Sec'y.

Joseph H. Stophlet.

ARCHITECT. Office over No. 17 Court street 1st door north of Empire Line office, Ft. Wayne, Ind. Drawings and specifications furnished for all classes of buildings, at reasonable rates.

PRINTING.

COURIER OFFICE.

JOB PRINTING neatly executed. Fine work a specialty. Office in Odd Fellows' Building 2nd floor.

John M. Miller,

Manufacturer and Dealer in

FINE FURNITURE,

CHAIRS

Husk & Hair Matrasses

50 and 52 East Main Street,

FORT WAYNE, IND.

$500,000 to loan on improved farms in Northern Indiana, in sums of one thousand dollars and upwards, on five years time. Security must be first mortgage.
WILLIAM FLEMING,
tf Fort Wayne Ind.

Thomas Baldock

Building Contractor

AUBURN INDIANA.

will be ready at all times with an experience corps of workmen to erect Houses, Barns, and d carpenter and joiner work of all kinds at reasonable rates.

Hoosier Drain Tile!

ONE OF THE BEST INVENTIONS IN THE WORLD.

LANHAM & HOSE have now on hand some of the above Tile, which they are selling at a very low figure. We offer

Four Inch Sizes at 50 cts. per Rod,
Six " " " 75 " "

Every person who intend to put in tile should xamine this article. A sample can be seen at this office. LANHAM & HOSE, v5n11 Auburn, Indiana.

J. J. VanAuken,

COUNTY SURVEYOR.

Will attend promptly to all surveying. Offic with Rose & Hartman, Auburn Indiana. Persons requesting work by letter, should give township andsection.

THE PHŒNIX TILE MACHINE.

IT is well adapted to the wants of Tile Makers. It is usually driven by the power of two horses. It delivers tile at the two opposite ends of the machine. It may be converted into a single delivery machine. It has a simple and ready means of taking up the wear on the plunger head and sides of the chamber, thus correcting all leakage of mud, and adding years of service to the machine. It makes from 300 to 700 rods of tile per day. It is fully warranted. It may readily be adapted to Steam Power. The dies are finished with much care. Doors and Trucks at moderate prices.

CHANDLER & TAYLOR
Proprietors and Manufacturers,
Indianapolis, Ind.

SEND FOR CIRCULARS.

JAS. CLIFFORD,

WATERLOO, IND.

Keeps constantly on hand the best and choicest brands of all kinds of

Wines and Liquors,

Cigars, Tobac-cos, &c.

He also has, in connection with the above a first-class

BILLIARD HALL.

To our citizens and the traveling public, we would say that this is the populor resort at Waterloo. First door south of the railroad.

BAKER BROS.

PROPRIETORS OF Auburn Bakery!

AND

EATING HOUSE

Fresh baked Pies, Cakes etc, always on hand. Good lunches served at all hours.

BAKER BROS.

AUBURN

Meat Market.

Main St. Next door to Klotz's.

MICH HOUSTON

PROPRIETOR.

Having fitted up my establishment in first class styie, with increased facilities, I am now prepared to furnish Fresh Meats in the best of order at reasonable rates. Give me call.

A NEW PLACE

TO GET A

Nobby Suit!

TOM WILLIAMS,

The champion cutter of Fort Wayne formerly with M. E. Woodward, is now going it alone, and can be found at No. 21 Calhoun street with Mr. A. Foster, where he will be pleased to see all his old friends, and a list of new ones. If you want a nice nobby suit made to fit you, you will find him the an.

NOTICE.

STATE OF INDIANA, } Set:
DeKalb County. }
In the DeKalb Circuit Court, September Term 1875.
Henry G. Olds }
John D. Olds }
vs } Complaint No. 151
Henry J. Geiger }
Alexander J. Bodkins }

NOW comes the Pliantiffs, by P. V. Hoffman, their attorney, and files their complaint herein, together with an affidavit that said defendants Henry J. Geiger and Alexander J. Bodkins, are not residents of the State of Indiana.

Notice is, therefore, hereby given said defendants that unless they be and appear on the first day of the next term of the DeKalb Circuit Court to be holden on the 4th Monday of September A. D. 1875, at the Court House in Auburn in said County and State, and answer or demur to said complaint, the same will be heard and determined in their absecence.

Witness my name and the seal of said court affixed at Auburn, this 4th day of August 1875.
J. R. LANNING, Clerk.

FORT WAYNE

MORNING GAZETTE!

A LIVE, WIDE-AWAKE DAILY PAPER!

Issued in Time to Meet all the Early Morning Trains Leaving Ft. Wayne

Containing Each Day the Latest and Fullest Telegraphic, Monetary and Commercial News.

On July 1st the Fort Wayne Daily and Weekly Gazette Printing House passed into the hands of WILLIAMS & HOSSLER, late of the "Northern Indianian," of Warsaw, who design to make it just such a paper as the people of the region in which it is published need. Arrangements are already made to have it delivered to subscribers in all the neighboring towns on all the roads leading out of Fort Wayne, and as the paper can be received in this way from 4 to 6 hours in advance of any other, the advantages of subscribing for the "Morning Gazette" can be seen at a glance.

THE LATEST STOCK, MONEY AND COMMERCIAL NEWS

Will receive the closest attention of the managers and in every instance can be relied upon as correct i every particular. The Gazette is already receiving the highest encomiums of the press and the people. Terms of the Morning Gazette:

One year [in advance]........................$9.00
Six Months "........................4.50
One Month "........................75
Per Week "........................20

The Auburn WAGONS

Made from the Best Materials,

And constructed with all the late improvements—The new and extensive

WAGON SHOPS

—OF—

J. W. SHAFFER.

Work of every description done promtly, and warranted. Blacksmithing attended to in good style.

☞ MANY New and Choice Goods on sale at Bond's Novelty Store, 21 West Main-st., Fort Wayne, Indiana. New goods arriving daily. Special bargains in

Table Linen,

Corsets, Gloves, Hosiery; Muslins, Flannels, White Goods, Ladies Ties, Handkerchiefs, Portmonies and many goods not kept elsewhere. Large four-story stone front building, 21 West Main-st., Fort Wayne, Ind.

CARPETS,

FOR 1875.

Are offered at prices lower than have prevailed for many years. Our stock fo all grades is large, well selected and we invite inspection. We have added to our stock and the line is unusally fair.

Wall Paper

Terrys,
Reps,
Gimps,
Fringes and a general line of Upholstery Goods with Shades,
Lace Curtains,
Oil Cloths,
and Mattings
in great variety. The manufacture of Lambrequins a specialty.

ELLSWORTH, ANDREW & CO,

26 East Berry street

Not Used to Kindness

"Is this the postoffice?," inquired a stranger the other day as he approached the stamp-clerk's window.

"It is," was the reply.

"And you have stamps here."

"Yes, sir."

"Will you please be so kind as to sell me one?"

"I will."

"I'm very sorry to have to bother you, but want to send a letter out and I hope you will excuse me."

"That's all right."

"Yes, I believe it is all right," said the stranger. "I'm a thousand times oblige for your courtesy, and now I want to beg one more favor. Can I mail this letter here?"

"Why, of course."

"Can I? Here, give me your hand young man! Iv'e lived around and about for forty years, and I've seen hard times I ain't used to this sort of kindness, and it goes right to my heart!"

And it can be said that he was not drunk.

The Housewife's Table.

The following is a very valuable housewife's table by which persons not having scales and weights at hand may readily measure the article wanted to form any recipe without the trouble of weighing, allowance to be made for extraordinary dryness or moisture of the article weighed or measured:

Wheat flour, 1 pound is a quart.

Indian meal, 1 pound 2 ounces are 1 quart.

Butter, when soft, 1 pound to 1 quart.

Loaf sugar, broken, 1 pound to 1 quart.

White sugar, powdered, 1 pound 1 ounce are 1 quart.

Best brown sugar, 1 pound 2 ounces are 1 quart.

Ten eggs are 1 pound.

Sixteen large tablespoonfuls are 1 pint.

Eight large tablespoonfuls are ½ pint.

Four large tablespoonfuls are one gill.

Two gills are a half pint.

A common sized tumbler holds half a pint.

An ordinary teacup is 1 gill.

A large wine glass is a gill.

A large tablespoonful is half an ounce

Forty drops are equal to 1 tablespoonful.

ISAAC MERRITT SINGER.

This eminent mechanician died at his residence at Old Paignton, near Torquay England on the 23d day of July, 1875, in the sixty-fourth year of his age.

While he was still a young man he invented a steam drilling machine, which was used with much advantage in the construction of various railways and canals. Subsequently he invented a machine for carving wood, metals, or marble. While endeavoridg to introduce this invention to public notice and use his attention was casually directed to the sewing machine. At that time (A. D. 1850) though several patents on sewing divices had beed granted in this and other countries, no practical machine capable of profitable employment to do ordinary work had ever been produced. Up to that time sewing machines had been experimental merely and had failed to be useful. In eleven days the first Singer sewing machine was invented and built complete. It contained much that was new and useful; subsequent improvements, for which numerous patents were obtained, and added greatly to the value of the machine; but it was successful and profitable from the beginning to all concerned in it, and against all competition, has steadily and continuously increased in public favor, thus establishing the reputation of the inventor and securing him a vast fortune. In 1860 Mr. Singer retired from active management of business, and since that time has resided mainly abroad. After several years residence in Paris, he went with his family, to England, and finally purchased an estate and settled down at Old Paignton, near Torquay, Denonshire. The last years of his life were devoted to the improvement of that property, where he dispensed a liberal hospitality, and the poor of that neighborhood, his death will be a severe beravement.

* * *

Yesterday morning a long haired, thickly bearded stranger entered a Griswold street barber shop, and in response to the inquiry if he would like to be shaved. "Yes sir, you miserable, contimptible, skulling highway pirate, I would." He removed his hat, drew a big navy revolver, cocked it, and sitting down in a chair with the revolver in his hand he continued: "Now, go ahead! If you ask me to have my hair cut, or say that I have dandruff, or cut my chin, or ask me to buy your hair restorer, I'll shoot you dead in your tracks!" The barber didn't say a word while shaving the man.—[Detroit Free Press.

Asserted Ice Cream

He slipped into an ice cream saloon very softly, and when the girl asked him what he wanted, he replied:

"Corn beef, fried potatoes, pickles, and mince pie."

"This is not a restaurant; this is an ice cream parlor."

"Then why did you ask me what I wanted, for? Why didn't you bring on your ice cream?"

She went after it, and as she returned he continued:

"You see my dear girl, you must infer—you must reason It isn't likely that I would come into an ice cream parlor to buy a grindstone, is it? You didn't think I came in here to ask if you had any baled hay, did you?"

She looked at him in great surprise, and he went on.

"If I owned a hardware store, and you came in, I would infer that you came for something in my line. I wouldn't step out and ask you if you wanted to buy a mule, would I?"

She went away highly indignant. An old lady devouring a dish of cream at the next table, and the stranger, after watching her for a moment, he called out:

"My dear woman have you found any hairs or buttons in your dish?"

"Mercy! no!" she exclaimed, as she wheeled around and dropped her spoon.

"Well, I'm glad of it. If you find any just let me know."

She looked at him for half a moment, picked up the spoon, laid it down again and then rose up and left the room. She must have said something to the proprietor, for he came running in, and exclaimed:

"Did your tell that woman that there were hairs and buttons in my ice cream?

"No sir."

"You didn't?"

"No sir, I did not; I merely requested her; in case she found any such ingredients, to inform me!"

"Well sir, that was a mean trick."

My dear sir, did you expect me to ask the woman if she had found a crow bar or a sledge hammer in her cream? It is impossible sir, for such articles, to be hidden away in such small dishes."

The proprietor went away, growling, and as the stranger quietly supped away at his cream, two young ladies came in, sat down near him, and ordered cream and cakes. He waited until they had eaten a little and then he remarked:

"Beg pardon ladies, but do you observe anything peculiar in the taste of this cream?"

They tasted, smacked their lips, and were not certain.

"Does it taste to you as if a plug of tobacco had fallen into the freezer?" he asked.

"Ah! kah!" they exclaimed, dropping their spoons and trying to spit out what they had eaten. Both rushed out, and it wasn't long before the proprietor rushed in.

"See here, what in blazes are you talking about? What do you mean by plug tobacco in the freezer?"

"My kind friend, I asked the ladies if this cream tasted of plug tobacco. I don't taste any such taste, and I don't believe you used a bit of tobacco in it!"

"Well, you don't want to talk that way around here. My ice cream is pure and any man says it isn't tells a bold lie!"

He went away again, and a woman with a long neck and a sad face sat down and said to the girl that she would take a small dish of lemon ice.

It was brought, and she had taken about two mouthfuls, when the stranger inquired:

"Excuse me madam, but do you know how this cream was made? Have you an idea that they grated turnips and chalk with the cream?"

She didn't reply. She slowly rose up, wheeled around, and made for the door. The stranger followed after, and by great good luck his coat-tail cleared the door an instant to soon to be struck by a five-pound box of figs, hurled with great force by the indignant proprietor. As he reached the curbstone he halted looked at the door of the parlor, and soliloquized:

"There are times when people should infer, and there are times when they shouldn't. I suppose if I had asked the woman if she thought they hashed up a sawmill in the cream she'd have felt a circular saw going down the throat.

* * *

Mr. Samuel Grosh having purchase the interest of his partner, Mr. Tarney in the Lower Flouring Mill, will here after conduct it alone. He is manufacturing a splendid brand of flour and keeps mill feed constantly on hand! Mr Grnish, is an experienced miller, will assist in turning out flour that cannot fail to suit everybody. tf

NOW AND THEN

[From the Vicksburg Herald.

A very intelligent old darky was met by an ante-bellum friend the other day for the first time since the war, and the old man's delight at seeing one of Massa's tickler friends in old times was unbounded. After a hearty hand-shaking and a protracted laugh peculiar to the Southern darkeys, the gentleman asked:

"Well, Uncle Joe, how are you getting along in the world?"

"Sorter slow, Marse——. Been had rheumatiz right smart, and things ain't going 'zactly right nohow," replied the darkey.

"A great many changes have taken place since I last saw you, Joe. Death has taken your old master away, the family are scattered about the four quarters of the globe, the farm is divided up and strangers occupy the old house. It makes one feel right sad, Joe, to think of the changes that have been wrought by old Father Time."

"Yaas," replied Uncle Joe. "You 'member when I was a slave I worked hard at add times and made money 'nuff to buy myself. I paid old massa $1,000 for my freedom."

"Yes," said Mr.——, "I remember it well."

"Wish I had that money now," diffused the old darkey.

"Well, yes, it would be quite a fortune for you."

"Lots o' fortune sar, and every time I think about it I kinder rue de bargain. Nigger was wuff $1,000 den, but now he ain't wuff a d——. Mighty changes in dis world, massa.

IT WON'T DO.

Morton said in Ohio last Saturday "That even in Kentucky, just over the river, no Union soldier, be he ever so loud in his professions of Democracy, can be elected Constable if any Confederate soldiers wants the place."

And the Enquirer answers him as follows.

And Kentucky has just nailed the lie by electing two Union soldiers to prominent offices. He comes to Ohio to say that "even in the North the men who opposed the war by every means in their power, of the kind I before described, are the only accepted and trusted leaders of the Democratic party." He tells the Democrats of Ohio that they are trying to secede to break up the Union; that they will not nominate any body for any office who was not a secessionist, that the Ohio Democrats trust nobody who did not "oppose the war." This is a stupendious falsehood. Since the war closed the Ohio Democrats have nominated for the Governorship Rosecrands, Morgan and McCook. The Democrats of Cincinnati have nominated Col. L. A. Harris for the Mayoralty. We have elected Gen. Banning, Col. Rice and Col. Vance to the forty-fourth Congress. A large portion of the policemen of Cincinnati ex-Union soldiers. We nominated Wiley, a brave soldier for Secretaryship of State. We helped to nominate McClellan for the presidency. We have sent Col. L. D. Campbell to Congress. We have nominated Gen. Durbin Ward for Congress. We sent General Steedman to the Constitutional Convention; We sent Gen. Ewing to Constitutional Convention, and he is to day an honored and influential member of the Democratic party. There's few of the facts in Ohio, which show the lying, infinite impudence of the Indiana renegade,

The Swells at Saratoga.

Conversations as varied as the crowd greet your ear on every hand in Saratoga Last night, writes Eli Perkins, Mr Johnson form Oil City was talking with Miss Eliza Gardner of Boston. Mr Johnson drives a tandem dog cart, and wears English clothes; but, alas! his literary knowledge is limited.

As Mr. Johnson and Miss Eliza Gardner promenaded up and down the balcony, the lady remarked:

"By the way, Mr. Johnson, have you 'The Woman in White,' by Wilkie Collins?"

',By who, Miss Gardner?"

"By Wilkie Collins?"

"Well, I don't think I've seen her, Miss Gardner. In fact, I know very few people here, and I don't believe I know Mr. Collins at all."

"But 'The Woman in White,' Mr. Johnson, by—"

"O yes! I see. The woman in white by Mr. Collins is just beyond the woman in dark blue by Mr. Belmont," interrupted Mr Johnson, wiping his eye glasses with a "Bon Marche" handkerchief.

I came away in sorrow, for I had been smoking Mr. Johnson's cigars all the afternoon.

THE WIDOW'S APPEAL.

Tempt not my boy, accursed bowl!
Tempt not my bright-eyed angel boy;
He is the star that lights my soul—
Soothes my long grief with pride and joy.
He is my youngest born—
The last I have me left;
Make not my home forlorn,
And leave it all bereft!

His father lies in yonder grave,
Two other graves are there beside;
Both sire and sons, in death's cold wave,
Now take their rest side by side;
'Twas thou, mad bowl, that slew,
And left me but this one;
Wage not thy battle through—
Oh spare my darling son!

All else to thee I'll freely give,
All sacrifice on thee bestow—
If thou wilt let the lambkin live,
Nor leave me joyless here below.
Lure not his lips to taste,
Dim not his thoughtless eye,
Else soon thy scourge will waste—
The victim early die.

Oh, save the mother's bleeding woe,
Show mercy to the widow now,
For I may bear the long ago,
And 'neath hope's altar bow.
But spare, oh, spare my boy,
Touch not his youthful head;
He is a mother's joy,
That lives when all are dead!

Oh, guide the fearful shaft away,
Hurl not the dart with fatal aim;
I'll teach him prayers to fondly say
In grateful thanks unto thy name.
In virtues ways he'll go,
Till God shall bid him come—
His heart be free from woe,
And heaven his final home.

THE TWO HUNCHBACKS.

A LEGEND BY "BADGER."

It was a very long time ago. But the sun shone brightly then as now; the trees and flowers put forth their leaves, and blossomed in the same old way; the men swore and drank, and the women gossiped as enviously of their more fortunate sisters as they do now, though it was a very long time ago, and in a foreign country. In this country a queer little city was nestled in a queer little vale, beneath the queerests of snow-tipped mountains. And there were many queer people in this city, as there have been in every city, before or since.

Gottlieb Greed was the chief man in the city. He was the head of the government, and before him were brought all the offenders against the peace whom his six trusty officers could discover. In him was vested the power to punish, even unto death, all who in his judgment deserved the penalty. So, you see, Gottlieb Greed was a great man, though he did live a very long time ago, and although you never heard of him before.

When Gottlieb Greed was elevated to his proud position in the queer little city, he was a poor man, the son of a sausage-maker. But Gottlieb had rare acquirements, chief among which, in the eyes of the neighbors, was the fact that he could preserve a sober identity under a greater load of beer than any of his guzzling brethren. Moreover he was an orator, and when well filled with the voluble beverage he could out-talk any other citizen, male or female. No wonder, then, that on the day of his election, when all the people assembled to listen to the speeches of the candidates, Gottlieb Greed ascended the rostrum, and, raising a keg of beer with his hands, placed the open bung to his capacious mouth, and drained every drop without a pause, and supplemented this feat with the longest and loudest, if not the most intelligent of the speeches—no wonder, I say, the hearts and suffrages of his fellow-citizens were captured together, and sundown of that day decided Gottlieb Greed to be the Chief Magistrate, as he was the chief of the beer-bibbers of that city.

Gottlieb's position was fast gaining him great wealth, and as no traveler in crossing the mountains could avoid resting awhile in the city under his charge, gave him opportunities for fleecing the stranger, he was not slow in availing himself. Still, he did not accumulate wealth fast enough to suit him. His greatest treasure was his daughter, but Gottlieb did not know it. A beautiful girl was Minnie Greed, with a sweet and confiding nature, and she truly loved her father.

The richest as well as the queerest of the citizens was a little hunchback named Christian Cranky. Christian was the only child of wealthy parents, who had idolized him in spite of his deformity, and he had been petted and humored until, though the little fellow had been named Christian by his misguided parents, he was a very little devil in disposition. But though willful and mean, he had a sharper intellect than any of of his beer-drinking associates, and was one of the first to discover the beauty and value of Minnie Greed. He also had the courage to sue for her hand, well knowing the failing of the father, and the submissive disposition of the daughter. Of course Gottlieb was in no way displeased with the prospect of more wealth, and of course Minnie objected strenuously to be thus mated for life, but finding that all her arguments and pleadings only elicited the decisive reply from Gottlieb: "You must marry the hunchback," like the dutiful daughters of a bygone age, she reconciled herself to her fate, to please her great father, and submitted to the attentions of Christian.

Christian Cranky had a carriage made expressly to assist him in advancing his suit with the sweet Minnie, and together they would drive through the little city, and up the steep mountain roads, where Minnie delighted to watch the giddy caperings of the waterfalls and cascades, or gaze downward with awe from the brink of the precipice. And how Christian would answer the contemptuous looks he received from the well formed young men of the city as he passed them in his fine carriage with the bewitching creature at his side. His pinched and wasted face would whiten with malignant rage as he returned their envious glances with scornful smiles, thinking with satisfaction to himself: "If I am a hunchback, brains and money are too much for you finely-built clowns."

One day, while taking the accustomed drive, Minnie was attracted by a singular object seated near the principal store of the city. It was the figure of a hunchback, as clumsily formed as Christian himself. Before him was a large basket filled with bouquets of wild flowers, each arranged with consummate taste and care. But little higher than the band of the basket was the head of the hunchback, displaying a fresh and ruddy face, as bright and round as the full moon, and looking as pleasing as one of his own bouquets.

"Why, Christian," exclaimed Minnie, "I never saw that poor little boy before. What beautiful bouquets he has. Stop and let me see them."

So Minnie descended from the carriage and approached the singular-looking vender of flowers.

"How do you sell your bouquets, my boy?" she asked.

"Please take any you wish for one groschen," replied the hunchback, eagerly displaying them to their best advantage.

"Why, how cheap they are. Where do you get them?"

"I gather them in the woods near my home, sweet lady, and I arrange them myself, so that I can afford to sell them cheap, as they cost me nothing but my time."

"Where do you live, my poor boy, and whose child are you?"

"I live in the Black Forest, kind lady. My name is Adam Constant, and my father is the charcoal burner; but I am not a child," he said, unavoidably displaying a beautiful set of teeth, "for I am 19 years old."

"Why, you are older than I am," said Minnie, astonished, and smiling in return, "I can hardly believe you. How long have you been selling bouquets?"

"Yesterday was the first time I brought them to town," replied Adam. "Mother has been bed-ridden with sickness for some time, and father has neglected his work so much that I thought I would try and make a little money to help us along, and I think I shall do very well. The walking is the worst part of it. It is eight miles from here to our home."

"You deserve to succeed," said Minnie. "I will take these two bouquets," she continued, handing him a silver piece," and I don't want any change."

"O thank you, young lady, many times," cried Adam, with joyous gratitude beaming from his fresh, boyish countenance, and bright eyes, as Minnie tripped gaily and pleasantly to the carriage.

"That is not a boy, he is a young man," exclaimed Minnie to Christian, as she re-entered the carriage. "And see what taste he has; he arranged the flowers himself. You wouldn't believe what a pleasant, nice young man he is. What a pity he is deformed," she said, forgetfully. "He says he is 19 years old. I am going to patronize him every time we go out."

Christian was either angry at Minnie's unfortunate allusion to deformity, or filled with envy and jealousy that this rival hunchback should make more impression upon Minnie's sympathies, with his happy face and good-natured conversation, in three minutes, than he had in so much time, with all his money and advantages. Certain it is that a white spot suddenly appeared upon each side of his peaked nose, and his eyes sparkled viciously. He said little, but meditated mischief against happy Adam in case Minnie should patronize him.

The following day found Adam again at his post, with fresh flowers in his basket, and fresher smiles on his cheerful face. And what a joyous one bloomed on his countenance as he observed the lovely patron of the day before directing Christian to himself. Yes, again she came and purchased his bouquets, and again did Christian find himself compelled to hand over his silver to humor the whim of the beautiful Minnie. But this time he was not prudent enough to conceal his vexation, and he upbraided Minnie as much as he dared for what he termed her foolish patronage of an idle vagabond. And then Minnie got angry with Christian, and told him if he only had the happy disposition of the "vagabond" she should really like him, but that he was a hateful, cross thing, and if he didn't like her opinion of him, he needn't come to see her again. And then Christian endeavored to soothe her ruffled temper, and at the same time secretly vowed vengeance upon the unlucky Adam.

Christian owned many houses in the little city, and among his tenants were the rich and poor, good and bad. That night Christian visited one of the poorest and meanest of his houses, tenanted by two wicked, drunken brothers. He found them at home, and after plying them with beer, secretly announced the object of his visit, and as he left the house a gleam of satisfied pleasure overspread his otherwise sour-looking face. He had hired the wicked brothers to murder poor Adam.

Next day found Adam at his post, and again did Christian place a silver piece in Minnie's hand to purchase bouquets, but this time he even smiled as he did so, as he muttered maliciously to himself: "That is the last Minnie or any one else will give you."

On this particular day it was evident by the groups of earnest talkers in every portion of the queer little city that something unusual and of great importance had transpired, or was to occur, affecting the interests of all, and when Adam Constant prepared to start on his long tramp for home, a great crowd was gathering before the house of Gottlieb Greed, which was not only his private residence, but the general rendezvous when public meetings were necessary. And Adam followed with the throng to learn the cause of the excitement. A little listening soon gave him the desired information, and his happy, smiling face became as sober and agitated in its expression as that of any congregated about him. It appears that the inaccessible mountain fastnesses in the immediate vicinity of that queer little city had, not many years before, been the home of a monster known as the Black Giant.

This terrible creature, in the form of a magnified human being, was sixteen feet in height, and of immense brute strength. This fact would not have disturbed the peace of the people, but it was also well known that the giant had a weakness for human flesh, and formerly used to amuse himself by watching the contortions of fear in the faces of the comparatively-speaking pigmy residents of the queer little city, whom he captured in his wild retreats, and afterward gratified his appetite by transferring them from their happy homes to a final resting-place in his capacious jaws. This monster was reported to be back again in his old haunts. No wonder, then, every one was excited; even the beer was untasted and forgotten, and all waited anxiously for counsel and advice from their great Chief Magistrate, Gottlieb Greed.

Soon a shout of acclamation went up as the portly form of this worthy appeared at an open window. But his face was pale, and his voice faltered. Though Gottlieb was able to quaff a keg of beer in a single draught, he felt he was not able to cope with the Black Giant. All he could do was to confirm the rumors of the reappearance of the monster, and to confess that no life was safe unless some measure could be devised to exterminate him. As an inducement to this end, he declared that any single man who should successfully accomplish this object, should be rewarded with his daughter, who had suggested the proposition, in marriage, and he wished the people to add to this offer that the choice of any home in the city should be conceded as a right to the conqueror of this formidable enemy. To all of which the trembling crowd assented as they stared vacantly about to discover some one with sufficient resolution and cunning to rid them of the calamity which had befallen them.

The men were appointed and armed to guard the entrances of the city during the night, and Adam hurriedly departed for home to tell his parents the dreadful news. To save time he left the highway and entered the forest, to reach home by a shorter route, thinking of the Black Giant in the mountains, and wondering what scheme could be devised to kill him, and thus secure the lovely Minnie Greed. But poor Adam little thought what personal danger he was in himself, for if he had looked suddenly behind him, he would have discovered two men following closely—the brothers hired to murder him. Adam had no thought of danger to himself. He was now passing a beautiful part of the forest, just as the sun was sinking in the western horizon, and the shadows of the huge tree trunks were stretching their greatest length, like ominous fingers pointing to the wicked brothers behind him.

Poor Adam reached a spot near the bank of a ravine, through which danced merrily a clear, pure stream of water. There he paused in pleasure as he surveyed a natural bed of beautiful wild flowers, already closing their petals for the night.

"Go to sleep, pretty ones," he spoke aloud; "to-morrow, early, when you awake, I shall be here, and prepare you for an introduction to a flower lovelier than either of you—the beautiful Minnie Greed. And you, dainty one," taking a splendid blossom of the rose in his fingers, "shall be head center of the finest bouquet that can be culled in the Black Forest."

And then Adam quickened his steps for home, a mile distant, gaily whistling as he went. Immediately from behind the trees came the two brothers, one looking angry, the other crest-fallen.

"Why wouldn't you step in and finish him here?" remarked the first, "we couldn't have had a better chance. Anybody wouldn't suppose you were afraid of the little hunchback."

"You know better than that," replied the other, surlily. "But I tell you what, I don't like the idea of butchering a helpless object like that, and don't forget we owe Christian Cranky a grudge for bundling us out of our old home into the hole we live in now. I propose we give this poor little devil a chance to live, and still secure Cranky's gold. Adam will be here before sunrise in the morning to pick these flowers. Now let us dig a pit-fall for him right under this rosebush he was talking to, and cover it carefully. If he gets in, he will never get out again, and we can swear to Cranky that he is safe eight feet under ground. If he don't get in, he's in luck. We shall get our pay anyway to-morrow, and Christian would dare to say much about it if he found out we had swindled him."

This proposition being accepted, the brothers went in quest of spades, returning with which they dug a large and deep pit, wide at the bottom and narrow above, which they covered cunningly with willow twigs, and laid over all the flowers which had bloomed on the spot, so that it would have required sharp eyes and study to discover anything suspicious in the appearance of the ground, and after concealing the earth taken from the pit in the little stream, they left hurriedly, as wild animals made the Black Forest a dangerous place after dark.

Early the following morning Adam arose and wended his way to the trap prepared for him, whistling as he went. When he reached the rosebush he was saved from falling into the pit by hearing unusual sounds, and looking cautiously about he discovered a rent in the ground at his feet, from which the noise proceeded. Though considerably alarmed, Adam cried out, "Is anybody there?"

"Yes," said a weak voice. "Oh, please get me out, I'm so frightened."

"Who are you?" said Adam.

"I'm only a poor little rabbit," said the weak voice. "But there's a fox in here, too; and a bear, and a lion, and I'm so frightened—please get me out."

"Get me out, too," growled the bear.

"Go and get a rope," barked the fox, "and I'll get myself out."

"Get us all out," roared the lion, "I won't hurt you, and I'll see that the bear don't."

"Oh please get me out quick," reiterated the rabbit, "I'm so frightened."

So Adam hurried back for a rope, returning with which, he found the four strange prisoners impatiently waiting him. As he lowered the rope into the pit, the rabbit seized it, and was hauled out by Adam, when the frightened rabbit ran behind a tree to watch the release of the others.

Next came the fox. "Tie one end of the rope to a tree," he said, "and the bear and the lion will climb out."

Adam did so, and a huge brown bear shambled out of the pit, immediately followed by an enormous lion.

"Not so fast, gentlemen," cried the fox to these two, as they started off in different directions, "Don't go off without saying, 'thank you.' Wait and see if we can do anything in return for this kindness."

Adam then asked the fox if he could think how the pit came there, as it was not there the night before; to which the fox replied that he heard two men talking in the forest, and they spoke of their landlord, Christian Cranky, hiring them to kill a man named Adam.

"That's me," interrupted Adam.

"Then they must have dug the pit for you and not for us," said the fox. "But is there anything we could do for you before we go?"

Adam thought a moment, and then told the story of the Black Giant, and how happy he should be if he could rid the people of him, and rescue Minnie Greed out of wicked Cranky's hands.

The fox then consulted with the bear and lion, and turning to Adam, said: "If you will get your father's best ax, and have the courage to use it, you shall kill the Black Giant to-day! Then spying the rabbit's ears behind the tree, he continued: "We shall need you, too, Mr. Rabbit."

"Oh I don't want to go," said the rabbit, "I shan't be of any use, and—I'm so frightened."

"Be quiet," replied the fox. "You are more troublesome than old old man's nose. You must go, though, and you will have nothing to do but to see how fast you can run."

Then Adam again went home and returned with the ax, and soon the whole party were conducted by the fox through woods and mountains to the giant's cave. It was a dreadful looking place, littered with bones on the rocks outside, and the entrance to the cave was low and small, forcing the giant to crawl in and out on hands and knees. A loud, monotonous sound issued from the cave. The giant was sound asleep and snoring. Soon the terrible roar of a lion was heard, waking the giant from his sleep. As he thrust his huge shaggy head from the mouth of the cave into the open air a rabbit darted by him, quickly followed by a fox, and after the fox a bear, and after the bear a lion.

"Well," ejaculated the giant, "that is the strangest thing I ever saw in all my born days!"

After looking about him in wonder for a short time, he again retired to sleep. In a few minutes the roar of the lion was heard, louder than before. Again the giant thrust out his huge, shaggy head; again the rabbit darted past his face; again followed the fox, and the fox by the bear, and the bear by the lion.

"Well, that beats all that I ever did see!" said the astonished giant. "But I'll put a stop to your little game if you come again." So saying he drew back his head, and held up his great hands in readiness to pounce on the rabbit in case he should again attempt to pass.

Soon the roar of the lion sounded close to the cave; the rabbit was flying past, and the giant in his haste to catch him was sprawling upon the ground, when from the sides of the cave sprang the bear and the lion, each seizing an ear of the giant, and pinning him firmly to the rock. Immediately Adam appeared with his ax, and climbing upon the giant's neck, dispatched him without much trouble.

How proud Adam felt then, and how pleased was the cunning fox at the success of his stratagem.

"Please let me go now," said the rabbit, "for I am so frightened."

"Yes, you may go," said the fox.

So the rabbit sought his burrow, and the fox, and the bear, and the lion went their several ways, while Adam, after severing a finger of the giant to get his ring, hastened full of triumph to the queer little city, with the ring carried about his neck.

Another meeting was assembled before Gottlieb Greed's house to devise measures for dispatching the Black Giant. The beautiful Minnie herself implored the people to be valiant and brave. Mingled with the crowd, Christian Cranky was just about to pay the two brothers a sum of money for the supposed death of Adam, when his eye caught sight of the radiant face of that worthy himself, and with a stifled cry of alarm Christian hurried to his home. Adam edged his way to the house of Gottleib Greed, and in a firm voice announced to the crowd that he had himself killed the giant, that he might be rewarded with the hand of the beautiful Minnie, whom he truly loved.

The people were incredulous, but when Adam confidently took the ring from his shoulders and presented it to Minnie as a trophy, and declared himself ready to escort Gottlieb Greed and all who would follow to the dead body of the giant, all felt that he told the truth, and a tremendous shout of acclamation went up from the multitude, who were speedily on their way to the giant's cave. Here the truth was fully realized, and after all had satisfied their curiosity with a sight of the monster, he was dragged into his cave—never more to awake with the roar of the lion—and the entrance closed with stones. Then poor little Adam Constant, the hunchback conqueror, was elevated on the shoulders of stalwart men and carried in honor to Gottlieb Greed's house.

That evening Adam related the story of Cranky's treachery to Minnie and her father. Gottlieb's breast swelled like a pigeon's with indignation, and he immediately gave orders that Christian Cranky should be arrested as a would-be murderer, and brought before him for trial and punishment. Then Gottlieb expressed his satisfaction to Minnie with the remark: "I am thankful, my daughter, for having been prevented from sacrificing you to that little wretch, Cranky."

"Yes, father, so am I; but recollect your vow—I must marry the hunchback."

Gottlieb's officers departed to execute his orders. As they approached his house Christian appeared driving his carriage. Apparently divining the intention of the officers, Christian turned from them and lashed his horses into a gallop. The officers procured saddle horses and quickly followed him. Away they rattled along the highway to the mountains, over which Christian had so often escorted Minnie Greed. Faster and faster rode the officers and more wildly and furiously did Christian lash his horses. And now, at headlong speed, the carriage was nearing a point in the highway where Minnie always wished to stop. Here the road made a sharp curve around a spur of the mountain, leaving upon one side a perpendicular precipice, extending a thousand feet below the narrow road. Bent only on escaping his pursuers, Christian made no effort to check his dangerous speed, and in another instant the carriage went whirling over the precipice, dragging the horses with it, and all were dashed to pieces on the rocks below.

The next was another day of excitement in the queer little city, for the beautiful Minnie Greed was to be married to the hunchback, who would select any residence he chose for their future home. Adam chose the house of Christian Cranky, and the marriage took place before all the people, who drank long life and happiness to the victor of the Black Giant and the lovely bride. And as Gottlieb Greed proposed his toast, he performed the famous feat of drinking a keg of beer from the bung-hole without pausing, and then danced in the giddy waltz, with his load and his daughter, amid the huzzas of his admirers.

So Minnie Greed did marry the hunchback, and peace and happiness reigned ever after in the queer little city.

BROOKLYN'S SCANDAL.

The Tilton-Beecher Trial to be Re-opened in September.

[From the New York Herald.]

Yesterday afternoon ex-Judge Samuel D. Morris served the following formal notice on Messrs. Shearman and Sterling, Attorneys of Record for Mr. Beecher:

City Court of Brooklyn—Theodore Tilton against Henry Ward Beecher.—Please to take notice that the issue of fact in the above action will be brought on for trial, and an inquest taken thereon at the next term of the City Court of Brooklyn, appointed to be held at the City Court-House, in the city of Brooklyn, in said County of Kings, on the first Monday of September next, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of that day, or as soon thereafter as counsel can be heard, unless sooner tried.

Dated the 2d day of August, 1875.

Yours, etc., MORRIS & PEARSALL,
Attorneys for plaintiff, No. 193 Montague street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

To Shearman & Sterling, attorneys for defendant.

The date thus fixed for the new trial demanded by counsel for Theodore Tilton was the earliest that could be selected, for the reason that all the courts in Brooklyn have adjourned until September. Mr. Morris declared that it was his intention to place the suit on record in the city court, and hoped that it would find a leading place in the calendar. He took this view because the issue between Theodore Tilton and Henry Ward Beecher is yet unsettled, the jury having disagreed and failed to bring in a verdict.

In the meantime speculation is rife among people as to whether the plaintiff, Theodore Tilton, really is in possession of any new evidence upon which to seek a verdict. Ex-Judge Morris claims that he has some new evidence to bring before the jury, and Gen. Tracy is of the opinion that, in the event of a new trial, the defense will not be a long one.

It is also argued that it will be almost an impossibility to find twelve men in Brooklyn who are not thoroughly "read up" on the case and have formed an opinion on either one side or other. There are very few citizens of Kings county who could relish the idea of being forced to take a seat in the jury-box on a trial like the last one in the scandal case. Brooklyn jurors will not be likely to forget that the Tilton-Beecher jury were taken away from their legitimate business for half a year at a stipend of $2 per day and a dinner. That they were voted an "extra" compensation by the State Legislature, which act raised their expectations of reward, and the Board of Supervisors failed to give them the money; that finally they were locked up in a court-room, and after eight days discussing the testimony, failed to agree. All these circumstances combine to create a natural abhorrence to jury business where the principals are the same as appeared in the great scandal trial of the age.

The defendant's counsel took the matter very coolly, and they declare themselves quite as ready for trial as the plaintiff could be. They will take the usual steps, and if the case comes to court, fight the issue to the bitter end. Judging from the statements made by the counsel on both sides, quite a lively contest will be the result, though it is evident that the proposed trial will not be a very long one.

A Kentucky Tragedy.

[Cynthiana (Ky.) Cor. Cincinnati Enquirer.]

A terrible double tragedy occurred here this evening, in which Dr. E. J. Peckover and Dr. C. L. Donnally were both killed. It seems that they had an altercation yesterday about some pecuniary matters, and Peckover called Donnally a liar. But nothing serious was thought of the matter until this evening.

About 5 o'clock Dr. Donnally was near Dr. Peckover's office-door, when, Peckover coming out, Dr. Donnally called to him and said: "You called me a liar yesterday," and as Dr. Peckover turned around facing him Donnally deliberately shot Peckover, the ball passing through the heart, killing him almost instantly. Donnally immediately gave himself up, Deputy-Marshal H. T. Hoffman and Constable James Ewalt taking charge of him.

About a quarter before 6 o'clock, while he was still in charge of the officers in the County Judge's office, awaiting his preliminary trial, R. H. Ridgley, a brother-in-law of Dr. Peckover, rushed into the room, drew a pistol, fired and killed Donnally instantly. Ridgely is now in custody. Peckover, when shot, said to some one near by, "Donnally has shot me."

At the shooting of Donnally there were but three persons in the Judge's office—the Judge himself and the two officers above named. The crowd had gone out, and were standing around in the yard. Donnally was shot in the left side of the upper part of the abdomen, 4 inches from the navel. When shot he fell over out of the chair he was sitting in, exclaimed "Oh, God!" and died.

Both of the victims were men highly respected, and both were Masons, Peckover being a Knight Templar of the highest rank.

Vast Industry of Birmingham, England.

According to a statement in the Engineer, a week's work in Birmingham, England, comprises, among its various results, the fabrication of fourteen millions of pens, six thousand bedsteads, seven thousand guns, three hundred millions of cut nails, one hundred millions of buttons, one thousand saddles, five millions of copper or bronze coins, twenty thousand pairs of spectacles, six tons of paper mache wares, $150,000 worth of jewelry, four thousand miles of iron and steel wire, ten tons of pins, five tons of hair-pins and hooks and eyes, one hundred and thirty thousand gross of wood screws, five hundred tons of nuts and screw bolts and spikes, fifty tons of wrought iron hinges, three hundred and fifty miles' length of wax for vestas, forty tons of refined metal, forty tons of German silver, one thousand dozens of fenders, three thousand five hundred bellows, eight hundred tons of brass and copper wares—these, with a multitude of other articles, being exported to almost all parts of the globe.

THE AULD FIRESIDE.

Though cold is the hearth of our childhood home,
'Tis nearer and dearer the farther we roam
Yea, go where we will, be it near or far,
In the calm of peace, or the storm of war,
We fondly recall with a tender care
A thousand memories that centers there.
The thoughtless may laugh, and the heartless chide
Still dear to the heart is the auld fireside.

'Twas there the bright beams of young morning gay
Wove a golden wreath for the brow of day,
And hid from our view with a veil of light
The darkling shades of approaching night,
And taught us to sing as the songsters sing
In the jubilee of returning spring.
The head may be gray, still the heart has a pride
In singing a song of the auld fireside.

'Twas there the soft hand of affection twined
The tendrils of love around heart and mind,
And bound us together and the old hearth so
That we yet can feel its heart-warming glow;
And the pang we felt when with tear-dimm'd eye
We left it, our luck on life's ladder to try.
Ah, cold is the heart and of feeling void
That feels not the warmth of the auld fireside.

And there we were taught with a mother's love
And a father's care of a home above,
And learned the story of love divine,
With its cross and crown, and the countersign
To that happy land on yon sunny shore
Where departed friends meet to part no more.
Oh, who can forget, whate'er may betide,
The dear ones that circled the auld fireside?

The faithful father, the loving mother,
The gentle sister, the manly brother,
Now hither and thither asunder torn,
Far, far from the home of life's mirthful morn
No more to meet an unbroken band,
Until we meet in the fatherland,
When death nor life shall again divide
United friends of the auld fireside.
A—nonymous.

Pith and Point.

A POPULAR brand of cigars—Contraband.

THE cost of remembering a man can be counted by the price of his monument.

IT is singular that some of the "boys" get up just as tired Monday morning as they retired Saturday night.

THE Blackfeet Indians cannot divorce a wife, but they can lead her out on the prairie and club her to death.

AN Englishman was lately struck by lightning out West, and they spoke of him as a "blarsted Britisher."

JOSH BILLINGS says: "I never knu a man yet who lived bi his wits, but what spent his old age at somebody else's expense."

WHEN an editor publishes a libel in Peru he is made to eat his own words by swallowing the paper in which it is printed.

RECTOR—Those pigs of yours are in fine condition, Jarvis. Jarvis—Yes, sur, they are. Ah, sur, if we was all on us on'y as fit to die as them are, sur, we'd do!—Funny Folks.

"GIVE the devil his dew," said a pretty young lady who had spoiled her new bronze boots playing croquet in the morning.

IT is now proposed to enlist men in the army as cooks, and at each recruiting depot to establish a school for their training.

ALL boarding-houses should be built with bow windows for the accommodation of the landladies' daughters and their beaus.

NEARLY 100,000 people have been killed by violence during the past year, and yet women will stand on the back of a chair to reach to the top shelf of the pantry.

WHEN a Cass avenue husband went home the other night and handed his wife a gold locket she reached her arms around him and exclaimed: "Oh! you dear old pippin! there was never another man like you!" Next day he went home and found her getting ready to go on an excursion, and he put his foot down and told her to remain at home. She threw her bonnet on the floor, kicked over a chair, and remarked: "Mother always said I'd marry the meanest man in Michigan."—Detroit Free Press.

An Affectionate Brother.

A couple of enterprising Israelites, doing the clothing business in Atlanta, are interviewed by a customer in search of a coat. The senior member of the firm handles the new comer, and soon finds "a first-class fit." In answer to the price, the response is, "$18."

"Well, sir, I like your coat very much, but don't like the price."

"Well, mine frent, ze price is nothing so you like ze coat. We let you take 'em at $15."

The customer still complains of the price, saying that $15 is too much. The dealer takes his customer to the extreme end of the store, and, drawing him into a corner, whispers in his ear: "Mine frent, I let you have zat coat for $12.50."

"Well, sir," says the customer, "I like your coat very much, and am satisfied with the price, yet I would like to know why this mysterious performance?"

"Vell, mine frent, you see dot leetle man dare? He was mine broder. He got ze heart disease; and so help me gracious, if he was to hear me tell you I take $12.50 for dat coat, he drop ded mit his track."

A Three-Minute Horse Thirty-Three Years Old.

There is a horse here who is a subject of interest on account of his age; he is thirty-four, and sprightly as a kitten; he belongs to Col. Richardson, of the Geneva Bank, who has owned him for ten years, and can trace his genealogy back to his Morgan sire. He is a bright bay, pretty as a picture, intelligent, gentle, and as particular about his oats as ever he was. His eye is bright and his teeth good. He was the leading spirit in one livery stable for ten years, and there is work in the old horse yet. Mr. Buell, the Postmaster here, and son-in-law of Mr. Richardson, took us out for a ride after him and he gave us a three-minute gate without any coaxing. He will go just as faithfully with a child driving him, and if the lines are dropped, he will turn out as if guided to his side of the road.—Geneva (Wis.) Cor. Chicago Post.

A New Danger.

It is said that marble-top tables are to be avoided, because they are cold, and rapidly absorb the heat and vitality of the body, robbing it of its life. We have heard of one invalid whom the doctor could not cure, until one day he noticed she used a marble stand, and suspected it had something to do with her ill health. So he forbade her touching it. Soon she was cured. We know healthy people who feel twinges of pain in a shoulder by sitting near one. They are handsome, but unhealthy for all that.

ARMED HOSTS.

The Military Strength of Europe—Roster of the Destructive Forces of one Continent.

[From the Army and Navy Journal.]

Capt. Vincent, Royal Berks militia, delivered a lecture on the above subject at the theater of the Royal United States Service Institution, London, on the afternoon of June 18. Gen. Sir William Codrington occupied the chair. Capt. Vincent contented himself by making a hasty review of the armed establishments of each nation—the following being, as he tells us, the forces which each country ought to count upon in an hour of necessity:

Holland—68 battalions of infantry of 5 companies; 111 companies of engineers, transport corps, etc.; 24 squadrons of cavalry, 4 to a regiment; 13 batteries of artillery of 6 guns, with a "combatant" strength of 90,260 infantry, armed with the Snider and Beaumont breech-loaders; 3,850 cavalry, with 108 bronze breech-loading rifled guns. Navy—113 ships, 17 armor-plated, with 981 guns and 7,250 men.

Belgium—84 battalions (mostly of four companies of infantry) armed with Albini, Braendlin, and Comblain breech-loaders; 16 companies of engineers, 45 squadrons (14 to a regiment) of cavalry, 20 batteries (of 6 guns) of artillery, with a "combatant" total of 130,000 infantry, 7,500 cavalry, and 152 guns, on the Prussian system.

Sweden and Norway—122 battalions, mostly armed with the Remington; 15 companies of engineers, 58 squadrons of of cavalry, 40 batteries of artillery, with 152,800 infantry, 10,540 cavalry, and 322 guns, plus 20,000 volunteers. United Navy—Sixty-five vessels (five armor-plated), with 491 guns and 5,100 men.

Denmark—Five territorial brigades, 42 battalions of infantry, armed with the Snider and Remington rifles, 28 companies of engineers, 21 squadrons of cavalry, 12 batteries of artillery, with 36,050 foot, 2,100 horses, and 96 guns. Navies—31 steamers (six iron-clad), three of which have been converted on the French model, and of the remainder the Odin, of Danish build, a turret 8-inch armor-plated screw vessel, fitted with a peculiar steel ram, six feet in length, and hidden, when not required, in the hull. The Odin carries four 10-inch 19-ton guns.

Germany (including Bavaria)—Peace establishment, 18,079 officers, 401,059 men, 97,379 horses. War establishment, 31,495 officers, 1,273,346 men, with about 1,000,000 combatants, 270,920 horses, and 2,472 field guns. In addition the new landsturm bill provides an organized force for the defense of German hearths and homes. The lansturm is divided into two classes. The first, including all able-bodied men not already in the army, distributed into 298 battalions, and calculated to produce 175,800 men. This addition will bring the German war strength to over 1,700,000 men. Navy manned by some 9,000 officers and men, the latter drawn by conscription from the sea-faring population, estimated at 80,000, who on that account are exempted from military service.

Russia—War strength, 752,000 combatant infantry, 172,000 cavalry, with 2,768 guns, including 400 mitrailleuses. In ten or fifteen years the land forces of the empire will number 2,000,000 men, of which about three-fourths will be combatant. Navy increasing every day in importance. Numerically, strength about 300 vessels, including 25 iron-clads, with an armament of over 1,500 guns.

Turkey—170,376 regulars, 148,680 reserves, 75,0000 auxiliaries, 87 irregulars; presenting a grand total of 350,000 combatant infantry, 21,000 cavalry, with 648 guns. Navy one of the finest in the world, commanded by an Englishman of no less ability than experience.

Austria—Hungary—798,172 infantry, 62,746 cavalry, and 1,616 guns. Navy thrown into the shade by the efforts that have been directed toward the army. Eight or ten iron-clads form the entire fleet.

Italy—447,264 infantry, armed mostly with the Remington breech-loader, 15,850 cavalry, and 1,240 guns. Navy, doubtful.

Portugal—About 50,000 combatants and 100 guns on a war strength. Navy, about 50 ships; not more than one-half seaworthy, with six iron-clads now building in England.

Switzerland—"Estimated" strength, 174,000 infantry, 5,000 cavalry, and 194 guns.

France—Army in process of reorganization. Navy about 350 ships; some 50 iron-clads.

In conclusion the lecturer said: "Of the fifteen States of Europe, seven have introduced universal liability to military service: Germany, Russia, Austria, France, Italy, Denmark and Switzerland. The armies of seven are recruited by conscription, or conscription and enlistment, viz.: Spain, Turkey, Sweden and Norway, Holland, Belgium, Portugal, and Greece, while in England alone are we solely dependent on voluntary enlistment. Looking at the armies of Europe from every point of view, the rapidity with which they can be mobilized, fed from reserves concentrated on any point, or maintained in the field, they may be arranged in the following order First-class—1, Germany; 2, Austria; 3, Russia; 4, France. Second-class—5, Italy; 6, England. Third-class—7, Belgium; 8, Turkey; 9, Sweden and Norway; 10, Holland; 11, Denmark; 12, Spain; 13, Portugal; 14, Switzerland; 15, Greece. Altogether, four armies of the first-class, two armies of the second, and nine armies of the third, with, in round numbers, a paper strength of seven and a half millions, and a combatant strength of five millions, with 15,000 guns, and a million and a quarter of horses."

The Abundance of Corn in the South.

The Selma (Ala.) Argus speaks of the result of efforts at the South toward the production of an increased proportion of food material, and proportionate relief from dependence upon the resources of the Northwest, as follows:

"Instead of buying corn this year to make the growing crop with, the cane-break region has plenty to spare of its own growth. The hundreds of thousands of dollars that heretofore have been annually borrowed and sent to the Northwest for corn and forage and paid for transportation, are now in the pockets of our planters, or will be as soon as their cotton is marketed. With plenty of food in their own barns and granaries, our farmers all have stock and fat mules, and some have thirty hogs for another year's bacon. This year the corn crop will be much larger than last. Next year there will be a surplus of hundreds of thousands of bushels. There will be corn, corn everywhere, corn plenty and to spare. There will be corn in abundance where there never was corn before. Cribs with bursting sides will be seen where only traditions tell of cribs in the times past."

Singular Story of a Massachusetts Family.

The Franklin (Ct.) Register says: The following extract from a private letter dated Hamilton, Mass., to one of our citizens is so singular, and at the same time authentic, that I send you the record in print, believing it will prove as interesting to the general public as it was to me:

"Did I ever tell you of the 'Bleeders' here in Hamilton? I believe not, and so I will tell you about my own astonishment, and in spirit see yours. The way of it was this: About a week ago I was here and heard of an accident which had occurred to one Charlie Foster. He had his nail torn off by machinery, and began to bleed severely. He finally bled so profusely that they summoned three doctors, but neither of them could stop it. The townspeople said, 'There is no use in getting physicians; they cannot cure him; he is one of the Bleeders.' 'The Bleeders,' cried I, 'what do you mean by that?' 'Have you not heard the story?' 'No,' replied I, curiously; 'tell me about it.' In substance it is this: Years ago, in the Salem witchcraft times, a sea captain brought his dainty, beautiful wife and little girl to Ipswich, leaving them there while he made a voyage. A Spanish nurse accompanied them. The child was like her mother, beautiful. She was, however, of a peevish temperament, and caused the nurse considerable trouble. Possessed with the spirit of wickedness, the Spanish woman opened a vein in the child's arm at intervals, and threatening the severest punishment if she told, finally succeeded in bleeding her to death. The mother by some chance found it out, and the horror of it caused a decline, of which she died. On her death-bed, calling the nurse to her side she told her that she knew of the crime, and cursed her with fearful words, to the effect that every son the woman should bear should bleed to death, and that the sons of every daughter of her line to the latest generation should come to the grave in the same way. Mrs. Martha Hoyt, of Salem, an elderly lady, who has lived in that town all her life, and knows perfectly well the fated family, says that within her personal recollection there are five sons who have met their death by bleeding. My uncle, also, says that even when a child, the 'Family of Bleeders' was a household word, and his grandparents frequently told of their knowledge of the apparent success of the curse. One was slightly wounded, one died of hemorrhage, one bled from the nose, and in fact it is well known in this vicinity that what I tell you is true. Will you not admit that it is very strange? I should add that Charles Foster, despite all efforts, died."

Death of Hans Christian Anderssen.

The gifted Danish writer, Hans Christian Anderssen, is dead. The cable conveys the sad intelligence of his loss to literature and usefulness, he having passed away at Copenhagen yesterday, aged 70 years and about three months. From poverty this renowned author started on his way to fame, his father being an indigent shoemaker at Odense, on the island of Funen, where Hans was born. The boy's education was received at a free academy in Copenhagen at the expense of the State. At an early age he began his literary career, furnishing a number of little stories which found public favor. Ever a protege of the government, he was permitted to travel over Europe by the King of Denmark, his expenses being paid by his royal friend. After the experience of this trip, the young author launched forth into a busy life of literary labor, producing poems, stories, romances, and fairy tales in abundance, winning notice and popularity at every step. Toward the close of his life he became more and more the children's friend, delighting the youth by the quaint and humorous productions of his imagination. That which Hans Christian Anderssen wrote beautiful and pure, and of the most elevating and ennobling influence. His life was a blessing to the world, and all good people will mourn his death.

Another Cure for Insomnia.

A great many persons suffer from sleeplessness; and it doesn't help the matter at all to know that insomnia is the technical name of the trouble. Various remedies have been proposed for this affection. Dr. Franklin advised sufferers to get up and walk about the room in the airy drapery of night. Counting a thousand or any great number; imagining that you see a flock of sheep, one by one jumping over a fence; reading ——'s last book of poems; breathing steadily from the nostrils, and fancying the breath is seen coming from them—all these and a thousand other remedies have been recommended by the wise and tried by the wakeful. And now Mr. Frank Buckland, the clever naturalist, has discovered that there is nothing like eating two or three raw onions before going to bed. Those who cannot swallow them may have them stewed; but whether the sleep they may bring will be balmy is a question. But should this fail, Mr. Buckland advises the heroic treatment of eating hard-boiled eggs, with a plenty of bread and cheese, before retiring. If nothing more this will insure the sight of your grandmother before morning. The Bishop of Oxford, Dr. Wilberforce, when he couldn't sleep, used to repeat very slowly the vowels, A E I O U, forcibly pronouncing them with each inspiration and expiration.

The Gen. Preston who made that crazy speech to the Virginia alumni used to be one of the richest men in South Carolina. He had some hundreds of slaves, and the finest house and grounds in Columbia. The war stripped him of his property and his kindred.

The man who takes too much punch makes a Judy of himself.

Historical Items.

The white rose was the badge of the English house of York, and the Red that of Lancaster.

The substance of the story of John Gilpin was told to Cowper by a lady, but whether as a true story or as a myth, does not appear.

Prior to 1760 carpets were not known in New York, but in the papers of that year Matthew Wilder advertised a variety imported from Scotland.

Ramsgate Harbor is the largest artificial haven in England. The two piers extend about 800 feet into the sea, and, bending toward each other, inclose an area of forty-six acres.

Boiling to death occurred in England in 1532. The victim was Rouse, the Bishop of Rochester's cook, who had poisoned seventeen persons. Margaret Davie, a young woman, suffered in the same manner for a similar crime, in 1541.

Mason and Dixon's Line was the name given the Southern boundary of Pennsylvania which separated that free State from the slave States of Virginia and Maryland. It was run by Charles Mason and Jeremiah Dixon, two English surveyors, between Nov. 15, 1763, and Dec. 26, 1776. During the exciting debates in Congress in 1820 on the question of excluding slavery from Missouri, the eccentric John Randolph, of Virginia, made frequent use of the term, which was caught up by the newspapers, and thus gained a celebrity that it yet retains.

The South Sea Bubble was a destructive speculation that commenced in England in 1710, and the company was incorporated by statute in 1716. The bubble, which ruined thousands of families, exploded in 1720, and the directors' estates, to the value of £2,014,000, were seized in 1721. The cashier, Mr. Knight, absconded with £100,000, but he compromised the fraud for £10,000, and returned to England in 1743. The original projector of these schemes was John Law, of Edinburgh, who raised himself to the position of Controller-General of the finances of France upon the scheme. The object of the South Sea, as well as Law's bubble, was the establishment of banks, East India and South Sea companies, from which it was expected fabulous profits would be realized.

Trade Recipes.

To write on absorbent paper: Take one drachm of alum, dissolve in three ounces of spring-water, sponge the paper with it; use when dry. Common ink mixed with gum-water can be used on this sort of paper as well. The paper used for foreign books will be found to be of this kind; therefore the recipes will be useful for taking notes on. To make copying-ink: To one pint and a half of black ink add one ounce of loaf-sugar. To remove grease-stains from books: Take "india-rubber solution," lay on a coat, and leave to dry; then remove with a piece of ordinary india-rubber. This is also useful and convenient for fixing prints in a scrap-book, and superior to paste or gum, as the india rubber can be removed as just described, without injury to book or engraving. To take out ink-spots: Take a little oxalic acid, dilute, apply with camel's-hair pencil, blot off with blotting-paper; two applications will obliterate ink of the present day. To make paper fireproof: Use solution of chloride of zinc, or the liquid of sulphuret of calcium or of borium, afterward steep in solution of sulphate of iron. To perfume books: Sponge both sides of the leaves with musk mixed with one or two drops of oil of Neroli, and hang up to dry. To polish old bindings: Rub dry, and use "bookbinders' varnish" with a soft sponge. To make strong paste: To two large tablespoonfuls of flour add as much powdered rosin as will cover a cent. Mix with "stout" (strong, black beer), and boil for twenty minutes. To keep from getting moldy, add fifteen grains of corrosive sublimate to every half-pint; this is poisonous.

Stopping the Paper.

Many years ago Mr. Swain, then editor of the Philadelphia Ledger, was hailed in the street by a very excited individual, who informed him, in the most emphatic terms, "I have stopped your paper, sir;" and proceeded to explain the why and wherefore, all the time gesticulating wildly. "My gracious, sir, you don't say so! Come with me to the office, and let us see if we cannot remedy the matter. It grieves me that any one should stop my paper." Arriving at the office, Mr. Swain said, "Why, my dear sir, everything seems to be going on here as usual; the editors and printers are at work, and the presses are running. I thought you had stopped my paper." Then and there the excited gentleman, whom the long walk had by that time partly cooled, said that he had stopped taking his "one copy" of the Public Ledger. Mr. Swain was profuse in his apologies for having misunderstood the meaning of his late subscriber's word, and regretted that he had given him a long tramp of about 15 blocks. The gentleman went on his way home, a wiser if not a better man. Before he left, however, he ordered that the Ledger be still sent to his address.

A Centennial Postoffice.

The Postmaster-General has perfected arrangements for a centennial postoffice at Philadelphia next year, which, for completeness of detail, shall dazzle the representatives of the "effete monarchies of Europe" as they have never been dazzled before. The amount of money appropriated for the purpose of allowing the Postoffice Department to make a display at the centennial was very small. This trouble, however, has been obviated by making the centennial postoffice a station of the main office in Philadelphia, thus giving a chance at the regular appropriations to pay its expenses. The object of this centennial postoffice is to furnish mail facilities for the small army of exhibitors and their subordinates, as well as the thousands of visitors attendant upon the exhibition, who would not desire to go away down to the main office for their mail. The clerks employed in this office will be made up of the different nationalities represented at the centennial, so that every benighted foreigner will find a fellow countryman, or one who can speak his language, in this cosmopolitan postoffice.

Extraordinary, if True.

The Boston Herald relates the following on the authority of a man who had a singular dream: "His father and mother had recently died within three or four weeks of each other, and one night in a dream he saw his mother standing by his bed, and a little distance away he saw a cot-bed, with a peculiar coverlet, on which lay a man, with his back turned toward him. His mother called him by name, and said, 'Here are $7.' He attached no significance to the dream until, when he went to the postoffice, he received a letter stating that his brother, who was on a Western railroad, had been badly crushed, and requested his presence immediately. On arriving at his brother's home he was struck with surprise when he found him lying on a cot-bed, with the same kind of a coverlet as he had seen in his dream, with his back turned toward him. The brother died, and the gentleman was still more astonished, when on settling his affairs the first bill presented was just $7 in amount. Strange as the story may seem, it is told by the man himself, and he is a gentleman whose veracity not one would impeach."

A child, when told that God was everywhere, asked, "In the room?" "Yes." "In the closet?" "Yes." "In the drawers of my desk?" "Yes, everywhere. He's in your pocket now." "No, He ain't, though." "And why not?" "Tauth I ain't dot no pottet."

Chill Cure!—Safe and Sure.—Dr. Wilhoft's Tonic is curative and protective. It will cure Chills and protect from further attacks. Its reputation is established. Its composition is simple and scientific. It contains no poison. It acts promptly and its effects are permanent. It is cheap, because it saves doctors' bills. It is harmless, speedy in action and delightful in its effects. Try it and prove all that's said. Wheelock, Finlay & Co., Proprietors, New Orleans.

For sale by all Druggists.

All the year round, Sheridan's Cavalry Condition Powders should be given to horses that are "kept up." To horses and cattle that graze in summer they should only be given in winter and spring.

Officers and soldiers who served in the army, physicians, surgeons, and eminent men and women everywhere, join in recommending Johnson's Anodyne Liniment to be the best internal and external family medicine ever invented. That's our experience.

Glen Flora Spring Water, at Waukegan, Ill., cures all kidney diseases.

How to Get a Home. See advertisement.

WHAT WE KNOW ABOUT IT.

Crystal Lake, McHenry, Ill., May 6, 1874.

Gentlemen:

I have had the very best doctors in the country treating my wife for Consumption for the last four years, and with little or no effect. A friend sent us a bottle of Indian Hemp to try, and she has used but two so far, and I am happy to say it has done her more good than all the doctoring, and she thinks she is getting well as fast as any one can expect. She is lively and hopeful, altogether like another woman. Fill and express inclosed order at once.

Gratefully,

R. M. Geer.

N. B.—This Remedy speaks for itself. A single bottle will satisfy the most skeptical. There is not a single symptom of Consumption that it does not dissipate—Night Sweats, Irritation of the Nerves, Difficult Expectorations, Sharp Pains in the Lungs, Sore Throat, Nausea at the Stomach, Inaction of the Bowels, and Wasting of the Muscles.

$2.50 per bottle, or three bottles for $6.50. Pills and Ointment, $1.25 each. Address

CRADDOCK & CO.,
1032 Race Street, Philadelphia.

Send for circular.

Asthma and Catarrh.—See D. Langell's adv't.

SILVER TIPPED SHOES

Columbus discovered America, but it has been found that the only economical Shoes for children are the celebrated Silver Tipped. Never wear out at the toe, and are worth two pairs without tips. All Dealers sell them.

"Keep your head cool and your feet dry." It has always been necessary, in order to carry this out, to set in the house and stick your head out of the window. Now put on a pair of Cable Screw Wire Boots or Shoes and walk out.

CABLE SCREW WIRE

ON SALARY only. Agents wanted, Male and Female. Address, G. B. Christian, Marion, Ohio.

OPIUM CURE. Cheap, quick, private. No pain. Dr. Armstrong, Berrien, Mich.

$10 to $25 per day. Send for Chromo Catalogue. J. H. Bufford's Sons, Boston, Mass.

NEW BOOK, "Gleanings." Now Ready. Agents address Louis Lloyd & Co., Chicago.

EVERY FAMILY WANTS IT. Money in it. Sold by Agents. Address M. N. Lovell, Erie, Pa.

WANTED AGENTS. Samples and Outfit free. Better than Gold. A. Coulter & Co., Chicago.

Guns Catalogue Free. Rudolph & Co., 1018 N. 5th St. Louis, Mo.

3 PACKAGES SEED WHEAT. Circulars of Blooded Cattle, Sheep, Hogs, Poultry, Sporting Dogs, etc., sent free for 3 stamps. N. P. Boyer, Parkesburg, Penn.

OFFICERS AND SOLDIERS who lost horses in U. S. Army, no matter how lost, can get paid. Pensions obtained for slight wounds or injuries. Pamphlet free. C. E. Arnold, Cincinnati, O.

GEO. P. ROWELL & CO.

$490 A MONTH and EXPENSES to all. Articles new, staple as flour. Samples free. C. LININGTON, NEW YORK or CHICAGO.

$250 A MONTH—Agents wanted everywhere. Business honorable and first class. Particulars sent free. Address Worth & Co., St. Louis, Mo.

AGENTS WANTED for the best, cheapest and fastest selling Bible ever published. Send for our extra terms to Agents. National Publishing Co., Chicago, Ill., or St. Louis, Mo.

CLARK'S BOOK-KEEPING. Self-instructive. Short method. Price $1.00, postpaid. Send for Circular. W. S. Clark & Co., 143 Race Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

THIS Paper is printed with Ink made by G. B. Kane & Co., 121 Dearborn Street, Chicago, and for sale by us in large or small quantities.
CHICAGO NEWSPAPER UNION,
114 Monroe Street, Chicago, Ill.

FOR SALE. Chicago Suburban Lots at $100 each, $15 down and $5 monthly for balance, within a short distance of City Limits, with hourly trains and cheap fare. Send for circulars. Ira Brown, 142 LaSalle-st., Chicago, Ill.

LADIES! Do you want the Agency in your town for the best paying business in the U. S.? If so, address, with stamp, Geo. W. Washington & Co., 141 Madison-st., Chicago, Ill.

SOMETHING for you. Sells at sight. Our Agents coin money. We have work and money for all, men or women, boys or girls, whole or spare time. Send stamp for Catalogue. Address Frank Gluck, New Bedford, Mass.

DOUBLE YOUR TRADE Druggists, Grocers and Dealers—Pure China and Japan Teas, in sealed packages, screw-top cans, boxes, or half chests—Grocers' prices. Send for circular. The Wells Tea Company, 201 Fulton-st., N. Y., P. O. Box 4560.

PENNSYLVANIA Military Academy, Chester, Pa. Opens Sept. 8th. Civil Engineering, the Classics, English and Military Arts thoroughly taught. For circulars apply to Col. Theo. Hyatt, President.

WANTED AGENTS FOR THE best-selling Prize Package in the world. It contains 15 Sheets Paper, 15 Envelopes, Golden Pen, Pen Holder, Pencil, Patent Yard Measure, and a Piece of Jewelry. Single Package, with elegant Prize, post-paid, 25 cents. Circular free. Bride & Co., 769 Broadway, New York.

WILD LIFE IN THE FAR WEST [illegible] AGENTS WANTED. [illegible] & Co., Chicago, Ill.

E. L. CANFIELD, 87 La Salle Street, Chicago, Ill., DEALER IN REAL ESTATE, Farms, Lands and Village Property. Correspondence solicited from those desiring to dispose of their real estate.

HOW TO GET A HOME.
IOWA LANDS, 800,000 ACRES.
Rich Soil, good Climate, excellent Water, growing Settlements, good Schools. We offer the Lands of the Sioux City and St. Paul R. R. and the McGregor and Missouri River R. R. at $4 to $8 per acre, on easy payments. Two years rent will buy a farm. Apply to
DAVIDSON & CALKINS,
R. R. Land Office, Sibley, Osceola Co., Iowa.

PEOPLE WILL HAVE OUR GOODS. Send 25 cents and we will send by mail, post-paid, one Lamp-Filler, with which you can fill any Kerosene Lamp without removing chimney or getting grease outside of Lamp. At same time we mail you all our circulars and terms to agents on twenty useful household articles with which any person can make from $5 to $10 daily. We want Agents everywhere. NATIONAL AGENTS' EMPORIUM, Boston, Mass.

Great Central HOTEL, CHICAGO. Market, between Washington & Madison-sts. $2.50 PER DAY. Passenger Elevator. J. APPLETON WILSON, Propr.

N. F. BURNHAM'S TURBINE WATER WHEEL Was selected, 4 years ago, and put to work in the Patent Office, Washington, D. C., and has proved to be the best. 19 sizes made. Prices lower than any other first-class Wheel. Pamphlet free. N. F. Burnham, York, Pa.

D. LANGELL'S NEW ASTHMA AND CATARRH REMEDY. Having struggled twenty years between life and death with ASTHMA, I experimented by compounding roots and herbs and inhaling the medicine. I fortunately discovered a wonderful remedy and sure cure for Asthma and Catarrh. Warranted to relieve instantly so the patient can lie down to rest and sleep comfortably. Druggists are supplied with sample packages for free distribution. Call and get one, or address D. LANGELL, Apple Creek, Ohio. Sold by Druggists. Full-size Package, by mail, $1.25.

CAUTION—NOTICE.—The GENUINE EDITION. LIFE AND LABORS OF LIVINGSTONE, (Including the "LAST JOURNALS,") unfolds vividly his 30 Years strange adventures, also the curiosities, Wonders and Wealth of that marvelous country, and is absolutely the only new complete work. Hence it Sells; just think, 12,800 first 7 weeks. Agents' success would astonish you, more wanted. Send for terms and positive proof of genuineness. Hubbard Bros., Pubs., 143 W. 4th St., Cin., O.

You Can Make Money FAST by selling our Patent Water-Proof Clothes Line. It will not Shrink, Stretch or Rot. Nothing like it in the market. This is much better and cheaper than the White-Wire Clothes Line. AGENTS CAN COIN MONEY with it. Every family will buy one. Sample Free. Address HOME BUY COMPANY, Box 630, Pittsburgh, Pa.

SEA FOAM THE BEST in the World. It Gives Universal Satisfaction. WONDERFUL Economy. 40 lbs. more bread to bbl. Flour. SAVES MILK, EGGS, &c. One year's savings will buy a cow. TRY IT FOR YOUR BREAD. Whiter, Lighter, Sweeter, Richer. EVERYBODY Praises It. The ladies are all in love with it. SELLS like HOT CAKES. Send at once for Circular to GEO. F. GANTZ & CO., 176 Duane St., New York.

ELASTIC TRUSS. This new Truss is worn with perfect comfort night and day. Adapts itself to every motion of the body, retaining rupture under the hardest exercise or severest strain until permanently cured. Sold cheap by the Elastic Truss Co., NO. 683 Broadway, N. Y. City. Sent by mail. Call or send for Circular and be cured.

ELECTRICITY IS LIFE. MEDICINE RENDERED USELESS! VOLTA'S ELECTRO BELTS and Bands are indorsed by the most eminent physicians in the world for the cure of rheumatism, neuralgia, liver complaint, dyspepsia, kidney disease, aches, pains, nervous disorders, fits, female complaints, nervous and general debility, and other chronic diseases of the chest, head, liver, stomach, kidneys and blood. Book with full particulars free by Volta Belt Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.

Selected French Burr Mill Stones Of all sizes, and superior workmanship. Portable Grinding Mills, upper or under runners, for Farm or Merchant work. Genuine Dutch Anker Bolting Cloth, Mill Picks, Corn Shellers and Cleaners, Gearing, Shafting, Pulleys, Hangers, etc.; all kinds of Mill Machinery and Millers' supplies. Send for Pamphlet. Straub Mill Company, Box 1430, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Smith Organ Co.,
BOSTON, MASS.
These Standard Instruments
Sold by Music Dealers Everywhere.
AGENTS WANTED IN EVERY TOWN.
Sold throughout the United States on the INSTALLMENT PLAN:
That is, on a System of Monthly Payments.
Purchasers should ask for the Smith American Organ Catalogues and full particulars on application.

RATIONAL TREATMENT of all Kidney, Urinary and Liver diseases is effected by Hamilton's Buchu & Dandelion. It acts directly on these organs, enabling them to remove those wastes in the blood, which cause Gravel, Bright's disease, Jaundice, Rheumatism, &c. Kress Manufac. Co. Cin. O.

T-SPOON-FUL of HAMILTON'S BUCHU AND DANDELION does 3 times daily promote healthy action of the KIDNEYS, LIVER & BOWELS; thus proving the greatest Blood Purifier and Health Preserver of the age, and prevents diseases by removal of the cause. It has stood the test, and is the best medicine in use. Kress Manufacturing Co., Cincinnati, O.

TARRANT'S SELTZER APERIENT

To People who Reason. It is because Tarrant's Effervescent Seltzer Aperient reduces the heat of the blood by creating perspiration as well as through its purgative operation, that produces such marvelous effect in febrile diseases.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

The Wonders of Modern Chemistry.
Sarsaparillian and Its Associates.
Changes as Seen and Felt as They Daily Occur after Using a Few Doses of
DR. RADWAY'S
Sarsaparillian Resolvent,
THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER.

1. Good spirits, disappearance of weakness, languor, melancholy; increase and hardness of flesh and muscles, etc.

2. Strength increases, appetite improves, relish for food, no more sour eructations or waterbrash, good digestion, calm and undisturbed sleep, awaken fresh and vigorous.

3. Disappearance of spots, blotches, pimples, the skin looks clear and healthy, the urine changes from its turbid and cloudy appearance to a clear sherry or amber color; water passes freely from the bladder through the urethra without pain or scalding, little or no sediment, no pain or weakness.

4. Marked diminution of quantity and frequency of involuntary weakening discharges (if afflicted that way), with certainty of permanent cure. Increased strength exhibited in the secreting glands, and functional harmony restored to the several organs.

5. Yellow tinge on the white of the eyes, and the swarthy, saffron appearance of the skin changed to a clear, lively and healthy color.

6. Those suffering from weak or ulcerated lungs or tubercles will realize great benefit in expectorating freely the tough phlegm or mucous from the lungs air cells, bronchi or windpipe, throat or head; diminishing of the frequency of cough; general increase of strength throughout the system; stoppage of night sweats and pains and feeling of weakness around the ankles, legs, shoulders, etc.; cessation of cold and chills, sense of suffocation; hard breathing and paroxysms of cough on lying down or arising in the morning. All these distressing symptoms gradually and surely disappear.

7. As day after day the SARSAPARILLIAN is taken, new signs of returning health will appear; as the blood improves in strength and purity, disease will diminish, and all foreign and impure deposits, nodes, tumors, cancers, hard lumps, etc., be resolved away and the unsound made sound and healthy; ulcers, fever sores, syphilitic sores, chronic skin diseases gradually disappear.

8. In cases where the system has been salivated, and Mercury, Quicksilver, Corrosive Sublimate, (the principal constituent in the advertised Sarsaparillas, associated in some cases with Hyd. of Potassa) have accumulated and become deposited in the bones, joints, etc., causing caries of the bones, rickets, spinal curvatures, contortions, white swellings, varicose veins, etc., the SARSAPARILLIAN will resolve away these deposits and exterminate the virus of the disease from the system.

9. If those who are taking these medicines for the cure of Chronic, Scrofulous or Syphilitic diseases, however slow may be the cure "feel better," and find their general health improving, their flesh and weight increasing or even keeping its own, it is a sure sign that the cure is progressing. In these diseases the patient either gets better or worse—the virus of the disease is not inactive; if not arrested and driven from the blood, it will spread and continue to undermine the constitution. As soon as the SARSAPARILLIAN makes the patient "feel better," every hour you will grow better and increase in health, strength and flesh.

The great power of this remedy is in diseases that threaten death—as in Consumption of the Lungs and Tuberculous Phthisis, Scrofula, Syphiloid Diseases, Wasting, Degeneration, and Ulceration of the Kidneys, Diabetes, Stoppage of Water (instantaneous relief afforded where catheters have to be used, thus doing away with the painful operation of using these instruments), dissolving stone in the bladder, and in all cases of Inflammation of the Bladder and Kidneys, in Chronic cases of Leucorrhea and Uterine diseases.

In tumors, nodes, hard lumps and syphiloid ulcers; in dropsy and venereal sore throat, ulcers, and in tubercles of the lungs; in gout, dyspepsia, rheumatism, rickets; in mercurial deposits—it is in these terrible forms of disease, where the human body has become a complete wreck, and where every hour of existence is torture, wherein this great remedy challenges the astonishment and admiration of the sick. It is in such cases, where all the pleasures of existence appear cut off from the unfortunate, and by its wonderful, almost supernatural agency, it restores the hopeless to a new life and new existence where this great remedy stands alone in its might and power.

In the ordinary skin diseases that every one is more or less troubled with, a few doses will in most cases, and a few bottles in the more aggravated forms, work a permanent cure.

Those afflicted with chronic diseases should purchase a package containing one dozen bottles. Price $10 per dozen, or $5 per half dozen bottles, or $1 per bottle. Sold by druggists.

RADWAY'S
READY RELIEF
WILL AFFORD INSTANT EASE.

INFLAMMATION OF THE KIDNEYS,
INFLAMMATION OF THE BLADDER,
INFLAMMATION OF THE BOWELS,
CONGESTION OF THE LUNGS,
SORE THROAT, DIFFICULT BREATHING,
PALPITATION OF THE HEART,
HYSTERICS, CROUP, DIPHTHERIA,
CATARRH, INFLUENZA,
HEADACHE, TOOTHACHE, MUMPS,
NEURALGIA, RHEUMATISM,
COLD CHILLS, AGUE CHILLS.

The application of the READY RELIEF to the part or parts where the pain or difficulty exists will afford ease and comfort.

Twenty drops in half a tumbler of water will, in a few moments, cure CRAMPS, SPASMS, SOUR STOMACH, HEARTBURN, SICK HEADACHE, DIARRHEA, DYSENTERY, COLIC, WIND IN THE BOWELS, and all INTERNAL PAINS.

Travelers should always carry a bottle of RADWAY'S RELIEF with them. A few drops in water will prevent sickness or pains from change of water.

IT IS BETTER THAN FRENCH BRANDY OR BITTERS AS A STIMULANT.

Price 50 Cents. Sold by Druggists.

DR. RADWAY'S
REGULATING PILLS

Perfectly tasteless, elegantly coated with sweet gum, purge, regulate, purify, cleanse and strengthen. RADWAY'S PILLS, for the cure of all disorders of the Stomach, Liver, Bowels, Kidneys, Bladder, Nervous Diseases, Headache, Constipation, Costiveness, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Bilious Fever, Inflammation of the Bowels, Piles and all Derangements of the Internal Viscera. Warranted to effect a positive cure. Purely Vegetable, containing no mercury, minerals, or deleterious drugs.

Observe the following symptoms resulting from Disorders of the Digestive Organs:

Constipation, Inward Piles, Fullness of the Blood in the Head, Acidity of the Stomach, Nausea, Heartburn, Disgust of Food, Fullness or Weight in the Stomach, Sour Eructations, Sinking or Fluttering at the Pit of the Stomach, Swimming of the Head, Hurried and Difficult Breathing, Fluttering at the Heart, Choking or Suffocating Sensations when in a Lying Posture, Dimness of Vision, Dots or Webs before the Sight, Fever and Dull Pain in the Head, Deficiency of Perspiration, Yellowness of the Skin and Eyes, Pain in the Side, Chest, Limbs, and Sudden Flushes of Heat, Burning in the Flesh.

A few doses of RADWAY'S PILLS will free the system from all the above named disorders. Price 25 Cents per Box. SOLD BY DRUGGISTS.

Read "FALSE AND TRUE."

Send one letter-stamp to RADWAY & CO., No. 32 Warren Street, New York. Information worth thousands will be sent you.

INQUIRE FOR
W. A. DROWN & CO'S
UMBRELLAS.
PHILADELPHIA and NEW YORK.—The qualities marked with their name are confidently recommended.

DR RIDGE'S FOOD FOR INFANTS AND INVALIDS
Sold in cans by Druggists, 35 cents and upwards.

"PSYCHOMANCY, or Soul Charming." How either sex may fascinate and gain the love and affection of any person they choose, instantly. This art all can possess, free, by mail, 25 cents; together with a Marriage Guide, Egyptian Oracle, Dreams, Hints to Ladies, &c. 1,000,000 sold. A queer book. Address T. WILLIAMS & CO., Pub's, Philadelphia.

DR. WHITTIER,
No. 617 St. Charles Street, St. Louis, Mo.,
continues to treat all cases of obstacles to marriage, blood impurities, every ailment or sickness which results from indiscretion or imprudence, with unparalleled success. Dr. W.'s establishment is chartered by the State of Missouri, was founded and has been established to secure safe, certain and reliable relief. Being a graduate of several medical colleges, and having the experience of a long and successful life in his specialties, he has perfected remedies that are effectual in all these cases. His patients are being treated by mail or express everywhere. No matter who failed, call or write. From the great number of applications he is enabled to keep his charges low. 36 pages, giving full symptoms, for two stamps.

MARRIAGE GUIDE,
260 pages, a popular book which should be read by everybody. No married pair, or persons contemplating marriage, can afford to do without it. It contains the cream of medical literature on this subject, the results of Dr. W.'s long experience; also the best thoughts from late works in Europe and America. Sent sealed, postpaid for 50 cts.

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS, please say you saw the advertisement in this paper.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN INDIANA, AUG., 19, 1875

They presented President Grant with two Bibles at the Sabbath-school Assembly at Chatauqua Lake yesterday. He accepted them, of course. He would probably have preferred a pair of bull pups, but the smallest favors are thankfully received.

The papers are quoting a remark made by Gov. Tilden in his reception speech at Buffalo. "When bad men combine, the good must unite." The governor had better credit Burke with any pithy sentiment which he borrows from him hereafter.

A North Carolina girl, only sixteen years old, is being noticed all over the country for giving birth to triplets. When girls of sixteen get to doing that kind of thing, it is useless for the Chicago Inter-Ocean to waste a column or two a day in trying to persuade young men into matrimony.

Mr. and Mrs. Sartoris, accompanied by Baby Sartoris, will shortly leave Long Branch for England, where they will probably take up their permanent residence. It is understood in aristocratic circles that the object in coming to this country on the part of baby Sartoris, was simply to confer upon it the honor of being his birthplace, and besides to secure his eligibility to be his grandpa's successor as President and big dog at Long Branch. B'ess his 'ittie heart.

Some inquisitive person, doubtless a bloated bondholder, asks a very irreverent question. He wants to know what the difference will be in their effects upon the business of the country, between contracting the volume of the currency now to a par with gold, and the other plan recommended by the rag money gentlemen, of issuing more paper and then allowing business to grow up to that volume until greenbacks will be at par. He says both schemes are contraction, the former being direct and the latter long drawn out. Let the Cincinnati Enquirer annihilate the blockhead, which his name it is Judge Taft.

An eastern lunatic, wishing to show the effect of the action of the moon on the earth, says: "Put a crane, moving on easy pivots, in a air tight box. Place a tolerably heavy weight on the part of the crane farthest from the pivots. Put the box in such a position that the weight and pivots of the crane are on the same meridian." He then states that the weight will move to the westward at midnight, and eastward at noon. Now a much more striking effect can be produced as follows: Put a crane moving on long legs in a water-soaked box. Place a tolerable heavy shot gut about one hundred yards from that part of the crane which goes over the fence last. Put the gun in such a position that the breech, the sight and the crane are in the same line. Then let somebody pull the trigger, and that crane will move straight ahead every time without regard to the points of the compass.

The department of the interior is certainly wonderfully well versed in "ways that are dark and tricks that are vain." After denying that anything but the best quality of food and clothing was issued at the Indian agencies, and accusing every man who said otherwise of being a liar, a drunkard and a horse thief, the department now comes forward "with a smile that is child like and bland," and gently reminds the officers of the army, for they should see to it that no charge is in the Indian supplies between the points at which they are inspected and the agencies where they are distributed. The solemn and sanctimonious department, turning up the whites of their eyes, remarks that the inspection might thus be made to cover fraudulent transactions. The inference is that Delano and his subordinates are incapable of wrong or neglect and that if any have crept into the management of Indian affairs—which even the most stubborn members of the ring now seem inclined to grant—the fault must lie with those horrid soldiers. This seems to be the natural interpretation of the general order just issued from the army headquarters at Chicago, and made at the instigation of the interior department. It hath not entered into the heart of man to conceive of the cheek of that branch of government.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

SIMMONS' LIVER REGULATOR

Nearly all diseases originate from Indigestion and Torpidity of the liver, and relief is always anxiously sought after. If the Liver is regulated in its action, health is almost invariably secured. Want of action in the Liver causes headache, Constipation, Jaundice, Pain in the shoulders, cough, chills, dizziness, sour stomache, bad taste in the mouth, bilious attacks, palpitation of the heart, depression of spirits, or the blues, and a hundred other symptoms, for which Simons' Liver Regulator is the best remedy that has ever been discovered. It acts mildly, effectually, and being a simple vegetable compound, can do no injury in any quantities that it may be taken. It is harmless in every way; it has been used for 40 years, and hundreds of the good and great from all parts of the country will vouch for its being the purest and best.

Simmons' Liver Regulator,

OR MEDICINE,

Is harmless,
Is no drastic violent medicine,
Is sure to cure if taken regularly,
Is no intoxicating beverage,
It is a faultless family medicine,
Is the cheapest medicine in the world,
Is given with safety and the happiest results to the most delicate infant,
Does not interfere with business,
Does not disarange the system,
Takes the place of Quinine and Bitters of every kind,
Contains the simplest and best remedies.

Price $1. Sold by all Druggists. April 22, 1875.

For sale at F. E. DAVENPORT'S drug store.

1875. GREAT 1875.

NORTHERN INDIANA FAIR!

AT FORT WAYNE,

SEPT. 13, 14, 15, 16 17, 18,

From the unprecedented success of the Northern Indiana Fair held last year, the management feel emboldened to add further to the adjectives expressive of its magnitude, by styling it the Great Northern Indiana Fair, the successful rival of State Fairs. No pains have been spared by the Trustees to continue the interest manifested by the many thousands who visited us last year.

ADDITIONAL BUILDINGS

have been erected, and other improvements made about the beautiful grounds that cannot fail to add largely to its many attractions. Last year the

ENTRIES WERE NEARLY 3,000

This year we expect to add largely to that number. Additional

STABLES AND CATTLE STALLS

have been erected, so that the management expect to make more comfortable these two grades of entaries upon their own grounds,

A LARGE POWER HALL

is being erected, with engine and line shafting in motion for the accommodation of machinery. In addition to the Association Power Hall, other parties are making arrangements to erect at their own expense halls sufficient to exhibit their own machinery in motion, thereby displaying a worthy spirit of enterprise.

A LARGE TENT

is being manufactured, in which to display the beauties of Flora, which is to be a very attractive feature.

The Total Premiums offered by the Association this year Amounts to $25,000

THE SPEED DIVISION

promises to be unusually attractive. Nine grand races for liberal premiums. Indiana's favorite horse, the celebrated "RED CLOUD" will be on hand and give us an example of square trotting against time. This feature will of itself attract many thousands spectators.

Another grand feature of the Fair will be th

FIREMAN'S TOURNAMENT,

undoubtedly a display without a rival. All the fire apparatus that can be spared from cities and towns in all directions has been secured.

Then again we have the

GREAT MUSICAL TREAT

a contest for liberal premiums by Brass Bands. Many organizations are drilling for the trial, and will be here from all directions.

Of Horses, Cattle, Sheep, Swine and Poultry, Field and Garden Products, there will be a grand turnout.

Machinery of all kinds, textile fabrics, fine arts, geology, mineralogy and floral contributions, we have the promise of larger displays than heretofore. The usual railroad facilities have been secured for reaching the fair, both for visitors stock and articles for exhibition.

HON. F. P. RANDALL, Prest
WM. LYNE, Sec'y.

NOTICE TO HEIRS OF PETITION TO SELL REAL ESTATE.

State of Indiana }
DeKalb Co. } ss

Notice is hereby given that George Barney, administrator of the estate of John Milliman, deceased, has filed his petition to sell the real estate of the decedent, his personal being insufficient to pay his debts; and that said petition will be heard at the next term of the circuit court of said county.

J. R. LANNING, Clerk.

THE FALL TERM OF

AUBURN UNION SCHOOL

WILL COMMENCE ON MONDAY,

August 23rd, 1875.

A new school building is being erected for the accommodation of two of the lower grades. This will prevent the overcrowding formerly experienced in the old school building.

The old school building is being repaired, papered, re-seated with new and commodious seats and thoroughly fitted up in every respect.

Pupils living out of town who wish to attend school, may consult Mr. J. J. Littlefield, Prest. of the School Trustees.

Board can be obtained in private families at $3 to $4.

Particular attention will be given to students who intend to teach during the winter.

Classes will be commenced in Latin German, Higher Mathamatics and Higher English. The following corps of teachers have been hired:

Mr. O. M. Record, Principal; Mr. Jas W. Ottis, Asst; Mrs. A. Thomas, Miss Laura Clark, Miss Ida Mahuran, Miss Mattie Miller, Miss Hattie Griswold.

J. J. LITTLEFIELD }
J. W. RICKLE, } School Trustees.
W. GRISWOLD, }

HAVE YOU SEEN IT?

THE BOSS PLACE FOR

GROCRIES

A Large New Stock Just Opened Out!

Queensware & Glassware,

AT COST!

Glass Sets	80 to 90 Cents
Tumblers	18 for $1.00
Cups and Saucers	45 to 90 Cents

Also

Wooden and Willow Ware!

Cheap for Cash.

At Hare Bros. old stand, next door to Miller & Casebeer's.

J. D. Williamson.

WHEN!

SEPTEMBER 1, '75.

WHAT!

WILL

EXHIBIT

In Auburn, Ind.

BARGAINS

AT THE

Great Clearing Out SALES!

OF G. H. MUNN.

I shall sell some at COST; I Shall sell some at LESS than COST.

GREAT BARGAINS

In Dress Goods!

BOOTS AND SHOES

AND HATS,

25 per cent. BELOW COST. Call and see him in Auburn, at the Grand Central, one door south of Jno. L. Davis' Hardware.

GEO. H. MUNN.

FRUIT HOUSE BULLETIN!

GRANGER HEADQUARTERS.

Twenty Per Cent. Saved on the $1. No Advance in Prices.

Teas, Fish, Spices, Sugars, Syrups, Wines, Liquors & Tobac's

Cheaper than Ever.

TEAS—Our Tea trade is the wonder of the country. No one ever dreamt such a trade could be built up. We sell more chests daily than some houses do pounds, and still our trade is increasing. It is no uncommon thing for us to purchase two hundred chests at a time, and here is the great element of our success. As by purchasing such larger quantities direct of the Importers we save our consumer, at least the three extra profits of jobbers, speculator and wholesale grocer, who make 10 to 20 cents per pound. This our customers get the benefit of. No middle men with us. As with teas, so with sugar coffee, syrup and all other goods. No secret—it is simply in purchasing all our goods at first hands and re-selling direct to our customers at small margin, and save them at least 20 to 40 cents a pound on tea and 20 per cent on all other goods.

Young Hyson,	30, 60, 80, $1, 00, best 1 10	Oolong	50, 60; best 85
Gunpowder	60, 1 00; best 1 10	Uncolored Japan,	50, 60; best 90
Imperial,	60, 90; best

SUGARS! SUGARS!

WHITE, YELLOW AND BROWN.

Coffee A,	10½c	N. O. Genuine,	9c
Coffee B,	9½c	Good Brown	8c

COFFEE! COFFEE! COFFEE!

Best Rio, per pound,	25c	Roasted Coffee,	30 and 37c
Second Best Rio,	23c

CANNED FRUITS.

At Prices never Before Heard of.

Peaches per can	20c	Damsons per can,	20c
Blackberries per can,		Green Gages per can,
Tomatoes per can,	10 c	Strawberries per can,
Corn per can,	10 c

Wines and Liquors.

Still a few Gallons Left.

Sherry and Port per gallon,	$1 50 and 2 00	Old '76 for medical use	$3 00
Sherry and Port in bottles,		Port Wine per gallon	1 50 and 2 00
California Angelica and Sweet Muscatelle, per gallon,	1 50 2 00	California wine per gallon	1 50 and 2 00
New England Rum, per gallon,	best 2 00	Sweet Cawba Wine per gallon	1 25
Holland Gin, Old Tom,	1 50 and 2 50

SYRUPS, SYRUPS.

Best Sugar, Loaf, per gallon,		Extra Golden per gallon,	60
White Dripps, per gallon,	85 $1 00	New Orleans per gallon,	70c to 1 00
Silver Dripps per gallon,	75	Cuba Molasses per gallon,

CANDIES! CANDIES!

Stick, French and American.

Best Stick per pound	18c	Bon Bons	30c
French Mixed	25c	Japanese Cocoa Nut	25c

We have a hundred other different kinds of candies

No Middle Men with us, either on Teas, Coffees, or Sugars. With all the complaints of dull times, our Tea trade has doubled within the last three years. No secret in it—simply purchasing of the Importers and selling direct to the consumer, thereby saving to our customers the profits of the Speculator, Jobber and Wholesale Grocer, which is at least 10 to 20 cents on each dollar,

Oils! Oils! Oils!

Fish and Neats Foot Oil per gallon,	1 00	Head Light Oil per gallon,	25c
Coal and Rose Oil per gallon,	20c	Machine Oil per gallon,	50c

FISH, FISH, FISH, FISH,

A Large Assortmen of both Salt Water and Lake Fish

No. 1 White Fish ½ bbl	6 00	No. 1 Mackeral in Kits	1 25
No. 2 do do	5 00	No. 1 Famis in Kits
No. 1 Lake Shad ½ bbl.		George's Bank Codfish per pound
No. 1 Pickeral ½ bbl		Extra Mess Mackeral " "	1 50 and 1 75
White Fish in kits No. 1	1 25	Herrings each	1c
White Fish family No. 3	1 00	Pickeral and Trout ½ bbl	50

TOBACCOS, TOBACCOS.

The duty of 4c cents per pound goes on tobacco March 1st. This thing we anticipated, and in consequence we have a large stock ahead, so that our customers, as long as the present stock lasts, shall have goods at the old price.

Choice Plug, Five Bros. per pound		Fine Cut	60, 80, and 90c
Good Richmond Navy per pound	80c	Shorts	40c
Ladies Twist, very fine	65c	Smoking	35c best 40c
Long John Tons	50c

25 Cents on the Dollar Saved at

THE FRUIT HOUSE.

THE FIRST

National Bank

OF AUBURN, INDIANA.

Capital Stock $50,000

Deposits received on time or subject to check on sight

Exchange, available in the United States, Canada and Europe, furnished.

Checks and drafts, payable in any part of th U. S. cashed at our counter, or collected and proceeds accounted for to holder.

Collections made and promptly remitted for on day of payment.

Loans negotiated and business papers discounted

Government and other securities bought and sold.

Directors:

J. R. LANNING, NICHOLAS ENSLY,
O. C. CLARK, WM. McINTYRE,
GEO. HAZZARD.

Officers:

JOSEPH R. LANNING, Prest.
JAS. V. HAZZARD, Cashier.

April 29, 1875.

Auburn Courier.

Local and Miscellaneous.

WANTED.

Five Hundred Cords of Elm Stave Bolts, is wanted immediately at the Stave Factory of Beugnot & Co., for which they will pay the cash. tf.

AUBURN MARKETS.

CORRECTED WEEKLY.

Wheat—White	$1.45	Hogs—live	$6.00
Amber—red	1.3	Hogs—dressed	.....
Rye	.75	Turkeys—live	.08
Oats	.40	Chickens—live	.07
Corn	.45 @ .65	Butter	.18
Potatoes	@ 35	Lard	.11
Flax Seed	1.60	Eggs	.05
Clover Ceed	6.50	Tallow	.00
Wool	.40 @ .80	Timothy Hay	12.21

School Blotters given away at Houser's.

Housers is the place to buy your school books.

See advertisement of the Fair at Fort Wayne.

The farmers are bringing in their grain.

Billy Humes is visiting friends, out of the city.

The frame for Goodman's new building is up.

You will find Houser's book store opposite Ford's Block.

Boots & Shoes 28 per cent below cost at G. H. Munn's.

The roads are in a good traveling condition again.

Wheat buyers are plenty on the streets at present.

Simon Snyder, of Angola, was in the city this week.

The weather has been cold and chilly for a few days past.

Mr. Wright, of the lumber yard, has returned to the city.

Cholera infantum is slaughtering the infants in the larger cities, at a fearful rate.

Someone went into Hebel's barn and stole his gold-plated harness and a saddle.

Master Eddy Rainier has returned to the place, after a long stay in the State of Illinois.

Jackman & Rakestraw is to be the firm name of a clothing store at Garrett, we learn.

Get your guns ready; load 'em and pop over all the game you want to. The law expired Aug. 15.

T. B. Totten has been repairing his business room, and now it looks quite nobby.

Baker Bros. have a new sign in front of their business house, which looks neat and tasty.

Mr. J. North and lady, of Farmers City, Illinois, were the guests of Joe Rainier, last week.

A little girl from 12 to 15 years old, can get work in a small family by applying at this office.

Geo. Picker is laying the brick on the Shull building. It will only be a short time before it will be completed.

Mr. Jno. Sommers has his new residence almost completed, and now the painters are giving it a finishing touch.

Try the COURIER.

The Indiana Conservatory, Ft. Wayne the popular music school, begins its 4th school year September 6th. 3t

Mrs. Buss, living North-west of town several miles, was buried in the cemetry on last Monday.

The Indiana Conservatory of Music Fort Wayne, begins its fourth school year Monday, September 6th. 3t

The boys and girls are all swimming together in Mishwaka, and that place is fast becoming a popular bathing resort.

A new frame house is going up at the West end of Ninth street, which will present a good appearance when completed.

There are two or three weddings pretty close at hand, in the city. We think its about time for somebody to make a start.

Mr. Rose and Mrs. Rose have another little Rose. The little one we speak of bloomed last Monday—a bright little girl.

We dropped into Jno. A. Marvin's barber shop while at Garrett, last Monday, and was glad to see it so nicely arranged.

Samuel Puffenberger was taken to Indianapolis last Monday, to undergo treatment for insanity. It is hoped that his stay will be short.

The First and Second nines played five inning of ball on last Tuesday, and the Second nine did (not) beat them.—The score stood 21 to 10.

The Presbyterian Society will meet at the residence of C. Kloz next Wednesdy, afternoon and evening. All are invited.

The Juniors and Blue Stockings of this place played a match game of ball, on last Saturday. The score resulted in favor of the Blue Stockings. 29,—22.

Miss Kitty Elwell, who has been visiting in Ohio for several months back, has again returned to the city, looking as pleasant and acting as jovial as ever.

The attorneys of Mr. Tilton have notified the counsel of Mr. Beecher to be prepared to answer to a motion for a new trial on the first Monday in September.

Rev. Henry Johnson, of the Presbyterian church, returns from Chicago this week, and will preach next Sabbath morning and evening at the usual hours

Jno. Hebel has resumed work again on his "brick block." When John takes a notion he means business; but the worst of it is to get him to take a notion.

And now comes Ene Weaver, and exclaims "Whats the matter with us."—His is a boy, the only one out of three births this week. Good for Ene—bully for Ene!

Two Garrett damsels, unable to get a carpenter to put up a kitchen for them jerked off their coats (?) rolled up their sleeves(!) spit on their hands, and put it up themselves.

A Muncie soiled dove, whom the authorities sent to jail, got her dander up and filed affidavits against various nice boys of the town. Quite a sensation was the result.

A large party of hunters from this place and Waterloo are sojourning west on the B. & O. They will return the latter part of the week.

A number of citizens from Garrett were in the city Monday, attending the "hatchet trial." We don't think it was any kin to the hatchet Geo. W. struck with. O, no.

The German barber, who has been in the employ of S. Pommert for some time past, is now with Billy Edgerton. He is a good barber and will do a satisfactory job of work.

They administered a sedative draught to some of the inmates of the St. Louis Insane Asylum. The lunatics waked up in a better ordered institution, where the wicked cease from trouble and the weary be at rest.

STRAYED OR STOLEN.—A white Setter dog, with brown ears and eyes, about two years old, was missing last Thursday. A liberal reward will be paid for his recovery. J. A. COWAN.

The undersigned wishes to announce to the public generally that he has located at the Junction, and will do all kind of plain and ornamental painting. He warrants his work to give entire satisfaction. C. BENNER,

The editor has gone away this week with a party of hunters. We will just say now, with our hat in the air, that the first thing he sees he'll take aim and shoot—off a gun.

Sunday morning—long before Sunday school hours—Mike Long, was the father of a fine girl baby. It looks exactly like its father, and that will save all arguments as to whether it is good-looking or not.

The "Republican" has been enlarged to a six paged paper. The style and print is very neat, and we hope Bro. Weamer will be able to keep it in its present shape. We don't know what day it will be published hereafter, as the out side, last week, was dated Thursday Aug. 13, and the inside Friday Aug. 12. We gum it up.

A grand basket meeting is to be held at Liberty Mills, Sunday August 22nd, 1875. Eminent Clergymen will be present and address the meeting. The Eel River Road will sell tickets at half fare. The train will leave this place at 7:10 A. M.

MORE—STAFFORD.—Married, Aug., 12th, 1875, at the Methodist Parsonage, Spencerville, by T. E. Lancaster, Mr. Samuel More of Concord, and Miss Jane Stafford, Jackson township, all of DeKalb Co., Ind.

Another excursion to Lansing, Mich., Tuesday Sept., 2nd 1875, starting from this place. Round trip two dollars.—The train will leave at 6 A. M., and return at an early hour. There will be nothing but coaches used. Tickets for sale at the post office and Bank.

Our readers should bare in mind that Mr. Samuel Lauferty, will soon open out a new and attractive stock of clothing, in the Odd Fellows building. Those that intend purchasing suits, or gents furnishing goods should by all means wait, as his goods will be new and of the latest paterns.

We know of quite a number of persons who persist in reading the COURIER without subscribing or paying for it.—They "sponge" their reading. To these we would say in the language of another: Now just stop a little and ask your self if it is not your duty to help sustain your home paper, which works for you whether you work for it or not.

Wm. Dills, Esq., has been suffering for several days from a sprain of the ankle, resulting from an Auburn sidewalk. These sidewalks are too numerous to mention. For full particulars take a walk over them, but our advice is to insure your life in some good company before starting.

The second nine has "showed up."—They are going to have new panties like the rest on 'em. The pants are to be white, with little blue stripes down the side, and a pocket behind to put a fellers tobacco in. We wouldn't advise any other club to challenge them, because, if they do, somebody will surely get beat.

A swindler has been fleecing some of the farmers in adjacent counties by representing himself as the agent of an agricultural journal, and getting them to subscribe for the same, and pay their money in advance. He may steer in this direction, and we warn our readers to be on the alert for the rascal.

A son of Mr. Jno Swanders, living North-west of town, was kicked in the face by a horse. The little fellow, 8 years old, let the animal roll, and when it got up, the horse whirled to-ward the boy and dealt the blow, which was quite bad.

The word comes to us, rather indistinctly, that a certain highly ornamental gentleman with a good-sized fire brand in the north-east corner of his eye, only waiting for a favorable opportunity to interview us. We very tenderly urge him to call at once, he will find things quite comfortable and convenient.

The Tamarack, presided over by Mensch & Moore, is one of the whitest places, to while away a little time, between here and the North Pole. They have put in a ball alley and made many other improvements. Their gentlemanly clerk, Tommy, is courteous in his ways, and the "main spoke," Mr. Mensch is as jovial and obliging fellow as you can scare up.

Dissolution Notice

This is to certify that the partnership heretofore existing between C. P. Houser and J. P. Goetschius, as C. P. Houser & Co., in the town of Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, is this 19th day of August dissolved, by mental consent. C. P. Houser will resume all indebtedness of the late firm.

C. P. HOUSER.
J. P. GOETSCHIUS.

The trial of Keelan versus Graves & Chapman, was had before Justice Widney on Monday last. The court house was not at all crowded, and seemingly little interest taken in the affair by those who were in attendance. The witnesses for the State all testifying about the same thing—that Keelan asked Graves to lay down the hatchet and fight him like a man, and during their conversation, when about four feet apart, Graves struck him with the hatchet, felling him to the floor. Keelan the man who was hit did not appear against them, and it is rumored that he said he would not. Graves was fined $25, and costs amounting in all to about $60.

Some fellow got too windy in Dr. Fox' office, and the Doctor thought "better I make him ou-tt." So the Doctor spread his arms from the fellows coat colar down to where the next best holt came, and one, two, three, and the fellow started. Hopenix happened to be just outside the door, and Hopenix running against the fellow naturally landed in the ditch. After picking himself up and going home, he got it into his head that he was hurt, so he stretched himself upon the bed, and had a doctor sent for. He continued very ill until some of his German friends invited him to the country to help get on the out-side of a keg of beer. He got perfectly well, and has gained in health ever since.

BILLIARDS.

A champion billiard match was played in one of our halls last Saturday, that astonished the natives, before a large and select audience. The audience numbered four, and selected from the worst "roosters" to be found. The contestants were Briggs and Cramor—that's what they called each other. It was a three ball, Spanish carom game, all the points up, played for five drinks on each side and the chapionship of Sedan.

Briggs led off by a magnificent play around the table and the floor, making twenty-one cushings and four table legs. Cramor made a "masse" shot, gradually working the balls in the jaw. Cramor's strong point is his jaw. Nothing of much importance occurred to mar the intent interest centered in the game until Briggs stumbled over his forward foot, lunged beforewards over the audience (four) and ran the cue in his north eye up to the figure 18. In extracting the cue the tip came off, necessitating the use of another several ounces heavier. Owing to this misfortune Briggs lost confidence in himself, and came in one of losing the game. But while squaring up the drink question he ran out (of the Doctors) "two sheets in the wind," and left Cramor to stand him off for the drinks.

At noon on Sunday is was feared that inflammation would set in on the eye that had been irritated by the unlucy mis-cue. If it does, the optic will probable inflame. The physician has probed for the missing tip without success. The theory is that it has gone to his head, and may yet make him tip-sy.

These lads must bear in mind that four or five games of the same kind will necessarily bring their parents to the corner building, with a steple on it, and their ears will here somebody say, from the pulpit, "Sing, brothers, sing."

Jollification at Garret

When it was announced a few days ago that there was to be a celebration at Garrett, last Thursday, over the birth of the two children first born in that young city, and that an excursion train would go out and carry to Garrett and return all who desired to participate in the festivities, a general interest was manifested in the occasion. Accordingly there was a large turn out from the [illegible] show a total of [illegible] killed during 1874, and these return not complete.

CLIPPING the wings of fowls to vent their flying is a necessary opera sometimes, but never necessarily di uring. It generally is, however, the farmer's shears nearly always m a clean sweep of all the quills, and ugly wing is the result. Beside ugliness, there are also other disadv tages in such sweeping operations. setting hen uses the outer ends of wings to retain the eggs under he place, and those near the body pro the skin from being torn by her ma claws. The proper way is to only t the feathers partly off with a pair scissors, except about one inch at end. It shows but little when the w is closed, and does not disfigure fowl, and lets the wind through so to prevent flying.

FARMERS, raise more sheep. Do let the dogs deter you from this pro able and pleasant branch of stock-raisi Every farmer can profitably raise a f sheep without interfering with any oth interest. Get a few thoroughbred high grade Cotswolds or Southdow and let them run with your cows. Ke no worthless dogs of your own, a watch those of your neighbors, and w some precautions on your part the l from dogs will be a trifle compared the rapidly increasing profits. The of wool comes at an appropriate time the year, when a little cash is a v convenient thing to h ve. Then a f mutton lambs or sheep may be sold d ing the summer before the crops ready for market. Farmers, try it, a don't do without sheep on the fa another year.—Western Agricultur

About the House.

RUNNING up and down stairs is man-killing work, and should be avoid as much as possible, by having one more bedrooms below.

BARTON CAKE.—One cup of sugar, cup of molasses, one egg, two-thirds cup of butter, one cup of sour milk, cups af raisins, and one teaspoonful soda; all kinds of spices.

GREEN GOOSEBERRY JELLY.—Boil gallon of gooseberries in two quarts water to a pulp, strain through a je bag, and to every pint of juice put o pound of sugar. Boil until of a dee red.

The Trustees of the Auburn Graded School, desire the pupils belonging in the village, to be governed by the following notice:

Inasmuch, as the new school house cannot conveniently be completed by August, 23rd, the opening of the school in the new building will necessarily be posponed two weeks, or until September 6th, 1875. This difference of two weeks will be made up at the end of the year, by continuing these classes two weeks longer than the others.

All pupils belonging in the Primary department (first or second year) and residing on or North of Seventh street, will attend at the new House, commencing September 6th.

All other pupils will attend at the old building, and be in attendance on Monday, August, 23rd.

Dr. J. J. Littlefield, }
J. W. Rickel, } Trustees.
W. Griswold, }

Immense floods continue to devastate the country and many million dollars worth of property have been completely destroyed.

EXPOSITIONAL.

More than usual interest is manifested in the coming Indiana Exposition and State Fair. From September 9th to October 2nd.

The voluminous correspondence in connection therewith; the large proportion of exibition space already secured the number of stalls and pens engaged for stock; the extensive advertising and encouraging influence of the press of the State, give assurance that the Twenty-third Annual Exposition, under the auspices of the Board of Agriculture will excel all former effects.

A remarkable feature connected with the Exhibition of 1874 was that every department made a good showing—the machinery department being the lightest in representation. It is a gratification now to be able to state, four weeks previous to the opening day, that more than double the amount of space is applied for and secured for machinery in motion.

No pains or expence will be spared by the managers to insure success. Seventy new stalls are now completed to accommodate the increasing interest in the stock department.

Two car loads of fine paintings are on the way from the East, to add to the Art Department. The largest and most magnificent Painting ever exhibited will be on exibition; and judging from indications, the exhibition in the Horticultural department will excel that of last season.

The display in the Agricultural department by counties we have reason to believe, will be excellent, although the inclement weather during the harvest season was discouraging.

A series of evening meetings have been arranged to interest agriculturists with lectures from prominent speakers, followed by discussion.

STOP THAT.

The boys at Beard's grocery are naughty fellows. They have a habit of throwing torpedoes at dogs as they pass by. The other morning a fine looking gentleman, with a huge cane, and a pair of sewed shoes which said, "death to all creeping insects," came along, with a fresh milch cow in advance of him. His head bent downward, cane over his shoulder, and perhaps meditating over the trials and troubles each day may bring forth. Thinking, no doubt of the old broken milk stool, the bothersome flies and what a bore it was for the head of the family to do the milking; when a torpedo came kerwhack againt the cow, and with her tail pointing directly eastward, she—the cow we mean—got up and got. The man with the cane broke toward the grocery and braced up to the first boy he came to. In his mad career he drew back that ugly looking walking stick and then—put it at his side again.

About this time the boy got on his mus. and when he approached too close the boy laid down his bucket and the conversation began:

"I'll knock your head off!"

"What for?" says the boy.

"For shootin' at my cow, sir."

"Old coon, your mistaking, nobody shot at your cow. The boys in there just threw a torpedo at a dog."

"Don't you tell me that." And up went the cane again.

At this point a third party ran up and ejaculated:

"Why, Why, it's so."

This encouraged the other boy and he said:

"Come on pard, brace up. Don't be afraid ot that cane."

This was too much for the old man, when he saw the boys meant business, he immediately put out in search of the cow. He drives her now up and down Sixth streets to the pasture field.

The "Bell" of the Garrett ball room stood at the bottom of the stairs, portly and independent as a lord. He had a partner near by equally as superb. To get music for them to dance to, one would have to tie a mouth organ over the end of bellows, with two men at the lever. The fellow was a stunner. We saw him bounce a little boy out of the ball room as easy as could be imagined, and from the first few moves he made we were led to think that there would'nt be enough left of the poor boy for Coroner Latson to hold an inquest on. But all is lovely now, and his pants is all repaired and ready for another bounce.

C. P. Houser, having purchased Mr. Goetschius's inerest in the Book store, will remove the entire stock to the new room on Main street, opposite Ford's block. It is just one year since Cal opened his stock, during which time he has built up a fine trade. His stock is all new, no old styles of anything, besides he has just received a large stock of Books, Paper &c., which will be opened out for the opening of the school next Monday. Those wanting school books, or school supplies of any kind, will do well by giving Cal a call.

A Dekalb county youth will tell the court why he didn't marry her first, or at least afterwards; then the court will insist that he either go to house-keeping or learn a trade.

The marquis of Lorne has a poem in Good Words for July. It is now tolerable evident that there is something in that story of domestic infelicity. When a man with plenty to eat takes to writing poetry something's wrong.

STOP THAT COUGH.

NO pulmonary complaint however obstinate, can resist the healing influence of Dr. Morris' Syrup of Tar, Wild Cherry and Horehound.—Nothing that we have ever sold acts so promptly and effectly in coughs, colds, hoarseness, sore throat, asthma and all diseases of the throat, lungs and chest, leading to consumption. It is a certain cure for Whooping Cough and croup. Contains no opium and is pleasant to take.—Cough-worn victims whose lungs are racked and torn with paroxysms that threaten to choke them, find speedy relief in its use. Trial size 10c Ask for Morris' Syrup, take no other.

F. E. DAVENPORT, Druggist.

ARE YOU DYSPEPTIC?

If so, and you desire immediate relief, go to the drug store of F. E. Davenport and get a bottle of DeCosta's Radical cure. It will tone up the stomach, assist digestion restore the appetite, regulate the liver, and in fact make a new man of you. Delicate females will find it peculiary adapted to their various disorders. It is the most efficacious antidote for all diseases arising from a disordered stomach, liver or a low state of the system, that has ever been prescribed or advertised. Try it just once, and you will, like thousands of others become its enthusiastic advocate Trial size 25 cents.

Application for License.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned will make application to the Board of Commissioners of DeKalb County, Indiana, at their Sept. session 1875, for a license to sell spiritous, vinous and malt liquors in a less quantity than a quart at a time, with the privilege of having the same drank upon the premises where sold, to-wit; Lot No. 20, Block No 25, in the original plat of the town of Garrett, DeKalb county, Ind. August 5th. AUGUST THIENEL.

Application for License.

Notice is hereby given to the citizens of the town of Garrett, DeKalb County, Ind., that the undersigned will make an application to the Board of Commissioners of said county at their September term 1875, for a license to retail spiritous, vinous and malt liquors in a less quantity than a quart at a time with the privilege of having the same drank on the following premises to-wit: On lot number nineteen (19) in the town of Garrett in said county.

MATHIAS CLARK.

Application for License.

Notice is hereby given to the citizens of the town of Garrett, DeKalb County, Ind., that the undersigned will make an application to the Board of Commissioners of said county at their September term 1875, for a license to retail spiritous, vinous and malt liquors in a less quantity than a quart at a time with the privilege of having the same drank on the following premises to-wit: On lots numbers four and five in the town of Garrett in said county.

PETER BEHLER.

NOTICE TO HEIRS OF PETITION TO SELL REAL ESTATE.

State of Indiana, DeKalb County.

Notice is hereby given, that Charles Raut Administrator of the estate Frederick Raut, deceased, has filed his petition to sell the real estate of the decedent, his personal being insufficent to pay his debts; and that said petition will be heard at the next term of the Circuit Court of said county.

J. R. LANNING, Clerk.

NOTICE TO HEIRS OF PETITION TO SELL REAL ESTATE.

STATE OF INDIANA, } Set:
DeKalb County. }

NOTICE is hereby given that James E. Rose Administrator "Debonis non" of the estate of Christian Buss deceased, has filed his petition to sell the real estate of the decedent, his personal being insufficient to pay his debts; and that said petition will be heard at the next term of Circuit Court of said County.

J. R. LANNING, Clerk.

NOTICE.

NOTICE is hereby given to litigants witnesses and all others interested, also to the Petit Jurrors heretofore summoned for the May term, 1875, of the DeKalb Circuit Court, that court was adjourned by the Judge thereof, to a special term commencing on Monday August 30th 1875, for the trial and determination of causes pending and not disposed of, at said May term 1875 of said Court. Witness my hand and the seal of said court this 2d day of August, 1875

J. R. LANNING, Clerk.

GILES' LINIMENT

TRADE MARK

IODIDE OF AMMONIA

Cures Neuralgia, Face ache, Rheumatism, Gout, Frosted Feet, chilblains, sore throat Erysipelas, Bruises or Wounds of every kind in man or animal.

Giles' Liniment Iodine of Ammonia has been used by myself and family with satisfactory results. I recommend it to all persons suffering with pains or aches of any kind. It surpasses anything I have ever used. G. H. MILLER, Pres. Real Estate & Savings Bank, Baltimore Md. Sold by all Druggists. Depot No. 451 Sixth avenue, New York. Only 50c and $1 per bottle

Sold by J. H. EHLERS.

No. 29 4w

Vacation of Street, Alleys and Town Lots

Notice is hereby given that a petition has been filed in the Auditor's Office, of DeKalb County, Ind., praying the vacation of certain streets, alleys and town lots in "Somers' Addition to the town of Auburn, in said county, as follows: All of Baker Street and Ford Street, lying and extending south of the south line of Ninth Street. Also all of Eleventh Street extending west from the south-east corner of lot No. 73, and the north east corner of lot No. 96. Also all of Union-St., west of the south-east corner of lot No. 109, and a point directly opposite said last named corner Also that part of an alley between said 9th and 11th Streets, west of the east lines of lots No. 60 and 73. Also that part of an alley between said 11th and Union-sts., west of the east lines of lots No. 96 and 109, and also vacate the following numbered lots viz: 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 96, 97, 98, 99, 100, 101, 102, 103, 104, 105, 106, 107, 108 and 109; and said petition will be heard at the next session of the Board of Commissioners of said county.

JOHN. C. SOMERS, Applicant.

W. H. DILLS, Attorney.
Aug. 19.—3t.

NOTICE.

STATE OF INDIANA, } Set:
DeKalb County. }

In the DeKalb Circuit Court, September term, 1875.

Rowland Tefft
vs
Nettie Hamilton
Charles Hamilton
Isaace D. Toll
} Complaint No. 131

NOW comes the plaintiff, by C. O. A. McClellan his attorney, and files his complaint herein, together with an affidavit that said defendants Nettie A. Hamilton, Charles Hamilton and Isaac D. Toll are not residents of the State of Indiana. Notice is, therefore, hereby given saiddefendant that unless they be and appear on the first day of the next term of the DeKalb Circuit Court, to be holden on the 4th Monday of September A. D. 1875, at the court house in Auburn, in said County and State, and answer or demur to said complaint, the same will be determined in their absence.

Witness my name and the seal of said Court affixed at Auburn this 4th day of August, 1875.

J. R LANNING, Clerk.

NOTICE.

STATE OF INDIANA, } Set.
DeKalb County }

In the DeKalb Circuit Court, September term, 1875.

William York
versus
George Egnew,
Alice Egnew,
William W. Egnew,
& Harriet E. Egnew.
} Complaint No. 132.

Now comes the plaintiff, by C. A. O. McClellan, his attorney, and files his complaint herein, together with an affidavit that said defendants William W. Egnew and Harriet E. Egnew are not residents of the State of Indiana.

Notice is, therefore, hereby given said defendants that unless they be and appear on the first day of the next term of the DeKalb circuit court to be holden on the 4th Monday of September a. d. 1875, at the court house in Auburn, in said county and State, and answer or demur to said complaint, the same will be heard and determined in their absence.

Witness, My name and the seal of said court affixed at Auburn, this 4th day of August 1875.

J. R. LANNING, Clerk.

Give us a call when you want a good job.

AUBURN COURIER

THURSDAY, AUGUST 19, 1875.

THE NEWS CONDENSED.

THE EAST.

At a meeting of the Western nail manufacturers at Pittsburgh, the other day, it was decided to fix the price of nails at $3 per keg, net. This is lower than the price has been since the year 1865.

A magazine exploded at Frankford, Pa., on the 7th inst., killing one boy and injuring twenty others.... A large mass of soft rock fell in the Hoosac tunnel the other day, and blockaded the big bore.... By a smashup on the Geneva, Ithaca and Athens railroad, on the 6th inst., the conductor of a freight train and two brakemen were killed, and the engineer and firemen are badly scalded that there are little hopes of their recovery. The accident was caused by a misplaced switch, which was opened, it is believed, by bandits for the purpose of throwing the passenger train from the track with the intention of robbing the passengers.

There was a brutal prize-fight in the suburbs of New York city last week, between two roughs named Gallagher and Madden. Both contestants were terribly punished.... The village of Victory, Cayuga county, N. Y., has been almost entirely destroyed by fire.... A melancholy tragedy is reported from Niagara Falls. A party of six gentlemen and ladies visited the Cave of the Winds without a guide. After passing through the cave, two of the party, Mr. Ethelbert Parsons, aged 29, and Miss Lottie C. Philipott, aged 25, descended to an eddy which is never visited by the guides. The lady lost her foothold, and was caught by the gentleman, but the current carried both into the river below, where they were drowned. They were soon to have been married.

The crops of corn and potatoes in Pennsylvania are said to have never been better.... Two Indians living on the Niagara Reservation, in Western New York, last week decoyed into the forest one of their tribe, Samson Williams, against whom they had a grudge, stabbed him to the heart and scalped him.... George W. Fishback, formerly publisher of the St. Louis Democrat, who is now rusticating in the East, while riding along the beach at Southampton, L. I., the other day, discovered a woman in the water in a drowning condition, having been carried beyond her depth while bathing. Like a true Knight, the valiant ex-editor leaped from his buggy, dropped the ribbons, plunged into the billowy waters, and rescued the drowning woman.

Serious forest fires are reported in Western New York. The village of Walcott, Jefferson county, has been burned, and other towns are threatened.... A furious tornado passed over the northwestern part of Philadelphia on Wednesday last, causing great destruction of property.

Notice of trial of the $100,000 libel suit of Theodore Tilton against the Brooklyn Eagle and Thomas Kinsella has been entered in the Brooklyn City Court, for the September term. ....Archibald Baxter & Co., commission merchants, New York, have failed. Their liabilities are stated at $300,000.... The villages of Western Massachusetts which so severely suffered by the fearful flood occasioned by the breaking of the Williamburg reservior, May 18, 1874, have again been similarly visited, though this time there has been no loss of life and the damage is inconsiderable compared with last year's. A few nights since the dam of the Searsville reservoir on the western Goshen branch of Mill river was swept away, causing a wild panic in the village below, the inhabitants fleeing pell-mell to the hills. Several bridges were swept away, and the damage to property will amount to many thousand dollars.... Horace Binney, the oldest and most prominent member of the Philadelphia bar, died a few days ago, at the age of 97 years.... A Boston dispatch says: "The excitement about the sea serpent and his alleged appearance hereabouts increases. Capt. Howes, of the steamer William Lawrence, from Norfolk, for this port, says that he saw this afternoon off Cape Cod light, some sort of a gigantic marine animal. It projected its head and neck and part of its back out of the water, and seemed to be black on the back and white on the breast, and as the portion visible was at least twelve feet, the animal must have been some near relation to the sea serpent."

THE WEST.

C. B. Wilkinson and John L. Bittinger, Revenue Collector and Gauger in the St. Joseph (Mo.) District, have been arrested for embezzlement. Wilkinson and Bittinger are the publishers of the St. Joseph Herald.... A terrible tragedy was enacted near Eau Claire, Wis., on Friday, the 6th inst. On the preceding Wednesday a babe of Mrs. Austin Drake fell out of bed into a bath tub and was drowned. The event so worked upon her mind as to unsettle it. She arose on Friday morning, apparently as well as usual. After preparing breakfast for herself and children, three in number, she took the two oldest boys, four and six years of age, respectively, and went out of the house. The male members of the family had previously gone into the harvest field. In about an hour after Mrs. Drake left the house, the youngest boy returned, black in the face, wet through, and so exhausted that he could not speak. Restoratives were applied, and the first words he uttered were, "Oh, grandma, mamma has drowned herself and Vivian, and tried to drown me." Mrs. Drake, after leaving the house, in a fit of insanity, went to a creek, carrying the youngest boy in her arms, and leading the other one. Arrived there, she threw the youngest in, and dragged in the other, whom she drowned, and then committed suicide. The youngest caught hold of a tree, and succeeded in reaching home. The alarm was given immediately, and Mrs. Drake and the boy were found locked in each other's embrace, both dead. Mrs. Drake was a woman of more than ordinary intelligence and culture.

The war of rates between the St. Louis, Kansas City and Northern road, and other competing lines, has at last reached a most interesting point to the traveling public. The first-named road has cut the rate to $2 from Kansas City to St. Louis, and the Hannibal and St. Joe road is selling tickets for $5 from Kansas City to Chicago, and $10 for the round trip.... A dispatch from Beaver, Utah, says the jury in the case of John D. Lee, charged with being the leader of the Mountain Meadow massacre, reported that they were unable to agree, and were discharged by the court. It is reported that they stood nine for acquital to three—one Gentile and two Mormons—for conviction.... Three desperadoes that had escaped from the Denver jail were surrounded in a forest fifty miles south of that place, a few days ago, by fifty ranchmen, who fired upon and instantly killed two of them, the third escaping.... The panic occasioned by the floods in Indiana has subsided, and the better estimates place the damage to the crops at not more than 25 per cent. in the central and southern portions of the State.... Iowa, according to the census just taken, has a population of about 1,350,000—a gain of about 100,000 in two years.

Charles Scheffer, President of the National Bank of Stillwater, Minn., committed suicide by shooting himself on Saturday last.

The returns of the Wisconsin census show a population of 1,237,021, being a gain of 183,251 over the census of 1870.... A dispatch from Cheyenne says: "Gen. Crook and Col. Stanton returned here to-day from the Black Hills. The miners were preparing to leave, covering up the richest lodes to prevent their becoming known till such time as they can return. The mountains are full of quartz. Capital and skilled labor will develop mines equal to those in California or Nevada. There were about 1,500 miners in the hills. Prof. Jenny's party were still exploring the hills, and will probably remain until the middle of October.... A dispatch from Salt Lake, Utah, says considerable excitement is prevailing in the neighborhood of Corrinne, growing out of the demonstrations of a large body of Indians camped near there. Nearly 1,000 of them were lately baptized into the Mormon church. They have supplied themselves with ammunition and guns, and have sent all their squaws away and made threats of driving the Gentiles from the west side of the Bear river, which, they claim, has been granted to them by the Mormons for a reservation.

The crop of oats, rye, barley and wheat in Northern Wisconsin is simply immense. Farmers are now in the midst of the harvest, and the yield, it is said, will exceed that of any previous year in the history of the State.... Advices from the regions of the recent floods in Southern Illinois, Indiana and Ohio indicate that the aggregate loss and damage to crops will not be nearly as great as was at first reported. The serious losses are confined to the rivers and streams, along which much destruction was caused by overflow.... A good deal of trouble is apprehended in the Black Hills country on account of the incursions of miners into the reservation of the Sioux. The military is powerless to prevent the entrance of gold-seekers into the coveted country, and cannot even drive out those who are already there. The Sioux are becoming restless, and manifest a warlike disposition, but are held in check by the hope that the coming conference will result in an agreement for the sale of the territory.

Later advices from Corinne, Utah, state that the Indians that threatened the town have gone back to their reservations, and no further trouble is anticipated.... A Fort Sully telegram says the Indian Commission which have been holding councils with different tribes of Sioux in that vicinity for the past two weeks regard their efforts as very successful. All the northern tribes will be represented at Red Cloud, where a grand council is to be held September 1.

WASHINGTON.

Notwithstanding the unanimous report of the committee of local architects to the effect that work on the Chicago Custom-House ought to go forward, Secretary Bristow is firm in his determination to leave the building in the hands of the next Congress.

The government income for the last fiscal year is larger than any estimate made, and more than realizes the expectations of the Treasury officials.... Three arrests have been made at Washington on suspicion of complicity in the robbery of the Treasury of a money package, containing some $47,500, about three months ago. One of the number is a Treasury clerk, another a gambler, and the third a saloon keeper. The Treasury clerk, Halleck by name, admits having stolen the money, but claims that the job was put up by the saloon-keeper, Ottman, who shared the plunder with him.

Halleck, the Treasury employe who has confessed to stealing the $47,000 package, was assistant shipping teller in the cash room. He has been employed in the department about eight years, and was regarded as one of the most trustworthy men in the building. A large amount of the stolen money has been recovered.... During the late flood in the Wabash river of Indiana, the waters were higher than they have ever been known before.

The government will probably recover all the money stolen from the Treasury by the clerk Halleck. Three-fourths of the amount has already been secured, and the property of Ottman, Halleck's partner in the theft, has been attached to make good the balance.... The Comptroller of the Currency has just completed his abstract of all the reports of the national banks in the United States. There were 2,076 banks of this character in operation at the close of the fiscal year, having an aggregate of individual deposits on hand of $686,478,630.48. The surplus fund of the banks amounts to $133,169,096.79; the capital stock paid in, $501,568,563.50; national bank notes outstanding, $318,148,406; specie on hand, $18,959,482.30; whole amount of business done, $1,913,239,201.16.

United States war vessels have been ordered to Panama and Aspinwall, owing to the political disturbances in the United States of Colombia.... The Postmaster-General has arranged with the Occidental and Oriental Steamship Company for a monthly mail between San Francisco, Japan and China, at the sea postage rates as full compensation for the service, which will amount to not over $500 per month .... Gen Babcock, Superintendent of Public Buildings, asks $773,000 as his estimated expenses for next year.

THE SOUTH.

A negro named Zack Gordon, who had been arrested for attempting to outrage a white woman, was taken from the jail by a mob at Athens, Tenn., on Friday, and shot to death, his body being riddled with bullets.... A prison guard in Louisiana has been discovered in the horrible sport of turning convicts loose for the purpose of exercising the bloodhounds!

Yellow fever of a magliguant type has broken out at Pascagoula, Miss.

GENERAL.

Jeff Davis, President of the late Southern Confederacy, has accepted an invitation to be present and address the Winnebago County (Ill.) Agricultural Society, at Rockford, on the 14th of September.

A Maryland Judge has decided that the first holder of a railroad ticket alone can use it.... Ex-Gov. William A. Graham, of North Carolina, died at Saratoga Springs last week. Mr. Graham was the Whig candidate for Vice-President in 1852, Gen. Scott being the nominee for President.

Serious fears are entertained of a general Indian outbreak. News received at Washington indicates a very unsettled condition of affairs among the Sioux, occasioned by the depredations of the miners in the Black Hills, and it is doubtful if these restless savages will wait until the meeting of the council proposed by the commission sent out by the Interior Department. Even if they do, this council is bound to break up inharmoniously on account of the demands that will be made by the Sioux for damages to be paid them for the wrongful invasion of the Black Hills by the miners. As the Interior Department has no fund to pay claims, and Congress is not in session to appropriate money, it is believed the council will certainly break up in a row. It is reported that the Sioux have already made out a bill for damages to the amount of several hundred thousand dollars. The Black Hills question promises now to have a bloody solution.

POLITICAL.

The late election in the Cherokee Nation, for First and Second Chief, Senators, members of the National and Grand Council, and for district officers, passed off quietly. William P. Ross was elected Chief.... The delegation to the Alabama Constitutional Convention stands 81 Democrats, 12 Republicans, and 6 Independents.

The New York Republicans will hold their State Convention at Saratoga on the 8th of September.... The Independents of San Francisco, Cal., have nominated Sam Brannon for Congress.... Alexander H. Stephens looms up as a possible candidate for Governor of Georgia.

FOREIGN.

According to accounts from Damascus to the 23d of July, cholera was raging there. Four hundred cases were reported daily, but the real number was concealed. The Christian quarters are deserted. Sudden deaths occur in the streets. There are no physicians, medicines, or supplies.... Mr. Schoez, of Vicksburg, Miss., won the silver cup in the international rifle shooting match at Stuttgart, Germany.... There were serious riots in Glasgow, Scotland, during the O'Connell centenary celebration. Many police were badly injured, necessitating the services of the military.... Capt. Bogardus, the American pigeon-slaughterer, defeated his English opponent, Rimel, easily.

The trial of Alexander and William Collie, who recently failed for some $15,000,000, on the charge of obtaining money on false pretenses, was brought to an abrupt stop in London, the other day, by the announcement that the elder brother had absconded. His bail was declared forfeited, and the trial postponed for a month.

Late advices from South America report that the electoral struggle for President of the United States of Columbia threatens to become a general war and a division of the country.... There was an anti-vaccination riot in Montreal last w ditional purpo
Advice
the sc fully c of the partic ringle
Ameri and a to den

Mr. pamph questi
the su canism same predic on the sequi at Co cerem day w out I flags has p stone has b heavy ties,

W

Mo rathe easy
Gover

U. S.
U. S.
U. S.
U. S.
U. S.
(ex.
U. S.
(ex.
U. S.
(ex.
U. S.
U. S.
U. S.
Gold
Gold
Gold

Th grain chang sever called weath ing valu pleas
verse influence. The movement was wholly on speculative account, the shipping interest doing but little in the way of buying. Spring wheat shows an increase in the stock in store, but corn and oats show a decrease. During the closing days of the week the greater part of the advance gained early was lost, although the closing quotations of wheat and oats show an improvement of from 3@5c per bu. Corn was higher, but closed at lower figures. Cash oats were scarce, and sold up to 61c, the offerings being inadequate to meet the wants of the local trade. Rye was 7@9c higher, and barley for September closed about 6@7c higher.

The following table shows the prices current at the opening and close of the past week:

	Opening		Closing.
No. 2 sp'g wheat, cash		@1.20½		@1.26½
No. 2, seller August..		@1.22½		@1.26½
No. 2 sellerSeptember		@1.21½		@1.25
No. 2 corn, cash......		@ .71½		@ .71½
No. 2 corn, s. August.		@ .71½		.71½ bid
No. 2 corn, seller Sept		@ .70½		.72½ bid
No. 2 oats, cash.......		@ .52		.58
No. 2 oats, s. August.		@ .43½		.43½ bid
No. 2 oats, s. Sept....		@ .40½		.40½ bid
No. 2 rye, cash.......		@ .80	.87	@ .89
No. 2 rye, seller Aug..	.81	@ .82		@ .87
No. 2 rye, seller Sept.		@ .80		@ .85
No. 2 barley, cash....		@1.25	1.20	@1.25
No. 2 barley, s. Sept..		@1.07½		@1.14
No. 2 barley, s. Oct...	1.07	@1.08		@1.12½
No 3 barley, cash....	.90	for new	.95	@1.00

PRODUCE.

The week opened rather quiet in the butter market, but toward the latter part of the week there was an increase in the demand, and a very satisfactory trade was reported. The receipts were liberal, but not much in excess of the shipments, and the accumulation was but slight. The quality of the receipts shows some improvement over the previous week. Dealers generally were quite firm in their views, and full former prices were maintained. Quotable at 22@25c for extras; 18@20c for firsts, 16@18c for seconds, 13½@16c for thirds, and 11@12c for inferior stock. There was nothing of consequence done in beans, but the offerings were not large and prices were without essential change. Eastern mediums quotable at $1.80@1.85 per bu for prime according to the quality. Western $1.26@1.75 for common to choice. Beeswax was steady but quiet at 26@30c for prime. There was a very good trade in broom corn, and the market ruled steady. Quotable at 11½@14c for No. 1 to extra hurl, 11@13c for good to choice stalk braid, and 6@8c for crooked. The week has been a very active one in the cheese market and prices ruled about ½c higher on the better qualities, though the advance for common was but slight. The market closed at 5@10c for common to good, and 10½c for prime. Dried fruits were firm, and apples under a good demand were higher. Michigan and New York apples sold at 8½@8¾c, and the outside was paid at the close. Ohio quotable at 8@8½c, and Southern at 7@7½c. Halves peaches were scarce and firm at 10c. Blackberries sold at 8c for renovated, but prime not renovated were held above this figure. Dried peas were dull, and sales of good marrowfat were made at $1.65. The market was again in a very unsatisfactory condition for eggs. A large portion of the receipts were in poor order, and receivers are constantly being annoyed by grocers claiming reclamations. Fresh receipts and warranted closed at 14c per doz in carriers. Feathers were slow at 48@52c for prime live geese, 20@25c for turkey tail, and 3@5c for chicken. Green fruits were again quite active, and prices for choice fruit were steady, but there was an abundance of common, the market for which was slow sale. Apples sold at $1.50@3.25 per brl for common to choice cooking, and 25@50c in boxes. Choice freestone peaches were in good demand and firm at $1.75@2.00 per box, but clings sold slowly at 60c@1.50, according to quality. Common and small pears were dull, but choice met with a fair demand. Sales ranged at $1.00@2.00 per box, and 75c@$1.00 per basket. Plums were dull at 75c@$1.00 for wild in ½ bu boxes. The demand and offerings of cherries were both light. There was an improved demand for hides and prices ruled firmer. Quotable at 8@8½c for choice full cured green salted, and 6@6½c for damaged. Potatoes were again very dull. There was no demand for old, and some lots were actually given away. New were also almost unsalable, and the few sales made ranged at 75c@$1.00 per brl. Poultry was in very good demand and steady. Turkeys sold at 9@10c; old chickens $3.75@4.50, and springs $2.50@3.50. The range in prices being due to the quality. Salt was unchanged. Quotable at $1.50 for Onondaga and Saginaw fine, and $1.70 for ordinary coarse. Veal was in very good demand and prices were steady at 5@8c for common to choice carcasses. Vegetables were dull and the principal sales consisted of tomatoes. The market closed at 25@50c per box for tomatoes, 7@10c per doz. for corn, $3.00@3.25 per brl for onions, and $2.00 per brl for choice new Michigan rutabaga turnips. Wool was dull and unchanged; quotable at 38@42c for fine to choice coarse and medium washed, 25@33c for the same unwashed, and 40@58c for poor to choice tub washed.

PROVISIONS.

Trade was again only moderate in this market during the past week, yet the market ruled firm and a material advance was noticeable in values. The business transacted was again largely of a speculative character, the purchases made for shipment consisting mainly of small lots. The arrivals of hogs were fair and prices were 25@50c higher, this advance having some influence in strengthening values of the roduct. The advices received from New and Liverpool were of a more favorable and calculated to inspire more firmness g holders. The following prices for the es named show the comparison for two ns:

rticles.	1875.	1874.
ogs........	$ 7.25 @ 8.25	$ 6.00 @ 7.10
ork, cash..	21.37½@......	24.25 @24.50
h., s. year..	18.37½@18.50	16 50 @16.62½
cash........	13.62½@......	14.87½@15.00
s, the year..	12.37½@12.40	10.75 @10.87½

market closed at $21.35@21.40 for cash pork in small lots; $21.35@21.40 for seller t, $21.50@21.52½ seller September, and 2½@21.65 seller October. Cash lard at $13.62½, seller August $13.60@13.65,
September $13.75@13.77½, and seller
er $13.95@13.97½.

SEEDS AND HIGHWINES.

re was a marked improvement in the t for timothy during the latter part of eek, but no change of importance was ex-d in the other descriptions. The market very quiet for all kinds of seeds Friday, large orders were received from Southern
, and the market ruled active and 25@30c
r. Saturday, however, the market was and a portion of the decline was lost.
ranged at $2.50@3.00 for common to timothy; closed at about $2.85@2.90 rime. Clover was nominal at about $8.00 rime meadow. Flax quotable at $1.50@
There was no market for the other deions. There was a good demand for high-
, and the market ruled as active as the ngs would admit. The market closed sales at $1.18.

COOPERAGE, LUMBER AND WOOD.

e usual quietness again prevailed in the et for cooperage, and no particular activity be expected until the opening of the pack-season. The offerings were only moderate prices were unchanged; quotable at ½@1.15 for pork barrels, $1.35@1.45 for tierces, $1.90@2.10 for whisky barrels, 45@55c for flour barrels. The market well supplied with lumber during the week, although the movement was not as brisk might have been under so good an assort-
, a steady feeling pervaded the market and er prices were maintained. The market l at $2.50 for joist and scantling, $3.50@ for common to choice boards and strips, ½@2.70 for shingles, and $1.50 for lath.
t was again dull, but prices were un-ged; quotable at $8.00 per cord for hick-$7.00 for maple, $6.00 for beech, and $4.00 ord for slabs at the yards.

t Hare Bros. old s
Miller & Casebeer's
J. D.
WHE
EPTEMBE
WHA

Telegraphic Market Reports.

NEW YORK.
....	7 50 @13 50
—Dressed........	10 @ 10½
N........	14½@ 14½
—Superfine Western........	5 25 @ 5 75
—No. 2 Chicago........	1 36 @ 1 37
No. 1 Spring........	1 45 @ 1 50
....	83½@ 85
....	65 @ 66
....	97 @ 1 08
—New Mess........	20 00 @20 75
—Steam........	13 @ 13½
ST. LOUIS.
—No. 2 Red........	1 47 @ 1 48½
No. 2........	68 @ 70
No. 2........	52 @ 53
No. 2........	83 @ 85
—Mess........	22 00 @22 50
....	12½@ 13
Hogs........	7 50 @ 8 00
Cattle........	4 50 @ 6 50
MILWAUKEE.
Wheat—No. 1........	.. @ 1 31½
No. 2........	.. @ 1 26½
Corn—No. 2........	68 @ 70
Oats—No. 2........	.. @ 60
Rye........	.. @ 83
Barley—No. 2........	1 08 @ 1 11
CINCINNATI.
Wheat—Red........	1 40 @ 1 55
Corn........	74 @ 77
Oats........	70 @ 75
Rye........	95 @ 1 00
Pork—Mess........	.. @22 00
Lard........	14½@ 14¾
TOLEDO.
Wheat—Extra........	.. @ 1 55
Amber........	.. @ 1 51
Corn........	77 @ 77¾
Oats........	45 @ 50
DETROIT.
Wheat—Extra........	1 40 @ 1 50
Amber........	1 40 @ 1 42
Corn........	@ 79
Oats........	50 @ 61
CLEVELAND.
Wheat—No. 1 Red........	.. @ 1 56
No. 2 Red........	.. @ 1 51
Corn........	82 @ 83
Oats........	69 @ 71

A man who has an office on Griswold street was handed a bill the other day by a boy employed as collector for a firm. He looked it over, put his thumb into his vest pocket, and remarked: "Come in Wednesday and I will pay it." The boy went away, but returned Tuesday and again presented the bill. "Didn't I tell you to come Wednesday?" growled the man as he looked over the bill. "Yes, sir, but I know of two more collectors who are coming for you to-morrow, and I thought I'd get in ahead." The man could offer no further objections.—Detroit Free Press.

AN EXASPERATED BEAST.

How a Girl's Dress Was Pulled Back by an Elephant.

[Wyandotte Correspondence of the Kansas City Times.]

Tuesday, the entire population, except a blind woman and Rouse went over to visit a circus and have a nice time. One Granger sold the two bushels of corn he had received from the Relief Board for $1.50 and enjoyed the sawdusty arena far more than he would the planting of the same; "and besides," he remarked, "the poor ye have with ye always, but circuses are rare, and should not be shunned." A young lady from across the Jersey took her feller and an opera glass, the former to buy her lemonade and peanuts, and the latter to show that she had one, and to enable her to see the performance. But as soon as the exercises began she saw enough with the naked eye to convince her that a glass was unnecessary; so she laid it in her lap, whence it was observed by one of the fakirs, and now beams darkly from some pawnshop, without a doubt. The young lady says she thought the performance real romantic until she stopped to see the elephant.

She wore one of those pockets behind, in which, besides her handkerchief, she had deposited an apple, a handful of peanuts, quarter of a pound of gumdrops, a little bottle of ammonia, and some other trifles. She and her swain, after admiring the complexion of the huge beast, turned their backs upon him to watch the monkeys and the live kangaroo, and gaze into each other's eyes; to do this the better they leaned back against the rope which enclosed the stately monarch of the south, who saw the apple protruding from the pocket of the unconscious fair one. He hesitated a moment and was lost to all sense of honor or self-respect, for with shuffling movements he emulated the example of our common mother, plucked and ate the fruit, but instead of clothing himself in a fig leaf, returned to the pocket and scooped out the gumdrops and peanuts, with a sly wink at his nephew, who was looking on with anxiety at the proceeding. But in the last mouthful the majestic beast took in this ammonia bottle by mistake, the cork came out, and about an ounce of hartshorn ran down the throat of the greedy beast. This beverage is said to have a reviving and stimulating influence, and in this case it proved its power, for a more revived elephant was never seen on earth, and it is doubtful if ever the kingdom of heaven contained so stimulated an animal.

With a wild yell he grabbed the protuberance behind the lady which had been the cause of his disaster; she was "pulled back" some before, but as the exasperated trunk yanked at the bustle and accessories, all former attempts at that style of wearing-gear seemed pale and sickly; everything was "pulled back" until the young woman looked like the statue of Niobe in blue calico. The young man with great presence of mind shouted "shoo," and the gentlemanly clerk of the elephant, with a good prod, persuaded the beast to let up. But the fun was over for the day; cake had no charms, and soda no balm for these two souls, who walked home with but a single thought about wild animals. The big elephant has learned a lesson in morals which will probably induce him to let other people's pockets alone, though nobody dares to carry a bottle within range of his proboscis.

What Are Jetties?

The Scientific American gives a familiar description of the jetty system which is to be applied in the improvements at the mouth of the Mississippi, as follows:

The delta of the Mississippi is formed of narrow strips of land, mostly low lying banks, through which the river winds until it makes its exit to the gulf by a number of narrow passes. In some of these channels previous attempts have been made to deepen them by dredging, with but partial success, however, as a single flood has been known to carry down sufficient sediment to fill them to their original depth; and the current, besides emptying into the open water at the mouths, speedily left at that point bars of blue clay, surmountable only by light draught ships. The gist of Capt. Eads' plan will now be readily apprehended when it is regarded as shifting the point of deposit of these barriers from the shoal water at the entrance of one pass out into the deep water where filling up by natural causes is impossible. By this means the river is now to be made to cut out and scour its own channel across the present bar. To do this, it is obvious that the banks of the pass must be extended so as to lead the stream far enough out; another section of conduit, as it were, must be added, and this is now to be formed by the submarine dykes or jetties.

The material of which these structures are to be composed is willow twigs bound in bundles, termed by engineers "fascines," eight or ten feet in length, and about as many inches in diameter. A large number of fascines at a time will be lashed together to form rafts, the first of which will be from seventy-five to two thousand feet in width, the largest rafts being sunk in the deepest water. The rafts will next be towed to the proper point, there loaded with stones and submerged, and thus the work will continue, one raft being sunk above another until the surface is reached. Each line of rafts will be narrower than the one below it, until the upper course will not be more than ten feet wide. The two walls which will thus be constructed will be prolongations of the banks, and between them will form a channel with sloping sides. In the course of time the interstices of twigs and stones will fill with sand and mud, so that eventually two solid submarine levees will be produced. Very little pile work, it is said, will be required, except, perhaps, at the head of South Pass, which is the outlet at which the jetties are to be built, in order to provide for the proper regulations of the volume of water in the new channel at various stages of the river.

Capt. Eads has already begun his surveys, in which work, together with the making of the necessary contracts for material, labor, etc., the summer will be consumed. The first raft, it is expected, will be sunk by the beginning of October next.

Mark Twain's joking advertisement for the body of a boy who stole his umbrella at a base ball match recoiled rather heavily on him. Some medical student left a "case"—the corpse of a boy—at his house, and Mark was thought to have been his murderer until the janitor of the medical college claimed the "subject."

A Criticism of Johnson's Administration.

[J. B. McCullagh, in St. Louis Globe.]

It is not my purpose to attempt a general estimate of Johnson's character as a man or as President, but I think it only just to his memory to explain away one or two misapprehensions with regard to him. A great part of the public still believe that he was a great drunkard. This is far from being the truth. He said to me one night that it was very strange that he couldn't take a glass of whisky and water without being denounced as a drunkard, while others could get blind drunk and be indorsed by the temperance societies and the Young Men's Christian associations. During his life in the White House, Johnson rarely used wine or liquor. He was supposed to be drunk when he made his famous 22nd of February speech, in which he denounced Forney as a dead duck; but he had not tasted liquor that day. He could get drunk on his own talk quicker than the oldest toper can get drunk on whisky. Even in private conversation, after he "had the floor" for five minutes, his listeners would be often led to think he had been drinking; but in public speeches he was even more liable to this suspicion, when it was entirely groundless. He was not a tetotaller, I believe, but I dare swear he was not a habitual drinker puring his presidential incumbency. Another impression quite prevalent is that he did not write the message sent to Congress by him. This is another mistake. He not only wrote his own message, but he rarely showed them even to his own Cabinet until they were finished. He made an exception in the case of the veto of the Freedman's Bureau bill, which, I beleive was submitted to Jeremiah Black for sevision before being sent to Congress, but the strongest document he ever wrote—the veto of the Civil Rights bill—was his own unaided composition.

After all that can be written of Johnson's life and career, I still think that the severest as well as the justest critism of his administration was made by an old Virginia farmer, in a high state of fermentation, whom I met in the gallery of the House one day. Said he, "He does (hic) the right (hic)-est thing the (hic) wrongest (hic)-est time of any man I ever saw."

Singular Loss of Sheep.

[From the Alameda (Cal.) Independent.]

Last week we mentioned the loss of a large number of sheep in the hills back of Mission San Jose, belonging to Mr. San Jose, belonging to Mr. Ashurst, but we were misinformed as to the mode of their death. It was not by rushing down a precipice, but in another and most singular way that the misfortune occurred. The sheep to the number of 2,500 were quietly feeding on a hill about three miles east of Mission San Jose, Sunday afternoon, July 4, when a man who had been a short time working for the owners of the sheep suddenly uttered a loud yell, which had the effect of frightening the sheep. They immediately commenced running down hill as fast as they could. At or near the bottom of the hill a large patch of poison oak was growing, and they rushed pell-mell into it. Here their legs got so entangled that they could not move. Meanwhile the others came running down upon them, until they were piled in layers six deep, one upon the other. Of course the most of them were soon suffocated and dead. One of the owners came to the spot within ten minutes afterward, and, with the aid of a Spaniard, succeeded in pulling out and rescuing about fifty head. But the number that lost their lives in this strange way was 700 in all.

Pat's Persuasiveness.

The following anedote is related of the late Mr. Greeley, who is well known to have been throughout life a staunch advocate of temperance. Through all his electioneering campaigns, he sat at public dinners and suppers where wine and spirits flowed freely, but he never passed the bottle or touched the liquor himself. The waiters who knew his temperance principles were generally puzzled what to do when they came to the row glasses fronting his plate, as they fronted all others. Usually they were directed by a look or gesture of the master of the ceremonies to pass by him in silence. But on one occasion, an Irish waiter would not abide such an apparent breach of hospitality. "Hadn't ye better take something, sir, to get up an appetite like, after your long ride, sir?" the hospitable Hibernian whispered to the startled sage. "A little brandy and wather wud do ye good—it wud, upon my sowl, sir." The heartiness of the appeal touched the philosopher. He recognized the ring of true hospitality in its tones, and his heart relented at the idea of depressing such sterling virtue by a continued refusal. "Brandy and water!" he said. "Well, Pat, I'll take half that to oblige you. Give me the water, and let some one else have the brandy."

The Baltimore Balloon.

The Baltimore Sun thus speaks of the balloon in which W. F. Schoeder, of that city, proposes to attempt a voyage to Europe: The balloon is egg-shaped, very strong, and will hold 80,000 cubic feet of gas. From the machine, shaped like a life-boat, and suspended below, a steel mast will run up at each end, intersecting and bracing the balloon. The balloon and machine will thus be firmly united. The car will be suspended below the machine. There is to be a rudder at each end of the machine, and also a propeller, each fifteen feet long. These propellers, working together, act the one to pull and the other to push the ship forward. They are to make twelve hundred revolutions per minute. On each side will be a wing thirty-five feet long that flaps like a bird in flight, and will serve to raise or lower the balloon, or make it stand still. A light eight-horse power engine will work the machinery, and a gas generator is to be carried along. The whole affair, it is expected, will weigh 2,800 pounds, and will carry 12,000 pounds under ordinary conditions,

Men are erratic. William Homer, of Memphis, permitted his wife to give a grand party, and when the guests had arrived he brought in the garden hose and sprinkled them out.

AUBURN COURIER

T. C. MAYS, Publisher.

GOSSIP OF THE DAY.

There are but three members of President Lincoln's Cabinet now living—Montgomery Blair, Gideon Welles and Simon Cameron.

The English Channel Tunnel project is likely to be realized in the next few years. Bills authorizing the work have passed the British Parliament and the French Assembly.

Moses Long, a Kentucky Uncle Ned, who claimed to be 111 years old and did not claim to have been a servant of George Washington, has lately gone where the good darkies go.

Mr. George Grant, of Ellis county, Kansas, is credited with owning and running the biggest farm in the universe. It covers the whole county of Ellis, and is devoted to the raising of stock.

Earl Russell is probably the oldest man of equal distinction who maintains an active interest in public affairs anywhere in the world. Gen. Dix and Gortschakoff were born in '98, Thiers and Emperor William in '97, but Russell dates back to 1792.

The lawyers of Chicago are a very bad lot or else the Times is a great libeler. That journal says that "were it within the limits of possibility to send from five to fifteen per cent. of all those who call themselves lawyers, in Chicago, to the Penitentiary, it would be one of the grandest moral reforms of the age."

Washington died during the Administration of John Adams. Consequently there was a short period during his term of office in which there was no living ex-President. From the time that Thomas Jefferson took the Executive chair of the nation until the death of Andrew Johnson there was no time during which there was not at least one ex-President living.

An important discovery in the shape of an electric light to be used at sea has just been perfected by Commander Parker, Chief Signal Officer of the Navy. In addition to the luminous quality of the light, it is so manipulated as to emit a shower of electric sparks or stars, and by patient experiments the new process has been completed to the entire satisfaction of the Navy Department.

The infant mortality of New York city is frightful. The heat is too much for the poor little innocents, and they are dying at the rate of one hundred a day. In Chicago a floating hospital has been instituted, upon which mothers accompanied by their sick infants take daily excursions upon the lake, thus giving the babes plenty of fresh air, which will have the effect of saving the lives of hundreds of little cherubs that would otherwise succumb to the terrible ravages of the summer plague.

The events of the late Andrew Johnson's busy life are inscribed on the tablet of time in the following order: Born at Raleigh, N. C., on the 25th of December, 1808; Alderman in 1828, 1829 and 1830; Mayor in 1831, 1832 and 1833; member of the Legislature in 1835, 1839 and 1841; Presidential Elector in 1840; Governor from 1853 to 1857; United States Senator from 1857 to 1863; Military Governor in 1862; Vice President, 1864; President, 1865 to 1869; Senator in 1875; died in Carter county, Tenn., July 31, 1875.

Postmaster-General Jewell is making very liberal arrangements for a Centennial Postoffice at Philadelphia. The difficulty has been that no appropriation has been made for the purpose, and that the appropriations for the Philadelphia office are inadequate to the increased service. The Centennial office is to be entirely separate from the Philadelphia office, and will be served by carriers of all nationalities. The attempt will be made, as in London, to allow no stranger to be in the city more than a day before the carriers find him. Resort will doubtless be had to a registry to effect this.

Every month adds some 2,500 Chinese laborers to the Pacific coast. They are expert cooks and servants, and make good bank clerks, are industrious, but have learned how to strike for higher wages. They care little for politics, seldom get drunk, but gamble and fight universally. They never are idle. Their great numbers already regulate the wages in California, both in the kitchen and on the public works. They control cigar-making, boots and shoes, are carpenters, gardeners, tinsmiths, watchmakers, and altogether are a vast improvement on the Caucasian tramp element of the day.

The success of the cheap trains on the road between Boston and Lynn has led to a new thing in railroad enterprise. A narrow gauge railway has been built between the two cities, which is to be run the cheap fare principle entirely. The five-cent trains on the Eastern railway are confined to the morning and evening, and make only one trip each way. The fares on the narrow gauge will be somewhat higher—12½ cents to Lynn—but they will apply to all trains. One hundred days before the road was opened, the iron of which it was built was lying on the shores of Lake Champlain; the lumber of which the cars are made was piled at Troy; and the ties were growing in North Carolina forests. Such enterprise augurs well for the success of the railway.

It is announced that every mill in Fall River, Mass., has been closed on account of the refusal of the operatives to accept a reduction of wages during the dull season. The city has forty-three mills within its limits, containing 1,258,508 spindles and 20,865 looms, over one-eighth of all the spindles in the United States, and manufactures over one-half of all the print cloths. The monthly pay rolls amount to more than $500,000, and 15,000 hands are employed in the busy season. The cessation of such an industry will make itself felt throughout the United States."

The death of ex-President Johnson has revived the subject of the vote upon his impeachment and the number of Republican Senators voting for acquittal. In the following exhibit of the vote on that memorable occasion, those in favor of acquittal whose names appear in italics were Republicans:

FOR CONVICTION.

Anthony,
Cameron,
Cattell,
Chandler,
Cole,
Conkling,
Conness,
Frelinghuysen,
Harlan,
Howard,
Howe,
Wade,
Morgan,
Morton,
Pomeroy,
Ramsey,
Sherman,
Sprague,
Stewart,
Corbett,
Cragin,
Drake,
Yates,
Edmunds.
Ferry,
Morrill, (Me.)
Morrill, (Vt.)
Nye,
Patterson, (N. H.)
Sumner,
Thayer,
Tipton,
Wiley,
Williams,
Wilson—35.

FOR ACQUITTAL.

Bayard,
Buckalew,
Davis,
Dixon,
Doolittle,
Fessenden,
Vickers,
Fowler,
Grimes,
Henderson,
Hendricks,
Johnson,
McCreery,
Norton.
Patterson, (Tenn.)
Ross,
Saulsbury,
Trumbull,
Van Winkle—19.

POLITICS AND POLITICIANS.

Three Democratic newspapers in California are edited by women.

The Union Spy, of Rochester, Minn., nominates the Hon. Daniel D. Pratt for the Presidency.

The new constitution of the State of Nebraska gives State and county officers fixed salaries and no fees.

Ex-Governor Seymour announced in a recent speech that "time had cured him of political aspirations."

The Republicans of Maryland talk of C. C. Fulton, of the Baltimore American, as their candidate for Governor.

Ex-Governor Fenton, of New York, declines to allow the use of his name in connection with a Congressional nomination.

Two politicians of opposite parties have quarreled in San Francisco over a speech which was written by the one for the other to deliver at a mass meeting. The writer has brought suit against the speaker for the price of the oration, which he considers worth one hundred dollars, but for which he is willing to take half that sum.

The Missouri Constitutional Convention has voted to exempt the property of churches, schools, benevolent institutions and agricultural societies to the amount of one acre of land, with the buildings upon it, when situated in a town or city; and to the amount of five acres, with appurtenances, when five miles from a city or town.

Senator Schurz writes to friends in Washington that he will return to this country in October. He has spent most of his time abroad in Berlin, at the Foreign Office, studying the correspondence between Prussia and our Government a century ago, intending to use the data obtained in the political history of America which he designs writing.

Tennessee is having a heap of trouble, this year, with her finances. The State Treasurer says he's blest if he knows where the July interest is coming from—let alone the January. It has been proposed to convene the Legislature, but what that body can do about it is not so clear. The taxes falling due in November will be pretty much used up in paying off maturing warrants for money borrowed to keep the pot boiling.

Louisville disputes the claim of St. Louis for the next National Democratic Convention. The Courier-Journal says: "St. Louis already puts in a bid for the next National Democratic Convention. Not if Louisville knows herself, and she thinks she does, for we have special claims in that quarter. This city is on the border. It has better hotel accommodations than St. Louis. It is more central and accessible. It has a hall capable of seating 20,000 people. St. Louis will have to stand aside or walk over the dead body of Louisville. As a matter of fact we have set our heart on that Convention, and mean to have it."

The Washington Chronicle has been looking up the facts and figures pertaining to the organization of the next House. The following table, showing the number of candidates for the various positions in control of the House, may be set down as approximately, if not absolutely, correct:

Speaker	6
Clerk	11
Sergeant-at-Arms	12
Postmaster	10
Doorkeeper	21
Caterer	32
Employes under Speaker	35
Employes under Clerk	100
Employes under Sergeant-at-Arms	35
Employes under Doorkeeper	475
Employes under Postmaster	95
Capitol police	50
Total expectants	882

Inasmuch as only about 100 of these, all told, can by any possibility be accommodated, a simple operation of subtraction will show there must needs be about 780 disappointed gentlemen.

INDIANA NEWS.

A band of Gipsies keep South Bend children within bounds.

New Buffalo wants a newspaper, and says she is going to have one.

Hunt & Cook salute the public in the last issue of the Bloomington Times.

A Newtonville lady was badly bitten by a ferocious hog a few days ago.

The Allen County Court has more divorce cases pending than any other in the State.

A new paper has been started at Silver Lake, Kosciusko county. It is called the News.

Paul Tobser, aged 18, was drowned last week in Stone Lake, at Laporte, while bathing.

An ex-head servant of the Sultan of Turkey, named Edward Stringer, recently died at South Bend.

At Covington, last week, the Wabash was twenty-three inches higher than it was ever known to be heretofore.

There are now 485 convicts in the Northern Prison. A large number will be discharged the coming month.

The Louisville Exposition has swallowed up the Jefferson county fair. The grounds have been sold for building lots.

Hominy Ridge, Switzerland county, claims eminence, from the fact that there is but one church member in the settlement.

Mrs. Sarah A. Oren, late State Librarian, has been elected Assistant Professor of Mathematics at Peru University.

A Switzerland county youth recently had his hair clipped with lightning, without sustaining serious injury in the operation.

Briggs and Ryan, Rudifer's confederates in his recent attempt to escape, were severely catted for their part in the transaction.

Mr. John H. McFadden has been appointed Clerk of the Scott County Circuit Court by the County Commissioners, vice Henry M. Wilson, deceased.

Frank Johnson, a lad 14 years old, and a member of one of the thirty-six Mennonite families en route for Colorado, was drowned while bathing in White river, at Indianapolis, on Sunday last.

Judge L. Q. De Bruler, for many years a prominent lawyer in Southern Indiana, and three times a candidate for Congress, died on the 11th inst., at his residence in Rockport, after a short illness.

At Fort Wayne, last Thursday, Jacob Dreibelbiss, aged 50 years, committed suicide by hanging himself with a rope to a rafter in his barn. Cause unknown. Dreibelbiss was an idle, worthless man, and often threatened suicide.

The Knightsville Enterprise says: Parties from Pennsylvania are now erecting a furnace at Knightsville, to be operated in smelting the large piles of cinders that have accumulated at the two furnaces here, the one at Brazil, and the Lafayette and Planet furnaces.

At Indianapolis, on Sunday last, a negro named Sandy Wakefield struck Joseph Abel, a white man, over the head with a billet of wood, inflicting a wound from the effects of which he died shortly after. Wakefield surrendered himself, claiming to have acted in self-defense.

Suicide appears to be epidemic in this State. Among recent cases noted are those of R. W. Burk, a prominent citizen of Lawrenceburg, and John Rayer, a farmer of Sugar Creek township, Montgomery county. James Dewey attempted suicide at the Brahman House, Union City, because of disappointed love, but his little pistol failed to kill.

There is a new crime in Indiana called "provoke." It cannot be a very outrageous one, however, for a lady in Evansville was arraigned twice the same day upon a complaint charging her with it, and was discharged in both cases. She was less fortunate in two actions for "malicious trespass," to which the complaints "for provoke" appear to have been subsidary, having been compelled to pay twenty-two dollars and costs.

The following is a statement of the National Banks of Indiana at the close of business on the 30th of June:

RESOURCES.
Loans and discounts	$27,713,726.72
Overdrafts	235,677.09
U. S. bonds to secure circulation	16,196,300.00
U. S. bonds to secure deposits	450,000.00
U. S. bonds on hand	86,550.00
Other stocks, bonds and mortgages	624,288.05
Due from redeeming and reserve agents	2,523,514.09
Due from other national banks	1,723,346.41
Due from State banks and bankers	624,531.42
Real estate, furniture and fixtures	1,146,517.58
Current expenses	256,765.05
Premiums paid	401,332.52
Checks and other cash items	229,682.21
Bills of other national banks	736,508.00
Fractional currency	72,557.23
Specie	50,384.48
Legal-tender notes	2,547,480.00
United States certificates of deposit for legal-tender notes	20,000.00
Five per cent. redemption fund with Treasurer	691,685.78
Due from Treasurer other than five per cent. fund	151,253.45
	$56,398,106.98
LIABILITIES.
Capital stock paid in	$18,568,400.00
Surplus fund	4,567,627.87
Undivided profits	1,619,445.47
National bank notes outstanding	14,179,968.00
Dividends unpaid	60,516.84
Individual deposits	15,237,498.30
U. S. deposits	202,621.52
Deposits of United States disbursing officers	153,326.85
Due to national banks	871,451.52
Due to State banks and banker	756,954.59
Notes and bills rediscounted	14,131.80
Bills payable	98,164.22
	$56,398,106.98

Number of banks, 103.

AGRICULTURAL AND DOMESTIC.

Around the Farm.

Never let tomatoes lie on the ground if possible, as they bear more abundantly, last longer, and are better flavored when bushed or trellised.

To secure fine species of fruit, a French horticulturist, perceiving that whenever fruit rests upon some branch or other support beneath it, it always grows to a large size, and gives his selected fruits the necessary artificial support. This permits the sap vessels to remain open, and the fruit receives abundant nourishment.

The great drawback in growing cabbage successfully and to profit is in failing to have a large proportioned head. To make them head uniform and well, hoe often, especially in dry weather, and as soon as the surface dries after rains. Don't allow a crust to form around them. A thimbleful of salt scattered over them occasionally will be found very beneficial.

A very intelligent fruit grower, reflecting that grapes always seemed to flourish on soils of volcanic origin, assumed it was attributable to the sulphur present, and determined to try that substance as a fertilizer for them, which he did with very satisfactory results. Encouraged by this, he made a mixture of lime, salt and sulphur, and applied it to his peach trees with surprising effect.

A correspondent of the Indiana Farmer relates the cure of a self-milker by smearing the teats with a compound composed of grafting wax (softened by the addition of a little lard) and cayenne pepper. The teats, of course, have to be cleaned before milking; but in a couple of weeks he found the habit so effectually broken as to render further application unnecessary.

It is estimated that a mass of broken stone, the fragments ranging in size from one to eight inches in diameter, will, unless packed more than naturally close, contain in its interstices not less than forty-eight per cent. of its gross bulk of water. This estimate will be of value to those who are in the habit of laying stone drains, enabling them to calculate the capacity of the drain for discharging water.

According to the returns of the Department of Agriculture the direct losses of sheep owners by the ravages of dogs reach $1,000,000 annually in wool and mutton, and the indirect loss in the repression of sheep husbandry and the consequent waste of a large percentage of the grass crop is still larger. Reports from 500 counties, representing about one-fourth of the sheep of the United States, show a total of 79,285 sheep killed during 1874, and these returns are not complete.

Clipping the wings of fowls to prevent their flying is a necessary operation sometimes, but never necessarily disfiguring. It generally is, however, since the farmer's shears nearly always make a clean sweep of all the quills, and an ugly wing is the result. Beside the ugliness, there are also other disadvantages in such sweeping operations. A setting hen uses the outer ends of her wings to retain the eggs under her in place, and those near the body protect the skin from being torn by her mate's claws. The proper way is to only trim the feathers partly off with a pair of scissors, except about one inch at the end. It shows but little when the wing is closed, and does not disfigure the fowl, and lets the wind through so as to prevent flying.

Farmers, raise more sheep. Don't let the dogs deter you from this profitable and pleasant branch of stock-raising. Every farmer can profitably raise a few sheep without interfering with any other interest. Get a few thoroughbred or high grade Cotswolds or Southdowns, and let them run with your cows. Keep no worthless dogs of your own, and watch those of your neighbors, and with some precautions on your part the loss from dogs will be a trifle compared to the rapidly increasing profits. The sale of wool comes at an appropriate time of the year, when a little cash is a very convenient thing to have. Then a few mutton lambs or sheep may be sold during the summer before the crops are ready for market. Farmers, try it, and don't do without sheep on the farm another year.—Western Agriculturist.

About the House.

Running up and down stairs is woman-killing work, and should be avoided as much as possible, by having one or more bedrooms below.

Barton Cake.—One cup of sugar, one cup of molasses, one egg, two-thirds of a cup of butter, one cup of sour milk, two cups of raisins, and one teaspoonful of soda; all kinds of spices.

Green Gooseberry Jelly.—Boil one gallon of gooseberries in two quarts of water to a pulp, strain through a jelly bag, and to every pint of juice put one pound of sugar. Boil until of a deep red.

Renewing Wrinkled Silk.—It is said that silk which has become wrinkled may be made to appear new by sponging the surface with a weak solution of gum-arabic or white glue, and ironing on the wrong side.

Linen garments which have become yellow from time may be whitened by being boiled in a lather made of milk and pure white soap, a pound of the latter to a gallon of the former. After the boiling process, the linen should be twice rinsed, a little blue being added to the last water used.

Effect of Washing upon Vegetables.—The peculiar flavor of all vegetables is affected by washing, but that of all kinds used for salads is especially impaired by water. These should, therefore, never be washed unless necessary, and then only immediately before preparation for the table, and as rapidly as possible, all the water being removed by shaking or whirling in a net or colander.

Method of Preserving Eggs.—Professor Sacc now announces that by far the best method of preserving eggs for an indefinite length of time consists in coating them with paraffine, of which one pound will answer for fifteen hundred eggs. After being thus treated they do not experience any loss in weight, and will remain unchanged for several months. It is essential, however, that the eggs be perfectly fresh, as, should decomposition have commenced, the operation will not prevent its continuance.

Washing Woolen Clothing.—It has been found on trial that woolen articles treated by the following method, suggested by Dr. Tillmann, do not shrink, and remain unchanged in color. The garments are to be soaked for several hours in a warm, moderately concentrated solution of soda, to which about half a tumbler of ammonia water has been added, more or less according to the quantity of clothing. They are then to be washed out after the addition of some warm water, and rinsed in fresh water. The same result may be reached by adding a tumbler of ammonia water to a small tub of water, soaking the articles for half an hour in this, and then rinsing them in pure water.

The Home Doctor.

A little black pepper in some cotton dipped in sweet oil is one of the quickest remidies known for the earache.

Remedy for Bee Stings.—The immediate application of spirits of ammonia to the stung part is said to afford relief.

Looseness of the bowels, or cholera morbus, may be cured in this way: Mix two tablespoonsful of wheat flour with just enough water to moisten the flour; drink it. If the first dose does not check pain, or the purging, repeat the dose in half an hour. Severe cases sometimes require a third dose.

Remedy for Diarrhœa.—A correspondent of the Country Gentleman presents a remedy for diarrhœa which he never knew to fail in the past twenty-five years of its use in his family. It is simply a dose of laudanum and oil (a tablespoonful of castor oil with twenty drops of laudanum in it). The laudanum acts as an astringent, and the oil heals and carries off the effect of the disease.

Antidote for Poison.—A poison of any conceivable description and degree of potency, which has been swallowed intentionally or by accident, may be rendered almost instantaniously harmless by swallowing two gills of sweet oil. An individual with a very strong constitution should take twice the quantity. The oil will neutralize every form of vegetable or mineral poison with which physicians are acquainted.

Raw Beef for Dysentery.—Take half a pound of juicy beef, free from any fat; mince it very finely; then rub it into a smooth pulp, either in a mortar or with an ordinary potato-masher and press it through a fine sieve. Spread a little out upon a plate and sprinkle over it some salt, or some sugar, if the child prefers it. Give it alone, or spread it upon a buttered slice of stale bread. It makes an excellent food for children with dysentery.

Tomatoes as Medicine.—Dr. Bennet, a medical professor of some celebrity, asserts that the tomato, besides being one of the most powerful aperients of the materia medica, is a wonderfully effective curative agent for those affections of the liver and other organs for which calomel is generally employed. It might, indeed, entirely supersede calomel, and is also a thorough remedy for dyspepsia. The doctor advises its use by everybody at every full meal, either raw, cooked, or in the form of catsup.

Dyspepsia arises from a great variety of causes, and different persons are relieved by different remedies, according to the nature of the disease and condition of the stomach. We know of a lady who has derived great benefit from drinking a tumbler of sweet milk—the richer and fresher the better—whenever a burning sensation is experienced in the stomach. An elderly gentleman of our acquaintance, who was afflicted for many years with great distress after eating, has effected a cure by mixing a tablespoonful of wheat bran in half a tumbler of water, and drinking it half an hour after his meals. It is necessary to stir quickly and drink immediately, or the bran will adhere to the glass and become pasty. Coffee and tobacco are probably the worst substances dyspeptics can use.

Frightful Predicament.

We referred yesterday briefly to the serious injury of William Anthony, aged 16 years, at Stillwater. The young man had been offered employment at E. B. Skinner's knitting mill, but seemed to have a premonition of misfortune, and accepted with hesitation and reluctance. At 10:50 o'clock yesterday, while shifting a belt on the main shaft, the sleeve of his shirt caught between the belt and shaft, and the grip of the machinery quickly drew him from his feet, wound his garments up as far as they would yield, and then carried him with lightning-like rapidity around the shaft, which was making ninety revolutions a minute. The machinery was stopped as quickly as possible, and the poor boy fell to the floor unconscious and almost lifeless, a mangled, bruised mass. His left arm was broken in three places, and his right arm in two, and he was bruised all over. His escape from instant death was miraculous, as the space between shaft and ceiling is but twenty-two inches, and through this he was carried with such tremendous force that the flooring above was badly broken.—Troy (N. Y.) Times.

Ballooning Extraordinary.

In this era of balloon excitement the following brief account is not without interest:

"Many years ago a hot-air balloon was sent up by a number of boys on the Gravois road, near this city. The aeronaut was a cat which was fastened underneath the balloon by a cord tied under the fore-legs of the animal. The balloon, after quite an elevated trip, landed about three miles from where it started, in a wheat-field. The cat came down to terra firma unhurt, and, on alighting, scampered through the field, like one of Sampson's foxes, dragging along the burning fragments of the balloon, and setting fire to the wheat in the swaths. The harvesters, who were at first frightened away by the fiery apparition, returned, and had considerable trouble in putting out the fire, which commenced spreading in the field. The cat never came back to the neighborhood from which it made the ascension. Its prejudice against that locality was stronger than instinct.—St. Louis Republican.

THE BLACK HILLS.

Authentic News from the Gold Fields—The Miners Scarcely Earning Their Salt.

[From the Chicago Tribune.]

In the feverish excitement which some newspapers and adventurers have provoked with stories of the wealth of the Black Hills, perhaps the following candid letter from Lieut. John H. Coale, of the Second Cavalry Regiment, U. S. A., now in that region, to his father, Isaac Coale, Esq., of this city, will be read with interest, and perhaps gratitude, by those who heed it:

Camp Harney, Black Hills, July 18.—Camp Harney, from which I write, is situated in the Black Hills of Dakota—to be exact, in latitude 43 deg. 46 min. 20 sec., and longitude 103 deg. 44 min. and 45 sec. We have a permanent camp here, and send out surveying parties with small escorts to map the country within a radius of fifty miles. We are about through with the southern parts of the Hills, and to-morrow will move up to the northward, with a view of establishing a permanent camp about sixty or seventy miles from here, where we will complete the survey of the northeastern portion of the Hills.

I notice that the Eastern papers are filled with lies about the gold-discoveries. I have just as good opportunities of knowing as anybody, and I am satisfied that, so far, no rich diggings have been discovered, and I don't believe one nugget has been found. The gold, so far, is in very small scales, and I, not being an enthusiast, have failed to find out what the yield actually is. I am satisfied that most of the miners are not making $1 a day, and that perhaps one or two parties are making $2 a day, by much harder work than they would be required to do on any railroad in the United States.

Provisions, as yet, cannot be bought at any price; so when the stock which the miners have brought with them is exhausted, they will probably have to call on the government to keep them from starving. I am satisfied that no rich quartz-leads have been found, all newspaper reports to the contrary notwithstanding. If anybody thinks of coming to the Black Hills, he had better think twice about it. I really believe that, so far, all the stories about rich diggings have been invented by a few speculators, in order to get people out here to buy claims. The miners here are really not doing anything, but are lying back for the rush, in hopes of selling out their claims at fabulous prices. I suppose there are about 500 miners here now, scattered through the Hills. We have no instructions to interfere with them, because we have other duties to perform. Most of them are a poor, deluded set, who have no idea of the difficulties they will have to contend against. They seem to have come out here thinking they would find the gold lying around loose, and that all they would have to do would be to load their wagons and start home with a fortune. I do not mean to say there are no rich deposits of gold in the Hills, because I am no prophet; but I know that, up to the present time, they have not been discovered.

A Strange Story of the Sea.

[From the London Times.]

A private letter received yesterday in Sheffield, from one of the crew of the iron ship Glance, of London, which arrived in the Thames from Adelaide, on Thursday, gives intelligence of a terrible event which recently occurred at sea. On the 27th ult. the Glance passed an out-bound vessel, bearing the name of Jesse Osborne, and was hailed by the captain of the latter ship, who reported that one of his crew had gone mad; that for five days the maniac had stationed himself aloft, and that nothing could induce him to return to deck. The captain further reported that the madman had armed himself with a large chisel, with which he was cutting the ropes, and that the boatswain had tried to bring him down. The maniac, however, threw a block at the boatswain, knocking him on the deck and breaking his arm and leg. As a matter of safety to his vessel and crew the captain of the James Osborne considered that it was necessary to shoot the maniac, and after some consultation that course was decided upon. The crew and officers of the Glance were requested to be present as witnesses, and in their presence the man was shot with a revolver. In consequence of the way in which he moved about the rigging three shots had to be fired before he was fatally injured. He fell dead on deck, and his body was eventually thrown overboard.

At the Detroit Police Court.

"You needn't have no trial over me," said William Palmer as he toed the mark.

"You want to plead guilty, eh?"

"Yes, sir—send me right up."

"I'll send you up, of course, but hasn't the pure air of liberty any charms for you? Hadn't you rather ride on the ferry boats and see the women faint away when their hats blow off, than go up to the retreat and make chairs?"

"No, sir; I'm tired out, hungry, strapped and discouraged."

"Will sixty days do you?"

"I dunno."

"Well, say four months?"

"I'd rather you'd make it six. I want to sit down and think, and get fat, and regain my health. "I'm shattered all to pieces."

"Six it is, Mr. Palmer, and if I could send you for fifty years I'd do that. I see you haven't got any stamina of character. You're an old log, content to float with the current. When you sit down you want some one to rig a derrick and hoist you up, so as to save exertion. I'll send word up by the driver, and I'll bet my farm in Canada against a hat that you'll step around high while your sentence lasts."—Free Press.

Air and Sunlight.

From an acorn weighing a few grains a tree will grow 100 years or more weighing several tons. A large part of this growth is derived from the sun, air and water—but little from the earth. Wood and coal are but condensed sunshine, which contains three elements equally important to animal and vegetable life—magnesia, lime and iron. It is the iron in the blood which gives it its sparkling red color and its strength; the lime in the bones imparts to them the durability necessary to bodily vigor, while the magnesia is important to many of the tissues. Thus the more sunlight we enjoy the healthier we shall be and the longer will life endure.

From Earth to Heaven.

[Kingston (N. Y.) Freeman.]

A Sunday-school picnic was recently held in a grove near town. A pompous man, who was an ex-Sheriff, and who seemed to be a sort of "king bee" among the people, superintended all the arrangements. Large tables were spread and loaded with an abundance of good things. As soon as everything was nearly ready for the feast a number of the children grabbed up knives and forks and "went in," when the ex-Sheriff howled out, "Hold on, you — hogs, will you?" Then in a milder tone he said to one of the ministers present: "Brother ——, will you ask a blessing?"

A New Store

With an entire new stock of

BOOTS & SHOES,

New STYLES of all kinds at the LOWEST PRICES at

J. E. WOODFORD'S

I have located at Auburn with a fine stock of BOOTS and SHOES, which will be sold at the Lowest Figures for Cash!

My Facilities for making CUSTOM WORK are not excelled anywhere and those favoring me—with their orders may be certain of getting the best material. W. W. HUMES, Foreman.

To the trade, great Inducements are offered in Leather, Findings, &c. Please call and examine my stock before purchasing.

STORE ESTABLISHED IN 1839.

GEO. DeWALD & CO.

Dry Goods & Notions.

Black Silks & Fine Dress Goods a Specialty.

We can make it to the interests of every person to trade with us. We buy for CASH and sell for CASH, keep the best goods, and sell at one price

ALSO AGENTS FOR THE

"Domestic" PATERNS.

The Best in Use. Send for a Catalogue.

Geo DeWald & Co
No. 1 Columbia Street
Fort Wayne Ind.,

The Pioneer

HARDWARE

Emporium!

Now full to overflowing with an Immense stock of

HEAVY AND SHELF

Hardware, Cutlery, Tin Ware.

I would call special attention to my depatment of

HARDWARE,
FURNISHING &
BUIDERS STOCK,

in which will be found everything at the very

LOWEST PRICES,

Such as:—

OILS, PAINTS,
GLASS,
NAILS,
SASH,
DOORS, ETC

—A FIST-CLASS—

Tin-Shop,

In connection with the Hardware Store, with a skillful foreman. All kinds of Tin-ware manufactured and repaired on short notice.

JOHN L. DAVIS,

TELEGRAPH INSTITUTE.

"CHOOSE YOUR VOCATION AND HONOR IT."

The Independent Telegraph Institute, located in Auburn Dekalb Co. Ind., are offering the best opportunity of learning Telegraphy Railroad business and Phonographical writing ever offered to the public. Tuition very low and good boarding furnished Students for $3.50 to $3.75 per week, and situations furnished students as soon as they are capable of taking charge of a Telegraph office. Wages from $40 to $100 dollars per month. For further information address, Independent Telegraph Institute, Lock Box 76, Auburn Indiana.

OFFICERS.
J. E. SHREVE, Superintendent.
Prof. S.S. Shaner Principal Instructor R R. Dep't.
Dr. L. Sanders Instructor Phonographical Writer.

AUBURN LIVERY

—AND—

SALE STABLE!

Ryan & Mader, pro's

Having on hand everything in the line of

Carriages, Buggies, Wagons, etc

they are prepared to furnish rigs at all times at reasonable prices. Stable east of Court House.

South Main Street

are now in full running order and all orders for

WAGONS BUGGIES &c.

promptly attended to. Special care taken in getting the best Seasoned Timber. Our prices are very reasonable and we solicit the public to give us a call and ascertain our prices.

Pittsburg, Baltimore & Ohio R.R

IS COMING.

Therefore buy your

Dry Goods,

Notions, etc., of

CHARLES KLOTZ

AT HIS

Old Stand

ON MAN STREET,

Opposite Court Square

AUBURN, INDIANA

Where he may be found at all times ready to accommodate customers, and sell them such goods as they may need,

CLOTHING

Of all descriptions, and

HANDSOME SUITS

Made to Order!

THE AUBURN

Marble Works!

The undersigned beg leave to announce that they have permanently located in Auburn, and are now prepared to attend to all orders for which they are prepared to turn out in a superior manner at reasonable rates. Works west the Bakery.

Monuments, Tomb-Stones, &c.,

C. P. Houser & Co.,

—Dealer In—

BOOKS AND STATIONERY

BEST
Window Paper
HOLLAND'S
and Oil Shades always on hand and CHEAP for CASH,

PICTURES, FRAMES,
CORD,
and TASSELS,
Curtain and Window Fx'trs
the Best in the Market.

—The Largest and finest assortment of—

WALL PAPER

EVER BROUGHT TO THIS MARKET.

Their store is located in Ensley's new brick block, North of the Court House, AUBURN, INDIANA.

THE OLD RELIABLE.

F. E. DAVENPORT,

Corner Main and Eighth-Sts.,

—DEALER IN—

Pure Drugs and Medicines,

DYE STUFFS, PERFUMERY,

Toilet Soaps Cosmetics, Hair Oils, Brushes, Combs, Toilet Mirrors and Druggists' Sundries in General.

BOOKS AND STATIONERY!

Wall and Window Paper!

Oiled, Linen and Slat Window Shades, and Shade Fixtures.

All the lattest POEMS and MISSELANIOUS BOOKS constantly on hand or ordered. Blank Books, Pocket Memorandas, Portmonies and Bill Books, WRITING PAPERS. All Styles and prices ALBUMS! ALBUMS! ALBUMS just received for the Holliday trade. Over $300.00 worth of Juvenile and Toy Books, which will be sold at panic prices. Smith's Gold Pens, warranted the best. Also steel Pens, Penholders, Pencils, Ink and Ink Stands &c.

SCHOOL BOOKS

Covered with best Cover ever invented Free Of Charge Dav exclusive right to use this book cover in Auburn, and will give the benefit of the same

---

GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICES AT

ABRICHT'S

In American & Swiss Watches,

TOYS

FANCY GOODS,

and everything kept in a first class jewelry establishm'nt It will pay you to call and be convinced that, I am selling goods cheaper than any firm in Northern Indiana.

J. Abright.

Repairing fine Watches a Specialty

Ladies Gold Watches,
Jewelry,
Clocks, Silver Ware!
GOLD PENS,
Ladies GOLD Chains,
Gents Chains,
Gold and Silver Rings,
MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS,

V. A BEARD

Grocer in Auburn, North of Court House on Seventh Street,

DEALER IN

GROCERIES and PROVISIONS

TEAS, COFFEES, SUGARS, SALT FISH.

Flour and Feed, Tubs Pails, Buckets, Sugars Boxes, Etc. A large variety

TOBACCOS AND CIGARS,

Confectioneries of all kinds, and Fancy Notions, Cove Oysters, &c.

A speciality in Green and Dried Fruits, and Canned Fruits. Goods delivered inside the coporation.

RAIL ROADS.

Indianapolis Peru & Chicago R.R.

TIME TABLE No. 12—Dec. 20, 1874.

Northward.

Stations.	No. 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Indianapolis	6 30a	12 25p	3 55p	12 20
Noblesville	7 44	12 59	5 10	1 30
Tipton	8 30	1 13	5 57	2 15
Miami	9 37	1 50	6 38	2 56
Kokomo	9 11	2 26	7 04
Peru	10 08	3 15	7 40

Southward.

Stations.	No. 2	No. 4	No. 6
Indianapolis	6 00p	4 15a	9 55a
Noblesville	4 48	3 18	8 01
Tipton	3 56	2 29	7 44
Kokomo	3 15	1 50	7 02
Miami	2 46	1 15	6 35
Peru	2 10	12 35	6 00

E. C. MURPHY, Supt Mich. Div.
E. M. HAWLEY, Master of Tran.
C. R. ROBINSON, General Sup't.
F. P. WADE, Gen. Ticket Agt.

Lake Shore & Mich. Southern R.R

Air Line Division

On and after Sunday, Nov. 15, 1874 Passenger Trains will leave Waterloo city and other Stations as follows, daily except Sunays:

GOING WEST

	Special Ex.	Pacific Ex.	Accom'd'n
Butler	2:40 p m.	x 2:35 a m.	8:00 p m
Waterloo	2:56 "	2:53 "	8:19 "
Sedan	3,05	3,00	8:30 "
Corunna	3,10	3,06	8:35 "

GOING EAST.

Corunna	2.15 pm	11,20 pm	6:50 p m
Sedan	2.20	11,35	7:02 "
Waterloo	2:28 "	11:44 "	7:11 "
Butler	2:40 "	x12:01a m	7:55 "

CHAS. PAINE, Gen. Supt.
J. W. CARY, Gen Tic. Agt.
J. E. CURTIS, Division Su

Ft. Wayne, Muncie & C'n R. R.

Time Table to take effect May 23, 1875.

Going South.

Fort Wayne	1 15 pm	2 00a.m	5 35pm
Ossian	2 02		6 42
Bluffton	2 30	3 10	7 17
Keystone	3 02		7 57
Montpelier	3 12	3 44	8 08
Hartford	3 40pm	4 05	8 40
Eaton	4 02		9 06
Muncie	4 37	4 47	9 45
McCowan's	4 53	5 05
New Castle	5 30	5 40
Cam. City	6 05	6 11
Beesons	6 22	6 27
Connersville	6 35	6 40
Indianapolis	6 30	6 50
Louisville	11 10	12 45pm
Cincinnati	10 50	9 40

Going North.

Cincinnati	7 30am	1 20pm
Louisville		2 40	7 00pm
Indianapolis		7 25	4 30am
Connersville	10 32	7 35
Beesons	10 45	7 52
Cam City	11 04	8 12
New Castle	11 40	8 55
McCowans	12 15pm
Muncie	12 32	9 55	6 50am
Eaton	1 12	10 28	7 20
Hartford	1 24	10 50	7 54
Montpelier	1 49	11 17	8 52
Keystone	1 58		8 36
Bluffton	2 20	11 58	9 15
Ossian	2 59	11 28am	9 52
Ft. Wayne	3 45	1 15	11 00

W. W. WORTHINGTON, Supt.
Robt. Rillie, Gen'l Ticket Agt.

Ft. Wayne, Jackson & Sag. R. R

Short Line Between

Michigan and the South.

Time card in effect May 23d—run by Chicago time.

Going North.

Stations	Mail	Accom.	Jack. Acm
Cincinnati		7 30
Louisville	7 00pm
Indianapolis	4 35am
Ft Wayne	10 45	4 35
Auburn	11 40	6 07
Waterloo	11 56	6 37
Summit		7 45
Pleasant Lake
Ar Angola	12 5	5 00	6 40 a
Reading	1 7		7 32
Bankers	2 12		7 52
Jonesville	2 30		8 20
Jackson	3 40		10 10
Detroit	6 30p m		2 00p
Grand Rapids	9 30
Lansing	5 47
Saginaw	9 03
Bay City	9 55

Going South.

Bay City	6 40 a m		2 45p
Saginaw	7 30		3 38
Lansing	10 40		9 55
Grand Rapids	1 30		12 00
Detroit	9 50		5 40
Jackson Dep	*2 40		9 30
Jonesville	1 55		10 30
Bankers	2 12		10 47
Reading	2 26		11 00
Ar Angola	3 25	6 15	11 55
Pleasant Lake		6 26
Waterloo	4 05	7 55	12 33a
Auburn	4 29	9 25	12 49
Auburn Junction		8 20
Fort Wayne, Arrive	5 15	11 10	1 40
Indianapolis		10 30	6 50
Louisville			12 45p
Cincinnati			9 40a

P. B. LOOMIS, Pres't
S. K. HOOPER Gen. Ticket Ag't.

DETOIT, EEL RIVER & ILLINOIS

Rail Road.

Short Line between Auburn and the East and West.

Trains run on Cleveland time, Through trains will run on the following time, in effect Sunday June 20th, 1875.

Going East.				Going Wes .
No. 7 Thro'	No. 5 Frei't	Mail	STATIONS	Mail	No. 6 W. F	No. 8 Local
3.40a	7.00a	10.50	lv Logans't ar	6.15p	7.25p	12.10p
4.08	7.30	11.08	Adamsboro,	5.55	7.00	11.43
4.30	7.55	12.23	Hoover's	5.41	6.40	11.23
4.50	8.25	11.32	Mexico	5.33	6.25	10.55
6.00	9.30	11.45	Denver.	5.23	6.00	10.25
					5.10	10.50
6.15	9.50	12.15	Chili	5.13	4.55	9.05
6.46	10.40	12.31	Roann	4.57	4.25	9.20
7.14	11.20	12.47	Laketon	4.10	3.50	8.48
7.40	12.10	12.57	N. Manchest'r	4.29	3.25	3.30
8.00	1.10p	1.06	Lib. Mills	4.30	2.40	8.10
8.25	1.40	1.16	Collamer	4.07	2.00	7.47
8.40	2.10	1.22	S. Whitley	4.02	1.50	7.40
9.05	2.35	1.33	Taylor's	3.50	12.30	7.20
9.50	2.57	1.47	Columbia city	3.38	12.05	7.00
10.15	4.10	2.03	Collin's	3.18	11. a	6.15
10.45	4.50	2.14	Churubusco	3.08	10.32	5.50
11.10	5.15	2.24	Potter's	2.57	9.53	5.20
11.30	5.35	2.33	G. R. Crossing	2.49	9.35	5.05
11.45	5.55	2.40	Cedar Creek	2.40	9.20	4.50
12.15	6.30	2.52	Aub. Juncti'n	2.26	8.30	4.20
12.30	7.00	2.58	Auburn	2.20	8.00	4.10
1.00	7.30	3.15	Mooresville	2.02	6.57	3.35
1.25a	7.55	3.25p	ar. Butler lv.	1.50	6.25	6.25

CONNECTIONS—At Logansport with Pittsburgh, Cincinnati & St Louis Logansport, Crawfordsville & Southwestern and Toledo, Wabash & Western R. R's. At Denver with Indianaplis, Peru & Chicago Railway, for Rochester, Plymouth, LaPorte, Michigan City, Peru, Kokomo and Indianapolis At N Manchester with Cincinnati, Wabash & Mich R'y. At Columbia City with Pittsburg, Ft. W. & Chicago, for Ft Wayne Lima, Crestline and Pittsburg. At Grand Rapids crossing with Grand Rapids R'y. At Auburn Junction with Ft. Wayne Jackson & Saginaw, for Angola, Jackson and Saginaw R'y. for Butler with Lake Shore & Mich. Southern Caw. Toledo, Detroit and all eastern cities.

J. A. HUGHSTON, Gen. Ticket Agt.
A. B. SCUTRARD, Gen. Supt.

S. U. Tarney

AUBURN MEAT MARKET!

KEEPS ALWAYS ON HAND

Fresh Beef, Pork, Veal, Mutton and Bologna Sausage, clean and sweet. Prices reasonable. Main-st first door north of Miller & Casebeer's store.

Pittsburg, Ft. W. & C. R. R.

Condensed time card, May 23, 1875.

GOING WEST.

	No. 1 Fast ex.	No 5 Mail.	No. 7 Pac. ex.	No. 3 Night ex
Pittsburgh	2 00 a.m	....	6 00 a.m	2 00 p.m
Rochester	3 09 "	....	9 22 "	3 12 "
Alliance	5 52 "	....	12 30 p.m	5 54 "
Orrville	7 10 "	....	2 26 "	7 31 "
Mansfield	9 07 "	....	4 40 "	9 28 "
Crestl'e ar.	9 40 "	....	5 15 "	9 56 "
" lv.	10 00 "	4 50 a.m	5 35 p.m	11 00 "
Forest	11 18 "	6 30 "	7 27 "	11 24 "
Lima	12 20 p.m	9 10 "	9 45 "	12 27 a.m
Ft. Wayne	2 40 "	11 20 "	11 35 "	2 55 "
Plymouth	4 40 "	2 25 p.m	2 35 a.m	5 25 "
Chicago	7 50 "	6 30 "	6 30 "	8 50 "

GOING EAST.

	No. 4 Night ex	No. 2 Fast ex.	No. 6 Pac. ex.	No. 8 Mail.
Chicago	9 20 p.m	9 20 a.m	5 35 p.m
Plymouth	12 58 a.m	12 15 p.m	9 00 "	5 15 a.m
Ft. Wayne	3 50 "	2 45 "	11 45 "	9 05 "
Lima	6 15 "	4 25 "	1 55 a.m	12 20 p.m
Forest	7 36 "	5 34 "	3 02 "	2 40 "
Crestl'e ar.	9 20 "	6 55 "	4 40 "	3 56 "
" lv.	9 40 "	7 15 "	4 50 "	5 35 "
Mansfield	10 20 "	7 43 "	5 20 "	....
Orrville	12 45 p.m	9 23 "	7 10 "	....
Alliance	3 05 "	11 10 "	9 00 "	....
Rochester	5 40 "	1 07 a.m	11 12 "	....
Chicago	6 55 "	2 10 "	12 15 p.m	....

No. 1, daily, except Monday, Nos. 2, 4, 5, 7 and 8, daily except Sunday. Nos. 3 and 6 daily.

F. R. MYERS,
General Pass. and Ticket Agent.

BALTIMORE & OHIO R. R

FROM 135 TO 6 MILES

The shortest route from the West to

Washington, Baltimore
AND THE EAST.

CONDENSED TIME TABLE, THRO' TRAINS

VIA PARKERSBURG, Dec. 13, '74	Express	Fast Express,	St. Louis Ex.
Lve. Cincinnati	9 00 a m	†4 30 p m	‡11 10pm
Arr. Chillicoth	12 55d n'n	s7 46	3 00 am
" Portsmouth	5 35 p m		11 10
" Marietta	5 56	12 06 n't	7 22
" Parkersburg	5 25 a	11 30	s6 50
Arr. Grafton	9 45	3 40 a m	11 10
" Cumberland	2 00 a m	s7 40	b3 30
" Martinsburg	4 35	10 15	6 10
" Harper's F'y	5 19 a m	10 54	6 51
" Staunton		5 15 p m
" Washington	7 15	12 40 n'n	8 50
" Richmond		10 30p m	4 50 am
" Baltimore	‡9 05 a m	1 50 a m	10 20‡pm
" Philadelphia	1 20 p m	6 50 p m	2 35 am
" New York	‡5 10	10 22	‡6 15
" Boston.	5 50 a m		4 50 pm

VIA BELLAIRE—Dec 13, 1874	Express	Fast Express.	Fast Line
Lve. Cincinnati (via Dayton S. L.)	6 30 a m		‡8 50 p m
" Cincinnati (via P. C. & St. L.)	†7 00		†7 10 p m
" Columbus	11 55	4 00‡p m	12 20†
Arr. Newark	1 00 p m	5 25	1 45 a m
" Zanesville	2 10	6 55	2 57
" Bellaire	5 20	10 55	6 50
" Wheeling	6 45 p m	12 30 ngs	8 00
" Grafton	9 35	8 25 a m	11 03
" Cumberla'n	2 00 a m	7 40	b3 30 pm
" Martinsburg	4 35	10 15	6 10
" Harper's F'y	5 19 a m	10 54	9 51
" Washington	7 15	12 40 n'n	8 50
" Richmond		10 30 p m	4 50 a m
" Baltimore	9 05	1 50†	10 20†pm
" Philadelphia	1 20 p m	6 50	2 35 a m
" New York	5 10	10 22†	†6 15
" Boston	4 50 a m		4 50 p m

B—Breakfast. D—Dinned. S—Supper. †Daily ‡Daily ex. Sunday. ‡Daily ex. Monday.

PULMAN PALACE SLEEPING CARS

from Louisville, St. Louis, Cincinnati and Columbus, to

WASHINGTON AND BALTIMORE!

—AND—

PHILADELPHIA

WITHOUT CHANGE.

Through Tickets, and further information can be obtained at all principal Ticket Offices throughout the West and South West.

THOS. P. BARRY, West. pass agt., Cin.
L. M. COLE, Gen'l ticket agt., Bal. Md.
THOS. R. SHARP, Mas. of Tran.

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

IN EFFECT JUNE, 1875.

GOING WEST.

STATIONS.	Exp.	Fst.Line	Fast E
Chicago Junction	7 30am	7 50pm	5 15pm
Tiffin	8 50	8 53	6 39
Fostoria	9 30	9 25	7 15
Deshler	10 33	10 32	8 33
Defiance	11 32	11 35	9 50
Auburn	1 00pm	1 05am	11 50
Auburn Junction	1 03	1 07	11 55
Garrett	1 10	1 15	12 06am
Avilla	1 29	1 34	......
Milford Junction	2 47	2 44	......
Walkertown Junction	4 08	4 08	......
Chicago	7 30	7 30	......

GOING EAST.

Chicago	8 25pm	....	8 40am
Walkertown Junction	12 13am	....	12 17pm
Milford Junction	1 41	....	1 46
Avilla	3 01	....	3 04
Garrett	3 15	6 25am	3 20
Auburn Junction	3 33	6 34	3 48
Auburn	3 26	6 40	3 52
Defiance	5 10	8 43	5 30
Deshler	6 12	10 00	6 34
Fostoria	7 6	11 16	7 40
Tiffin	7 46	11 51	8 11
Chicago Junction	8 45	1 00pm	9 10

L. M. COLE, Gen. Tic. Agt.

J. G. FLEDDERMAN,

No. 27, East Main-St.

FORT WAYNE, IND'A

Has the larfest and finest stock of

CLOTHS, COATINGS, CHEVIOTS,

—AND—

CassimereS

in Ft. Wayne. The finest line of

Made up Clothing!

ever shown in Fort Wayne

Youths' and Children's Clothing!

Furnishing Goods, &c.

Mrchant Tailoring.

All work done in all the latest styles, promptly attended to, Go and see his large stock of G

BRICK FOR SALE

FRITZ GROESCOP.

Having just burned a fine kiln of brick, about one hundred thousand, is now ready to supply all who want good brick at reasonable figures. Residence two miles north of Auburn on the Kutzner road; three miles south west of Waterloo.

JUSTICES' BLANKS.

We have just printed a fine lot of Justices' Blans, as follows, for sale at this office:

Summons,
Subpoenas,
Garnishees,
Attachments,
Executions, &c.

Recorders Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Devoted to the Interests of the Democratic Party and to the Collection of Local and General News.

Volume 5. AUBURN, DeKALB COUNTY INDIANA, AUG. 26th, 1875. Number 33.

The Auburn Weekly Courier

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY, BY

TOM. C. MAYS.

OneYear,........$2. | SixMonths,......$1.

Advertising Rates.

Space.	1m.	3m.	6m.	1 y.
One Square......	2 50	4 00	7 00	12.00
¼ Column........	6 00	12 00	18 00	30 00
½ Column........	10 00	18 00	30 00	50 00
One Column......	15 00	30 00	50 00	100 00

Legal Notices 10 cents per line, first insertion, 5 cents each insertion thereafter. Business cards Five Dollars.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

ROSE & HARTMAN,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW. Have complete abstracts of the records of DeKalb County. Office in Case's Block, Auburn, Indiana.

H. C. PETERSON.

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public. Office over Davis' hardware store, Auburn, Ind.

WOODHULL and CROXTON,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW Angola, Indiana. Practice in Steuben and DeKalb Counties.

RICKEL & TEFFT,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW, Auburn, Ind. Office in the Court House.
J. W. RICKEL, R. DEXTE TEFFT.

A. F. PINCHIN

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public, Butler, DeKalb Co., Ind Insurance and real estate business promptly attended to.

McBRIDE and MORLAN

ATTORNEYS AT LAW, Waterloo, Indiana. Will practice in any of the courts of the State. Office over O. T. Clark's Dry Goods store.

GUY PLUM,

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public, Office in the Court House. Special attention paid to the collection of claims. Also agent for Home Insurance Company.

CHAS. A. O. McCLELLAN.

ATTORNEY AT LAW, Waterloo, Indiana. Will practice in the Courts of DeKalb and Steuben counties. Liberal Advances Made on all First-class Claims left in my hands for collection.

COURTS IN STEUB'N CO.	COURT IN DEKALB CO.
1st Monday in February	3rd Monday in Feb.
4th Monday in April	2nd Monday in May
1st Monday in September	3rd Monday in Sep.
4th Monday in November	2nd Monday in Dec

PHYSICIANS.

DR. J. A. COWAN,

PHYSICIAN & SURGEON, Auburn, Ind. Office on Main street, over Central Grocery.

W. S. ALLEN.

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON, Office over McQuiston's store, Coal's Block, North of Court House.

J. J. LITTLEFIELD,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON. Office over Miller and Caselwer's Store, Auburn, Indiana.

DR. J. M. SHUTT.

ELECTIC PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON, will attend to all calls belonging to the medical profession, promptly. Possessing al the benefits that can be derived from forty-two years experience, of one of the most active and successful Physicians in the western part of Ohio, and several years of personal experience enables me to treat all famous of diseases with the best of success, "without the use of calomel. My medicians are purely vegetable, and therefore, I am able to treat all kinds of diseases without producing any bad effect, upon the nervous system," and will break the worst case of ague, without the use of quinine. No matter what your disease is, give me a call, for I am prepared to handle all, at my office on fifth street, between Main and Cedar Auburn Indiana.

HOTELS.

SWINEFORD HOUSE.

CORNER MAIN AND NINTH STREETS, opposite the Court House. S. C. SWINEFORD, Pro.

AVELINE HOUSE,

MILLER & MORITZ, Prop's., corner Calhoun & Berry Sts., Fort Wayne, Ind.

AMERICAN HOUSE

AT FORT WAYNE, only $2 a day. Good accommodations for traveling men.
C. B. OAKLEY, Prop'r.

WOOD'S HOTELL.

NOS. 34 & 36 EAST WASHINGTON STREET, opp Field, Leiter, & Co's retail dry goods store; and adjoining D. B. Fisk's wholesale millinery store, between State street & Wabash Avenue, Chicago. O SANDS, Prop'r.
$2.00 per day. GEO. S. PALMER, Clerk.

MISCELLANEOUS.

H. Wartenslaben

PAINTER and paper hanger. House painting a specialty. Residence corner Williams and Cedar street.

Medical Society.

OF DeKALB COUNTY, meets at Auburn, Ind., the 2nd Tuesday in each month.
J. H. FORD, Pres't.
J. A COWAN, Sec'y.

Joseph H. Stophlet.

ARCHITECT. Office over No. 17 Court Street-1st door north of Empire Line office, Ft. Wayne, Ind. Drawings and specifications furnished for all classes of buildings, at reasonable rates.

PRINTING.

COURIER OFFICE.

JOB PRINTING neatly executed. Fine work a specialty. Office in Odd Fellows' Building 2nd floor.

John M. Miller,

Manufacturer and Dealer in

FINE FURNITURE,

CHAIRS

Husk & Hair Matrasses

50 and 52 East Main Street,

FORT WAYNE, IND.

$500,000 to loan on improved farms in Northern Indiana, in sums of one thousand dollars and upwards, on five years time. Security must be first mortgage.
WILLIAM FLEMING,
tf Fort Wayne Ind.

Thomas Baldock

Building Contractor

AUBURN INDIANA,

will be ready at all times with an experience corps of workmen to erect Houses, Barns, and do carpenter and joiner work of all kinds at reasonable rates.

Hoosier Drain Tile!

ONE OF THE BEST INVENTIONS IN THE WORLD.

LANHAM & HOSE have now on hand some of the above Tile, which they are selling at a very low figure. We offer

Four Inch Sizes at 50 cts. per Rod,
Six " " " 75 " "

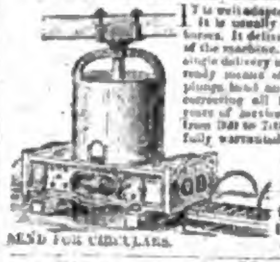
Every person who intend to put in tile should examine this article. A sample can be seen at this office.
v5n11 LANHAM & HOSE,
Auburn, Indiana.

J. J. VanAuken,

COUNTY SURVEYOR.

Will attend promptly to all surveying. Office with Rose & Hartman, Auburn Indiana. Persons requesting work by letter, should give township subsection.

THE PHŒNIX TILE MACHINE.



IT is well adapted to the wants of Tile Makers. It is usually driven by the power of two horses. It delivers tile at the two opposite ends of the machine. It may be converted into a single delivery machine. It has a simple and ready means of taking up the wear on the plunger head and sides of the chamber, thus correcting all leakage of mud, and adding years of service to the machine. It makes from 500 to 700 rods of tile per day. It is fully warranted. It may readily be adapted to Steam Power. The dies are finished with much care. Doors and Trucks at moderate prices.

SEND FOR CIRCULARS.

CHANDLER & TAYLOR
Patentees and Manufacturers,
Indianapolis, Ind.

JAS. CLIFFORD,

WATERLOO, IND.

Keeps constantly on hand the best and choicest brands of all kinds of

Wines and Liquors,

Cigars, Tobaccos, &c.

He also has, in connection with the above a first-class

BILLIARD HALL.

To our citizens and the traveling public, we would say that this is the popular resort of Waterloo. First door south of the railroad.

BAKER BROS.

PROPRIETORS OF Auburn Bakery!

AND

EATING HOUSE

Fresh baked Pies, Cakes etc, always on hand. Good lunches served at all hours.

BAKER BROS.

AUBURN

Meat Market.

Main St. Next door to Klotz's.

MICH HOUSTON

PROPRIETOR.

Having fitted up my establishment in first class style, with increased facilities, I am now prepared to furnish Fresh Meats in the best of order at reasonable rates. Give me call.

A NEW PLACE

TO GET A

Nobby Suit!

TOM WILLIAMS,

The champion cutter of Fort Wayne formerly with M. E. Woodward, is now going it alone, and can be found at No. 21 Calhoun street with Mr. A. Foster, where he will be pleased to see all his old friends, and a list of new ones. If you want a nice nobby suit made to fit you, you will find him the nn.

Vacation of Street, Alleys and Town Lots

Notice is hereby given that a petition has been filed in the Auditor's Office, of DeKalb County, Ind., praying the vacation of certain streets, alleys and town lots in "Somers' Addition to the town of Auburn, in said county, as follows: All of Baker Street and Ford Street, lying and extending south of the south line of Ninth Street. Also all of Eleventh Street extending west from the south-east corner of lot No. 73, and the north east corner of lot No. 96. Also all of Union-St., west of the south-east corner of lot No. 109, and a point directly opposite said Lot, named corner Also that part of an alley between said 9th and 11th Streets, west of the east lines of lots No. 60 and 73. Also that part of an alley between said 11th and Union-sts., west of the east lines of lots No. 96 and 109, and also vacate the following numbered lots viz: 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 96, 97, 98, 99, 100, 101, 102, 103, 104, 105, 106, 107, 108 and 109: and said petition will be heard at the next session of the Board of Commissioners of said county.
JOHN. C. SOMERS, Applicant.
W. H. DILLS, Attorney,
Aug. 19-3t.

FORT WAYNE

MORNING GAZETTE!

A LIVE, WIDE-AWAKE DAILY PAPER!

Issued in Time to Meet all the Early Morning Trains Leaving Ft. Wayne

Containing Each Day the Latest and Fullest Telegraphic, Monetary and Commercial News.

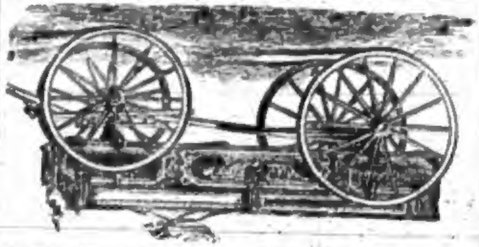
On July 1st the Fort Wayne Daily and Weekly Gazette Printing House passed into the hands of WILLIAMS & HOSSLER, late of the "Northern Indianian," of Warsaw, who design to make it just such a paper as the people of the region in which it is published need. Arrangements are already made to have it delivered to subscribers in all the neighboring towns on all the roads leading out of Fort Wayne, and as the paper can be received in this way from 4 to 6 hours in advance of any other, the advantages of subscribing for the "Morning Gazette" can be seen at a glance.

THE LATEST STOCK, MONEY AND COMMERCIAL NEWS

Will receive the closest attention of the managers and in every instance can be relied upon as correct in every particular. The Gazette is already receiving the highest encomiums of the press and the people. Terms of the Morning Gazette:

One year [in advance]		$9.00
Six Months	"	4.50
One Month	"	75
Per Week	"	20

The Auburn



WAGONS

Made from the Best Materials,

And constructed with all the late improvements—

The new and extensive

WAGON SHOPS

—OF—

J. W. SHAFFER

Work of every description done promptly, and warranted. Blacksmithing attended to in good style.

☞ MANY New and Choice Goods on sale at Bond's Novelty Store, 21 West Main-st., Fort Wayne, Indiana. New goods arriving daily. Special bargains in

Table Linen,

Corsets, Gloves, Hosiery; Muslins, Flannels, White Goods, Ladies Ties, Handkerchiefs, Portmonies and many goods not kept elsewhere. Large four-story stone front building, 21 West Main-st., Fort Wayne, Ind.

CARPETS,

FOR 1875.

Are offered at prices lower than have prevailed for many years. Our stock fo all grades is large, well selected and we invite inspection. We have added to our stock and the line is unusally fair.

Wall Paper

Terrys,
Reps,
Gimps,
Fringes and a general line of Upholstery Goods with Shades,
Lace Curtains,
Oil Cloths,
and Mattings
in great variety. The manufacture of Lambrequins a specialty.

ELLSWORTH, ANDREW & CO,

26 East Berry street

It is not very probable that flour will command an exorbitant price—though the figures will be somewhat higher than during the past year.

◆◆◆

The so-called army worm which has ravaged fields and gardens for weeks past has suddenly disappeared. There are a good many who don't believe that they were the army worm, but only the common cut worm.

◆◆◆

Theodore Tilton is engaged in wariting a novel. His eldest daughter, Florence, teaches school in Brooklyn and keeps house for her father. Tilton speaks very tenderly of his wife, and many persons believe they will come together again. In Brooklyn anything is possible.

◆◆◆

Somebody at Fort Wayne has proposed Hon. Hugh McCulloch for the Presidency. McC. is a very estimable gentleman, has "a heap" of strong common sense, but we say it with a sigh, he can never be elected President of the United States.—[National Banner.

◆◆◆

Edwin Booth, the eminent tragedian, met with a serious accident at his country residence in Connecticut on Sunday last. He was driving in his carriage, when his team took fright and became unamanageable. He was thrown violently to the ground and suffered the fracture of his elbow and of one rib. The injuries, however, are not of a fatal character.

◆◆◆

Mr. Samuel Grosh having purchase the interest of his partner, Mr. Tarney in the Lower Flouring Mill, will hereafter conduct it alone. He is manufacturing a splendid brand of flour and keeps mill feed constantly on hand. Mr Grnish is an experienced miller, will assist in turning out flour that cannot fail to suit everybody. tf

◆◆◆

The Dowling scandall at Indianapolis is to be revived. The case was called up in church last Sunday evening, but Dowling interrupted future proceedings by vigorously playing "Home, Sweet home," on the organ, while Eld. Smith excitedly declaimed against the reading of an official document, and the janitor finally turned down the gas.

◆◆◆

The publisher of the Wabash "Free Trader" relates his experience in these words: "Some people who owe the printer appear to think that he can live and support his employes, during the summer season, on hot air. It is a mistake. It would be a good thing if a printing office could be run on the caloric principle, but it can't be done. We have tried it."

◆◆◆

How to Cure the Passion for Liquor.

This is a prescription in use in England for the cure of drunkenness, by which thousands are said to have been assisted in recovering themselves. It is as follows: Sulphate of iron, five grains peppermint water, eleven drachms; spirits of nutmeg, one drachm, taken twice a day. This preparation is a stimulant and tonic, and partially supplies the place of the accustomed liquor and prevents that absolute physical and moral prostration that follows a sudden breaking from the use of stimulating drinks.—[Scientific American.

◆◆◆

"Papa, did you see those nice little guns down to the store?" asked a little six year-old boy.

"Yes, Harry, I saw them. But I have so many children to feed and clothe, that I can not afford to buy you one," replied his father.

Little Harry glanced at the baby in the cradle with no loving expression on his face. Finall he said:

"Well, papa I'll tell you what you can do; you can swop little Tommy for a gun."

◆◆◆

A Parisian gentlemah named M. Delsole has just inherited a fortune under rather singular auspicus. About three years ago, being in the act of purchasing some cigars at a tobacconist's he noticed an old man, neatly dressed; who was trying in vain to light his pipe at the flexible gas-jet which hangs in front of all cigar shops in Paris. His hands shaking with palsy, refused to holed the light steadily, and he strove in vain to apply it to the bowl of his pipe, at the risk of scorching his face. M. Delsole came to the rescue, held the light for the old gentleman, and then went out, responding merely by a bow to the thanks which he received. Hardly had he reached the sidewalk, however, when he was followed by the old man, who begged to be told his name and address. Wishing to get rid of this somewhat importunate gratitude he hastly gave them and went his way. A few days ago he was waited upon by a lawyer, who came to announce to him his inheltance of a large fortune left by one M. Donon, who had died without heirs, and whose pipe he had once lighted.

That Sneaking, Skulling Mr Jaskins

From the Detroit Free Press.

"Can I be protected here, Mister?" asked a woman yesterday as she entered the office of the chief police:

"Yes'm."

"Can my family—my innocent children—also be protected?" she demanded striking the floor with her umbrella.

"Yes'm."

"If there is any law I want it," she went on, dropping into a big armchair; "If there isn't, I propose to take a club to him!"

"My dear old woman, this world is full of sorrow, each one of us has his own separate and distinct grief to greive over. Tell me yours?"

"Do you know Jaskins?" she asked.

"Jaskins? Jaskins?" Seems as if I had heard of the name sometime.

"Man with a limp—one eye gone—red neck—sandy hair—got a skulking, sneaking way about him."

"And has he stolen your poultry, eh?"

"Poultry! Naw! It's worse than poultry—it's next to arson or murder!"

"Go on, madam—go into the particulars!"

"Well, he boards next to me. I'm a widown. Been alone these fourteen years, and if I do say it my self I've always had the respectablest kind of a name. I've a daughter Jane. She's a good girl."

"Yes, madam."

"And that sneaking, skulling Jaskins is after her!"

"Possible!"

"He just is! Was after me first. For week and weeks he'd hang around our gate, and smile at me and inquire if I wasn't lonely, and send up strawberries and look his lovingest out of that one eye!"

"And then?"

"And then, when he found I wouldn't marry him to save his neck, and he couldn't get my property to run through with, what do you suppose he done?"

"Cut his throat?"

"Naw! He turned right around and went to loving Jane! He has sent her notes in those long, pink envelopes—he has sent her boquets and cocanuts, and perfume and cherries, and he's skulling around yet! I've talked and talkad, but it don't do any good. If sunthin' ain't done I believe that Jane will marry him sure!"

"How does she act?"

"She's a grinnin' 'round and looking soft and loving like, and she won't mind half what I say, and is getting notes and writing answers, and—and—!"

And she broke down. She wiped her her eyes, softly rubbed her nose, and after a moment jumped up and demanded:

"Is there any law?"

"Lots of law—dead loads of it read am."

"And you'll but the law to him?"

"I will madam—I'll make this town a volcano for him before he is a week older."

"And you'll preak up the match, will you?"

"Either that or break his neck!"

"Good! The police are worth sunthin' after all! If you say you'll wait on him and tell him he's got to back right down or go to jail, I'll chain Jane to the table-leg and sit by her for four weeks but what I'll make her forget him!"

"I'll do it, madam!"

"Think of my Jane marrying a man with one eye! And a red neck! And a limp! O-h-h! when I think of that skulling Jaskins sneaking around my innocent Jane, to make her his wife, I could t-e-a-r this house down!"

She sat down and they fixed up a plan and Mr. Jaskins had better leave for the west this very day.

◆◆◆

An Oriental Story.

Once upon a time there was a king who had a beautiful daughter who was much sought after in marriage, and being found of stories, he had proclaimed that whoever would tell the largest story, should marry his daughter, but whoever failed should have his head cut off. When this became known, crowds of young men flocked to the place, each to tell a story. One went in and told his story, but it did not last long, and off went his head.

Then another man went in, but with a like result, and so on, no one being able to tell a story long enough to satisfy the old king. The people then became frightened and for a time, were no more stories told. At last a young man expressed his determination of trying his fortune before the king.

His friends tried to dissuade him from it, but it was of no use; he appeared before the king, who told him it would be certain death. He began his story thus:

"During the seven years of famine in Egypt in Joseph's time, there being nothing in the fields to eat, a flock of locusts came upon a small hole in one of the granaries in which corn was stored; it was just large enough for one locust at a time to go in and come out. So a locust went in and got a grain of corn then another locust went in and got a grain; then another locust went in and got another grain—."

"Go on with your story," said the king: "we will amagine all that."

"Oh, no; I cannot go on with my story until the corn is all out."

So he went on:

"Then another locust went in and got another grain of corn" for about three months. When the king asked him how much they had got out, he answered:

"About one cubic foot."

The king frowned and the man went on with his story about three months longer. The king then asked him if he wasn't most done. He cooly answered:

"Oh, no; they have got about ten cubic yards, and they have got to clear out the seven granaries that it took seven years to fill. Then another locust went in and got another grain of corn."

The king here broke down and said:

Take my daughter, take my kingdom, take my lands, everything I own, but in the name of the Prophet have done with those infurnal locusts."

◆◆◆

Giving a Brakeman a Lesson on Style.

From the Detroit Free Press.

The first man was a railroad breakman who had been celebrating his grandfather's birthday:

"You run on the cars, eh?" asked the court.

"Yes, sir."

"And you belong to that class of men who open the the door as the train stops at Pontiac and yell out "Upontvack!" at the passengers?"

The man was silent.

"It makes my bones boil when I think of how I've been used on these railroads. The seats are locked, the water cooler empty, the windows wont stay up, and every few minutes you open the door and cry out 'Jawkum' for Jackson or 'Kal-a-zoo' gor Kalamazoo. I believe I'll mark you for six months."

"Please, sir," protested the prisoner.

"I must strike a blow at this great evil somewhere, and I might as well commence on you.

"Please, sir, I was never here before, and this is my first drunk in four years.'

His honor laid back and chewed the corner of a bloting pad while he reflected. Finally said:

"Well, I'll let you go, though I'll be blamed for it." Now, sir, after this you want to adopt a different style. When a train approaches a station, you want to go through the car like a cat, smile gently, and say in quiet tones: 'Ladies and gentlemen this train is now on the outskirts of Ypsilanti, and such of you as desire to step off will please make ready, and my health and prosperity ever attend you. What an innovation that would be, sir! How the traveling public would rush for your road! Will you do this, Mr. Wellington?"

The prisoner promised and was allowed to go.

◆◆◆

Nellie Grant's Escape

Eli Perkins writes: Speaker Blaine met Sam Cox yesterday and said:

"I tell you what, Sam, they had a close escape down there at the Branch, didn't they?"

"Who—what?" asked Sam.

"Why, Nellie Grant and Sartoris—just escaped by the skin of their teeth."

"Escaped what, Blaine?"

"Why they just escaped having twins."

"You don't say so, Blaine! How near did they come to it?" exclaimed Mr. Cox.

"Why, they got within one of it, Sam, replied the speaker in the most impressive manner. "One more boy would have done it."

◆◆◆

HABIT

I trust everything under God to habit upon which, all ages, the lawgiver, as well as the schoolmaster has mainly placed his reliance. Habit makes every thing easy and casts all difficulties upon the devition from a wanted course.—Make sobriety a habit and intemperance will be hateful; make prudence a habit and reckless profligacy will be avoided. Give a child a habit of sacradly regarding the truth of carefully respecting the property of others, of scrupulous obstaining from all acts of improvidence which can involve him in distress, and he will just as likely think of rushing into an element in which he cannot breathe as of lying, cheating and stealing.

◆◆◆

Give us a call when you want a good job.

Try the COURIER.

INTRA, MINTRA, CUTRA, CORN.

Ten small hands upon the spread;
Five forms kneeling beside the bed—
Blue-eyes, Black-eyes, Curly-head.

Blonde, Brunette—in a glee and glow,
Waiting the magic word. Such a row—
Seven years, six years, five, four, two!

Fifty fingers, all in a line—
Yours are thirty, and twenty are mine;
Ten sweet eyes that sparkle and shine!

Motherly Mary, age of ten—
Even the finger-tips again—
Glances along the line, and then:

"Intra, mintra, cutra, corn,
Apple seed and brier thorn;
Wire, brier, limber lock,
Three geese in a flock;
Rubie, robie, rabble, and rout,
Y, O, U, R—
Out!"

Someone falls on Curly-head—
One wee digit is "gone and dead"!
Nine-and-forty left on the spread.

"Intra, mintra," the fiat goes—
Who'll be taken, nobody knows;
Only God may the lot dispose.

Is it more than a childish play?
Still you sigh and turn away.
Why? What pain in the sight, I pray?

Ah! too true: "As the fingers fall
One by one at the magic call,
Till, at the last, chance reaches all,

So, in the fateful days to come,
The lot shall fall in many a home
That breaks's heart and fills a tomb—

Shall fall, and fall, and fall again,
Like a law that counts our love but vain—
Like a fate unheeding our woe and pain—

One by one. And who shall say
Whether the lot may fall this day
That calleth one of these dear babes away?"

"True! too true! Yet hold, dear friend,
Evermore doth the lot depend
On Him who loved, and loved to the end.

Blind, to our eyes, the fiat goes—
Who'll be taken no mortal knows;
But only Love will the lot dispose—

Only Love, with His wiser sight;
Love alone, in His infinite might;
Love, who dwells in eternal light."

THE MURDERED DROVER.

M ny years ago, when I lived in Maryland, a neighbor of mine—one Albert Odyne—waking in the night, heard something which sounded like the hoofs of a horse as the animal wanders, listlessly, over the frozen ground. He was an honest old farmer, and had several horses of his own. He believed that all his animals were securely stabled; but when the noise of hoofs pounding the hard soil approached his window, he thought it was time to get up and reconnoitre. Therefore, although his good lady heaved a heavy sigh and muttered, "O, Jerusalem! Why upon earth can't the man lay still? I've got a hard day's work before me to-morrow morning," yet the farmer carefully got out of bed and raised his window.

On looking out, Farmer Odyne saw a horse near the house moving to and fro, with his nose to the earth, as if seeking for grass, while on his back was a saddle with low-hanging stirrups. As the horse raised his head and looked toward the open window, the farmer discovered a bridle on the head of the beast, though the bight had slipped over his ears and was dangling below.

This was a case that required looking into, for it was a cold, wintry night; and some traveler might have become benumbed and fallen from his horse.

The farmer now hastily dressed himself, and his wife, being informed of what her husband had seen, no longer thought of the hard day's work on the morrow, but, springing out of bed, rushed the logs and kindling wood on the andirons, and soon had "the fire fair blazing and the vestment warm."

In a few minutes the good woman had everything prepared for receiving the luckless stranger whom the frost had touched.

On first going out of the front door Mr. Odyne observed an ox looking over into his garden; the neck of the animal resting on the top of the fence. He ran out into the road, and soon met two more oxen, and immediately afterward he became sensible that there was a whole herd scattered hither and thither, and enjoying "the largest liberty."

He now felt certain that some unlucky drover had fallen by the wayside; and then, for the first time, a sinister thought plowed its way sharply through his brain, and his heart beat more quickly as the question arose, "Am I myself altogether safe on this road at this time of night?"

He tried to quiet his suspicions, and went briskly forward. He had long passed the hindermost of the oxen, when coming near a farmhouse whose gable looked [illegible] on the road, he saw something [illegible] lying on the ground, which might be the object which he sought. He went up to it and found that it was the body of a man lying in a heap on the frozen ground. He reached out his hand to feel whether the heart of the fallen man was still beating, when it came in contact with something hard. He soon discovered that this was the handle of a dagger which had been thrust to the hilt into the breast of the deceased.

Odyne now ran to the nearest tavern and aroused the landlord. Half the village was on the spot in a few minutes, for there was a tremendous excitement, the murdered man having been quickly recognized as one Jacob Beaman, a wealthy drover living on the southern border of Pennsylvania.

On examining the body the Coroner found that deceased had been shot as well as stabbed. A rifle ball had entered the temporal bone, and was doubtless in his brain. A couple of swaggering young men belonging to the village soon came up, and, having examined the dagger, swore that it belonged to Mr Silas Doane, the farmer near whose house the corpse was found. Doane was present, and confessed that the dagger was his; but he added that it was an old rusty affair that had been long kicking about in his chaise-house, and that any one might have taken it from thence.

"O, yes," cried one of the bullies, "that is very likely; yet it is the Coroner's duty to search your house, for it's no trifling thing to find this dagger of yours in a dead man's breast."

The Coroner confessed that he could do no less than search the premises, while he said rather roughly to the man who proposed this measure, "I supposed that you would like to put Mr. Doane to inconvenience, as he complained of you and your friend here last summer, and had you put in jail for a misdemeanor. You have owed him a spite ever since."

"Spite or no spite," cried the other, "you find old Doane's weapon in the dead man's heart."

"I shall do my duty," returned the Coroner, pushing the young man aside and entering the farmhouse, followed by the tavern-keeper, constables, and others. During the search the two young men were particularly busy, opening this door and that, and peeping into every cranny. The Coroner could find nothing in the shape of a rifle, and had already begun to apologize to Mr. Doane for giving him so much trouble, when one of the graceless scamps pushed open the door of the milk-room and cried:

"We have not looked in here yet!"

The Coroner, with a listless air, entered the apartment, followed by a village lawyer, and just turning over a tin pan which stood on a shelf near a window, something fell to the floor. The Coroner picked it up; it was a large pocket-book.

Surely, under a pan in the milk-room was a strange place for a pocket-book; still the Coroner held it doubtingly in his hand, when the lawyer observed, "Better open it, Mr. Butterworth."

The pocketbook was accordingly opened. It contained seven dollars in bank notes, a receipt for five hundred dollars, and an old letter much worn. The Coroner examined the name on the back, one of the young roisterers being very officious in holding the candle near the letter. The Coroner held the missive under the eyes of the lawyer, and both of them at once looked very grave, exchanging meaning glances. The letter was directed to "Mr. Jacob Beaman," the murdered man.

The Coroner immediately ordered the Constable to arrest Mr. Doane. Soon after a loud shriek was heard proceeding from a distant department, the shriek was uttered by the wife of the prisoner.

The letter was opened. It came from a nephew of the murdered man, living at Harrisburg, Pennsylvania. In that letter that young man earnestly besought his uncle to consent to his marriage with a girl in humble life, to whom he was madly attached. It contained a great deal of romantic rhetoric about marrying for money, and highly extolled the virtues of the poor girl with whom the writer was smitten. It was afterward known that the wealthy drover had fixed his eye upon a young lady highly connected, and had assured his nephew that unless he married her, he would not leave him a cent at his death, but would alter his will in favor of a more distant relative, living in Pensacola.

Silas Doane was imprisoned, tried, convicted, and sentenced to death, several other circumstances appearing to confirm his guilt on the trial.

But the Governor of Maryland was not satisfied with the verdict of the jury, and the friends of Doane soon produced testimony which, in the view of the executive, warranted him in granting a reprieve of three months.

One Relief Swazey—a poor, half-witted girl in the service of the Doanes—stated, in a roundabout way, that, on the night of the murder, she heard a noise as of some one opening the window which led from the rear garden into the milk-room, and that, in looking from her window soon after, she saw two men running through the garden.

A few weeks afterward a traveler called on the Governor and stated that, riding through that part of the township on the night of the murder, he saw two men carrying a heavy burden, resembling the body of a man, along the public road. Supposing they were carrying home one of their companions who had taken too much whisky, he thought no more of the matter, till accidentally seeing an old paper, while he was staying in Richmond, Va., which gave an account of Doane's trial, he was struck with the coincidental circumstances. He described one of the men who carried the body as tall and slender, the other as short and stout. Such, indeed, were the two rogues who had been so earnest to procure the conviction of the prisoner. Both of them were arrested and put in the county prison. They were very much frightened, and pretended to make a confession. They said they were out late on the night of the murder, when, finding the dead body of the drover at some distance from the house of Mr. Doane, they determined to fasten suspicion upon him, as they owed him a deep grudge, and were sworn to be revenged. Accordingly, they picked up the body, carried it and deposited it near the house of Doane, went to the chaise-house, and got the old, rusty dagger, which they thrust into the body; then they took the drover's pocket-book from the breast of his coat, went behind the house, raised the window which led into the milk-room, deposited it under a tin-pan, and cut for dear life.

Many believed this story; others mocked. The two young men were generally believed to be guilty of the murder. The Governor pardoned Silas Doane, and he was set at liberty, but the mark of Cain was on his brow, as a considerable number of the community believed in his guilt. They said the poor simpleton, Relief Swazey, had been suborned, and that the two prisoners had founded their confession on her story, as the readiest means of getting out of prison.

Finally, the two rogues broke out of prison, and made good their escape. Satisfied that they would never come back, the villagers very generally rejoiced that they had left that part of the country, for they had been regular nuisances.

Several years had passed away, and the murder of the rich drover had become an old story. Then it was that, lying late one morning, I had a dream—if dream it could be called—in which old Jacob Beaman, the murdered drover stood at my bedside in his long Guernsey frock, and, with uplifted hand, said: "Bring my murderer to justice. Avenge my blood, which cries from the ground against the ungrateful one."

"How can I do that?" demanded I; I know him not, and even if I did, how could I prove that he did the deed?"

Thereupon the face of the drover became distorted with an expression of the most violent anger, and muttering "Mary Brown," he disappeared as suddenly as he came.

"A very foolish dream," said I, as I woke, though the cold sweat stood in huge drops upon my forehead. Who was Mary Brown, and how could she have shot the drover?

A week passed, and I had almost forgotten my dream, when, taking up a newspaper, the first thing that met my eye was the advertisement of a clairvoyant Spiritualist, who pretended to do several things which are generally supposed to be beyond the power of mortal man. The advertisement was signed "Mary Brown!"

The coincidence was remarkable, and for a moment it seemed again to hear the sepulchral tones of the drover as he pronounced the name of "Mary Brown!"

One likes to believe in wonders, if he can, especially when he is individually associated with them, and for a moment I felt flattered in having been chosen by the departed drover as his medium of communication with this lower world.

Then came intrusive reason, which has demolished so many an air-built fabric rich with rainbow glories. It suggested: "You have seen this name, 'Mary Brown,' at some other time, when carelessly glancing over the advertisements, and it came back to you in your dream. A very common occurrence."

Very well, thought I. Nothing is easier than to test this over-skeptical reason by attending one of the seances of Miss Mary Brown. Hamlet tested his ghost and found it to be a genuine article. "It was a true ghost," said he to his friend Horatio after the play. That very night I called at the house of Mary Brown, and found her seated at a large table, with a dozen persons around it of both sexes. A tall slender young man in black sat near the register, and now and then rubbed his hands over it. I took my place at the table.

"I can settle with you as well now as at any other time," said Miss Brown to her visitor at the register.

"O! no, no, madam," returned he, politely; "I am in no hurry for my rent—none at all—besides, I like to witness the performance. Continue on, and don't mind me."

So this was Mary Brown's landlord.

In a moment one lady suggested that "perhaps Br. Beaman would like to get some communications himself."

I started at the name of Beaman, and while the young gentleman was declining with thanks, saying: "Really, madam, it would be no use, as I have no faith," I asked a gentleman at my side if the speaker was a nephew and heir to the rich drover who was murdered several years ago.

"Yes," was the reply, "a very fine young man, I believe; has improved the property, been very successful in speculations, married a fine girl, very beautiful but very poor. Lucky for him that the old man dropped off just as he did. It was the turning point."

My informant paused, for three loud raps, that made the mahogany quiver, were given, apparently, on the other side of the table.

Even the medium started with surprise.

At length, recovering herself, she smiled serenely, and remarked: "We are getting more company than we bargained for; the earnest spirit is a new comer."

One of the ladies turned to a gentleman near her, and said: "I am frightened; hadn't we better go?"

The gentleman laughed her out of the notion, and said: "Perhaps that spirit is calling for Mr. Beaman, and is angry at his skepticism."

Beaman laughed, and said he had never before imagined himself to be a person of so much importance.

"But," said I, "as you are a skeptic, sir, you are the man who ought to come to the table and get converted. You know that the physician is not for the whole, but for the sick."

Here most of the company—especially the ladies—joined with me in persuading Mr. Beaman to take a seat at the table.

He could no longer refuse without appearing perverse, and, therefore, in a laughing, jaunty manner, he placed himself at the table.

"Have you no deceased friend or relative from whom you would like to receive a communication?" inquired the medium, gently.

There was a pause. I looked at the countenance of Beaman; it was pale as death.

"Yes," cried a little girl at the end of the table. "I'm sure Mr. Beaman would like to hear from his good old uncle."

"I have more respect, more veneration for my deceased relative," answered Beaman in a hoarse voice, "than to associate his name with what to me—begging pardon of the company—are naught but juggling tricks."

As the speaker finished his last words, those three terrible knocks on the bottom side of the table made the latter jump under our hands, and drew forth a low shriek from more than one lady present.

"That's he," cried the medium; "now I'm sure you can't refuse, Mr. Beaman."

And, at the moment, the medium's hand and arm shook violently. She seized a pencil, as this was the spirit influence requiring her to write.

She wrote, however, but a few words, when the influence passed, and her hand became stationary. The medium seemed to expect a renewal of the influence, and waited two minutes, when a lady said: "Pray, Miss Brown, read what you have written."

The medium took up the paper, held it to the light, and read: "Secure my murderer; he is present." The believers looked around on every side, scanning every face at the table, while one or two skeptics smiled; but it was a somewhat ghastly smile, nevertheless.

As I was a stranger, many keen glances were shot at my countenance; but I was looking at young Beaman.

He sat motionless, like an image of white marble. He said not a word; but in a few moments he rose and staggered toward the door. Before he had reached it he fell senseless to the floor.

We picked him up, and means were used to restore him to consciousness. He only partially recovered, and then complained of a terrible pain about the heart. He was conveyed home in his own coach, which had been sent for. The physician told him that he could not recover. Then he sent for a clergyman, to whom he confessed that, being determined to marry the young girl, who was absolutely necessary to his happiness, and being assured that if he married her his uncle would disinherit him, he had followed his uncle one night, when the latter was driving his cattle to Baltimore, until, coming to a solitary place, where there were no houses, he shot him dead with a rifle.

What else passed between Beaman and his religious counsellor, is known only to the latter. In two days Beaman breathed his last. His amiable and lovely young wife, struck to the heart on learning her husband's guilt, survived him only five months.

Lost in a Coal Mine.

The widow Gallagher's son James, 14 years old, worked in a coal mine near Dunmore, Pennsylvania, as a mule-boy. He was in the employ of the Pennsylvania Coal Co., and was a hard-working little fellow. He had an enemy among the miners, one James Barrett, a brute. Barrett was in the habit of kicking and cuffing and otherwise abusing the boy shamefully, and young Gallagher became mortally afraid of his task-master and tyrant. One day, in the mine, Barrett raised his pick-ax, and running toward Gallagher threatened to split his head wide open. The boy ran from his tormentor in mortal terror, and entered the mouth of an abandoned coal mine without knowing it. At length after assuring himself that he was not pursued he stopped, and first found he was in a strange place. He had heard the miners' stories of horrible sufferings in abandoned mines, and became greatly frightened. He ran along the corridors to find his way out, and could not. He was lost. The mine lamp on his cap grew dim, and finally went out, leaving him in thick darkness. The echoes which his calls for help sent ringing through the subterranean world reached no mortal ear. He was followed by droves of aggressive rats, too, but he went on and on as long as he could hold out. The rats were ready to take possession of him as soon as he gave up, and when he sat down to rest they scampered over him, apparently in a high glee of expectancy. So he kept moving on through this terrible solitude. At length his memory failed him. A party of miners went into the abandoned mine to search for the boy. They found him after a short search, and brought him up into the light of day amid the joy of the villagers. He was still alive, and after a time revived sufficiently to tell so much of his experience in the mine as above related. He had been lost two days and one night. The rats had gnawed one of his hands so much that it was necessary to have it amputated, and two or three of his toes were eaten off. The rats had also taken various other bites out of him. His mind wandered; and now and then he would shriek, "The rats are eating me up," "Drive them away," and then he would cower in terror. These shrieking fits became more frequent, and finally the doctors pronounced the boy insane, and he was taken to the lunatic asylum in Danville. The miners routed James Barrett out of town, and collected all his clothes and other effects and publicly burned them, as an expression of their opinion of the brute.

Taking a Vote.

As a train on the Lake Shore road was coming into Detroit the other day a long-geared man, who had been sleeping for two or three hours, suddenly awoke, rose up, and after a yawn and a stretch he took his plug hat in his hand, held it out to one of the passengers, and remarked:

"Less vote on Beecher."

"Oh, go to thunder!" growled the man.

The tall man tore five or six leaves from his memorandum book, wrote "innocent" on some and "guilty" on the other, and started down the aisle.

"Madam," he said, as he approached the nearest lady, "I'd like to have you vote one of these tickets. Vote just as your conscience dictates, madam."

She refused to vote, and he dropped a ballot marked "innocent" into the hat, and passed to a man who, overcome by the heat, had fallen asleep.

"Here! you—what do you think of Beecher?" he asked, shaking the sleeper.

"Durn you, sir—durn you!" roared the man, as he sat up.

"Which way do you vote?"

"G'way from me or I'll mash the top of your head down on to your collar-bone!" yelled the aroused sleeper, lifting his big red fist.

"The ballot-box man passed to a boy about ten years old and inquired:

"Bub, what do you think about Beecher?"

"I dunno," replied the boy; "father said he'd lick me if I said anything about it!"

A ballot of "guilty" was dropped into the hat, and the man passed down to a dreary-looking old chap who was rolling a bit of plug tobacco under his tongue.

"Well, old friend, what do you think of Beecher?" was the inquiry.

The dreamy chap got up, tossed his quid out of the window, and calmly took the canvasser by the throat and jammed him over a seat and hit him twice on the chin. It was all over before anybody could interfere, and as he resumed his seat he looked back at the canvasser, who, half-stunned, was gazing around in the greatest astonishment, and remarked:

"I promised my dying wife I'd lick the next man who said Beecher to me, and now you keep away!"

The canvasser pushed the dents out of his plug hat, borrowed a pin to mend his coat collar, tied a wet handkerchief around his throat, and sat down and fell into such a train of reflection that the peanut boy had to speak to him four times over before he was aroused.—Detroit Free Press.

Silver Coinage.

The Government mints at Philadelphia, San Francisco and Carson City are in full blast, and the amount of silver coin being turned out is especially large. For the last fiscal year the coinage of gold was 1,739,062 pieces; value, $3,353,965; of silver, 22,823,216; value, $10,070,368. Beside these, the report covers 1,462,950 pieces of five and three cent pieces, valued at $230,865. The total is 39,191,778 pieces; value, $13,654,698. The increase in the number of silver dollars struck off is the most notable feature of the report.

A MAN named Jones, of Clayton county, Ga., while dreaming that he was fighting a dog, struck his child, who lay beside him, inflicting severe, and perhaps permanent injuries.

An Heiress Elopes with a Negro.

Mrs. Broucher, a widow, of Deer Park, Long Island, adopted a little girl several years ago, and educated her. The girl is now about 17 years old, and was to have inherited nearly all of Mrs. Broucher's real and personal estate, estimated at about $40,000.

Mrs. Broucher employed a young colored man named Chauncey Brewster. He has a lighter complexion and straighter hair than most negroes, and is considered handsome. Last Saturday night she discharged him, paying him $4.50 that she owed him; and this was all the money he had.

On Sunday night the girl started for church, accompanied by another girl. They were going to different churches, and separated after they had gone a short distance together. Miss Broucher did not reach the church. On the way she met Brewster, the colored boy, and they talked a few minutes. That night she did not go home, nor the next day, and on Tuesday Mrs. Broucher learned that her adopted daughter had eloped with Brewster, and that they were living with a colored family named Jackson, in Amityville.

Brewster and the girl were found in Jackson's house, and were taken before Justice Cooper. Brewster said that on Sunday night they walked from Babylon to Amityville. It rained hard, and they were wet through. He went to his mother's house, but she refused to receive the girl, and they stayed under a tree until 3 o'clock in the morning. Then they saw a light in Jackson's house, and went in.

Brewster's defense was that the girl went with him of her own will. The testimony brought out a supposed charm that the Babylon negroes have to catch girls with. They take a four-ounce bottle, put in nine pins and ten needles, some of their own and the girl's hair, and fill it with water on the first day of each month. Brewster, it was charged, had used this charm on the girl, and his bottle was shown in Court. A negro employed by Mr. Southard found a similar bottle in one of his wagons, he said, and his black boy told him what it was for. The boy, when put upon the stand, denied this. Other witnesses testified that they had seen the girl run up to Brewster in the house and kiss him.

It is believed that there is no law under which they can be punished.—New York Sun.

The Williamson County Vendetta.

Another victim has been added to the already long list of those who have fallen in what is now widely known as the "Williamson County Vendetta." Capt. George W. Sisney is, we believe, the eighth who has perished in consequence of the protracted quarrel of the Russells and the Bulliners, which has kept Williamson county in a ferment for years. By reference to an extended account of these troubles, published in the Journal of Feb. 9, 1875, it appears that an attempt was made to assassinate Mr. Sisney as early as 1869, when he was set upon by the family of Bulliners and severely wounded, but recovered. He had no direct connection with the Russell-Bulliner quarrel, but had incurred the displeasure of the Bulliners in consequence of a lawsuit in which they were defeated. Some time last year a second attempt was made to assassinate him by shooting from ambush, but the guns in the hands of the would-be assassins failed to go off, and he escaped, but recognized one of the assailants as he ran away. This individual, whose name was Cagle, was indicted for the crime, but we do not know that the case was ever tried—the enforcement of the law in Williamson county being very lax. Some months after (that is to say, last fall) another and more successful attack was made on Sisney, he being shot by some one from the outside as he sat in his house near a window in the evening. At this time he was severely wounded, and, after recovering, he rented his farm and removed to Carbondale for the sake of greater security. The result shows that he has at last fallen a victim to the bloodthirsty vengeance of his enemies under circumstances almost precisely similar to those which came near proving fatal last fall.

Mr. Sisney was a native of Williamson county, and was a Captain in an Illinois regiment during the war, and last year was the Republican candidate for Sheriff in Williamson county. Both he and Dr. Hinchcliffe—the latter being the last victim before Mr. Sisney—were universally respected, and were probably the most reputable and worthy citizens who have fallen sacrifices to this wretched neighborhood feud.—Springfield (Ill.) Journal.

A Child's Eventful History.

A Massachusetts paper relates the following: "Passengers on Conductor Johnson's train on the Eastern railroad have noticed at a house close to the road, just beyond the North Beverly station, on a piazza next them, a beautiful little girl of about 3 years old. She is always there when Mr. Johnson's train passes, as he is a near relative. She was born on board a ship in the Pacific ocean. Before she was three days old her mother died. Before she was seven days old, the ship was wrecked and sank. Her father, who was Captain of the vessel, the infant, and one sailor were saved in a boat. The babe was wrapped in a blanket and kept warm, and the sailor paid every attention to her and kept her alive with biscuit soaked in water, and was hardly less attentive to the little one's wants than her father. Ten days after the wreck the three were picked up by an English vessel and taken to Liverpool. Thence they came to this country, and the little one has been brought up at the house of her grandparents, close by the railroad, near the North Beverly station."

IN Jacksonville, Ill., last week, only one marriage license was issued, and when the young lady heard that she was the only candidate for matrimony she reversed her decision on the ground that she couldn't think of being married if it wasn't any more fashionable than that.

H. C. PEARSON, of Ferrysburg, Mich., claims to have invented a nautical transit for finding the meridian at any time. It can tell accurately the line of a ship's heading and the meridian during foggy or cloudy weather without depending upon the compass.

THE VIPER AND THE LEECH.

A Castilian Fable.

BY JOHN G. SAXE.

"Strange!" said a Viper to a Leech,
"How differently by men we're rated;
Tell me, my neighbor, I beseech,
Why you are sought and I am hated?"

"You," said the Leech, in prompt reply;
"If Fame be not a false detractor,
Men deem their enemy; while I Am cherished as their benefactor."

"What mighty difference they see,
That you should be the more inviting,"
The Viper answered, "puzzles me;
Since both alike are fond of biting!"

"We both are biters, to be sure,"
The Leech replied; "but let me mention
You bite to kill, and I to cure;
The difference lies in the intention."

MORAL.

To those who pain us with intent
To do us good, we should be grateful;
While those on spite and mischief bent,
We well may shun as base and hateful.

Pith and Point.

VESTED interest—Money in the waistcoat pocket.

THREE may keep a secret—if two of them are dead.

THE first thing the magnet ever attracted—Attention.

THE man who couldn't find his match went to bed in the dark.

WHEN is a soldier not half a soldier? When he's in quarters.

WHY have chickens no hereafter? Because they have their necks twirled in this.

WHY is a solar eclipse like a woman whipping her boy? Because it's a hiding of the sun.

THE way for a desolate old bachelor to secure better quarters is to take a "better-half."

"I saw him kiss your cheek."
"'Tis true."
"Oh, modesty!" 'Twas strictly kept;
He thought me asleep; at least I knew
He thought I thought he thought I slept."

THE hair from a lady's braid should never be worn on the lapel of a gentleman's coat unless the parties are engaged.

PROFESSOR (kindly)—"What is the matter, Mr. Gray? You look unwell." Sophomore (with a volume of "Christian Martyrs" in his hand)—"My breakfast was burned at the steak; that's what's the martyr with me."

"WHICH had you rather do, go to Wheeling in Virginia or Corning in Nebraska?"—Exchange. "Well, we don't want to Berne Switzerland, so we'll go to Reading Massachusetts over Andover."—Boston Advertiser.

AN Indiana school boy has written his name high up on the scroll of fame this time. His teacher wanted to know the number of zones. "Four," was the reply; "the horrid, the frigid, the temperate and—the intemperate." He will enter the lecture field this fall.

"SIR," said a little blustering man to a religious opponent, "to what sect do you suppose I belong?" "Well, I don't exactly know," replied his opponent, "but to judge from your size, appearance and constant buzzing, I should think you belonged to the class generally called insect."

"MARIA," observed Mr. Holcomb, as he was putting on his clothes this morning, "there ain't no patch on them breeches yet." "I can't fix it now noway; I'm too busy." "Well, give me the patch then, an' I'll carry it around with me," added Holcomb. "I don't want people to think I can't afford the cloth."—Danbury News.

A DETROIT boy who scraped two or three dollars together last week, and started for the Black Hills, was yesterday found on the front door-steps by the family. There was dust on his clothes, straw in his hair, and a sad look in his eye, and as the old man reached out and hauled him in he remarked: "Father, you may talk about quartz-mining, shaft-sinking and lodes and veins all your days, but I tell you there's no place like home, even if your mother is homely and lame!"—Detroit Free Press.

A MEMBER of the colored church was the other evening conversing earnestly with an acquaintance, and seeking to have him change into better paths, but the friend said that he was too often tempted to permit him to become a Christian. "Whar's yer backbone, dat ye can't rose up and stand temptation?" exclaimed the good man. "I was dat way myself once. Right in dis yere town I had a chance to steal a pa'r o' boots—mighty nice ones, too. Nobody was dar to see me, and I reached out my hand, and the debbil said take 'em. Den a good spirit whispered fur me to let dem boots alone." "And you didn't take 'em?" "No, sah—not much; I took a pa'r o' cheap shoes off de shelf an' left dem boots alone!"—Vicksburg Herald.

A School-Boy's Death.

The Pall Mall Gazette of a recent date says: It is impossible to read the evidence given at an inquest held in St. Wilfrid's Catholic School, Preston, on the remains of a little child named Richard Lancaster, aged seven years, who died that morning in consequence of injuries received from leaping through the window of an upper room in the school one day last week, without a feeling of sadness. The little culprit had been confined in the room with two others by Miss Bamber, a pupil teacher, for the fault of "talking in school." At half-past four, when the pupils were dismissed, they were taken through the room where the prisoners were confined, and these latter, it was stated, had been told they might follow when the school was discharged. Owing, however, to some mistake or misunderstanding, the deceased child did not follow, and was unwittingly locked in the school. He did not long remain there, for about 5 o'clock he leaped from one of the windows into an adjacent court, and afterward walked to a house, whence he was carried home in great pain by a schoolfellow and died. The jury returned a verdict of "Died by a fall through misadventure."

THE potato is supposed to be a native of South America, and it appears probable that it was first brought into Spain from the mountainous parts of that country, in the neighborhood of Quito, early in the sixteenth century. It is not known by whom or when its value as an article of food was discovered.

A TERRIBLE EXPERIENCE.

The Fate of a Man Left for Dead on the Field of Antietam.

[From the Council Bluffs (Iowa) Nonpareil.]

One of our semi-occasional reporters, led by business to Omaha yesterday, met with a strange and peculiar experience, which, though not beyond the range of probabilities, has a certain fascination on account of its novelty. Passing up Douglass street he met a man about thirty-five years of age, on crutches, and dressed in the Army blue of the United States service. At a glance the reporter imagined he recognized the party, but was, however, uncertain about it, and passed on. The idea still lingered, and he looked back until the invalid, whoever he was, turned the corner. Still haunted with the face, he retraced his steps, turned the corner and quickened his pace, and saw the stranger some distance ahead of him. No time was lost in overtaking him, when he laid his hand on his shoulder and requested him to stop a moment. The stranger did as requested and half-faced the person addressing him. This gave our reporter a full view, and he at once recognized in his face the features of a brother who had been missing since the battle of Antietam, in September, 1862, nearly thirteen years ago. The effect of such a meeting in such a place and under such circumstances, after so long a separation, can be imagined more easily than it can be described. The wounded soldier, as he proved to be, and his brother, adjourned to an adjoining restaurant, where he rehearsed his wanderings and mishaps in the interim. We give the combined story and vouch for its truthfulness.

Andrew, we will call him, was, at the outbreak of the war, a well-to-do tenant farmer, and upon the organization of the Pennsylvania reserves under Gen. McCall, became a member of the 1st Pennsylvania rifles, under Col. Thomas L. Kane, after whom the original town of Council Bluffs was called. He served throughout the whole of the early bloody campaigns of that gallant corps without a scratch, and just before the battle of Antietam his brother, our reporter, became a member of the same company. The wo went into action together, and while on the turnpike which runs by the little Dunker church on that memorable battlefield a Georgia brigade drove them from their position, and in falling back Andrew fell by the side of his brother with a shot below the pit of the stomach. The last heard was an exclamation, "My God, my wife." The retreat was then hastened, and so dead did he seem to be that he was counted among those who had given up their lives for the cause. Several days Andrew lay on the neutral grounds between the hostile lines, and being only wounded, was entirely missed by those afterward in search of the dead and wounded, he having hid himself among some bushes where he was found afterward by an old farmer, to whose home he was removed, near Sharpsburg. Here he remained quite a while, and was beginning to convalesce, when J. E. B. Stuart's cavalry made its famous raid into Chambersburg in the fall of 1862. In their retreat within the Confederate lines, a detective of Stuart's cavalry captured him and took him south of the Potomac river, and thence he was sent to Libby, and from Libby to Macon, Ga. At the latter place he made his escape after having been twice shot in the arm by the guard, and when on his way to the federal lines under the guidance of negroes he was recaptured by militia. Losing courage and hope, he took the oath of allegiance to the Confederate government, was sent south to Texas under Dick Taylor, in whose command he remained, ever seeking an opportunity to escape by desertion. Being a Southern man by birth, he had no difficulty in feigning assimilation with the troops of the Confederacy, but still, in that remote region, the prospect of escape was feeble. The portion of Taylor's command to which he belonged was driven across the Rio Grande into Mexico, and in a short time he fell under the power of the Republican barbarian Cortina, who raided upon friend and foe alike. Some border Indian tribes had possession of some of Cortina's most valuable auxiliaries. To ransom these a large number of cattle were required in addition to a stipulation for an exchange of captives. Andrew was selected as a victim of this nefarious bargain, and was compelled on foot to accompany the well mounted savages in the gloomy retreats in the dismal and almost impenetrable fastnesses of the Cordilleras.

Nothing can fully and adequately picture the horrors and anguish of that trip. Once hidden away in the canons that formed that hiding place of his new and savage masters all hope died within him, and for weeks he was the victim of a brain fever which came very near being his last. When the savages in whose power he was left was on one of their raids, they left sufficient strength to insure the safety of their village and guard against surprise. Every attempt of evasion of this vigilance failed, and only added to the horrors of his captivity. For years he was forced to most disagreeable menial services, and once took revenge, bloody, fearful and swift, upon a savage companion when beyond the reach of the sounds of the village, by hurling him from a rock into a canon through which dashed an angry river. The Indian's gun went to the bottom along with the body of his victim, but he was encoiled by a vigilance too swift to permit him to profit by his daring. Three months ago he made a final attempt to escape, and got again to the open country, where he almost perished of want, and not without receiving other wounds from the arrows of his pursuers. He again fell into the clutches of Cortina's band, who in turn were captured, as the newspapers have already announced, by the Mexican authorities. Andrew was at once released, his Indian garb exchanged for a new suit of army blue, and furnished with transportation north. He was about to start east yesterday when he met his brother. The two, however, concluded to remain until to-day, when they will go to the old home. Andrew's wife died of grief, and his two children soon after followed their mother. Hardship, privations, and suffering have made him a prematurely old man, and his hair is as white as that of one of sixty years of age. An affectionate mother awaits his return, and the lost is again found.

How the Germans Are Training Their Armies.

[Paris Cor. London Standard.]

A very interesting letter from Metz, in a French military paper, gives details of of the kind of drill Prussian troops are subjected to. If the account be correct, actual campaigning must appear like a holiday to them in comparison with their peace training:

"Military marches take place daily, no matter what the weather or temperature may be. The men are invariably in marching order. They start at 5 a. m., after having taken coffee, and return to quarters about 11 or 12. The forces are divided in two corps—one of them, in forage caps, are supposed to represent the enemy. The cavalry is especially trained in reconnoitering duties, and a couple of troops invariably accompany the infantry. The troops are never allowed to enter a village; each man takes some bread and meat with him, and when the halt is called, if near any town or hamlet, each squad of twenty men detaches two, who are sent to purchase wine or brandy. The men who have no money are generally allowed to have a pull at the flask of their comrades better off than themselves. This is an understood thing. The officers mostly do without eating; the few who require refreshment are content with a sandwich. Each halt lasts three-quarters of an hour. At the signal given by the bugle the sentries and outposts, which are stationed all round to a distance of 800 metres instantly fall in. The return homeward is widely different from the marching out. There is no more maneuvering; the body of the men march in two lines right and left of the road, with a group of singers in the middle. Patriotic song are the rule, where the words 'Konig' and 'Vaterland' are of frequent occurrence. The Bavarians are partial to warlike ditties, in which the Erbfeind seems severely handled. Ever since last Thursday all the non-commissioned officers have been engaged in making facines and throwing up earthworks. They start at 6 p. m., and remain out all night. On dark nights a powerful lamp, like that of a light-house, is used."

This seems hard work. In South Germany the training seems equally practical and severe. M. Victor Tissot's book, "Voyage au Pays des Milliards," of which more presently, shows how recruits are trained at Ulm: "They are specially practised in marksmanship and gymnastics. For two hours every day they are kept firing at targets which bear a strong resemblance to the distant outline of zouaves and Turcos. The instructors in musketry are all Prussian, and come from the school of musketry at Spandau. Moreover, they are frequently practiced in the operations of real warfare. Quite recently the railway station at Ulm was 'captured by surprise' by a body of Bavarian recruits, the employes were all made prisoners, while the special 'railway battalion' took possession of the railway stock, and organized railway etappen."

The Judge Catches a Tartar.

The next one was also a woman—a thick-set, scowling woman of forty—who came out in the corridor with the full intention of freeing her mind if it killed her.

"This is a case of—," commenced his honor, when she snarled:

"Taint a case either—it's only spite!"

"You are charged, Mrs. Baker, with—"

"I don't care a snap for your charges!" she said.

"Mrs. Baker, will you shut up?"

"No, sir!"

"Not even to oblige me?"

"No, sir!"

"Then, Mrs. Baker, I shall shut you up!"

"You can't do it!"

"Mrs. Baker, would you rather eat mush and milk in the house of correction for the next three months than remain at liberty and be privileged to go to picnics and have some loafer with a red nose step on the trail of your dress and tear the skirt off?" he asked.

"Well, nobody can boss me around!" she exclaimed.

"You are an ugly woman."

"And you are a mean man!"

"And I'll send you up."

"And I don't care!"

"And it's three months."

"Make it four!"

"I'll do it."

And he did.

There were no other cases, and when the Maria drove around Mrs. Baker said she'd murder the first man who dared lay hands on her. Four of the officers surrounded her and carried her to the vehicle, handcuffed her to the seat, and the band threw orange peel at her red nose and sang:

> Her hair is red, her nose is the same,
> Her temper is fearful to see;
> She ought to be caged, the same as a bear,
> Or somebody's death she will be.

—Detroit Free Press.

A Canine Kleptomaniac.

A Green Island man has a wonderful dog—a veritable canine kleptomaniac. Either by patient teaching or by natural instinct he steals whatever he can pick up away from home. He will sneak into a grocery store and suddenly dash off with a mop between his teeth, or a scrubbing-brush or broom, or anything of light weight. If anyone places a package within reach the dog will covertly grab it and run, always taking his booty home and expecting to be encouraged in his pilfering. He apparently takes great pride in his accomplishment, and will not associate with other dogs, but keeps studiously by himself, and is often found gazing into vacancy, as if maturing a marauding expedition or concoting a daring theft. He will sometimes be absent from the house all night, and in the morning the earliest riser of the household will find him crouched on the rear stoop invariably with booty of some kind, and generally of some value, in his possession. The dog has become so generally known, and his reputation so bad, that store-keepers will not allow him to lounge near their doors, but drive him away on his first appearance. Marvelous stories are told of his strength, such as his theft of a half-quintal of codfish from a groceryman, a bag of buckshot from a hardware store, and a small sledge from a blacksmith shop. The most wonderful achievement was the carrying off of a 30-pound firkin of butter from a farmer's wagon. How the animal tugged it home is not known, but it was found at his master's house and reclaimed. The dog is a mongrel, quick and active, but an awkward and ungainly little fellow.—Troy (N. Y.) Times.

THE BABIES.

Useful Hints in Regard to the Treatment of Children.

The following "Rules for the Management of Infants" were prepared for the use of the patient department of the Children's Hospital of Birmingham, Eng., and have received the indorsement of eminent medical gentlemen in this country:

1. Warmth, Cleanliness, Fresh Air.—Keep them warm; let the clothing be warm but not tight; wash them all over with warm water daily, wiping them thoroughly dry afterward; never let a wet napkin remain on for a minute; give them plenty of fresh air; send them out at least for a short time every day that the weather is fine, and while they are out air the room by freely opening the windows.

2. Nourishment while the Child is Under Seven Months Old.—The mother's milk is the proper food for infants. Therefore, if the mother has plenty of milk let her suckle her child and give it nothing else until it is seven months old. If the mother has too little milk, still let the child have what there is; and in addition, cow's milk and water, as directed in Rule 3. Till the child is seven months old milk of some sort must be its only food. It is better that a mother should not work from home, for an infant requires its meals regularly and needs many attentions which only a mother can give; hard work also makes the milk unwholesome.

3. How to Bring up "by Hand."—If the child must be brought up by hand, it should be fed with warm sweetened milk and water out of a bottle. If the milk be genuine add to it at first nearly half water; at a month old, add only one-quarter part water. In most town milk, two tablespoonfuls of boiling water to the pint will be enough; add also one tablespoonful of lime water (unless otherwise advised) and sweeten with white sugar. A child two months old should have about two pints of milk a day thus prepared; gradually put less water and at four or five months give the milk plain. Give the child no other nourishment whatever, except under special advice. A very large number of children that are brought up by hand die in childhood, and this mortality is for the most part due to the practice of beginning too soon with gruel, corn flour, bread, arrowroot, etc. These are not proper nourishments for children under seven months old, and should never be given them. The bottle should draw easy. It should be very carefully washed out every time after it is used. The bottle, cork and tube should be kept separately in a bowl of clean water (containing a pinch of soda) till the next time they are needed. If the bottle is not quite clean, the milk will sour, and will thus make the child ill. The "condensed milk" is good, and may be used if other milk cannot be got fresh.

4. Importance of Regular Feeding.—The child should be put to the breast regularly—for the first six weeks, during the day, in general not oftener than every two hours; afterward about every three hours. During the night it does not need to be fed so often. A child soon learns regular habits as to feeding. It is a very great mistake to give the breast to the child every time it cries, or to let it always be sucking, particularly at night; this is bad for both mother and child. If the child is brought up by hand, it should be fed with the same regularity; never give it the bottle merely to keep it quiet. If the child is weakly, the time between the feedings must be rather less, both during the day and during the night.

5. Nourishment When the Child is Over Seven Months Old.—If at seven months the child is strong and healthy, and has cut a few teeth, it may now have one or two meals a day of milk slightly thickened with Liebig's infant food, or Dr. Ridge's patent cooked food, or Chapman's entire wheat flour, or rusks, or well boiled oatmeal, etc. It should still have beside this plenty of plain breast or cow's milk. At ten months it may, once a day, have a little meat broth with barley or rice, without vegetables. At from ten to twelve months it should be taken altogether from the breast. Till the child is nearly two years old no solid animal food should be given. Even at two years milk should be the chief food. Any meat should be well pounded.

6. Avoidance of Stimulants, Etc.—Tea, beer, brandy and other stimulants, cheese, new bread, fruit and pastry, as also "soothing medicines," "sleeping draughts," "cordials," "teething powders," etc., should never be given; and even ordinary medicines should, if possible, be given only after proper medical examination and advice.

Mrs. Partington says.

"Intemperance," said Mrs. Partington, solemnly, with a rich emotion in her tone, "is like an after-dinner speech;" at the same time bringing her hand, containing the snuff she had just brought from the box, down upon her knee, while Lion, with a violent sneeze, walked way to another part of the room. "Intemperance is a monster with a good many heads, and creeps into the bosoms of families like any conda or an alligator, and destroys its peace and happiness forever. But, thank Heaven, a new Erie has dawned upon the world, and soon the hydrant-headed monster will be overturned! Isn't it strange that men will put enemies into their mouths to steal away their heads?" "Don't you regard taking snuff as a vice?" we asked, innocently. "If it is," she replied, with the same old argument, "it's so small a one that Providence won't take no notice of it; and, besides, my oil factories would miss it so!" Ah, kind old heart, it was a drunkard's argument.

THE necklace which the Khedive sent to Mrs. Minnie Sherman Fitch, last winter, (now valued at less than $100,000 was originally designed as a family present to Gen. Sherman, but his daughter's wedding occurring about the time it was finished, it was concluded to present it nominally to her. The diamonds are to be divided between her and her two sisters.

The Montana—Arrival of a Marine Novelty.

[From the New York Herald.]

The new screw steamer Montana, of the Williams & Guion line, which arrived at this port yesterday afternoon after a passage of about eight days and a half from Queenstown to Sandy Hook, is, perhaps, the pioneer of a new style of ocean-going passenger and freight steamer. She is clipper built, her sides being smooth, to offer the least resistance to the water. Her model, designed by Mr. Stephen B. Guion, the managing director of the line and the superintendent engineer, is peculiar in the formation of her ends and her sides, she having a long, hollow bow, intended to throw the water off instead of allowing it to come aboard the ship, while the sides are, as nautical men term it, "tumble home sides," having a "fall in" of seven feet on each side from the turn of the bilge; this formation is calculated to combine great strength with safety, as the ship is much easier in a seaway than the usual model. The following are her principal dimensions: Length over all, 495 feet; breadth of beam on main deck, 45 feet; depth of hold, 33 feet. She has four decks, including the hurricane deck. She is brig-rigged, and can show a large amount of canvas when she has her staysails and trysail set.

Her enthusiastic commander says she can sail like a witch, and believes he can beat anything crossing the Atlantic. She came across working her engines at three-quarter speed, with an average of fifty revolutions of her screw, which gave a result of fourteen knots an hour. With sixty revolutions, it is computed she would make sixteen knots. Her engines are of the direct acting compound class, with one high pressure cylinder inverted, two low-pressure cylinders horizontal, with surface condensers. One cylinder is of 60 inches diameter, and two are of 113 inches, with 42 inches stroke. The engines are of 900-horse power nominal, but may be worked up to 4,200. Her shaft is 26 inches in diameter.

The saloon is situated forward of the funnel, and is sumptuously fitted. She can accommodate 72 saloon passengers, 198 in the second cabin, and 1,200 steerage passengers, and all the modern improvements have been adopted for their comfort.

The Montana on her return trip made the voyage from New York to Queenstown in eight and one-half days.

The Innocent Old Lady.

She lives down on Baker street, and she has a daughter about eighteen years old. The old lady retains all her simplicity and innocence, and she doesn't go a cent on style. The other evening when a "splendid catch" called to escort the daughter to the opera the mother wouldn't take the hint to keep still, and wouldn't help carry out the daughter's idea that they had wealth. While helping her daughter get ready she asked:

"Mary are you going to wear the shoes with one heel off, or the pair with holes in 'em?"

Mary didn't seem to hear, and the mother inquired:

"Are you going to wear that dollar gold chain and that washed locket, or will you wear the diamond father bought at the hardware store?"

Mary winked at her, and the young man blushed, but the old lady went on:

"Are you going to borrow Mrs. Brown's shawl, or will you wear mine?"

Mary bustled around the room, and the mother said:

"Be careful of you dress, Mary; you know it's the only one you've got, and you can't have another until the mortgage on this place is lifted."

Mary remarked to her escort that it promised to be a beautiful evening, and as she buttoned her glove her mother asked:

"Those are Mrs. Hardy's gloves, ain't they? She's been a good neighbor to us, and I don't know how you'd manage to go anywhere if she didn't live near us."

Mary was hurrying to get out of the room, when her mother raised her voice once more, and asked:

"Did you run in to Mrs. Jewett's and borrow her bracelet and fan? Yes, I see you did. Well, now, you look real stylish, and I hope you'll have a good time."

Mary sits by her window in the pale moonlight and sighs for the splendid young man to come and beau her around some more, but he hasn't been seen up that way since that night. The old lady, too, says that he seemed like a nice young man, and she hopes he hasn't been killed by the street cars.—Detroit Free Press.

Anti-Vaccination Riot.

A dispatch from Montreal, Canada, says: "A serious riot occurred here last evening, occasioned by a compulsory vaccination bill, which, it was said, the council were about to pass. A large proportion of the French Canadians are opposed to vaccination altogether, and several meetings have been held recently in opposition to the proposed measure. Last evening, as soon as the Council met, several thousands of Canadians assembled in front of the City Hall and opened on it with stones. The Council meeting was broken up before anything had been done, several Aldermen being struck on the head with stones. There was only a small body of police present, and they were unable to render much service. In their attempts to make arrests, one or two were seriously injured. Only two arrests were made. The front of the hall is entirely riddled.

THAT fine old bit of historical character, Gen. Putnam, not only rebelled against the king, but against the king's English. He used to write "enemy" with a big E, and spell it "Enimy." Once he wrote to George Washington: "Dear Gen'l—I am extremely Sorry to hear that you have been unfortanately Obliged to retire and leave Gen'l. How in possession of the Ground. I hope providence will yet So smile on your efforts, which I know will be your utmost, as to put Gen'l. How & his force in your power."

HON. CARL SCHURZ has joined that innumerable caravan which will march around the country next winter lecturing.

A Walking Pincushion.

A curious story is told of Gen. C. A. Evans of Augusta, Ga. At the battle of Monocacy, Md., while leading his brigade in battle, he was struck in the left side by a minie ball. The ball passed through his arm, and thence through his body. In plowing through his coat pocket it tore through a paper of pins, burying some of them in his flesh. For the past few months he has been troubled with a pain about a foot and a half from the wound. A week or two since a bump about as large as a pigeon egg was raised on the spot where the pain was most severe. A few days ago three or four pins worked out of this bump, and it disappeared at once. Thus for eleven years Mr. Evans has been a walking pincushion.—Baltimore Sun.

CHILL CURE!—SAFE AND SURE.—Dr. Wilhoft's Tonic is curative and preventive. It will cure Chills and protect from further attacks. Its reputation is established. Its composition is simple and scientific. It contains no poison. It acts promptly and its effects are permanent. It is cheap, because it saves doctors' bills. It is harmless, speedy in action and delightful in its effects. Try it and prove all that's said. WHEELOCK, FINLAY & CO., Proprietors, New Orleans.
FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

AT this season of the year cramps and pains in the stomach and bowels, dysentery, diarrhœa, &c., are quite common, and should be checked at once. Johnson's Anodyne Liniment is the best article that can be used in all such cases, and should be kept in every family. Used internally.

GREAT harm and discomfort is caused by the use of purgatives which gripe and rack the system. Parsons' Purgative Pills are free from all impure matter, and are mild and health-giving in their operation.

GLEN FLORA SPRING WATER, at Waukegan, Ill., cures all kidney diseases.

HOW TO GET A HOME. See advertisement.

A MAN OF A THOUSAND.
A CONSUMPTIVE CURED.—When death was hourly expected from Consumption, all remedies having failed, accident led to a discovery whereby Dr. H. James cured his only child with a preparation of Cannabis Indica. He now gives recipe free on receipt of two stamps to pay expenses. There is not a single symptom of Consumption that it does not dissipate—Night Sweats, Irritation of the Nerves, Difficult Expectoration, sharp Pains in the Lungs, Nausea at the Stomach, Inaction of the Bowels, and Wasting of the Muscles. Address CRADDOCK & CO., 1032 Race Street, Philadelphia, Pa., giving name of this paper.

SILVER TIPPED SHOES
A pair of shoes will cost you only five cents more with a SILVER TIP on than without, and it will add twice the cost of the shoe to their wearing value.
Also try Wire Quilted Soles.

For service and comfort wear Cable Screw Wire Boots and Shoes, the best and easiest.
Also try Wire Quilted Soles.
CABLE SCREW WIRE

WANTED AGENTS. Samples and Outfit free. Better than Gold. A. COULTER & CO., Chicago.

$10 to $25 per day Send for Chromo Catalogue. J. H. BUFFORD'S SONS, Boston, Mass.

EVERY FAMILY WANTS IT. Money in it. Sold by Agents. Address M. N. LOVELL, Erie, Pa.

AGENTS, 20 ELEGANT OIL CHROMOS, mounted, size 9x11 for $1; 1-0 for $5. Largest variety in the world. National Chromo Co., PHILADELPHIA.

CLARK'S BOOK-KEEPING. Self-instructive. Short method. Price $1.00, postpaid. Send for Circular. W. S. CLARK & CO., 143 Race Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

$490 A MONTH and EXPENSES to all. Articles new, staple as flour. Samples free. C. LININGTON, NEW YORK or CHICAGO.

$250 A MONTH—Agents wanted everywhere. Business honorable and first class. Particulars sent free. Address WORTH & CO., St. Louis, Mo.

REVOLVERS! The New BUFFALO BILL REVOLVER for only $2—Immense sale. Circular Free. WESTERN GUN WORKS, CHICAGO, Ill.

OPIUM and Morphine habit absolutely and speedily cured. Painless; no publicity. Send stamp for particulars. Dr. Carlton, 187 Washington St., Chicago, Ill.

CINCINNATI DOLLAR WEEKLY STAR. An Independent Family Newspaper, 8 Pages, 48 Columns of Reading. $1 Per YEAR. Specimen Copy FREE. Free of postage. Address The "STAR" CO., Cincinnati, Ohio.

WORK that PAYS! $150 per Month is made by Agents selling our splendid assortment of NEW Maps and Pictures. Catalogue free. E. C. BRIDGMAN, 5 Barclay St., New York, and 179 West 4th St., Cincinnati, O.

SOMETHING for you. Sells at sight. Our Agents coin money. We have work and money for all, men or women, boys or girls, whole or spare time. Send stamp for Catalogue. Address FRANK GLUCK, New Bedford, Mass.

FOR SALE, Chicago Suburban Lots at $100 each, $15 down and $5 monthly for balance, within a short distance of City Limits, with hourly trains and cheap fare. Send for circulars. IRA BROWN, 142 LaSalle-st., Chicago, Ill.

GEO. P. ROWELL & CO.

AGENTS WANTED for the best, cheapest and fastest selling Bible ever published. Send for our extra terms to Agents. NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO., CHICAGO, ILL., or ST. LOUIS, MO.

THIS Paper is printed with Ink made by G. B. Kane & Co., 121 Dearborn Street, Chicago, and for sale by us in large or small quantities.
CHICAGO NEWSPAPER UNION,
114 Monroe Street, Chicago, Ill.

LADIES! Do you want the Agency in your town for the best paying business in the U. S.? If so, address, with stamp, GEO. W. WARRINGTON & Co., 141 Madison-st., Chicago, Ill.

PENNSYLVANIA Military Academy, Chester, Pa. Opens Sept. 8th. Civil Engineering, the Classics, English and Military Art thoroughly taught. For circulars apply to COL. THEO. HYATT, President.

OPIUM CURE The most successful remedy of the present day. Send for Paper on Opium Eating. Prof. D. Meeker, P. O. Box 475, Laporte, Ind.

LOOK You Name Elegantly Printed on 12 TRANSPARENT VISITING CARDS for 25 Cents. Each card contains a scene which is not visible until held towards the light. Nothing like them ever before offered in America. Big inducements to Agents. NOVELTY PRINTING CO., Ashland, Mass.

50 Of the prettiest CARDS you ever saw, with your name handsomely printed on them, sent, postpaid, upon receipt of 20 cents. Your friends will all want them when they see yours. Address W. C. CANNON, 46 Kneeland St., Boston, Mass.

TEAS.—The choicest in the world—Importers' prices—Largest Company in America—staple article—pleases everybody—Trade continually increasing—Agents wanted everywhere—best inducements—don't waste time—send for circular to ROBERT WELLS, 43 Vesey-st., N. Y., P. O. Box 1287.

TELEGRAPHY. Wanted, intelligent young men and ladies, to learn and engage in the telegraphing business, and assist in introducing the Type-Writer on telegraph lines. Permanent and profitable positions may be attained in a few months. PORTER'S NATIONAL TELEGRAPH COLLEGE, Chicago, Ill.

WILD LIFE IN THE FAR WEST A splendid New Illustrated Book of the author's own 30 years' life and thrilling adventures among Indians, in border wars, hunting wild animals, etc. The best and only new and complete book on the wild FAR WEST. Beats everything to sell. AGENTS WANTED. F. A. HUTCHINSON & Co., CHICAGO, ILL.

THE MOUNTAIN MEADOW MASSACRE—A truthful account of this terrible tragedy is contained in Mr. Stenhouse's "ROCKY MOUNTAIN SAINTS," a full and complete history of the Mormons. Fully illustrated with engravings, maps, etc. This is a great book for Agents at the present time. For full particulars apply to the publishers, D. APPLETON & CO., 549 and 551 Broadway, New York.

Pleasant and Profitable Employment.—"Beautiful!" "Charming!" "Oh, how lovely!" "What are they worth?" &c. Such are exclamations by those who see the large elegant new Chromos produced by the European and American Chromo Publishing Co. They are all perfect gems of art. No one can resist the temptation to buy when seeing the Chromos. It requires no talking to sell the pictures, they speak for themselves. Canvassers, Agents and ladies and gentlemen out of employment, will find this the best opening ever offered to make money. For full particulars, send stamp for confidential circular. Address F. GLEASON & CO., 738 Washington St., Boston, Mass.

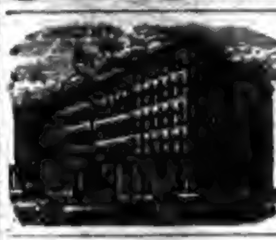
E. L. CANFIELD,
87 La Salle Street, Chicago, Ill.,
DEALER IN REAL ESTATE,
Farms, Lands and Village Property.
Correspondence solicited from those desiring to dispose of their real estate.

WANTED AGENTS FOR THE best-selling Prize Package in the world. It contains 15 Sheets Paper, 15 Envelopes, Golden Pen, Pen Holder, Pencil, Patent Yard Measure, and a Piece of Jewelry. Single package, with elegant Prize, post-paid, 25 cents. Circular free. BRIDE & CO., 769 Broadway, New York.

HOW TO GET A HOME.
IOWA LANDS, 1,000,000 ACRES.
Rich Soil, good Climate, excellent Water, growing Settlements, good Schools. We offer the Lands of the Sioux City and St. Paul R. R. and the McGregor and Missouri River R. R. at $6 to $8 per acre, on easy payments. Two years rent will buy a farm. Apply to
DAVIDSON & CALKINS,
R. R. Land Office, Sibley, Osceola Co., Iowa.

S. H. HARRIS'
Improved Chicago FIRE and BURGLAR
SAFES
and VAULT DOORS are the BEST and CHEAPEST. Manufactory and Salesroom, 23 & 25 East Randolph-st., Chicago.

SEA FOAM
THE BEST in the World. It Gives Universal Satisfaction. WONDERFUL Economy. 40 lbs more bread to bbl. Flour. SAVES MILK, EGGS, &c. One year's savings will buy a cow. NO MORE SOUR BREAD. Whiter, Lighter, Sweeter, Richer. EVERYBODY Praises It. The Ladies are all in Love with it. SELLS like HOT CAKES. Send at once for Circular to GEO. F. GANTZ & CO., 176 Duane St., New York.



Great Central HOTEL, CHICAGO. Market, between Washington & Madison-sts. $2.50 PER DAY. Passenger ELEVATOR. J. APPLETON WILSON, Propr.

This new Truss is worn with perfect comfort night and day. Adapts itself to every motion of the body, retaining rupture under the hardest exercise or severest strain until permanently cured. Sold cheap by the Elastic Truss Co., NO. 683 Broadway, N. Y. City. Sent by mail. Call or send for Circular and be cured.

PORTABLE GRINDING MILLS.

Best French Burr stone-pile under-runners, cork head-upper-runners, for Farm or Merchant Work. Superior Mill Stones of all sizes, Genuine Dutch Anker Bolting Cloth, Mill Picks, Corn Shellers and Cleaners, Gearing, Shafting, Pulleys, Hangers, etc., all kinds of Mill Machinery and Millers' supplies. Send for Pamphlet. Straub Mill Company, Box 1430, Cincinnati, O.

MERIDEN CUTLERY COMPANY
Manufacture all kinds of Table Cutlery. Exclusive makers of the "PATENT IVORY" or Celluloid Knife. The most Durable WHITE HANDLE known. Original makers of the HARD RUBBER HANDLE. Always call for "Trade Mark" MERIDEN CUTLERY CO., on the Blade. Warranted and sold by all dealers in Cutlery and by the MERIDEN CUTLERY CO., 49 Chambers Street, New York.

Established 1858.
PRINCES' METALLIC PAINT 72lbs. Metal in the 100 lbs. 500 lbs. N. Y.
TRADE MARK, PATENTED.
The best and cheapest Paint in the World for Iron, Tin or Wood. For sale by Dealers everywhere. PRINCES' METALLIC PAINT CO., Manuf'rers, 96 Cedar St., New York. CAUTION.—Purchasers will please see that our name and trade mark are on each and every package. Send for a Circular.

The Best is always the Cheapest.
OIL TANK FOR Grocers, Druggists, Mills, Etc.

The sliding top is without seams or hinges, and cannot get out of order. The measuring Pump is the easiest, fastest, and ONLY PATENT PUMP used in a galvanized iron tank. Prices reduced. Send for Catalogue.
WILSON & EVENDEN,
Patentees and Manufacturers, 47 & 49 West Lake St., Chicago.

TARRANT'S SELTZER APERIENT
To People who Reason.—It is because Tarrant's Effervescent Seltzer Aperient reduces the heat of the blood by creating perspiration as well as through its purgative operation, that produces such marvelous effect in febrile diseases.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

DR RIDGE'S FOOD for INFANTS AND INVALIDS
Sold in cans by Druggists, 35 cents and upwards.

RATIONAL TREATMENT of all Kidney, Urinary and Liver diseases is effected by Hamilton's Buchu & Dandelion. It acts directly on these organs, enabling them to remove those wastes in the blood, which cause Gravel, Diabetes, Bright's disease, Jaundice, Rheumatism, Scrofula, &c. Kress Manufacturing Co., Cin., O.

T-SPOON-FUL doses 3 times daily of HAMILTON'S BUCHU AND DANDELION promote healthy action of the KIDNEYS, LIVER & BOWELS; thus preventing the greatest Blood Purifier and Health Preserver of the age, and prevents diseases by removing the cause. It has stood the test, and is the best medicine in use. Kress Manufacturing Co., Cincinnati, O.

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS, please say you saw the advertisement in this paper.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN INDIANA, AUG., 26, 1875

The loss to the crops in this state from the rains and floods is estimated at $18,000,000.

◆

A man lost his little toe while batheing in a lake near Fairbault, Minn:, last week. His foot was suddenly seized in a savage manner and he was dragged under the water seven times He kicked himself loose and started for shore, but his foot was seized twice more before he got out of the water. When he reached the shore his little toe was gone, evidently bitten off as neat as a knife would cut it, and the marks of sharp teeth showed in several places on his foot. It is supposed to have been a pickrel that did it.

◆

There is a slight difference of opinion between Senator Morton and Attorney-General Pierrepont. Morton says:

"Any one at all familiar with the evidence that has been taken in regard to the conuition of the South during the last nine years, must not only know that the tales told were generally true, but have reason to believe that the half has not been told."

On the contrary, Mr. Pierrepont who inherited Williams "outrage mill" and bloody linen, says:

"There has not been a single case of Southern outrages, reported to this department since I entered it. Up to that moment they came regularly by mail and telegraph every bay."

The Attorney-General's statement bears the impress of truth and Morton's—well Morton's sounds like notrhern campaign statements, and we all know what they are.

◆

One John Smith writing to the Plymouth Democrat, says of Garrett this county:

During our recent rambles over the Baltimore, Pittsburg & Chicago railway, as we were passing through the western part of DeKalb county, Ind., the whistle sounded the approach to a station; ere the echoes died away our car door was opened and the conductor shouted, "Garrett, twenty minutes for dinner."

The location I had known for several years as the home of some thrifty farmers, judge then of my surprire on stepping out of the cars to find a town of 300 inhabitants, with finely graded streets, and good business houses well filled with goods, where three month ago were wheat fields and meadows.

On inquiring the cause of this wonderful change, I was told that the Baltimore & Ohio railroad company had made this a division of their road, and have located their main, manufacturing and repair shops, for the new line at this place. On looking around I saw the foundation of an immense round house, containing thirty-two stalls, and a machine shop 100x265 feet, already completed, and a large force of masons and laborers at work on the foundation of other shops, and on the opposite side of the track and but a short distance away, were two immense brick yards, where a large force of men were engaged in making brick for the superstructures. On further inquiry I learned that the company's works were to be of a very extensive and substantial character, of sufficient capacity to employ 1,000 men!

It did not seem at all strauge, on learning these facts, that capitalists, shrewd, far seeing business men and mechanics were flocking here by the hundreds, and making a city as only "Young America" can.

The town is finally located, being on the main line of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, and but three miles west of its junction with the Fort Wayne, Jackson & Saginaw and Detroit. Eel River & Illinois railroads, and but five miles east of the crossing of the Grand Rapids & Indiana railroad, thus giving easy access to the great pineries of Michigan, the splendid hard wood regions of Indiana, and the best coal fields of Ohio.

Surely no better place can be found for procuring every kind of materials, manufacturing the same and distributing the products. I predict a brilliant future for the new town.

In these days of cloud and gloom, of sad weird tales of devastation, and destruction of life and property by storm and flood, I thought your very large circle of readers would be glad to hear a little cheery news, to know that there is a little sunshine somewhere, and at least one prosperous town.

SIMMONS
LIVER
REGULATOR

Nearly all diseases originate from Indigestion and Torpidity of the liver, and relief is always anxiously sought after. If the Liver is regulated in its action, health is almost invariably secured. Want of action in the Liver causes head ache, Constipation, Jaundice, Pain in the shoulders, cough, chills, dizziness, sour stomach, bad taste in the mouth, billious attacks, palpitation of the heart, depression of spirits, or the blues, and a hundred other symptoms, for which Simons' Liver Regulator is the best remedy that has ever been discovered. It acts mildly, effectually, and being a simple vegetable compound, can do no injury in any quantities that it may be taken. It is harmless in every way; it has been used for 40 years, and hundreds of the good and great from all parts of the country will vouch for its being the purest and best.

Simmons' Liver Regulator,

OR MEDICINE,

Is harmless,
Is no drastic violent medicine,
Is sure to cure if taken regularly,
Is no intoxicating beverage,
It is a faultless family medicine,
Is the cheapest medicine in the world,
Is given with safety and the happiest results to the most delicate infant,
Does not interfere with business,
Does not disarange the system,
Takes the place of Quinine and Bitters of every kind.
Contains the simplest and best remedies.

Price $1. Sold by all Druggists. April 22, 1875

For sale at F. E. DAVENPORT'S drug store.

1875. 1875.

GREAT

NORTHERN INDIANA FAIR!

AT FORT WAYNE,

SEPT. 13, 14, 15, 16 17, 18,

From the unprecedented success of the Northern Indiana Fair held last year, the management feel emboldened to add further to the adjectives expressive of its magnitude, by styling it the Great Northern Indiana Fair, the successful rival of State Fairs. No pains have been spared by the Trustees to continue the interest manifested by the many thousands Who visited us last year.

ADDITIONAL BUILDINGS

have been erected, and other improvements made about the beautiful grounds that cannot fail to add largely to its many attractions. Last year the

ENTRIES WERE NEARLY 3,000

This year we expect to add largely to that number. Additional

STABLES AND CATTLE STALLS

have been erected so that the management expect to make more comfortable these two grades of enteries upon their own grounds,

A LARGE POWER HALL

is being erected, with engine and line shafting in motion for the accommodation of machinery. In addition to the Association Power Hall, other parties are making arrangements to erect at their own expense halls sufficient to exhibit their own machinery in motion, thereby displaying a worthy spirit of enterprise.

A LARGE TENT

is being manufactured, in which to display the beauties of Flora, which is to be a very attractive feature.

The Total Premiums offered by the Association this year Amounts to $25,000

THE SPEED DIVISION

promises to be unusually attractive. Nine grand races for liberal premiums. Indiana's favorite horse, the celebrated "RED CLOUD" will be on hand and give us an example of square trotting against time. This feature will of itself attract many thousands spectators.

Another grand feature of the Fair will be th

FIREMAN'S TOURNAMENT,

undoubtedly a display without a rival. All the fire apparatus that can be spared from cities and towns in all directions has been secured.

Then again we have the

GREAT MUSICAL TREAT

a contest for liberal premiums by Brass Bands. Many organizations are drilling for the trial, and will be here from all directions.

Of Horses, Cattle, Sheep, Swine and Poultry, Field and Garden Products, there will be a grand turnout.

Machinery of all kidds, textile fabrics, fine arts, geology, mineralogy and floral contributions, we have the promise of larger displays than heretofore. The usual railroad facilities have been secured for reaching the fair, both for visitors stock and articles for exhibition.

HON. F. P. RANDALL, Prest

WM. LYNE, Sec'y.

NOTICE TO HEIRS OF PETITION TO SELL REAL ESTATE.

State of Indiana } ss
DeKalb Co. }

Notice is hereby given that George Barney, administrator of the estate of John Milliman, deceased, has filed his petition to sell the real estate of the decedent, his personal being insufficient to pay his debts; and that said petition will be heard at the next term of the circuit court of said county.

J. R. LANNING, Clerk.

ARE YOU DYSPEPTIC?

If so, and you desire immediate relief, go to the drug store of F. R. Davenport and get a bottle of DeCosta's Radical cure. It will tone up the stomach, assist digestion' restore the appetite regulate the liver, and in fact make a new man of you, Delicate females will fine it peculiary adapted to their various disorders. It is the most efficacious antidote for all diseases arising from a disorded stomach, liver or a low state of the system, that has ever been prescribed or advertised. Try it just once, and you will, like thousands of others become its enthusiastic advocate Trial sized 25 cents.

Application for License.

Notice is hereby given to the citizens of the town of Garrett, DeKalb County, Ind., that the undersigned will make an application to the Board of Commissioners of said county at their September term 1875, for a license to retail spiritous, vinous and malt liquors in a less quantity than a quart at a time with the privilege of having the same drank on the following premises to-wit: On lot number nineteen (19) in the town of Garrett in said county.

MATHIAS CLARK.

Application for License.

Notice is hereby given to the citizens of the town of Garrett, DeKalb County, Ind., that the undersigned will make an application to the Board of Commissioners of said county at their September term 1875, for a license to retail spiritous, vinous and malt liquors in a less quantity than a quart at a time with the privilege of having the same drand on the following premises to-wit: On lots numbers four and five in the town of Garrett in said county.

PETER BEHLER.

HAVE YOU SEEN IT?

THE BOSS PLACE FOR

GROCRIES

A Large New Stock Just Opened Out!

Queensware & Glassware,

AT COST!

Glass Sets.........80 to 90 Cents
Tumblers.........18 for $1.00
Cups and Saucers.........45 to 90 Cents

Also

Wooden and Willow Ware!

Cheap for Cash.

At Hare Bros. old stand, next door to Miller & Casebeer's.

J. D. Williamson.

WHEN!

SEPTEMBER 1, '75.

WHAT!

WILL

EXHIBIT

In Auburn, Ind.

The Most Complete Assortment of

CLOTHING!

and Gents Furniishing Goods

Ever seen in DeKalb County. Our stock has been bought during the late decline, LOW and for CASH. Buying, as we do for three houses,—S. Kahn & Co., Indianapolis; E. Kahn & Co., New Castle, and David Kahn & Co., Auburn, enables us to buy directly from the Manufacturers and thus saving at least one profit. Patrons, our motto is "Better to make $20 on 20 suits than $5 on one suit."

David Kahn & Co.

ONE PRICE CLOTHING HOUSE,

Ensley's Block, on Seventh Street.

ROOT & COMPANY,

Wholesale and Retail Dealers in

DRY GOODS,

CARPETS,

CURTAINS,

And Housekeeping Goods!

Hosiery, Hloves

FANCY GOODS!

NOTIONS, ETC., ETC.

AT BOTTOM PRICES

We are now clearing out our entire stock of.

SUMMER GOODS

and offering all above mentioned goods at a great reduction from former prices Examine our great

CARPET DEPARTMENT

before you purchase, and save money

GRAIN BAGS, all the best brands at

ROOT & COMPANY'S

46 and 48 Calhoun St., Fort Wayne,

Opposite the Court House.

BARGAINS

AT THE

Great Clearing Out SALES!

OF G. H. MUNN.

I shall sell some at COST; I Shall sell some at LESS than COST.

GREAT BARGAINS

In Dress Goods!

BOOTS AND SHOES

AND HATS,

25 per cent. BELOW COST. Call and see him in Auburn, at the Grand Central, one door south of Jno. L. Davis' Hardware.

GEO. H. MUNN.

THE FIRST

National Bank

OF AUBURN, INDIANA.

Capital Stock $50,000

Deposits received on time or subject to check on sight

Exchange, available in the United States, Canada and Europe, furnished.

Checks and drafts, payable in any part of th U. S. cashed at our counter, or collected and proceeds accounted for to holder.

Collections made and promptly remitted for on day of payment.

Loans negotiated and business papers discounted

Government and other securities bought and sold.

Directors:

J. R. LANNING, J. H. FORD,
S. W. RALSTON, WM. McINTYRE,
GEO. HAZZARD.

Officers:

JOSEPH R. LANNING, Prest.
JAS. V. HAZZARD, Cashier.

April 29, 1875.

Aubuen Courier.

Local and Miscellaneous.

AUBURN MARKETS.

CORRECTED WEEKLY.

Wheat—White	$1.45	Hogs—live	$6.00
Amber—red	1.85	Hogs—dressed
ye	75	Turkeys—live	.08
Oats	48	Chickens—live	.07
Corn	@ 65	Butter	.16
Potatoes	@ 85	Lard	.11
Flax Seed	1.60	Eggs	08
Clover Ceed	6.50	Tallow	.00
Wool	45 @ .60	Timothy Hay	12.21

Lots of new-comers.

Wheat market full.

Money getting plenty.

The school starts out good.

Lots of buildings going up.

Give us a show of some kind.

Excursions 'till you can't rest.

Cholera morbus here and there.

Call at this office for job work.

Give me a few grains of quinine.

Strangers are plenty on the streets.

Potatoes are selling at 80 cents per bushel.

This ain't a bad season for musquitoes.

Mrs. J. Spach is visiting friends in Ohio.

Tramp printers are many, and all broke.

Business is getting a little more lively about town.

The jail will soon be completed on the outside.

Si. Lock's billiard parlors are the popular resort now.

The ball boys got beat at Defiance, last Monday.

The first story of Shull's new brick is completed.

Hank Mader has sold his interest in the livery barn.

W. W. Humes has been quite sick with billious fever.

Mr. Lond, of Lewisville, Ky., is stopping at the Central.

Prof. Kinsey is holding a musical institue at Edon, Ohio.

Hebel's foundation is completed and has a substantial appearance.

The streets are full of building material. That's all right.

Miss Cuningham, of Bryan, Ohio, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Hartman.

School commenced last Monday and the "younguns" are happy.

We've had two or three days and no rain. Everything is "suffering."

The Butler people are plenty in town this week, attending the "horse trial," Its a big affair.

The Diamond Plow seems to be very popular among our farmers this season. Its good.

There is a change in the Bank Dirrectors, J. H. Ford and S. W. Ralston being the new ones.

Pete Brandon gave a free lunch last Monday. He shoved things around lively.

A young lady is attending the normal institute at Sullivan who weighs 225 pounds avoi rdupois.

Wm. McIntyre has been very ill with inflamation of the bowels. He is improving.

Mr. Fosdick, the Butler base ball pitcher, played with our second nine yesterday.

See Miller & Casebeer's store. They have the largest stock in town and sell the cheapest.

The new jail is not yet finished, yet its style and beauty is attracting general attention.

George Picker has the contract for the the work on Hebel's new building. Work commenced thereon last Monday.

Uncle [illegible] Weaver threw his knee joint out of place the other morning while pulling on his boot.

Houser has a nice room to display his goods in. He intends getting on a large lot of goods shortly.

Some pawnbroker could do well here. But to make it a real good success he ought to keep something to take.

Go to Rakestraw & Jackman, for collars, neckties, shirts and everything else in the furnishing line.

Mr. Wm. Snyder has about completed a comfortable residence just South of his blacksmith shop.

J. P. Widney. Esq., is putting up a large frame residence on his lots between here and the Junction.

Mr. Godard, of the Art Gallery, took unto himself a wife last week, and will now surely be 'appy.

Jno. Casebeer, Esq., of the firm of Miller & Casebeer, has been tripping over the B. & O. this week.

Messrs Gross & Williams have purchased an improved baleing machine, and will pack hay at Avilla this fall.

Beard has just received a load of splendid water melons of the ante-cholera quality. They are ripe and sweet.

Parties are putting in a ditch opposite the Eagle Mills, to drain the water from the the lots next to Mr. Baldock's shop.

Dr. Cowan, as yet, has failed to find his setter dog. Information as to his whereabouts would be great pleasure to the Doctor's ear.

Terre Haute claims a cow that gives sweet or sour milk at the same milking. It is not known what lie this is intended to out rank.

Capt. Lay, is introducing a lightning rod in this county widelly different and superior to those sold by swindling companies. He is stopping at the Central.

I'm goin' (hic) to play short (hic) stop this afternoon, said a stand-up-and-gawk yesterday as he put away the fifteenth glass of gin.

Remember the grand opening of the new clothing House Sept. 1st. An immense stock is to be displayed, and low prices are to be inaugurated.

We are pained to learn that little Myra Simmons, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Simmons of Pleasant Lake, died a few days ago of diphtheria.

Mr. J. Swanders, living in the North end of the city, had a valuable milch cow killed by a Saginaw engine, last week. Mr. S. will sue the company for the damage.

The Madison county fair opens next Tuesday at Anderson. Liberal premiums are offered, and an excellent time is expected. We are oblige to the officers for complimentary.

LOST.—Between the Saginaw depot and public square, Monday night, a small roll of white flannel. The finder will confer a favor by leaving it at this office.

If the boys mean what they say, that umpire at Defiance did'nt know enough to "chaw spruce gum, even if he had directions, on a music holder, before him."

A lady living near Troy has a piece of soap supposed to be 100 years old. It's astonishing how long some people can keep soap in the house and never feel the slightest temptation to use it.

At a recent gum-chewing convention it was decided that young ladies should swallow their spit, while boys and old women might be allowed to eject any superabundent juice that might arise from their excited salivary glands.

When a Canadian girl loves, she loves like a hand engine going to a fire. In a breach of promise suit the other day it was shown that a young lady wrote to her lover eight times per day.

"Let us lay our bones together," said a young lady sweetly to her companion at a private residence; and she held up a drumstick in a dainty way. But he said: "No; let us rather be one flesh."

Edgerton now claims a paper, called the "Weekly." There are a few more towns still to be supplied and then every neighborhood will have its own paper. But Edgerton may succeed in supporting a paper.

The new clothing store of Kahn & Co will open Sept., first in Ensley's block. They will put in a very large stock of the latest styles of ready made clothing and gents furnishing goods, and ask the public to call and see them.

The Angola boys have been invited to visit us to-morrow, and play a ball match with the First Nine of the Unions. A good game may be expected, and we would like to see a large crowd at the grounds.

The Central house is now fully opened and is already doing a fine business. Mr. Markle has furnished it in grand style, and will keep it in a manner that will not fail to please the public. Its present patronage is only an index to its future success.

Probably one of the most thrilling spectacles in life—one that sends through the observer the greatest variety of emotions in a moment—is that of a girl darting her lips under her lover's moustache to capture a cherry held between his teeth.

Prof. Lafe M. Bowser, the celebrated aeronaut, of Fort Wayne, successor to Donaldson Grimwood & Co., was in town yesterday, and gave us a call. Lafe likes ballooning, and we are trying to prevail upon him to make an ascension here, as there is no lakes or brewries to interfere.

The M. E. Sabbath School will hold a picnic next Saturday at Baker's grove, east of J. Rainiers residence in the north part of town. A general invitation is given everybody to attend. Come, bring full baskets and have a good time. Procession will leave the church at 10 o'clock.

After a long vacation our public schools opened last Monday. It used to be that we didn't care a cent whether school kept or not, but now that we don't have to go, it is important that they should be in operation. The Board promises us about nine months of school during the year.

Our old friend T. J. Saltzgarber, whom we knew years ago is now the landlord of the Worden House at Albion. Mr. S. is an agreeable and pleasant gentleman, and these qualities in a landlord, go a great way to make things pleasant for the traveler. The Worden house is the best in Albion and we are glad to know that it is regarded by all as a good hotel.

Lime Jackman was missing last night and it was a miss, no doubt, that caused it. Oh, Pshaw, why could you do so.—A young lady formerly known as Miss Sallie Shaw is expected here to-day under an assumed name. When we see a young man go east, and return with a young lady who has changed her name, we know that something has been done. The plot thickens, we wait for time to solve the mystery.

A case of scandal has arisen in Fort Wayne. A short description would run like this. Husband goes away for ten days and comes back the second night. Wife and young man in his own bedroom Four revolvers and a sword are drawn, "Give me ten dollars or your a goner." "Dead broke, Mr." Remorse and a divorce followed. Husband is happy while she, poor thing, has to trudge down life's thorny path with another man for her husband.

A hightoned, well-dressed fellow, was standing on Fluke's corner, last evening, pretty well slued. He had a bogus fifty cent piece that he made prominent by letting half of it stick out of his vest pocket. He was from Chicago, so he said, and was going to return on the next train. He had lots of lip, and to hear him tell it, lots of money. We would'nt be afraid to wager a Red Bird that he had'nt enough cash to pay his way over the B. & O. side track, at the Junction:

Our genial and accomblished Colaborers, Messrs White & Blymer, of the "Democrat" are wide-awake enterprising gentleman, and are at the head of one of the best newspaper offices in the country. They get out an able, spicy paper, and are enjoying a large patronage.

We acknowledge courtesies from Mayor Slough, Sheriff Hootman, A. C. Tobren, J. B. Hately, Wm. Dils and J. H. Conkle, all agreeable and clever gentle men.

We received a paper marked X from Reynolds, Ind., Dunham & Coe prop's—not Howard Coe. but his oldest son Joseph Nickson Coe. The paper is worked on a "patent" press, to judge from its appearance. We think we have this press in our mind's eye. They just paste their blank paper on the wall and have the devil throw type at it, out of an ink keg. We'll exchange, yes, of course we will, and give a good bonus to-boot. We want to exchange our business for an interest in a blacksmith shop. That paper cooks us in the printing line, sure.

As we were walking down Jackson-st. last evening, our ear caught the strains of music. We halted, thinking perhaps, a private prayer meeting was in session, but in this we was mistaking Just to our right, in a fence corner, sat a cully brim full, and his gentle songs, soft and touching as the notes of a cornstock fiddle, floated across the fields toward his dear home in Garrett, taking with them a solemnizing influence—hold on, we're getting off the track. Taking with them saintly tones—worse than ever, we'll have to give it up, and leave the balance for the reader to imagine.

DISSOLUTION NOTICE.

The co-partnership heretofore existing under the firm name of Watson & Zimmerman, has been dissolved by mutual consent. The business will be conducted hereafter by Zimmerman Bros.

J. A. Watson.
F. Zimmerman.

Auburn vs Defiance.

Our base ball club suffered a defeat at Defiance last Monday, our Buckeye neighbors getting away with us in a score of 23 to 43. Our boys done miserable fielding, and seemed to take very little interest in the latter part of the game. They can and must do better next time. It will be a close game if both clubs play as they ought to.

Dissolution Notice

This is to certify that the partnership heretofore existing between C. P. Houser and J. P. Goetschius, as C. P. Houser & Co., in the town of Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, is this 10th day of Aug. dissolved, by mutual consent. C. P. Houser will assume all indebtedness of the late firm.

C. P. HOUSER.
J. P. GOETSCHIUS.

COMING.—The great mammoth clothing store is coming. We are authorized to say that it will be here next week, with a finer display that even Robinson's show made. The name of the firm is David Kahn & Co., and they have large establishments both in Indianapolis and New Castle. They have been in the business for years, and know how to run the trade. Mr. Kahn is now east purchasing a large stock of everything in the clothing line. They will open out in Ensleys block, in the room lately occupied by the Jewelry store. Get ready to give them a grand reception, for they intend to astonish the public in the extent and variety of there stock.

Excursion to Lansing.

A grand excursion to Lansing, Mich., is arranged for next Thursday, Sept. 2d, the round trip costing only $2. The train will leave here at 6 o'clock in the morning, and return at 9 in the evening Lansing is one of the most beautiful cities in that State, and the many features in and about the capitol, will make this an enjoyable excursion. The proceeds go to the Disciple and Congregational churches of Angola. The train will leave Waterloo at 6:15, Suummit, 6:30, Pleasant Lake, 6:43, Angola, 6:50. Tickets for sale at the post office. It is hoped that everybody will secure their tickets by next Saturday evening.

After Prairie Chickens

We returned with a party of good shots from this place and Waterloo, from a chicken hunt on the Kankakee last Thursday. We were out three days but had but one good days hunt in that time, and our game aggregated 115 chickens, 1 duck, 1 sand hill-crane, and a shite-poke. The rainy season has not been conducive to a large crop of chickens, and we went over a good deal of territory to secure this number. We were often compelled to wade in water up to the as-carides part of the system, as Si Lock would say. Having a tent and camp equipage with us, we suffered no inconvenience as to comfortable quarters. Taken altogether we had a jolly time and all returned without accident.

The game law of the State says, it is unlawful to shoot, trap or kill in any manner, any deer, buck, doe or fawn, between the first day of January and the first day of October in each year. Penalty, ten dollars for each animal killed.

Quails or pheasants cannot be shot, killed or otherwise destroyed between the first day of February and the first day of October. Unlawful to net or trap them at any time. Penalty, one to ten dollars each bird.

It is unlawful for any person to kill or injure, or to pursue with intent so to do any turtle dove, meadow lark, robin, mocking bird, blue bird, wren, sparrow red bird, peewee, martin, oriole, yellowhammer, or cat bird, or to wantonly destroy the eggs or young of birds protected by law.

Business Changes

Watson and Zimmerman have dissolved partnership, and the Zimmerman Bros., will run the planing mill in the future The boys are thorough going fellows, and will be found prompt and attentive in their business.

The firm of Eaton & Jackman has been dissolved, Mr. Wm. Rakestraw buying the interest of Mr. Eaton. They have a fine stock of gents' dress and furnishing goods, and make excellent suits to order, having one of the best merchant tailors in the country. If you want a handsome suit, go to Rakestraw & Jackman, opposite Ford's block, and select your material and have a nobby suit made.

The Indiana Conservatory of Music Fort Wayne, begins its fourth school year Monday, September 6th. 3t

The Indiana Conservatory, Ft. Wayne the popular music school, begins its 4th school year September 6th. 3t

JUSTICES' BLANKS.

We have just printed a fine lot of Justices' Blans, as follows, for sale at this office:

Summons,
Subpoenas,
Garnishees,
Attachments,
Executions, &c.

Give us a call when you want a good job.

Try the COURIER.

BARGAINS!

AT THE

Great Clearing out SaleS

OF

Miller & Casebeer,

The Leading Merchants of Auburn, Ind.

Base Ball Somemore

Last Saturday a very interesting game was played between the Red Pants and Blue Stockings, of this place, the former scooping them badly. The little Red's played well, while the big Blueies playing was snide. One of the Blue fellows amused the crowd by his moves.—He was a well built lad—about the height of a liberty pole, with a back as limber as an iron pump handle. His legs moved kinder zig-zag. He was seen in Dr. Fox's office in the forenoon, and its generally supposed that he stepped on a cork, and the effect had'nt got above his hips yet. He'd make a good player if he wasn't so reckless. There's not a drop a of lazy blood in the fellow—but most any stranger would naturally suppose he was born tired. This being the third game many of our citizens missed one of the finest ring performances ever exhibited in Auburn.

A curious case of larceny occurred here a few days ago. A young man applied at the livery stable of Luce & Stevens for a rig to go into the country for a few hours. This was on Saturday morning, Aug. 14th. About noon on Sunday Mr. Luce, having doubts of the rig, started in pursuit; going out to Wallace's where he learned, through one of the girls, that a young man named Tomlinson had been there the day before with a horse and buggy answering the description of the one hired from Mr. Luce. He went to Butler and saw Tomlinson, and prevailed upon him to go to Auburn to ascertain if he was the man who had hired the rig. When they arrived, Ireland, the man who had let the rig came out, saw Tomlinson and said he looked like the man, and afterwards testified he was the man who hired the horse and buggy. Tomlinson was arrested and last Friday the trial commenced lasting until Monday. Tomlinson brought good witnesses, and proved an alibi—that he was in Butler at the time said rig was claimed to have been let. Justice Widney failed to see sufficient grounds to bind him over, and he was discharged. The horse and buggy has not been heard of since.

T. C. Ford has bought an interest in the livery business, with F. D. Ryan.—Cook will suit the position tip-top, being obliging and courteous in his ways, and having some experience in dealing with the public. Good luck be with the new firm.

Is Your Life Worth 10 Cents.

SICKNESS prevails everywhere, and everybody complains of some disease during their life—When sick, the object is to get well; now we say plainly that no person in this world that is suffering with Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint and its effects, such as Indigestion, Costiveness, Sick Headache, Sour stomache, Heart-burn, Palpitation of the Heart, Depressed Spirits, Biliousness &c. can take GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER without getting relief and cure. If you doubt this, go to your Druggist and get a sample bottle for ten cents, and try it. Regular size 75 cents. Two doses will relieve you.

DEFIANCE.

Forty miles away, down over the ridges and vallys, through the forests and past the homes of happy industry, is located the above little city, now one of the most prosperous in the Buckeye State. The B. & O. Railroad breathed into it a new life, a new energy took possession of its people, and a rapid and permanent increase has been the result. With magnifficent schools and churches, fine public buildings, extensive internal improvements, little or no debt, and a large Democratic majority, we know of no town where a limited portion of the human family could find more happiness and content than within the sacred precincts of our neighbor just across the line. But it is not the work of art that always furnish that which is desirable in life; nature must contribute her share and here is where Defiance gets away with her competitors. A more clever, genial whole-souled set of gentlemen we never met, and from the evidences of thrift and enterprise in and about the city, we should judge them to be energetic and thorough in all they undertake. Our boys remarked upon the number of handsome ladies, and it was with difficulty that they got away without a flirtation or a case of love at first sight.

WANTED.

Five Hundred Cords of Elm Stave Bolts, is wanted immediately at the Stave Factory of Beugnot & Co., for which they will pay the cash. tf.

FARM FOR SALE

The undersigned offers his fine farm of

120 ACRES

well improved, with good house and barn, splendid orchard, about 40 acres timbered, for sale.—Farm is located in Franklin-tp., 5 miles northwest of Butler, 4½ miles northeast of Waterloo, Terms reasonable

F. SATTISON.

Application for License.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned will make application to the Board of Commissioners of DeKalb County, Indiana, at their Sept. session 1875, for a license to sell spiritous, vinous and malt liquors in a less quantity than a quart at a time, with the privilege of having the same drank upon the premises where sold, to-wit; Lot No. 20, Block No 25, in the original plat of the town of Garrett, DeKalb county, Ind. August 6th. AUGUST THIENEL.

GILES' LINIMENT IODIDE OF AMMONIA

Cures Neuralgia, Face ache, Rheumatism, Gout, Frosted Feet, chilblains, sore throat Erysipelas, Bruises or Wounds of every kind in man or animal.

Giles' Liniment Iodine of Ammonia has been used by myself and family with satisfactory results. I recommend it to all persons suffering with pains or aches of any kind. It surpasses anyything I have ever used. G. H. MILLER, Pres. Real Estate & Savings Bank, Baltimore Md. Sold by all Druggists. Depot No. 451 Sixth avenue, New York. Only 50c and $1 per bottle

Sold by J. H. MILLER.

No. 29 4w

AUBURN COURIER

THURSDAY, AUGUST 26, 1875.

THE NEWS CONDENSED.

THE EAST.

The Northern Pacific Railroad, with all its franchises, including the franchise to be a Company, and all the property except the lands which have been patented, was sold at New York the other day, under a decree of court, for the nominal sum of $100,000. It was bought by the Committee representing the bondholders, who have assented to the plan of reorganization....A statement of the affairs of Duncan, Sherman & Co. show their liabilities to be $4,872,128, while their assets are considerably less than half that amount, namely, $2,112,740.

On the closing day of the Rochester races the little mare Lula, in the free-for-all race, made the three fastest consecutive heats on record, viz., 2:16¼, 2:15¼ and 2:17, winning the race against Goldsmith Maid and American Girl....Three boys were drowned at Buffalo, N. Y., on the 14th, inst., while bathing.... Three men, named James Grogan, William Horton and Henry Martin, were drowned at Passaic Falls, N. J., last Sunday, by the upsetting of a boat.

A grand international pedestrian tournament is to be held in New York in October....Edwin Booth, the tragedian, was recently thrown from his carriage, by the team taking fright and running away, and received serious injuries. The accident occurred at his country residence in Connecticut.

Fortunately the accident to Edwin Booth the tragedian, which was at first thought to be fatal, turns out to be but slight. He sustained a fracture of one rib and the left elbow bone, and in a few weeks will probably be able to resume his place upon the stage.

A sad and shocking suicide of a mother and her children occurred in Harrisburg, Pa., a few days ago. Mrs. Philip Bessinger, becoming madly jealous of her husband, dressed her three little children as if intent on giving them a pleasure walk. She proceeded to the canal, where, assisted by the children, she gathered stones sufficient to fill a basket, which she tied to her waist. She then clasped the unsuspecting little ones under her arms and plunged into the water...."Buchu" Helmbold has just been confined in a Philadelphia lunatic asylum.... Duncan, Sherman & Co. propose to settle with their creditors on the basis of 33⅓ cents on the dollar....A Cuban privateer, the Uruguay, has escaped from New York, laden with arms, ammunition, and stores for the relief of the insurgents.

THE WEST.

During the recent high water in the Ohio river the levee at Shawneetown, Ill., gave way and the whole town was flooded with eight feet of water, causing immense damage to property. Fortunately the people received timely warning of the impending disaster, and by fleeing to the hills back of town saved themselves from drowning....The editor of the Lawrence (Kansas) Spirit of Kansas has sued the editor of the Lawrence Standard for libel, laying damages at $30,000....Jeff Davis will deliver the annual address at the Bartholomew (Ind.) fair, in September....The Toledo, Peoria and Warsaw Railway Company are selling round-trip tickets from Peoria to New York for $20.

Jeff Davis will not, after all, deliver the address before the Winnebago County (Ill.) Agricultural Society, he having declined to appear on account of the opposition manifested at Rockford....A frightful accident occurred last week on the Ohio and Mississippi railroad, at Loogootee, Ind. The express train going east at the rate of forty miles an hour ran into an open switch and collided with the mail train. Five persons—the mail agent and baggage-master of the express train, and two brakemen and another employe of the mail train—were killed outright, and six or seven passengers injured. On the same day a passenger train on the same road was thrown from the track near Huron, Ind., and the engine and tender plunged into Beaver Creek. No one was killed. The cause of the accident was the removal of a rail, the design of the perpetrators evidently being robbery.... A nurse in the St. Louis Insane Asylum, the other day, gave three troublesome patients an overdose of conium in order to make them sleep soundly. He succeeded beyond his calculations. The poor lunatics never awoke from their sleep....Mr. James H. McVicker, the popular and enterprising Chicago manager, has leased the Grand Opera-House in that city, and will run it, with a first-class comedy company, under the name of the "New Chicago Theater." McVicker thus becomes the owner of the two best theaters in the city....The miners in the Black Hills recently held a meeting and resolved to peaceably abandon the region for the present. Late reports from there say the men are nearly all leaving. A few on the upper and remote creeks, it is said, will remain.

The painful mystery surrounding the fate of Prof. Donaldson, the aeronaut, and Newton S. Grimwood, a Journal reporter, who ascended from Chicago in a balloon on the 15th of July, and sailed away over Lake Michigan, has at last been partially solved by finding the body of the unfortunate reporter on the east shore of the lake, between Whitehall and Pentwater, Mich. It was discovered by a stage driver while driving along the beach, was turned over to a Justice of the Peace, who, after the customary inquest, consigned the remains to mother earth in the regular burying-ground in Claybanks township, Oceana county. When found, the body was flat on its face on a small pile of old flood-wood. The hair was nearly all gone, and the face badly disfigured. The nose was entirely gone, and the hat and boots were missing. An India-rubber life-preserver was found on the body. The preserver had a hole in it about two inches long. That the aeronauts were lost in Lake Michigan during the gale that swept over it on the evening of their departure does not now admit of a doubt.... A passenger train on the St. Louis, Kansas City and Northern railroad went through a rotten bridge near Plattsburg, Mo., a few days since. Three passengers were killed, eight or ten had either their arms or legs broken, and some twenty others were more or less injured....The accounts of Shaffenburg, late United States Marshal of Colorado Territory, show a deficit of about $100,000. Shaffenburg has sloped, but the officers are after him....A terrible affray occurred at Eberhardt City, Nev., recently, between two men named Jackson and Beck. The former plunged a bowie knife to the hilt five times into the body of Beck, when a bystander struck Jackson down. Then Beck, though dying of his wounds, crawled to the prostrate form of Jackson, took the knife which had been used with fatal effect upon himself, and buried it in the heart of Jackson.

The war between the competing railroads running from St. Louis and Chicago to the Missouri river has ended, and the reduced fares have jumped back to the old figures.... We have some more glittering stories from the Black Hills. Some miners are said to have taken out from $30 to $50 a day, and nuggets have been found weighing from $15 to $35.... William Braden, an Indianapolis stationer, has failed for $145,000. Speculation in grain swamped him.

The law-and-order people of Williamson county, Ill., are evincing a determination to put a stop to the lawlessness that has long prevailed there. A militia company has been organized with this view, and Gov. Beveridge has shipped 100 guns and 5,000 cartridges with which to arm the bold soldiers....A battle recently occurred in Franklin county, Ill., between a Sheriff's party of twenty-three men and a body of fourteen Ku-Klux. Information had been received that the night-raiders would visit the place of County Commissioner J. B. Maddox, during a certain night, and preparations were made for their reception. At 2 o'clock in the morning they made their appearance, and the Sheriff ordered them to halt. Their reply was: "We will not do it, sir," and they fired into the Sheriff's party. At least six guns answered them, when a general engagement ensued, resulting in the complete rout of the Ku-Klux. A number of them were wounded, as the garbs picked up were covered with blood....A most brutal and unnatural murder is reported from Cincinnati, the victim being William Moran, and the perpetrators being his own brothers, Thomas and Nicholas Moran, who actually kicked him to death with their feet.

WASHINGTON.

Washington is almost deserted, and all business of importance is at a standstill. During several days of last week there was not a Cabinet officer in the city....The Secretary of the Treasury has just issued the twenty-fourth call for bonds. The amount called for is $10,000,000, of the issue of 5-20s of 1864....The Postmaster-General has removed a large number of Postmasters for seeking to increase their salaries by a forced sale of stamps....Secretary Bristow and Treasurer New are on the best of terms, all reports to the contrary notwithstanding.

The following is an official statement from the Treasury Department of the government receipts and expenditures, by warrants, for the year ending June 30, 1875:

RECEIPTS.
Customs	$157,167,722
Internal revenue	110,007,493
Sales of public lands	1,413,640
Miscellaneous sources	19,411,195
Total	$288,000,051
EXPENDITURES.
Civil and miscellaneous	$ 71,070,702
War Department	41,120,645
Navy Department	21,497,626
Indians and pensions	37,840,873
Interest on public debt	103,093,544
Total ordinary expenditures	$274,623,392

The Postoffice Department will ask the next Congress to devise a law fixing some other standard for Postmasters' salaries.

Postal cards to the number of 14,298,000 were issued during the month of July....The bursted Freedman's Bank will pay 20 per cent. in a few months....The Treasury Department is hurrying forward the preparations necessary to the resumption of specie payment. It is estimated that the amount needed will increase the bonded debt to $350,000,000.

Corie V. Fischer, a colored school teacher of Mississippi, has brought suit in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia against the Pullman Palace Car Company, claiming $10,000 damages for refusal to allow her to travel in a palace car from Cincinnati to Washington.

THE SOUTH.

Friday, Aug. 13, was a busy day for hangmen in the South. In East Tennessee alone here were three executions, viz.: John C. Webb, at Knoxville, for murder, robbery, and rape; W. H. Berry, at Rogersville, for the murder of his wife; and Ananias Honeycutt, at Tazewell, for the murder of his foster-father. All three of the hangings were conducted in the old-fashioned way of mounting the criminal on a wagon and then driving the vehicle from under him. At least 30,000 people witnessed the three executions. All of the culprits protested their innocence. Thomas Withers, a negro boy, was hung at Lynchburg for the murder of a white girl. The criminal died hard. He succeeded three times in raising his feet to the edge of the trap, and drew himself up, but as often did the Sheriff push them off.

The railroads running between Nashville and Louisville are carrying passengers at fifty cents a head, the result of lively competition.

The steamer Hugh Martin, plying between London and Knoxville, on the Tennessee river, recently exploded her boiler, completely wrecking the boat. Four persons were killed and ten wounded.

L. T. Copeland, who a short time since published some statements in the Chicago Times, defamatory of ex-President Johnson's good name and religious belief, was tarred and feathered at Knoxville by indignant friends of the deceased.

There has recently been great excitement in Burke, Jefferson and Washington counties, Ga., over an apprehended negro outbreak. A letter purporting to be from the Secretary of some unknown negro organization was found in Washington county, ordering a massacre of the whites on the 20th of August. The order stated that Rivers, a colored militia General of South Carolina, would be present and direct the movement. The order said: "Kill every white man, and take every gun you can get. Have all your companies ready. Kill with axes, hoes and pitchforks, and get gunpowder and shot as you kill." Another letter giving substantially the same instructions was found in Jefferson county. The whites, apprehending danger, telegraphed to Macon for ammunition, which was furnished, and every preparation made for the apprehended attack. A large number of negroes charged with being implicated in the movement were arrested and lodged in jail. For a time the greatest excitement prevailed, and it was feared the whites would take the imprisoned blacks from jail and lynch them. At last accounts affairs were quieting down, and no serious trouble was apprehended. It is charged by the whites that the whole trouble was caused by a few worthless, turbulent, designing negroes, who live upon the credulity of the colored people.

POLITICAL.

Complete returns of the election for governor in Kentucky give McCreery, Democrat, a majority of 36,139 over Harlan, Republican. The vote for McCreery is about 1,000 less than the majority of Leslie in 1871. The House will stand 90 Democrats to 10 Republicans.

Senator Morton has gone to Maine to take an active part in the campaign in that State. His health, it is said, is completely restored.... The Governor of Tennessee has appointed D. M. Key, a lawyer of Chattanooga, to fill Andrew Johnson's unexpired term in the United States Senate.

GENERAL.

The experiment of shipping peaches from the East to the West has resulted disastrously to the forwarders, on account of the high freight rates. The only parties who made money by the operation were the railroad companies.

Railroad fares between the East and West have been advanced, and are nearly as high as they were previous to the late war between the trunk lines.

FOREIGN.

Hans Harmon, of Fort Wayne, Ind., was recently slain in a duel at the University of Breslau, Germany....A fresh reinforcement of 10,000 men is to be sent from Spain to Cuba.... The British Parliament has been prorogued till Oct. 29....An Englishman named Webb recently undertook the daring feat of swimming across the English channel without a life-saving apparatus. He accomplished half the distance in seven hours, when, owing to the increasing roughness of the waves, it was thought prudent to take him on board the attending sloop. He was apparently not fatigued.

Col. Baker, who was recently convicted of an indecent assault upon a young lady in a railway car, has been dismissed from the British army in disgrace....Drexel, Hayes & Co., the American bankers in Paris, are redeeming Duncan, Sherman & Co.'s letters of credit.... The Carlists claim to have won an important victory over the Alfonsists at Arduna, Spain ....The insurrection in Herzegovina threatens to become a religious war.

Cortina, the Rio Grande bandit, is in jail in the City of Mexico, and will shortly be tried by a military court....Prince Charles Theodore, great-uncle of the King of Bavaria, was recently thrown from his horse and instantly killed....Another rebellion has broken out in Turkish Croatia....Intelligence has been received at Vienna that the inhabitants of the Bosnian Provinces have risen in insurrection along the whole length of the river Save. The telegraph wires have been cut, thirty Turks massacred, and all official buildings burned. Numbers of refugees are fleeing into Austria ....A treaty of commerce between China and Peru has been concluded....More than 30,000 persons attended mass in St. Augustine Church, London, on the 15th inst., to celebrate the fete of Napoleon.

A body of 6,000 Carlists attempted unsuccessfully to raise the siege of Seo de Urgel. The besiegers are expecting reinforcements. The fire upon the city is continued, and the citadel has suffered serious damage....The sum of $350,000 has been raised by subscription in Germany to indemnify Prussian priests for the withdrawal of the state grant. This is less than half the amount withdrawn.

Late advices from South America bring intelligence of the assassination of the President of the Republic of Ecuador....A Spanish vessel, shipping materials of war at Barcelona, exploded recently, killing fifty persons....A steam yacht carrying Queen Victoria and the royal family, while on a pleasure trip, the other day, ran into and sunk another yacht containing a party of ladies and gentlemen, three of whom were drowned and one killed. None of the royal party were injured....Numerous destructive fires are reported in Russia.....The war in Spain goes bravely on, with varying results.... The plot thickens in Eastern Europe, and every day brings news of a fresh uprising. Thus far the Turkish authorities have shown but little activity in sending troops to the disturbed districts, and it is reported that those sent forward for service in Bosnia have refused to proceed, fearing to encounter the Provincials in the mountain passes. The news also comes that 16,000 Dalmatians are ready to join in the fray, and that an army of Servians are on the way to reinforce the Herzegovinians, who have thus far more than held their own against the Turkish troops, and are visiting the despotic rulers with fire and sword.

The American Consul at Port-au-Prince is having trouble with the Haytien natives, and has asked the government to send a man-of-war there for his protection....It is said that Austria has offered, under a guarantee of the northern European empires, to intervene for the pacification of the Herzegovinians, upon the basis of reform in the administration of the Christian provinces of Turkey, but that the porte has refused the offer.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

Weekly Review of the Chicago Market.

FINANCIAL.

The money market remains in the same condition as noted for some time past. The outlook for the fall trade is very good. Money in ample supply and interest rates easy at 7@10 per cent., according to time and the character of the securities offered. Government bonds firm and a moderate demand was reported.

BREADSTUFFS.

The past week has witnessed a decided weakness in the grainmarkets, and a rapid and quite severe decline in values. The markets have really been "weather markets," and the weakness and the subsequent decline were due mainly to the more settled and finer weather. The reports received from different sections of the country indicated more favorable harvests than had been expected, and the country speculative element were on the selling side, while but few buying orders were received. The Eastern markets were of a less favorable tenor, and shippers were not disposed to trade with any freedom, while the stocks in store are large and rather heavier than usual at this season of the year. The receipts were moderately large. Values have steadily declined from the opening until the close. The most severe decline has been on cash oats, which closed about 17c per bu lower. Wheat and corn were considerably lower.

PRODUCE.

The business transacted in butter during the week was light. The principal reason for the quietness that prevailed was the scarcity of such lots as were desired by shippers. The arrivals during the week have been light, and the supply under a continued good local demand was largely reduced. Dealers being fortunate enough to have lots of butter on hand were able to obtain a shade better prices, though only a slight improvement was noticeable. There were several parties on the market seeking lots of the lower qualities for shipment, but the few lots offered were held above what they were willing to pay, and only a limited number of transactions were made. For grain bags and bagging there has been a good demand, and prices ruled firm as follows: Stark "A" seamless cotton bags, $32.00; Ludlow "AA," Montauk "A," Lewiston "A," and Otter Creek seamless cotton, $30.00; American "A," and Amoskeag, $28.00; wool sacks, 55@60c each. There was a good demand for broom corn at the following prices: 11½@14c for fair to extra hurl, 11@13c for good to choice stalk braid, and 6@8½c for crooked. Beans were quiet and unchanged, quotable at $1.80 for round lots of Eastern mediums and $1.00@1.75 for Western according to quality. Beeswax remains quiet at 26@28c for prime yellow. Cheese was not as active as during the previous week, but former prices were maintained; quotable at 5@6c for poor to common, 8@11c for fair to good, 10¾@10½c for prime in lots, and 11c in a retail way. Currants were quiet at $5.50@6.00 per bu. Dried fruits were firm, and for some descriptions prices were higher. Eastern apples sold mainly at 9c per lb. Halves peaches were firm at 9¾@10c, and blackberries closed firm at 9¼@10c. Dried peas were dull at $2.00@2.10 for choice green, and $1.65@1.75 for marrowfat. The usual dullness again prevailed in eggs, and prices were irregular; sales ranged at 10@14½c, according to quality, the outside being for warranted fresh laid. There was no change from last week noticeable in feathers; quotable at 48@52c for prime live geese, 20@25c for turkey tail, and 3@5c for chicken. Green fruits were in large supply during the latter part of the week, and prices were easier. Apples sold at 50c@$3.50 per brl, and 20@40c per box, according to quality. Peaches were in large supply, and some arrived in a worthless condition; sales ranged at 20@50c per box for Southern, and from 10c@$2.50 for Delaware in one bushel boxes. Plums were slow sale, and pears were also very dull. Grapes sold slowly at 9@10c per lb. Hides were quiet but firm, as follows: 8@8½c for green salted all round, and 12@13c for calf. There was a slight improvement in potatoes, but hardly sufficient to be worth mentioning; sales ranged at $1.00@1.25 per brl. Salt was in fair demand and steady at $1.50 for Onondaga and Saginaw fine, and $1.70 for ordinary coarse. Vegetables were dull, but toward the latter part of the week a slight improvement was noticeable in tomatoes; sales ranged at 25@65c per box for tomatoes, $2.75@3.25 per brl for onions, and 8@10c per doz for corn. Veal was in fair demand and steady at 5@8½c for common to choice carcasses. The wool market remains dull and unchanged; quotable at 38@43c for fine to prime coarse unwashed, 28@33c for do washed, and 40@53c for poor to choice tub washed.

PROVISIONS.

There was a fair active business transacted in this market during the week just passed, but prices at the same time ruled somewhat easier. The outside orders received were somewhat lighter than usual, and the principal trading was done by the local speculative element. During the week the option for October changed from a premium to a discount, compared with seller September. Lard was dull and sales dragged slowly, and a decline of 30@40c was sustained in values. Market closed at $20.80@20.90 for cash mess pork, according to brand; $20.75@20.80 seller August, and seller September at $20.75@20.80. Cash lard quiet at $13.30@13.35, seller September $13.40, and seller October was nominal.

SEEDS AND HIGHWINES.

There was a moderately active business reported in timothy seed, and prices were firm though without immediate alterations. The first arrival of new seed was offered on the market on Saturday, and it being prime in quality, sold at $2.70, old closed at about $2.80 for prime. Clover was a shade firmer; sold at $8.00@8.10 for prime medium. Flax was nominal at about $1.60 for good crushing. The other kinds were entirely nominal. The offerings of highwines were light and the market in consequence ruled quiet. Prices were steady at $1.19.

COOPERAGE, LUMBER AND WOOD.

The quietness of former weeks was again developed in cooperage during the past week, and there was no change to note in prices. Quotable at $1.12½@1.15 for pork barrels, and $1.35@1.45 for lard tierces; $1.90@2.10 for whisky barrels, and 45@55c for flour barrels. It should be understood that the outside prices for lard tierces is only paid for "standard" packages—the new size adopted recently by the Packers' Association. Trade was also rather light in the lumber market, but at the same time prices remain steady and firm. Quotable at $8.50@8.75 for joist and scantling, $8.50@16.00 for boards and strips, $2.10@2.75 for shingles, and $1.50 for lath. There was but little of consequence doing in wood, and values were without change. Hickory, $8.00; maple, $7.00, beech, $6.00, and slabs $4.00 per cord at the yards.

Telegraphic Market Reports.

NEW YORK.
Beeves	$8 50	@	13 50
Hogs—Dressed	10½	@	10¾
Cotton	14⅝	@	14¾
Flour—Superfine Western	4 70	@	5 20
Wheat—No. 2 Chicago	1 32	@	1 32½
No. 1 Spring	..	@	1 34
Corn	78	@	80
Oats	61	@	67
Rye	97	@	1 03
Pork—New Mess	16 25	@	16 50
Lard—Steam	14	@	14¼
ST. LOUIS.
Wheat—No. 2 Red	1 49	@	1 50
Corn—No. 2	66	@	67
Oats—No. 2	44½	@	45½
Rye—No. 2	..	@	76
Pork—Mess	21 75	@	22 00
Lard	13	@	14
Hogs	7 50	@	8 00
Cattle	4 50	@	6 50
MILWAUKEE.
Wheat—No. 1	..	@	1 30
No. 2	..	@	1 23
Corn—No. 2		@	69
Oats—No. 2	..	@	39
Rye	..	@	80
Barley—No. 2	..	@	1 08½
CINCINNATI.
Wheat—	90	@	1 40
Corn	75	@	78
Oats	65	@	70
Rye	90	@	95
Pork—Mess	21 25	@	21 75
Lard	13½	@	14
TOLEDO.
Wheat—Extra	..	@	1 62
Amber	..	@	1 26½
Corn	76	@	76½
Oats	43	@	54
DETROIT.
Wheat—Extra	1 47	@	1 50
Amber	1 38	@	1 49
Corn	78	@	80
Oats	41	@	43
CLEVELAND.
Wheat—No. 1 Red	..	@	1 54
No. 2 Red	..	@	1 49
Corn	81	@	82
Oats	47	@	50

CROP PROSPECTS.

The Reports of Damage by the Floods Greatly Exaggerated.

[From the Chicago Times, 14th.]

We print this morning dispatches from all parts of the district covered by the recent heavy rains and disastrous floods in the States of Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Kentucky. Especial attention is given to the Wabash and Ohio valleys, where the damage done was supposed to be the greatest. It will be observed that in but few localities is the injury done to the harvested and growing crops as great as was at first reported. The subsidence of the rivers and the week of fine weather that has ensued, have revived the growing grain and dried the shocks already harvested in such a manner as to leave it in very fair condition. In Southwestern Ohio there will probably be two-thirds of an average yield; in Southern Indiana there will be nearly three-fourths of the usual crop of grain; along the Wabash there will be a little more than half a crop, while in Southern Illinois the damage done is little more than nominal. In Kentucky everything indicates a full crop of all the principal products.

It is shown that the Times was right in predicting that the first reports of almost complete ruin to the crops were very much exaggerated. The farmers, although they will not realize their expectations earlier in the season, are far from the verge of bankruptcy, for they will not only have plenty of grain for home consumption, but will be able to export nearly the usual amount to the East and Europe. This is gratifying—unexpectedly so in view of the unprecedentedly rainy season we have experienced.

A HUMAN BEE-HIVE.

Density of the Population of the United Kingdom.

The United Kingdom of England and Wales, Scotland and Ireland, with the Channel Islands thrown in, are only twice as large in area as the State of Illinois, but they are all the "world's workshop," and are supplying the unoccupied parts of the habitable world not only with manufactures and capital, but with men. One of their largest exports is human flesh and blood, done up in individual packages, and shipped across oceans and seas. The tide of emigration has been flowing ever since the first English settlement was made on the American coast, more than 250 years ago. It has had its ebbs and floods, but has never been wholly cut off. Even during the revolution, some of the British soldiers who came to prevent our independence remained to enjoy it.

Emigration from the United Kingdom attracted comparatively little attention before 1815. It deserved little, for by that year it had attained scanty proportions. The number of persons emigrating was only 2,081. The next year it rose to 12,510, and there was a steady advance until 1819, when the number was 34,987. The average for the next ten years was not as great as this, but American flush times when we were rushing upon the crisis of 1836-7 attracted crowds of British and Irish subjects. In the five years from 1830 to 1834, inclusive, the aggregate number of emigrants from the United Kingdom to America was 381,956. This was thought enormous, but it is only a little more than the annual average now. Up to this time (1834) more persons had emigrated to the British colonies in North America than to the United States. Very many of them had made Canada only a half-way house on their journey to the "States," but numbers had changed their home and not their flag. The tide turned in 1834. As late as 1839, however, the emigration of the last twenty-five years had sent 499,899 to the colonies and only 417,765 to the "States." But from 1840 the figures were respectively to the Canadas 993,756, and to the "States" 4,720,570.

The official record of emigration from 1840 to 1873 registers every great economic event of that time—the Irish famine, the discovery of gold in California and Australia, the American financial panic of 1857, the Civil War, etc. The '57 crisis cut down British emigration to this country from 126,905 in 1857 to 59,716 in 1858. The outbreak of the Civil War reduced it from 87,500 in 1860 to 49,764 in 1861. The Irish famine forced it up from 82,239 in 1846 to 142,154 in 1847, and 188,233 in 1848, and 219,450 in 1849, and 230,885 in 1850. Corresponding figures for the North American Colonies were 43,439 in 1846, and 109,680 in 1847, when it suddenly dropped to 31,065 in 1848. When gold was discovered in Australia, the number of emigrants thither quadrupled in a year. From 21,532 in 1851 it became 87,881 in 1852, and 61,401 the next year, and 83,237 the next, or 1854. It continued to decline in Australia down to 12,227 in 1870.

In 1873 the total number of emigrants from the United Kingdom was 310,612, or about 1 per cent. of the whole population of the Kingdom. Of these persons, 233,073 came to the United States. This rate of decrease exceeds the annual average increase of the British population between 1861 and 1871. For these ten years it was only 8.8 per cent. But the great proportionate loss was from Ireland. Nevertheless population is now increasing more rapidly than emigration and death together can thin it. According to the report of the Registrar-General, the net daily increase in the population of the United Kingdom is 705. In 1865, the total population was 29,861,908. In 1874 it was 32,412,000.

The wonderful fact shown by these figures is, that this little cluster of islands on the western shore of Europe should produce such enormous numbers of human beings. England and Wales, in which the land is owned by comparatively few persons, are more densely populated than any other country in Europe except Belgium, which is a land of manufactures and farm patches. Yet the density increases every year, despite the hundreds of thousands who leave the teeming shores of Old England and ancient Erin for the New World.—Chicago Tribune.

O'Connell's Wit.

One of the most effective weapons of O'Connell was his wit, which was always at his command. There are hundreds of stories detailing instances of his power in this respect. One of these is a story where the victim was Dr. Russell, known in this country as "Bull Run Russell," the famous correspondent of the London Times. On one occasion, when O'Connell was to address a monster meeting in Ireland, Russell was sent over by the Times to report O'Connell's speech, the purpose being to get evidence that could be used against him in case he should utter language capable of being interpreted as seditious. By O'Connell's advice, Russell was provided with every possible facility for his work. He was assigned a seat near O'Connell, where he could hear every word. O'Connell, before beginning his speech, informed the thousands of people present that there was a very able Englishman present, who came all the way from England to report his speech; that it was to be printed in the London Times, and that the gentleman was desirous to get an accurate report, so that he could swear to it if necessary. He therefore appealed to the Irish present to be quiet and orderly; to make no noise, and to do nothing that could disturb the English gentleman, or cause him to lose a word of the speech to which he was to swear. During these remarks he pointed out Mr. Russell personally, who was placed so conspicuously as to be easily seen by all. Then, turning to Mr. Russell, he asked him if there was anything he needed, if he was comfortably seated, if his pens were in order, and if he were ready to begin. By this time Russell had become the most interesting and conspicuous man in the crowd. Again appealing to the crowd to become quiet and let the gentleman get such a report as he could swear to, he informed Russell that he was about to begin. Russell dipped his pen in ink, and O'Connell began his oration—in Irish! The multitude saw the joke, and Russell was painfully impressed with the knowledge that he was laughed at. At intervals O'Connell would appeal in English to the crowd to be silent, as the English gentleman did not seem to get along very well, and would not be able to swear to the accuracy of the report. Every moment made Russell's position more painful, until at last, mortified and humiliated at the exposure of the real purpose of his visit, and at its defeat, he rose from his seat, left the meeting, and quitted Ireland.—Chicago Tribune.

A Mystery of Twenty-five Years Cleared Up.

Some weeks since an article from a New Orleans paper was extensively published throughout the country, to the effect that the crew of the schooner Florida, which sailed for California from New Orleans, in 1849, and was supposed to have been lost, with all on board, had been discovered on an island in the Southern Pacific, by an English vessel which had been driven thither by continued storms. The crew stated that the Florida had been wrecked on this uninhabited island twenty-six years ago, and that in the interval they had not seen a human face. They declined, however, to leave the island, having established themselves in comparative comfort. The narrative was said to have created great sensation among the surviving relatives of the crew, and an effort was stated to be on foot to fit out a vessel which should visit the island.

The Louisville Courier-Journal of a recent date publishes the report of an interview with a gentleman who was living in Valparaiso, Chili, in 1849. He states that the Florida put into Port Famine, at that time the Chilian penal settlement; that the convicts boarded her, massacred all of the crew except a young man named Marcum, and made sail for the main land. On her way she was recaptured by a Chilian war vessel and brought into Valparaiso, where the Courier-Journal's informant got the above details from Marcum's own lips. Marcum, whose parents are still living in Versailles, Ky., proceeded to California, where he soon after died of small-pox, at Placerville, in that State. The British steamer Thetis had first seen the Florida after her capture by the convicts, and gave the information to the Chilian authorities, which led them to send out the vessel which brought her back into port. A revolution was in progress in Chili at the time, and the records of the event may be lost, but the full details were on the log-book of the Thetis, which may be examined in the office of the British Admiralty.

Exports of Wheat.

For the purpose of illustrating the rising importance of wheat in our exports, we have compiled from the official records the following statement of the value of the national exports of wheat and flour from the year 1821 up to the present time:

EXPORTS OF WHEAT AND FLOUR FROM THE UNITED STATES.

Yearly av'rage for ten years ending	Flour.	Wheat.	Total.
1830..	$ 4,904,308	$ 18,173	$ 4,922,481
1840..	5,657,960	255,443	5,913,403
1850..	10,043,183	1,364,187	11,607,370
1860..	18,014,866	7,802,869	25,517,244
1870..	22,571,364	29,593,869	52,165,233
The year 1871..	24,093,184	45,143,424	69,236,608
1872..	17,955,684	38,915,060	56,870,744
1873..	19,381,664	51,452,254	70,833,918
1874..	29,258,094	101,421,459	130,679,553

For the twenty years ending with 1840 the exports averaged about $5,500,000 a year; during the next ten years the average exports doubled; during the ten years ending with 1860, they rose to an average of $25,500,000, and even during the war decade, when so much labor was diverted from the field to the camp, the export was doubled as compared with the ten preceding years. In 1871, the first year of the present decade, we exported $69,200,000; and last year the shipments rose to $130,600,000. In other words, the present export of wheat and flour is twenty-four times the value of that for the average of the twenty years ending with 1840.

This clearly shows what is the natural and inevitable drift of production in this country, and indicates where capital is to seek its chief employments and rewards. The competition between the agriculture of the two continents is at last coming out in our favor; and our true interest lies in affording every facility to the branch of industry in which our largest achievements are won.—New York Daily Bulletin.

The English Sparrow.

We see by some of our exchanges that at last the eyes of the people are beginning to open to the true character of this pestiferous imported little pilferer. One correspondent states that he noticed from the windows of his house several sparrows in the top of a pear tree in his next door neighbor's garden, very busy, and apparently picking off the buds which were just then forming. To be sure about it, he watched them carefully through a good opera-glass, and was convinced that they were destroying almost every bud upon the tree. These sparrows are not insect destroyers, but are the greatest nuisance of the bird species ever imported into America. They drive other birds away, and are very destructive to fruit, berry and grain crops. They have been known to destroy entire wheat and oat fields in England and Ireland, and if not killed and exterminated, when they get more numerous our farmers will find that they have to deal with the most pestiferous little pilferer that has ever cursed the country.—Kentucky Stock Grower.

How to Break off Bad Habits.

Understand the reasons why the habit is injurious. Study the subject until there is no lingering doubt in your mind. Avoid the persons, the places and the thoughts that lead to the temptation. Frequent the places, associate with the persons, indulge in the thoughts, that lead away from temptation. Keep busy; idleness is the strength of bad habits. Do not give up the struggle when you have broken your resolution once—twice—a thousand times. That only shows how much need there is for you to strive. When you have broken your resolution, just think the matter over, and endeavor to understand why it is you failed, so that you may be on your guard against a recurrence of the same circumstances. Do not think it is an easy thing you have undertaken. It is a folly to expect to break off a bad habit in a day which may have been gathering long years.

AUBURN COURIER

T. O. MAYS, Publisher.

GOSSIP OF THE DAY.

ROBERT COLLYER'S new lecture will not be given to the public before next winter. He has no fear of keeping the article as fresh as ever through the summer, because it is nothing but "Salt."

How our public men fade away! Of the eight who ran for President and Vice-President in 1860 but two—Hannibal Hamlin and Herschel V. Johnson—are living. Lincoln, Douglas, Bell, Breckinridge, Everett and Lane have passed away. "What shadows we are."

THERE have been under our government 18 Presidents, 27 Vice-Presidents, 33 Secretaries of State, 37 Secretaries of the Treasury, 42 Secretaries of War, 35 Secretaries of the Navy, 12 Secretaries of the Interior, 33 Postmasters General, 45 Attorneys General, and 53 Speakers of the House of Representatives.

A FEW days since the schooner Rosabelle, lumber-laden became water-logged and went on the beach at Grand Haven, Mich., during a terrible storm. Capt. Frazier, with five brave citizens of Grand Haven, launched a life-boat and in the presence of a large crowd who witnessed the exciting scene, succeeded in rescuing all with the exception of the cook, who had been previously washed overboard.

GEORGE ALFRED TOWNSEND is probably the most prolific writer of all the grand army of Bohemians. It is stated that thirty columns a week has been his average amount of matter for fourteen years, and often he has been known to grind out that quantity in a single day. He rises at daylight and his work is mainly done at 11 o'clock. Townsend is still a young man, having been born in 1841.

A POSTOFFICE clerk in Nebraska, in a fit of recklessness, purloined two five dollar bills from a letter. Afterward repenting, and being convinced of the truth of the adage, "Honesty is the best policy," he slipped a $10 bill into the same letter and forwarded it to its destination. The reception of an X, instead of two V's, lead to his detection and arrest, and he now languishes in jail, while struggling vainly with the problem why two 5's are not 10, and fully convinced that there must be something wrong with that old adage.

A WISCONSIN farmer had a hen addicted to picking and eating her own eggs. The cunning Granger cured this abnormal appetite by placing an egg-shell filled with cayenne pepper in the nest—the hen innocently plunging her beak into it, with a result so effectual and permanent that she is the only hen now known that will lay an egg without cackling over it. She performs her daily duty in this respect patiently and noiselessly, and instantly after accomplishing her task, retires to the opposite side of the farm-yard with astonishing celerity. The elated Granger forwarded an application to Washington to have the new "Pepper" trick secured by patent, which proceeding will soon doubtless convince him that, like his disconsolate hen, he had better have left the "bogus" egg as it was.

THE people of Rochester, New York, have kindly interested themselves in behalf of the orphan children of Donaldson, the lost aeronaut of Barnum's show. A benefit is to be given them, and a guardian appointed that the proceeds may be judiciously applied. Though Donaldson owed nothing for their maintenance at the time of his supposed death, a few hundred dollars procured in this manner, let it be managed ever so economically, will serve his orphans but a brief period, and we would suggest that Barnum's Hippodrome, which is indirectly responsible for the sad fate of the luckless aeronaut, should supplement the charitable measures of the less interested citizens of Rochester, by devoting at least one day's receipts of the great show for the benefit of the helpless children of their late friend and companion. How is it circusmen, will you "tumble" to this suggestion?

WHILE Steiner's balloon was floating at a great height over Oak Creek, Wis., a fresh arrival from the "ould dart" followed the family from the residence out of doors to ascertain the cause of the excitement which had induced the neighbors to unceremoniously summon them. Now Bridget had heard nothing but the balloon talked of in the family circle for days, and her curiosity was strongly roused when she heard the cry in all directions, "The balloon! The balloon!" and she stared hard at the sky in the direction the others were looking. "Do you see it, Bridget?" questioned her mistress, excitedly. "Indade an' I don't, mum," she replied. "Look! look, Bridget! That little round ball away up there as far as you can see." Bridget's eyes distended like an owl's as she caught sight of the object, and immediately she exclaimed, tremulously, "Glory be to God, mum, an' is that thing full o' people!"

THE announcement that the trial of John D. Lee for complicity in the Mountain Meadow massacre has resulted in a hung jury will excite little surprise when the composition of the jury is taken into consideration. The jury, according to a San Francisco paper, was composed as follows:

Joseph Wade, Gentile, native, two years a resident of the Territory; J. C. Heister, Gentile, native, two years a resident; David Rogers, Mormon, fourteen years a resident; Isaac Duffen, Mormon, naturalized, ten years a resident; John P. Chetester, Mormon, native, resident twelve years; James C. Robison, Mormon, native resident, eighteen years; D. J. Arslum, Mormon, native, resident twenty years, and son-in-law to Haight, who gave the order to fire on the emigrants, but has no opinion; Joseph Knight, Mormon, native, resident twenty years; Paul Price, Mormon, native, resident six years; George F. Jarvis, Mormon, naturalized, resident fifteen years; Robert Heyborne, Mormon, naturalized, (a Californian), resident seventeen years, and step-son of Uric, who was engaged in the massacre—has been on the ground, but knows nothing of it; John Beaver, Gentile, native, ten years resident of California.

Nine Mormons and three Gentiles, and two of these Mormons relatives of men who participated in the butchery! Is it any wonder that they stood nine for acquittal and three for conviction? What chance was there for justice with such a jury?

A WRITER in the St. Louis Republican of a statistical turn of mind has kept a careful record of suicides in the United States for two months, embracing the period between June 1 and Aug. 1. His record shows a sum total of 110 self-murders. Of these 85 were males and 25 females. Four of the former were under 18 years of age, and 1 a boy of 13. All the females except 6 were married. The manner of death was as follows: Forty by shooting, 26 by poison, 16 by drowning, 15 by hanging, 9 by throat-cutting, 2 by jumping out of a window, 1 by burning and 1 by starvation. The reasons, as far as can be ascertained, were as follows: Thirty-one died and left no sign, 28 were "tired of life," 16 were insane, 12 alleged domestic troubles, 8 whisky, 7 disappointed affection, 4 to escape the penalty of murder, 1 because of a son's disgrace, 1 because of bad treatment from his children, 1 from religious excitement, 1 to avoid the punishment due to theft. The localities were divided as follows: New York, 27; Illinois, 13; Ohio, 12; Missouri, 10; Iowa, 6; Louisiana, 5; New Jersey, 5; Massachusetts, 5; California, 4; Indiana, 4; Pennsylvania, 3; Michigan, 2; Connecticut, Wisconsin and Virginia, each 2; Nevada, Rhode Island, District of Columbia, Kansas, Alabama, Maryland and Nebraska, each 1; and 1 at sea.

A THEORY is current that Donaldson's balloon was struck by lightning. This theory, though barely possible, is very improbable, no instance of the kind having occurred in the history of aerostation. As a suggestion not before offered, we think it more probable that when the schooner Guide saw them dipping in the lake and started in the endeavor to rescue them, Donaldson and Grimwood, finding the balloon traveling faster than the vessel, concluded to trust to their life-preservers, and desert the balloon, in the hope that the schooner would continue in the same course, and approach within hailing distance. This they probably did, the schooner being but about a mile distant and bearing directly down for them. At this juncture, the balloon, relieved of its burden, shot up perpendicularly into the air and soon vanished from sight, which, according to the statement of Capt. Anderson and mate, was actually the case. This sudden change of tactics on the part of the balloon not being understood by the willing mariners, and having no conception of the precious ballast in the lake necessary to effect it, they headed the schooner again for Chicago, leaving the unfortunate aeronauts to perish in the violent storm which struck the lake soon afterward. Accepting this hypothesis, we may readily account for the balloon seen at various times and places floating at a high altitude for days after the lamentable catastrophe.

Diary of an M. D.

A pocket-diary, picked up in the street of a neighboring city, would seem to indicate, from the following choice extracts, that the owner was a medical man:

"Kase 230, Mary An Perkins. Bisnes, wash woman. Sickness in her hed Fisik some blue pils a soaperifik; age 52. Ped me one dollar, 1 kuarter bogus. Mind get good kuarter and mak her tak mo fisik.

"Kase 231, Tummes Frink, Busines, Nirishman. Lives with Pady Molony who keeps a dray—Sikness digg in ribs and tow blak eys. Fisik to drink my mixter twict a day of sasiperily bere and jellop, and fish ile, with asifedity to make it taste fisiky. Rubed his face with kart grese liniment, aged 39 years age. Drinked the mixter and wuddnt pay me bekase it tasted nasty, but the mixter'll work his innards, I reckon.

"Kase 232, Old Misses Boggs. Aint got no bisness, but plenty of money. Siknes awl a humbug. Gav her sum of my celebrated 'Dipseflorikon,' which she sed drank like cold tee—wich it was too. Must put sumthink in it to make her feel sik and bad. The Old Wommen has got the roks."—Sanitarian.

THE $2,000 jail at Greeley, Col., has stood empty ever since it was built.

INDIANA NEWS.

THE Hoosier State says that Vermillion county will raise 300,000 bushels of potatoes this year.

A YOUNG lady is attending the Normal Institute, at Sullivan, who weighs 225 pounds avoirdupois.

ON the north branch of the Vandalia road, in Clay county, sixteen bridges have been washed away.

THE Northwest Indiana Annual Conference will meet in Greencastle, Sept. 8. Bishop Janes presides.

ADDISON HAMILTON, aged seventeen years, was run over and instantly killed by a passenger train near Fort Wayne a few days since.

JOHN BREESE, station agent on the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern railroad, at Rolling Prairie, Laporte county, fell dead from heart disease while discharging his duties at the depot.

THE Commissioners of Vermillion county have concluded this is not a good year to increase taxes, and have therefore decided not to let the contract for the building of a new County Asylum.

ON Wednesday last, at South Bend, a young man named Frank Mallory attempted suicide by taking morphine. Through the unremitting attentions of physicians his life was saved. He took the poison because his girl "shook" him.

AT Cumberland, Marion county, a few days ago, during an altercation about a trade, Louis Veatch shot and instantly killed his brother-in-law, Melvin Murray, with a shot-gun. The murderer fled, but was shortly captured, and is now in custody.

DRURY FLENNER, 60 years of age, was struck by lightning and instantly killed at Rushville, on Wednesday afternoon of last week. The lightning struck a watch in his pocket, completely melting the ring. His son, who was walking with him, was knocked insensible.

KENNEDY, the notorious convict who shot and killed the guard, Geo. Chamberlain, and attempted an outbreak at the State Prison South last summer, was tried before Judge Anthony, of the Criminal Court at Charleston last week, and convicted of murder in the first degree.

NEWS has been received at Indianapolis of the death of Lieut.-Commander Owentrout, of that city, on board the steamer Spain, at Staten Island. He was well and highly known, being a member of a prominent family. He entered the Academy in 1860, and served during the latter part of the war of the rebellion with distinction, winning rapid promotion. His body was brought home for interment.

A HORRIBLE threshing-machine accident occurred last week near Goshen. Anthony Ralfsnyder, while oiling the machine, stepped on the arm at the side of the feed-board, and his right foot was instantly drawn into the rapidly revolving cylinder. His leg was torn off by inches to within six inches of his body. A surgeon was sent for, who amputated the leg at the body. The sufferer lived but six hours after the operation, when he died in great agony.

DR. FRANKLIN CONGROVE, of Marysville, Allen county, through his attorneys, has instituted libel proceedings in the Civil Circuit Court, at Indianapolis, for $10,000 damages, against Hon. Jno. E. Neff, G. W. H. Riley, and R. D. Dum, former editors and proprietors of the Fort Wayne Sentinel. The complaint alleges that on the 3d of September, 1873, he was published in that paper as being a hypocrite, libertine, coward, and having attempted to commit rape upon Mrs. Elizabeth Scheider, while attending her professionally.

Hans Christian Andersen.

The death of Hans Christian Andersen, the Danish poet and story-teller, leaves a void in the literary world that must for a long time remain unfilled. His was a peculiar talent, employed with rare discrimination. Almost uneducated in early life, he managed to obtain a clear and remarkably appreciative insight into human nature, especially child-like, and by a diligent course of study, undertaken when few young men would think of such a thing, he was able to use that knowledge. He commenced writing poetry and children's stories many years ago. In all of them he aimed to make his readers better. His productions were singularly simple, touching, entertaining, inspiring. Many of them exhibited a pathos that would bring tears in the eyes of a reader, old or young. A high moral and Christian sentiment pervades his every sketch, and none could peruse his simplest story without feeling the better for it. To old as well as young his books afforded entertainment and instruction. He will be sadly missed by all classes, to whom his name has become a household word.

A Bold Leap by a Girl.

A rash leap was made by a young girl last night, as the excursion train conveying the Bible Christian congregation from Port Stanley to London was dashing past the Ross farm, about 2½ miles from from the city. It appears that while at the spot mentioned a girl named Millie George, about 12 years of age, daughter of Mr. William George, corner of Clarence and Nelson streets, was standing on the platform of the second last carriage, several of the other scholars being with her. A gust of wind blew off her hat. Apparently thinking it too good to lose, she jumped off the carriage unobserved, strange to relate, by any of her companions. She was seen to fall on her hands and knees, and to rise up, hat in hand, and run after the train. Those in the last carriage pulled the bell-rope, but it was apparently unworkable, or at least was unobserved by the conductors, as the train arrived in the city before they were fully apprised of the affair. No time was lost in dispatching an engine along the line to look for the courageous little girl. Fortunately, to the great relief of the girl's mother and her friends, who were in a sad plight at the station, she suddenly put in appearance at home, with but a few scratches as a remembrancer of her rash act.—London (Can.) Free Press.

AN ANCIENT BURG.

A City One Hundred and Eighty Thousand Years Old in California.

[From the Scientific American.]

In the current number of the Overland a California geologist reviews the geological evidence of the antiquity of a human settlement near the present town of Cherokee, in that State, and estimates the age of that most ancient of discovered towns to be not less than 180,000 years! The data for all such calculations are necessarily uncertain, as they are derived from the present motions of the continents and present rates of erosion; still, from the changes that have taken place since the pioneers of prehistoric California left their traces on its ancient sea-shore, there can be no doubt that thousands of centuries must have come and gone.

The traces in question are numerous stone mortars, found in undisturbed white and yellow gravel of a subaqueous formation, not fluviatile, underlying the vast sheets of volcanic rock of which Table mountain is a part. In one instance a mortar was found standing upright, with the pestle in it, apparently just as it had been left by its owner. In some cases the mortars have been found at the depth of forty feet from the surface of the gravel underlying the Table mountain. The distribution of the mortars is such as to indicate with great positiveness the former existence of a human settlement on that ancient beach when the water stood near the level at which they occur; a time anterior to the volcanic outpouring which Table mountain records, and anterior to the glacial epoch.

The recent geological history of that region may be briefly summed up as follows: Previous to the placing of the mortars in the position in which they have been found, the early and middle tertiary sea level had receded to the position of the coal beds underlying Table mountain, fully 1,000 feet below the level of Cherokee. Subsequently, in the pliocene period, there was a further subsidence of about 1,000 feet, something like 600 feet occurring after the mortars had been abandoned. All this, as has been noticed, took place before the volcanic outflows which covered up all the ancient detritus of the region, including that of the ancient rivers (whose gravels have furnished so much of the gold of California). The geological age of the river period was determined by Lesquereaux from specimens of vegetation, now extinct, collected in the survey of the ancient rivers; specimens indicating a flora of the pliocene age, retaining some characteristic miocene forms.

After the volcanic period, the land rose again, the time of emergence embracing the glacial period and the new eroding period in the Sierra, during which the slates, and the hard metamorphic greenstones, and the granites were slashed with canons 3,000 feet deep by the action of ice and running water. Taking the rates of continental movement determined by Lyell, our geologist calculates that the time required for the changes thus outlined could not have been less than eighteen hundred centuries. For a period so long preceding the glacial epoch as the time when ancient Cherokee was buried by the waters of the advancing sea, his estimate is certainly not extravagant, though it does transcend so enormously the time men have been accustomed to allow for a man's residence on earth.

A Wonderful Invention.

F. A. Gleason, of Brooklyn, has invented a self-feeding nail machine, which is now in operation at the nail factory of the Albany iron-works. The machine is making six-penny nails at the rate of 300 to 360 per minute, and the attendance of one man is sufficient for five or six machines. The feeding apparatus is the chief novelty of the machine, and consists of: First—A plate box holding a thirty pound plate. The lower plate is discharged immediately after the first plate is cut up. Second—An automatic nipper, which seizes the plate, carrying it down to the cutters and feeding it until consumed, then returning and discharging the scrap in a receptacle provided for that purpose. The feeding process is reduced to the simplest mechanical movements, and the parts liable to friction and constant wear consist of only an eccentric, elbow, and their connections. The machine has been examined by A. L. Holley, Chief Engineer of the Bessemer steel-works, Richmond, and other experts, and has caused much astonishment by its simplicity. The machine runs rapidly and becomes very hot. This is the only defect, and it is believed that can be easily remedied.

A Novel Method of Smuggling.

As the steamer Columbus was nearing the Quarantine landing Tuesday, Inspector Kane noticed several large bags thrown overboard. Suspecting they contained smuggled cigars, he had the vessel stopped, and, in company with Inspectors McCost and Hagan, jumped into a boat and rowed after the mysterious packages. Another row-boat had similar intentions, and the occupant succeeded in fishing up the bags, and immediately rowed for dear life toward the Staten Island shore. The officers at once gave chase, and after much difficulty overhauled the boat and seized its contents. The prize consisted of six bags of cigars, in India rubber air-tight bags, as large as mail-bags. The man was allowed to go, but he gave some important information to the officers. There were many thousands of cigars in the bags, and the seizure is looked upon as one of the most important made during the last few years.—New York Express.

AGRICULTURAL AND DOMESTIC.

God Bless the Farm.

God bless the farm—the dear old farm;
  God bless it every rood,
Where willing hearts and sturdy arms
  Can earn an honest livelihood!
Can from the coarse and fertile soil
Win back a recompense for toil.

God bless each meadow, field and nook,
  Begemmed with fairest flowers,
And every leaf that's gently shook
  By evening breeze or morning showers;
God bless them all! each leaf's a gem
In nature's gorgeous diadem.

The orchards that, in early spring,
  Blush rich in fragrant flowers;
And with each autumn surely bring
  Their wealth of fruits in golden showers;
Like pomegranates on Aaron's rod,
A miracle from nature's God.

And may He bless the farmer's home,
  Where peace and plenty reign;
No happier spot 'neath heaven's high dome
  Doth this broad, beauteous earth contain,
Than where, secure from care and strife,
The farmer leads his peaceful life.

Unvexed by toil and tricks for gain,
  He turns the fertile mould;
Then scatters on the golden grain,
  And reaps reward a hundred fold;
He dwells where grace and beauty charm,
For God hath both blessed his home and farm.

Around the Farm.

A NEW JERSEY poultryman has sold a lot of 258 capons, averaging 10½ pounds each, for cents a pound. The total sum of over $1,000 for the lot is a handsome remuneration for the small trouble in rearing this small quantity of fowls.

THERE is no lesson of more importance than to teach the art of making home pleasant. This is one of the ways to keep the boys and girls on the farm and to make them satisfied with their situation. For the want of something nice many a boy has left the country home, made a poor lawyer or clerk, who would have made a good, successful farmer.

A FARMER informs the Kentucky Home Journal that he always turns his sheep on his standing corn after it is in full ear. They destroy many weeds that would otherwise re-seed the ground, clean up the fence rows, and get much good food that at this season of the year comes well to hand. He adds that you can continue to let them in the field, and so long as they find anything else to feed upon they will not molest the corn.

To CURE a colt of pulling at his halter place a stiff spring pole in front of him, but out of sight behind his manger. Pass the halter strap through a hole in the partition and tie to the spring pole. If all is properly adjusted the colt will try his entire strength without breaking loose, and will be apt to go back to his manger a great deal quicker than he backed away from it.

IT is now stated that the Eucalyptus, or fever tree, is quite as valuable in respect to timber producing qualities as it is in a sanitary point of view. In California it has been found to grow very rapidly and to an enormous size, and is now being planted for wood. Trees only four years and a half from the seed are now twenty-two feet high and sixteen inches in circumference; and a single cultivator has raised, during the past year, from two and a half pounds of seed, no less than 50,000 trees eight inches in height.

It is perhaps not generally known how much protection is afforded to tender vegetation by the presence of hardy evergreens, either as hedges to screen from cold and drying winds, or by their overhanging branches to arrest excessive radiation of heat. It is astonishing sometimes to see what apparently trifling protection will save the life plants which are sure to be killed in more open and exposed places. A few dried bushes or a handful of leaves, a sheltered fence corner of the shade of a large tree, will often suffice to carry tender plants safely through the winter. A few green pine boughs set upright around some Eucalyptus trees in two of my neighbors' garden have effectually saved them this winter. The protection afforded by a mass of evergreen foliage seems to be something more than a mere screen, or what would be afforded by an overhanging shed or dried straw. Perhaps the living leaves may modify the temperature in some way we are ignorant of. Certain it is that many half hardy plants will survive the severe cold of winter when thus protected, which are almost invariably killed when out in perfectly exposed localities.

FIGHTING THE CHINCH BUG.—Mt. Lafferty is perfectly right in showing the impracticability on a large scale of many remedies that may answer on a small scale, and in advocating the log and ditch plows against the first brood as it leaves the small grain and makes for the corn. Yet it must not be forgotten that this first brood at the time it passes from field to field and may be fought with ditches, has already accomplished most of the injury it is capable of, and that as M. L. well remarks, the ditching is of no avail against the second brood. It is for these reasons that I have so strongly urged winter work and combined action in dealing with the chinch bug.—C. V. Riley, in Rural World.

About the House.

To MAKE meat tender, cut the steak the day before into slices about two inches thick; rub them over with a small quantity of carbonate of soda; wash off next morning, and cook as you please.

SPICED GOOSEBERRIES.—Eight pounds of gooseberries, four pounds brown sugar, half a pint pure cider vinegar. Boil one hour and a half. When done, add cinnamon and cloves. They will keep without sealing, and are very nice.

PLANTS in pots, that is, the ordinary varieties usually grown for this purpose, including roses, are greatly benefited by a slight mulch of old hot-bed manure. And conifers, too, show the effect of this fertilizing covering by an increased color and a more vigorous growth.

GINGER NUTS.—One pound of flour, three-quarters pound of lard and butter mixed, three-quarters pound of sugar, one-quarter pound of ginger, two ounces of allspice, one ounce of caraway seed and one pint of molasses.

LEMON EXTRACT FOR FARMERS' WIVES.—Pare the lemons as thin as possible; the rind can be dried for a variety of uses. Slice them and take out the seeds. Heat them boiling, hot with their weight in white sugar. Put in a tight can. A tablespoonful will flavor a pie or custard nicely. This will keep a long time.

COLD starch should not be made too stiff, or undissolved portions will adhere to the garments. If of the right consistency, the article will look as if wrung out of water. Roll tightly and let it lie for two hours. It will then iron as easily as if boiled starch had been used, and take much less.

NEVER repaper a room without first removing the old paper. The moisture of the fresh paste causes a fermentation of the old paste and hurtful gases are generated, and if the old paper contained arsenical colors the arsenic is liberated in a deadly form. Tear off the old paper and make the walls clean before applying the new.

THE following is described as a simple and effectual method of keeping ice water a long time in a common pitcher: Place between two sheets of paper (newspaper will answer, thick brown paper is better) a layer of cotton batting about half an inch in thickness; fasten the ends of paper and batting together, forming a circle, then sew or paste a crown over one end, making a box the shape of a stovepipe minus the rim. Place this over an ordinary pitcher filled with ice water, making it deep enough to rest on the table, so as to exclude the air, and you will be astonished at the length of time this ice will keep, and the water remain cold after the ice is melted.

Something for Everybody.

STRAW matting should be washed with a cloth dampened in salt water. Indian meal sprinkled over it and thoroughly swept out will also cleanse it finely.

TO PREVENT hard soap, prepared with soda, from crumbling, the bars may be dipped in a mixture of resin soap, beef tallow, and wax.

SCRAPED or powdered French chalk is used by bootmakers to make new boots or shoes go on easily, by rubbing or dusting a little of it on the inside of the heel and instep of the boot.

TO RENDER the colors of cotton fabric permanent, dissolve three gills of salt in four quarts of water; put the calico in while hot, and leave it till cold; it will not fade by subsequent washing.

A GOOD cement for attaching labels to metallic surfaces is composed of gum tragacanth mucilage ten parts, honey ten parts, flour one part.

MANY kinds of close-grained hardwood may be made to resemble ebony by soaking them in a moderately strong solution of sulphate of iron and tannin for a week or more. The color will penetrate the wood and render it capable of taking a fine polish.

PAPERING and painting are best done in cold weather, especially the latter, for the wood absorbs the oil of paint much more in warm weather; while in cold weather the oil hardens on the outside, making a coat which will protect the wood instead of soaking into it.

DO NOT be content with having a well-regulated front yard only, but see to it that the back yard is tidy and clean. If only covered with grass it is neat, as well as useful for bleaching purposes. Place here a plat of bright flowers to give some variety, even if it be done at the expense of the front yard. Keep it orderly; don't let sticks, old hoop skirts, tin cans and all kinds of rubbish lie around, to be moved from place to place, annoying you and breeding pestilence.

VEGETABLES should never be washed until immediately before prepared for the table. Lettuce is made almost worthless in flavor, by dipping it in water some hours before it is served. Potatoes suffer more than other vegetables through the washing process. They should not be put in water till just ready for boiling.

PROFESSOR NESSLER says that the keeping qualities of smoked meat do not depend upon the amount of smoking, but upon the uniform and proper drying of the meat. It is of considerable advantage also to roll the meat on its removal from the salt, before smoking, in sawdust or bran. By this means the crust formed in smoking will not be so thick; and if moisture condenses upon the meat it remains in the bran, the brown coloring matter of the smoke not penetrating. The best place to keep the meat is in a smoke-house, in which it remains dry, without drying out entirely as it does when hung in a chimney.

GUNS and rifles may be easily cleaned from lead by the following: If a muzzle-loader, stop up the nipple or communication hole with a little wax, or, if a breech-loader, insert a cork in the breech rather tightly; next pour some quicksilver into the barrel, and put another cork in the muzzle, then proceed to roll it up and down the barrel, shaking it about for a few minutes. The mercury and the lead will form an amalgam, and leave the barrel as clean and free from lead as the first day it came out of the shop. The same quicksilver can be used repeatedly, by straining it through wash-leather; for the lead will be left behind in the leather, and the quicksilver will be again fit for use.

Delicacy in Women.

If there is one trait in a woman's character to be loved and admired above another, it is true, modest, unassuming delicacy. The true delicacy of woman consists in administering to the wants of the distressed, giving counsel and good advice in a friendly manner, and in not seeming to know that she has done anything but duty, and it in a very unobtrusive way. True delicacy will never give offense, yet tell us of our worst faults at all times. We have known ladies with such a natural delicacy that our admiration of that most admirable trait of character—though they were very plain and not possessed of nature's beauty—caused them to seem to us the most beautiful of women. Delicacy made them so pure in thought, word and act, that our admiration did not allow us to see the fault of nature's adornment after we had known them a day. A delicacy that is natural is ever modest, retiring, and full of compassion and human sympathy; it is possessed of a heart that is ever open to other's woes and sorrows.

A TOOTH was recently extracted from the tongue of a Mr. Brunson, of Perry, Ga. About a year ago he received a pistol shot in the mouth by which the tooth was torn from the gum and firmly imbeded in the muscles of the tongue.

A New Store

With an entire new stock of

BOOTS & SHOES,

New STYLES of all kinds at the LOWEST PRICES at

J. E. WOODFORD'S

I have located at Auburn with a fine stock of BOOTS and SHOES, which will be sold at the Lowest Figures for Cash!

My Facilities for making CUSTOM WORK are not excelled anywhere and those favoring me—with their orders may be certain of getting the best material.

W. W. HUMES, Foreman.

To the trade, great inducements are offered in Leather, Findings, &c. Please call and examine my stock before purchasing.

STORE ESTABLISHED IN 1839.

GEO. DeWALD & CO.

Dry Goods & Notions.

Black Silks & Fine Dress Goods a Specialty.

We can make it to the interests of every person to trade with us. We buy for CASH and sell for CASH, keep the best goods, and sell at one price

ALSO AGENTS FOR THE

"Domestic" PATERNS.

The Best in Use. Send for a Cat logue.

Geo DeWald & Co
No. 1 Columbia Street
Fort Wayne Ind.,

The Pioneer

HARDWARE

Emporium!

Now full to overflowing with an Immense stock of

HEAVY AND SHELF

Hardware, Cutlery, Tin Ware.

I would call special attention to my depapt ment of

HARDWARE,
FURNISHING &
BUIDERS STOCK,

a which will be found everything at the very

LOWEST PRICES,

Such as:—

OILS, PAINTS,
GLASS,
NAILS,
SASH.
DOORS, ETC

—A FIST-CLASS—

Tin-Shop,

In connection with the Hardware Store, with a skillful foreman. All kinds of Tin-ware manufactured and repaired on short notice.

JOHN L. DAVIS,

TELEGRAPH INSTITUTE.

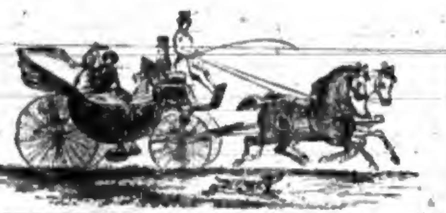
"CHOOSE YOUR VOCATION AND HONOR IT."

The Independent Telegraph Institute, located n Auburn Dekalb Co. Ind., are offering the best opportunity of learning Telegraphy Railroad business and Phonographical writing ever offered to the public. Tuition very low and good boarding furnished Students for $3.50 to $3.75 per week, and situations furnished students as soon as they are capable of taking charge of a Telegraph office. Wages from $40 to $100 dollars per month. For further information address, Independent Telegraph Institute, Lock Box 76, Auburn Indiana.

OFFICERS.
J. E. SHREVE, Superintendent.
Prof. S.S. Shaner Principal Instructor R R. Dep't.
Dr. L. Sanders Instructor Phonographical Wiiter.

AUBURN LIVERY

—AND—



SALE STABLE!

Ryan & Mader, pro's

Having on hand everything in the line of;

Carriages, Buggies, Wagons, etc

y are prepared to furnish rigs at all times a nable prices. Stable east of Court House.

South Main Street

re now in full running order and all orders fo

WAGONS BUGGIES &c.

promptly attended to Special care taken in getting the best Seasoned Timber. Our prices are ery reasonable and we solicit the public to give a call and ascertain our prices.

Pittsburg, Baltimore & Ohio R.R

IS COMING.

Therefore buy your

Dry Goods,

Notions, etc., of

CHARLES KLOTZ

AT HIS

Old Stand

ON MAN STREET,

Opposite Court Square

AUBURN, INDIANA

Where he may be found at all times ready to accommodate customers and sell them such good as they may need,

CLOTHING

Of all descriptions, and

HANDSOME SUITS

Made to Order!

THE AUBURN

Marble Works!

The undersigned beg leave to announce that they have permanently located in Auburn, and are now prepared to attend to all orders for which they are prepared to turn out in a superio manner at reasonable rates. Works west the Bakery.

Monuments, Tomb-Stones, &c.,

J. A. SAWYER & CO.

C. P. Houser & Co.,

—Dealer In—

BOOKS AND STATIONERY

BEST

Window Paper

HOLLAND'S and Oil Shades always on hand and CHEAP for CASH.

PICTURES,

FRAMES,

CORD, and TASSELS, Curtain and Window Fx'trs the Best in the Market.

—The Largest and finest assortment of—

WALL PAPER

EVER BROUGHT TO THIS MARKET.

Their store is located in Ensley's new brick block North of the Court House, AUBURN, INDIANA.

THE OLD RELIABLE.

F. E. DAVENPORT,

Corner Main and Eighth-Sts.,

—DEALER IN—

Pure Drugs and Medicines,

DYE STUFFS, PERFUMERY,

Toilet Soaps Cosmetics, Hair Oils, Brushes, Combs, Toilet Mirrors and Druggists' Sundries in General.

BOOKS AND STATIONERY!

Wall and Window Paper!

Oiled, Linen and Slat Window Shades, and Shade Fixtures.

All the lattest POEMS and MISSELANIOUS BOOKS constantly on hand or ordered. Blank Books, Pocket Memorandas, Portmonies and Bill Books, WRITING PAPERS. All Styles and prices ALBUMS! ALBUMS! ALBUMS just received for the Holliday trade.

Over $300.00 worth of Juvenile and Toy Books, which will be sold at panic prices. Smith's Gold Pens, warranted the best. Also steel Pens, Penholders, Pencils, Ink and Ink Stands &c.

SCHOOL BOOKS

Covered with best Cover ever invented Free Of Charge

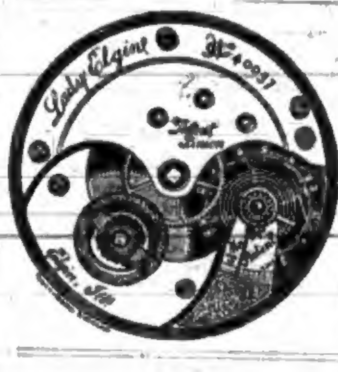
Dav exclusive right to use this book cover in Auburn, and will g the benefit of the same

---

GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICES AT

ABRICHT'S

In American & Swiss Watches,



TOYS

FANCY GOODS,

and everything kept in a first class jewelry establishm'nt It will pay you to call and be convinced that I am selling goods cheaper than any firm in Northern Indiana.

J. Abright.

Repairing fine Watches a Specialty

Ladies Gold Watches,

Jewelry,

Clocks, Silver Ware!

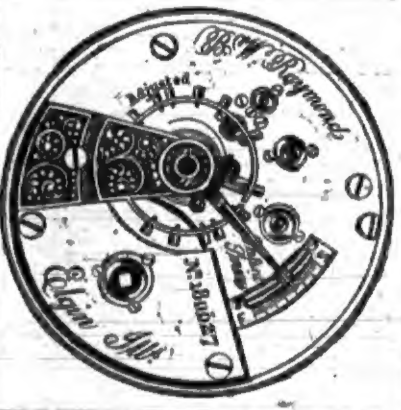
GOLD PENS,

Ladies GOLD Chains,

Gents Chains,

Gold and Silver Rings,

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS,



V. A BEARD

Grocer in Auburn, North of Court House on Seventh Street,

DEALER IN

GROCERIES and PROVISIONS

TEAS, COFFEES, SUGARS, SALT FISH.

Flour and Feed, Tubs Pails, Buckets, Sugars Boxes, Etc. A large variety

TOBACCOS AND CIGARS,

Confectioneries of all kinds, and Fancy Notions, Core Oysters, &c. A speciality in Green and Dried Fruits, and Canned Fruits. Goods delivered inside the coporation.

RAIL ROADS.

Indianapolis Peru & Chicago R. R.

TIME TABLE No. 12—Dec. 20, 1874.

Northward.

Stations.	No. 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Indianapolis	6 30a	12 25p	3 55p	12 20
Noblesville	7 44	12 20	5 10	1 30
Tipton	8 30	1 13	5 57	2 15
Miami	9 37	1 50	6 38	2 55
Kokomo	9 11	2 26	7 04
Peru	10 06	3 15	7 40

Sotuhward.

Stations.	No 2	No. 4	No. 6
Indianapolis	6 00p	4 15a	9 55a
Noblesville	[illegible]	3 15	8 34
Tipton	[illegible]	[illegible]	7 44
Kokomo	3 13	1 [illegible]	7 02
Miami	2 40	1 15	6 35
Peru	2 10	12 35	6 00

R. C. MURPHY, Supt Mich. Div.
E. M. RAWLEY, Master of Tran.
C. B. ROBINSON, General Sup't,
F. P. WADE, Gen. Ticket Agt.

Lake Shore & Mich. Southern R.R

Air Line Division

ON and after Sunday, Nov. 15, 1874 Passenger Trains will leave Waterloo city and other Stations as follows, daily except Sundays:

GOING WEST

	Special Ex.	Pacific Ex.	Accom'd'n
Butler	2:40 p m.	x 2:35 a m.	8:00 p m
Waterloo	2:56 "	2:53 "	8:19 "
Sedan	3,05	3,00	8:30 "
Corunna	3,10	3,06	8:35 "

GOING EAST.

Corunna	2.15 pm	11,30 pm	6:50 p m
Sedan	2.20	11,35	7:02 "
Waterloo	2:28 "	11:44 "	7:11 "
Butler	2:40 "	x12:01a m	7:55 "

CHAS. PAINE, Gen. Supt.
J. W. CARY, Gen Tic. Agt
J. E CURTIS, Division Su

Ft. Wayne, Muncie & Cin R. R.

Time Table to take effect May 23, 1875.

Going South.

Fort Wayne	1 15 pm	2 00a.m	5 35pm
Ossian	2 02		6 42
Bluffton	2 30	3 10	7 17
Keystone	3 02		7 57
Montpelier	3 12	3 44	8 08
Hartford	3 40pm	4 05	8 40
Eaton	4 02		9 08
Muncie	4 37	4 47	9 45
McCowan's	4 53	5 05
New Castle	5 30	5 40
Cam. City	6 05	6 11
Bessons	6 22	6 27
Connersville	6 35	6 40
Indianapolis	6 30	6 50
Louisville	11 10	12 45pm
Cincinnati	10 20	9 40

Going North.

Cincinnati	7 30am	1 20pm
Louisville		2 40	7 00pm
Indianapolis		7 25	4 30am
Connersville	10 32	7 35
Bessons	10 45	7 52
Cam City	11 04	8 12
New Castle	11 40	8 55
McCowans	12 15pm
Muncie	12 32	9 55	6 50am
Eaton	1 02	10 28	7 20
Hartford	1 24	10 50	7 51
Montpelier	1 49	11 17	8 52
Keystone	1 58	—	8 36
Bluffton	2 30	11 58	9 15
Ossian	2 59	11 28am	9 52
Ft. Wayne	3 45	1 15	11 00

W. W. WORTHINGTON, Supt.
ROBT. BILLIE, Gen'l Ticket Agt.

Ft. Wayne, Jackson & Sag. R. R

Short Line Between

Michigan and the South.

Time card in effect Aug. 15,—run by Chicago time

Going North.

Stations	Mail	Accom.		Ind. Exp.
Cincinnati		7 30		4 20p
Louisville	7 30pm
Indianapolis	4 [illegible]am			7 25
Ft Wayne	10 45	4 35		1 3[illegible]a
Auburn	11 40	6 07		2 38
Waterloo	11 56	6 35		2 57
Summit
Pleasant Lake
Ar Angola	12 55mp	7 55	5 15	2 46
Reading	1 7	6 40	6 48	4 49
Bankers	2 12	10 05	7 10	5 04
Jonesville	2 30	10 35	7 38	5 19
Jackson	3 40	12 35	9 25	6 30
Detroit	6 30p m	3 50		10 15
Grand Rapids	9 30	6 10		6 10
Lansing	5 47			8 37
Saginaw	9 03			11 40
Bay City

Going South.

Bay City
Saginaw	7 30 a m			3 3[illegible]p
Lansing	10 40			9 45
Grand Rapids	8 20		12 00	12 00
Detroit	9 50		3 30	5 40
Jackson Dep	12 40p m		6 05	9 35
Jonesville	1 55		8 00	10 35
Bankers	2 12		8 26	10 52
Reading	2 26		8 53	11 03
Ar Angola	3 25	6 15	10 20	11 52
Pleasant Lake
Waterloo	4 05	7 26		12 3[illegible]a
Auburn	4 20	7 55		12 45
Auburn Junction
Fort Wayne, Arrive	5 15	9 25		1 30
Indianapolis		6 30p		6 50
Louisville		11 10		12 45p
Cincinnati		10 30		9 40a

P. B. LOOMIS, Pres't
S. K. HOOPER Gen. Ticket Ag't.

DETOIT, EEL RIVER & ILLINOIS

Rail Road.

Short Line between Auburn and the East and West.

Trains run on Cleveland time, Through trains will run on the following time, in effect Sunday June 20th, 1875.

Going East.				Going West.
No. 7 Thro'	No. 5 Frei't	Mail	STATIONS	Mail	No. 6 W. F	No. 8 Local
3.40p	7.00a	10 50	lv Logans't ar	6.15p	7.25p	12.10p
4.08	7.30	11.08	Adamsboro,	5.55	7.00	11.43
4.30	7.55	12.23	Hoover's	5.41	6.40	11.24
4.50	8.25	11.32	Mexico	5.33	6.25	10.55
6.00	9.30	11.45	Denver.	5.23	6.00	10 25
					5.10	10.50
6.15	9 50	12.15	Chili	5.13	4.55	9.05
6.46	10.40	12.31	Roann	4.57	4.25	9.20
7.14	11.20	12.47	Laketon	4.40	3.50	8.48
7.40	12 10	12.57	N. Manchest'r	4.29	3.25	3..0
8.05	1.10p	1.08	Lib. Mills	4.19	2.40	8.10
8.25	1 40	1.16	Collamer	4.07	2.00	7.47
8.40	2.10	1.22	S. Whitley	4.02	1.30	7.40
9.05	2.35	1.33	Taylor's	3.50	12.30	7.20
9.50	2.57	1 47	Columbia city	3.38	12.05	7.00
10.15	4.10	2.03	Collin's	3.18	11. a	6.15
10.45	4.50	2.14	Churubusco	3.08	10.32	5.50
11.10	5.15	2 24	Potter's	2.57	9.53	5.20
11.30	5.35	2.34	G. R. Crossing	2.49	9 35	5.05
11.45	5 55	2.40	Cedar Creek	2.40	9.20	4.50
12.15	6.30	2.52	Aub. Juncti'n	2.26	8.50	4.20
12.30	7.10	2.58	Auburn	2.20	8.00	4.10
1.00	7.30	3.15	Mooresville	2.02	6.57	3.35
1,25a	7.55	2.25p	ar. Butler lv.	1.50	6,25	6.25

CONNECTIONS—At Logansport with Pittsburgh, Cincinnati & St Louis, Logansport, Crawfordsville & Southwestern and Toledo, Wabash & Western R. R's. At Denver with Indianapolis, Peru & Chicago Railway, for Rochester, Plymouth, LaPorte, Michigan City, Peru, Kokomo and Indianapolis At N Manchester with Cincinnati, Wabash & Mich R'y. At Columbia City with Pittsburg, Ft. W. & Chicago, for Ft Wayne Lima, Crestline and Pittsburg. At Grand Rapids crossing with Grand Rapids R'y. At Auburn Junction with Ft. Wayne Jackson & Saginaw, for Angola, Jackson and Saginaw R'y. for Butler with Lake Shore & Mich. Southern Caw. Toledo, Detroit and all eastern cities.

J. A. HUGHSTON, Gen. Ticket Agt.
A. B. SCUTRAHD, Gen. Supt.

S. U. Tarney

AUBURN MEAT MARKET!

KEEPS ALWAYS ON HAND

Fresh Beef, Pork, Veal, Mutton and Bologna Sausage, clean and sweet. Prices reasonable. Main-st first door north of Miller & Casebeer's store.

Pittsburg, Ft. W. & C. R. R.

Condensed time card, May 23, 1875.

GOING WEST.

	No. 1 Fast ex.	No. 5 Mail.	No. 3 Pac. ex.	No. 7 Night ex
Pittsburgh	2 00 a.m	------	8 00 a.m	2 00 p.m
Rochester	3 09 "	------	9 22 "	3 13 "
Alliance	5 52 "	------	12 30 p.m	5 54 "
Orrville	7 10 "	------	2 25 "	7 33 "
Mansfield	9 07 "	------	4 40 "	9 28 "
Crestl'e ar.	9 40 "	------	5 15 "	9 55 "
lv.	10 00 "	4 50 a.m	5 35 p.m	11 00 "
Forest	11 18 "	6 30 "	7 27 "	11 24 "
Lima	12 20 p.m	8 10 "	8 45 "	12 27 a.m
Ft. Wayne	2 40 "	11 20 "	11 35 "	2 55 "
Plymouth	4 40 "	2 25 p.m	2 35 a.m	5 28 "
Chicago	7 50 "	6 30 "	6 50 "	8 50 "

GOING EAST.

	No. 4 Night ex	No. 2 Fast ex.	No. 6 Pac. ex.	No. 8 Mail.
Chicago	9 20 p.m	9 20 a.m	5 35 p.m	5 15 a.m
Plymouth	12 50 a.m	12 15 p.m	9 05 "	9 20 "
Ft. Wayne	[illegible]	2 45 "	11 45 "	12 20 p.m
Lima	6 15 "	[illegible]	[illegible]	2 40 "
Forest	7 35 "	5 14 "	3 01 "	3 56 "
Crestl'e ar.	9 20 "	6 55 "	4 40 "	5 25 "
lv.	9 40 "	7 15 "	4 50 "	------
Mansfield	10 20 "	7 43 "	5 20 "	------
Orrville	12 45 p.m	9 33 "	7 10 "	------
Alliance	3 05 "	11 10 "	9 00 "	------
Rochester	5 40 "	1 07 a.m	11 12 "	------
Chicago	6 55 "	2 10 "	12 15 p.m	------

No. 1, daily, except Monday, Nos. 2, 4, 5, 7 and 8, daily except Sunday, Nos. 3 and 6 daily.

F. R. MYERS,
General Pass. and Ticket Agent.

BALTIMORE & OHIO R. R

FROM 135 TO 6 MILES

The horiest route from the West to

Washington, Baltimore

AND THE EAST.

ONDENSED TIME TABLE, THRO' TRAINS

VIA PARKERSBURG, Dec. 13, '74	Express	Fast Express,	St: Louis Ex.
Lve. Cincinnati	9 00‡ am	†4 30 p m	‡11 10pm
Arr. Chillicoth	12 55d n'n	s7 46	3 00 am
" Portsmouth	5 35 p m		11 10
" Marietta	5 56	12 06 n't	7 22
" Parkersburg	5 25 s	11 30	m6 50
Arr. Grafton	9 45	3 40 a m	11 10
" Cumberland	2 00 a m	n7 40	d3 20
" Martinsburg	4 35	10 15	6 10
" Harper's F'y	5 19 a m	10 54	6 51
" Staunton		5 15 p m
" Washington	7 15	12 40 n'n	8 50
" Richmond		10 30p m	4 50 am
" Baltimore	‡9 05 a m	1 50 a m	10 20‡pm
" Philadelphia	1 20 p m	6 50 p m	2 35 am
" New York	‡5 10	10 22	‡6 15
" Boston.	5 50 a m		4 50 pm

VIA BELLAIRE—Dec 13, 1874	Express	Fast Express.	Fast Line
Lve. Cincinnati (via Dayton S. L.)	6 30 a m		‡3 50 p m
" Cincinnati (via P. C. & St. L.)	†7 00		†7 40 p m
" Columbus	11 55	4 00‡p m	12 20†
Arr. Newark	1 00 p m	5 28	1 45 a m
" Zanesville	2 10	6 55	2 57
" Bellaire	5 20	10 55	6 50
" Wheeling	6 45 p m	12 30 ngt	8 00
" Grafton	9 35	3 35 a m	11 05
" Cumberlain	2 00 a m	7 40	d3 30 pm
" Martinsburg	4 35	10 15	6 10
" Harper's F'y	5 19 a m	10 54	6 51
" Washington	7 15	12 40 n'n	8 50
" Richmond		10 30 p m	4 58 a m
" Baltimore	9 05	1 50†	10 20†pm
" Philadelphia	1 20 p m	6 50	2 35 a m
" New York	5 10	10.22†	†6 15
" Boston	4 50 a m		4 50 p m

B—Breakfast. D—Dinned. S—Supper. †Daily ‡Daily ex. Sunday. ‡Daily ex. Monday.

PULMAN PALACE SLEEPING CARS

from Louisville, St. Louis, Cincinnati and Columbus, to

WASHINGTON AND BALTIMORE!

—AND—

PHILADELPHIA

WITHOUT CHANGE.

Through Tickets, and further information can be obtained at all principal Ticket Offices throughout the West and South West.

THOS. P. BARRY, West. pass agt., Cin.
L. M. COLE, Gen'l ticket agt., Bal. Md.
THOS. R. SHARP, Mas. of Tran. "

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

IN EFFECT JUNE, 1875.

GOING WEST.

STATIONS:	Exp.	Fst. Line	Fast E
Chicago Junction	7 30am	7 50pm	5 15pm
Tiffin	8 59	8 53	6 39
Fostoria	9 30	9 25	7 15
Deshler	10 33	10 32	8 33
Defiance	11 32	11 33	9 50
Auburn	1 00pm	1 03am	11 50
Auburn Junction	1 03	1 07	11 55
Garrett	1 10	1 15	12 05am
Avilla	1 39	1 34	x
Milford Junction	2 47	2 44	......
Walkertown Junction	4 08	4 08	......
Chicago	7 30	7 30	......

GOING EAST.

Chicago	8 25pm	....	8 40am
Walkertown Junction	12 13am	....	12 17pm
Milford Junction	1 41	....	1 46
Avilla	3 01	....	3 04
Garrett	3 15	6 25am	3 20
Auburn Junction	3 33	6 34	3 48
Auburn	3 36	6 40	3 52
Defiance	5 10	8 43	5 30
Deshler	6 12	10 00	6 34
Fostoria	7 6	11 16	7 40
Tiffin	7 46	11 51	8 11
Chicago Junction	8 45	1 00pm	9 10

L. M. COLE, Gen. Tic. Agt.

J. G. FLEDDERMAN,

No. 27, East Main-St.

FORT WAYNE, IND'A

Has the larfiest and finest stock of

CLOTHS, COATINGS, CHEVIOTS,

—AND—

CassimereS

in Ft. Wayne. The finest line of

Made up Clothing!

ever shown in Fort Wayne

Youths' and Children's Clothing!

Furnishing Goods, &c.

Mrchant Tailoring.

All work done in all the latest styles, promtly attended to. Go and see his largest stock of G

BRICK FOR SALE

FRITZ GROESCOP.

Having just burned a fine kiln of brick, about one hundred thousand, is now ready to supply all who want good brick at reasonable figures. Residence two miles north of Auburn on the Kutzner road; three miles south west of Waterloo.

NOTICE TO HEIRS OF PETITION TO SELL REAL ESTATE.

State of Indiana, DeKalb County, sct.

Notice is hereby given that Benjamin F. Cornelius, administrator of the estate of Asahel Bryant, deceased, has filed his petition to sell the real estate of the decedent, his personal being insufficient to pay his debts; and that said petition will be heard at the next term of the circuit court of said county.

J. R. LANNING, Clerk.

July 22.

Wheat buyers are plenty on the streets at present.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Devoted to the Interests of the Democratic Party and to the Collection of Local and General News.

Volume 5. AUBURN, DeKALB COUNTY INDIANA, SEPT. 2, 1875. Number 34.

The Auburn Weekly Courier

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY, BY

TOM. C. MAYS.

One Year,........$[illegible] | Six Months,......$1.

Advertising Rates.

Space.	1m.	3m.	6m.	1 y.
One Square......	2 00	5 00	7 00	12 00
¼ Column........	6 00	12 00	18 00	30 00
½ Column........	10 00	18 00	30 00	50 00
One Column......	15 00	30 00	50 00	100 00

Legal Notices 10 cents per line first insertion, 5 cents each insertion thereafter. Business cards Five Dollars.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

ROSE & HARTMAN,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW. Have complete abstracts of the records in DeKalb County. Office in Case's Block, Auburn, Indiana.

H. C. PETERSON,

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public. Office over Davis' hardware store, Auburn, Ind.

WOODHULL and CROXTON,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW Angola, Indiana. Practice in Steuben and DeKalb Counties.

RICKEL & TEFFT.

ATTORNEYS AT LAW, Auburn, Ind. Office in the Court House.
J. W. RICKEL. R. DEXTER TEFFT.

A. F. PINCHIN

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public Butler, DeKalb Co., Ind. Insurance and real estate business promptly attended to.

McBRIDE and MORLAN

ATTORNEYS AT LAW, Waterloo, Indiana. Will practice in any of the courts of the State. Office over A. T. Clark's Dry Goods store.

GUY PLUM,

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public. Office in the Court House. Special attention paid to the collection of claims. Agent for the Home Insurance Company.

CHAS. A. O. McCLELLAN,

ATTORNEY AT LAW, Waterloo, Indiana. Will practice in the Courts of DeKalb and Steuben counties. Liberal Advances Made on all Pensions. Claims left in my hands for collection.

[illegible]	COURT IN DEKALB CO.
1st Monday in February	2nd Monday in Feb.
4th Monday in April	2nd Monday in May
1st Monday in September	2nd Monday in Sept.
4th Monday in November	2nd Monday in Dec

PHYSICIANS.

DR. J. A. COWAN,

PHYSICIAN & SURGEON, Auburn, Ind. Office on Main street, over Central Grocery.

W. S. ALLEN.

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON, Office over Mrs. Quaintance's store, Cool's Block, South of Court House.

J. J. LITTLEFIELD,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON. Office over Mills and Goodwin's store, Auburn, Indiana.

DR. J. M. SHUTT.

ELECTIC PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON, will attend to all calls belonging to the medical profession, promptly. Possessing all the benefits that can be derived from forty-two years experience of one of the most active and successful Physicians in the western part of Ohio and several years of personal experience, enables me to treat all famous of diseases with the best of success, "without the use of calomel. My medicines are purely vegetable, and therefore, I am able to treat all kinds of diseases without producing any bad effect, upon the nervous system," and will break the worst case of ague, without the use of quinine. No matter what your disease is, give me a call, for I am prepared to handle all, at my office on fifth street, between Main and Cedar Auburn Indiana.

HOTELS.

SWINEFORD HOUSE.

CORNER MAIN AND NINTH STREETS, opposite the Court House. S. C. SWINEFORD Pro.

AVELINE HOUSE,

MILLER & MORITZ, Prop's., corner Calhoun & Berry Sts., Fort Wayne, Ind.

AMERICAN HOUSE

AT FORT WAYNE, only $2 a day. Good accommodations for traveling men.
C. B. OAKLEY, Prop'r.

WOOD'S HOTELL.

NOS. 31 & 38 EAST WASHINGTON STREET, opp Field, Leiter, & Co's retail dry goods store; and adjoining D. B. Fisk's wholesale millinery store, between State street & Wabash Avenue, Chicago. O SANDS, Prop'r.
$2.00 per day. GEO. S. PALMER, Clerk.

MISCELLANEOUS.

H. Wartenslaben

PAINTER and paper hanger. House painting a specialty. Residence corner Williams and Cedar street.

Medical Society.

OF DeKALB COUNTY, meets at Auburn, Ind., the 2nd Tuesday in each month.
J. H. FORD, Pres't.
J. A. COWAN, Sec'y.

Joseph H. Stophlet.

ARCHITECT. Office over No. 17 Court street 1st door north of Empire Line office, Ft. Wayne, Ind. Drawings and specifications furnished for all classes of buildings, at reasonable rates.

PRINTING.

COURIER OFFICE,

JOB PRINTING neatly executed. Fine work a specialty. Office in Odd Fellows' Building 2nd floor.

John M. Miller,

Manufacturer and Dealer in

FINE FURNITURE,

CHAIRS

Husk & Hair Matrasses

50 and 52 East Main Street,

FORT WAYNE, IND.

$500,000 to loan on improved farms in Northern Indiana, in sums of one thousand dollars and upwards, on five years time. Security must be first mortgage.
WILLIAM FLEMING,
tf Fort Wayne Ind.

Thomas Baldock

Building Contractor

AUBURN INDIANA.

will be ready at all times with an experienced corps of workmen to erect Houses, Barns, and do carpenter and joiner work of all kinds at reasonable rates.

Hoosier Drain Tile!

ONE OF THE BEST INVENTIONS IN THE WORLD.

LANHAM & HOSE have now on hand some of the above Tile, which they are selling at a very low figure. We offer
Four Inch Sizes at 50 cts. per Rod,
Six " " " 75 " " "
Every person who intend to put in tile should examine this article. A sample can be seen at this office. LANHAM & HOSE, v3n11 Auburn, Indiana.

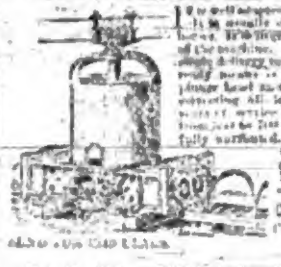
J. J. VanAuken,

COUNTY SURVEYOR.

Will attend promptly to all surveying. Office with Rose & Hartman, Auburn, Indiana. Persons requesting work by letter, should give township and section.

THE PHŒNIX TILE MACHINE.



It is well adapted to the wants of Tile Makers. It is usually driven by the power of two horses, [illegible] at the two opposite ends of the machine. It may be converted into a [illegible] [illegible] It has a single and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] thus [illegible] all leakage of mud, and adding [illegible] to the machine. It makes from [illegible] to [illegible] rods of tile per day. It is fully warranted. It may readily be adapted to steam power. The dies are finished with much care. [illegible] Tracks at moderate prices.
CHANDLER & TAYLOR
Patentees and Manufacturers,
Indianapolis, Ind.

JAS. CLIFFORD,

WATERLOO, IND.

Keeps constantly on hand the best and choicest brands of all kinds of

Wines and Liquors,

Cigars, Tobaccos &c.

He also has in connection with the above a first-class

BILLIARD HALL.

To our citizens and the traveling public, we would say that this is the popular resort at Waterloo. First door south of the railroad.

BAKER BROS.

PROPRIETORS OF Auburn Bakery!

AND

EATING HOUSE

Fresh baked Pies, Cakes, etc., always on hand. Good lunches served at all hours.
BAKER BROS

AUBURN

Meat Market.

Main St. Next door to Klotz's.

MICH HOUSTON

PROPRIETOR.

Having fitted up my establishment in first class style, with increased facilities, I am now prepared to furnish Fresh Meats in the best of order at reasonable rates. Give me call.

A NEW PLACE

TO GET A

Nobby Suit!

TOM WILLIAMS,

The champion cutter of Fort Wayne formerly with M. E. Woodward, is now going it alone, and can be found at No. 21 Calhoun street with Mr. A. Foster, where he will be pleased to see all his old friends and a list of new ones. If you want a nice nobby suit made to fit you, you will find him the an.

Vacation of Street, Alleys and Town Lots

Notice is hereby given that a petition has been filed in the Auditor's Office, of DeKalb county, Ind., praying the vacation of certain streets, alleys and town lots in "Somers' Addition to the town of Auburn, in said county, as follows: All of Baker Street and Ford Street, lying and extending south of the south line of Ninth Street. Also all of Eleventh Street extending west from the south-east corner of lot No. 74, and the north east corner of lot No. 96. Also all of Union-St., west of the south-east corner of lot No. 109, and a point directly opposite said last named corner Also that part of an alley between said 9th and 11th Streets, west of the east lines of lots No. 60 and 73. Also that part of an alley between said 11th and Union sts., west of the east lines of lots No. 96 and 109, and also vacate the following numbered lots viz: 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 96, 97, 98, 99, 100, 101, 102, 103, 104, 105, 106, 107, 108 and 109; and said petition will be heard at the next session of the Board of Commissioners of said county.
JOHN. C. SOMERS, Applicant.
W. H. DILLS, Attorney.
Aug. 19—3t.

Give us a call when you want a good job.

FORT WAYNE

MORNING GAZETTE!

A LIVE, WIDE-AWAKE DAILY PAPER!

Issued in Time to Meet all the Early Morning Trains Leaving Ft. Wayne

Containing Each Day the Latest and Fullest Telegraphic, Monetary and Commercial News.

On July 1st the Fort Wayne Daily and Weekly Gazette Printing House passed into the hands of WILLIAMS & HOSSLER, late of the "Northern Indianian," of Warsaw, who design to make it just such a paper as the people of the region in which it is published need. Arrangements are already made to have it delivered to subscribers in all the neighboring towns on all the roads leading out of Fort Wayne, and as the paper can be received in this way from 4 to 6 hours in advance of any other, the advantages of subscribing for the "Morning Gazette" can be seen at a glance.

THE LATEST STOCK, MONEY AND COMMERCIAL NEWS

Will receive the closest attention of the managers and in every instance can be relied upon as correct in every particular. The Gazette is already receiving the highest encomiums of the press and the people. Terms of the Morning Gazette:

One year (in advance)	....	$9.00
Six Months	"	4.50
One Month	"	.75
Per Week	"	.20

The Auburn

WAGONS

Made from the Best Materials,

And constructed with all the late improvements—

The new and extensive

WAGON SHOPS

—OF—

J. W. SHAFFER

Work of every description done promptly, and warranted. Blacksmithing attended to in good style.

☞ MANY New and Choice Goods on sale at Bond's Novelty Store, 21 West Main-st., Fort Wayne, Indiana. New goods arriving daily. Special bargains in

Table Linen,

Corsets, Gloves, Hosiery; Muslins, Flannels, White Goods, Ladies Ties, Handkerchiefs, Portmonies and many goods not kept elsewhere. Large four-story stone front building, 21 West Main-st., Fort Wayne, Ind.

CARPETS.

FOR 1875.

Are offered at prices lower than have prevailed for many years. Our stock fo all grades is large, well selected and we invite inspection. We have added to our stock and the line is unusually fair.

Wall Paper

Terrys,
Reps,
Gimps,
Fringes and a general line of Upholstery Goods with Shades,
Lace Curtains,
Oil Cloths,
and Mattings
in great variety. The manufacture of Lambrequins a specialty.

ELLSWORTH, ANDREW & CO,

26 East Berry street

The Mysterious Man.

From the Chicago Inter-Ocean

Ashtabuly Johnson is a mysterious man, and he lives on Aberdeen street. Ashtabula is one of those eccentric individuals who buttonholes you on the streets, leads you to the edge of the side walk, and then, looking about him, says very cautiously:

"How's Spriggins?"

"Spriggens, Spriggens!" you reply "what Spriggens?"

"Lonzo!"

"Oh! I dunno anything about him."

Drawing you nearer still the edge of the walk the mysterious man says:

"I heard that Spriggens was going into the oats heavy. Now he's got reasons, see," and he holds up his forefinger and looks as wise an owl. You get away from the mysterious man, and presently you see him collar Jones in the midst of large company and march him off to whisper about an equal important matter. As near as can be calculated Johnson has no other business but this. Well, the other day Ashtabula dropped in to see Philo Martinberger who tips back his chair in front of a livery-stable on State street. He found Philo in conversation with some parties from the country regarding the sale of a car-load of horses. Taking the dealer by the arm Ashtabula led him through the stable out of the back door and around the corner to a blacksmith shop. Then he sat down on a box took out his knife, pried off a sliver from the box and says he.

"Phil, I understand you've got a cow to sell. Sit down."

Philo looked at him a moment and then said, very quietly: "Oh you heard I had a cow to sell?"

"Yes, sit down and talk it over," he replied.

Philo looked at him a moment; then said: "Come here, Johnson."

Johnson came, and his companion took him by the coat-sleeve and started into the street. He went down to where the six-story unfinished building stands between Dearborn and State, and crawling through the boards that are nailed over the doors, led Ashtabula up five flights of uncompleted stairs at the eminent risk of breaking his neck. Puffing and blowing they reached the top, and Philo led the way over the piles of rough lumber to the extreme east end of the building. Then after stopping to take breath he put his mouth close to Ashtabula's ear and softly whispered: 'I've sold her!"

It has been nearly a week since that occurrence, and Mr. Johnson is still full of wrath; but a large circle of his acquaintances declare that Philo Martinberger deserves a medal and shall have one.

"Sponging" on Newspapers

We copy the following from the Philadelphia "Printers' Circular" and commend it to the careful perusal of all "spongers:" "Every man thinks a newspaper fair game. If a society or any body of men get up a concert or ball, or other form of entertainment, the object of which is to put money in their pockets, or if the proceeds are to be devoted to charitable purposes to add to their own glorification, they become very indignant of the proprietors of a newspaper do not assist them by a series of gratuitous advertisements a few weeks before the event takes place. These gentlemen should remember that literary men, in this practical age, work for money as well as for fame—principally the former, however, and the business manager of a newspaper, if he wishes to keep on the safe side of the ledger, conducts the charge on the same principle as the head of any business establishment. People who are getting up a ball would feel chary of asking a present of a pair of gloves from any merchant on that account, yet asking and expecting to receive a gratuitous advertisement is a similar demand. The editor of the Marlboro (Mass.) "Journal" states the case very plainly when he informs his readers that, 'we long ago adopted the plan of charging our regular reading notice price for all editorial announcements of entertainments to which an admission fee is affixed. We make no exception to this rule. In the way of news topice, we freely and gladly insert sketches of all entertainments after they have become matters of history. It is only the preliminary work, looking to the drawing out of increased patronage from the public, for which we expect compensation."

* * *

Mr. Samuel Grosh having purchase the interest of his partner, Mr. Tarney in the Lower Flouring Mill, will here after conduct it alone. He is manufacturing a splendid brand of flour and keeps mill feed constantly on hand. Mr Grosh is an experienced miller, will assist in turning out flour that cannot fail to suit everybody. tf

A Mistake.

Mrs. Straw—I heard a good story concerning our friend Mrs.——, who, you know, is on the briny deep.

Mrs. Switchem—Do tell us; she was so free with her laughs on others we enjoy anything on her.

Mrs. Snow—The story runs that a dealer in articles of "vertu" here had in his establishment an exquisite statuette in Parisian marble of the Venus of Milo Our friend heard of it, and gave it an inspection one day. After gazing at it for some time, she said;

"Did you select that, Mrs. Delf?"

"Yes'm," he responded.

"Why, you must be a good judge of a figure. But did you ever see mine?"

Mr. Delf responded, blushing, that he had not.

"Mine," she continued, "is allowed to be the finest figure in all Washington."

"Shouldn't doubt it mum" responded Mr. Delf, shifting uneasily from one foot to the other,

"I should like to show you my figure. Come up to my house some time. Better come in the morning, when it won't be likely for any one to interrupt us."

Poor Delf! he fairly sunk under a table, and stammered out something about being a member of a church, when our friend continued:

"It cost me $120 in gold; is pure Parisian marble; and would like to have your opinion, if you are such an admirable judge."

Light dawned on Delf. She had been speaking of a statuette, and not a corpulent, middle aged lady.

Among the old Poets.

The attention of the public is called to the following list of English Classics. These books are handsomely bound and printed on good paper from clear and beautiful type. Any or all of them will be sent free of charge to any address on receipt of price. Address, A. D. JONES, Shawneetown, Ill.

SHAKSPEARE, $1.25.

Containing all the great Poet's Plays, 37 in number, from the original text; the whole of his Poems, with Memoir and Portrait, and 37 illustrations.

BYRON, [illegible]

A new edition of the works of Lord Byron, 636 pages, 21 illustrations. The cheapest and best edition yet published.

SCOTT, 50c.

A new edition of the poetical works of Sir Walter Scott. Illustrated. The cheapest and best edition for the price.

GOLDSMITH, 75c.

The work of Oliver Goldsmith, with Memoir and Portrait. New and complete illustrated edition. The best published for the price.

LONGFELLOW, 50c.

A new edition of the works of the justly celebrated poet A. W. Longfellow with Memoir Portrait and Frontispiece.

BURNS, 50c.

This new and complete edition of the poitical works of Robert Burns is elaborately Illustrated and contains the whole of the poems, Life and correspondence of the great Scottish Bard.

ARABIAN NIGHTS, 50c.

A new translation, complete, with numerous illustrations.

MILTON, 50c.

Complete poetical works of Milton, with Memoir, Portrait and Frontispiece.

COWPER, 50c.

New and complete edition of the poetical work of William Cowper, wish Memoir, Portrait and Frontispiece.

WORDSWORTH, 50c.

Complete works of Wordsworth, with Memoir, Portrait and numerous illustrations.

MOORE, 50c.

The complete works of Thomas Moore with numerous illustrations,

A. D. JONES,
Showneetown, Ill.

How a Georgia Girl Resented an Insult

We have heard of a case of civil rights that occured a few days ago in Coffee county. A young lady had been from home visiting a neighbor and on her return she was met in the road by a rough ignorant negro, who told her that the civil rights bill had passed, and that it allowed him the privilege of walking home with her. She knew it would neither do to refuse or resist, so she said nothing, and he actually accompied her home. When they arrived she asked him to take a chair on the piazza. He seated himself, and she went in the house. When she returned she had her father's double-barreled gun, which she discharged at the villian, blowing his brains out on the spot. We have given the particulars as they were related to us. The news was brought to Tefair court last week, and was discussed there The names have been withheld.

A Little Child's Prayer.

She was hardly able to talk plainly, and a policeman had to give her his hand to assists her up the steps into the Central Station.

"Did you put my mother in jail?" she asked as she pushed her pink sunbonnet back and looked from one to another.

They had arrested a red-faced, tangled-hair woman, who fought the officers and made use of foul language. No one dreamed that the child was hers, but it was. The little thing was so innocent and pure that they didn't want her to even see the iron bars, but the mother heard her voice, called to her and they opened the corridor door. The child grasped the iron door, looked into the cell, and cried out:

"Why mother, you are in jail!"

The mother crowded back, ashamed of herself, and the child knelt down on the stone floor, clung to the iron bars of the door, and prayed:

"Now I lay me down to sleep, and I hope my mother will be let out of jail!"

The men had tears in their eyes as they gently removed her, and when the woman came into court yesterday morning to be tried his Honor whispered to her to go home and try, for that child's sake, to be a mother instead of a wretch

Incidents of a Summer Vacation at Newport.

Some Harvard College boys have been spending their vacation in the neighborhood of Newport, Vt., and one of them is writing out his experience for the Boston "Transcript. We quote a few paragraphs:

A beautiful young lady was walking arm in arm with a young man an evening or to ago into whose eyes she would sweetly smile,

"It's a lovely evening said the fair one.

"Yes,"

They were silent and walking on.

"It was a lovely evening yesterday," said the beautiful girl as they came around again.

"Yes," meekly answered the young man evidently at a loss what to say.

They came around the third time, and it was his turn now.

"I hope it will be a lovely evening tomorrow."

The evedropper arose, looked off on the water, from which the tints of the setting sun had not yet gone; and wondered whether all beautiful women were like this one.

A Little Girls Prayer.

Mrs. Fawcett, in her new novel, tells of a precocious infant who developed a marvelous originality in extemporaneous prayer. When she said her prayers at her mother's knee, having been told that she was not to learn any form of prayer but to ask from her heart for whatever she most desired, she prayed for "a red cloak wiv velvet buttons," axctly like Amy Grey's. Vere is anover at ve shop. Then when instructed not to ask for material, but for spiritual blessing, her interpretation of a spiritual blessing was that there might always be short sermons in church. When she had scarletina, and her mother had begged her to pray for her recovery, she having been told that when she was beginning to get better her skin would peel off, and then when it was all off she would be quite well, joined her little hands in bed and said: "O God, peel me quick."

Met His Fate.

A New Orleans Judge, riding in the cars recently, from a single glance, at the countenance of a lady by his side, imagined that he knew her; and ventured to remark that the day was pleasant. She only answered:

"Yes."

"Why do you wear a veil?"

"Lest I should attract attention."

"It is a province of gentlemen to admire," replied the gallant man of law.

"Not when they are married."

"But I am not."

"Indeed!"

The lady quietly removed her veil, disclosing to the astonished magistrate the face of his mother-in-law.

He has been a raving maniac ever since.

* * *

Judge Fullerton passed through Troy on Monday morning on his return home from a fishing trip in the Adirondack woods. A friend who met him on the train says that the Judge humorously related how finally found an old Indian guide in his wanderings in the wilderness who surprised him by the following answer to his question: "My friend did you ever hear of the Beecher trial?"—"No, me never heard 'o it but me heard of Jim Fisk."

Try the COURIER.

AUBURN COURIER

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 2, 1875.

THE NEWS CONDENSED.

THE EAST.

Henry Ward Beecher's paper, the Christian Union, has passed from the hands of J. B. Ford & Co., publishers. Henry M. Cleveland has become the manager. Mr. Beecher will retain the editorship.

The Alison Mills, at Conshohocken, Pa., have been destroyed by fire. Loss, $250,000.... The American rifle team arrived in New York last week, and were received with distinguished honors.... A New York dispatch states that the entire family of Thurlow Weed have been prostrated by the use of a tea-kettle which had been cleaned with oxalic acid. The family had a narrow escape, including Mr. Weed himself.

Abraham Symonds, of Pine Hill, N. Y., recently killed his daughter, and then committed suicide.

The Massachusetts cotton mills are resuming work.... A second swimming match between Coyle, of Philadelphia, and Johnson, of England, came off in the Delaware river last week, and was won easily by the Englishman. Coyle, after swimming six miles, had to be taken out of the water, being badly chilled.

Loader, the upholsterer indicted for libeling Beecher, has just been admitted to bail in New York.... Certain Eastern newspapers have attacked the proposed fast mail train between the East and the West, and have asserted that this train has been projected and will be conducted mainly for the benefit of the New York daily newspapers.

It is stated that Ben Butler will act as counsel for Tilton in the second trial of his suit against Beecher.... Stirling, Ahrens & Co., of Baltimore, heavy dealers in sugar and molasses, have succumbed to the general pressure of business. Their total liabilities are $2,500,000.

THE WEST.

It is ascertained that at least seven of the Ku-Klux band who were attacked by the Sheriff of Franklin county, Ill., and his posse, were either killed or wounded, and the wounded ones are in custody. The Governor has applied to the United States Attorney for Southern Illinois to prosecute the lawless rascals who are committing depredations in "Egypt," under the law of the United States, and he has vigorously entered upon the duty of helping to bring them to justice.

The Chicago Tribune states that Mrs. Abraham Lincoln is in a fair way of recovering from the unfortunate mental malady which compelled her friends, for her own good, to confide her to the restorative care of a private asylum.... A severe and in many places killing frost visited Wisconsin and Northern Illinois, on the 22d of August, killing the vines pretty generally, and in some sections the corn. It appears to have been heaviest in the Trempeleau Valley, in Northwestern Wisconsin, and probably extended some distance into Minnesota.

There is a movement on foot among the Democrats of Chicago to buy out the Times and make it a Democratic organ.... The Kansas Central and Black Hills Narrow-Gauge Railroad Company has been organized at Omaha. The road is to be built at once through the agricultural country south of the Platte river, and will be pushed forward to the Black Hills as soon as the development of that region warrants.... Another frost visited the Northwest on the morning of the 23d of August, but fortunately it was not sufficiently severe to blight the corn, except in exposed localities.... An extensive quarry of a very fine quality of red granite has been discovered near St. Cloud, Minn. It is said to be equal to the Aberdeen granite.... Rev. Cyrus Nutt, President of Indiana State University at Bloomington, died in that place August 23.... Dr. A. J. Thomas, editor of the Vincennes (Ind.) Sun, has sued the Cincinnati Enquirer for libel, laying damages at $100,000.

The total earnings of all the lines operated by the Northwestern Railroad Company, embracing about 2,000 miles, for the past year were $13,828,576, and its net earnings, after deducting expenditures of all kinds, were $518,266.... Extensive frauds on the part of distillers and revenue officers have been discovered at San Francisco.

An excursion train, carrying 1,000 people, was wrecked a few days ago near Rockford, Ill., by running over a cow. By an extraordinary miracle no immediate fatal results occurred, although three cars rolled down an embankment and a large number of passengers were severely bruised.

An express train on the St. Paul and Sioux City railroad went through a bridge near the latter place on the night of Aug. 24, instantly killing the conductor, engineer and fireman. None of the passengers were seriously injured.

The city of San Francisco has been thrown into a fever of excitement by the failure of the Bank of California, the leading financial institution of the Pacific coast. The bank had a paid-up capital of $5,000,000, and has always been regarded as one of the staunchest and best managed in the country. The suspension was caused, as in the cases of Jay Cooke & Co., Duncan, Sherman & Co., and B. F. Allen, by a disregard of the laws of banking. It had made unlucky ventures in the mining districts of California and Nevada, and the President of the Bank, W. C. Ralston, is known to have been a heavy and reckless operator in mining stocks. Under the circumstances the collapse of the concern need not excite surprise.... Capt. John Gordon, of Black Hills fame, has been released from confinement on a writ of habeus corpus. He has commenced an action against the military authorities for false imprisonment.

WASHINGTON.

A court-martial is to be called to investigate the alleged steal in the marine corps.... The President and Secretary of the Treasury have decided to appoint a new commission to examine the Chicago Custom House building. It will consist of seven architects, appointed upon their merit, from various parts of the country.

The Treasury Department (says a Washington dispatch to a Chicago paper) has conclusive evidence to prove that assassination is to be resorted to to protect the whisky ring from prosecution. An attempt was made recently to murder an important witness in Chicago. His name is J. E. Miller, an ex-gauger, and his testimony in the coming revenue suits is considered to be very damaging to certain parties. In the attempt to put him out of the way, a bullet intended for his heart lodged in his left arm. He has been removed to a place of safety.

About 100,000 money-order blanks, worth $20 per 1,000, have been stolen from the Post-office building.

The notorious Chorpenning claim, having been squelched by Attorney-General Pierrepont, is to be brought before the Court of Claims in the nature of an application for relief on account of mail contracts.... The following are the expenditures for carrying the mails for the fiscal year: Railroads, $9,193,951; steamboats, $59,686; star service, $5,158,851; mail messengers, $633,493; total, $15,583,118. Star service is service in which the mode of carrying the mails is left to the discretion of the contractor.

THE SOUTH.

A dispatch from Augusta, Ga., dated Aug. 20, says: "All is quiet, but arrests still continue. It is believed there will be no further trouble. The negroes have dispersed and returned to their homes. A dispatch from Sandersville, Washington county, reports the arrest of Candis Harris, one of the leaders in the plot. He has made a confession, implicating Prince Rivers, a Major-General of the South Carolina militia. Rivers emphatically denies the charge. The State press seems dumbfounded at the disturbance, and differs widely in opinion as to whether an insurrection was intended, but agree that the whole affair is a mystery."

The new census of Louisiana, just taken, shows the population of the State to be 854,390, of whom 404,361 are white and 450,029 colored. This is an increase of 128,115 over the census of 1870. The city of New Orleans has a population of of 303,368, of whom 145,721 are white, and 157,647 colored.... The investigation into the cause of the death of the three patients by poisoning, in the St. Louis Insane Asylum, has resulted in exonerating the attendant physician from all blame in the matter.

An Associated Press telegram from Augusta, Ga., says: "Several prominent negroes connected with the troubles in the counties below here have made confessions. Jake Moorman, first lieutenant of the negro company, testifies on oath that nineteen counties were to be embraced in the insurrection. Last Friday was the day appointed for the uprising. All white men and ugly white women were to be killed. Pretty white women were to be spared, and the land and spoils to be divided among the negroes."

A telegram from Texarkana, Ark., sends a flattering report of the crop prospects down down there: "There is an abundant corn crop. Five million bushels of wheat from Texas and Arkansas will be shipped North this season. Cotton never was better. The prospects for the fall trade are inviting. There is no fever, and all are hopeful."

A dispatch from Macon, Miss., reports a riot at New Hope church, in which eight negroes were killed and several wounded. The cause of the riot was a quarrel and fight between a white man and a negro, about drum beating.

POLITICAL.

The new secret party in Maryland is said to be growing quite rapidly. Its meetings are held in close-locked rooms, with guards at the doors to see that nobody goes in without giving the countersign and passing a satisfactory inspection.... The new "National Union party," with a slate containing Gen. N. P. Banks for President and L. Q. C. Lamar, of Mississippi, for Vice-President, was organized at Boston last week, by appointing a State Central Committee, and adopting a platform and resolutions. No prominent men of either party are identified with the movement. Gen. Banks declined his nomination by letter.

Ex-Senator Matt. H. Carpenter, of Wisconsin, in a letter to ex-Senator Chandler, of Michigan, denying any authority to use his name in connection with the recent greenback convention at Detroit, pays his respects to the morning press in the following sarcastic and amusing vein:

> "I have long ceased to pretend to any knowledge in regard to my business or engagements except what I read in the morning paper, which I consult daily to ascertain where I have been, where I am going, what lawsuits I am retained in, what I am in favor of, how I stand on the third term, and my future course not only in regard to pending questions, but in regard to those subjects which may or may not rise in the future.
>
> "I have learned one thing, and I tell it to you for your future guidance—never contradict anything a newspaper says.
>
> "Some months ago the Milwaukee News published an infernal falsehood about me being out of the Senate. I thought I had a right to contradict it, so I wrote a civil note to the paper for that purpose. It published only one word of my letter, and that because, as it said, I had spelled erroneously, and editorially said if I would live in peace I had better mind my own business. I took the hint, for if there is anything dear to my soul it is to live in peace. So I never contradict a newspaper.

The greenback convention at Detroit was attended by about 1,000 delegates. Thomas J. Durant, of Washington, presided.

GENERAL.

Rear Admiral Napoleon Collins, commanding the South Pacific fleet, died recently at Callao, South America.... Immigration into the United States shows a decrease of 86,000 for the year ending June 30, 1875, as compared with the year ending June 30, 1874.

A ridiculously absurd report was telegraphed over the country a day or two ago, to the effect that Donaldson, the balloonist, had been found in the forests of Canada in a dying condition, and that just before he breathed his last he made a confession that, in order to save his own life, he had thrown his companion, Grimwood, overboard into the lake. Of course it was a wicked and outrageous hoax.

The steamship Ohio, which sailed from Liverpool last week, took out 2,400 crates of Delaware peaches. The steerage of the ship was turned into a refrigerator, and provided with fans for keeping up a constant current of cold air. This is the first experiment ever made of shipping American fruit to Europe.

FOREIGN.

Later intelligence from the scene of the insurrection in Herzegovina is satisfactory. The government of that province announces that there is less excitement among the people, and anticipates a prompt pacification.... Under the military law of Turkey, which is to be carried out by the year 1878, the army will number a force of 780,000 men in all.... A banquet was recently given in Southampton, England, to the officers of the American naval squadron. It was largely attended by distinguished officers of her Majesty's service, and was a brilliant affair.

The late Emperor Ferdinand of Austria bequeathed $6,000,000 to Pope Pius.... The French Ministers deny that the circulation of Gladstone's pamphlets on Popery has ever been interdicted in France.... Turkey is making vigorous efforts for the suppression of the insurrection in Herzegovina.... The editors of Germany have been holding a convention at Bremen. They passed resolutions asking imperial legislation in behalf of the liberty of the press to publish truthful reports of public proceedings, the law courts, and of granting immunity from disclosure of the names of contributors.

The Mark Lane Express (London), of Aug. 24, in its weekly review of the grain markets, says the wheat crop in Great Britain has been gathered in much better order than was expected. Prices have fallen one to three shillings. In Paris the price has declined two shillings per sack. Prices are but little changed on the continent generally. In Germany the markets are firm.... The Herzegovinian insurgents massacred 35 Turkish prisoners captured at [illegible].... Official reports show that the wheat crop in Austria and Hungary has fallen off in quantity and quality, and will not yield more than 5,500,000 quintals.

Turkey is concentrating her forces in the direction of Nissa, in consequence of the part taken by the Servians in the insurrection in Herzegovina. The military occupation of Servia is regarded as not improbable.... The two American vessels sent to Tripoli to avenge the insult offered to our Consul, arrived there on the 22d of August. A number of officers who landed from the Congress were hooted by the rabble. Satisfaction was given for the insults to the officers who landed, but not for the previous insult to the American Consul.... The Porte has written to Austria and Germany, thanking them for their offices in Herzegovinian affairs.... The foot and mouth distemper is raging fearfully in some parts of England. In Dorshetshire alone 12,000 are down with it.... The betrothal of King Alfonso, of Spain, to the oldest daughter of the Duke of Montpensier is announced.

Business is much depressed both in England and on the Continent, on account of apprehensions of political complications.... A meeting was held in London, the other day, to discuss the causes of the high price of meat in England. An association was formed to secure a supply of live cattle from the United States.... Capt. Webb, the great swimmer, has accomplished the extraordinary feat of swimming across the English channel, from Dover to Calais—twenty-six miles—without a life-preserver or other aiding appliances. He did it in twenty-one hours and forty minutes. This exceeds any swimming performance on record.

Another war—this time in South America. The State of Panama has announced hostilities against the Republic of Colombia.... The wife of Garibaldi is dead.... The Grand Vizier of Turkey has resigned.... Turkey will be represented in a limited way at our Centennial.... War clouds are everywhere looming up. It is stated that the friendly relations of Great Britain and China are in danger; the insurrections in Herzegovina and Khokan are progressing, and revolution is said to be imminent in Uruguay. Tripoli has thus far refused satisfaction to the United States for the insults to the American Consul and his family, and there is talk of ordering Rear Admiral Worden with the European squadron to the scene.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

Weekly Review of the Chicago Market.

FINANCIAL.

The money market was without any change. Money plenty. Interest rates unchanged. Government bonds steady.

BREADSTUFFS.

The grain markets have again attracted considerable attention from speculators and operators generally, and quite an active business was transacted. At the same time a rather unsettled feeling prevailed. Early in the week speculators were buying to a moderate extent at the decline, but the increased demand caused an improvement all round in values. The fine weather and favorable crop reports caused a decline during the closing days of the week. The closing quotations, however, were about the same as at the opening. Movement mainly on speculative account, shippers doing but little in the way of buying.

The following table shows the prices current at the opening and close of the past week:

	Opening.	Closing.
No. 2 sp'g wheat, cash	$1.16 @1.16½	$1.16½ bid.
No. 2, seller August	@1.16½	@1.16½
No. 2 sellerSeptember	@1.18	@1.18½
No. 2 corn, cash	@ .65	.66½@ .67
No. 2 corn, s. August	@ .65	@ .66½
No. 2 corn, seller Sept	@ .67½	67½ bid.
No. 2 oats, cash	.38½@ .38½	.39½
No. 2 oats, s. August	@ .40	.39 bid.
No. 2 oats, s. Sept	.34½@ .35	.35½ bid.
No. 2 rye, cash	.80 @ .82	.80 bid.
No. 2 rye, seller Aug	.80 @ .82	.81 bid.
No. 2 rye, seller Sept.	@ .78	.77 @ .78
No. 2 barley, cash	@1.15	1.03 @1.04
No. 2 barley, s. Sept	@1.06	@1.03½
No. 2 barley, s. Oct	@1.02½	1.02 @1.03

PRODUCE.

There has been less activity in the market for butter since our last review, and an easier feeling was developed. The advices received from the East were rather unfavorable in tone, which had a tendency to check the demand on shipping account. There was some demand from parties who desired lots for the purpose of repacking, but they were only willing to make purchases when lots could be obtained at a shade easier prices. The receipts, however, were only moderate, and the stock on hand being light, holders were slow to grant concessions, and a very light movement was the result. For the better qualities of butter there was a fair demand on local account, and the supply of really choice grades was light. They were held with considerable tenacity, and former prices were obtained. There was a good demand for broom corn, and dealers having received information that the crop had been injured by the recent floods, were holding their stocks with considerable firmness. We quote No. 1 to extra hurl at 11½@14c, good to choice stalk braid 11@13c, and crooked at 6@8½c. Beans were dull and exceedingly quiet, quotable at $1.80 for prime Eastern mediums in lots, and $1.85 per brl was obtained in a small way. Western were nominal at $1.00@1.70 for poor to good. There was nothing of consequence doing in beeswax; quotable at 26@28c per lb in a small way. Berries were in good supply, but the demand was only moderate and sales were rather slow. The market closed at about $3.00@3.50 per bu for blueberries, $4.00@4.25 for 16-quart cases of Lawton blackberries, and $1.50@2.00 for cases of wild do. Trade in cheese was principally on local account during the week just passed, but the offerings were only moderate, and prices remain steady and firm; quotable at 5@8c for poor to common, 8@11c for fair to good, 16½c for prime in lots, and 11c in a retail way. There was a brisk demand for Eastern dried apples, and a fair trade was reported at 9c. There was nothing doing in Southern. Peaches under light offerings ruled very quiet. The demand was urgent for blackberries, but there were only a few sellers on the market; quotable at 10c per lb and firm. Dried peas were dull at $2.00@2.10 for choice green, and about $1.60@1.70 for marrowfat. Eggs remain very dull, the quality of the arrivals being so poor that but few lots prove satisfactory to the purchasers. Sales ranged at 10@14c, the outside being for lots that are known to be good, and even then sellers had to warrant them. Feathers sold slowly at 48@52c for prime live geese, 20@25c for turkey tail, and 3@5c for chicken. Green fruits were again active, but prices, owing to the large supply and poor condition of some of the consignments received, were weak and low. Apples in barrels ranged at $1.00@2.25 for common to choice cooking, and $3.50@4.50 was paid for eating; boxes and baskets were almost unsalable. Peaches at 10@60c per box for poor to common Southern, and 75c@$1.25 for good to choice. Plums were dull at $1.00 for one-peck baskets of damsons. The offerings of pears were in excess of the demand, and prices ruled weak; quotable at 60c@$1.00 for one-third bushel boxes of good Southern, and $1.50@2.50 for one bushel boxes of Delaware. There were but few sales of hops reported, quotable at 10@18c per lb for good to choice. There was a fair trade in hides, and prices were steady at 8@8½c for good green salted all round, and 12@13c for calf. There was no change in particular noticeable in potatoes; sales were slow at 75c@$1.25 per brl, according to quality. Melons were in large supply, and a good many of the offerings were poor. Watermelons sold at $10.00@15.00 for Illinois and Indiana, and $12.00@20.00 per 100 for North Carolina. Salt was steady and firm; Onondaga and Saginaw fine $1.35; ordinary coarse $1.70. Wool, under a continued light demand, ruled very dull. Quotations range at 38@43c for heavy fine to choice light coarse and medium washed; 28@33c for unwashed do, and 40@55c for tub washed.

PROVISIONS.

At the opening of the week there was but little demand for articles under this head on shipping account, and local speculators showing but little disposition to trade, the market ruled dull and easy. Toward the middle of the week, however, there was more desire shown to trade on speculative account, and the movement was considerably increased and prices simultaneously ruled a trifle firmer. The advices from the East were more favorable, but European markets were quoted rather weak. The receipts of hogs were liberal, but prices for these were generally maintained. The market closed at $20.90 for cash mess pork, seller August closed at $20.65, and seller September at $20.70. Cash lard closed quiet at $13.17½, seller September at $13.17½@13.20, and seller October at $13.35.

SEEDS.

There was more doing in the seed market during the past week, but sales were confined almost entirely to timothy. There were a good many lots of timothy received which had rather a depressing influence on the market. The quality of the new seed arriving was very good; it was rather dark in color, and for this a difference of about 5c was made between equal qualities of old and new. The market closed at about $2.60@2.65 for prime new, and $2.70 for old. Clover sold in a small way at $8.00@8.10 for prime medium. For flax, $1.60 was freely bid.

COOPERAGE, LUMBER AND WOOD.

There was but little of importance done in the various kinds of cooperage, and the market for the greater portion of the week ruled dull. The former steadiness, however, again existed, this being maintained by continued limited offerings. Quotations were as follows: $1.12½@2.15 for pork barrels, $1.35@1.45 for lard tierces, $1.90@2.00 for whisky barrels, and 45@55c for flour barrels. The offerings of lumber were considerably increased, and the demand being light the market ruled dull. There was no change of importance in prices, but a weak feeling prevailed. The market closed at $8.25@8.50 for joist and scantling, $9.00@15.00 for common to choice strips and boards, $2.10@2.65 for shingles, and $1.50 for lath. The market continues very dull for wood, but prices remain unchanged. Quotable at $8.00 per cord for hickory, $7.00 for maple, $6.00 for beech, and $4.00 for slabs at the yards.

Telegraphic Market Reports.

NEW YORK.
Beeves	9 00	@10 00
Hogs—Dressed	10½	@ 10¾
Cotton	14⅛	@ 14⅜
Flour—Superfine Western	4 70	@ 5 25
Wheat—No. 2 Chicago	1 35	@ 1 36
No. 1 Spring	..	@ 1 45
Corn	84	@ 85
Oats	62	@ 69
Rye	1 02	@ 1 08
Pork—New Mess	..	@21 00
Lard—Steam	13	@ 13⅛
ST. LOUIS.
Wheat—No. 2 Red	1 49	@ 1 50
Corn—No. 2	66	@ 67
Oats—No. 2	..	@ 38½
Rye—No. 2	..	@ 79
Pork—Mess	..	@21 75
Lard	13	@ 13½
Hogs	7 50	@ 8 00
Cattle	4 50	@ 6 37½
MILWAUKEE.
Wheat—No. 1	..	@ 1 27
No. 2	..	@ 1 19
Corn—No. 2	67½	@ 67¾
Oats—No. 2	..	@ 37½
Rye	80	@ 81
Barley—No. 2	1 09	@ 1 10
CINCINNATI.
Wheat	90	@ 1 40
Corn	74	@ 76
Oats	60	@ 70
Rye	..	@ 88
Pork—Mess	..	@21 25
Lard	13½	@ 14
TOLEDO.
Wheat—Extra	..	@ 1 50
Amber	..	@ 1 43
Corn	69	@ 76
Oats	43	@ 47
DETROIT.
Wheat—Extra	..	@ 1 44½
Amber	..	@ 1 35
Corn	69	@ 75
Oats	..	@ 42½
CLEVELAND.
Wheat—No. 1 Red	..	@ 1 54
No. 2 Red	..	@ 1 40
Corn	78	@ 79
Oats	45	@ 50

The Herzegovinian Revolt.

According to the latest cable dispatches, the insurrection in Herzegovina, a remote Turkish province, a northwest angle of the empire, and bordering on Dalmatia and the Adriatic, appears to be assuming serious proportions. The province has always been remarkable for the disquietude of its inhabitants and a disposition to revolt against Moslem rule. This is not the first time that they have resorted to arms, not so much to establish their independence as to place themselves under the dominion of either Russia or Austria, with, however, a decided preference to be incorporated in the latter kingdom, which constitutes the boundary of the province to the north and west. The insurrection has now continued six weeks, and notwithstanding all the efforts of the Turkish forces it continues to gain ground, and is receiving material aid in the shape of men, money, and ammunition from Montenegro, a quasi-independent and aggressive State governed by Prince Nikita, which touches close to Herzegovina on the south, and aid also from the adjoining Austrian province of Dalmatia. The ever-recurring Eastern question rises up once again in connection with the difficulty. Smoldering jealousies between Austria and Russia are aroused, and it seems hard to say what the result will be; but when, as is reported, the governments of the three imperial allies have been in consultation on the subject, the situation may be considered grave.

Curious Celebration.

A rather novel celebration took place at St. Albans, Vt., recently. One year ago Miss Marietta Bell was murdered in the woods near by, while defending herself against a ravisher; and upon the anniversary of the day 200 persons assembled at the scene of the killing, and listened to an impressive sermon by the Rev. Mr. Howard. The bushes all around were hung with crape, and the services are described as solemn, the preacher claiming that all should unite for common defense and the suppression of crime.

Thus far this year there has been 518 miles of new railroad constructed in the United States, against 727 miles reported for the same period in 1874 and 1,696 in 1873.

CROP PROSPECTS.

The Northwest.

The Chicago Times of August 21 prints comprehensive reports as to the condition of the spring wheat crop in the Northwest. In Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Nebraska nearly all reports agree that this will be a year of plenty. The wheat has mostly been cut and stacked; the quantity is far above the average, and the quality never excelled. There will be at least one-fourth more wheat exported from those states than in any previous year. Iowa will probably average as large a crop as heretofore, some counties falling below and others exceeding the yield of former years. All reports from Kansas agree that a [illegible] has never been garnered in that State than that of the present season. In Illinois but little spring wheat is grown. As far as reports go, it would appear that there is no reason for complaint; that the crop will be fully up to the average of former years, if it does not exceed it. Taken all in all, the prospect is decidedly encouraging. There is every reason to expect a full return for the labor of the year in all directions.

Returns to the Agricultural Bureau.

From the crop returns collected at the Agricultural Department, Washington, during the month of July, and in comparing them, it is found that the number of acres of corn planted this year exceeds last by eight per cent. The conditions of the crop is about 96 per cent, of an average.

The average condition of wheat of both kinds for the entire country is 82.

The oats crop promises a large yield. Except New York 94, Pennsylvania 98, all the large producing States are above the average.

In the States producing rye on a large scale, excepting Wisconsin 100, the condition is reported considerably below the average.

The condition of the barley crop in California is winter 82, spring 86; Oregon 99 and 110; New York 97; Pennsylvania 94 and 89; Ohio 72 and 100; Michigan 108 and 102; Illinois 94; Wisconsin 97 and 88; Iowa 102; Minnesota 107.

The potato returns show an increase over last year of 4 per cent. in the acreage.

The wool-clip shows a considerable increase, especially in the South and West, and on the Pacific coast. Maryland's clip is equal to last year's.

What the Reports of the Cincinnati Price-Current Show.

The Cincinnati Price-Current of Aug. 20 contains a full and comprehensive presentation of Western crop reports, comprising about 350 special returns from nearly as many counties in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, Michigan and Kentucky, together with some other States. They relate chiefly to wheat, oats, corn and hogs. Of wheat the reports indicate in Ohio and Indiana a full average acreage, with the yield somewhat short; large losses by rain and very inferior quality. The Illinois crop is below an average condition, and is of bad quality. The Iowa acreage is about as usual; generally harvested in good condition; some damage by blight and other causes; yield large, but in many places the crop is not a full average; quality inferior. In Missouri the crop is considerably short and is materially damaged. In Kentucky the yield is the average amount, but is largely and badly damaged. Michigan has a fair crop. Wisconsin has a very good crop. Oats—There has been large destruction and damage in Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana and Illinois, and portions of Missouri, while the acreage was increased, and Michigan, Wisconsin and Iowa show a large production. Corn—Largely increased average, and very promising outside of portions of the Ohio valley, and if the crop matures north and northwest it will be much greater than usual. Cattle and hogs are generally in better condition than a year ago, and in many portions the stock is feeding upon the damaged grain. Much information is also given relative to other crops. Potatoes promise an unusually large crop throughout nearly all these sections.

A Great Camp-Meeting.

A Lawrence (Kan.) letter to the Chicago Times says: "A queer camp-meeting convened in the forest one and a half miles north of Bangor yesterday. The brothers stated that their camp-meeting was held in the interest of no sect or denomination, the managers extending a general invitation to all, "regardless of cloth," as the preacher puts it. It is to continue till the first snow flies, "or longer if the Lord so desires." Parties are expected from all parts of this State, and also from Iowa, Illinois, and Texas. These wandering exhorters are a queer people, poorly clothed, and seeming to care for nothing but to travel through the country, exhorting sinners to repentance. They positively declare that not a man, woman, or child shall leave their ground unconverted. They have erected a large number of tents, and located for all the fall. The head men are named Booze and Byers, and claim to have a divine revelation from the Lord. Booze and Byers were arrested, in the eastern part of this county, on the charge of assault with intent to kill. When taken in charge by the authorities, they gave their reason as follows: That the Lord appeared to them, and, in tones of anger, told them to go immediately and convert this man, as he was very wicked, and, as the individual would not do as they required, they took him from his house and maltreated him in a shameful manner."

The Turf—Best Four Heats Ever Trotted.

On the last day of the recent Rochester (N. Y.) races was witnessed one of the finest contests ever witnessed on the American turf. Goldsmith Maid, Lulu, Nettie, and American Girl were entered for the free-for-all race. The betting was four to one on the Maid, and, with her out, fifty to forty dollars on American Girl against the field. Lulu broke up badly on the scoring. The first heat was won by Goldsmith Maid in 2:15¼, with American Girl, who had the lead at the half, a good second, Lulu third, and Nettie fourth. The second heat was won by Lulu in 2:16¼, beating the Maid by half a length, amid the wildest excitement, Nettie third, American Girl fourth. The third heat was won by Lulu in 2:15¼. She crossed the wire a length and a half ahead of the Maid, Nettie third, American Girl just saving her distance. The fourth heat and race was won by Lulu in 2:17, leading the Maid by a head only, American Girl third, Nettie last. These are the best four consecutive heats on record. Following is the time in full:

Heats.	Quarter.	Half.	Three-quarter.	Mile.
First	0:38	1:06	1:40	2:15¼
Second	0:38½	1:07	1:41½	2:16¼
Third	0:34½	1:07½	1:40½	2:15¼
Fourth	0:34	1:07½	1:44	2:17

THE LOST AERONAUTS.

Recovery and Burial of the Remains of Newton S. Grimwood—Remnants of the Balloon Found.

[From the Chicago Times, Aug. 20.]

Five weeks ago yesterday afternoon N. S. Grimwood, of the Chicago Evening Journal, went away in a balloon with Donaldson, the aeronaut of Barnum's Hippodrome. It was a fancy of his to take a voyage to the clouds, and he has paid for it with a life that was said by those who knew him to be pregnant with promises of success. When a stormy night had passed, and no return was made of the tourists, there came a multitude of conjectures which were repeated, added to, and curtailed day after day, until the sum of days were calendared away into weeks. The pineries on the other side gave no token of two lost men, and the waters of the lake refused to give up what most people said they possessed. At last the delay hushed up all conjectures, and men concluded that even to hope was an idleness not to be indulged in. Last Tuesday the wires opened the mystery, and before the sun went down it was known throughout the city, and all around the lake, that the remains of one of the adventurers, Newton S. Grimwood, had been found on the beach below a lumber settlement in Michigan known as Benona. A carrier by the name of Beckwith, who had charge of the mail route between Benona and Montague, discovered the body. He turned it over, and he saw it had been adrift and washed ashore. He gave it up, hatless and bootless, decomposed and wasted, to J. J. Tapley, a Justice of the Peace. An inquest was held. There were fragments and letters and papers and tokens which fully confirmed the report that the body was none other than that of Grimwood. There was the field glass which had been loaned on the day of the ascension; a silver fruit-knife in the pocket, with the initials of the dead boy's name upon it; a commencement of what was to have been an account of his trip—an unfinished chapter—one that was commenced between heaven and earth, and then left to be completed by as sad a fate as ever came over a young heart; scraps of poetry that pointed to a fair young face somewhere in the land which he had left; a letter and a postal card written by Mr. Sullivan, the city editor of the Journal; a lady's gold watch with one hand still at the figure XI, and the other, as motionless as the heart of the drowned boy, at the figure IV. Twenty minutes after 11 o'clock. The body was buried in Claybank cemetery. A part of an event that was full of suspense had been cleared away. The next day a reporter of the Journal, accompanied by the father of Grimwood, left for the spot where the body was, disinterred it and brought it back in one of the Goodrich steamers. It arrived here early yesterday morning, and was conveyed to Bristol, where it was laid away at rest in the presence of a large concourse yesterday afternoon. The body was in a wasted condition, but not so much so as to be beyond recognition. All of the papers and books and relics which were found upon the body were displayed in the office window of the Journal yesterday, and throughout the day thousands of persons visited the place and looked with mournful interest upon what was exhibited.

Grimwood's fate is known, but under what peculiar circumstances it was terminated is still a mystery, and he is at rest in the little village where he had lived so long. Nor is there any further doubt as to the fate of Donaldson, for relics of the air ship have been found about eight miles from the spot where Grimwood was found. But the body of the aeronaut is still missing, although every effort is being made to find it. The cruel and cowardly intimation that Donaldson may have thrown Grimwood over the basket to save his own life, will not be accepted by those who know Donaldson. If he was a fearless adventurer and a man with the resolution of iron in his make-up, he had the heart of a woman, and when the elements surrounded him in the rigging, and death came in upon his companion with the glare of lightning, those who know Donaldson can very readily understand that he came down from his perch and went out to meet the mutterings of an inexorable fate with the hand of his boy voyager clasped in that of his own. That was Donaldson.

Old Prob.

Gen. Myer, the chief signal officer, writes to the New York World, setting forth some of the results achieved by the Weather Bureau in allaying unnecessary fears as to the recent freshets. Last spring the bureau sent circulars to nearly every settlement on the Western rivers, showing the hight at which floods begin to do injury. By comparing the weather bulletins from all parts of the country with this circular people were able to know precisely when danger was at hand, and to make provision against it. There is no doubt that a large amount of property was saved from destruction by the timely warnings of Gen. Myer, while the prevention of unnecessary alarm which would have prevailed in many localities had not the "Danger Line Circular" been so widely distributed has been no small benefit to the public.

No Lock a Protection Against Thieves.—Mr. Chubb, the English lockmaker, in whose locks so many of his countrymen place implicit faith as a protection against thieves, has lately written a book in which he admits that no locks can resist the efforts of accomplished thieves, and extols the small terrier dog with a sharp bark as the best possible protector against burglars. Unless Mr. Chubb proposes to go into the dog business and to abandon the manufacture of locks, his frankness deserves honor.

Poor Grimwood's last written words were "literally dead."

AUBURN COURIER

T. C. MAYS, Publisher.

GOSSIP OF THE DAY.

A pedestrian lunatic named Brooks is engaged in the arduous task of walking 1,000 half miles in 1,000 half hours, at Pittsburgh, Pa. It will require twenty days and twenty hours to complete the weary tramp.

A Cleveland dentist committed suicide because he failed in his efforts to invent a sovereign remedy against the toothache. His success would have ruined the profession, and his colleagues are not wearing mourning for the deceased.

The report, which has been pretty generally circulated, of a proposed consolidation of the Western Union and Atlantic and Pacific Telegraph Companies, has no foundation in fact. They have, however, entered into a mutual agreement for protecting each other in the matter of rates, etc.

Mr. Beecher is having a jolly old time at the Twin Mountains. On Sundays he preaches to audiences of 4,000 or 5,000 people, and through the week plays croquet with handsome ladies and gentlemen, pretty mallets and nickel-plated hoops. His admirers have put up a big canvas for him, which will accommodate 25,000 ordinary-sized souls.

Two Presidents, John and John Quincy Adams, are buried in Massachusetts; one, Pierce, in New Hampshire; two, Van Buren and Fillmore, in New York; one, Buchanan, in Pennsylvania; one, Lincoln, in Illinois; one, Harrison, in Ohio; one, Taylor, in Kentucky; three, Jackson, Polk and Johnson, in Tennessee; ann five, Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe and Tyler, in Virginia.

When an editor starts a paper in Texas with the announcement that he proposes "to discuss all questions fearlessly, without regard to persons," the doctors for miles around flock to that town, and some of them roost on the roofs of their offices all night, in order to be ready for business in the morning. It usually happens than an editor, under these circumstances, gets killed the first week.

Mrs. Whittburger, a Chicago woman, discovered a burglar in her house. She proved her claim to be a "strong-minded" as well as a strong-wristed female by grabbing the marauder and imprisoning him in a vise-like clutch. The burglar pointed a revolver at her head, but Mrs. Whittburger knew no such word as quail, and never released her hold until an officer appeared and took charge of the offender.

An Englishman has lately patented a printing machine which is said to work without human help, takes up the sheet of paper at one end, and turns out at the other the book—stitched, cut and bound. This reminds us of the story of a machine in which a live sheep was put in on top and it came out at the bottom a roast leg of mutton, shoulders of lamb stuffed, mutton fricassee, and a dress-coat ready made.

By a singular coincidence, both Mr. Sencerbox, Democrat, and Mr. Gilman, Republican, candidates for the office of Railroad Commissioner in Minnesota, are ineligible under a constitutional provision, as they were members of the Legislature which passed the act creating the office. Mr. Gilman has withdrawn, but it is understood that Mr. Sencerbox intends to run in spite of his alleged ineligibility.

Miss Roberts, of Rouseville, Pa., is the pluckiest woman of whom we have read for some time. Going home the other evening, she found a burglar in the house, concealed in a closet. He sprang out and knocked her down. She jumped up, and, seizing a revolver, fired at him. He threw a hatchet at her, but she followed him up, firing away. The rascal escaped, and it is not known whether any of the shots struck him.

Once a letter is committed to the mails the sender loses all control over it. So the Postmaster-General has decided in the case of an application from the postal authorities of Switzerland for the return of two registered letters addressed to Duncan, Sherman & Co. The letters contained remittances and were mailed before it was known in Switzerland that the firm had failed. The decision of the Postmaster-General was based upon the advice of the Attorney-General.

A recent member of the Leavenworth (Kan.) Times says that Col. D. R. Anthony's wound is healed. The collar-bone has united and is nearly as strong as ever. The only danger now is from the aneurismal tumor. The surgeon in attendance says that the tumor was originally three inches by two and one-half inches in size, and that it has been reduced until it is now no larger than a small almond. He is positive that continued compression of the artery inside the collar-bone, with a low diet, will effect a permanent cure. The position of the bullet has not been discovered.

A French physician announces that cows' milk, taken fresh every morning, is an infallible remedy for gout; while an English doctor has proved that asparagus is also a sure remedy for rheumatism. Now, let all the disagreeable 'pothecary stuffs be banished. When we can cure a gouty leg with a few glasses of milk punch, and get rid of rheumatic pains by feeding on asparagus, it will be time for doctors to prescribe ice cream for toothache and clam chowder for neuralgia.

The stories made public that the late Andrew Johnson was an infidel in religious belief have been flatly contradicted by his relatives. In support of their contradiction they publish a letter written by Mr. Johnson during the cholera season of 1873. In this letter he speaks of death as "the mere shadow of God's protecting wing." Another story in regard to an unrequited love affair has been denied and explained by his son, who shows that it did not cause the "severe disappointment" mentioned.

Zack Allen, a Deputy Sheriff in Del Norte, Col., had two horse-thieves in jail, and, learning that their friends meditated a rescue, he stationed a sentinel at the prison with orders to shoot anyone who approached him without the countersign. Zack happened to be the first to approach, and, failing to give the countersign, the faithful guard blazed away and lodged enough shot in his poor body to make sinkers for a dozen or two trout-lines. If Zack Allen ever gets well, which is extremely doubtful, he will probably be more careful how he advances upon a sentinel with a loaded shot-gun.

The correspondence between Rochefort and De Cassagnac apropos of their recent attempted duel is decidedly personal. Rochefort writes to De Cassagnac: "You will not invoke legal interference as you did with regard to M. Clemenceau;" and De Cassagnac retorts by requesting Rochefort not to wear concealed armor and not to forget his smelling-salts. Even those who are most opposed to dueling cannot help regretting that these two fellows did not fight and kill each other. French Republicans would gain by the death of Rochefort, and the killing of De Cassagnac would remove a disgrace from the Imperialist party.

Mr. Turner owns a farm near Byron, Mich. There is nothing uncommon in that, but this farm possesses the rarity of a veritable haunted house. The eccentric spirit of the place has amused itself for a long time past by throwing stones in dangerous proximity to members of the family, for the evident purpose of watching them dodge and jump to avoid being struck by the missiles. Men at work digging potatoes on the farm were annoyed all day long in this singular manner, and the invisible joker seems very careful not to strike any one. Lately stones have entered the house and caromed round the rooms in an alarming manner. Mrs. Turner states that they seem to move swiftly in an invisibte hand rather than appearing to be thrown. She lately informed her husband that she could live in the house no longer, when the spirit discontinued the stone-throwing, and attempted to reconcile Mrs. Turner by placing indelible pictures of landscapes and ghostly forms upon the window-glass, which no acid will remove. The Detroit Free Press is responsible for this ghostly narative.

The recent terrible blunder in the Insane Asylum at St. Louis, whereby four patients were fatally poisoned by overdoses of a sedative of which the deadly hemlock was a chief component part, has provoked no small degree of excited comment in the Mound City. The entire medical fraternity there are engaged in a bitter war over the merits of the prescription used by Dr. Howard, the asylum physician. The fight is a triangular one. Howard being an allopath, all the physicians of that school maintain that the prescription was usual and safe, while the homeopaths contend with equal pertinacity that the dose was a deadly one, and express wonder that fifty did not die instead of four. The eclectics occupy a sort of middle ground in the fight. They say the remedy was good, but criticise Howard severely for the amount of hemlock used. The quarrel has involved a discussion of the social merits of the respective theories, and the diciples of each system have each other by the ears in a manner that shows they are in earnest.

Niagara Receding.

Niagara is receding a foot a year—perhaps a humiliating attempt to retreat from the presence of plundering hackmen who sell her beauty for opulence. The same erosion that has bitten off the ledge century by century, ever since its brink was at the shore of Lake Erie; the same which has driven the Falls of St. Anthony fifteen miles up the Mississippi even within historic times; the same that has caused the retreat of the Yosemite plunge, and that has dug out through endless ages the Colorado canyons, is at work, slowly gnawing away at the ledges that flank Goat Island. In a million years the Falls will forever disappear in Lake Erie. It is a mere act of prudence to take advantage of the present low fares to visit this vanishing wonder.

INDIANA NEWS.

Indian skulls are a product of Noblesville gravel-pits.

Cholera is raging among the porkers in Marion county.

The Beecher-Tilton base-ball club holds forth at Oxford.

The colored people of Franklin demand a teacher of their own color.

Indianapolis printers spend the Sabbath throwing dice at twenty-five cents a throw.

A Bourbon young lady made herself famous one day recently by drinking two gallons of mineral water.

An Indianapolis young man advertises for a boarding-house where he can get "oatmeal and Christian conversation."

A Young Men's Christian Association, recently formed, will assault the strongholds of iniquity in and around Kokomo.

A convention of the temperance people of the Third Congressional District will be held at Salem on the 8th and 9th of September.

Crown Point has eight churches—one Presbyterian, two Methodist, two Baptist, one Lutheran, one Catholic and one United Brethren.

Lafayette Morgan was killed on the farm of John Somers, near South Bend, last week, by the caving in of a well which he was walling up.

The Vincennes Times has been sold out to the Democrats, leaving the Republicans of Knox county without a newspaper, while the Democrats have three.

The fiend that dishes up the State items for the Indianapolis Journal announces it thusly: "Sixteen pairs of cardiac entrails ask the Allen County Court to perform vivisection until they shall pulsate as two."

All hope of the restoration of Robert Dale Owen to reason appears to have been abandoned. He is at present confined in the Indiana Insane Asylum, but not being violent is accorded full liberty to go about as he pleases. He is a mere wreck of his former self—almost maudlin—although a few traces of his former mental vigor still remain.

The Vincennes Sun says: "We learn that a widow, with her two children (we were unable to learn her name), living near West Buena Vista, Gibson county, were drowned a few days ago under the following circumstances: The river and backwater came up so rapidly that the current carried away the house which they occupied, and, drifting along, the building turned over, and before assistance could be rendered the three perished in the water."

A few days ago three men rode up to the residence of William Mains, in Allen county. Taking possession of the house, Mr. Mains being absent, they deliberately broke up and destroyed the furniture and other goods. Mrs. Mains fled in terror, and was pursued some distance by one of the party. They set fire to the house in several places, separated, and rode away in different directions. The house, with all its contents, was totally destroyed. The loss is $3,000. No clue to the perpetratators or cause of the vandalism.

From evidence lately discovered in regard to the mysterious disappearance of David Hoesch, from Fort Wayne, some two weeks since, it would seem to indicate that he had been murdered. He was doing a flourishing business, and had no cause for absenting himself without notifying his many friends. He does not owe one cent, and he was known to have upon his person on the last night he was seen a large sum of money besides a valuable gold watch and chain. The letter, purporting to come from him at Philadelphia, stating that he was in that city, proves to be a forgery and evidently written to quiet his friends. The Odd Fellows, of which society he was a member, have taken the matter up and will find him if possible. A reward is offered for his body, if dead, and for reliable information of his whereabouts, if alive.

The end of the McIntire investigation has been reached at Indianapolis, and the following is the report: "The Board of Trustees of the Indiana Institution for the Education of the Deaf and Dumb, having fully considered the charges preferred by John E. Fawkner against Thomas MacIntire, are unanimously of the opinion that Thomas MacIntire is not guilty of the first, second, third, and fourth specifications; and the Board further find that the charge of conspiracy made against MacIntire is not true; and the majority also find that the charge of concealing evidence to secure Valentine is untrue. From this last conclusion Dr. James dissents, holding that MacIntire did wrongfully conceal such evidence. The Board having also fully considered the charge against Ezra G. Valentine, the majority find that the charges are untrue and unfounded. From this conclusion Dr. James dissents, believing that the evidence sustains the charges against Valentine."

Northwestern Indiana is overrun with banded horse-thieves, and there is the greatest disquietude among the farmers, the thieves having recently run off a large number of valuable animals. About seventeen years ago this same section purged itself and the neighboring States of the most thoroughly organized and disciplined horde of horse-thieves of modern times. Under the name of Regulators, and by authority of a special enactment of their Legislature, the citizens organized, scoured the country, captured over two-thirds of the gang, and, before an improvised court held at Ligonier, Noble county, sent a great many of them to the penitentiary. A man named McDougall, convicted by them of having participated in roasting a man in order to make him reveal the depository of his money, was taken to the borders of Diamond lake, near Ligonier, and executed before thousands and thousands of people. A revival of these reminiscences of the old time may furnish a suggestion for the present.

All Sorts.

Britain numbers 230,000,000 subjects; Russia, 76,000,000.

A tramp in Canada whipped a bull-dog, and then pummeled the dog's owner. What airs those tramps are putting on.

A resident of Rockport, Mass., lives in a house 150 years old, owns a counterpane which is 250 years old, and is himself 80 years old.

The butchers of Montreal are going to start a paper with $50,000 capital. Blood will tell. Perhaps the English language will be slaughtered.

When the communists plundered the house of M. Thiers they captured some of the love-letters he wrote when younger, and they are now offered for sale in London.

A negro quack doctored two patients at East Point, Ga., so badly that they died. The friends took the imposter into the woods and whipped him until he almost followed his victims.

The gross earnings of the big St. Louis bridge, for the past year, were $286,000, and its expenses $98,000. There remains, therefore, only $188,000 with which to pay the interest on the $7,000,000 which it cost.

An invention for steering vessels by steam has just been perfected, by means of which one man can do in ten seconds what it requires eight men a minute and a half to perform under the old style system.

The suggestion of a fear that Stanley may have been caught and eaten by a cannibal provokes from the Louisville Courier-Journal the response that "nobody cares much what happens to a cannibal."

The Marquis of Lorne ventured into the tent of the Prince of Wales at a garden-party near London recently, and was immediately ejected by his brother-in-law's order, because he had not a special invitation.

There are over 2,700 varieties of apples known by over 1,800 names, 2,200 of pears, 200 of cherries, 150 of plums, 300 of our native grapes, 50 of currants, 80 of blackberries, and 30 of raspberries, according to a counting up of somebody.

The Louisville clergymen recommend that slates be hung in the church vestibules to enable the girls to register their names on entering for morning services. This will obviate the disturbance created by young men who come in to see whether the charmers are present.

A rattlesnake, twenty-five feet six inches long, and having thirty-one rattles, was lately killed near Redbone, Ga. When coiled up his snakeship looked like a huge coil of steamboat rope. Its fangs were fully two inches long. No larger snake was ever killed in the State.

Queen Victoria is in her fifty-seventh year, but is said to be a young-looking woman for one of her years. Her eldest grandchild, the son of the Crown Prince of Germany, is now sixteen; and it is quite possible, considering the age at which Royal Princess marry, that she may be great-grandmother before she is sixty.

An Aroostook county (Me.) printer has trapped seventeen bears since the middle of May last. He was wise enough to leave a few spaces between the logs of the pen where he got the bears in quod, and so escaped the loss of a fat take for any of them from his person. He ought to contribute a bottle or two of hair oil toward the Greeley monument.

A Devoted Wife's Long Search for Her Husband.

The Denver News tells the following the wife of John Comstock, the discoverer of the great Comstock mine at Virginia City, has been making a tour of the Territories in quest of information concerning her husband, who left her over twenty years ago. Twice or thrice he was reported dead, and each time the report was contradicted, until his wife was unprepared to believe him either dead or alive. About a month ago she started on a trip of inquiry and discovery. At Cheyenne she was told by a man who pretended to know Comstock that he was living in southern Utah, and was very poor. The wife, ready to seize upon any hope, hastened off on the hunt for her husband, visiting nearly every town in the Territory. Then she went over to Nevada, where he was once known to everybody as the discoverer of the Comstock, and there she heard that he had died in Montana, in destitute circumstances, some years ago. She returned to Salt Lake, and from there went up into Montana, where she found the proofs of his death. He had drifted, it seems, into the Sweetwater, Wyoming, mines, and left there with the Big Horn expedition, in 1871. The expedition, failing of its object, was disbanded, some returning to the railroad and the remainder going on through the Yellowstone region into Montana. Comstock reached Bozeman sick, discouraged and penniless. He often pointed to his discovery, the Comstock, then producing its $20,000,000 annually, and the thought seemed to bring despondency. One day, in the spring of 1871, he borrowed a pistol from a Mr. Dillabur, a shoemaker, and stepping outside the shop lodged a bullet in his brain. He left no property of any kind, and the expense of his burial, which was quietly conducted, was shared among a few friends. Mrs. Comstock has found his grave, and being possessed of means left by her father, proposes to remove the remains to her present home, somewhere in the States.

AGRICULTURAL AND DOMESTIC.

Around the Farm.

A correspondent writes that to drive any kind of horned stock take a small rope, tie it around the hind leg, between gambrel joint and foot, and you can hold them with ease.

The best way to mark fruit trees is to procure strips of sheet zinc, eight inches long and half an inch wide, and write the name with a pencil. Bend the strip around a limb once or twice. Labels of this sort will be legible for ten years.

The male turkey does not attain its full vigor until the third or fourth year; therefore, a cock two or three years old is better than one year old for breeding. But it is well to change the male every year, which is believed to produce healthier and stronger chicks; and hens two years old and upward are also best for breeding.

A correspondent of the Massachusetts Plowman writes that he has been successful in destroying the tent caterpillars on his apple trees for the last seventeen years, in the following manner: Take one pint of soft soap to two gallons of water, and after dissolving the soap, make a swab on the end of a pole, while, after dipping in the suds, insert into the nest of caterpillars and twist in a few times, then most of them will be removed, and the others all killed, if touched by the suds.

They Do Not Keep Accounts.—The Warsaw New Yorker says the census enumerators don't find many farmers who keep any sort of accounts of their productions or sales. Out of seventy interviewed last week, only one had an account with his farm. The farmers everywhere are very negligent in this respect. They would find it very greatly to their interest to keep an accurate account with the farm of all their receipts and expenditures. There are excellent rules and forms for such kind of book-keeping published. There is nothing so conducive to thrift and promotion of proper economy as to have constantly an accurate knowledge of one's affairs.

A farmer boy in Ohio, recently observing a small flock of quails in his father's cornfield, resolved to watch their motions. They pursued a very regular course in their foraging, beginning on one side of the field, taking about five rows, and following them uniformly to the opposite end, returning in the same manner over the next five rows. They continued in this course until they had explored the greater part of the field. The lad, believing that they were pulling up the corn, fired into the flock, killing but one of them, and examined the ground. In the whole space which they had traversed he found but one stalk disturbed. This was nearly scratched out of the ground, but the earth still adhered to it. In the crop of the quail he found one cut worm, twenty-one striped vine bugs, and one hundred chinch bugs, but not a single grain of corn.

For correcting the evils resulting from a tough sod around orchard trees, or from mutilating the numerous small fibrous roots which fill the surface of the soil, and for keeping down weeds and rendering the earth cool and moist—mulching is the best means to be resorted to. A correspondent writes to a contemporary: "I know of instances of of mulching orchards bearing heavy crops of fruit every year, and of others where the mulching operation was discontinued, and where the trees at once deteriorated. Mulching is also of great use in the garden, to save labor, as well as preserve the soil moist and cool. After hoeing, if the surface of the ground is covered with a good coat of weeds or straw, and among our tomatoes, currents, raspberries, etc., the effect will be plainly seen. I think blackberries cannot be successfully cultivated without resorting to this system."

Care of Horses.—All horses must not be fed in the same proportion, without regard to their ages, their constitution and their work; because the impropriety of such a practice is self-evident. Yet it is constantly done, and is the basis of disease of every kind. Never use bad hay on account of the cheapness, because there is no proper nourishment in it. Damaged corn is exceedingly injurious, because it brings on inflammation of the bowels and skin disease. Chaff is better for old horses than hay, because they can chew and digest it better. When a horse is worked hard its food should be chiefly oats; if not worked hard, its food should chiefly be hay, because oats supply more nourishment and flesh-making material than any other kind of food; hay not so much. Rack feeding is wasteful. The better plan is to feed with chopped hay, from a manger, because the food is not then thrown out, and it is more easily chewed and digested. Sprinkle the hay with water that has salt dissolved in it, because it is pleasing to the animal's taste and more easily digested. A teaspoonful of salt in a bucket of water is sufficient.—London Horse Book.

About the House.

To protect roses and currant bushes from slugs and insects, dust the bushes with white powdered hellebore. Best to apply it while the dew is on the bushes.

Hen turkeys are preferable for boiling on account of their whiteness and tenderness, and one of moderate size should be selected, as a large one is not suitable for boiling.

Preserving Eggs.—Wipe each egg dry, and then pack them dry in salt, covering each layer well before putting in another; every egg must be set up on end, the broad end uppermost.

Washing Spun Silk and Silk Stockings.—Any carpenter can make a model somewhat the shape of a leg and foot; on this draw the stocking when wet, let it dry, tie it at the top to keep it firm; polish with a bit of new flannel before removing the stocking.

Furniture Polish.—Equal parts of linseed oil, vinegar, and spirits of wine. Rub on a small quantity with flannel, and polish with linen cloth. It can be applied to papier mache articles as well as to furniture.

Quick Pudding.—Scald a quart of milk; take three tablespoonfuls of cold milk, three of flour, and three eggs; rub well together, and pour the batter in while the milk is hot. Then bake hal an hour. Butter and sugar, beat to a cream. For dressing, flavor with nutmeg.

Liquid Blacking.—Rub well together one pound of ivory blacking in fine powder, three quarters of a pound of treacle, and two ounces of sweet oil. Afterward add one pint of vinegar and the same quantity of beer.

Breakfast Corn Cakes.—Three teacupfuls of white or Southern corn meal, one cup of wheat flour, two of sour milk, with two tablespoonfuls of cream, or one of melted butter, and one egg, and a tablespoonful of salt. Bake in "gem pans," and serve hot like rolls.

Papering and painting are best done in cold weather, especially the latter, for the wood absorbs the oil of paint then much more than in warmer weather; while in cold weather the oil hardens on the outside, making a coat which will protect the wood instead of soaking into it.

Interesting Railway Facts.

The panic of 1873 put a stop to nearly all railway construction. There was a mania for that kind of business, and facilities for transportation often preceded the demand therefor. On the continent of Europe the mileage of new railroads opened during the year 1874 was as follows:

	Miles.		Miles.
Germany	960	Italy	304
Austria-Hungary	365	Spain	20
France	480	Denmark	65
Belgium	29	Sweden	509
Netherlands	41	Russia	1,161
Luxemburg	20	Roumania	168
Switzerland	103	Turkey	140

Total new mileage on the continent........4,455

Add to this the increase in England, and the total for Europe will figure up about 4,500 miles, which, added to the railroads previously built, would give a grand total of 84,150. When the panic came, this country had about 70,000 miles of railroad. At the end of 1874 the mileage was 72,623, an increase during the year of 1,940 miles. The increase of the previous year was 3,948. The entire railway mileage of the world at the present time is something less than 175,000. Dr. Stuermer, of Bromberg, has gathered statistics of the rolling stock throughout the world, and he estimates the length of all the railroads of the world at the close of 1874 at 172,930 miles, with 56,700 locomotives (having in the aggregate 1,134,000 horse-power), 103,700 passenger cars and 1,356,600 freight cars.

Statistics are dry reading, but these figures are of interest, from the fact that they convey some idea of the overland commerce of civilization. We may add that, according to the Railroad Gazette, the track-laying in this country on new railroads for the current year aggregated, up to July, 538 miles.—Chicago Journal.

Death of an Elephant.

The London Daily News, of July 12th, says: "Since the demise of 'Joe,' the chimpanzee, at Regent's Park, eighteen months ago, which followed closely upon that of the fine old rhinoceros, the Zoological Society have not suffered so severe a loss as that which has befallen them in the death of the female Indian elephant. This fine animal died suddenly on Wednesday night. The cause of its death has not been accurately discovered, though the body has been subjected to a post mortem examination. The elephant in question will be remembered as one of those upon whose backs it has been the delight of thousands of children to ride year after year. Its exact age has not been ascertained; but it is believed to have been about twenty years old. The immense quantity of food consumed by the animal daily is almost incredible. It is calculated that, on ordinary days, the amount of food in the shape of buns, biscuits and fruits given to each elephant by the visitors, together with that supplied regularly by the keepers, cannot have been less than eighty pounds. The Indian elephant is, as a rule, much more tractable and capable of domestication than its African relative. The subject of this memoir was generally on excellent terms with its keepers, whose voice was in most cases sufficent to insure strict obedience to their instructions. A gentle tap with a cane or whip was all that was necessary to recall the wandering attention of the animal. The brain weighed over twelve pounds."

Painful Affliction.

A New Hampshire paper has this account of terrible suffering: "Five years ago last winter George Maleham, a lad of a dozen years, living in the north part of Wolfboro, went to Water village one evening to skate with some boys of that village. He got into the water and then walked home—a distance of nearly two miles—his clothes freezing on him. His folks were abed on his arrival home, and he slipped off his wet clothes, and in this wet and chilled condition went to bed. At first he did not feel the effects of it, but after a short time he experienced a slight lameness, and after a while his joints began to dislocate, and continued until nearly every joint in his body was dislocated—his shoulder joints, elbows, wrist, and finger joints, while the lower limbs were all unjointed, even to his toe joints. We saw him a year ago; then we could clasp our hand around his leg above the knee, while the knee joints were enormous in size. To add to his other sufferings, several large sores broke out upon his body a short time before his death. He was confined to his bed for nearly three years previous to death, which occurred July 25. As his parents were very poor, the lad would have suffered for the necessities of life but for the kindness of neighbors and friends."

Devoured by Dogs.

The St. Cloud (Minn.) Press has a horrible story to the effect that a few days since the remains of a hunter named Brigham, living near Melrose, were found in a building in which he had been in the habit of stopping when hunting in that vicinity. It would seem that he had entered the building with his two dogs to pass the night, closing and fastening the door. During that night he must have suddenly died, or at least was unable to leave the next morning. How long his remains had been there when found was not known, but his dogs, shut-off from escape and forced by starvation, had almost wholly consumed the flesh of their late master. Many persons had passed the building in the meanwhile and heard the moans and cries of the dogs, but supposed he had shut them in to prevent them from following him.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN INDIANA, SEPT., 2nd, 1875.

The people pay Grant four thousand dollars a month for staying at long Branch and leaving the Government to take care of itself at Washington. What a consolation it must be to the over-taxed and over-worked farmers and mechanics of the West, to know that the fruits of their toil is going to support this great national example of idleness and malfeasance!

The President at last said: Let no guilty man escape if it can be avoided. Be specially vigilant, or instruct those engaged in the prosecution of fraud to be, against all who insinuate that they have high influence to protect them. No personal consideration should stand in the way of performing public duty. The Indianian thinks there is a ring in this tardy advice. Grant dont have much to do with anything that don't have a ring to it This simple paragraph is sufficient to induce the Indianian to believe that the republican party is pure and holy. Its faith is far in advance of its judgment.

We would suggest that Ohio do away with State elections entirely.—Two years ago just before the election the firm of Jay Cook & Co., failed, and now, on the eve of another election in that State the failure of Duncan, Sherman & Co., and the California Bank is announced. Of course, the Ohio elections are responsible for their great failures, and we ask our Buckeye neighbors to "let up" a little Morton said two years ago that the country was in a prosperous condition and no doubt he will say the same this year, and you know Morton wont lie, We cannot see, therefore, but that these elections are the cause of all these failures.

The campaign in Ohio is progressing satisfactorily. The horizon is lurid with the glare of political cannonading and all along the line the contest is most exciting. The engrossing issue is the financial question. The enforcement or repeal of the specie resumption act the matter in controversy. The enforcement of the act means an immense increase of the public debt, contraction of the currency, destruction of business and the impoverishment of the masses of the people The repeal means a re-invigoration of the prostrated industries, renowed life to all branches of business, employment for the hundreds of thousands of unemployed people-work for the "tramps" who are wandering over the country—and a revival of prosperity on every hand.—Ex

Senator McDonald, of this state, spoke at Urbana, Ohio, a few days ago in reply to Senator Morton. His speech was a full answer to every point raised by Morton in favor of the republican party. In many portions he had only to refute Morton at preasant, by quoting Morton of the past.—That was an easy task, and brought down his hearers with thundeing applause. Morton has only been consistent upon one policy, and that is in preaching eternal hate between the North and South. Senator McDonald closed his great speech with the following rallying cry:

Let us go back once more to democratic-republican rule. Let the people turn their faces, like steel, against this official corruption and malfeasance in office. and come back once more to honest democratic, civil, republican government, and such as our fathers intended it to be. [Cheers.] To do this you must turn out this party. They have shown themselves utterly incapable of self-reformation. It requires stronger power than they have to clean this Augean stable. In heathen mythology you may remember that one of the tasks assigned to Hercules, to test his supernatural powers, was to clean out the Augean stable, He did so, but not by going inside and planning with those that were there, nor by attempting to throw it out by the shovel full. but he opend the flood-gates of a mighty river. and swept it out clean to the foundations. My friends, let this be the watchword in Ohio [Cheers.] Let the country know that the Ohio democracy are worthy of the honor of leading to the very breach by which the republican party is to be overthrown. [Continued cheering.]

Give us a call when you want good a job.

American Express Company

PRESIDENT'S OFFICE,
No. 65 Broadway,
NEW YORK, May, 1, 1875.

TO ALL WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

In compliance with the requirements of an Act of the General Assembly of the State of Indiana, entitled "An Act declaring Express Companies to be common Carriers, and providing for the safety of articles entrusted to their care," "approved March 5th 1855" the American Express Company make and file the following statement viz:

First.—Said American Express Company is an association consisting of more than seven members the interest of the associates being represented by shares of stock. The following laws of the State of New York apply to associatons organized as this association is organized, to wit:

Chapter 258 of the laws of 1849. Chapter 455 of the Laws of 1851. Chapter 143 of the Laws of 1853. Chapter 242 of the Laws of 1854. Chapter 151 of the Laws of 1862. Chapter 289 of the Laws of 1867. Chapter 290 of the Laws of 1868 Chapter 157 of the Laws of 1869.—Chapter 151 of the Laws of 1870.

By which several laws it is, among other things, in substance and effect provided as follows, viz: That any association consisting of seven or more shareholders or associates may sue and be sued in the name of the President or Treasurer for the time being of such association, and that such suits shall have the same force and effect as to the joint property, rights, &c, of such association as if such proceedings were prosecuted in the name of all the shareholders or associates. Also, that whenever, in pursuance of its articles of association, the property of any joint stock association is represented by shares of stock, it may be lawful for said association to provide by there articles of association, that the death of any stockholder, or the assignment of his stock, shall not work a dissolution of the association, but it shall continue as before. Also, that said association may, be said articles of association, provide that the shareholders may devolve upon any three or more of the partners the sole management of their business. Also, that said laws should in no court be construed to give said association any rights and privileges as corporations.

Said American Express Company has its principal office and place of business in the city of New York in said state of New York,

It is provided by its articles of association that its property shall be represented by shares of stock. And it is also provided by said articles of association that the death of any stockholder or the assignment of his stock shall not work a dissolution of the association, but that it shall continue as before. It is further provided by said articles of association that said joint stock company shall devolve upon not less than seven nor more than thirteen of the partners, to be known as Directors, the sole management of their business.

In conformity with said laws and with said articles of association, the property of said American Express Company is represented by shares of stock. and the sole management of its business is entrusted to said Directors, who are stockholdres of said association and members thereof. The full names and proper places of residdnce of said Directors are refpectively as follows, viz.:

William G. Fargo, of Buffalo, New York, Henry Wells, Aurora, Cayuga Co., N. Y. Johnston Livingstone, of Tivoli, N. Y. Alexander Holland, of Esopus, N. Y. Elmore P Ross, of Auburn, N. Y, William H. Seward, Jr., of Auburn, N. Y. John N. Knapp, of Auburn, N. Y. William C, Beardsley, of Auburn. N. Y. Theodore M. Pomeroy, of Auburn, N. Y. Clinton T. Backus, Union Spring, Cayuga Co., N. Y. Charles G. Clark, of Englewood, N. J. Benjamin P. Cheney, of the City of Boston, Mass. Edward B. Judson, of Syracuse, New York.

The following persons are the officers for the time being of said association, viz: said William G. Fargo, is "President" said Alex Holland, is "Treasurer said John N. Knapp, is "Secretary."

The stockholders in said Association are many thousand in number, residing in different States of the Union and in Europe, and who change from day to day. On account of the great number of the stockholders, and also on account of the frequency of such changes, it is impossible to state their respective full names and proper places of residence.

"Second"—The Capital of said Company is Five Million Three Hundred Thousand Dollars, represented by one hundred and eighty thousand shares, of the nominal value of one hundred dollars each; about two millionsof dollars of which capital is actually employed in the business of the Company, and about twenty thousand dollars thereof in the State of Indiana. The remainder of said capital not actually employed in the business of the Company is invested mainly in the Bonds of the United States for the benefit of the shareholders and as security to those doing business with the Company.

It is hereby agreed that legal process served upon any Agent of said American Express Company in the County of DeKalb in the State of Indiana, shall be deemed and taken as good service upon the President or Treasurer, for the time being, of said Association, and also that the same shall be deemed and taken as good service upon said Americen Express Company.

In witness whereof, we have hereto subscribed our hands this 19th day of May, 1875.

Wm. G. Fargo	W. C. Beardsley,
Henry Wells,	Theo. M. Pomeroy,
Johnst'n Livingston	C. T. Backus,
Alex Holland,	Chas. G. Clark.
E. P. Ross,	B. P. Chenny,
W. H. Seward, Jr.,	E. B. Judson,
John N. Knapp

STATE OF NEW YORK
City and County of New York. } ss:

Be it remembered that on the 19th day of May, 1875, before me, came William G. Fargo, Henry Wells, Alexander Holland, Elmor P. Ross, Wm. H. Seward, Jr., John N. Knapp, Wm. C. Beardsley, Clinton T. Backus, Charles G. Clark, Benjamin P. Cheney, Edward B. Judson, and on the 24th day of May 1875, before me also came Jonnston Livingston: and the 2nd day of July A. D. 1875 before me also came Theodore M. Pomeroy, and each made oath, that the foregoing statement, signed by them, is true, according to the best of their knowlege and belief.

Witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed my official seal.

WILLIAM H. CLARKSON,
Commissioner for Indiana in New York
Broadway New York City.

AN ORDINANCE.

SECTION 1st. Be it ordained by the Board of Trustees of the Town of Auburn, in the County of DeKalb and State of Indiana, that it shall be unlawful for any person, owning or having the control of any Cattle, Horses Mules or Swine, to permit such Cattle, Horses, Mules or Swine to run at large within the corporate limits of said town between the hours of 8 o'clock in the evening and 5 o'clock in the morning from the first day of July to the first day of December in each year.

SECTION 2nd. Any person or persons violating the provisions of section one of this ordinance, upon conviction, shall be fined in any sum not less than $1, nor more than $5.

SECTION 3rd. It shall be unlawful for any person or persons owning or having control of any Cattle, Horses or Mules to permit such Cattle, Horses or Mules to run at large, at any time, within the corporate limits of said town from the 1st day of December, in each year, until after the 1st day of April following.

SECTION 4th. Any person or persons violating the provisions of section three of this ordinance, upon conviction shall be fined in any sum not less than $1 nor more than $5.

Attest: C. D. HARE, Town Clerk.

Mr. Samuel Grosh having purchase the interest of his partner, Mr. Tarney in the Lower Flouring Mill, will hereafter conduct it alone. He is manufacturing a splendid brand of flour and keeps mill feed constantly on hand. Mr Gralsh, is an experienced miller, will assist in turning out flour that cannot fail to suit everybody. tf

IT IS HERE!

WHAT!

THE FINE

STOCK

For the new

CLOTHING!

Store, Ensley's Block

An immense assortment is being opened, and now is the time to secure good bar gains.

David Kahn & Co.

BARGAINS!

AT THE

Great Clearing out SaleS

OF

Miller & Casebeer,

The Leading Merchants of Auburn, Ind.

ROOT & COMPANY,

Wholesale and Retail Dealers in

DRY GOODS,

CARPETS,

CURTAINS,

And Housekeeping Goods!

Hosiery, Hloves

FANCY GOODS!

NOTIONS, ETC., ETC.

AT BOTTOM PRICES

We are now clearing out our entire stock of.

SUMMER GOODS

and offering all above mentioned goods at a great reduction from former prices

Examine our great

CARPET DEPARTMENT

before you purchase, and save money

GRAIN BAGS, all the best brands at

ROOT & COMPANY'S

46 and 48 Calhoun St., Fort Wayne,

☞ Opposite the Court House. ☜

BARGAINS

AT THE

Great Clearing Out SALES!

OF G. H. MUNN.

I shall sell some at COST; I Shall sell some at LESS than COST.

GREAT BARGAINS

In Dress Goods!

BOOTS AND SHOES

AND HATS,

25 per cent. BELOW COST. Call and see him in Auburn, at the Grand Central, one door south of Jno. L. Davis' Hardware.

GEO. H. MUNN.

THE FIRST

National Bank

OF AUBURN, INDIANA.

Capital Stock $50,000

Deposits received on time or subject to check on sight

Exchange, available in the United States, Canada and Europe, furnished.

Checks and drafts, payable in any part of the U. S. cashed at our counter, or collected and proceeds accounted for to holder.

Collections made and promptly remitted for on day of payment.

Loans negotiated and business papers discounted

Government and other securities bought and sold.

Directors:

J. R. LANNING, J. H. FORD,
S. W. RALSTON, WM. McINTYRE,
GEO. HAZZARD.

Officers:

JOSEPH R. LANNING, Prest.
JAS. V. HAZZARD, Cashier.

April 29, 1875.

Auburn Courier.

Local and Miscellaneous.

AUBURN MARKETS.

CORRECTED WEEKLY.

Wheat—White	$1.45	Hogs—live	$6.00
Amber—red	1.35	Hogs—dressed
Rye	.75	Turkeys—live	.06
Oats	.48	Chickens—live	.07
Corn	@ 65	Butter	.16
Potatoes	@35	Lard	.11
Flax Seed	1.60	Eggs	.05
Clover Seed	6.50	Tallow	.00
Wool	45 @ .50	Timothy Hay	12.00

The county Commissioners meet next Monday.

New under ware for ladies just recived at Stamet's

There has been a whole firm married off within the last week.

R. Brackenridge, of Fort Wayne, gave us a call yesterday.

W. S Stevens, of the REPUBLICAN at Angola, gave us a call yesterday.

The best and cheapest place to buy clothing, at Rakestraw & Jackman's.

Wait, wait, wait for the new stock of Stoves and Tin ware at B. Goodman's.

The little folks had a very pleasant pic-nic in Baker's grove last Saturday.

There werer 440 letters dropped in the post-office here last monday, and it was no big day either.

Rakestraw & Jackman are just recieving the best stock of ready made clothing ever brought to this place.

It has come. The new clothing store has opened with a splendid stock of every thing, in Ensley's block. Call and see.

If you want a nice suit of clothes made to order, go to Rakestraw & Jackman's, one door north of the [illegible] store.

Our accomplised friend, C. F. Shepherd Esq., now in Oregon, writes us a charming letter, which will be found in another column.

H. H. Stamets is now receiving a fine new stock of millenry goods, embracing many new styles, which will be offered very low.

Litman Bros & Goodman have opened out a fine new drygood and Clothing store at Garett as will be seen by advertisement in another column.

The "Republican" says that the COURIER and "Press" have consolidated. If such is the case we are ready to believe that oil and water will mix.

Mrs. Richard Elson will entertain the social connected with the Presbyterian church, on next Wednesday afternoon and evening. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

A "rifle team" has lately been organized in Fort Wayne. We thought this had been attended to long ago, as the papers there have been teeming with accounts of citizens being rifled time and again.

Mr. Ralston, the President of the California bank, whose sad death by suicide was announced last week, was a nephew of our townsman, S. W. Ralston. He was one of the most prominent men in California.

Wait! Wait!

Wait for the fine display of splendid Stoves, to be made in a few days, at Goodman's. New styles, and new patterns, and something differ ent than has ever been exibited before. tf.

From a late Paris paper we find the name of our old friend and correspondent, Hon. E. L. Chittenden, of Fort Wayne, who is now quartered at the hotel du. Prince Albert. A half column from Ras. would be appreciated now.

Our enterprising friend Mr. Rakestraw seeing as how it was with his partner, went last Sunday and done likewise.—The handsome Miss Montgomery is now his charming bride, and life goes on even more joyously than before. The new partners in the firm have our best wishes for their future welfare.

LADIES! before you buy new Dress Goods, we want to show you our stock, as we believe we can suit you with our assortment of Prints, Ginghams, Detaines, Alpaccas, Merinos, Empress and Waterproof Cloths, and in fact we have almost every desirable style and quality of dress goods in the market. 2w
GEO. H. MUNN, Auburn, Ind.

MARRIED.—To Mr. Lyme Jackman, at Bocyrus Ohio, Aug., 25th, 1875. Miss Sallie Shaw, in the 25th year of her age.

Mr. Jackman and his beautiful bride arrived here last Thursday evening, and were tendered a reception by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stamets. We wish our young friends a life of sunshine and prosperity, and as many happy little episodes, as a kind providence may deem them worthy of enjoying.

Again we say! Low prices will tell, and people will tell low prices. Our motto is, the best goods for the least money. How will you ever know the full truth of the above motto, if you dont give us a call. You are invited, and if we cant suit you, it wont cost you a cent for our trouble. Awaiting your appearance we are. Yours Truly.
GEO. H. MUNN, Auburn, Ind. 2w

After all the unfavorable weather that has been experienced, the crops will average well this season. In localities where the wheat has been injured, the barley, rye and oats turn out well, and the corn promises a bountiful yield. In regions where the oats and corn turns out badly, the wheat yields well. In the north-western states threshing and marketing wheat has commenced.

A grand concert will be given by our Catholic friends of this place at their church, Sept., 19th, at 8 o'clock P. M. A cordial invitation is extended to all wishing to embrace this opportunity, as it will be a first-class concert. Prof. John B. Young, of Fort Wayne, will make the occasion a pleasant one. Tickets of admission can be had at the post-office, and at the Bank of Auburn, at the low price of 25c. Reserved seats 40c.

The Defiance "Democrat" of last week says:

The Auburn base ball club came down to Defiance on Monday and played the Blue Stockings. The score stood 48 to 23 in favor of Defiance. The Auburn boys are gentlemen, and bore their defeat as good players should. They made many friends during their short stay, and we would like to see them around this way again.

A gentleman from Franklin this State has been visiting our place with a view to putting in a stock of drugs. The only difficulty he realizes is in the fact that he cannot find a room in which to open out said stock, there being no rentable place to be had. What we want is more business rooms. We have the ground, but no buildings. This shows a healthy condition of the business of Auburn, but we might as well have twice the amount of trade we are now enjoying, had we more extended facilities to meet the demand.

The marriage ceremony of Mr. T. B. Hall and Miss Mary Orr, took place at the residence of Edward Orr, Esq., last Tuesday evening; at Corunna. Rev. Mr Baker "spliced" them, and addition remarks from Rev. Cisell. The party was composed of a few selected friends but the presents were many and handsome. The parties left Wednesday morning for a bridal tour through Ohio, and, if nothing happens them, they will return in a few weeks (H)all right side up.

We feel like calling the attention of many of our citizens to the neat and tasty condition of things around the residence of our old friend, Mr. Picker. You see no smart weeds growing rank and strong around his premises. Many of our streets are lined with this prolific weed, and very few find time to cut them down. It looks well for a town with the pretensions of Auburn, to see great rows of weeds down each street in front of beautiful residences, and the people entirely indifferent to their existence. Let an effort be made to clean up.

The following are the names of those who received license to marry, last month:

W. A. Campbell and Sopronia Hazwell
Samuel Moore " Jane Stafford,
H. Perry Fracy " M. M. Mulholland,
Marcellus Goddard " Bell Spellman,
A. H. Wood " Carrie Sargent.
Geo. P. Lake " Marry D. Dragoo,
M. A. Goodell " Sarrh O. Matson,
T. B. Hall " Mary Orr,
John Jones Ellan Koontz,
John J. Barnhart " Harriet Banghman
Baltzer Koontz " Sarah E. Walter,
W. H. Rakestraw " Emma Montgomery
Jacob Saltsman " Susan Shimpff,
C. W. Hopkins " Lucinda Palmer.

That vacant corner in the business heart of our town, does not speak well for the enterprise of the town. Our town is sadly in need of, the accommodation that business rooms on that corner would give. Will our kind, benevolent and clever west end neighbor, Col. Fluke, give this a moments consideration. We trust he will. We do not want to flatter him, but we know there is within him a germ of enterprise, and presto, a three story edifice will take the place of a dilapidated shanty, and our children will rise up and call him blessed. Come, Fluke, show your thorough bred qualities, and startle the people with something that will benefit yourself and the town.

The Union club of this place, played another match game of ball last Tuesday with the Newville boys, and got beat, the score standing 19 to 23 in favor of our neighbors. Both clubs done some miserable playing, while there was some very goods points made. The double play by Morris would have whitewashed Newville on the seventh inning, but by a blunder it failed, and five runs were made against them instead. Our old friend McGonigal umpired the game, and he made fun for everybody. He said he didn't know much about the game, but then he liked the business enough to cover all deficincies, and then he wanted to learn. He got along firstrate in the game until the last half of the first inning. There were two men on first-base, he could't see this useless wast of muscle, so he ordered the first baseman out. The applause at this point was tremendous. The next best point Mac made was in catching a foul ball and putting out the striker. It was a beautiful catch right on the stomach. After this the umpire took a short rest, when the game proceeded amidst the most profound silence. We don't believe there was a player opened his mouth during the entire game, unless it was take a drink or say something. Long after the game was finished, we could hear Mac. give in his decisions on the game. "I cant decide gentlemen" "Out at first," and such other remarks as were patent to the contest. In fact the umpire did splendidly, and he who disagrees with us, dont understand the game from an editoral standpoint.

The Newville boys are very good players, and have already made a very good record. They intend returning the game next Tuesday a week, when we expect pretty close work, and a much better score. To do this our club must practice, not one or two at a time, but as a club entire. We know they can play a better game than they have in the two last contests, and our citizens will expect good playing even if they are beaten.

From the Black Hills.

Mr. Byron A. Woodcox, of this county who accompanied Mr. Robinson to the Black Hills last April, returned last Monday, looking stout and rugged. We had a long conversation with him, with a view to publishing a few facts relative to this center of attraction.

The party which Mr. Woodcox joined at Sioux City, left there on the 14th of July, and landed in Custar's Gulch on the 19th. When they arrived, there were probably 1000 men in the hills. In this locality, the metal was found in what is called scale gold, being in thin scales which is panned out by the use of quicksilver. In another locality called Spring Creek, it is found in what is generally called shot gold, small round and irregular shaped pieces, which can be secured without the use of quicksilver. On Cassel Creek, gold is found in maggets, very black in color but worth $20 to the ounce. Prof. Jenny assayed a small quantity and pronounced it worth that amount. Mr. W. told us it was a common thing to get five cents a pan of this scale and shot gold, but that miners were not content with this as they knew they could not stay long in the Hills.—Gen. Crook came around and told the boys they must be out by the 15th of August, and that discouraged any attempt to go to work in a permanent way

He describes the country as being most beautiful. The highest hills do not ranger much over 600 feet, with many beautiful and fertile valleys between. The hills are covered with pine and the valleys with a rich crop of the most excellent grass. He reports lots of game such as deer, antelope, &c., and in the winter season they seek those hills for shelter. They saw hundreds of these animals within a short distance of camp. There is any amount of good spring water in and about the mountains, and every valley has a stream. This he thinks will prove a disadvantage in gold seeking, one must to keep clear of the water. The best route he has found to the Hills is by way of Sidney on the Union Pacific Railroad, to Red Cloud, and from thence to Custar's Gulch.—making it about 250 miles of an overland route from Sidney. He thinks a man should not start with not much less than $400, and would advise no one to go until spring, even if the Hills are formally opened before that. It is a cold place in the winter. He intends to return in the spring.

S. W. Sprott & Son are selling their immense stock of BOOTS AND SHOES lower than ever to make room for their fall stock. Those who wish bargains in summer goods will get them by calling right away.

Try the COURIER.

PORTLAND, OREGON, Aug., 11, '75.
EDITOR COURIER:

As I promised to give you a few notes on my trip I shall have to begin before it gets stale.

The trip from Omaha to Sarn Francisco, though grand, and one that will never be forgotten, has been described by so many that I'll not attempt only a few of the many scenes which impressed me most. The plains are very uninteresting. After the 1st day even the prairie dog fails to interest you, though he seems particularly happy in giving you a farewell shake of his heels. There are a few antelopes but they are sure to be out of reach of any of the weapons generally carried on such occasions. If a man travels across the plains, and don't feel in about the same thankful mood that the old man from the Green Mountain regions did, who when he had crossed the plains and began verging into the black hills, stretched himself up and said, "Thank God I smell pitch;" he will have to be more ungrateful than I. The morning of the 3d day, upon waking, we could see the mountains looming up in the distance. The tops looked like the fleecy clouds, and the main body of them looked like a heavy storm cloud that rise in the sultry summer time. It was very warm and dusty and remained so until the next morning about 3 o'clock, I awoke and found myself quite chilly, so much so that an additional coat was a luxury. We were now rapidly increasing in altitude and there was a marked change in that atmosphere. It was necessary to have two engines and by the noise they are in great trouble. About 3 o'clock we reached Sherman the highest R. R. point in the world, the altitude being 8242 feet. There was plenty of snow within a mile of the town. Overcoats were a necessity. Looking south we could see Pikes Peak and Longs Peak both covered with snow for about half the way down.—They seemed to be but a few miles distance but were 125 miles away. There are plenty of trout in the mountain streams and bears, California lions, and deer are quite plenty in the cannions.—From this on we came into the snowshed region.

There is about 45 miles of snowsheds altogether, and is the greatest bother of the tourist. About the time you get fairly interested in a fine view, you will dash into a snowshed and lose it. It may be a mile long, so by the time you get out, you have forgotten what you were looking at. At Summit there is a very good hotel for the accommodation of tourists and pleasure seekers. This is quite a fashionable resort, it being within a few miles of Donner lake and Lake Tahoe. The former is a magnificent sheet of water, 1x3 miles, and is probably one of the most fashionable to hold a worm in the water in that part of the country. Lake Tahoe is much larger, and has a steamer on it for the benefit of excursionists, also a hotel that has gained some notoriety.

From Summit on we are rapidly descending, so that the weather is getting much warmer. When we got to Sacramento, we were unfitted for enjoying a stop in this city, and the result was, we left it thinking that we had never been in a warmer, more uninviting musquito ridden city is our lives.

Nothing of interest transpired until we reached San Francisco where we found everything lively, especfally the hackman, who were thick as bees, and a great deal more impudent. San Francisco will put one in mind of Chicago very much, except they have a good sea breeze with occasional sprinkles of sand, which is pretty sure to wont to be a "mote" in your eye. It is a beautiful place for a city and they have a magnificient harbor, the entrnace to which is called the "Golden Gate" Uncle Sam keeps this well guarded by forts and batteries on the hilltops over looking the entrance. The hotels will not compare with Chicago; but they are building one which will eclipse anything in America called "Palace." It covers a whole block and each room has a bay window, eight stories with basement. The door locks alone make one car load. Its built mostly of iron.

Restaurants seem to take the place of hotels. They have good ones, but the most noted is the "United States." Here you may get a good meal for 15c, if you are not too hungry, and the most greedy can satisfy himself for 25c. They have a splendid bill of fare. You may also find the best California wine here within the means of all. Wine may be had from 25c to 50c a bottle. All the wealth the coast centers at San Francisco. Business of all kinds are well represented.—One of the strangest things to a man from the States, is the John Chinaman. They are numerous there and stick together like a flock of sheep. There is one street that's given up to them entirely. Some of them are wealthy and have large stores well filled with "their" china ware and goods from the old country. Its perfectly astonishing how many will live in one little shanty.—When you see them coming out after dinner to go to work, it looks like there had been an Irish row. They come out Indian style in such great numbers that it would seem impossible to hold so many. Talk about the Dutch living cheap, "four Chinamen" will starve a good square Dutchman. A mutton chop will make them soop enough to keep them for a whole week, whereas, the dutchman would have to have cabbage. They are a detriment to this country for several reasons, the principle one being, that they spend but very little of their earnings here. They buy what little clothing they use in China. They hardly ever wear American made boots, prefering to wear there short wooden sole shoes of China manufactories. The majority of them are slaves or might as as well be. They are brought over by men who agree with them for so many years labor, for their passage money.—They are slow as snails, they say "Chinaman no hurrah, we work all time, we no work fast." Their personal appearance is not very prepossessing. They shave all but the top of their heads, which they let grow long, this they braid, and to make it look longer, they braid silk in with it so that it hangs almost to their feet. In short if you would "see" them, look at the pictures in the geographies, if you would hear them talk, imagine yourself near the abode of some juvenile hogs, and the mother of them delivering a lecture on wallowing, and you have it completely. Oregon is not over run with them as California, but they have a great plenty of them here. I think if it were put to a vote whether any more of them be allowed to come into Oregon, that there would be an almost unanamous vote in favor of stopping it; constitution or no constitution. Oregon has a magnificent summer climate, though this season has been exceptionably warm and dry.

There has been but little rain for six or eight weeks. The farmers are very busy harvesting their wheat, which they do in quite a different manner from the way they do in the States. They wait till the grain is ripe enough to thresh, then they head it with a heading machine, and haul the heads with what straw they have, to the threshing machine.—By this plan they save all the work of binding, gathering sheaves, and shocking it. The crops are good here but not over an average I am told. I visited one place in the Williamette valley, where they were threshing wheat which turned out a few pounds over 50 bushels per acre, and another of 47 and still another of 33. The most of the farms in this village are quite large, running from 250 to 640 acres. Fruits of all kinds (except peaches) grow bountifully.—Plums grow without any cultivation and always so full that the trees need props. There is an Evergreen blackberry very much like a grape vine in appearance. It grows to great length and stays green the year around; but the great beauty of it is, that it bears for about three months. Health is generally good, though there are a few cases of ague. The people here are much fairer than in any other country I've ever been. There has been considerable speculation as to what was the cause of it, some giving for a reason the even temperatare, the cool nights and the climate ingeneral. There are more blondes in this Willimette valley than in any territory of equal size in America I have thought it all over and come to the conclusion it was caused by eating so many Salmon, the flesh of which is about as yellow as a half ripe muskmelon. At church where there were seventy-five ladies, I counted forty with hair red enough to be called Blondes, and heard the text. The nights are very pleasant here. There is no time that a woolen blanket cannot be endured without any inconvenience. There is a great cry by those going back to the States, about there being nothing to do, hard times &c. It is true, money does not grow on trees, but there is pleanty of it in the earth, and there is pleanty of work for men who are willing to chop wood. work on farms or in the fisherses The fancy places are all full. This is a good country to make a living in, if you have plenty of snap.

SANFRANCISCO.

Base Ball Technicalities.

Field—The cowpasture where the leather hunting is preforming.

Base—Salt-bags scattered around in the grass for the players to jump on.

Nine—The number of roosters in knee breeches that constite a base ball deck.

Umpire—The chief baller—he bawls out 'strike.' His other duty is to sit on top top of the bat and smell the ball as it goes by.

Judgment—The umpire's opinion after taking such a smell.

One ball—What the umpire says when the smell is unsatisfactory.

Strike—A miscue by the batter.

Put out—The fellow who tries to get in without paying fifty cents.

Dead ball—One which comes to life again after being buried—in the hands of the picher.

Foul—A ball which bounds just the way one is positive it will not.

Fair foul—A little one for a cent.

Balk—A breech of promise indulged in by the pitcher.

Stealing a base—Stuffing a bag in the ear and walking off to the next when the catcher isn't looking.

Beauty—A ball so hot that the second baseman lies on his stomach to avoid it.

Hot ball—One that singes the short stop's hands as it goes by.

Fly—A ball which scores the earth, and like the gentle horse-fly, buzzes around in the elevated atmosphere.

Wild throw—Slinging at the third baseman and killing a small boy in the right field.

Is Your Life Worth 10 Cents.

SICKNESS prevails everywhere, and everybody complains of some disease during their life.—When sick, the object is to get well; now we say plainly that no person in this world that is suffering with Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, and its effects, such as Indigestion, Costiveness, Sick Headache, Sour stomache, Heartburn, Palpitation of the Heart, Depressed Spirits, Biliousness &c. can take GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER without getting relief and cure. If you doubt this, go to your Druggist and get a sample bottle for ten cents, and try it. Regular size 75 cents. Two doses will relieve you.

We are selling very close and parties who wish bargains in the Boot & Shoe line will do well to call soon.
SPROTT & SON.

Don't fail to call at Sprott & Son's Shoe Store when in the want of anything in that line. They will offer extra inducements for 30 days. They mean what they say. Call and see.

We notice a fine new residence just erected by our enterprising young friend Mr. E. B. Rundels in Baldwin's addition. It is two stories high with a wing on the south side, the whole being of a neat and tasty design.

NOTICE—Persons knowing that they are owing us will confer a favor by calling and settling their account as we must have the money. SPROTT & SON

TAKE
SIMMONS'
LIVER
REGULATOR

Nearly all diseases originate from Indigestion and Torpidity of the liver, and relief is always anxiously sought after. If the Liver is regulated in its action, health is almost invariably secured. Want of action in the Liver causes headache, Constipation, Jaundice, Pain in the shoulders, cough, chills, dizziness, sour stomache, bad taste in the mouth, bilious attacks, palpitation of the heart, depression of spirits, or the blues, and a hundred other symptoms, for which Simmons' Liver Regulator is the best remedy that has ever been discovered. It acts mildly, effectually, and being a simple vegetable compound, can do no injury in any quantities that it may be taken. It is harmless in every way; it has been used for 40 years, and hundreds of the good and great from all parts of the country will vouch for its being the purest and best.

Simmons' Liver Regulator,

OR MEDICINE,

Is harmless,
Is no drastic violent medicine,
Is sure to cure if taken regularly,
Is no intoxicating beverage,
It is a faultless family medicine,
Is the cheapest medicine in the world,
Is given with safety and the happiest results to the most delicate infant,
Does not interfere with business,
Does not disarrange the system,
Takes the place of Quinine and Bitters of every kind.
Contains the simplest and best remedies.

Price $1.—Sold by all Druggists. April 23, 1875
For sale at F. E. DAVENPORT'S drug store.

1875. 1875.

GREAT

NORTHERN INDIANA FAIR!

AT FORT WAYNE,

SEPT. 13, 14, 15, 16 17, 18,

From the unprecedented success of the Northern Indiana Fair here last year, the management feel emboldened to add further to the adjectives expressive of its magnitude, by styling it the Great Northern Indiana Fair, the successful rival of State Fairs. No pains have been spared by the Trustees to continue the interest manifested by the many thousands Who visited us last year.

ADDITIONAL BUILDINGS

have been erected, and other improvements made about the beautiful grounds that cannot fail to add largely to its many attractions. Last year the

ENTRIES WERE NEARLY 3,000

This year we expect to add largely to that number. Additional

STABLES AND CATTLE STALLS

have been erected, so that the management expect to make more comfortable these two grades of enteries upon their own grounds,

A LARGE POWER HALL

is being erected, with engine and line shafting in motion for the accommodation of machinery. In addition to the Association Power Hall, other parties are making arrangements to erect at their own expense halls sufficient to exhibit their own machinery in motion, thereby displaying a worthy spirit of enterprise.

A LARGE TENT

is being manufactured, in which to display the beauties of Flora, which is to be a very attractive feature.

The Total Premiums offered by the Association this year Amounts to $25,000

HON. F. P. RANDALL, Prest
WM. LYNE, Sec'y.

CREAT

New York Store

—IN—

GARRETT,

LITMAN BORS. & GOODMAN

Will be found a complete assortment of

FALL AND WINTER GOODS.

The goods have all been well selected, and make as nice a stock as there is in the county. The stock consists of a complete assortment of

DRY GOODS,
LADIES' FANCY GOODS,
MENS YOUTHS' & CLOTHING,

a complete stock, and the latest styles of Hats and Caps. We have a complete line of

BOOTS AND SHOES,

Made to our order, and the nicest stock of Gaiters for the ladies. We will offer our goods very low. Prints at 8 cents per yard, Bleached or Unbleached Muslin at 8 cents and 10 cents. The best bargains in Clothing and in Boots and Shoes, as we are receiving new goods most every day. Therefore we can afford to sell at the bottom prices. All invited to call and see us, whether they purchase or not. Come one, come all, and see our goods before purchasing elsewhere. Bargains will be given as we will carry the largest stock in Garret and we will make it an object for all to buy. Call at the Brown building opposite large hotel. The farmers will do well to come to trade in Garret. You can sell your produce for the highest market price and get the cash, and you can buy goods as cheap as any place and you will be satisfied.

No. 34—3m LITMAN BROS. & GOODMAN

THE OLD SCHOOLMASTER.

BY GEORGE W. BUNGAY.

The master's face is wrinkled now,
His thin, dark hair is turning gray;
Deep furrows of the unseen plow
Are on his forehead. Who can stay
The clock of time and make it slow,
And lengthen out his holiday?

His ears are dull, his eyes are dim,
He bends beneath a load of years;
With feeble step and faltering limb,
He gropes along a vale of tears,
And soon the bell will ring for him
A summons from the heavenly spheres.

He is a good old faithful man,
Worn with hard study, toil and care;
His head was ever sound to plan,
His heart another's grief could share.
"Each one should do the best he can,"
He wrote in copy round and fair.

The old school-house is standing now,
O'ergrown with moss upon the green,
And the inhospitable bough
That furnished rods, looks bare and mean—
It shivers in the winds that blow,
And whispers of things that have been.

A [illegible] from the hill,
Adown the rocks the waters race,
And fancy deems the trickling rill
A tear stream on dame nature's face,
For school is out, and some are still,
And this is a deserted place.

We who survive are pupils yet,
How many teachers we have had;
Prosperity and scathing Debt—
Masters that made us poor and sad;
Affliction, that made faces wet,
And Hope and Joy, that made us glad.

THE DEFORMED FINGER.

Two plasterers, named Tom Muldoon and Edward Harris, upon entering the rooms where they were employed in an unfinished building, on upper Fourth street, Pittsburgh, on the morning of May 14, 1843, were horrified at finding upon the floor the corpse of Griffith Jones, their employer. He had evidently been murdered, and seemed to have been dead several hours, the body when found being quite cold. A little to the left of the thorax was a ghastly wound, and from the quantity of blood upon the walls and floor, it appeared as if a long, keen kife had passed down behind the man's collar bone, literally cleaving his heart in twain, and permitting the life current to pour forth in a torrent which must have brought instant death.

Neighbors were quickly summoned, officers were called in, a Coroner sent for, and a strict investigation of the horrible crime was entered upon with an energy which in these days would be simply astonishing if displayed by public officials. Little result was attained by these labors, however. Griffith Jones had been rather a reticent, self-contained man, and the clews upon which to base a theory for his mysterious taking off were very few. That which was learned was in substance as follows:

Griffith Jones had resided in Pittsburgh and its vicinity for a number of years. He was a widower, and some of those who had known him longest remembered his wife, a pale, little woman—Welsh, like himself—who died within a few months after her advent in the smoky city. His business had been mainly that of a coal dealer, shipping barge or flat-boat loads of the black diamonds down the Ohio. Sometimes, however, he speculated in real estate. Some eight or nine months before his murder he had been introduced to a young woman named Julia Williams, and after a brief courtship proposed to marry her, and was accepted. The house in which he was killed he had been erecting for his own residence, and it was being builded under his personal supervision. Each day he used to visit it two or three times to see how the workmen were getting along, but on the day which must have been his last in life, he had only been there once while the plasterers were at work, and that once was early in the forenoon. A lantern had been found near the body, and it was conjectured that, having been kept away by business until after dark, he had gone to inspect the day's work, after the men had departed, and in so doing had met his fate. But none of the neighbors had heard any alarm during the night, and the padlock upon the temporary street door was locked on the outside. There were no fresh footprints under the windows in the mud about the building. Clearly the assassin must have either been secreted in the house prior to Jones' coming, or must have entered with him, and been cool enough after penetrating the murder to have gone out the front way, locking up the body of his victim as he left. The plasterers swore positively that no one could have been left in the house when they locked up the front door with their key.

Under the circumstances the theory at first entertained of the assassination being the work of some desperate thief for mere purposes of robbery was necessarily abandoned. True no money was found in his pockets, but his valuable watch and chain had not been taken, and he might have had no money with him. But could hatred have stimulated the dreadful crime? Had he any enemy so vindictive as to be guilty of the horrible deed?

Suspicion now pointed at two persons. The first of these was John Matthews, a discarded suitor of Miss Williams, who was known to have been very jealous of Jones. He, however, readily proved an alibi. The night of the murder and the day preceding it he had been with some relatives, fourteen miles away, down in the Sewickly valley. The second person suspected was George Robertson, a drunken, shiftless, dissolute fellow, who had been the brother of Jones' wife. Robertson had made use of his plea of relationship to obtain money from Jones on numerous occasions, as was well known, and it was surmised that he might have hunted him up on the fatal evening, with such an end in view, and being refused, have murdered and robbed him. That he had not taken the watch was attributed to his fear lest it might lead to his detection. But the strictest inquiry failed to bring to light any trace of George Robertson, beyond the fact that two months before he had started on a flat-boat, laden with coal, for Louisville. Since then he had not even been heard of at Pittsburgh. Reluctantly the theorists were compelled to give up the promising prospect of fixing the murder where there was so fine a basis of predisposition of character for it as this fellow was supposed to possess.

At length conjecture was generally abandoned, and the dead man having been buried, his will found and the bulk of his property turned over to Julia Williams, according to the provisions of that document, the case ceased to be much talked about. Even before the fair Julia's suddenly acquired wealth had attracted three new suitors to her side—and that was before the sodding on Jones' grave got a good start—almost everybody ceased to worry over the mystery of the murder.

There was one, however, who did not give it up so. This persistent person was a young man named Walter McGrew, of Scotch descent, clerk in a big hardware store in "The Diamond." Detectives were unknown in Pittsburg in those days, but McGrew was, by nature, an amateur one of no mean ability. At first simple curiosity and a desire to unravel the mystery caused him to take a lively interest in the matter, and he studied up the points in the case with a keenness of observation and analytical care which would have done credit to a veteran in such service. His interest was, however, increased tenfold when the authorities offered a reward of one thousand dollars—a very large sum in those days—for the discovery of the murderer. That amount of money would enable him to marry the girl he loved and to start in business for himself, so the canny Scot bent all his energies to its acquisition. Seeking through the rooms where the murderous deed had been done, for traces of its perpetrators, he discovered in a narrow passageway between the apartment in which the body had been found and another some ten feet distant, an indentation in the soft plaster upon the wall, which, although unobserved by any one else, was full of suggestion to him. This indentation was at one end deep, almost an inch in width, and rounded as if made by some cylindrical body. From this point it tapered down rapidly and ended in a narrow blunt point, considerably less depressed than at the other end. The mark thus made was not straight but curved—or rather had one obtuse angle with the concave side uppermost, near its middle. Upon still closer investigation he found that one of the hairs mixed in the plaster had been torn out, leaving a thin ragged line extending about an inch from the smaller end of the indentation. The height at which this mark appeared in the wall would have been almost upon the level of the chin of a person of medium height, and was on what would have been the left side of a person going from the scene of the murder.

McGrew at once concluded that the assassin, after perpetrating his crime, had gone through this passage in the dark, groping his way, with his hand extended before his face, as would be a natural action for a person upon strange premises and deprived of light, Jones' lantern having no doubt been instantly extinguished when he fell. The impression then, as he read it, was that of a deformed little finger of a left hand, and he set himself to work to find such a member.

During a whole month he scrutinized closely every left hand that come within range of his vision, but without avail, and was almost upon the point of giving up his pursuit in despair, when chance threw within his way that which he had sought. Sauntering through the Alleghany market one morning, still mechanically watching all the left hands exposed, he noticed a veiled woman, poorly dressed, making some small purchases at a butcher's stall, and his heart gave a great leap when he saw that the second joint of her little finger was swollen to two or three times its natural size, while beyond that point, to the extremity, it tapered with disproportionate rapidity. He was rather disappointed to find that it was a woman who was so marked, as he had accustomed himself to thinking of the assassin as a man; but that did not prevent his pursuing the clew thus offered. From the butcher's stall to her home he unobservedly followed the woman, and saw her enter a small isolated cottage in a poor section of the town. Entering a little grocery near by, upon a pretended search for a Mr. Travers, he easily drew the shop-keeper into a conversation about his neighbors, and so, without affording the slightest suspicion of his errand, found out that the woman whom he had seen was a Mrs. Harper, a widow with two children, who had lived in the cottage for several years. Both her children had been born there. She did not own cottage. It belonged to some gentleman in Pittsburg, who came monthly for his rent, and sometimes called upon the widow when the rent was not due, but who he was the shop-keeper did not know.

Had the shop-keeper seen him? Yes, but could not describe him "to save his life," further than that he was "a biggish sort of man with short red hair,"—characteristics common to Jones and an hundred other men.

It must not be supposed that McGrew wormed all this out at once. He was too cautious for that. But in the back part of the little grocery he found that some very good liquor was kept, and, apparently on this account only, he called several times upon the shop-keeper, and became quite familiar with him. One day Mrs. Harper came in to buy some candles when he was present, and he managed to get into a little conversation with her. Twice afterward he met her accidentally, and having won his way by presents of some peppermint candy to her children, got upon easy chattering terms with her. He noticed that she looked haggard, anxious, often pre-occupied, but could find nothing to warrant his looking upon her as the assassin of whom he was in pursuit. Poverty alone would have given her those signs of mental trouble. Still he suspected her.

When he entered the shop one evening, after he had known her fully a fortnight, he found her in a little contention with the shop-keeper about the value of a one dollar bill which she had offered in payment for some small articles. The grocery man averred that it was the issue of a broken western bank, which she denied, and the matter was referred to him. He took the bill, casually remarking that there was at that time a great deal of worthless paper money about, and looked at it. Upon its back he noticed written in ink the letters and numerals "B. H. May 13, G. J.—M. K." He hesitated but a moment and then, acting upon some impulse for which he could not definitely account to himself, said: "I think it is all right. Anyway, I'm sure enough to give you the silver for it." Mrs. Harper thanked him heartily, and took the silver which he offered her. The grocery man made change for her and she went away. McGrew put the bill in his pocket.

When he got home that night he studied over the bill and its inscription, wondering more and more why he had bought for a dollar something which he knew to be utterly worthless. The next day, albeit with very vague hopes of learning anything of use to him, he went to the lawyer who had done all Jones' legal business down to the making of his will, and who was perfectly familiar with his handwriting. That gentleman at once recognized the writing as that of the deceased Griffith Jones. The initials "G. J." put it beyond a doubt, they being made in a very peculiar manner.

What did the other initials mean, however? For the first two, the lawyer had nothing to say. The last two, however, he suggested were those of a saloon keeper, who was one of Jones' best friends. Mark Kennedy was his name. Upon him McGrew now called, with the one-dollar bill, which was fast gaining [illegible] in his eyes. Kennedy, upon being shown the note, said:

"Oh! I remember all about that. Jones came in here for a drink, after visiting his new house—just the morning of the day he was killed. He was going over to Temperanceville then, he said. That bill he offered me when he was going to pay for his drink, and I told him it wasn't good. I'd got word only the day before that the bank was busted. Yes, I'm sure that's it—Oskolono Bank, of Missouri. No doubt about it. He went right over there to my desk and indorsed that upon it, saying he had got it from Bob Harlow, and would make him take it back."

Bob Harlow, upon being seen, admitted that he believed he might have given the bill to Jones; in fact, thought he did, a couple of days before the murder, and had not afterward seen him alive.

That evening Mrs. Harper was arrested and lodged in jail upon suspicion of being either principal or accessory in the murder of Griffith Jones. When charged with the crime, she scorned to deny it.

"Yes," she said, "I killed him, and he deserved it. I did not avow it for the sake of my children—his children—but it is not worth lying about. I did kill him, and I will tell you why. Seven years ago he persuaded me to live with him. I was a widow, poor and friendless. I sold myself to him because he swore to provide comfortably for me as long as I lived. I had two children by him, and got to love him, scoundrel as he was. I begged him on my knees to marry me, for the sake of our children, and he refused. He never loved either them or me. For three years he had barely given me money enough to keep me alive. He gave me the hovel where I lived, and used to come and see me not more than once a month, usually. I went out washing all day, and sewed at night as long as I could sit up, to feed and clothe my babies. Exposure brought on rheumatism. See how my hands are swollen out of shape; all my joints are so. He did not care. He wished I would die. I heard he was going to marry another woman—that he was building a fine house for her. Then I became desperate; I dogged his steps one night to his new house. He took me inside to prevent a scandal, through our voices being heard if we talked outside. On my knees I begged him to at least make some provision for our children. I believe I threatened to expose him and prevent his marriage if he did not. He refused, and struck me. Then—well, I had the butcher-knife with me. I did not intend to kill him when I took it along—I only wanted to protect myself; but when he struck me, and called me the name he did, and cursed the 'bastards'—our babies—then I struck him back. I only struck once. I took the money in his pockets, for we were hungry, and I had a right to it. He was dead. Yes, I killed him, and I am not sorry for it. Now do what you please with me." Upon her trial she refused to plead "not guilty," but her sad story, which was proven to be true, awakened popular sympathy so far in her behalf that the court refused to accept her plea of "guilty" to the charge of murder in the first degree, and she was only indicted for murder in the second degree. Upon this, she was necessarily convicted. The evidence against her, even outside her own confession, was terribly strong, and she was sentenced to imprisonment for life.

The prison regulation of Pennsylvania then, and indeed until very late years, were merciless in their rigor. A prisoner condemned for life was as practically dead to all the world as if life were really extinct. Solitude, silence, mental agony, dread suspense, hopeless ignorance of the fates of loved ones, often insanity and short lives of utter wretchedness, were what prisoners were condemned to; and such the rigorous law prescribed as the expiation for Mrs. Harper's crime. But, before she went to prison she was permitted to know that both her children had been adopted by kind people, who would rear and educate them as their own, and with this knowledge she entered even cheerfully the gates of her living tomb. How long she endured her separation from her loved ones is a secret only in the keeping of the prison register.

A Great Traveler.

John Guy Vassar, nephew of the founder of Vassar College, is probably the greatest traveler the world has ever known. He first crossed the ocean in the British Queen in 1840, and has been almost constantly on the go during the intervening thirty-five years, returning home every year or two, only to remain a few months and then take a new start for a tour round the world, or to some remote quarter of the globe—almost every inhabitable part of which he has visited once or oftener. Humboldt twice sent for him in regard to some of the countries and races that he had visited, and which that noted writer had not.

A Useful Invention.

A Cincinnati genius claims to have discovered a plan by which the smoke and cinders from a locomotive can be carried to the rear end of the train and there set free without annoying passengers. The apparatus consists of a simple tube, a foot or so in diameter, running from the smoke-stack over the tops of the car to the rear, the theory being that the speed of the train will create a draught of sufficient power to suck in all the smoke and cinders and scatter them to the winds behind the train. A patent has been secured.

The Cost of National Neighborhood.

The American Republic has been referred to as a nation without neighbors. An acute writer has criticised and pointed out national traits of self-complacency and indifference to other interests and peoples, which he believes are evidences of our unneighborly disposition. In other lands it costs a great deal to be neighborly, and the neighborhood feeling that is maintained is rather the reverse of good fellowship. At least it seems to require an enormous police force to maintain the peace. It is very doubtful whether an acute knowledge and active interest in foreign affairs may not be bought at too large a price. It seems to be paying altogether too much for "one's whistle." The following statement of the men enrolled in the European armies (without stating the naval force) shows what "good fellowship" costs:

Nations.	Peace.	War.
Austria-Hungary	278,470	838,700
Belgium	37,391	137,590
Denmark	36,762	47,926
France (1874)	548,000	782,727
Germany	401,659	1,272,346
British Empire	108,725	446,387
Greece	11,000	11,000
Italy (1873)	199,557	445,509
Holland	66,966	94,110
Portugal	30,128	68,480
Russia	758,729	1,173,479
Spain	150,000	200,000
Sweden and Norway	30,111	162,775
Switzerland	84,369	201,257
Turkey	148,690	459,360
	2,869,561	6,301,425

These figures include only those bodies which are regarded as the regular armies of their different countries, standing or reserve, except in the case of Great Britain and Switzerland, in both of which the armies on a war footing are largely drawn from civil life. In the first named there are 340,662 of drilled militia, volunteer corps and yeomanry. In Switzerland, the active force is really quite small, as every citizen is obliged to do military duty. In Germany there are over 500,000 more of the "landstrum" who can be mobilized.

Martin's Year Book for 1875, gives the Imperial army of China at 850,000; the standing army of Persia at 30,000 in time of peace, and 105,500 in time of war. The standing army of Japan is estimated at 80,000. The entire regular force provided for by all the American governments is but 96,026, of which the United States maintains 30,000, Brazil 28,933, and Peru 13,200.

These figures give the following total organized and regular force among the leading powers of the world:

The American Continents	96,026
Asia	968,000
Europe	2,860,567
	3,924,593

The foregoing figures are only the peace footing. Adding the two million men that could be raised and equipped in this country, with at least three more in China and Japan, were it necessary, and allowing for what the smaller States could do if imperilled, then adding those estimates to the 6,301,425, already provided for in Europe, and we have shown an array of at least 13,000,000 armed men in the world. We may be congratulated on being out of the vortex.—Republic Magazine.

Queen Victoria's Yacht Runs Down and Sinks a Sail Boat.

[London (Aug. 18) Cor. New York Herald.]

The royal yacht Alberta, with Queen Victoria on board, collided, at 6 o'clock this evening, while crossing from Osborne to Gosport, with the yacht Mistletoe, belonging to J. S. Heywood, of Manchester, who, with a party of friends, were on a pleasure cruise. The sailors of the Mistletoe were in the act of dipping their flag in honor of the Queen, when a cry was raised that the royal yacht was running down the Mistletoe. Great excitement ensued, and efforts were made to avoid collision, but it was too late. The Mistletoe was struck on the starboard side, abreast of the mainmast. The Alberta rode completely over her, losing her bowsprit and cutwater. It is impossible to describe the scene on board the vessels. The Queen witnessed the collision from the deck of the Alberta. She was deeply agitated, wringing her hands, and in dreadful suspense. Every effort is said to have been made to save the party on board the Mistletoe, which was rapidly sinking.

Several of the rescued were severely injured. The damage to the Mistletoe was so serious that she sank in a few minutes, carrying with her a lady and the mate. It being impossible to render further aid, the Alberta proceeded on her way to Gosport, but had scarcely reached the Clarence Yard, when Stokes, the master of the Mistletoe died. Heywood, who was seriously injured, was carried to the house of the admiral at Portsmouth. The following report of the accident appears in the Court Circular: When the Alberta was crossing the Solent, with the Queen and royal party on board, a sailing yacht ran under the Alberta, which struck her, and she went down in a few moments. The Queen, though terribly shocked, gave orders that every effort should be made to save the persons on board, but it is to be feared that two have been lost, beside those who were injured. Her majesty spoke to Miss Peel, the lady who was saved, and made constant inquiries after the wounded. On reaching Gosport, she gave orders to Admiral Elliott to spare no efforts on behalf of the sufferers, and to pay every attention to their wants."

Collision with a Whale.

[From the Edinburgh Scotsman.]

The Triumph, owned at Plockton, McKenzie, master, has put into Stornoway, bound from Liverpool for Burghead, with salt, making a good deal of water. About midday on Sunday last, while the vessel was about 15 miles off the Lews coast, under full sail, and the Master and crew below at dinner, except one man at the wheel, all were startled by a severe shock as if the vessel had struck on some sunken wreck. The men at once rushed on deck and saw a large whale floating a few yards off, either dead or stunned apparently with the shock. The monster had crossed the bow of the vessel. On finding that the ship had sprung a leak the Master made for Stornoway. She is at present making 8 inches water an hour. The Triumph will be beached, and her cargo will likely be discharged. Information has reached Stornoway that a Greenland whale, upward of forty feet long, was towed ashore at Balranald, North Uist, on Tuesday, having been found dead in the Atlantic.

The Boomerang.

A traveler tells us something of the singular weapon used by the natives of Australia, the boomerang. He saw them used by the natives. They ranged from two feet to thirty-eight inches in length, and were of various shapes, all curved a little, and looking, as he describes them, something like a wooden new moon. They were made of a dark, heavy wood, and weigh from one to three pounds. In thickness they vary from half an inch to an inch, and taper to a point at each end.

One of the natives picked up the piece of wood, poised it an instant, and threw it, giving it a rotary motion. For the first hundred feet or more it went straight ahead. Then it tacked to the left and rose slightly, still rotating rapidly. It kept this latter course for a hundred feet more, perhaps, but soon veered to the left again, describing a broader curve, and a moment later fell to the earth six or eight in front of the thrower, having described nearly a circle in the air.

Another native then took the same boomerang, and cast it, holding it with the same grip. It took the same course, and made broader curves, and as it came round the black caught it handsomely in his right hand.

Another native next threw it, and lodged it on the ground about twenty feet behind him, after it had described a circle of 200 yards and upward. After him they all tried it, and but one of them failed to bring the weapon back to the spot where they stood.

Carnboo, a native, then selected from the heap of boomerangs another one, and cast it with a sort of jerk. It flew very swiftly for forty or fifty yards, whirling like a top. Then it darted into the air, mounting fully one hundred feet, and came over our heads, where it seemed to hang stationary for a moment, then settled slowly, still whirling, till he caught it. Two others of the blacks then did the same thing.

Meanwhile I had with my knife shaved a little of the wood from the convex side of one of the boomerangs. This is now offered to one of them to throw. He took it without noticing what I had done, poised it, but stopped short, and with a contemptuous glance at my improvement threw it down, and exclaimed:

"Bale budgery!" (no good).

The others then looked at it curiously, but it was a bale budgery also to them. No one could be induced to throw it.

Meyers asked them why they did not use it, but they could not give a definite answer. It was plain that they did not like the way it poised, when held in the hand, yet I could not distinguish any difference whatever between this and the other weapons.

Burleigh then walked to a distance of 200 feet or more from the blacks and bid Carnboo throw to him. The native looked at him a moment rather curiously, then, comprehending what was wanted, he selected one of the heaviest of the missiles, and, turning half round, threw it with great force in a direction almost opposite from that where Burleigh stood.

The weapon sped smartly for 60 or 70 feet, then tacked in an instant, and flew directly at Burleigh, and, had he not most expeditiously ducked, he would have received a hard thump, if nothing worse. It struck the ground 20 or 30 paces beyond. This feat brought out a broad grin, and something like a chuckle from the whole of them. Carnboo even intimated that he would like to try another cast, but Burleigh expressed himself fully satisfied.

Mr. —— (another of our party), however, offered to "take a shot," but not at too short range. We were standing in front of one of the store-houses. Carnboo placed —— in front of the door, and stood with his back to him, with ——'s hand on his shoulder.

None of us knew what sort of maneuver he had in mind, not even Myers. Standing in this position, the black threw the boomerang straight ahead. Immediately it curved in the air. Then it disappeared around the right corner of the building, and, before he had time to guess what was meant, came round from the other end (having passed completely around the store-house) and gave —— a sounding rap on the back, which made his eyes snap.

The Prayer Cure.

A young lady of Harrisburg, Pa., Miss Minnie H. Walters, spoke in a prayers meeting a few days since, relating a remarkable cure, which she attributes directly to the interposition of Christ. The occurrence, related by the lady in detail in private conversation, is to the effect that over two years ago she was afflicted with a spinal disease so serious that she could scarcely move a finger, and she was confined to a couch purposely suited for the disease. Nearly two years ago she became convinced that she needed closer consecration to Christ; in other words, she desired the blessings of santification, so prominent in the Methodist belief. She prayed earnestly without avail. Something seemed to tell her that consecration of body as well as soul was required, and it was revealed to her that she would be healed. Thirteen months passed and no result. On the 26th of January last she once more resolved to pray more earnestly for the fulfillment of the revelation. While praying the promise came to her, "Whatsoever thou wilt, ask and it shall be given." She prayed first for her heart purity, and next for bodily health. The word came, "Rise up and walk," and to her great relief she found herself in apparent health. The doctor next morning found her restored to health without need of medical attendance. Her statement was yesterday corroborated by four other persons acquainted with the circumstances, who rejoice with her over her restoration to health, which she unwaveringly believes to have resulted from the stretching forth of Christ's hand in reward for her great faith.

Little Rhody.

Rhode Island has made a great gain in population within five years, and at her present rate of increase will soon outnumber Vermont and New Hampshire. This shows how steadily manufactures and commerce are gaining on agriculture in New England. It does not pay to carry on small farms where the earth has to be dug up with a spade and manured with a teaspoon when the great prairies of the West, which can be tilled by machinery, are made accessible to the Eastern markets.

A WARNING.

I knew two friends as much alike
As ever you saw two stumps;
And no phrenologist could find
A difference in their bumps.

One took a paper, and his life
Was happier than a king's;
His children all could read and write,
And talk of men and things.

The other took no papers, and
While strolling through the wood,
A tree fell down upon his crown,
And killed him—as it should.

Had he been reading of the news,
At home like neighbor Jim,
I'd bet a cent this accident
Had not befallen him.

Pith and Point.

How to get along in the world—never get short.

Comfortable quarters—Twenty-five cent pieces.

Apropos to the county fairs. Prayer to Ladies with Parasols. (At the Pigpens of Agricultural Shows.) "The rude four fathers of the ham let sleep." —Punch.

"Why do you show favor to your enemies instead of destroying them?" said a chieftain to the Emperor Sigismundi. "Do I not destroy my enemies by making them my friends?" was the Emperor's noble reply.

"Then you won't lend me your velocipede, hey?" inquired one boy of another. "No, I won't." "Very well, then the next time our chimney burns you shan't come into our back yard and holler."—Des Moines Leader.

There's an old antiquarian who has been traveling about the country for twenty years, looking for a rock from which, according to some story, an Indian maiden and her lover didn't throw themselves when pursued by a vengeful tribe. He hasn't found such a rock yet, and is getting very old and very hopeless.

A Manchester firm which takes all its employes for a day's trip to the seaside during the summer, decided this year to visit Blackpool. It is the general custom of the workers to have a dip in the sea before beginning the usual amusements. "Eh, mon, how dirty ye are!" said one hale Lancashire lad to his fellow-bather. "Missed the trip last year," was the laconic rejoinder.

She sat with folded hands,
And neither turned to right or left;
So mute and sad, she looked like one
Of hope and home and friends bereft.

Poor thing, I thought, and dropped a tear,
Thy loved ones all have gone before,
Have sailed away o'er death's dark stream,
And left thee pining on the shore.

I gladly would have cheered her, but
A stern cold voice held me in check—
"There's nuthin' ails her much," it said
"She's got a boil upon her neck."

As a woman was stepping off a Michigan avenue street car the other day the horses started up just at the right instant to throw her down. She fell heavily on the cobblestones, but scrambled up with a smile on her face. A portly old chap, who had witnessed the accident, stepped up to the lady, held out his hand for a shake and remarked: "Gimme your hand! I've seen millions of women fall that way, and you are the only one in the whole lot who could rub her elbow and smile at the same time!"—Detroit Free Press.

You can't get an old shoemakert o blunder. The other day when a weighty woman sailed into a Detroit shoe store and selected a pair of No. 4's and sat down to have them tried on the shoeman saw that she wanted sevens. But he didn't tell her so, and start her out of the shop on a gallop. He smiled and softly said: "Madam, all the aristocratic ladies are now wearing shoes three sizes too large for their feet, in order to have cool extremities, and of course you want to follow the style." She smiled like a duck in reply to his smile, and replied: "You are in a position to know best, and I leave everything to your judgment." When she went out she said she never had such an easy-fitting shoe on in her whole life.—Detroit Free Press.

A Vicksburger, who prides himself on his choice language, was over in Louisiana, the other day, on business, and stopping at a farm-house to get a drink of water, the woman remarked that the crops stood in great need of rain. "Yes, rain is the great desideratum," he replied, as he handed the tin dipper back. "Mary! Mary!" yelled the woman in loud tones. A white-headed girl of 16 came out of the back-room in response to the call, and the mother continued: "Take a squar view of him, Mary! He don't look as though he knew enough to plow cotton, and yet he just got off a word as long as from here to the mule-pen and back, and he may be holdin' on to more!" The Vicksburger walked right away from there.—Vicksburg Herald.

High Heels.

Dr. Washington Atlee, at a recent meeting of the Pennsylvania State Medical Society, referred to the "delicate girl" of the period, and pointed out some of the causes at work in the destruction of her health. Among these, reference was made to the present style of high heels. "Her heel mark," said the Doctor, "is scarcely larger than the thumb-nail. Look at her shoe, with its narrow sole, a heel two inches high, shaved down nearly to a point, and placed almost under the instep. Instead of the points of support being on a level, the heel is tilted up two inches higher, the foot is crowded forward, the great toe is forced over the others. She is constantly walking down hill, and in health is going down hill all the time. All this forces her entire frame out of its proper line, and she is compelled, in order to maintain her perpendicular, to throw her hips back." He contrasted the real and the fashionable woman, and thus accounted for many of her ailments. He urged a change in dress, that woman should no longer be thus travestied and injured by fashion. He alluded to the fearful increase in the use, by women, of tonics and stimulents, as partly the result of indisposition arising from her dress fashions, and urged, very emphatically, a reform.

When the bodies of several persons, killed in the recent railroad accident on Long Island, were taken to the nearest station, the agent ordered them removed, saying, "he was not paid to watch dead bodies." A good many persons would like to watch his for nothing.

Hotel-keepers are people we have to "put up with."

MOUNTAIN MEADOWS.

New Evidence Relative to the Butchery Brought to Light—A Recital Almost Too Horrible for Belief.

[Salt Lake Cor. Cincinnati Commercial.]

Whether the heads of the Church are more pleased or chagrined at the result of the trial of John D. Lee is doubtful, but they are evidently in great trouble over the effect it has had on the nation. It is such a barefaced fraud on justice that the most inveterate Jack-Mormon does not venture to apologize for it. The defense, in the interests of Brigham, doubtless, are now seeking to have Dame and Lee tried together in September, and the venue removed to this city. But I am inclined to think that would be for the interests of justice and the liberal cause. As to the men themselves, it would be a pure waste of time to try them over again with our present jury laws. The facts for the prosecution are as clearly proven as the fact of there having been a war in the United States, but a new jury would give a verdict just as Brigham dictated. It is now suggested that Congress appoint a committee to select jurymen here; that a list of a thousand names be made out, and the jury drawn therefrom. It would be impossible to "pack" a jury out of that number; and yet more than that could be found who would not submit to any dictation from Brigham. At present one-half of the list is selected by the Probate Judge, generally a Bishop. The idea of a Mormon Bishop selecting a jury to try Brigham Young, or any of his agents, is too huge and painful a joke to write about.

Meanwhile new evidence is coming out all the time—some of it curious, most of it horrible. Jacob Hamlin, a life-long Mormon, then lived in the north end of the Meadows; he was absent from home, but left an Indian boy named Albert, whom he had brought up, in charge of his flock. This boy speaks good English, but could not legally be a witness. The boy says that when he learned what was going on, he drove the sheep slowly in that direction till he saw the emigrants coming out of their corral, when he took position near a thicket to watch the result. There were two wagons in front filled with children, and men who had been wounded in the siege; both wagons driven by Mormons. Behind them came the women in a mass, leading the larger children, and behind them the men; beside the men marched the Mormon militia, single file. At the words, "Halt! Fire!" some fifty rifles were discharged upon the men, and nearly all of them fell dead. Then the Indians rose from their ambush and rushed upon the women, who turned and fled back toward the men. Most of them were brained in a few moments; but two young girls, about 18 years old, Albert thinks, sprang into a gully, ran down it and across the bottom to where he was standing. They begged him to save them, and he directed them where to hide in a thicket. In another instant John D. Lee and Bill Stewart came galloping across the hollow, and, with savage curses, ordered him to point out the runaways. He dared not disobey, and soon the girls were dragged out. Kneeling to Lee, they poured out the most passionate prayers for mercy—they would be his slaves, would never betray him, would work for him forever. While one clung to his knees he jerked her suddenly upon her back, and, placing his knee upon her breast, cut her throat from ear to ear! The other had, meanwhile, run away. He overtook her, and by a savage blow on the back of the head with a ragged stone, crushed in her skull. Both these bodies were missed by the burying party, and, strange to say, lay there ten days untouched by the wolves. When Hamlin returned from Salt Lake City Albert pointed them out, and they were buried. Hamlin adds that there was not the mark of a tooth on either body, and no sign of decay, so pure was the air. Their fair countenances were like those of persons just dead, and their handsome forms untouched by the beasts and birds of prey. Nature and the wild beasts of the mountains were kinder to them than men of their own race and color.

Equally strange is the story told by Mrs. Hamlin—since deceased—which was only hearsay, but is confirmed by collateral evidence. A Mormon woman far advanced in pregnancy was at Hamlin's; her husband was driving one of the wagons containing the wounded, having been ordered on that duty by Bishop Klingensmith. When the massacre began this man took a fit, and soon died of excitement or fright. When the bloody wagon, containing the children and the dead body of her husband, was brought to Hamlin's, this woman went into a spasm, prematurely gave birth to a child, then became insane, and lingered twelve years a raving maniac.

A Clever Piece of Jugglery.

A "materialized spirit" was shot in St. Louis, the other evening; a skeptic offering $50 for the privilege. This is the test to which the mediums have been challenged to submit their apparitions, but the result will not be a whit more satisfying of their spiritual character. The preparations made for the experiment were elaborate, and took place in the presence of a small audience, consisting of a few believers and reporters of all the St. Louis papers. The medium, W. C. Clark, stripped naked before several reporters and the skeptic, Henry Timkens then dressed himself in a white shirt, white linen trousers, and white hose, provided by Timkens. The cabinet, which had been put together expressly for the occasion, and was a simple shell of plain boards, was examined at the last moment before Clark's entrance. Timkens had brought a brace and bit, and bored holes in the floor of the cabinet, through which he passed stout cords. The medium took his seat on the floor, with his back against the wall furthest from the materialization aperture, and Timkens proceeded to cord him down; binding each leg above and below the knee; tying his hands together, drawing them down to the bottom of the box, passing the rope through and fastening it, as in all these bindings, on the outside; the body and neck were likewise tied against the end of the box. Timkens was sure after this that he shouldn't shoot the medium, at all events, and the door was shut. In a few minutes there was rapping all around the box, then a period of silence, then suspicious creaking, as of cords, and in half an hour, while the company were making horrid music, the curtain moved aside and an unearthly countenance appeared. It seemed, says a reporter, like that of a Greek statue, its features clear, distinct, and moveless as marble; it was illumined by a soft light; the eyes were wide open, but there was "no speculation" in them. The whole company had gazed at the ghostly face for some time when a friend of Timkins fired his rifle. Not the least impression was produced upon the mysterious face, which remained a few seconds before the curtain slid across and hid it. When the door was opened, several minutes after, Clark was found just as Timkens tied him, though the cords had evidently been strained a little. He was very much exhausted. The reporters say that they don't see how there could have been any imposition about this. The rifle-ball certainly went through the face, whatever it may have been, for it was found in a board on the wall behind the cabinet through which it had passed in range with the aperture at which the face appeared.

THE BLACK HILLS.

Prof. Jenney Tells What He Knows About the Gold Discoveries.

Prof. Jenney, in a late letter to the Indian Bureau from the Black Hills, says: "I found gold in placer deposits on both Spring and Rapid Creeks, from their headquarters to a point where they emerge from the Hills, and more extended prospecting and exploration shows that in localities in the valleys of these streams, gravel bars, especially those of the older formation and elevated above the present level of the streams, contain gold in quantities sufficient to yield a fair remuneration for labor economically and skillfully applied, assisted by the proper tools and mechanical appliances, and at least a moderate amount of capital or its equivalent, and such system of working as the experience of twenty-five years has taught miners of the Pacific Slope to employ. While the valuable placer deposits, as far as discovered, are by no means rich or very extensive, compared with those of California, still there is enough of the precious metal to develop the country, and stock-raising and agriculture will do the rest. In testing the deposits on Spring Creek I worked out a particularly rich spot where an old channel has been cut across by the present bed of the creek, and in ten hours' work, with a small sluice, obtained five-sixths of an ounce of gold, or about $15.50. The soldiers had previously panned out of the same place not less than two ounces of gold, and, in measuring the amount of gravel washed, I found that the total yield was at the rate of $4.00 per cubic yard, or about 3 cents to the pan, as an average for the whole thickness of deposit. It was truly said of this region that there was gold in the very roots of the grass; but it is not the gold of the gravel bars or quartz lodes; not the gold of the miner or the geologist."

No Time for Anything.

The great difficulty in this country is, that we have no time for anything. The very walk of an American shows that he is in a hurry. An Englishman buttons his coat and gloves and goes to business as deliberately as he goes to church. An American business man flies after the car struggling with his coat sleeves as he runs, plunges in headforemost, and plunges out at the end without regard to his neck. Chief among our accidents stands those which occur because people jump upon flying trains or after departing boats. To wait ten minutes is something not to be thought of. Dinner is not eaten, it is is swallowed whole; and when one comes to the desert he finds that the fruit was picked before it was ripe.

Everything hurried through, from the building of a house to the curing of a ham. The women who work on sewing machines stop before they come to the end of the seam. The dressmaker sends home your dress with basting-threads in it, and no loops to hang it up by.

There is none of the low, sure completeness of the old world about anything, and even fortunes are generally made in a hurry, and lost in the same way. If any man we know is getting rich by the slow and patient process of saving, be sure that he was not born upon this continent.

Yet people live as long here as they do anywhere else, and the days are the same length. Why is it we have no time for anything?—New York Ledger.

Scandalizing the Postoffice Department.

The regulation which prohibits postoffice employes from reading postal cards "except when they contain obscene matter" does not seem to be rigidly adhered to. A publishing house in Boston recently mailed to its subscribers a postal card on which the following was printed: "The ridiculous postal law, by which we are compelled to pay treble postage on all magazines sent to subscribers in what is known as 'Burt's Syndicate,' compels us to establish a postal service ourselves. Your magazine will be left by the tenth of the month at ——, where please call for it hereafter." The cards were not delivered, and on inquiring wherefore, the firm was told that it was "using the mail to scandalize the department." The question now arises whether postmasters have the right to stop mail matter which in their judgment "scandalizes the department." If they have the right and exercise it they will probably have to stop a large number of newspapers as soon as their claim is understood.

A Rare Piece of Surgery.

Christian Best, of Louisville, Ky., in an unsuccessful attempt to take his life on account of a love affair, lodged a bullet in his brain in February of 1874, and the lead has remained there ever since, until last week, causing him intense pain most of the time. An abscess formed on his head, which was lanced, and the doctors removed a portion of his skull. In their attempts to do this, the probe came in contact with a hard substance, which was thought to be the bone for which the surgeons were in search. This was, after careful manipulation, brought to light, and, to the great surprise of the physicians and doubtless the boundless pleasure of poor Best, it proved to be the veritable bullet which had been giving him so much trouble. This is a rare piece of surgery—one indeed which has never before been performed in America.

A MONSTROSITY.

A Child Born with the Head of a Cat and the Feet of a Chicken.

[From the Joplin (Mo.) Bulletin.]

Nature, when in a festive mood, performs many odd freaks, but the most wonderful of which we have ever heard, was the birth of a strange monstrosity about two weeks ago, and not half a dozen miles from Joplin. The circumstances were related to us by a physician whose reputation for truth and veracity cannot be questioned. At the request of the unfortunate parents, the physician's name, as well as theirs, will not at this time be made public. About 1 o'clock a. m., 23d ult., Dr. —— was summoned to attend Mrs. ——, who was momentarily expected to be confined. Arriving at the house, he found three or four women gathered there in a state of great excitement, and on inquiring the cause of their agitation, he was shown to the bedside, where he found the lady in a state of great nervous prostration. After administering the proper remedies, which succeeded in quieting her nerves, he was shown into another room, where he beheld a strange looking being, which the lady had given birth to a few minutes before his arrival. Even the doctor, who was accustomed to see strange sights, was shocked at this. Wrapped in its swaddling clothes lay the child, if child it could be called, weighing about eight pounds, with a head, whose forehead was well developed, but whose mouth, nose, eyes, ears and general countenance was the exact counterpart of a cat's, though the eyes, from their dazzling brilliancy, looked like a serpent's. The body, arms and hands were well formed and natural, and so were the legs as far down as the knees. From the knees they bore an almost exact resemblance to a leg of a chicken—the foot was as near a chicken's foot as can be imagined—and the infant would contract its toes just as a chicken would. Its head and neck were covered with a growth of fine black hair, the body and limbs looked like a chicken when plucked of its feathers; its cries were those of a cat. Other peculiarities were noticeable, but, perhaps, it is best not to make them public at this time.

It is said that this unfortunate circumstance was brought about in this wise: Some five or six years ago, while the parents resided in another State, the lady was watching a fight between a cat and a rooster in an adjoining yard. Two boys, aged ten and twelve years, respectively, were watching the contest with great interest. Finally the cat caught the chicken by the neck and instantly dispatched him, the other boy grabbed a light ax and, uplifting it, rushed toward the younger, saying: "D—n you! your cat killed my rooster, and I'll kill you." The younger brother, in attempting to escape, stumbled and fell. At this stage of the proceedings, the lady fell to the floor in a swoon, but recovered only to pass from one spasm to another, which continued for several hours, and the result was the birth of this monstrosity.

The parents wished the child put out of the way by violent means, but, after a deal of persuasion and promise of a large sum of money, the doctor was allowed to retain it, provided he would never make its parentage known, or exhibit it for two years. He has hired an old negro man and wife, who live at an out-of-the-way place on the Arkansas line, to raise the infant. Less than a week ago he heard from it; and it was growing finely. There are other interesting matters connected with this strange case, which we will lay before our readers, in a few weeks, if permitted.

Sale of a Railroad.

A striking instance of the destruction of capital was furnished yesterday in the auction sale under foreclosure of the Rockford, Rock Island and St. Louis Railroad, a line about 260 miles in length, running through one of the most fertile and thickly populated regions in Illinois. The road was built in 1868 and 1869, at an outlay, as represented by its bonded debt, of $9,000,000, and it was sold under the hammer at $1,320,000, a little over seven per cent. of its cost. It is difficult to account for this enormous shrinkage in value. There is no charge of 'extra-bad management, nor of any Credit-Mobilier scheme in the construction of the road. In spite of its apparent opportunities and advantages for securing a profitable traffic, the concern never paid any considerable amount of interest on its bonds out of its earnings, but continued to sink deeper into arrears, its total debt being something over $11,000,000 in gold; while the whole property and franchises were estimated at only about $1,000,000 in the report of the Master in Chancery. The amount bid yesterday, $1,320,000, was considered in excess of the actual value of the road, which was accepted by the purchaser subject to various claims. At the best that can be hoped, the unfortunate bondholders will never realize more than seven per cent. on their principal. It is a remarkable case of annihilation of value, and one which can only be explained upon the presumption that the road, running from north to south, and having for its termini Rockford and St. Louis, was built years before it was needed, if, indeed, such a line could ever be made profitable.—Chicago Tribune.

Wales' India Tour.

All England seems to be excited about the proposed visit of the Prince of Wales to India. If he could only travel like common folks and pay his own expenses, there would be no trouble about the matter; but this little trip of six months is expected to cost the snug sum of $710,000. It will cost $260,000 simply to convey the Prince to India and bring him back again. Two ships, the Serapis and the Osborne, will transport the royal burden and his suite. When his Royal Highness reaches India, he becomes the guest of the Viceroy, and the expenses of the rites of hospitality are reckoned at $150,000, which the people of India are expected to pay. Then the Prince is to have $300,000 for personal expenses and for presents. So that this much-talked-of tour will cost England $560,000 and India $150,000.

A frog said to be the size of a cow's head has made its appearance near Montreal, and has a voice as loud as a dog. Several unsuccessful attempts have been made to capture his frogship, but when pursued he dives into deep water and keeps quiet for several days.

The Steamship Dakota.

The new Williams & Guion steamship Dakota, sister ship to the Montana, of which extended mention has been made in these columns, arrived at this port on Saturday, on her first voyage from Liverpool. She is of the same peculiar, and withal handsome model as the Montana, 325 feet long, 45 feet beam, and 35 feet depth of hold. The Dakota can steam sixteen knots an hour, and has accommodation for 80 cabin and 1,500 steerage passengers. She is commanded by Capt. Forsyth, and sails hence on the 19th inst.

The Dakota made her initial trip across the Atlantic in less than nine days, and did not steam at full speed. Three days out she passed an immense iceberg.—N. Y. Evening Mail.

THE GREAT FAVORITE!—The popular Chill Cure of the age!! Composed of pure and simple drugs, Wilhoft's Tonic has long held the highest place in the long line of remedies for Chills and Fever. It is not only Anti-Periodic but is Anti-Panic, for it curtails the heavy expense of doctors' visits, where friendly calls are all itemized in the account current. A penny saved is a penny gained, and saving it in this way adds to health and comfort. Try Wilhoft's tonic as a certainty, and you will never regret it. WHEELOCK, FINLAY & Co., Proprietors, New Orleans.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

THE extent of country flooded in Southwest Missouri by the late storm is estimated by the Neosha Journal at 200 square miles, and the damage is variously estimated at from $500,000 to $1,000,000. Several persons are supposed to have been drowned in Newton county, and at Granby several families narrowly escaped drowning.

A GENTLEMAN in the eastern part of the State, who was about having his leg amputated on account of its being bent at right angles and stiff at the knee, heard of Johnson's Anodyne Liniment. After using it a short time his leg became straight, as is now as serviceable as the other.

A GREAT many people have asked us of late, "How do you keep your horse looking so sleek and glossy?" We tell them it's the easiest thing in the world; give Sheridan's Cavalry Condition Powders two or three times a week.

A MORMON wagon brought the first rat to Pioche, Nev., that ever made an appearance in that city. A Gentile cat nabbed the polygamous rodent and put an end to his career.

HOW TO GET A HOME. See advertisement.

SILVER TIPPED SHOES

The best investment—SILVER-TIPPED Shoes. Five cents laid out for Silver Tips adds one dollar to the worth of a pair of shoes. Also, try Wire Quilted Soles.

Bound to go because everybody wants them.

CABLE SCREW WIRE Boots and Shoes. They are durable, easy and dry. Also, try Wire Quilted Soles.

CABLE SCREW WIRE

WANTED AGENTS. Samples and Outfit free. Better than Gold. A. COULTER & CO., Chicago.

$10 to $25 per day. Send for Chromo Catalogue. J. H. BUFFORD'S SONS, Boston, Mass.

EVERY FAMILY WANTS IT. Money in it. Sold by Agents. Address M. N. LOVELL, Erie, Pa.

ON SALARY only. Agents wanted, Male and Female. Address, G. B. Christian, Marion, Ohio.

Guns Catalogue Free! Rudolph & Co., 1018 N 5th St. Louis, Mo.

AGENTS, 20 ELEGANT OIL CHROMOS, mounted, size 9x11 for $1; 140 for $5. Largest variety in the world. National Chromo Co., PHILADELPHIA.

$490 A MONTH and EXPENSES to all. Articles new, staple as flour. Samples free. C. LININGTON, NEW YORK or CHICAGO.

$250 A MONTH—Agents wanted everywhere. Business honorable and first class. Particulars sent free. Address WORTH & CO., St. Louis, Mo.

REVOLVERS! The New BUFFALO BILL REVOLVER for only $4—Immense sale. Circular free. WESTERN GUN WORKS, CHICAGO, Ill.

OPIUM and Morphine habit absolutely and speedily cured. Painless; no publicity. Send stamp for particulars. Dr. Carlton, 187 Washington St., Chicago, Ill.

CLARK'S BOOK-KEEPING. Self-instructive. Short method. Price $1.00, postpaid. Send for Circular. W. S. CLARK & CO., 143 Race Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

AGENTS WANTED for the fastest-selling BOOK ever published. Send for circulars and our extra terms to Agents. NATIONAL PUB. CO., Chicago, Ill., or St. Louis, Mo.

DOUBLE YOUR TRADE Druggists, Grocers and Dealers—Pure China and Japan Teas, in sealed packages, screw-top cans, boxes, or half chests—Grocers' prices. Send for circular. THE WELLS TEA COMPANY, 201 Fulton-st., N. Y., P. O. Box 4560.

WORK that PAYS! $150 per Month is made by Agents selling our splendid assortment of NEW Maps and Pictures. Catalogue free. E. C. BRIDGMAN, 5 Barclay St., New York, and 179 West 4th St., Cincinnati, O.

THIS Paper is printed with Ink made by G. B. Kane & Co., 121 Dearborn Street, Chicago, and for sale by us in large or small quantities.
CHICAGO NEWSPAPER UNION,
114 Monroe Street, Chicago, Ill.

FOR SALE. Chicago Suburban Lots at $100 each, $15 down and $5 monthly for balance, within a short distance of City Limits, with hourly trains and cheap fare. Send for circulars. IRA BROWN, 142 LaSalle-st., Chicago, Ill.

SOMETHING for you. Sells at sight. Our Agents coin money. We have work and money for all, men or women, boys or girls, whole or spare time. Send stamp for Catalogue. Address FRANK GLUCK, New Bedford, Mass.

PENNSYLVANIA Military Academy, Chester, Pa. Opens Sept. 8th. Civil Engineering, the Classics, English and Military Art thoroughly taught. For circulars apply to COL. THEO. HYATT, President.

Shot Guns, Rifles, Revolvers, and Sporting Goods of every description. Large discount to Clubs and Cash Buyers. Send stamp for illustrated price list. Address GREAT WESTERN SUPPLY CO. F. H. HILL, Manager, 59 Ninth-st., Pittsburgh, Pa.

WANTED AGENTS FOR THE best-selling Prize Package in the world. It contains 15 Sheets Paper, 15 Envelopes, Golden Pen, Pen Holder, Pencil, Patent Yard Measure, and a Piece of Jewelry. Single Package, with elegant Prize, post-paid, 25 cents. Circular free. BRIDE & CO., 769 Broadway, New York.

WILD LIFE IN THE FAR WEST A splendid New Illustrated Book of the author's own 30 years' life and thrilling adventures among Indians, in border wars, hunting wild animals, etc. The best and only new and complete book on the wild FAR WEST. Beats anything to sell. AGENTS WANTED. F. A. HUTCHINSON & Co., CHICAGO, ILLS.

THE MOUNTAIN MEADOW MASSACRE—A truthful account of this terrible tragedy is contained in Mr. Stenhouse's "ROCKY MOUNTAIN SAINTS," a full and complete history of the Mormons. Fully illustrated with engravings, maps, etc. This is a great book for Agents at the present time. For full particulars apply to the publishers, D. APPLETON & CO., 549 and 551 Broadway, New York.

E. L. CANFIELD, 57 LaSalle Street, Chicago, Ill., DEALER IN REAL ESTATE, Farms, Lands and Village Property. Correspondence solicited from those desiring to dispose of their real estate. Good farms wanted.

Pleasant and Profitable Employment.—"Beautiful!" "Charming!" "Oh, how lovely!" "What are they worth?" &c. Such are exclamations by those who see the large elegant new Chromos produced by the European and American Chromo Publishing Co. They are all perfect gems of art. No one can resist the temptation to buy when seeing the Chromos. It requires no talking to sell the pictures, they speak for themselves. Canvassers, Agents and ladies and gentlemen out of employment, will find this the best opening ever offered to make money. For full particulars, send stamp for confidential circular. Address F. GLEASON & CO., 738 Washington St., Boston, Mass.

HOW TO GET A HOME. IOWA LANDS, [illegible] ACRES. Rich Soil, good Climate, excellent Water, growing [illegible] [illegible]. We offer the Lands of the Sioux City and St. Paul R. R. and the McGregor and Missouri River R. R. at [illegible] per acre, on easy payments. Two years rent will buy a farm. [illegible] DAVIDSON & CALKINS, S. S. Land Office [illegible]

N. F. BURNHAM'S TURBINE WATER WHEEL Was selected, [illegible] years ago, and put to work in the Patent Office, Washington, D. C., and has proved itself to be the best. [illegible] Pamphlet free. N. F. BURNHAM, York, Pa.

SEA FOAM

THE BEST in the World. It Gives Universal Satisfaction. WONDERFUL Economy. [illegible] more bread to bbl. Flour. SAVES MILK, EGGS, &c. One year's savings will buy a new. NO MORE SOUR BREAD. Whiter, Lighter, Sweeter, Richer. EVERYBODY Praises It. The Ladies are all in Love with it. SELLS like HOT CAKES. Send at once for Circular to GEO. F. GANTZ & CO., 176 Duane St., New York.

ELASTIC TRUSS.

This new Truss is worn with perfect comfort night and day. Adapts itself to every motion of the body, retaining rupture under the hardest exercise or severest strain until permanently cured. Sold cheap by the Elastic Truss Co., NO. 683 Broadway, N. Y. City. Sent by mail. Call or send for Circular and be cured.

S. H. HARRIS' Improved Chicago FIRE and BURGLAR SAFES and VAULT DOORS are the BEST and CHEAPEST. Manufactory and Salesroom, 23 & 25 East Randolph-st., Chicago.

Great Central HOTEL, CHICAGO. Market, between Washington & Madison-sts. $2.50 PER DAY. PASSENGER ELEVATOR. J. A. WILSON, Prop'r.

You Can Make Money FAST by selling our Patent Water-Proof Clothes Line. It will not Shrink, Stretch or Rot. Nothing like it in the market. This is much better and cheaper than the White-Wire Clothes Line. AGENTS CAN COIN MONEY with it. Every family will buy one. SAMPLE FREE. Address, HOME IRON COMPANY, Box 900, Pittsburgh, Pa.

INQUIRE FOR W. A. DROWN & CO'S UMBRELLAS. PHILADELPHIA and NEW YORK.—The qualities marked with their name are confidently recommended.

MERIDEN CUTLERY COMPANY Manufacture all kinds of Table Cutlery. Exclusive makers of the "PATENT IVORY" or Celluloid Knife. The most Durable WHITE HANDLE known. Original makers of the HARD RUBBER HANDLE. Always call for "Trade Mark" MERIDEN CUTLERY CO., on the Blade. Warranted and sold by all dealers in Cutlery and by the MERIDEN CUTLERY CO., 49 Chambers Street, New York.

OPIUM Morphine Habit AND Intemperance Speedily cured by DR. BECK'S only known and sure Remedy. NO CHARGE for treatment until cured. Call on or address Dr. J. C. BECK, 112 John St., Cincinnati, O.

ELECTRICITY IS LIFE.

MEDICINE RENDERED USELESS! VOLTA'S ELECTRO BELTS and Bands are indorsed by the most eminent physicians in the world for the cure of rheumatism, neuralgia, liver complaint, dyspepsia, kidney disease, aches, pains, nervous disorders, fits, female complaints nervous and general debility, and other chronic diseases of the chest, head, liver, stomach kidneys and blood. Book with full particulars free by VOLTA BELT Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.

Selected French Burr Mill Stones Of all sizes, and superior workmanship. Portable Grinding Mills, upper or under runners, for Farm or Merchant work. Genuine Dutch Anker Bolting Cloth. Mill Picks, Corn Shellers and Cleaners, Gearing, Shafting, Pulleys, Hangers, etc.; all kinds of Mill Machinery and Millers' supplies. Send for Pamphlet. Straub Mill Company, Box 1430, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Smith Organ Co., BOSTON, MASS. These Standard Instruments Sold by Music Dealers Everywhere AGENTS WANTED IN EVERY TOWN. Sold throughout the United States on the INSTALLMENT PLAN: That is, on a System of Monthly Payments. Purchasers should ask for the SMITH AMERICAN ORGAN Catalogues and full particulars on application.

TARRANT'S SELTZER APERIENT

The King of the Body is the brain; the stomach its main support; the nerves its messengers; the bowels, the kidneys and the pores its safeguards. Indigestion creates a violent revolt among these attaches of the regal organ, and to bring them back to their duty, there is nothing like the regulating, purifying, invigorating, cooling operation of Tarrant's Effervescent Seltzer Aperient. It renovates the system and restores to health both the body and the mind. Sold by all Druggists.

EVENDEN'S WOOD JACKET CANS —FOR— SHIPPING PURPOSES. Are superior to any package ever offered to the Drug and Oil trade.
1—THEY ARE STRONGER.
2—THEY ARE LIGHTER.
3—THEY ARE NEATER.
4—THEY ARE CHEAPER.
5—THEY ARE HANDIER.
6—THEY ARE VENTED, (5 & 10s.)
One of these wood-covered cans will last longer than three common ones. Price about the same. WILSON & EVENDEN, Chicago, Ills.

The Wonders of Modern Chemistry. Sarsaparillian and Its Associates. Changes as Seen and Felt as They Daily Occur after Using a Few Doses of DR. RADWAY'S Sarsaparillian Resolvent, THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER.

1. Good spirits, disappearance of weakness, languor, melancholy; increase and hardness of flesh and muscles, etc.

2. Strength increases, appetite improves, relish for food, no more sour eructations or waterbrash, good digestion, calm and undisturbed sleep, awaken fresh and vigorous.

3. Disappearance of spots, blotches, pimples; the skin looks clear and healthy, the urine changed from its turbid and cloudy appearance to a clear sherry or amber color; water passes freely from the bladder through the urethra without pain or scalding; little or no sediment; no pain or weakness.

4. Marked diminution of quantity and frequency of involuntary weakening discharges (if afflicted that way), with certainty of permanent cure. Increased strength exhibited in the secreting glands, and functional harmony restored to the several organs.

5. Yellow tinge on the white of the eyes, and the swarthy, saffron appearance of the skin changed to a clear, lively and healthy color.

6. Those suffering from weak or ulcerated lungs or tubercles will realize great benefit in expectorating freely the tough phlegm or mucous from the lungs, air cells, bronchi or windpipe, throat or head; diminishing of the frequency of cough; general increase of strength throughout the system; stoppage of night sweats and pains and feeling of weakness around the ankles, legs, shoulders, etc.; cessation of cold and chills, sense of suffocation; hard breathing and paroxysms of cough on lying down or arising in the morning. All these distressing symptoms gradually and surely disappear.

7. As day after day the SARSAPARILLIAN is taken, new signs of returning health will appear; as the blood improves in strength and purity, disease will diminish, and all foreign and impure deposits, nodes, tumors, cancers, hard lumps, etc., be resolved away and the unsound made sound and healthy; ulcers, fever sores, syphilitic sores, chronic skin diseases gradually disappear.

8. In cases where the system has been salivated, and Mercury, Quicksilver, Corrosive Sublimate, (the principal constituent in the advertised Sarsaparillas, associated in some cases with Hyd. of Potassa) have accumulated and become deposited in the bones, joints, etc., causing caries of the bones, rickets, spinal curvatures, contortions, white swellings, varicose veins, etc., the SARSAPARILLIAN will resolve away these deposits and exterminate the virus of the disease from the system.

9. If those who are taking these medicines for the cure of Chronic, Scrofulous or Syphilitic diseases, however slow may be the cure "feel better," and find their general health improving, their flesh and weight increasing or even keeping its own, it is a sure sign that the cure is progressing. In these diseases the patient either gets better or worse—the virus of the disease is not inactive; if not arrested and driven from the blood, it will spread and continue to undermine the constitution. As soon as the SARSAPARILLIAN makes the patient "feel better," every hour you will grow better and increase in health, strength and flesh.

The great power of this remedy is in diseases that threaten death—as in Consumption of the Lungs and Tuberculous Phthisis, Scrofula, Syphiloid Diseases, Wasting, Degeneration, and Ulceration of the Kidneys, Diabetes, Stoppage of Water (instantaneous relief afforded where catheters have to be used, thus doing away with the painful operation of using these instruments), dissolving stone in the bladder, and in all cases of Inflammation of the Bladder and Kidneys, in Chronic cases of Leucorrhea and Uterine diseases.

In tumors, nodes, hard lumps and syphiloid ulcers; in dropsy and venereal sore throat, ulcers, and in tubercles of the lungs; in gout, dyspepsia, rheumatism, rickets; in mercurial deposits—it is in these terrible forms of disease, where the human body has become a complete wreck, and where every hour of existence is torture, wherein this great remedy challenges the astonishment and admiration of the sick. It is in such cases, where all the pleasures of existence appear cut off from the unfortunate, and by its wonderful, almost supernatural agency, it restores the hopeless to a new life and new existence where this great remedy stands alone in its might and power.

In the ordinary skin diseases that every one is more or less troubled with, a few doses will in most cases, and a few bottles in the more aggravated forms, work a permanent cure.

Those afflicted with chronic diseases should purchase a package containing one dozen bottles. Price $10 per dozen, or $5 per half dozen bottles, or $1 per bottle. Sold by druggists.

RADWAY'S READY RELIEF WILL AFFORD INSTANT EASE.

INFLAMMATION OF THE KIDNEYS,
INFLAMMATION OF THE BLADDER,
INFLAMMATION OF THE BOWELS,
CONGESTION OF THE LUNGS,
SORE THROAT, DIFFICULT BREATHING,
PALPITATION OF THE HEART,
HYSTERICS, CROUP, DIPHTHERIA,
CATARRH, INFLUENZA,
HEADACHE, TOOTHACHE, MUMPS,
NEURALGIA, RHEUMATISM,
COLD CHILLS, AGUE CHILLS.

The application of the READY RELIEF to the part or parts where the pain or difficulty exists will afford ease and comfort.

Twenty drops in half a tumbler of water will, in a few moments, cure CRAMPS, SPASMS, SOUR STOMACH, HEARTBURN, SICK HEADACHE, DIARRHEA, DYSENTERY, COLIC, WIND IN THE BOWELS, and all INTERNAL PAINS.

Travelers should always carry a bottle of RADWAY'S RELIEF with them. A few drops in water will prevent sickness or pains from change of water.

IT IS BETTER THAN FRENCH BRANDY OR BITTERS AS A STIMULANT.

Price 50 Cents. Sold by Druggists.

DR. RADWAY'S REGULATING PILLS

Perfectly tasteless, elegantly coated with sweet gum, purge, regulate, purify, cleanse and strengthen. RADWAY'S PILLS, for the cure of all disorders of the Stomach, Liver, Bowels, Kidneys, Bladder, Nervous Diseases, Headache, Constipation, Costiveness, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Bilious Fever, Inflammation of the Bowels, Piles and all Derangements of the Internal Viscera. Warranted to effect a positive cure. Purely Vegetable, containing no mercury, minerals, or deleterious drugs.

☞ Observe the following symptoms resulting from Disorders of the Digestive Organs:

Constipation, Inward Piles, Fullness of the Blood in the Head, Acidity of the Stomach, Nausea, Heartburn, Disgust of Food, Fullness or Weight in the Stomach, Sour Eructations, Sinking or Fluttering at the Pit of the Stomach, Swimming of the Head, Hurried and Difficult Breathing, Fluttering at the Heart, Choking or Suffocating Sensations when in a Lying Posture, Dimness of Vision, Dots or Webs before the Sight, Fever and Dull Pain in the Head, Deficiency of Perspiration, Yellowness of the Skin and Eyes, Pain in the Side, Chest, Limbs, and Sudden Flushes of Heat, Burning in the Flesh.

A few doses of RADWAY'S PILLS will free the system from all the above named disorders. Price 25 Cents per Box. SOLD BY DRUGGISTS.

Read "FALSE AND TRUE."

Send one letter-stamp to RADWAY & CO., No. 32 Warren Street, New York. Information worth thousands will be sent you.

GEO. P. ROWELL & Co.

DR RIDGE'S FOOD FOR INFANTS AND INVALIDS

Sold in cans by Druggists. 35 cents and upwards.

RATIONAL TREATMENT of all Kidney, Urinary and Liver diseases, Diabetes, Bright's disease, Dropsy, Gravel, &c., Hamilton's Buchu & Dandelion It acts directly on these organs, enabling them to remove those wastes in the blood, which cause Gravel, Bright's disease, Jaundice, Rheumatism, &c. Kress Manuf'g Co., Cin., O.

T-SPOON-FUL of HAMILTON'S BUCHU AND DANDELION, doses 3 times daily promote healthy action of the KIDNEYS, LIVER & BOWELS, thus proving the greatest Blood Purifier and Health Preserver of the age, and prevents disease by removing the cause. It has stood the test, and is the best medicine in use. Kress Manufacturing Co., Cincinnati, O.

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS, please say you saw the advertisement in this paper.

A New Store

With an entire new stock of

BOOTS & SHOES,

New STYLES of all kinds at the LOWEST PRICES at

J. E. WOODFORD'S

I have located at Auburn with a fine stock of BOOTS and SHOES, which will be sold at the Lowest Figures for Cash!

My Facilities for making CUSTOM WORK are not excelled anywhere and those favoring me—with their orders may be certain of getting the best material.

W. W. HUMES, Foreman.

To the trade, great inducements are offered in Leather, Findings, &c. Please call and examine my stock before purchasing.

STORE ESTABLISHED IN 1839.

GEO. DeWALD & CO.

Dry Goods & Notions.

Black Silks & Fine Dress Goods a Specialty.

We can make it to the interests of every person to trade with us. We buy for CASH and sell for CASH, keep the best goods, and sell at one price

ALSO AGENTS FOR THE

"Domestic" PATERNS.

The Best in Use. Send for a Catalogue.

Geo DeWald & Co
No. 1 Columbia Street
Fort Wayne Ind.,

The Pioneer

HARDWARE

Emporium!

Now full to overflowing with an Immense stock of

HEAVY AND SHELF

Hardware, Cutlery, Tin Ware.

I would call special attention to my depaptment of

HARDWARE,
FURNISHING &
BUIDERS STOCK,

n which will be found everything at the very

LOWEST PRICES,

Such as:—

OILS, PAINTS,
GLASS,
NAILS,
SASH.
DOORS, ETC

—A FIST-CLASS—

Tin-Shop,

In connection with the Hardware Store, with a skillful foreman. All kinds of Tin-ware manufactured and repaired on short notice.

JOHN L. DAVIS,

JUSTICES' BLANKS.

We have just printed a fine lot of Justices' Blans, as follows, for sale at this office:

Summons,
Subpoenas,
Garnishees,
Attachments,
Executions, &c.

AUBURN LIVERY

—AND—

SALE STABLE!

RYAN & FOR, Pros

Having on hand everything in the line of

Carriages, Buggies, Wagons, &c

y are prepared to furnish rigs at all times a nable prices. Stable east of Court House.

South Main Street

re now in full running order and all orders fo

WAGONS BUGGIES &c.

promptly attended to Special care taken in getting the best Seasoned Timber. Our prices are ery reasonable and we solicit the public to give a call and ascertain our prices.

Pittsburg, Baltimore & Ohio R.R

IS COMING.

Therefore buy your

Dry Goods,

Notions, etc., of

CHARLES KLOTZ

AT HIS

Old Stand

ON MAN STREET,

Opposite Court Square

AUBURN, INDIANA

Where he may be found at all times ready to accommodate customers and sell them such goods as they may need,

CLOTHING

Of all descriptions, and

HANDSOME SUITS

Made to Order!

THE AUBURN

Marble Works!

The undersigned beg leave to announce that they have permanently located in Auburn, and are now prepared to attend to all orders for which they are prepared to turn out in a superio manner at reasonable rates. Works west the Bak...

Monuments, Tomb-Stones, &c.,

J. A. SAWYER & CO.

C. P. Houser & Co.,

—Dealer In—

BOOKS AND STATIONERY

BEST

Window Paper

HOLLANDS and Oil Shades always on hand and CHEAP for CASH.

PICTURES,

FRAMES,

CORD.

and TASSELS, Curtain and Window Fx'rs

the Best in the Market.

—The Largest and finest assortment of—

WALL PAPER

EVER BROUGHT TO THIS MARKET.

Their store is located in Easley's new brick block North of the Court House,

AUBURN, INDIANA.

THE OLD RELIABLE.

F. E. DAVENPORT,

Corner Main and Eighth-Sts.,

—DEALER IN—

Pure Drugs and Medicines,

DYE STUFFS, PERFUMERY,

Toilet Soaps Cosmetics, Hair Oils Brushes, Combs, Toilet Mirrors and Druggists' Sundries in General.

BOOKS AND STATIONERY!

Wall and Window Paper!

Oiled, Linen and Slat Window Shades, and Shade Fixtures.

All the lattest POEMS and MISSELANIOUS BOOKS constantly on hand or ordered. Blank Books, Pocket Memorandas, Portmonies and Bill Books, WRITING PAPERS. All Styles and prices ALBUMS! ALBUMS! ALBUMS just received for the Holliday trade. Over $300,00 worth of Juvenile and Toy Books, which will be sold at panic prices. Smith's Gold Pens, warranted the best Also steel Pens, Penholders, Pencils, Ink and Ink Stands &c

SCHOOL BOOKS

Covered with best Cover ever invented Free Of Charge

Dav exclusive right to use this book cover in Auburn, and [illegible] the benefit of the same

---

GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICES AT

ABRICT'S

In American & Swiss Watches,

TOYS

FANCY GOODS,

and everything kept in a first class jewelry establishm'nt It will pay you to call and be convinced that I am selling goods cheaper than any firm in Northern Indiana.

J. Abright.

Repairing fine Watches a Specialty

Ladies Gold Watches,

Jewelry,

Clocks, Silver Ware!

GOLD PENS,

Ladies GOLD Chains,

Gents Chains,

Gold and Silver Rings,

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS,

V. A. BEARD

Grocer in Auburn, North of Court House on Seventh Street,

DEALER IN

GROCERIES and PROVISIONS

TEAS, COFFEES, SUGARS, SALT FISH.

Flour and Feed, Tubs Pails, Buckets, Sugars Boxes, Etc. A large variety

TOBACCOS AND CIGARS,

Confectioneries of all kinds, and Fancy Notions, Cove Oysters, &c. A speciality in Green and Dried Fruits, and Canned Fruits. Goods delivered inside the coporation.

RAIL ROADS.

Indianapolis Peru & Chicago R. R.

TIME TABLE No. 12—Dec. 20, 1874.

Northward.

Stations.	No. 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Indianapolis	6 30m	12 25p	3 55p	12 20
Noblesville	7 44	12 29	5 10	1 30
Tipton	8 36	1 13	5 57	2 15
Miami	9 37	1 50	6 38	2 58
Kokomo	9 11	2 26	7 01
Peru	10 0.	3 15	7 40

Southward.

Stations.	No. 2	No. 4	No. 6
Indianapolis	6 00p	4 1 a	9 55a
Noblesville	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Tipton	[illegible]	2 20	7 44
Kokomo	4 13	1 50	7 10
Miami	2 40	1 15	6 35
Peru	2 10	12 35	6 00

E. C. MURPHY, Supt. Mich. Div,
R. M. HAWLEY, Master of Tran.
C. B. ROBINSON, General Sup't,
F. P. WADE, Gen. Ticket Agt.

Lake Shore & Mich. Southern R.R

Air Line Division

On and after Sunday, Nov. 15, 1874 Passenger Trains will leave Waterloo city and other Stations as follows, daily except Sunays:

GOING WEST

	Special Ex.	Pacific Ex.	Accom'd'n
Butler	2:40 p m,	2:35 a m.	8:00 p. m
Waterloo	2:56 "	2:53 "	8:19 "
Sedan	3,05	3,00	8:30 "
Corunna	3,10	3,06	8:35 "

GOING EAST.

Corunna	2.15 pm	11,30 pm	6:50 p m
Sedan	2,20	11,35	7:02 "
Waterloo	2:28 "	11:44 "	7:11 "
Butler	2:40 "	12:01a m	7:55 "

CHAS. PAINE, Gen. Supt.
J. W. CARY, Gen Tic. Agt
J. E CURTIS, Division Su

Ft. Wayne, Muncie & Cin R. R.

Time table to take effect May 23, 1875.

Going South.

Fort Wayne	1 15 pm	2 00a m	5 35pm
Ossian	2 02		6 42
Bluffton	2 30	3 10	7 17
Keystone	3 02		7 37
Montpelier	3 12	3 41	8 06
Hartford	3 40pm	4 05	8 40
Eaton	4 02		9 06
Muncie	4 37	4 47	9 45
McCowan's	4 53	5 05
New Castle	5 30	5 40
Cam. City	6 05	6 11
Bessons	6 22	6 27
Connersville	6 35	6 40
Indianapolis	6 30	6 50
Louisville	11 10	12 45pm
Cincinnati	10 30	9 40

Going North.

Cincinnati	7 30am	1 20pm
Louisville		2 40	7 00pm
Indianapolis		7 25	4 30am
Connersville	10 32	7 35
Bessons	10 45	7 52
Cam City	11 04	8 12
New Castle	11 40	8 35
McCowans	12 15pm
Muncie	12.32	9 35	6 50am
Eaton	1 12	10 28	7 29
Hartford	1 24	10 50	7 51
Montpelier	1 10	11 17	8 32
Keystone	1 50		8 00
Bluffton	2 30	11 58	9 15
Ossian	50	11 22am	9 32
Ft. Wayne	3 45	1 15	11 00

W. W. WORTHINGTON, Supt.
ROBT. BILLIE, Gen'l Ticket Agt.

Ft. Wayne, Jackson & Sag. R. R

Short Line Between

Michigan and the South.

Time card in effect Aug. 15,—run by Chicago time

Going North.

Stations	Mail	Accom.		Exp.
Cincinnati		7 30		4
Louisville	7 30pm
Indianapolis	4 15am
Ft Wayne	6 40	4 55
Auburn	11 40	6 07
Waterloo	11 56	6 55
Summit
Pleasant Lake
Ar Angola	12 [illegible]mp	7 55	5 15	2 48
Reading	1 7	6 40	6 48	4 49
Bankers	2 12	10 05	7 10	5 01
Jonesville	2 50	10 35	7 38	5 19
Jackson	3 40	12 35	9 25	6 30
Detroit	6 30p m	3 30		10 15
Grand Rapids	9 30	6 10		5 10
Lansing	5 47			8 37
Saginaw	9 03			11 40
Bay City

Going South.

Bay City
Saginaw	7 30 a m			3 38p
Lansing	10 40			9 55
Grand Rapids	6 20		12 00	12 00
Detroit	9 50		3 30	5 40
Jackson Dep	12 40p m		6 05	9 35
Jonesville	1 55		8 00	10 25
Bankers	2 12		8 26	10 52
Reading	2 26		8 55	11 03
Ar Angola	3 25	6 15	10 20	11 52
Pleasant Lake
Waterloo	4 05	7 26		12 29a
Auburn	4 20	7 35		12 45
Auburn Junction
Fort Wayne, Arrive	5 15	9 25		1 30
Indianapolis		6 30p		6 30
Louisville		11 10		12 45p
Cincinnati		10 30		9 40a

P. B. LOOMIS, Pres't
S. K. HOOPER Gen. Ticket Ag't.

DETROIT, EEL RIVER & ILLINOIS Rail Road.

Short Line between Auburn and the East and West.

Trains run on Cleveland time. Through trains will run on the following time, in effect Sunday June 20th, 1875.

Going East. No. 7 Thro'	No. 5 Frei't	Mail	STATIONS	Going West. Mail	No. 6 W. F	No. 8 Local
3.40p	7.00a	10.50	lv Logans't ar	6.15p	7.25p	12.10p
4.08	7.30	11.08	Adamsboro.	5.55	7.00	11.43
4.30	7.55	11.23	Hoover's	5.44	6.40	11.22
4.50	8.25	11.32	Mexico	5.33	6.25	10.55
6.00	9.30	11.45	Denver.	5.23	6.00	10.25
					5.10	10.50
6.15	9.50	12.15	Chili	5.13	4.55	9.05
6.46	10.40	12.31	Roann	4.57	4.25	9.20
7.14	11.20	12.47	Laketon	4.40	3.50	8.48
7.40	12.10	12.57	N. Manchest'r	4.29	3.25	8.30
8.00	1.10p	1.06	Lib. Mills	4.19	2.40	8.10
8.25	1.40	1.16	Collamer	4.07	2.00	7.47
8.40	2.10	1.22	S. Whitley	4.02	1.50	7.40
9.05	2.35	1.33	Taylor's	3.50	12.30	7.20
9.30	2.57	1.47	Columbia city	3.38	12.05	7.00
10.15	4.10	2.03	Collin's	3.18	11. a	6.15
10.45	4.50	2.14	Churubusco	3.08	10.32	5.50
11.10	5.15	2.21	Potter's	2.57	9.53	5.20
11.30	5.35	2.31	G. R. Crossing	2.49	9.35	5.05
11.45	5.55	2.40	Cedar Creek	2.40	9.20	4.50
12.15	6.30	2.52	Aub. Juncti'n	2.26	8.50	4.20
12.30	7.10	2.58	Auburn	2.20	8.00	4.10
1.00	7.30	3.13	Mooresville	2.02	6.57	3.35
1.25a	7.55	3.25p	ar. Butler lv.	1.50	6.25	6.25

CONNECTIONS—At Logansport with Pittsburgh, Cincinnati & St Louis, Logansport, Crawfordsville & Southwestern and Toledo. Wabash & Western R. R's. At Denver with Indianapolis, Peru & Chicago Railway, for Rochester, Plymouth, LaPorte, Michigan City, Peru, Kokomo and Indianapolis At N Manchester with Cincinnati, Wabash & Mich R'y. At Columbia City with Pittsburg, Ft. W, & Chicago, for Ft Wayne Lima, Crestline and Pittsburg. At Grand Rapids crossing with Grand Rapids R'y. At Auburn Junction with Ft. Wayne Jackson & Saginaw, for Angola, Jackson and Saginaw R'y. for Butler with Lake Shore & Mich. Southern R'w. Toledo, Detroit and all eastern cities.

J. A. HUGHSTON, Gen. Ticket Agt.
A. B. SCUTRAID, Gen. Supt.

S. U. Tarney

AUBURN MEAT MARKET!

KEEPS ALWAYS ON HAND

Fresh Beef, Pork, Veal, Mutton and Bologna Sausage, clean and sweet. Prices reasonable. Main-st first door north of Miller & Casebeer's store

---

Pittsburg, Ft. W. & C. R. R.

Condensed time card, May 23, 1875.

GOING WEST.

	No. 1 Fast ex.	No. 5 Mail.	No. 7 Pac. ex.	No. 3 Night ex
Pittsburgh	2 00a.m	....	8 00a.m	2 00p.m
Rochester	3 00 "	....	9 22 "	3 15 "
Alliance	5 54 "	....	12 30p.m	5 54 "
Orrville	7 10 "	....	2 23 "	7 31 "
Mansfield	9 07 "	....	4 40 "	9 28 "
Crestl'e ar.	9 40 "	....	5 15 "	9 50 "
lv.	10 00 "	4 50a.m	5 35p.m	11 00 "
Forest	11 18 "	6 30 "	7 27 "	11 24 "
Lima	12 20p.m	8 10 "	8 45 "	12 27a.m
Ft. Wayne	2 40 "	11 20 "	11 35 "	2 55 "
Plymouth	4 40 "	2 25p.m	2 35a.m	5 25 "
Chicago	7 50 "	6 30 "	6 30 "	8 50 "

GOING EAST.

	No. 4 Night ex	No. 2 Fast ex.	No. 6 Pac. ex.	No. 8 Mail.
Chicago	9 20p.m	9 20a.m	5 35p.m	5 15a.m
Plymouth	12 53a.m	12 15p.m	9 05 "	9 26 "
Ft. Wayne	3 50 "	2 45 "	11 45 "	12 20p.m
Lima	6 15 "	4 55 "	1 [illegible]a.m	2 40 "
Forest	7 38 "	5 54 "	3 09 "	3 56 "
Crestl'e ar.	9 20 "	6 55 "	4 20 "	5 35 "
lv.	9 40 "	7 15 "	4 40 "	....
Mansfield	10 20 "	7 45 "	5 20 "	....
Orrville	12 41p.m	9 35 "	7 10 "	....
Alliance	3 05 "	11 10 "	9 00 "	....
Rochester	5 40 "	1 07a.m	11 12 "	....
Chicago	6 55 "	2 10 "	12 15p.m	....

No. 1, daily, except Monday, Nos. 2, 4, 5, 7 and 8, daily except Sunday, Nos. 3 and 6 daily.

F. R. MYERS,
General Pass, and Ticket Agent.

BALTIMORE & OHIO R. R

FROM 135 TO 6 MILES

The shortest route from the West to

Washington, Baltimore AND THE EAST.

CONDENSED TIME TABLE, THRO' TRAINS

VIA PARKERSBURG, Dec. 13, '74	Express	Fast Express,	St. Louis Ex.
Lve. Cincinnati	9 00 am	†4 30 p m	‡11 10pm
Arr. Chillicoth	12 55d n'n	s7 46	3 00 am
" Portsmouth	5 35 p m
" Marietta	5 50	12 00 n't	11 10
" Parkersburg	5 25 a	11 30	7 22
Arr. Grafton	9 45		b0 50
" Cumberland	2 40a a m	3 40 a m	11 10
" Martinsburg	4 35	b7 40	b8 20
" Harper's F'y	6 10 a m	10 15	6 10
" Staunton		10 51	6 51
" Washington	7 15	5 15 p m
" Richmond		12 40 n'n	8 50
" Baltimore	$9 05 a m	10 30p m	4 50 am
" Philadelphia	1 20 pm	1 50 a m	10 20pm
" New York	5 10	6 50 p m	2 35 am
" Boston.	5 30 a m	10 22	26 15
			4 50 pm

VIA BELLAIRE—Dec 13, 1874	Express	Fast Express,	Fast Line
Lve. Cincinnati (via Payton S. L.)	6 30 a m		3 50 p m
" Cincinnati (via P. C. & St. L.)	†7 00		†7 10 p m
" Columbus	11 55	4 00p m	12 20
Arr. Newark	1 00 p m	5 25	1 45 a m
" Zanesville	2 10	6 55	2 57
" Bellaire	5 20	10 55	6 50
" Wheeling	6 45 p m	12 50 ngt	8 00
" Grafton	9 35	3 35 a m	11 05
" Cumberland	2 40 a m	7 40	13 30 pm
" Martinsburg	4 35	10 15	5 10
" Harper's F'y	5 19 a m	10 51	9 51
" Washington	7 15	12 40 n'n	8 50
" Richmond		10 30 p m	4 50 a m
" Baltimore	9 05	1 50	10 20pm
" Philadelphia	1 20 p m	6 50	2 35 a m
" New York	7 10	10 22	†6 15
" Boston	4 50 a m		4 50 p m

B—Breakfast. ——Dinner. S—Supper. †Daily. ‡Daily ex. Sunday. §Daily ex. Monday.

PULMAN PALACE SLEEPING CARS

from Louisville, St. Louis, Cincinnati and Columbus to

WASHINGTON AND BALTIMORE!

AND

PHILADELPHIA

WITHOUT CHANGE.

Through Tickets, and further information can be obtained at all principal Ticket Offices through out the West and South West.

THOS. P. BARRY, West. pass agt., Cin.
L. M. COLE, Gen'l Ticket agt., Bal. Md
THOS. R. SHARP, Mas. of Tran.

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

IN EFFECT JUNE 1875.

GOING WEST.

STATIONS;	Exp.	Fst. Line	Fast E
Chicago Junction	7 30am	7 50pm	5 15pm
Tiffin	8 59	8 55	6 32
Fostoria	9 30	9 25	7 15
Deshler	10 33	10 32	8 25
Defiance	11 32	11 33	9 50
Auburn	1 00pm	1 05am	11 50
Auburn Junction	1 03	1 06	11 55
Garrett	1 10	1 15	12 05am
Avilla	1 39	1 34	 x
Milford Junction	2 47	2 44	......
Walkertown Junction	4 08	4 00	......
Chicago	7 30	7 30	......

GOING EAST.

Chicago	8 25pm	....	8 40am
Walkertown Junction	12 13am	....	12 17pm
Milford Junction	1 41	....	1 46
Avilla	3 01	....	3 04
Garrett	3 15	6 25am	3 20
Auburn Junction	3 33	6 34	3 48
Auburn	3 36	6 40	3 52
Defiance	5 10	8 43	5 30
Deshler	6 12	10 00	6 34
Fostoria	7 6	11 16	7 40
Tiffin	7 46	11 51	8 11
Chicago Junction	8 45	1 00pm	9 10

L. M. COLE, Gen. Tic. Agt.

J. G. FLEDDERMAN,

No. 27, East Main-St.

FORT WAYNE, IND'A

Has the larfest and finest stock of

CLOTHS, COATINGS, CHEVIOTS,

—AND—

CassimereS

in Ft. Wayne. The finest line of

Made up Clothing!

ever shown in Fort Wayne

Youths' and Children's Clothing!

Furnishing Goods, &c.

Mrchant Tailoring.

All work done in all the latest styles, promtly attended to. Go and see his largest stock of G

BRICK FOR SALE

FRITZ GROESCOP.

Having just burned a fine kiln of brick, about one hundred thousand, is now ready to supply all who want good brick at reasonable figures. Residence two miles north of Auburn on the Kutzner road; three miles south west of Waterloo.

NOTICE TO HEIRS OF PETITION TO SELL REAL ESTATE.

State of Indiana, DeKalb County, sct.

Notice is hereby given that Benjamin F. Cornelius, administrator of the estate of Asahel Bryant, deceased, has filed his petition to sell the real estate of the decedent, his personal being insufficient to pay his debts; and that said petition will be heard at the next term of the circuit court of said county.

J. R. LANNING, Clerk

July 22.

Recorder's Off

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Devoted to the Interests of the Democratic Party and to the Collection of Local and General News.

Volume 5. AUBURN, DeKALB COUNTY INDIANA, SEPT. 9, 1875. Number 35.

The Auburn Weekly Courier

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY, BY

TOM. C. MAYS.

One Year,........$1. | Six Months,......$1.

Advertising Rates.

Space.	1m.	3m.	6 m.	1 y.
One Square......	2 50	5 00	7 00	12 00
¼ Column......	6 00	12 00	18 00	40 00
½ Column......	10 00	18 00	30 00	50 00
One Column......	15 00	40 00	50 00	100 00

Legal Notices 10 cents per line, first insertion, 5 cents each insertion thereafter. Business cards Five Dollars.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

Penfield & Moody.

ATTORNEYS AT LAW. Office under Odd Fellow's Hall north of Court House, Auburn, Ind. Practice in all Courts of the State.

ROSE & HARTMAN,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW. Have complete abstracts of the records of DeKalb County. Office in Case's Block, Auburn, Indiana.

H. C. PETERSON.

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public. Office over Betts' hardware store, Auburn, Ind.

WOODHULL and CROXTON,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW Angola, Indiana. Practice in Steuben and DeKalb Counties.

RICKEL & TEFFT.

ATTORNEYS AT LAW, Auburn, Ind. Office in the Court House.
J. W. RICKEL. R. DEXTER TEFFT.

A. F. PINCHIN

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public. Butler, DeKalb Co., Ind. Insurance and real estate business promptly attended to.

McBRIDE and MORLAN

ATTORNEYS AT LAW, Waterloo, Indiana. Will practice in any of the courts of the State. Office over O. T. Clark's Dry Goods store.

GUY PLUM.

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public. Office in the Court House. Special attention paid to the collection of claims. Also agent for Home Insurance Company.

CHAS. A. O. McCLELLAN.

ATTORNEY AT LAW, Waterloo, Indiana. Will practice in the Courts of DeKalb and Steuben counties. Liberal Advances Made on all First-class Claims left in my hands for collection.

COURTS IN STEUB'N CO.	COURTS IN DEKALB CO.
1st Monday in February	3rd Monday in Feb.
4th Monday in April	2nd Monday in May
1st Monday in September	3rd Monday in Sep.
4th Monday in November	2nd Monday in Dec

PHYSICIANS.

DR. J. A. COWAN,

PHYSICIAN & SURGEON, Auburn, Ind. Office on Main street, over Central Grocery.

W. S. ALLEN.

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON, Office over McQuiston's store, Cool's Block, North of Court House.

J. J. LITTLEFIELD,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON. Office over Miller and Camber's Store, Auburn, Indiana.

DR. J. M. SHUTT.

ELECTIC PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON, will attend to all calls belonging to the medical profession, promptly. Possessing all the benefits that can be derived from forty-two years experience of one of the most active and successful Physicians in the western part of this and several years of personal experience enables me to treat all famous of diseases with the best of success, "without the use of calomel. My medicines are purely vegetable, and therefore, I am able to treat all kinds of diseases without producing any bad effect, upon the nervous system," and will break the worst case of ague, without the use of quinine. No matter what your disease is, give me a call, for I am prepared to handle all, at my office on fifth street, between Main and Cedar Auburn Indiana.

HOTELS.

SWINEFORD HOUSE

CORNER MAIN AND NINTH STREETS, opposite the Court House. S. C. SWINEFORD, Pro.

AVELINE HOUSE,

MILLER & MORITZ, Prop's., corner Calhoun & Berry Sts., Fort Wayne, Ind.

AMERICAN HOUSE

AT FORT WAYNE, only $2 a day. Good accommodations for traveling men.
C. B. OAKLEY, Prop'r.

WOOD'S HOTELL.

NOS. 34 & 36 EAST WASHINGTON STREET, opp Field, Leiter, & Co's retail dry goods store; and adjoining D. B. Fisk's wholesale millinery store, between State street & Wabash Avenue, Chicago.
O SANDS, Prop'r.
$2.00 per day. GEO. S. PALMER, Clerk.

MISCELLANEOUS.

H. Wartenslaben

PAINTER and paper hanger. House painting a specialty. Residence corner Williams and Cedar street.

Medical Society.

OF DeKALB COUNTY, meets at Auburn, Ind., the 2nd Tuesday in each month.
J. H. FORD, Pres't.
J. A. COWAN, Sec'y.

Joseph H. Stophlet.

ARCHITECT. Office over No. 17 Court street 1st door north of Empire Line office, Ft. Wayne, Ind. Drawings and specifications furnished for all classes of buildings, at reasonable rates.

PRINTING.

COURIER OFFICE.

JOB PRINTING neatly executed. Fine work a specialty. Office in Odd Fellows' Building 2nd floor.

John M. Miller,

—Manufacturer and Dealer in

FINE FURNITURE,

CHAIRS

Husk & Hair Matrasses

50 and 52 East Main Street,
FORT WAYNE, IND.

Thomas Baldock

Building Contractor

AUBURN INDIANA.

will be ready at all times with an experienced corps of workmen to erect Houses, Barns, and do carpenter and joiner work of all kinds at reasonable rates.

J. J. VanAuken,

COUNTY SURVEYOR

Will attend promptly to all surveying. Office with Rose & Hartman, Auburn Indiana. Persons requesting work by letter, should give township and section.

THE PHŒNIX TILE MACHINE.

It is well adapted to the wants of Tile Makers. It is [illegible] driven by the power of one horse. It delivers tile at the two opposite ends of the machine. It may be converted into a single delivery machine. It has a simple and ready manner of taking up the wear on the plunger head and sides of the chamber, thus preventing all leakage of mud, and adding years of service to the machine. It makes from [illegible] rods of tile per day. It is fully warranted. It may readily be adapted to Steam Power. [illegible]

CHANDLER & TAYLOR
Patentees and Manufacturers,
Indianapolis, Ind.

SEND FOR CIRCULARS.

THE AUBURN

Marble Works!

The undersigned beg leave to announce that they have permanently located in Auburn, and are now prepared to attend to all orders for which they are prepared to turn out in a superior manner at reasonable rates. Works west the Depot.

Monuments, Tomb-Stones, &c.,

J. A. SAWYER & CO.

JAS. CLIFFORD,

WATERLOO, IND.

Keeps constantly on hand the best and choicest brands of all kinds of

Wines and Liquors,

Cigars, Tobacco &c.

He also has, in connection with the above a first-class

BILLIARD HALL.

To our citizens and the traveling public, we would say that this is the popular resort at Waterloo. First door south of the railroad.

BAKER BROS.

PROPRIETORS OF Auburn Bakery!

AND

EATING HOUSE

Fresh baked Pies, Cakes etc, always on hand. Good lunches served at all hours.

BAKER BROS.

A NEW PLACE

TO GET A

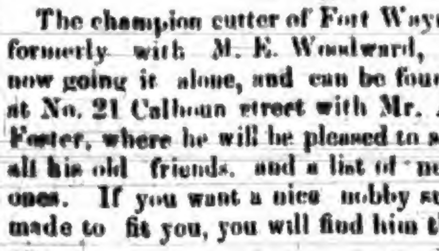
Nobby Suit!

TOM WILLIAMS,

The champion cutter of Fort Wayne formerly with M. E. Woodward, is now going it alone, and can be found at No. 21 Calhoun street with Mr. A. Foster, where he will be pleased to see all his old friends, and a list of new ones. If you want a nice nobby suit made to fit you, you will find him the an.

AUBURN LIVERY

—AND—



SALE STABLE!

RYAN & FOR, Pros

Having on hand everything in the line of

Carriages, Buggies, Wagons, etc

y are prepared to furnish rigs at all times a nable prices. Stable east of Court House.

South Main Street

re now in full running order and all orders fo

WAGONS BUGGIES &c.

promptly attended to. Special care taken in getting the best Seasoned Timber. Our prices are very reasonable and we solicit the public to give a call and ascertain our prices.

The Auburn

WAGONS

Made from the Best Materials,

And constructed with all the late improvements—The new and extensive

WAGON SHOPS

—OF—

J. W. SHAFFER

Work of every description done promptly, and warrranted. Blacksmithing attended to in good style.

CARPETS,

FOR 1875.

Are offered at prices lower than have prevailed for many years. Our stock fo all grades is large, well selected and we invite inspection. We have added to our stock and the line is unusually fair.

Wall Paper

Terrys,
Reps.
Gimps,
Fringes and a general line of Upholstery Goods with Shades,
Lace Curtains,
Oil Cloths,
and Mattings
in great variety. The manufacture of Lambrequins a specialty.

ELLSWORTH, ANDREW & CO,

26 East Berry street

The Pioneer

HARDWARE

Emporium!

Now full to overflowing with an immense stock of

HEAVY AND SHELF

Hardwaer, Cutlery, Tin Ware,

I would call special attention to my depatment of

HARDWARE,
FURNISHING &
BUIDERS STOCK,

in which will be found everything at the very

LOWEST PRICES,

Such as:—

OILS, PAINTS,
GLASS,
NAILS,
SASH.
DOORS, ETC

—A FIST-CLASS—

Tin-Shop,

In connection with the Hardware Store, with a skillful foreman. All kinds of Tin-ware manufactured and repaired on short notice.

JOHN L. DAVIS,

Tom Ochiltree's Story.

No. II.

Col. Tom Ochiltree of Texas may fairly be considered a national celebrity. The Colonel, sometimes called the Red Ranger of the Rio Grande, has traveled the world over, hob-nobbed with Dickens, flattered Bulwer, dined with Victor Hugo, and was only checked in his lion hunting career by savage cynicle old Carlyle, who returned his card, saying "there were to many of these d—d Americans lying around loose, already in Europe." But as the misanthropic philosopher had said the same thing to some other great Americans, Emerson Longfellow, or some other fellow, the Colonel bottled his wrath, muffled the impending shrick of the Bird of Freedom, and went away whistling.

This attrition with genius, and the polish derived from long attendance at the most polite courts of Europe, has given the Colonel a fund of information and an eloquent power of narration which fifty years ago, would have made him the delight of the Irish Bar, the rival of Curran, in wit, and the superior of Barrington, in humor and narrative power.

"A fellow of infinite jest, and most excellent humor."

That had to came in somewhere, logically, so I gave it a paragraph to itself.

During the late civil war, when brother sought brother's blood, and the incendiary torch way applied to the Southern hearthstone by Lincoln's hirelings, Col. Ochiltree, with that devotion which has ever characterized the braves of his tribe when their country called, served on the staff of Gen. Longstreet. That distinguished officer, knowing the Colonel's diplomatic tact and power to win the hearts of the people, sent him on a secret mission of great importance through the heart of Georgia, a region which General Sherman afterwards passed through with less secrecy and even more "eclat". The Colonel, traveling on horseback, arrived one night at a lonely residence in the pine woods about dusk, and reining up his charger, politely inquired if he could be accommodated with bed and supper, adding that he was a Confederated officer on duty. That was a password to any Southern family's heart, and he was cordially made welcome. After stabling and rubbing down his weary war-horse with his own hands, as becomes a good cavalier, he wended his way to the house where he found the family to consist of an old lady, a daughter, and two young lads. The father and the older son were off to the wars.

After supper the conversation turned, of course, on the war. The Colonel told of great battles, the splendid victories won over the Yankees by that Marlborough in military genius and Bayard in honor, Robert Lee, and described the appearance of a battle-field after the roar of conflict had ceased—the heaps of slain, lying in rows, like fence-rails thrown down, every man with his face to the foe—stern, implacable, and brave The little drumer boy was there, of course, thirteen years of age, faired-haired, his mother's darling, dead, with his little kettledrum clutched in his tiny hands, red with his own blood; his childish face cruelly broken by a bullet which struck him down just as he beat the last charge which sent Stonewall Jackson's men, with a wild yell, on to glory and victory.

"But he died for his country, ladies; and the good God above will give him a tenderer care than even a mother's, for the life he gave his country," says the Colonel, with deep pathos.

By this time he had the ladies of the house pretty well worked up as may be imagined. The mother sat with clasped hands and tearful eyes, praying for her Randolph, while the young girl sobbed aloud:

"Oh, Colonel, did you ever meet my brother Randolph, in the army?"

How foolish these good sisters and sweethearts. They fancy every one must know 'their' Randolph.

"In what rigiment is his, Miss?" inquired the Colonel.

"The Sixth Georgia, Company B. Captain Berrien."

"My God!" exclaimed the Colonel, with sudden emotion and a glare of sorrow at the two women. "Was poor Randolph a brother of yours?"

"Was he?" almost shrieked the frightened girl, with a look of terror and apprehension clouding her face; "Was he? He is my brother. Oh, don't say, Colonle, anything has happened to my darling brother."

The Colonel rose from his chair with his handkerchief to his eyes, and walked out on the balcony to compose himself. Returning, he took both the old lady's hands in his own, and looking the weeping woman sadly in the face, said:

"Madam he died in these arms."

The scene, of course, was heart-rending. Mother and sister fainted. After being restored, and they became calmer the Colonel in obedience to their request described the sad event. Randolph had won the admiration of his comrades and the confidence of his superior officers by almost superhuman courage, and a judgment marvelous in one so young.—At Gaine's Mills he had single-handed, strayed the progress of a Yankee rigiment across a bridge over the Chikahominy. The Colonel had directed it should be held until reinforcements arrived. Reinforcements arrived but too late for poor randolph, who, shot through the breast, still maintained his trust, and when Col. Ochiltree came up at the head of the relief column, the gallant lad fell expiring into his arms, saying, "Tell my mother and sister."

By this time the young son, having chopped the wood, fed the pigs, and made things strait for the night, came into the room carrying an armful of kindlings for the morning fires. The mother exclaimed, "Calhoun, Randolph's dead."

Down went the wood, and Calhoun swelled the cry. It was worse than an Irish keen. Calhoun recovered fast, and turning to the colonel says:

"What mout your name be, stranger?"

The Colonel allowed it might be Ochiltree.

"What," exclaimed the boy, brightening up, "Tom Ochiltree, of Texas?"

The Colonel admitted it, with a glow of commendable pride suffusing his martial features at finding his fame had permeated that solituded.

"Too-ral, wake snakes," said Calhoun as he coolly commenced to pick up the wood. "Don't cry mommy, Randolph ain't dead."

The Colonel's reputation for romancing, or as he himself calls it, throwing in a rainbow, had preceded him, but it is only due to him to say that he told the story on himself.

◆

Senator Morton went over into Ohio a few days ago, and told some pretty big ones, and as usual touched up the war business. This would have been all right for the Republicans had not Senator McDonald followed him. But "Old Joe" puncturied that war buble of Morton's, in the following concise manner:

Morton tells you that the Democratic party has not forgiven and will not trust any man who was active in the suppression of the rebelion. That I may not misquote him upon this subject I will read you what he says upon this point. [Reads] "If you would be instructed inquire to-day who are the leaders of the Democratic party. Not one who took part in suppressing the rebellion; not one. Their motto is, 'Let no such man be trusted.' If any soldier who fought for the Union imagines that he has obtained or can passibly obtain the confidence of the Democratic party, let him be undecided.' This language uttered in the State of Ohio, where you have a Gen. Thomas Ewing, (cheers) a Gen. C. Morgan (applause) a Durbin Ward, (great applause,) and other distinguished men, leaders in the Democratic party; this too, uttered by one who while acting as governor of Indiana attached his sign manual to the commissions of such men as Generals Manson, Gen. Slake and Col. J. W. Williams; and there are more in Indiana than those I have named. The brave old Gen. Manson was leading the Indiana boys to the front, in 1864, when the Democratic party of this State placed him upon the State ticket as a co-colleague with myself in the gubertatorial contest, and he remained at the front when the administration, under the influence of the Republican leaders of Indiana, was paroling Republican soilders to come home and vote against him. (Continuous applatise.) Since that time he has headed the State-ticket in my State, and has been elected to congress and stands to-day one of the most trusted leaders of the Democratic party. Gen. Slack, also, a gallant sailor, was appointed to the office of circuit Judge by Governor Hendricks, and has been reelected by the people and to-day stands in the full confidence and fellowship with the Democracy of my State. Col. Williams was placed two years ago upon the Congressional ticket for the State at large with such a colleague as Michael D. Kerr. (Applauded:) Of course these facts are known to Gov. Morton. Now, what can I say when he will come here almost within hearing distance of his own State, and with these facts around him, and make such declarations!"

◆

Halleck, a clerk in the treasury department at Wasington; Brown, a gambler, and Ottman a saloon keeper, have been arrested for the theft of $47,000 from the treasury some time since—the myterious disappearance of which so puzzled old father Spinner. Halleck has made a full confession and it is thought that $40,000 of the money will be recovered. All three are in jail.

A Practical Father.

Boating is no doubt a good thing when judiciously indulged in, but an old gentleman residing on Congress street, whose son was a member of one of the winning crew at the Toledo regatta, has rather conservative notions concerning the muscular art. On sunday the following conversation took place bewteen the father and son.

Father—My boy, how much did you weigh when you began to train for this regatta?

Son—One hundred and sixty pounds.

Father—And you pulled at one hundred and forty-five pounds, didn't you?

Son—Yes, I worked down to that beautifully.

Father—And how much is that badge worth that you won down there?

Son—Don't know exactly, but I think I heard some of the fellows say they cost twenty-seven dollars apiece.

Father—Um! twenty-seven dollars.—Now then, if you'll work off the same amount of flesh next season by sawing wood I'll give you a badge worth just four times as much as that one, and an order on my tailor for the best suit of clothes you can find.

The young gentleman intimated that he guessed he'd take a little row down to the boat house.

◆

A DOCTOR'T DIARY.—A pocked-diary picked up in the street of a neighboring city, would seem to indicate, from the following choice extracts, that the owner was a medical man:

"Kase 230. Mary An Perkins. Bisnes washwoman. Sickness in her bed. Fisik sum blue pills a scaperilik, age 51. Ped me one dollar, 1 kuarter bogus. Mind get good kuarter and make her take mo fisik.

Kase 231. Tummes Krink. Bisnes, airishman. Lives with Pady Malony what keeps a dray. Sickness, dig in ribs and two black eyes. Fisik to drink my mixture twict a day of a sasiprily here and jellop, and fish ile, with sasifedity to make it taste fisiky. Rubed his face with kart grese liniment, aged 30 years of age. Drinked the mixture and wudn't pay me bekase it tasted nasty, but the mixter'll work his innards I reckon.

Kase 232. Old Misses Roggs. Ain got no bisnes, but plenty of money. Sickness awl a humbug. Give her sum of my celebrated 'Dipseflorikon,' which she sed drank like cold tee—which it was too.—Must put sunthin in it to make her feel sik and bad. The old woman has got the roks."—[Sanitarian.

◆

A grand concert will be given by our Catholic friends of this place at their church, Sept., 16th, at 8 o'clock P. M. A cordial invitation is extended to all wishing to embrace this opportunity, as it will be a first-class concert. Prof. John B. Young, of Fort Wayne, will make the occasion a pleasant one. Tickets of admission can be had at the post-office, and at the Bank of Auburn, at the low price of 25c. Reserved seats 40c.

◆

Mr. Samuel Grosh having purchase the interest of his partner, Mr. Tarney in the Lower Flouring Mill, will here after conduct it alone. He is manufacturing a splendid brand of flour and keeps mill feed constantly on hand. Mr Grnish, is an experienced miller, will assist in turning out flour that cannot fail to suit everybody. tf

◆

The Journal of Applied Chemestry tells the churches how they can make fermented wine out of gooseberries,—thus easing their conscience on the temperance question, even if it does banish the "juce of the grape," so emphatically required.

FARM FOR SALE

The undersigned offers his fine farm of

120 ACRES

well improved, with good house and barn, splendid orchard, about 40 acres timbered, for sale.—Farm is located in Franklin-tp., 5 miles northwest of Butler, 4½ miles northeast of Waterloo, Terms reasonable

F. SATTISON.

The republican papers in Ohio were circulating the hoax that Gov. Allen was about to withdraw from the gubernatorial contest. "The wish father to the thought."

◆

The Ft. Wayne Sentinel is authority for saying that Senator Morton has ordered the manufacture of a pair of wooden legs for doing the honors of the White House, provided he is elected.

WANTED.

Five Hundred Cords of Elm Stave Bolts, is wanted immediately at the Stave Factory of Beugnot & Co., for which they will pay the cash. tf.

Reports come from Illinois that gold has been found in Macon and Cass counties of that State in paying quantities.

Give us a call when you want good a job.

Try the COURIER.

"EARN" AND "LEARN."

A young man stood at a joiner's bench,
  Plying chisel and maul away,
And cheerily cried to his wife, "Dear wench!
  I've labored enough to-day;
Lay down your knitting and sit by my side—
  I'll sing you a song to-night,
While the shadows are falling at eventide,
  And the log on the hearth grows bright.
There's a time to work and a time to earn,
A time to rest and a time to learn.

"'Tis not a song of wassail or war—
  A song of women or wine;
A goodlier song, I trow, by far,
  Shall be this song of mine—
For him that labors with muscle and bone,
  Or labors with brain and skill—
For the queen that sits on her stately throne,
  Or the lass that works at the mill—
A song the goodwill of all to earn—
For every man and woman to learn.

"Men and women, from cradle to bier,
  All have need to earn;
Rich and poor, and peasant and peer,
  All have need to learn.
The poor man earns his daily bread,
  The rich man power and name;
The statesman to stand on a nation's [illegible],
  The scholar, a glorious fame;
Each child of Adam was born to earn—
This is the lesson we all must learn.

"None so dull that he may not know
  More than he knew before;
None so wise that he may forego
  To learn yet something more—
To learn all his duty to God above,
  To self, to kind below;
Better to do, think, help and love—
  Wiser and better to grow.
'Tis the son of our queen that bids us earn;
He may be our king who bids us learn."

ALWAYS TOO LATE.

Priscilla, who often wondered why it had been necessary to name her after her dead and gone great-grand-aunt, was growing up into a fine young woman. She was sixteen, and tall at that.

Her cousin, Tomlinson Perrybrook, then five-and-twenty, made up his mind to marry her, if he could get her, since, in his estimation, she was the prettiest, best, and sweetest little darling living. But she was only sixteen. He would say nothing yet. He would wait until she was seventeen, and then speak.

Then Tomlinson Perrybrook, having made up his mind, quietly went back to his occupation, which was what he called "improving his place."

He laid out new paths, planted new trees, improved the garden, and gave the parlor a fine frescoed wall and ceiling, a new Persian carpet, and velvet furniture.

Meanwhile he said nothing to Priscilla, having not the slightest doubt that she liked him, and would say "Yes" whenever he said "Will you?"

Priscilla did like him. She was secretly in love with him, and very much hurt that he did not make love to her. Every one in the house knew this, except Tomlinson himself. He was waiting for the seventeenth birthday. Before that time Priscilla went to London to pay a visit. There, at the house of a fashionable relative, she met a fashionable young man, who fell desperately in love with her.

In her heart, Priscilla wished that her Cousin Tomlinson had been in his place; but, as far as she knew, her Cousin Tomlinson had no more than cousinly affection for her. Consequently, feeling that her youth was waning with the approach of her seventeenth birthday, she accepted her first offer, and came home to tell her father and mother what she had done.

They, in turn, told Cousin Tomlinson, who, having contrived to hide his emotion, escaped from them as soon as possible, and went home to shut himself up in the frescoed parlor he had furnished for unconscious Priscilla, and cry like a girl.

Life seemed at an end to the young man now this horrible thing had happened to him, and he wished he had asked the girl to decide his fate for him before she left for her peaceful country home for the temptations of the city. Even then, however, he could not quite see how he could have done this, since he had resolved to wait until the seventeenth birthday was past.

There was nothing for it now but to get over his misery as well as he could, and he congratulated his cousin in a very pretty choice of words, and went away to distract his mind by travel. He resolved not to return until the end of November. This was in May. In June his aunt, Priscilla's mother, wrote to him. One of the paragraphs of her letter contained a tremendous piece of news. It was this:

"I am sorry to tell you, dear nephew, that Priscilla has quarrelled with the gentleman she was to marry, and that the affair is quite broken off, so that she has even given him back his ring. Of course such events are unpleasant, though we are glad to keep our girl a little longer. Mr. Dinwiddie was silly enough to be jealous without reason."

Priscilla was free again. Cousin Tomlinson's spirits arose. The frescoed parlor arose before his imagination, with Priscilla on one side of the grate and he upon the other in twin arm-chairs. He saw her driving the little pony pheaton he intended to buy for her down the broad path leading from the house to the gate, and he was just three days' distance from home, and a woman whose heart has just been hurt is always readier to accept a salve for it in the shape of a new lover, as we all know.

It would be well for him to return home and exhibit himself as Priscilla's adorer in this moment of maiden humiliation. But this young man liked to carry out the plans he had formed for himself. He had said that he would travel until November, and it seemed proper to do so; consequently, he proceeded on his journey.

Now, Priscilla, who had not loved her lover, but only been pleased by his love for her, had thought a good deal about Tomlinson, whose woe-begone face had given her a notion of the truth the day he called to bid her adieu, before he set off upon his journey, and she had actually purposely made her lover quarrel with her, and broken off the match, on his account.

"Tell my cousin, mamma," she said, and mamma had written. But when Tomlinson made no response, Priscilla grew angry; when he did not return, or even write to her, angrier yet.

At last, when June, July, August, September, and October had passed, she began to confess that she was an idiot to throw away a true heart for one that had no love for her, and that Tomlinson had worn a long face for some other reason than her engagement.

The consequence was that when exactly on the 23d of November, as he had resolved in the first place, Tomlinson returned home, and to lose no time hurried to his aunt's, as soon as he had made himself presentable, with the firm intention of proposing to Priscilla that very evening, he stood aghast at the door of the parlor before a very pretty picture that dissolved before his gaze. His Cousin Priscilla with a gentleman's arm around her waist. He retreated to his aunt.

"Who is that?" he asked, pointing to the parlor.

"Mr. Dinwiddie," said his aunt. "Only a lovers' quarrel after all," said the aunt, smilingly, and quite unaware of Tomlinson's anguish. "They've made it up beautifully."

"They seem to have done so," said Tomlinson, remembering the dissolving view.

He went away shortly after, and left his compliments for his cousin.

Miss Priscilla married Mr. Dinwiddie this time, and really grew to love him; [illegible] her Cousin Tomlinson, erect as a poplar and prim as a Quaker, which was exceedingly to her taste.

His little pink mouth and narrow, well-drawn eye-brows were very, very pretty. His hair was always parted properly. There was no dust on his coat. She sometimes contrasted him with her husband, and wished that Heaven had given her such a man; but no one ever guessed it, and the poor young lady seemed very much ashamed of the silly secret hidden in her breast.

She was in all respects a good wife, and resolutely set herself to banishing her cousin's image from her breast. She believed herself to have succeeded when ten years had gone by, but Tomlinson was still a bachelor, and still kept the room he secretly called Priscilla's parlor as a sort of secret hiding-place, where he went at times very late in the evening with a flat candlestick to bewail his single-blessedness and indulge in retrospection.

But a change was at hand. Mr. Dinwiddie, who was fond of horses, bought a fine-spirited one in the morning, and rode him out in the afternoon.

That night Priscilla kept dinner waiting long—indeed forever; no one ever ate that dinner, for in the ghostly moonlight, as she sat at her window, she saw her husband's horse rush past like some black phantom without his rider.

The poor fellow lay three miles back upon the lonely road, prone on his face, stone dead.

And so Priscilla at twenty-seven was a widow.

As time passed, and her grief softened, she certainly looked very well in her cap. Tomlinson thought so, so did Mr. Wincher, who settled her husband's property.

This time Tomlinson made up his mind promptly. Of course it would be indecorous to intrude upon a widow's grief with words of love. He would wait a year for decency, and one month over for good measure.

The year and one month would bring them to December 24th, 18—. He wrote the date down in his note-book, and counted the days as a girl does those between the present and her first ball.

Meanwhile he made no sign and kept away, and Mr. Wincher, being Mrs. Dinwiddie's legal gentleman, found it necessary to call—on business—very often.

The year tottered away. The month after it waxed and waned. Once or twice when they met by chance something in Tomlinson's eyes had revived old fancies in the widow's heart. But at the end of the year she remembered he had not so much as called once. She gave a little sigh, and looked in the glass.

"Twenty-seven is not seventeen," she said, as she pinned on her first white collar, and tied on a little white crape bow. "I'm sure, at least, that Tomlinson used to think me very pretty."

Just then a servant came to tell her that Mr. Wincher had called about a piece of land.

On the 24th of December, 18—, at half-past seven in the evening, as he had decided, Tomlinson Perrybrook, just 36, dressed himself with much care, and observed, with some annoyance, that a bald spot as big as a shilling interfered with the straightness of the back parting of his hair. Buttoning a pair of pearl-colored kid gloves, he betook himself to his cousin's residence. He rang the bell, the girl answered it, and took in his card. She returned to beg that he would wait a few moments. Tomlinson waited half an hour. Then a jubilant gentleman came flying out of the parlor, and shook hands with him.

It was Mr. Wincher, whom he knew very well.

"We'll go in and see her in a moment, my dear fellow," he said, in a whisper. "She's a little agitated. Ladies always are on such occasions. We'll leave her to herself awhile."

"Occasions—what occasions?" asked Tomlinson.

"You haven't suspected me, then?" Wincher said. "She has just promised to make me happy by becoming Mrs. Wincher."

Again Tomlinson, with a woeful aspect, uttered congratulations.

Again Mrs. Dinwiddie gave a little sigh and drove away a little thought.

She was married to Mr. Wincher in the spring, and there was no sudden dissolution of the marriage, for Mr. Wincher lived thirty years, which, for a gentleman who was 48 on his wedding day, was not doing so badly.

He died of something with an exceedingly long name; and having been very kind indeed to his wife, she shed a great many bitter tears, and felt very, very lonely.

She was 58 now, and had no children.

The second widow's cap and crape veil shaded the face of an elderly woman, but she had grown round and had a bloom in her cheeks, few gray hairs, and a splendid set of false teeth.

When she had been a widow six months, Tomlinson Perrybrook, an old batchelor of 67, utterly bald and woefully thin, sat over his solitary fire.

"It is queer how old fancies hang on," he said to himself. "I suppose I could have any beautiful young girl I chose to propose to," (an old batchelor always believes that, and the older he grows and the uglier he gets the stronger this strange hallucination becomes). "But I am fonder of Priscilla than any of them.

"She is changed, of course; not pretty now, and I suppose other men think her an old woman; but she's a darling yet, and if I can get her to marry a third time, and come here and live in the old house I made ready for her when she was 17, the end of my life will be its happiest, and, God bless her! I'll try my best to make her happy too."

Then he went to his desk and looked at a bit of ribbon she had dropped from her hair the day she was first a bride, and that he had saved all these years, and kissed it; and taking his cane (he had already had a twinge or two of rheumatism) went to call upon his cousin Priscilla.

Portly and rosy, she sat knitting by her fire, neatly clad in widow's weeds. Opposite her sat a stout gentleman, perhaps two or three years her junior.

"This is my next-door neighbor, Mr. Packer, Cousin Tomlinson," she said.

Tomlinson bowed—so did Mr. P.

"Any relative of Mrs. Wincher's I'm delighted to know, I'm sure," he said, with great [illegible].

It is etiquette for one caller to leave soon after the arrival of another. Cousin Tomlinson knew this, but perhaps Mr. Packer did not. At all events he sat and sat, and talked and talked, until Tomlinson, rising, said:

"Cousin Priscilla, will you see me to the door? I've a word to say to you."

She smiled and went into the hall with him. He drew the door shut.

"He pays long calls, I see," he said, indicating Mr. Packer.

Something like a blush mounted to Priscilla's face.

"Perhaps he thinks he has a right to do so," she said. "I'm glad you called to-night; for when a woman of my age takes such a step, she doesn't like to break it to her friends herself. You must do it for me, cousin. You must mention that I am engaged to Mr. Packer. He is a worthy man, and respects me very much, and has fourteen motherless children, and our estates join, and I am lonesome—oh, so lonesome! And when people at our time of life do this sort of thing, what is the use of delay? I shall, of course, not marry before the year is out; but then——"

Poor Tomlinson, he sat down on a hall chair, and excused the act by speaking of his late attack of rheumatism. Then he added, apropos of her late words:

"Yes, yes, delays are dangerous!"

And then he said, very softly:

"Well, well! Good-by, Cousin Priscilla! Good-by!"

And he held her hand longer than he had ever before, and for the last time in his life, and went down the long gravel-path. She looked after him.

"He's an old man now, God bless him," she said; "but how trim and straight he is."

Then the thought that had haunted all her life flashed into her heart for an instant, and warmed it back to youth.

"Ah, no fool like an old fool," she said, and went back to Mr. Packer, who had meanwhile refreshed himself with a short nap, with his head against the paper, and burst out of it with confused apologies.

Mr. Packer outlived his wife, and Mr. Tomlinson died before she did. He never made up his mind about her any more; but I often wonder how such things are fixed in the other world.

The Reason of the Incessant Rains.

Recently arrived steamers report that the Atlantic is full of ice, and this explains the mystery of the incessant rains from which the Eastern seaboard, and indeed the whole country, has been suffering for more weeks than it is a pleasant thing to think of. It is probable that there has been a mild winter and early spring in the Arctic regions. This has caused open waters, which have borne into the Atlantic an uncommon quantity of ice. This great mass of ice, drifting into lower latitudes, is rapidly melting, and the vapors arising from it are drawn to the land and yield us the too abundant rain-storms which have caused floods and more or less injury to the crops. The land, gathering more heat from the ocean, and giving it out also more freely, heats and rarifies the air upon it, and the vapors arising from the melted ice rush in to fill the vacuum thus constantly created by the summer heats.

If this explanation is correct we may have a continuation of the rains for some time to come,—until the masses of ice are melted, or until their remains drift further south. It is not a pleasant thing to think that the disagreeable weather of the last few weeks may continue for some weeks to come. But we may look for a charming autumn, and this will reward us for the sufferings of the most disagreeable summer of many years.—New York Herald.

To Promote Longevity.

The Pall Mall Gazette mentions that a "veritable centenarian" is, according to a correspondent of the Scotsman, to be found at the Aberfeldy railway station, in the shape of a peddler named Peter Feggans, who the other day attained his 105th year. The habits of Mr. Feggans are an interesting study to those who desire to promote longevity. For sixty years he has never worn a coat, believing that a waistcoat with sleeves suits him better. He gave up smoking about the same time that he gave up his coat, and took to chewing, which he has found a more healthful practice than smoking. Feggans is not a teetotaller; he drinks half a glass of whisky three or four times each day, and has done so for the last half century. A report was circulated a short time ago that he was dead. This annoyed Feggans, who, when informed of the reproach, indignantly remarked, "Yes; but I knowed it was a lie whenever I heerd it."

Collided with a Spirit.

On the Boulevard des Italiens in Paris, the other day, a well-dressed man was observed walking alone, but with his left arm extended and curved as though he had given it to a lady. He looked around with an irritated air and suddenly addressed a person who had in passing almost grazed him. "Look out, you blockhead, or you will hurt my wife." "How, your wife?" said the other, astonished. "Yes, my wife," was the reply, accompanied by a blow. On being arrested and taken to the station house the assailant explained that he was a spiritualist, and that his wife, who died ten years ago, was in the habit of taking a walk with him every day. The passer-by had collided with the spirit.

The Columbus Journal, describing an Ohio politician, says: "He is an honest man by profession, and he earns his bread by the sweat of his jaw."

UNDRESSED BY MACHINERY.

A Disagreeable Incident in the Experience of a Michigan Miller.

Monday night Mr. A. D. Cornell, a miller employed in the Ætna Mills, met with a severe accident, and one that only his strength and presence of mind prevented from being a tragedy. About midnight something about the extreme peak of the mill began to squeak, and Mr. Cornell went up to oil it. It was in a low part of the room, well under the eaves, and in applying the oil he was obliged to reach over a shaft. While stooping down a key on the shaft became caught in the breast of his shirt, and about the time he was through his job had taken up all the slack and held him down and was drawing him tighter. [illegible] thrown over the shaft, his light went out, and then in the [illegible] braced himself, and let the shaft slowly tear off his clothes by strips, and then his drawers [illegible] not performed either. It would not do for him to struggle much, as [illegible] was [illegible] of [illegible] seize on a member and draw him into its destructive embrace. Gradually his clothes parted company with him, causing severe pain by the roughness of their taking off, and at last he felt that he was no longer in the toils. Slowly he drew himself back, and wiping the big drops from his brow, brought out there by the agonizing strain of body and mind during the trying ordeal, he started to grope his way down stairs, for he knew that cries of help would be unavailing and would not be heard below. On hands and knees he made his way, narrowly missing falling to the floor below, his outstretched hand going over the aperture, warning him of the danger and at the same time serving to tell him where he was. He crawled along, under shafting and around posts, feeling his way along till he reached the head of the stairs, when he staggered to his feet and got down to the ground floor and appeared to his fellow-workmen, pale and trembling, clad in the light and airy costume of a shirt collar and the waistband of his pants. His first remark was, "Well, boys, I've stopped that squeaking." Explanations were soon made, and he was sent home. Dr. McLaughlin was called in and found that he had dislocated his shoulder, and the inside of his breast and arm were denuded of the skin and badly inflamed by contact with the revolving shaft. These, with the shock, were the only injuries received and were soon dressed, and he was put to bed to recuperate. Last night he was feeling much better. So tightly were his clothes woven around the shaft that it was found necessary to shut down the mill to remove them. They look as if they had gone through a threshing machine, so shredded and tattered are they. It was a narrow escape from lasting injury, perhaps from death, and Mr. Cornell escaped cheaply.—Jackson (Mich.) Patriot.

Sure Cure for Sunstroke and Apoplexy.

A New York physician writes: "I believe sunstroke and apoplexy can be cured almost surely if taken in any kind of time. First, rub powerfully on the back and neck, making horizontal and downward movements. This draws the blood away from the front brain and vitalizes the involuntary nerves. Second, while rubbing, call for cold water immediately, which apply to the face and to the hair on the top and side of the head. Third, call for a bucket of water as hot as can be borne, and pour it by dipperfuls on the back of the head and neck for several minutes. The effect will be wonderful for vitalizing the medulla oblongata; it vitalizes the whole body, and the patient will generally start into full conscious life in a very short time. Persons of large active brains and weak bodies will be more liable to sunstroke or apoplexy, and should wear light-colored cool hats in summer, wet the hair occasionally, and if they feel a brain pressure coming on, should rub briskly on the back of the neck, and put cold water on the front and top of the head. These remarks, if heeded, will prevent great suffering. I have never known this method to fail."

Wasn't Fooling.

A boy in St. Louis was recently presented with a jack-knife, with which, boy-like, he cut and marked everything that came in his way, from the dining-room table to the cat's tail. A few days after he had become the happy possessor of the knife, his father was startled by seeing two men bringing home the young hopeful in a very dilapidated condition. His face seemed to be cut and bruised and covered with blood. The father, of course, was very much alarmed, and inquired of the boy who hit him. "Nothing didn't hit me, sir," the boy answered, between his sobs; "it was only a mule kicked me in the eye." "A mule kicked you in the eye, eh?" replied the father. "Haven't I told you a thousand times or more that mules and gunpowder were not fit things for boys to fool with? What were you doing to the mule?" "I wasn't foolin' with him at all," said the boy; "I was only tryin' to cut my name on his back."

In a Bad Fix.

A citizen who was walking along the Jackson road the other day, says the Vicksburg Herald, saw a man up a tree near the roadside, and, halting, he inquired:

"What are you doing up there?"

The man made no reply, and the citizen continued:

"What's the cause of your being up there?"

At that moment a woman rose up from the fence-corner, rested a club on the fence, and remarked:

"I'm the cause, stranger, and, if you'll wait till he comes down, you'll see the worst field of carnage around here that ever laid out doors!"

The citizen drove on, and she turned to the man up the tree and continued:

"Polhemus, I can't climb, and you know it; but if you'll drop down here for two minutes, I'll give you a quit-claim deed of the farm!"

Beecher on His Muscle.

Here is an anecdote of Beecher, told by himself: "Once upon a time" a clergyman visited him, and insulted him and his wife in his own parlor. In an instant he (Mr. Beecher) arose, grasped the clergyman by the back of the neck, shoved him to the front door and kicked him out of it. The man's face, as he unexpectedly found himself in Mr. Beecher's grasp, and his look of terror as he was about being pitched down the front steps, were so ludicrous that, as Mr. Beecher returned to the parlor, his anger vanished, and the whole affair seemed so ludicrous that he "rolled upon the floor like jelly, and laughed till he almost cried."

A TRAMP FOR LIFE.

How an Old Mountaineer Walked Nine Days in the Snow.

A correspondent says: The recent walk of Prof. Brooks calls to my mind a case, on account of which was never published [illegible], of a real feat of walking endurance, for life, by a [illegible], and no swindle or brag is connected with this case.

During the winter of 1864, a party headed by Bacon, the Elk City expressman, started from Lewiston, Nez Perces county, Indian Territory, for Elk City, a spur of the Rocky Mountains, whose altitude is not less than 12,000 feet, through dense timber.

Leaving Silverwood's mountain house, no stopping place existed until 26 miles were made over mountains to Newsome creek. In the party of some seven or eight was one Richard Widan, a Norwegian, well known to the writer of this article. He had the ill-luck to break a snowshoe, and was advised to go back to Silverwood's, as the party could not stop in the snow. Believing he could go back by the plainly marked trail in the snow and blazes on the trees for a guide, the others pushed on and safely arrived at Elk City, and no fears were expressed regarding the fate of Wildan, till seven days later a new party crossed the mountain, and then it was ascertained that Wildan had not gone back.

Immediately a party was mustered, and on snow shoes started to find the lost man. His trail was at last found and followed by the hardy pioneers in search of him. On the ninth day he was found, still on foot, walking in a circle on the hard-beaten trail of his own making, his feet badly frozen, yet inclosed in the sleeves of his coat, which he had wrapped about them.

The thermometer showed nine degrees below zero, a great part of the time he was struggling on his feet for life. The party finding him saw that he was thoroughly crazy. On accosting him and asking if he was not hungry, he at once replied, no. He was fed on pork and beans at a house not far back. Not a trace could be found where he had sat down, not a sign of where he could have taken a rest—in fact, with the cold never less than four degrees below zero, he never had walked again had he rested. He was brought to Newsome Creek station on the ninth night of this wild, cold, unfed, cheerless walk in deep snow—tenderly cared for by Wall & Beard, keepers of the Newsome Creek House, and eventually recovered so as to do a good season's work with a pick and shovel, in a mining camp called Ebon Water station, sixteen miles below the Elk City camp. Mr. Wildan was a man of about 108 pounds weight, short and stout.

That this article is true in every respect is easily to be proven. Loyal P. Brown, Deputy United States Tax Collector, now of Mount Idaho, or Mr. Charles Frush, a clerk now in the land office of the Interior Department, can vouch for the general truthfulness of this slight sketch. Here is a case where seven days of real walking took place without any refreshment or selection of apparel—without cheer of any kind, and all for life. Let fools prance on boards, stages, etc. Dick Wildan's feat will overshadow anything they ever can do. I hope some representative man from Idaho will see this article and give the particulars more fully than is here done, although this is a simple account in all truth given. Wildan, and those who found him and cared for him, should live in history, and I hope he is still on his feet, as strong as when found.

A Wise Child.

While we are in the dining-room we must not forget the little miss of five or six summers, who unconsciously perpetrated one of the best jokes of the season. Wine was being passed around, and she was invited to take some, but declined.

"Why do you not take wine with your dinner, Minnie?" asked a gentleman who sat near her.

"Tause I doesn't like it."

"But take a little then, my child, for your stomach's sake," he urged.

"I ain't dot no tommik's ache!" indignantly responded the little miss in the most emphatic manner. As both question and answer were distinctly heard by those around, every one burst into laughter, which so frightened the little maid that she cried.

The same little miss upon being one day bantered because she was a girl, and having represented to her that boys were much more useful creatures in the world, although they were usually more trouble, was asked if she did not wish she were a boy. "No, indeed," she quietly remarked; "I'se worse now than most boys."—Saratoga Correspondence New York Mail.

Ants Recognizing their Relations.

Huber, the younger, one day took an ants' nest to populate one of those glass contrivances which he used for making his observations, and which consisted of a sort of glass bell placed over the nest. He set at liberty one part of the ants, which fixed themselves at the foot of a neighboring chestnut tree. The rest were kept during four months in the apparatus, and at the end of this Huber moved the whole into the garden, and a few ants managed to escape. Having met their old companions, who still lived at the foot of the chestnut tree, they recognized them. They were seen, in fact, all of them, to gesticulate, to caress each other mutually with their antennæ, to take each other by the mandibles as if to embrace in token of joy, and they re-entered the nest together at the foot of the chestnut tree. Very soon they came in a crowd to look for the other ants under the bell, and in a few hours our observer's apparatus was completely evacuated by the prisoners.—Home and School.

A Mississippi Judge couldn't convince a lawyer that a certain decision was constitutional until after he had knocked him down.

AN EARLY POEM BY EDGAR ALLAN POE.

(The following lines, never before published, were written in the album of a Baltimore lady by Edgar A. Poe, at the age of 18, shortly after he left West Point in [illegible]. They are given in fac-simile in Scribner for September.)

ALONE.

From childhood's hour I have not been
As others were—I have not seen
As others saw—I could not bring
My passions from a common spring.
From the same source I have not taken
My sorrow—I could not awaken
My heart to joy at the same tone—
And all I loved—I loved alone.
Then—in my childhood—in the dawn
Of a most stormy life—was drawn
From ev'ry depth of good and ill
The mystery which binds me still.
From the torrent or the fountain—
From the red cliff of the mountain—
From the sun that round me roll'd
In its autumn tint of gold—
From the lightning in the sky
As it passed me flying by—
From the thunder and the storm—
And the cloud that took the form
(When the rest of Heaven was blue)
Of a demon in my view.

"Pith and Point."

Some of the [illegible].

A gallery of art—A lady's dressing case.

An ingrain carpet—A polite conductor.

The reign of terror—A mouse in a sewing circle.

Naturalists have decided that no hen can lay over 600 eggs. Therefore, when you have checked off to that figure, you can't sell her for a spring chicken.

He was a mean man who, when asked for his money or his life, requested the burglar to take the life of his wife, as she could not possibly live if he died, but he could worry along without her.

The deacon of one of the colored Baptist churches in Virginia asked somebody "where they could find a first-rate new minister?" His friend replied: "I thought you had one." "So we have," was the answer, "but we have just sent him in his resignation."

A boy in the suburbs tried to ascertain the other day the soundness of the proverb, "Birds of a feather flock together." He plucked the old rooster down to a single tail-feather, and it didn't flock at all, but went and hid under the barn. Thus is another old saw smashed.

"Another Beecher trial!" ejaculated the sick man, starting up in bed with a look of pain and weariness upon his face. "Another trial!" repeated his wife, gloomily. "Well, Mary," he replied, falling back on his pillow, "you can discharge the doctor. I guess I want to die."—Brooklyn Argus.

The St. Louis Times gives the following specimen of the style of wedding notices which G. Washington Childs, A. M., would furnish:

Take away his little latch key,
  He will need cigars no more;
Life is real, life is earnest,
  From this sad and fatal hour,
    Gone to meet his mother-in-law.

A Somerset father has brought in an accusation against the School Board, which has been reported to the Philological Society: "Dhaiv abin, zur, an ataich mei bwoi-ee vur ta spul tae'-nteez wai a p' shra-ur!" (They hane beer, sir, and taught my boy to spell taters (potatoes) with a p, sure.)

During one of the numerous showers a Detroit lawyer walked four blocks through the "drips" to reach the office of a Justice of the Peace and say: "It rains upon the justice well's the unjust." His Honor removed the pipe from his mouth, looked out of the window, and replied: "Grass needs it." And the lawyer went out and kicked at a newsboy to ease his burden of madness.—Free Press.

How a "Corner" Is Managed.

A, B and C combine their means and credits to make a corner in July. They therefore quietly begin in May to buy corn to be delivered in July. They gradually buy all the corn in the market, and, of necessity, must buy all that arrives, paying for the latter whatever is demanded. When a purchase is thus made, seller and buyer put up a margin, either in cash, or certificate, or deposit. As soon as the corner becomes known, there is an effort made to break it. The settlement takes place at 3 p. m. on the last day of the month. Those who have sold corn to the corner and have no corn to deliver, pay the difference between the price at which they sold, and the ruling price at the close of business on the last day. As the corner has thus purchased sometimes five times as much corn as there is to be had, amounting to millions of bushels, and the price has advanced ten cents a bushel, the profit is enormous. As the prices advance, additional margins are required. Those failing to put up the additional margins, lose what they have already put up. The anti-corner factions seek to so crowd sales on the corner as to exhaust its capital and credits, and render it unable to buy at the advance prices. Thus, the corner is compelled to sell out in the country and buy for cash all the corn in sight, to prevent having it rushed into Chicago at the last moment. These are exciting times. Corn at such a moment may be purchased of the corner for shipment, from six to fifteen cents a bushel less than it is selling for on 'Change for delivery during the month. Each time there is a corner, there is a crash, sometimes of the corner men, and at other times of the anti-corner men. The whole proceedings are of such questionable honesty, that the Legislature of Illinois has declared the operation of a corner to be a felony. It is nevertheless still practiced. Corners are attempted in wheat, oats, barley, pork, and lard, and some of them have been quite successful in a pecuniary way. It requires nerve, audacity, and money, or credit. Recently a bank here went into a corner, issuing its certificates of deposit for margins; the corner failed, and so did the bank, and the certificates have never been paid.—J. W. Sheahan on "Chicago;" Scribner for September.

With a most cadaverous countenance and crape on his hat, he waited at a Paris station for the coffin to be lifted out of the train; it was heavy, for it was lined with lead. And while the bystanders looked on with sympathy and wondered if it was his wife, his mother or his father, the well-informed police invited him into a private room, where they opened the coffin and emptied it of its load of Brussels lace.

WILLIAM MORGAN.

Thurlow Weed's Reminiscences of the Old Time Tragedy—Story of the Morgan Murder—A Double Identification of a Drowned Man—Was it Morgan or Monroe?

I did not personally know William Morgan, who was for more than two months writing his book in a house adjoining my residence, at Rochester. When applied to by Mr. Dyer, my next door neighbor, where Morgan boarded, to print the book purporting to disclose the secrets of Masonry, I declined to do so, believing that a man who had taken an oath to keep a secret had no right to disclose it. Although not a Free Mason, I had entertained favorable opinions of an institution to which Washington, Franklin and Lafayette belonged. [illegible] my refusal to print his book Morgan removed to Batavia, where he made the acquaintance of D. C. Miller, editor of the Advocate, also a Mason, who became his publisher. I pass briefly over a series of facts which were judicially established, embracing the arrest of Morgan, his conveyance to and confinement in the county jail at Canandaigua, from which he was released and conveyed by night in close carriages through Rochester, Clarkson, and along the Ridge road to Fort Niagara, in the magazine of which he was confined. While thus confined a Knight Templar encampment was installed at Lewiston. When at supper, the zeal of the Templars having been aroused by speeches and wine, Colonel William King, of Lockport, invited four men (Whitney, Howard, Chubbuck and Garside) from their seats at the banqueting table into an adjoining apartment, where he informed them that he had an order from the Grand Master (De Witt Clinton), the execution of which required their assistance. This party was then driven to Niagara, reaching the fort a little before 12 o'clock.

Upon entering the magazine Colonel King informed Morgan that his friends had completed their arrangements for his removal to a residence upon a farm in Canada. Morgan walked with them to the wharf, where a boat was held in readiness for them by Elisha Adams, an invalid soldier, into which the party passed and rowed away, Adams remaining to warn the boat off by signal if, on its return, any alarm had been given. It was nearly 2 o'clock in the morning when the boat came back, having, as Adams expressed it, lost one man, only five of the six being on board when the boat returned. When the boat reached a point where the Niagara river empties into Lake Ontario, a rope being wound around Morgan's body, to either end of which a sinker was attached, he was thrown overboard. It is due to the memory of Governor Clinton to say that Colonel King had no such order, and no authority to make use of his name. It is proper, also, to add that none of these men survive. John Whitney, of Rochester, whom I knew well, related all the circumstances connected with the last act in that tragedy to me at Albany in 1831, in the presence of Simeon B. Jewett, of Clarkson, and Samuel Barton, of Lewiston.

In October, 1827, more than a year after the abduction of Morgan, a body drifted on shore near a small creek which entered into Lake Ontario. A coroner's inquest was held, and a verdict rendered that it was the body of an unknown person. The coroner wrote out a minute description of the body, and published it, along with the finding of the jury, in an Orleans county newspaper. That description attracting the attention of persons well acquainted with Morgan, excited considerable interest. The widow and several intimate friends of Morgan seemed so confident that it was his body that the committee appointed to investigate the abduction determined to hold another inquest, of which public notice was given. On the day appointed some sixty or seventy people assembled at the mouth of Oak Orchard creek, where the body of the unknown man was interred. Before opening the grave Mrs. Morgan and Dr. Strong described certain marks upon Morgan's body, by means of which it could be identified. When the rude coffin was opened the body it contained disclosed the peculiarities described, and after a deliberate examination, the jurors declared it unanimously the body of William Morgan. From this verdict no one present dissented, and for a week or ten days the question seemed to be settled.

Later in October there came a report that the body declared to be that of William Morgan was claimed by his family to be that of Timothy Monroe, a Canadian, who was swept in a small boat over Niagara Falls eleven days previous to the time that the body was washed ashore at the mouth of Oak Orchard creek. The remains in the mean time had been taken by Mrs. Morgan to Batavia. A third inquest was now to be held for the purpose of establishing the claim of Mrs. Monroe. A large concourse of people were in attendance. Mrs. Monroe appeared, and gave a description of her husband's person, and of the clothing in which he left home on the morning of the day he was drowned. Previous to her examination Bates Cooke, chairman of the Morgan Investigating Committee, examined the clothes taken from the body, and carefully preserved by the Coroner, with great minuteness. This enabled him to test the accuracy of Mrs. Monroe's knowledge and memory.

Neither Mrs. Monroe nor any person sympathizing with her or interested in the identifiation of the body as that of Monroe had access to it or had seen any of the wearing apparal of the diseased. And yet Mrs. Monroe not only gave a general description of each garment, but underwent a rigid cross-examination by Mr. Cooke of more than hour, in which she described with singular accuracy every rent and patch found in each garment. She indicated buttons she had sewed on the pantaloons to replace those which did not match the others. She also described one stocking that had been darned with yarn of a different color. In a word, her description of the clothing was so accurate in every particular as to leave no doubt that each article had been under her special care. But, wonderfully accurate as she had been on this point, she was most strangely wrong in her description of the body, Monroe being at least three inches taller than the corpse. She described her husband's hair and whiskers as course and black, adding that his hair had been cut quite short a few days before he was drowned, while that upon the head of the deceased was long, silky and of a chestnut color. Monroe's son confirmed his mother's testimony relating both to the clothes and the body. No attempt was made to impeach either, nor was there any doubt that Monroe had been drowned, as alleged. It was difficult to reconcile these conflicting statements. Mrs. Monroe was as clearly right about the clothes as she was wrong about the body found in them.

The third inquest resulted in finding that the body previously adjudged to be Morgan's was that of Timothy Monroe. There were other circumstances connected with the disappearance of both Morgan and Monroe, assuming that both had been drowned in Lake Ontario, calculated to complicate the questions of identity. The body was found at Oak Orchard creek, a full year after Morgan's disappearance; of course it could not have been drifting about that length of time. It was known, however, that Morgan was weighed heavily when thrown into the lake; and, two months before that body was found, the mouth of the river and that part of the lake where was supposed to have been thrown overboard had been thoroughly raked. In this way it was supposed that the body was released from its weight, risen to the surface and drifted to Oak Orchard creek. Monroe was drowned on the 25th or 27th of September. The body at Oak Orchard creek was found on the 8th day of October, leaving but eleven or twelve days to drift a distance of forty miles, where it was found. It was understood that drowned persons remain several days under water. It was ascertained by meteorological records that, during the interval between Monroe's death and the finding of the body at Oak Orchard creek, the wind blew most of the time up the lake. Now, as there is no current in Lake Ontario, and as objects float with rather than against the wind, it seemed improbable that the body found should be that of Monroe; while, on the other hand, it seemed equally improbable that a man drowned in the latter part of September, 1826, could have been found in a tolerable state of preservation in October, 1827. So that there were irreconcilable facts and circumstances connected with this strange history.

Mrs. Morgan and the intimate friends of Morgan described marks upon his person before seeing that body, which left no doubt in the minds of all present that it was the remains of her husband. Strangely enough, however, she repudiated every article of clothing found upon the body. And yet Mrs. Monroe, who came from Canada, readily described every article, garment after garment, with minute and startling accuracy. While, therefore, up to the time that Mrs. Monroe appeared, there were no grounds for discrediting the correctness of the second inquest, yet after the third inquest had been held at Batavia there was a strong reaction in public opinion. Although the gentlemen associated with me in the investigation were still strongly of the opinion that the body was that of William Morgan, my own previously clear and strong convictions were a good deal disturbed. Nor can I now, after nearly fifty years' anxious inquiry and reflection, say that I am satisfied that it was or was not the body of William Morgan.

The discrepancies about hair and beard between Mrs. Morgan and Mrs. Monroe, after the conclusion of the third or Batavia inquest, induced those who claimed the body to be that of Timothy Monroe to say that the hair was pulled out and the whiskers shaven off to make it resemble Morgan. That could only have been done in the presence of between sixty and seventy persons, some of whom were Democrats and others Freemasons, and yet all must have seen and consented to the fraud. The last inquest was held only a few days before the election. No other question entered into the canvass. The excitement was greater than I had previously or have since witnessed.—Thurlow Weed, in New York Herald.

Locust Eating.

We read in the Bible, that the food of John the Baptist was "locusts and wild honey." A great deal of pains has been taken by commentators to prove that it was not locusts, but the fruit of the wild carob-tree, that John ate with the honey that he found in the wilderness where he lived.

But I do not thing that any one who has traveled in Arabia, or found rest and shelter in an Arab's tent, and been a guest at his hospitable board, would thus judge of what the Bible means by "locusts." In Turkey, Persia, Arabia, and all that region of country, locusts—genuine, bona-fide locusts—have been eaten from remote antiquity; and to this day, they form an important item of the food used by the common people. The Bedouins collect them in immense quantities, and, after a partial drying, pack them in scks. Then at their convenience, when the season for collecting is over, they steam the insects in close vessels over a hot fire, winnow them in broad baskets to remove the legs and wings, and then pulverize between flat stones. When wanted for food, they are only moistened with a little water, just as the Arabs do in preparing their date-flour, and then the repast is all ready.

The Turks eat locusts in the same way, and by very many other Orientals they are regarded as the choicest of dainties.

The Moors boil or fry them, seasoning with salt, pepper, and vinegar; and they pronounce them even superior to quails and pigeons. The Hottentots make from the eggs a delicious soup; they also roast the locusts over a slow fire, and eat them as we do caramels or bonbons. Dr. Livingstone says he used them at first from necessity, when deprived of all other food; but, strange to say, grew daily more fond of them, and at last preferred them to shrimps or oysters."—St. Nicholas for September.

French Thrift.

In Paris nothing is lost. It is related that a rich American in that gay city discovered that an unpleasant-looking fellow followed him every day from morning till night. He became uneasy and diplomatic. Inquiry was made whether the man who watched him was connected with the police. As a result of much negotiation the unpleasant person was arrested, and proved to be a gatherer of butts of cigars. The rich American always smoked famous brands, and only smoked them half up, and it paid to follow him.

Crime in New York and London.

The New York World is impelled, by the rapid growth of crime in New York, to institute comparisons between the efficiency of the police departments of that city and London:

The Metropolitan police district of London comprises a population of 3,600,000 upon an area of 688 square miles, and has 9,883 policemen for 6,708 miles of patrol posts, or two policemen for every 3 miles of patrol posts. The New York police district, extending over 25 square miles and embracing a population of 1,200,000, has 450 miles of patrol posts, and about 2,500 policemen, or 16 policemen to every three miles of patrol posts. In London and New York in 1872 (the latest year of which the statistics are accessible) the following was the number of principal crimes:

	London.	New York.
Burglaries	398	450
Robberies	62	36
Grand larcenies	498	1,530
Assaults	9,639	7,323
Petty larcenies	7,213	3,904

Taking into view the difference of area and population, it is seen that New York is far ahead of London in respect to all crimes, and that more burglaries and grand larcenies were actually committed in New York than in London. In the whole catalogue of crimes there are none which the police are more depended on to keep in check; and in the last report of the Commissioner of Police for the metropolis of London he says that the number of burglaries in 1872 was the smallest in any year since 1865, and of robberies and attempts to rob the number was the smallest since 1864. In New York the testimony is that those crimes are increasing. The police reports for 1867, 1868 and 1872 are the only ones at hand, and that for 1872 is the latest published. From these we compile the following table:

	1867.	1868.	1872.
Burglaries	136	144	459
Grand larcenies	288	333	1,569
Assaults	2,586	3,027	7,323
Robberies	41	20	36
Petty larcenies	1,102	1,149	5.506

These police statistics, to be sure, are highly untrustworthy, but they are the only ones available for the comparison. Since 1872 it is notorious that crimes of the above character have greatly increased; and indeed there never was a time in the city's history when it was easier for a thief to rob a citizen.

Potato-Bugs Not Poisonous.

The following extract from the proceedings of the Detroit Science Association will be found interesting to our agricultural readers:

Are potato bugs poisonous? This interesting question was very fully discussed in a paper by Professors A. R. Grote and Adolph Kayser, they maintaining the negative in opposition to widely-circulated statements in the newspapers and in the "Seventh Report on the Insects of Missouri," by Professor C. V. Riley. It has been claimed that people handling the bugs, or exposed to the fumes of them when boiled or burnt, have been poisoned thereby. To test the question, a quantity of bugs were collected and stewed down, one quart of bugs being thus reduced to four ounces of a liquid, which was perfectly clear and had an offensive smell. It was alkaline, containing free ammonia and its carbonate. An equal quantity of the bugs was digested in pure alcohol and a tincture thus obtained, not disagreeable in smell, and having an acid reaction. Unhappy frogs were the subjects of the experiment. About a half of a cubic centimeter of liquid and tincture was introduced separately into their stomachs. No bad effects followed; the frogs retained the doses and hopped about as merrily as ever. Then two other frogs had the liquid and tincture separately introduced into their veins by a hypodermic syringe. The distilled liquid thus introduced did no harm. The tincture injected killed the frog, but this circumstance was regarded by the experimenters as merely a consequence of the acid it contained. A similar injection of the acid secreted by mosquitoes and other insects coagulates the blood. But potato bugs have no organs by which to make such acid secretions. The conclusion in the light of these experiments is, that the potato bug is not a poisonous insect. The evil effects that have been noted, if not due to oxide of carbon formed in burning a quantity of bugs must be attributed to the incidental presence of Paris green. This fact should be a new incentive to care in the use of that mineral poison.

Barnum and Donaldson.

To the Editor of the New York Sun:

SIR: I understand you recently published a rumor that Prof. Donaldson was not provided with a suitable balloon, and that he made his last ascension reluctantly.

I wish in reply to such reports to say once for all that Prof. Donaldson had entire control of the hippodrome balloon department. He ordered new ones and superintended the making of them, and unlimited means were always at his command to procure whatever he thought needful or desirable. Neither myself nor my managers ever ordered him to make an ascension, that being left to his discretion.

He made his last ascension from Chicago in remarkably fine spirits, as is apparent from the humorous notes found on the body of his companion, young Grimwood, written while sailing above Lake Michigan. These notes prove that no danger was apprehended. The balloon was strong and nearly new, and was chosen by Prof. Donaldson from several entirely new ones, which were kept on hand.

The fatal termination of the trip was entirely due to the sudden and terrific gale, and the turbulent state of the lake, which rendered useless the life-preservers with which Donaldson and his companion were provided. My managers and myself deeply deplore the loss of Prof. Donaldson, but we have the satisfaction of knowing that nothing was spared to render all his ascensions safe and agreeable. P. T. BARNUM.

JUST after the Scientific Association had adjourned sine die a broad-shouldered fellow with a neck as big as a nail-keg and fists like mauls entered the hall and inquired of the janitor: "Where's those fellows as brags about their science?" "Gone home," was the reply. "Gone home, eh? Blow the luck, but if I hadn't missed the boat I'd been here in time to toe a mark with the best man in the crowd! Wonder if Joe Coburn trained any of 'em?" The janitor wasn't able to say.—Detroit Free Press.

Assassination of the President of Ecuador.

A correspondent of the Star and Herald, of Panama, writing from Guayaquil on the 10th inst., gives the following story of the assassination of the President of Ecuador: "The whole city was thrown into great excitement by the news of the assassination of Garcia Moreno, in his palace at Quito, by an officer, Capt. Ravo, whom he had displaced, aided by two young men of Quito called Cornejo. Ravo first struck the President over the head with a machite, and was instantly run through by the sentry, who fired his piece at the same time, killing the assassin immediately. The two young men, after Ravo had struck the President, fired on the latter with their revolvers. The President fell on his face, mortally wounded, and has since died. The two young men escaped. The people cannot realize the President's death, and are afraid to attempt anything. Great alarm has seized on all foreigners, and strong reasons exist for believing there will be a massacre of foreign priests."

FROM a paper published by an Austrian officer it appears that the British empire contains a larger population than the empires of Russia, Austria, Italy, France and Germany combined. The total population of these is only 223,000,000, while that of Great Britain is 290,000,000. The calculation is made in reference to the war power.

NOW IS THE TIME.—It is always the right time to do a good act, and every man with a family should regard himself short of his duty until his home is endowed with a Wilson shuttle sewing machine. Let it be understood that this admirable machine captured the prize medal and diploma of honor at the Vienna exposition in 1873, and has everywhere demonstrated its superiority over all other machines. Machines will be delivered at any railroad station in this county, free of transportation charges, if ordered through the company's branch house at 197 State street, Chicago. They send an elegant catalogue and chromo circular free on application. This company want a few more good agents.

THE GREAT FAVORITE!—The popular Chill Cure of the age!! Composed of pure and simple drugs, Wilhoft's Tonic has long held the highest place in the long line of remedies for Chills and Fever. It is not only Anti-Periodic but is Anti-Panic, for it curtails the heavy expense of doctors' visits, where friendly calls are all itemized in the account current. A penny saved is a penny gained, and saving it in this way adds to health and comfort. Try Wilhoft's tonic as a certainty, and you will never regret it. WHEELOCK, FINLAY & Co., Proprietors, New Orleans.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

EDWARD BAYER, Esq., Horton, Kings Co., N. S., writes that an astonishing cure has been effected on his daughter by the use of Johnson's Anodyne Liniment. The whole spine became diseased, she lost the use of her limbs, and her back was rounded up like a bow, in consequence of taking cold after having been innoculated for the kine pock. She is now well.

WE pledge our reputation on the assertion that any educated physician, after a careful examination of the recipe, will say that Parsons' Purgative Pills possess more merit than any other pill now offered for sale.

EIGHT hundred dogs have been shot in Washington this season.

HOW TO GET A HOME. See advertisement.

SILVER TIPPED SHOES

A penny saved here and there counts up at the end of the year. Buy only SILVER TIPPED Shoes and you will save dollars instead. Also, try Wire Quilted Soles.

Remember CABLE SCREW WIRE Boots and Shoes have no nails or pegs sticking through the bottom to prick the feet or wear the stocking. Also, try Wire Quilted Soles.

CABLE SCREW WIRE

$490 A MONTH and EXPENSES to all. Articles new, staple as flour. Samples free. C. LININGTON, NEW YORK or CHICAGO.

WANTED AGENTS. Samples and Outfit free. Better than Gold. A. COULTER & CO., Chicago.

$10 to $25 per day Send for Chromo Catalogue. J. H. BUFFORD'S SONS, Boston, Mass.

EVERY FAMILY WANTS IT. Money in it. Sold by Agents. Address M. N. LOVELL, Erie, Pa.

AGENTS, 20 ELEGANT OIL CHROMOS, mounted, size 9x11 for $1; 140 for $5. Largest variety in the world. National Chromo Co., PHILADELPHIA.

REVOLVERS! The New BUFFALO BILL REVOLVER for only $4.—Immense sale. Circular Free. WESTERN GUN WORKS, CHICAGO, Ill.

OPIUM and Morphine habit absolutely and speedily cured. Painless; no publicity. Send stamp for particulars. Dr. Carlton, 187 Washington St., Chicago, Ill.

CLARK'S BOOK-KEEPING. Self-instructive. Short method. Price $1.00, postpaid. Send for Circular. W. S. CLARK & CO., 143 Race Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

FLORIDA The Florida Agriculturist. Weekly. $3 a year. Send 10c for specimen. Proceedings Florida Fruit-Growers' Association—meeting of 1875—25 cts. Address WALTON & Co., Jacksonville, Fla. Say where you saw this.

WORK that PAYS! $150 per Month is made by Agents selling our splendid assortment of NEW Maps and Pictures. Catalogue free. E. C. BRIDGMAN, 5 Barclay St., New York, and 179 West 4th St., Cincinnati, O.

$250 A MONTH—Agents wanted everywhere. Business honorable and first class. Particulars sent free. Address WORTH & CO., St. Louis, Mo.

AGENTS WANTED for the fastest-selling BOOK ever published. Send for circulars and our extra terms to Agents. NATIONAL PUB. CO., Chicago, Ill., or St. Louis, Mo.

FOR SALE. Chicago Suburban Lots at $100 each, $15 down and $5 monthly for balance, within a short distance of City Limits, with hourly trains and cheap fare. Send for circulars. IRA BROWN, 142 LaSalle-st., Chicago, Ill.

GEO. P. ROWELL & Co.

THIS Paper is printed with Ink made by G. B. Kane & Co., 121 Dearborn Street, Chicago, and for sale by us in large or small quantities. CHICAGO NEWSPAPER UNION, 114 Monroe Street, Chicago, Ill.

50 Of the prettiest CARDS you ever saw, with your name handsomely printed on them, sent, postpaid, upon receipt of 20 cents. Your friends will all want them when they see yours. Address W. C. CANNON, 46 Kneeland St., Boston, Mass.

TEAS.—The choicest in the world—Importers' prices—Largest Company in America—staple article—pleases everybody—Trade continually increasing—Agents wanted everywhere—best inducements—don't waste time—send for circular to ROBERT WELLS, 43 Vesey-st., N. Y. P. O. Box 1287.

YOUNG MEN Wanted to learn Telegraphing and take offices on new lines which we are furnishing with operators. Salary from $40 to $100 per month. Particulars mailed free. Address N. W. TELEGRAPH INSTITUTE, Janesville, Wis.

E. L. CANFIELD, 57 LaSalle Street, Chicago, Ill., DEALER IN REAL ESTATE, Farms, Lands and Village Property. Correspondence solicited from those desiring to dispose of their real estate. Good farms wanted.

SEND FOR PRICE-LIST [illegible]

Requires but two horse power; and bales either hay or cotton without tramping or stopping. Thirty bales of hay per hour. Twenty bales of cotton per hour.

Shot Guns, Rifles, Revolvers, and Sporting Goods of every description. Large discount to Clubs and Cash Buyers. Send stamp for illustrated price list. Address Great Western Supply Co. F. H. HILL, Manager, 83 Smithfield St., Pittsburgh, Pa.

WILD LIFE IN THE FAR WEST. A splendid New Illustrated Book of the author's own 30 years' life and thrilling adventures among Indians, in border wars, hunting wild animals, etc. The best and only new and complete book on the wild FAR WEST. Beats anything to sell. AGENTS WANTED. J. S. HUTCHINSON & Co., Chicago, Ills.

FIRE AND WATER-PROOF! Langley's Patent Slate Paint. Stops the leaks in an old Shingle Roof and makes a new one last twice as long; is also the most durable paint made for Tin and Iron. Send for pamphlet. Agents wanted. WILLIS G. JACKSON, General Agent, 150 Washington street, CHICAGO, ILLINOIS.

ELASTIC TRUSS.

This new Truss is worn with perfect comfort night and day. Adapts itself to every motion of the body, retaining rupture under the hardest exercise or severest strain until permanently cured. Sold cheap by the Elastic Truss Co., NO. 683 Broadway, N. Y. City. Sent by mail. Call or send for Circular and be cured.

S. H. HARRIS' Improved Chicago FIRE and BURGLAR SAFES and VAULT DOORS are the BEST and CHEAPEST. Manufactory and Salesroom, 23 & 25 East Randolph-st., Chicago.

MERIDEN CUTLERY COMPANY Manufacture all kinds of Table Cutlery. Exclusive makers of the "PATENT IVORY" or Celluloid Knife. The most Durable WHITE HANDLE known. Original makers of the HARD RUBBER HANDLE. Always call for "Trade Mark" MERIDEN CUTLERY CO., on the Blade. Warranted and sold by all dealers in Cutlery and by the MERIDEN CUTLERY CO., 49 Chambers Street, New York.

THE MOUNTAIN MEADOW MASSACRE.—A truthful account of this terrible tragedy is contained in Mr. Stenhouse's "ROCKY MOUNTAIN SAINTS," a full and complete history of the Mormons. Fully illustrated with engravings, maps, etc. This is a great book for Agents at the present time. For full particulars apply to the publishers. D. APPLETON & CO., 549 and 551 Broadway, New York.

WANTED AGENTS FOR THE best-selling Prize Package in the world. It contains 15 Sheets Paper, 15 Envelopes, Golden Pen, Pen Holder, Pencil, Patent Yard Measure, and a Piece of Jewelry. Single Package, with elegant Prize, post-paid, 25 cents. Circular free. BRIDE & CO., 769 Broadway, New York.

HOW TO GET A HOME. IOWA LANDS, 800,000 ACRES. Rich Soil, good Climate, excellent Water, growing Settlements, good Schools. We offer the Lands of the Sioux City and St. Paul R. R. and the McGregor and Missouri River R. R. at $4 to $6 per acre, on easy payments. Two years rent will buy a farm. Apply to DAVIDSON & CALKINS, R. R. Land Office, Sibley, Osceola Co., Iowa.

PORTABLE GRINDING MILLS.

Best French Burr stiff-spindle [illegible] upper-runners, for Farm or Merchant Work. Superior Mill Stones of all sizes. Genuine Dutch Anker Bolting Cloth, Mill Picks, Corn Shellers and Cleaners, Gearing, Shafting, Pulleys, Hangers, etc., all kinds of Mill Machinery and Millers' supplies. Send for Pamphlet. Straub Mill Company, Box 1430, Cincinnati, O.

TARRANT'S SELTZER APERIENT

The King of the Body is the brain; the stomach its main support; the nerves its messengers; the bowels, the kidneys and the pores its safeguards. Indigestion creates a violent revolt among these attaches of the regal organ, and to bring them back to their duty, there is nothing like the regulating, purifying, invigorating, cooling operation of Tarrant's Effervescent Seltzer Aperient. It renovates the system and restores to health both the body and the mind. Sold by all Druggists.

Now is the time to Subscribe!

Seven Fine Engravings presented to every New Yearly Subscriber.

The New York Fireside Companion

PROSPECTUS FOR 1876.

THE NEW YORK FIRESIDE COMPANION is now recognized as the best maintained, most popular, most varied and entertaining weekly published in the United States. No effort is spared to obtain whatever will add to the interest and value of its contents. The best writers in every department are secured, without regard to expense.

It is the aim of the publisher to make this an Interesting and Popular Paper for both young and old; to combine entertainment and amusement with desirable information on matters relating to the home, courtship, marriage, society, and dress; to gratify the innate curiosity and interest of all in the pure and natural romance of life; to cultivate a taste for reading and intellectual pleasures; and to inculcate good sentiments and principles in the mind of the young. Nothing of an immoral tendency is ever admitted into its columns. It contains

The most Fascinating Love Stories,
Dashing Stories of Adventure on Land and Sea,
Stirring Indian and Border Tales,
Stories of Home Life in City and Country,
Liveliest Short Stories and Sentimental Sketches,

Original Humor, Jokes, Comic Sketches, Poetry, Personals and Floating Paragraphs; Latest Fashion Gossip for the Ladies; Answers to Correspondents; Kitchen Lore; The best Reading for Little Folks; Beautiful Illustrations, etc., etc.

Not less than SIX CONTINUED STORIES published constantly, and a NEW story commenced about every second week; so that new readers will be able to get the beginning of a story of the newsdealers or of us, no matter at what time they may subscribe. Back numbers can always be had containing the commencement of every story.

PARTIAL LIST OF CONTRIBUTORS FOR 1876.

Dr. John B. Williams, Lucy Randall Comfort, Clara Percy,
Tony Pastor, Mrs. Sumner Hayden, Von Boyle,
Oliver Optic, Shirley Browne, John Elderkin,
Prof. James De Mille, Hazel Wood, Annie H. Jerome,
P. Hamilton Myers, Mary J. Wines, Nannette S. Emerson,
Leslie Thorne, Samuel W. Pearce, Jennie W. Foster,
Frank Corey, George L. Aiken, Allan Deane,
Agile Penne, Albert W. Aiken, Jack Rallin,
Petroleum V. Nasby, Eve, Fashion Editress, Addison F. Browne.

Our Family Physician.—Under this title we shall publish during the coming year a series of articles by eminent physicians, devoted to the treatment and cure of prevalent diseases, such as Skin Diseases, Consumption, Diptheria, Rheumatism, Cancer, Hip Disease, Bone Disease, Eye and Ear Diseases, Throat Diseases, Physiology of Diseases of Women, Management of Young Children, Hygiene, etc. These articles will contain the best modes of treatment of disease adopted by the highest medical authorities of the day, and will be a valuable guide to the readers of our paper.

Correspondents' Column.—No effort or pains are spared to make this department most attractive and useful to our readers. It is edited by a gentleman of wide experience and sound judgment, and a vast amount of information is given; answers to questions relating to love and etiquette, legal and medical questions, information for the kitchen and household, in fact, answers to all questions that turn up in life, can be found in this column.

Reading for Little Folks.—This is, and will continue to be, one of the prominent features of the paper. The contributions to this department are by the very foremost writers for children in the country. This alone makes THE NEW YORK FIRESIDE COMPANION invaluable to every household where there are children.

List of Engravings Presented to New Yearly Subscribers:

A LESSON IN LOVE, Value, 20 cts. | THE LITTLE ANGLERS, Value, 25 cts.
THE PET FAWN, " 20 " | FAR AWAY FROM HOME, " 25 "
ERIN FAREWELL, " 20 " | BEGINNING TO BEG, " 25 "
A MODEL YACHT, (colored) Value, 25 cents.

These beautiful pictures are suitable for framing, and afford a valuable addition to the furniture of every home.

MUNRO'S GIRLS & BOYS OF AMERICA.

Largest and Most Popular Weekly Paper for Young Folks.

It is the only paper which contains the kind of stories which mothers want to read aloud to their little ones, and which every father may unhesitatingly place in the hands of his children. It contains a larger amount and variety of good reading for girls and boys than can be had in any other weekly or monthly periodical.

TERMS FOR 1876.

MUNRO'S GIRLS AND BOYS OF AMERICA and THE NEW YORK FIRESIDE COMPANION: One copy of Munro's Girls and Boys of America will be sent for one year to any subscriber in the United States on receipt of $2.50; two copies for $4; nine copies for $16. The New York Fireside Companion will be sent for one year on receipt of $3; two copies for $5; or, nine copies for $20; Getters up of Clubs can afterwards add single copies at $2.50 each. We will be responsible for remittances sent in Registered Letters, or by Post Office Money Orders. Both papers sent to one address for one year, for $4.50. Postage, FREE. Specimen copies, sent free. Specimen copies with any one of the above Pictures sent to any address on receipt of Ten Cents.

AGENTS WANTED to canvass for the above two papers in every town and village where there are no newsdealers. Good wages can be made by successful canvassers. Boys and Girls are invited to become canvassers. Every boy and girl can get subscribers in their own village. Write for particulars.

Address, GEORGE MUNRO, Publisher,
P. O. Box 5657. 84 Beekman Street, New York.

SOMETHING for you. Sells at sight. Our Agents coin money. We have work and money for all, men or women, boys or girls, whole or spare time. Send stamp for Catalogue. Address FRANK GLUCK, New Bedford, Mass.

PENNSYLVANIA Military Academy, Chester, Pa. Opens Sept. 8th. Civil Engineering, the Classics, English and Military Art thoroughly taught. For circulars apply to COL. THEO. HYATT, President.

SEA FOAM

THE BEST in the World. It Gives Universal Satisfaction. WONDERFUL Economy. 40 lbs. more bread to bbl. Flour. SAVES MILK, EGGS, &c. One year's savings will buy a cow. NO MORE SOUR BREAD. Whiter, Lighter, Sweeter, Richer. EVERYBODY Praises It. The Ladies are all in Love with it. SELLS like HOT CAKES. Send at once for Circular to GEO. F. GANTZ & CO., 176 Duane St., New York.

JUST PUBLISHED.

!! THE SHINING RIVER !!

A New Sabbath School Song Book

By H. S. & W. O. Perkins.

PRICE 35 CENTS. $30 PER HUNDRED.

"Rest in Thee," "What Jesus May Say," "Wandering Child," "What Are These," "Watchman Awake!" are specimens of the titles of the beautiful new hymns, to sweet new melodies.

!! THE HIGH SCHOOL CHOIR !!

By L. O. EMERSON and W. S. TILDEN.

PRICE $1.00 $7.50 PER DOZEN.

The HIGH SCHOOL CHOIR is similar in general design to the very popular "HOUR OF SINGING," which has been almost universally used in High Schools. The present work is in no way inferior to its predecessor, and is entirely fresh and new.

THE SONG MONARCH.

PRICE 75 CENTS. $6.00 PER DOZEN.

By H. R. PALMER, assisted by L. O. EMERSON.

Do not think of teaching a Singing School without using this attractive, popular and useful book.

Specimen copies sent, post-paid, for retail price.

OLIVER DITSON & CO., Boston. CHAS. H. DITSON & CO., 711 B'dway, New York.

OPIUM CURE The most successful remedy of the present day. Send for Paper on Opium Eating. Prof. D. Meeker, P. O. Box 475, Laporte, Ind.

AGENTS WANTED for Dr. March's Great Work, NIGHT SCENES IN THE BIBLE, and a magnificent NEW BOOK just from Press. Address, J. C. McCURDY & CO., Chicago, Ill.

Pleasant and Profitable Employment.—"Beautiful!" "Charming!" "Oh, how lovely!" "What are they worth?" &c. Such are exclamations by those who see the large elegant new Chromos produced by the European and American Chromo Publishing Co. They are all perfect gems of art. No one can resist the temptation to buy when seeing the Chromos. It requires no talking to sell the pictures, they speak for themselves. Canvassers, Agents and ladies and gentlemen out of employment, will find this the best opening ever offered to make money. For full particulars, send stamp for confidential circular. Address F. GLEASON & CO., 738 Washington St., Boston, Mass.

RATIONAL TREATMENT of all Kidney, Urinary and Liver diseases is effected by Hamilton's Buchu & Dandelion. It acts directly on these organs, enabling them to remove those wastes in the blood, which cause Gravel, Diabetes, Bright's disease, Jaundice, Rheumatism, Scrofula, &c. Kress Manufac. Co., Cin., O.

T-SPOON-FUL of HAMILTON'S BUCHU AND DANDELION, three times daily promote healthy action of the KIDNEYS, LIVER & BOWELS, thus proving the greatest Blood Purifier and Health Preserver of the age, and prevents disease by removing the cause. It has stood the test, and is the best medicine in use. Kress Manufacturing Co., Cincinnati, O.

G. N. U. No. 39

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS, please say you saw the advertisement in this paper.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN INDIANA, SEPT., 9th, 1875.

It is peculiarly unkind in the press of Maine to continue to snub Morton from day to day.

The six men hung in Arkansas performed in the last act as respectably as could be expected.

The intelligent coroner's jury of San Franc'sco, found the late lamented Ralston not guilty of the charge of commiting suicide.

There is a man in Kansas City who claims to be 117 years old. There might be some doubt about it, but Susan B. Anthony admits they were children together.

A very fair sample of English neutrality is reported by telegraph. Arms and munitions of war were landed from an English steamer at Matrico, for the use of the Carlists.

The Chicago Times has turned its attention to the "abstract" abuses of that city. They have a way there of abstracting valuables from strangers that is discourteous, to say the least.

"The Loyal Clam," is the way the Boston Post heads Morton's meeting at Old Orchard Beach, in the State of Maine. Of course the clams were loyal, or the senator had not been there.

The great powers of Europe were able to persuade Servia that she should maintain an attitude of strict neutrality toward Turkey and Herzegovina. This proves that there is persuasion in power.

Fifteen thousand dollars disappeared from a bank at Huntington, West Virgina, the other day, and the cashier confessed that he was "covered" with revolvers while three men disappeared with it.

The auditor of state, having some doubts as to the legality of the expenditures of the board of trustees of the Deaf and Dumd Asylum in the investigation case, refused to issue warrants on the treasurer for the same, and the matter will be held in abeyance until the return of the governor from Ohio.

The State Fair and Exposition opens to-day at Indianapolis. It will certainly be the finest exposition of the kind yet held in the State. Two or three years experience adds wonderfully to the make up of these institutions. Half fare is announced on all railroads and now the time until next month can be very profitable enjoyed in visiting the capitol.

Mr. Ralston, President of the Bank of California, got $50,000 a year for his services. Fifty thousand dollars a year as President of a bank! Think of it, laborer at the princely sum of a dollar and half a day.—Exchange.

Yes, and yet his salary was not fixed by any trick or by any bribery, as President Grant's salary was three years ago, when with back pay he seduced Congress into voting him $50,000. Think of this, laborer with the princely sum of a dollar and a half a day!

Another Grand Victory.

The Golden State wheels into line for the Democracy.

The election in California is a significant forerunner of that of Ohio It indicates in September what Ohio will do in October, and as we vote then so will New York and Pensylvania vote in November. For a number of years California has been steadily Republican in its Governors. Congress men, State officers and Legislatures. The tidal wave of 1874 has reached reached her shores and swept them completely. Hurrah! for California. Bully for old Cal.

At Sullivan, Ill., a young man by the name of George Stark was engaged to be married to Miss Knight. To have a little fun some young people made the young man believe that this affianced was making her wedding dress for another, and on producing proof of their charges, distracted the fellow so as to cause him to procure a pistol and go to the young woman's house and shoot her and then shoot himself. Some hopes are entertained for the recovery of Miss Knight, but young Stark was killed dead. The whole community was thrown into the most intense excitement, two families into mourning, all from the effects of a mischievous lie.

The author of the Geghan law in Ohio, who was a member of the House last year, was re-nominated by the Democrats last week for re-election, at Cincinnati, and the Enquirer repudiates the choice, and will labor for his defeat. That is right. When ever the Catholics or any other religious denomination insist upon a candidate to represent them, then we hope all good people will strive for the defeat of such an one. We are glad the Democracy is establishing a precedent in Cincinnati, and we hope Geghan will be scooped out beautifully.

There will be a humorous point to the California election. The fun will come in when you see the radical papers try to explain to their readers that it was not a Democratic victory but really in their favor. The Steubend Republican has been making an earnest effort lately to show that Kentucky is not Democratic. It may be able to make its readers in that county who take no other paper believe this, but the perversion of facts to suit radical minds is fondly indulged in, in counties where there is no Democratic paper.

A correspondent from McGeary District writes of an incident which recently occured at a weding at that place. After the solemnization of the nuptial ceremony the clergyman, in accordance with a time honored custom, proceeded to impress upon the cheek of the blushing bride a chaste, clerical salute, when the bridegroom suddenly thrust his newly-wedded wife aside and assumed a belligerent attitude toward the astounded gospel expounder. For a time the utmost confusion prevailed, but is finally explained to the indignant groom that the kiss was not of the paroxysmal kind, but a strictly orthordox salute, when he became pacified.

Gov. Hendricks joined in the Ohio Canvass, with a fine speech at Zanesville last Friday. Those Republican papers, that intimated that he was afraid to express his views on the question, have quietly crept into their holes, and will wait for some one of the daily radical sheets to criticise the speech, ere they will again reappear to lanch their vile epithets as their bitial ed tastes may dictate. Mr. Hendricks spoke clearly and forcibly upon the financial question, and did not turn a political somersault as did Senator Morton. He held to the views he has always entertained that the resumption of specie basis is desirable and should be arrived at as soon as practical, but not at the sacrifice of the business interests and industries of the Country.

Is Your Life Worth 10 Cents.

SICKNESS prevails everywhere, and everybody complains of some disease during their life— When sick, the object is to get well; now we say plainly that no person in this world that is suffering with Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint and its effects, such as Indigestion, Costiveness, Sick Headache, Sour stomache, Heart-burn, Palpitation of the Heart, Depressed Spirits, Billiousness, &c. can take GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER without getting relief and cure. If you doubt this, go to your Druggist and get a sample bottle for ten cents, and try it. Regular size 75 cents. Two ses will relieve you.

1875. 1875.

GREAT

NORTHERN INDIANA FAIR!

AT FORT WAYNE,

SEPT. 13, 14, 15, 16 17, 18,

From the unprecedented success of the Northern Indiana Fair held last year, the management feel emboldened to add further to the adjectives expressive of its magnitude, by styling it the Great Northern Indiana Fair, the successful rival of State Fairs. No pains have been spared by the Trustees to continue the interest manifested by the many thousands who visited us last year.

ADDITIONAL BUILDINGS

have been erected, and other improvements made about the beautiful grounds that cannot fail to add largely to its many attractions. Last year the

ENTRIES WERE NEARLY 3,000

This year we expect to add largely to that number. Additional

ST ABLES AND CATTLE STALLS

have been erected, so that the management expect to make more comfortable these two grades of exterior upon their own grounds,

A LARGE POWER HALL

is being erected, with engine and line shafting in motion for the accommodation of machinery. In addition to the Association Power Hall, other parties are making arrangements to erect at their own expense halls sufficient to exhibit their own machinery in motion, thereby displaying a worthy spirit of enterprise.

A LARGE TENT

is being manufactured, in which to display the beauties of Flora, which is to be a very attractive feature.

The Total Premiums offered by the Association this year Amounts to $25,000

HON. F. P. RANDALL, Prest
WM. LYNE, Sec'y.

GREAT

New York Store

—IN—

GARRETT,

LITMAN BORS. & GOODMAN

Will be found a complete assortment of

FALL AND WINTER GOODS.

The goods have all been well selected, and make as nice a stock as there is in the county. The stock consists of a complete assortment of

DRY GOODS,

LADIES' FANCY GOODS,

MENS YOUTHS' & CLOTHING,

a complete stock, and the latest styles of Hats and Caps. We have a complete line of

BOOTS AND SHOES,

Made to our order, and the nicest stock of Gaiters for the ladies. We will offer our goods very low. Prints at 8 cents per yard, Bleached or Unbleached Muslin at 8 cents and 10 cents. The best bargains in Clothing and in Boots and Shoes, as we are receiving new goods most every day. Therefore we can afford to sell at the bottom prices. All invited to call and see us, whether they purchase or not. Come one, come all, and see our goods before purchasing elsewhere. Bargains will be given as we will carry the largest stock in Garret and we will make it an object for all to buy. Call at the Brown building opposite large hotel. The farmers will do well to come to trade in Garret. You can sell your produce for the highest market price and get the cash, and you can buy goods as cheap as any place and you will be satisfied.

No. 34—6m LITMAN BROS. & GOODMAN

Fittsburg, Baltimore & Ohio R.R

IS COMING.

Therefore buy your

Dry Goods,

Notions, etc., of

CHARLES KLOTZ

AT HIS

Old Stand

ON MAN STREET,

Opposite Court Square

AUBURN, INDIANA

Where he may be found at all times ready to accommodate customers, and sell them such goods as they may need,

CLOTHING

Of all descriptions, and

HANDSOME SUITS

Made to Order!

SIMMONS' LIVER REGULATOR

Nearly all diseases originate from Indigestion and Torpidity of the liver, and relief is always anxiously sought after. If the Liver is regulated in its action, health is almost invariably secured. Want of action in the Liver causes headache, Constipation, Jaundice, Pain in the shoulders, cough, chills, dizziness, sour stomache, bad taste in the mouth, billious attacks, palpitation of the heart, depression of spirits, or the blues, and a hundred other symptoms, for which Simons' Liver Regulator is the best remedy that has ever been discovered. It acts mildly, effectually, and being a simple vegetable compound, can do no injury in any quantities that it may be taken. It is harmless in every way; it has been used for 40 years, and hundreds of the good and great from all parts of the country will vouch for its being the purest and best.

Simmons' Liver Regulator,

OR MEDICINE,

Is harmless,
Is no drastic violent medicine,
Is sure to cure if taken regularly,
Is no intoxicating beverage,
It is a faultless family medicine,
Is the cheapest medicine in the world,
Is given with safety and the happiest results to the most delicate infant,
Does not interfere with business,
Does not disarange the system,
Takes the place of Quinine and Bitters of every kind.
Contains the simplest and best remedies.

Price $1. Sold by all Druggists. April 22, 1875

For sale at F. E. DAVENPORT'S drug store.

AN ORDINANCE.

SECTION 1st. Be in ordained by the Board of Trustees of the Town of Auburn, in the County of DeKalb and State of Indiana, that it shall be unlawful for any peson, owning or having the control of any Cattle, Horses Mules or Swine, to permit such Cattle, Horses, Mules or Swine to run at large within the corporate limits of said town between the hours of 8 o'clock in the evening and 5 o'clock in the morning from the first day of July to the first day of December in each year.

SECTION 2nd. Any person or persons violating the provisions of section one of this ordinance, upon conviction, shall be fined in any sum not less than $1, nor more than $5.

SECTION 3rd. It shall be unlawful for any person or persons owning or having control of any Cattle, Horses or Mules to permit such Cattle, Horses or Mules to run at large, at any time, within the corporate limits of said town from the 1st day of December, in each year, until after the 1st day of April following.

SECTION 4th. Any person or persons violating the provisions of section three of this ordinance, upon conviction, shall be find in any sum not less than $1 nor more than $5.

Attest: C. D. HARE, Town Clerk,

BRICK FOR SALE

FRITZ GROESCOP.

Having just burned a fine kiln of brick, about one hundred thousand, is now ready to supply all who want good brick at reasonable figures. Residence two miles north of Auburn on the Kutzner road; three miles south west of Waterloo.

NOTICE—Persons knowing that they are owing us will confer a favor by calling and settling their account as we must have the money. SPROTT & SON

THE
NEW YORK STORE

ROOT & COMPANY,

Wholesale and Retail Dealers in

DRY GOODS,
CARPETS,
CURTAINS,
NOTIONS, ETC., ETC.

AT BOTTOM PRICES

We are now clearing out our entire stock of.

SUMMER GOODS

and offering all above mentioned goods at a great reduction from former prices

Examine our great

CARPET DEPARTMENT

before you purchase, and save money

GRAIN BAGS, all the best brands at

ROOT & COMPANY'S

46 and 48 Calhoun St., Fort Wayne,
☞ Opposite the Court House. ☜

BARGAINS!

AT THE

Great Clearing out SaleS

OF

Miller & Casebeer,

The Leading Merchants of Auburn, Ind.

A New Store

With an entire new stock of

BOOTS & SHOES,

New STYLES of all kinds at the LOWEST PRICES at

J. E. WOODFORD'S

I have located at Auburn with a fine stock of BOOTS and SHOES, which will be sold at the Lowest Figures for Cash!

My Facilities for making CUSTOM WORK are not excelled anywhere and those favoring me—with their orders may be certain of getting the best material.

W. W. HUMES, Foreman.

To the trade, great inducements are offered in Leather, Findings, &c. Please call and examine my stock before purchasing.

C. P. HOUSER.

THE FIRST

National Bank

OF AUBURN, INDIANA.

Capital Stock $50,000

Deposits received on time or subject to check on sight

Exchange, available in the United States, Canada and Europe, furnished.

Checks and drafts, payable in any part of the U. S. cashed at our counter, or collected and proceeds accounted for to holder.

Collections made and promptly remitted for on day of payment.

Loans negotiated and business papers discounted

Government and other securities bought and sold.

Directors:

J. R. LANNING, J. H. FORD,
S. W. RALSTON, WM. McINTYRE,
GEO. HAZZARD.

Officers:

JOSEPH R. LANNING, Prest.
JAS. V. HAZZARD, Cashier.

April 29, 1875.

Auburn Courier.

Local and Miscellaneous.

Book agents and map men seem to be scarce.

Watermelons are plenty in the market at 10c each.

Some nice fish are being caught out of Cedar Creek.

Jno. Hebel's building has reached the first story.

The county Commissioners meet next Monday.

New under ware for ladies just recived at Stamet's

Quite a number witnessed the ball game Tuesday.

Still we have excursions. Give us a rest on that score.

Farmers are beginning, east of the city, to cut corn.

Mr. Baker is arranging to fence the commons east of Eagle Mills.

The Jail is ready for the roof, which will soon be on.

Joseph Rainier has been under the weather for a few days past.

Mike Long, Sr., has procured the services of a practical butcher.

There has been a whole firm married off within the last week.

R. Brackenridge, of Fort Wayne, gave us a call yesterday.

W. S Stevens, of the REPUBLICAN at Angola, gave us a call yesterday.

The best and cheapest place to buy clothing, at Rakestraw & Jackman's.

A Conference of the U. B. Church was in session at Waterloo last week.

Abright's building now presents the appearance of a stone front. It looks tasty.

Mr. Swagner, landlord at the Auburn House, has been quite ill for several weeks.

B. R. Williams has purchased the butcher stand formerly owned by Mich Houston.

T. C. Ford had some shirts and so fourth stolen one day last week. Look out for 'em.

A number of our citizens will attend the Fair at Fort Wayne next week. It will be attractive.

Nick Ensley is preparing to erect a brick block on the corner of Seventh & Cedar streets.

Rev. Robbinson, of Fort Wayne, officiated at the M. E. church, day and evening, last Sabbath.

Mr. Fried, at Corunna, is putting up a large brick business room opposite where he is now located.

Mr Tom Scott and Miss Mary Kline have been visiting under the paternal roof of the former, at Bryan, O.

The Kendallville ball club sent our boys a challenge, but it never reached them. Try it "some more," boys.

Little & Fair have received their fall styles of Millinery Goods. North of Auburn House two doors.

Newville has a champion runner. He was to have a trial with M. Osgood yesterday at 9 o'clock. He had it, and came out behind.

Al. Dawson's family, formerly of Spencerville, are located here at present.

Joe Loveland has visited us twice in the last two weeks—and he's not on the rampage.

Davenport the popular druggist has been making internal improvements in his drug store.

Dave Morris and Wm. Lyttle were the only ones that got hurt during the ball game Tuesday.

Warren Miller, of Newville, shook hands with a number of his old acquaintances here last Tuesday.

Lessig's new room will soon be occupied as a manufacturing hat and cap establishment.

Sammy Pommert's barber rooms have the reputation among our citizens as being the boss.

Mr. O. Broughton has been appointed Postmaster at DeKalb, more generally known as St. John's.

The Ladies Social will meet at the M. E. Church next Wed. afternoon Sept., 15th. all are invited.

Joe. Beugnot has hands at work to erect a building on Seventh street. It will be a good business room.

The Red Pants and Hay Maker nines play a match game of ball Saturday on the grounds at this place.

Peter Behler and August Thienel, of Garrett, were granted liquor license yesterday by the Commissioners.

A Sunday-school pic-nic was held in the grove at Corunna, last week, which was largely attended.

The threshing of wheat has developed the fact that the yield is good, but the quality is much inferior to former years

Frank Barney, of Spencerville, gave us a pleasant call last Tuesday. He speaks flatteringly of the business at that place.

Litman Bros. & Goodman, at Garrett, are the leading merchants of the place, and the only firm that does newspaper advertising.

When parties come in our office after papers we wish they would ask for them It would save us trouble, and them a quantity of cheek.

Miss Anna Rainier has returned to the city again after a long stay in the Western States. We hope she will remain among us.

C. Eminger, of LaGrange, one of the finest ornamental painters in the State is here looking up a location to start an extensive paint shop.

Wm. McIntyre will take immediate steps in erecting a brick building opposite the Swineford House.

Billy Long struck B. Rainier with an iron ball in the abdomen, which hurt the latter badly, confining him to his bed for several days.

The Newville and Albion nines were to play a game here last Friday, but neither showed up. A number of our citizens were disappointed.

McGonigal was in town to see the boys play ball last Tuesday, but declined to umpire, because he hadn't rested up yet from his last game.

James Clifford, at Waterloo, is arranging to have one of the best biliard halls in the State. He will change things generally, and make it even more pleasant than now.

The Red Pants and Hay Makers had a match game of ball on the grounds of the latter. It was well played on both sides, the Hay Makers winning by a few odds.

We are obliged to some one in Europe for a facsimile of the Warrant for the execution of King Charles I, or Charles Stewart King of England. It is a giant looking document.

The Court House is pronounced in an unsafe condition. It won't pay to put much expense on it, but it is hoped that something can be done to make it last four or five years yet.

Our jail edifice, is the object of many complimentary remarks. We do not think there will be a stronger, or more beautiful building in this character in the State when completed.

Have you tried "Davenport's Fancy," a new cigar made to order, and now for sale at his drug store. It isn't painted, yet it is all his fancy painted it and smokes beautifully. Try one.

$500,000 to loan on improved farms in Northern Indiana, in sums of one thousand dollars and upwards, on five years ime. Security must be first mortgage

WILLIAM FLEMING,
tf Fort Wayne Ind

The types made us say last week that the concert at the catholic church would take place on the 19th which was a mistake. It is to be on the 16th, next Thursday and we hope to see a large number present.

The excursion to Jackson next Tuesday will only cost $2, children under 12 and over 6 $1. We are authorized to say that coaches will be furnished and pleanty of water suppled on the train.

A lot of Texan editors paid Ft. Wayne a visit the other day. From the accounts of murders and robberies occuring there lately, a visit from a few Texan rangers would do them more good.

We call attention to the advertisement of the Star Clothing House, Fort Wayne, under the efficient managment of Sam, Pete & Max. This house is head quarters for clothing in the city.

Mrs. Northwarth has written a splendid story called "Fallen Pride," which cannot fail to interest the reader. It is a fine picture of American society twenty years ago. For sale at Houser's book store.

The County Treasurer notifies taxpayers in another column, of the fact that there is a change in the time of paying the second installment of taxes. the time under the new law expiring on the 30th of October, instead of the 15th of November. Read it carefully.

Wait! Wait!

Wait for the fine display of splendid Stoves, to be made in a few days, at Goodman's. New styles, and new patterns, and something different than has ever been exibited before. tf.

The Eagle Mills have been making flour from new wheat, and those who have used it pronounce it most splendid. Mr. Kagey is building up quite a reputation as a first-class miller and we can recommend him to those who are in the habit of using flour.

During the game of base ball last Tuesday some one presented an order, signed by H. C. Peterson, to Williams & McDougal for one hundred cigars and now it has proved a forgery, as Mr. Peterson never signed such an order.

Wm. Fleming, Esq., of the Fort Wayne "Sentinel" was in town las Tuesday, and gave us a call. They call him the "Boss" down there, doubtless because he stands head and shoulders above them in point of ability, energy and enterprese.

The great fair of the year occurs at Fort Wayne, next week. The managers are doing everything to make it one of the grandest expositions ever seen in the State. The celebrated Red Cloud and other famous horses are advertised to be there.

The editors from Texas, snooped down upon Fort Wayne last Tuesday, and devoured the good things its citizens had been saving for several years past, and the next morning the "Gazette" insisted on having the canal cleaned out. This may have been a mere coincident, however.

The trial of Hopenix vs. Fox was had Monday. Hopenix was standing on the sidewalk and Fox pushed a fellow out the door, knocking Hopenix down, and this made Hopenix huffey, so he sued Fox for damages. The fine was put down at $1. We're no jury, but we do think when such fines are made its a fee(ble) crime.

Soldiers Reunion.

The soldiers of Northern Indiana, are to have a re-union at Fort Wayne. October 5th and 6th. Half fare on all railroads will be secured. It is to be a first-class affair, in which the private soldier will be recognized. Let every one of the boys get ready to go.

There are a few of our subscribers, who are still in arrears. We have been waiting patiently for them to come in and settle up. If there is any time in the year they pay for what they get, it ought to be about this time. Some are paying us promptly, but these are always prompt and do not expect a publisher to send them a paper year after year without pay.

ANGOLA, IND. Sept 6th, '75.

EDITOR COURIER—As my business requires more of my time here than at Albion I have concluded to re-locate at this point. All who have business with me will have prompt attention paid thereto by addressing me at this place.

WM. B. MCCONNELL,
Prosecuting Attorney

Excursion to Jackson.

Columbia City is getting up an excursion to Jackson to come off next Tuesday Sept. 14th, 1875. The Secretary has sent us a complimentary, across which he has written not transferable, so that if we cannot go personally we cannot send anyone. We don't want such a ticket and we regret to know that a publisher would do such a thing.

Those who subscribed and thereby agreed to pay the amount set opposite their names for the erection of the Catholic church, and have not yet done so are requested to pay the same over by the 1st of October, because it will then be needed to pay off a note due at that time. It is hoped that they will be prompt.

The "Indianian" of Warsaw says that Uncle Sam Burket visited Garrett City a few days ago and was much pleased with the place and its enterprising citizens. He says that it will be an excellent opening next spring for mechanics The want of lumber somewhat retards their building this season. He was especially pleased with the tent hotel of Mr. B. D. Thomas.

A man by the name of Green, from Kendallville, has come to town with an omnibus, in opposition to Ryan & Ford. It has been said that he offers special inducements to traveling men at Kendallville, but whether the same is to be expected here, deponant sayeth not. Two buss lines will hardly pay yet awhile and we believe our citizens will stand to the old line.

LADIES! before you buy new Dress Goods, we want to show you our stock, as we believe we can suit you with our assortment of Prints, Ginghams, Delaines Alpaccas, Merinos, Empress and Waterproof Cloths, and in fact we have almost every desirable style and quality of dress goods in the market. 2w

GEO. H. MUNN, Auburn, Ind.

It is expected that Tom Mays will arrive in this city on Tuesday next, as one of the Texas excursionists. At least there isn't an editorial excursion on record of which Tom was't a member.—[Fort Wayne News.

Thank you neighbor. We take a deep interest in the "News." We take a greater interest in its reliability. In order that the above might be verified we made a personal sacrifice, and didn't go.

Again we say! Low prices will tell, and people will tell low prices. Our motto is, the best goods for the least money. How will you ever know the full truth of the above motto, if you dont give us a call. You are invited, and if we cant suit you, it wont cost you a cent for our trouble. Awaiting your appearance we are. Yours Truly.

GEO. H. MUNN, Auburn, Ind. 2w

The spiritualists held a meeting last Sunday at Richmond's Grove, in the east part of the county. Mr. Taylor officiated, and through his medinistic powers, Tom Payne of old was called on for a few remarks. It is claimed for true spiritualism that progession is the leading feature beyond the grave, according to this doctrine, the speech of Mr. Payne on this occasion, showed that he had retrogaded fearfully during his short sojourn in the land of bliss.

Yesterday two men met at the corner of Main and Seventh streets, and the following conversation was had:

I say, John, where did you get that coat?"

"Why," And turning around he says: Don't she set on me tony?"

"Your shoutin' it does. I never saw such a fit. See mine—it sets like a shirt on a broom handle."

Now, John, never go to any place but Miller & Casebeer's and then you will always have a good fit, substantial material, and CHEAP as you would wish.

The following is the list of jurors for the Circuit Court which begins Sept 27: George Clark, James McClellan, George W. Woodcox, Dwight Moody, David McCurdy, David Maxwell, Daniel Altenberg Jacob Becker, John Potts, James D. Kelly, Martin Hook and Leverett Williams. The following are the Petit Jurors: Stewart P. Wartenbe, Isaac Culbertson, E. S. McDowell, John Beidler, E. Weaver, George W. Draggoo, A. W. Blair, B. F. Blair, James H. Maxwell, Jacob Grogg, John Pepple and H. E. Altenberg.

It is said that musquitoes by their numerousness or scarcity indicate the serverity of the winter following their infernal existence. When their fecundity is something like a fish, then old Boreas is just going to bring down the north pole right among us. If this is so everybody may expect to have an iceberg of their own this winter. As a dar key told us once: When you see so many skeeters not singin' a bit, but jest gettin' down right square to business, you may know dey's layin' in a supply of pervishuns for a hard winter. Dat's my sign.

The Newville boys beat our nine last Tuesday by three scores. The difference between the players, of both nines, is but a trifle. Our boys did'nt play as good as they generally do, owing to the noise and confusion of the Newville nine. They were windy, and after all did'nt say much. Our boys gave them several chances that they were not entitled to, which undoubtedly gave them the game. Auburn has the fairest set of boys to be found anywhere, and they would rather lose the game than to win it, in any particular, unfair.

Advertised Letters.

The following are letters remaining in the Auburn post office, not called for.

A. J. Aark, B. V. Bowyer, Andrew Boyer, Miss Sylvia Bailey, Natharnd Clark, Edward Clark, J. D. Clark, A. Duitt, Andrew Dine, Dolly Dimple, Mrs L. Davis, Orlando Guilford, Albert Ginterson, James Hugh, Harva Hary, David Hartgan, Susan Hanes, Daniel Henderson, James Iale, Mrs. Argaline Idle, B. F. Jones, F. R. Kennedy, Henry Knapp, Jonna King, John Lhester, S. B. Niller, David Mowry, John H. Mowry, W. W. Miller, L. Miller, Mrs. Malone, R. G. Marcy, R. T. Reed, Mary J. Robertson Joseph Smith, Catherine Smith, Ella Snider, Fazette Sole, Chas Toll, Han Thomas.

When calling for these letter, please say advertised

S. L. YANDES, P. M.

Notice of Administration

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed Executor of the estate of Benjamin Rufuer late of DeKalb county, deceased. Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

JAMES BARTON, Adm'r.

Sep. 3.

IF YOU NEED

CLOTHING!

VISIT

KAHN'S Clothing House!

It will Pay You.

Ensly's Block, Two Doors East Post Office

AUBURN, IND.

Grand Excursion.

To Put-in-Bay and Kelly's Island.—The Detroit Eel River Railroad will run an excursion train in connection with the elegant steamer Chief Justice Waite for the above, Sept. 21st 1875. Time of trian and rates of fare for round trip including boat as follows:

Leave Logansport.	8. A. M.	$5.50
Auburn.	11:50 " "	3.00
Butler.	12:20 P. M.
Arrive Toledo.	3:00

Boat will leave Toledo on arrival of train running thus to Put-in-Bay and Kellys Island, returning to the Bay the same night and remaining until 2 P. M. of Sept., 2nd. Tickets will be good to return by any regular boat and train, and including Sept., 25th. For further particulars see posters.

S. HOWELL, Gen. Ft. & Tkt. Agt.
A. B. SOUTHARD, Gen. Supt

Spencerville Items.

EDITOR COURIER.—I thought the many readers of your paper would be pleased to hear from our enterprising little town Business is lively and everything promising. A peep into our stores this morning convinced me, that we have two stores here that do as much business as any other two in the county.

We had some very unwelcome guests last night, but they left taking with them several sets of harness, bridles, saddles, horse blankets, whips, &c., amounting to about $120. Our friends Dr. Murphy and G. A. Bishop, say they are very thankful that the pins upon which the harness hung, were left. Several from town have gone in pursuit of the thieves. But they will not likely be overtaken, as their whereabouts is not known.

The Lutherian church is undergoing a repair. The Lutherian friends are preparing to hold their Synod at this place to commence October 5th. The good mothers have been raising lots of chickens for the occasion as about seventy five ministers are expected, and as a matter of course chickens and sausage will be in good demand.

Our enterprising butchers Chaney Bros. are kept busy running out from six to eight beeves and five or six calves each week.

Our friend A. C. Dawson, left this place this week. We learn he intends to go to Nevada to speculate some in the mines. We wish him success.

Last week Spencerville lost two of her blushing young widows, only to be found under the assumed names, Koonts and Blake.

Our school is in full blast, with Mr. Allen and Miss Coder as teachers. The enrollment has reached seventy six. A number of foreign students are in attendance and a number of teachers, some that have taught twelve or more terms, some who have taught but one or two terms, other who have never taught but expects to teach are availing themselves of the advantages of the school A visit of a few minutes in the schoolroom would convince any one that the intention of the teachers is to create original thought and invention, instead of making use of the effete pump methods of foggyism. The school promises to be a grand success. The citizens of the place take pride in their school, everything is made pleasant for teachers and pupils.

The Goshen "Democrat" gives the following terrible accident: Mr. Amos Bechtel, of Harrison-tp., was engaged in threshing, assisted by his daughter, 11 years of age, who carried the grain bags to the machine to be filled with wheat. The farmer went to step over the belt, carrying a heavy pitchfork in his hands The fork caught on the rapidly revolving belt, and was thrown in the air, falling with great force, the tines of the fork striking the girl on the right temple and penetrating her brain from the effects of which she died. It was a sudden and terrible calamity.

ARE YOU DYSPEPTIC?

If so, and you desire immediate relief, go to the drug store of F. E. Davenport and get a bottle of DeCosta's Radical cure. It will tone up th stomach, assist digestion restore the appetite regulate the liver, and in fact make a new man of you. Delicate females will fine it peculiar adapted to their varipus disorders. It is the mos efficacious antidote for all diseases arising from a disorded stomach, liver or a low state of the system, that has ever been prescribed or advertised. Try it just once, and you will, like thousands of others become its enthusiastic advocate Trial sized 25 cents.

GILES' LINIMENT

IODIDE OF AMMONIA

Cures Neuralgia, Face ache, Rheumatism, Gout, Frosted Feet, chilblains, sore throat Erysipelas, Bruises or Wounds of every kind in man or animal.

Giles' Liniment Iodine of Ammonia has been used by myself and family with satisfactory results. I recommend it to all persons suffering with pains or aches of any kind. It surpasses anything I have ever used. G. H. MILLER, Pres. Real Estate & Savings Bank, Baltimore Md. Sold by all Druggists. Depot No. 451 Sixth avenue, New York. Only 50c and $1 per bottle Sold by J. H. EHLERS.

No. 30 4w

IT IS HERE.

WHAT

The Largest Fall Stock of Fine

CLOTHING

Ever brought to Indiana, now on display,

SAM, PETE & MAX

No. 5 Main, and 31 Calhoun Streets.

Star Clothing House!

FORT WAYNE, IND.

AT BOND'S NOVELTY STORE!

Muslins, Flannels, Hosiery, Gloves and other staple goods in large stock.

YARNS

Germantown yarn, first quality.
Germantown yarn, first quality, Balmoral.
Merino yarn, shetland wool.
Saxony yarn Saxonia yarn.
Knitting yarn of all kinds, including the celebrated German knitting yarn.
Knitting cotton, Crochet cotton.
Cotton especially for mending stockings, in small skeins.
RUG canvas and other kinds.
Infant's bootees, sacks and shirts, and all kinds of knit goods made to order.

Stamping.

Braiding and Embroidery done to order.
German knitting Cotton, complete stocking darner, stocking suppotters.
Corsets in varity, including Madame Foy's corset at $1,
French embroidery silk, shaded embroidery silk, large skeins 5 cents.
And a large stock of staple and fancy goods at exceedingly low prices.

21 West Main St.

Sheriff's Sale.

By virture of an Execution to me directed from the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court, in a cause wherein Aaron D. Moore and Isaac Meese are Plaintiff's, and James Sanborn and William C. Haskill are Defendant's, requiring me to make the sum of One Hundred Fifty Dollars and thirteen cents, with interest on said judgment and costs, I will expose at public sale to the highest bidder on Saturday, October 2nd, 1875.

between the hours of 10 o'clock A. M. and four o'clock P. M. of said day, at the door of the Court House of DeKalb County, Ind., the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years of the following real estate, to-wit:

The undivided one third part of the south half (½) of the south-west quarter of section nine [9] Township thirty-three north of range fourteen [14] east in DeKalb County, Indiana.

If such rents and profits will not sell for a sufficient sum to satisfy said judgment, interest and costs I will at the same time and place, expose at public sale the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to discharge said judgment, interest and costs.

Sale will be made without any releief whatever from valuation and appraisement law.

WILLIAM L. MEESE, SHERIFF.
Rose & Hartman, atty's for plff.
Auburn, Ind. Sept. 9, 1875.

$12.60.

Notice to Tax Payers.

Tax payers are hereby notified, that the Legislature of last winter changed the time in the law for paying the 2nd installment of taxes. The time expires this year on the 30th day of October instead of the 15th day of November, as it has been before. The following is the section of law passed by the Legislature.

SECTION 1st. Any person or tax payer, charged with taxes on a tax duplicate in the hands of a county Treasurer may pay the full amount of such taxes on or before the 3rd Monday of April or may at his option, pay one half thereof, on or before such 3rd Monday of November following, provided, however, that all road taxes so charged shall be paid prior to the first Monday of November, in the manner provided by law, and provided further, that in all cases where as much as one half of the amount of the taxes charged against a tax payer, shall not be paid on or before the 3rd Monday in April, the whole amount shall become due and be returned delinquent and collected as provided by law.

Remember that the time expires this year on the 30th day of October instead of the 15th day of November as heretofore. The new law requires me to commence my settlement with the Auditor on the first Monday of November, so that all taxes remaining unpaid at that date will be returned delinquent, with 10 per cent. penalty and collected as required by law.

Collectors will be entitled to mileage from the Court House door to where the delinquent tax payer lives under the new law instead of from the voting place of the tax payer to where he lives, as it was under the old law.

Do not put off paying until the last few days but come early, or we cannot make the receipts, for as yet only a few have paid their 2nd installment.

Yours respectfully,
NICHOLAS ENSLEY, Treas.
DeKalb County, Ind.

Auburn, Ind. Sept. 8th, 1875.

AUBURN COURIER

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 1875.

THE NEWS CONDENSED.

THE EAST.

The news of the collapse of the Bank of California caused considerable excitement in Eastern financial circles, but its effects were only slightly felt.

Col. Edward Longstreet, of the suspended firm of Longstreet & Dennison, heavy leather dealers at Syracuse, N. Y., has followed the example of Ralston, and committed suicide.

The well-known Boston publishing firm of Lee & Shepard have failed....Union Adams & Co., heavy wholesale dealers in men's furnishing goods, New York, have suspended.

A laborer named Davis was recently murdered and robbed by tramps in the woods, near Danville, Vt.....Patrick Reardon, of Saxonville, Mass., last week shot and killed his wife and then shot himself dead.

A singularly tragic suicide was enacted at New York the other day. Signor Pietro Vianni, a prominent Italian artist, while reciting a poem at a picnic of his fellow-countrymen, suddenly drew a revolver from his pocket and shot himself through the temple.

The Congress Hotel, at Sharon Springs, N. Y., a popular summer resort, has been destroyed by fire. Loss, $100,000....There was a high-toned wedding at Newport, R. I., last week. Charles Joseph Bonaparte, grandson of Jerome Bonaparte, was married to Miss Day, of Boston.

THE WEST.

The Canadian steamer Manitoba collided with the propeller Comet, on the evening of the 27th of August, near Whitefish Point, Lake Superior, and sank her instantly. Ten of the twenty persons on board the Comet perished. No one on the Manitoba was injured, and she continued her journey. The Comet was bound down, heavily laden with ore, while the Manitoba was bound up, light....An express car on the Union Pacific railroad was robbed of several packages of money, near Table Rock Station, Utah, a few days ago. The robbers got on top of the cars and climbed through a window while the train was in motion....A San Francisco dispatch announces the temporary suspension of the National Gold Bank and the Merchants' Exchange Bank....A female forger was captured at St. Louis, the other day, in an attempt to defraud the Broadway Bank out of $8,000. She presented a letter of introduction and what purported to be a certified check on a Chicago house; but the bank officials suspected a swindle, and the woman and a confederate were taken into custody.

The large four-masted steamer Persian, bound from Chicago to Buffalo, with 67,000 bushels of grain and other freight, was lately burned on Lake Erie. The vessel was valued at $125,000....A malignant and fatal plague has broken out among the cattle in the vicinity of St. Louis....W. C. Ralston, on the day of his death, deeded all his property to William Sharm in trust for the benefit of the creditors of the Bank of California. Public opinion in San Francisco is divided regarding the cause of the great banker's death, some people believing that he died of apoplexy. The majority, however, adhere to the theory of suicide.

The crops in Kansas pan out immensely. The Secretary of State estimates that the State will have 55,000,000 bushels of surplus corn for exportation....The funeral of Wm. C. Ralston, at San Francisco, was one of the most imposing pageants ever witnessed on the Pacific coast. Among the mourners were delegations from all the military and civic societies of the city, as well as representatives of all the manufacturing concerns in which the deceased was interested. The entire city was draped in mourning as a token of respect for the late princely banker. The Board of Supervisors of San Francisco refused to pass resolutions of respect to his memory.

Sixty-three Chicagoans died during August under circumstances sufficiently suspicious to require Coroner's inquests....Thieves entered the residence of Gen. Anson Stager, in Chicago, at mid-day, bound and gagged the servants, broke open the silver chest and carried off its contents....The Bank of California has been reorganized, with D. O. Mills as President, and will immediately resume business. Seven million dollars have been subscribed to tide the bank over its present difficulties, of which Senator Sharon, D. O. Mills, Michael Reese, E. J. Baldwin and J. R. Keene contributed $1,000,000 each.

George A. Smith, Brigham Young's chief lieutenant, is dead. He was Second President of the Mormon church....Col. C. B. Wilkinson, editor of the St. Joseph (Mo.) Herald, and Internal Revenue Collector, who was some time ago arrested and placed under bonds of $15,000 for embezzlement, has not been heard of for some time, and it is said he has fled to Canada or Europe. Creditors have attached all his real estate.

The wheat crop in Minnesota, Iowa and Western Wisconsin was badly damaged by the recent heavy rains....An excursion train of six cars on the Atchison and Nebraska railroad was thrown into the ditch a few days ago, near Brenner Station, Kan., and three persons killed and eight or ten badly wounded. The accident was caused by the spreading of the track. The train was conveying persons to Atchison to attend the bridge celebration.

THE SOUTH.

A duel was fought the other day at Waco, Texas, between Charles Carrick and J. M. Turner, the result of a trivial quarrel. It took place in the dark—distance, four feet; weapons, six-shooters. Three shots were discharged, and Turner was killed.

The Republican Banner and the Union and American, of Nashville, Tenn., the two oldest daily papers in the Southwest, have been consolidated.

Louisville now enjoys the luxury of a penny paper....Four children of Mr. Mier, of Ascension parish, La., were recently poisoned with French worm lozenges, and died in a few hours.

Dispatches from Yazoo City, Miss., give brief and imperfect accounts of a riot between negroes, at a political meeting in that place, on the 2d inst. One of the speakers denounced some one as a thief, the lie was given and shooting commenced. Fifty shots were fired. Several were wounded, and Dick Mitchell, late Republican candidate for Mayor, was killed, and W. H. Foote, a prominent colored politician, was mortally wounded. The dispatches state that no whites were engaged in the affair, but it is added that they were arming.

Another dishonest bank official has been detected in his nefarious work—this time at Louisville. A few mornings ago Louis Rhem, teller of the Planters' National Bank, went to a police station in that city, and, pretending that he was unable to articulate, wrote on the slate that his wife had been chloroformed and he had been taken to the bank and forced to open the vaults by four men, who had robbed the bank. His clothes were bloody and he exhibited several wounds. His story was not believed, and after some sharp questioning he confessed that he had stolen the money and conducted the officers to the spot where he had it concealed, under the floor of a private gymnasium, in the rear of his residence. Here the whole of the plunder, consisting of $100,000 in cash and [illegible] in bonds, was found wrapped in a sheet and buried under the sawdust. He gave as a reason for the crime that he had been speculating and lost money.

WASHINGTON.

President Grant has appointed Edwin B. Smith, of Massachusetts, First Assistant Attorney-General....The Assistant Treasurer in New York has been directed by the Secretary of the Treasury to sell $4,000,000 in gold during the month of September, as follows: $1,000,000 on the first, third, and fifth Thursdays each, and $500,000 each on the second and fourth Thursdays....There will be another trial of the safe-burglary case of Harrington and others, new and important evidence having been discovered.

The Treasury Department has declined to transfer any more gold to California, as it has sent all it can spare.

J. M. Thatcher, Commissioner of Patents, has resigned....The government has paid the Elgee cotton claim, amounting to $266,000.

The following is the statement of the public debt for the month just closed:

Six per cent. bonds	$1,085,965,550
Five per cent. bonds	622,632,750
Total coin bonds	$1,708,598,300
Lawful money debt	$14,678,000
Matured debt	17,961,260
Legal tenders	374,315,565
Certificates of deposit	64,780,000
Fractional currency	41,137,018
Coin certificates	17,618,500
Total without interest	$497,851,084
Total debt	$2,209,388,644
Total interest	26,919,783
Cash in Treasury:
Coin	$71,117,272
Currency	4,602,365
Special deposit held for redemption of certificates of deposit	64,780,000
Total in Treasury	$140,499,638
Debt less cash in the Treasury	$2,125,808,789
Decrease of debt during August	1,581,049
Decrease since June 30	2,879,926
Bonds issued to the Pacific Railway Companies, interest payable in lawful money; Principal outstanding	$64,623,512
Interest accrued and not yet paid	646,235
Interest paid by the United States	28,202,807
Interest repaid by transportation of mails, etc.	6,304,047
Balance of interest paid by the United States	21,894,760

The Secretary of the Treasury is sanguine that the Syndicate will take all the remaining 5 per cents. by the 1st of next November. In case they do the negotiation of the new 4½ per cents. will be at once begun.

GENERAL.

The Chicago papers publish a detailed statement in reference to the fast mail train to be run between Chicago and New York. A train will leave Chicago at 9 p. m., arriving in New York about 12 o'clock at night of the next day. There will also be another train leaving New York at 4:15 a. m. of the same day, arriving in Chicago at 6:30 the following morning, making the trip in about twenty-six hours, a gain of fourteen hours over the previous running time....The suspension of the Bank of California was brought about by a fight between some of its speculative managers and another set of capitalists and mining speculators, who had organized the Bank of Nevada, having a cash capital of five million dollars in gold. The subject of the fight was in regard to some of the "big Bonanza" mines, which the Bank of California people had secured control of some time ago, when prices were very much higher than now. The well-known speculative operations of the Bank of California managers, coupled with the decline in mining stocks, so impaired confidence in the bank that depositors began a run on the bank which compelled it to stop payment. Ralston, the President of the institution, has lost $6,000,000 in mining speculations within a few months.

The assets of the suspended Bank of California are less than $6,000,000, while the liabilities are about $14,000,000. No wonder the "magnificent" Ralston went and drowned himself. The affairs of the bank have been put in the hands of an executive committee, consisting of William Alvord and George H. Howard....Advices have been received at Washington from prominent officers on the Rio Grande, to the effect that cattle stealing and murders of peaceable American citizens are still perpetrated by Mexican marauders, and in all probability they will continue in spite of the forces our government can send there, unless they can break up the bands of assassins and thieves on either side of the river, and as far in the interior of Mexico as may be found necessary....Our Canadian neighbors have not escaped the effects of the prevailing depression of business, and numerous failures are announced in Montreal, Toronto and Quebec. A recent telegram from the first-named city says fourteen dry goods firms had come to an arrangement with their creditors within a week.

A San Francisco telegram says it is probable that the Bank of California will soon resume business again. The stockholders of the institution represent $150,000,000....The explorations of Prof. Hayden's surveying party in the far west, as detailed in his report to the Interior Department, show how little even our best geographers know of the prominent features of the great territory lying nearly due westward of Chicago. A canon some 3,000 feet deep, through which a mighty river flowed, was discovered, and the remains of an ancient civilization that were found are said to be truly remarkable. The records of these surveys will no doubt prove highly interesting, not only to scientists, but to people at large.

The reports of disasters on the great lakes for the present season show that they already outnumber the unusually disastrous season of 1874, and are largely in excess of the wrecks reported on the ocean.

POLITICAL.

The New York Liberal Republican State Convention will be held at Albany Sept. 22....The campaign in Ohio waxes warm.

A dispatch from San Francisco, dated Sept. 3, says: "The election returns come in very slowly, but it is sure that the Democrats have carried the State by a plurality of nearly 20,000, and a majority of about 10,000. The city government is mainly Democratic."

FOREIGN.

A Madrid dispatch announces that Seo de Urgel, which has for some weeks been in a state of siege, has capitulated to the Alfonsists. The garrison were made prisoners of war....Late advices from Tripoli state that ample apology has been made for the insult offered to the American Consul, and the sloop-of-war Hartford had left for home....The Herzegovinian difficulty with Turkey is still the leading topic in European dispatches. The cable tells us that seven thousand women and children have fled into Croatia for safety, while the insurgents have burned and sacked two small towns. Turkey has a pretty big job on hand to subdue the turbulent spirits in that insignificant but almost impregnable mountain region.

The cattle plague is spreading in England....San Domingo is in the throes of another revolution. The revolutionists have proclaimed Baez president, but the leading cities remained loyal to their legitimate ruler, Gonzales....The price of grain continues to decline in the European markets....Mohammed Ali has been appointed commander-in-chief of the Turkish forces in Herzegovina and Bosnia....Six of the editors of the Zeitung, a newspaper published at Frankfort, Germany, are in prison for refusing to disclose the authorship of certain articles. One of them, Leopold Sonneman, is a member of the Prussian Parliament....From cable advices from the seat of war, the disturbances in the Turkish provinces seem to be spreading. The province of Albania has caught the infection and is in open revolt....Spain has decided to send 22,000 more troops to Cuba.

The recent pleasant weather in Great Britain and on the continent has enabled the farmers to gather their crops with but little injury. The yield, however, is deficient, both in quantity and quality, especially in Great Britain and France. In other parts of Europe, there will be little deficiency over last year....A Berlin dispatch says that all of North Bosina is in full rebellion against Turkey. The fugitives who sought safety on Austrian soil number 80,000, and are mostly the wives and children of rebels, who have deserted their villages and made for the hills. In Herzegovina, the insurgents have formed a national government under Lynbobratich. The insurgent leaders have been informed by their Montenegrin friends that, very shortly, all Montenegro will come to their assistance. In Servia, military preparations continue....News has been received from the English polar expedition, at Disco, West Greenland. All well. Preparations were being made for pushing north as far as possible....The Carlists, in Spain, are greatly discouraged at the reverses they have recently encountered, and it is said Don Carlos may disband his forces and await a more favorable period to renew the struggle.

The reported revolution in Hayti turns out to be a hoax.

Peace once more reigns in the South American States of Colombia. The commanders of the government army and the army of the insurgents have signed a treaty....The British iron-clad war steamer Vanguard—one of the strongest of the navy—has been sunk in the English Channel by coming in collision with another war vessel....The anniversary of the surrender of Sedan (Sept. 2) was observed throughout Germany as a holiday and a day of general rejoicing.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

Weekly Review of the Chicago Market.

FINANCIAL.

Country orders for currency light and the money market was quiet. The supply of loanable funds was large and interest rates were easy at 7@8c per cent. for good collaterals. Government bonds steady and firm.

BREADSTUFFS.

The grain markets have been quite active throughout the entire week, speculators taking hold quite freely, both the local and order demand being quite active. Values have been somewhat irregular, but the changes and fluctuations were not at a very wide range, the closing quotations not showing much change, save for corn, which was materially lower. The receipts were larger, but operators had expected increased arrivals, as, during the closing days of the month, the August shorts had calculated on receiving increased quantities of grain for delivery on matured contracts. Spring wheat was quite firm with a good demand from shorts and on shipping account. Corn was lower, mainly under the influence of the warm weather for the growing crop. Oats ruled steady. Rye and barley firmer.

The following table shows the prices current at the opening and close of the past week:

	Opening.	Closing.
No. 2 sp'g wheat, cash	@1.15¾	@1.17½
No. 2, seller August..	$1.15 @1.15½	@1.17½
No. 2 sellerSeptember	@1.15	1.15 @1.15½
No. 2 seller October...	1.14½ @1.14½	1.14½
No. 2 corn, cash.....	.67½ @ .68	@ .64½
No. 2 corn, s. August.	.67½ @ .68	.64½ @ .65
No. 2 corn, seller Sept	@ .68	@ .64½
No. 2 oats, cash......	@ .40	@ .39¼
No. 2 oats, s. August.	.39 @ .39½	.39½
No. 2 oats, s. Sept....	@ .35½	.35½ bid.
No. 2 rye, cash......	.82 @ .82½	@ .84
No. 2 rye, seller Aug..	.82 @ .83	.83 @ .84
No. 2 rye, seller Sept.	@ .78	@ .78
No. 2 barley, cash....	.... @	1.10 bid.
No. 2 barley, s. Sept...	@1.03	@1.07½
No. 2 barley, s. Oct...	@1.02	@1.05
No. 3 barley, cash....	.78 @ .82	@ .83

PROVISIONS.

There was more doing in this market during the past week, but the offerings were large, and there was only a small improvement in values. Mess pork was in good speculative demand and an advance of 25@30c was established. Cash mess pork closed at $20.25, seller August at $20.20, and seller September at $20.25@20.30. Cash lard closed quiet at $13.12½, seller September at $13.10@13.15, and seller October at $13.20@13.25.

PRODUCE.

There has been nothing new of essential importance developed in the market for butter during the week that has just passed. There has been but little disposition shown to make any extensive purchases of the lower grades, and considerable more caution was exhibited on the part of shippers and parties who buy for the purpose of re-packing. The few buyers on the market, owing to the unfavorable advices from the East, were endeavoring to purchase at shaded prices, but the stock on our market was very meager and these reports had no apparent effect on the market. The better grades of butter have met with a good local inquiry, and the receipts were barely sufficient to supply the trade. There was no change of consequence in prices, the prime grades being very firm, and the lower qualities were steady at the decline noted in our reviews of the previous week. One of the principal reasons for the stock now on the market is that dealers in the East have used every endeavor to induce Western shippers and dealers to consign their shipments to their markets, and a good many lots have in this manner passed direct to the seaboard. The European demand for some time past has been light, and this being about the only outlet for butter in the Eastern markets, the consequence is that the above mentioned markets have had a surplus supply, and prices are at the present time lower than in this market. On the other hand the outlets from this market are quite numerous. There has been a good trade with Southern points during the season, and a large amount has been shipped to the lumbering districts. Exporters also find it to their advantage to make purchases at this market, as the rates of freight and the connections are such as to form a healthy competition with the Eastern markets. Dealers here, in anticipation of more liberal receipts, are keeping their stocks well closed out, and the market was never in a better condition for the receipt and handling of consignments. The quotations given below are for the grades adopted by the Butter Association: 22@25c for Extras, 18@20c for Firsts, 15@16c for Seconds, 14@15c for Thirds, and 12@13c for inferior stock. There were no sales of beans made that were of consequence and prices were unchanged. Prime Eastern mediums quotable at $1.60 per bu. Western were entirely nominal. There was a fair trade reported in broom corn and the market ruled steady, as follows: 11½@13½c for No. 1 to extra hurl, 10½@11½c for good to choice stalk braid, and 6@8½c for crooked. Beeswax quiet at 20@28c for good to prime yellow. Berries were rather quiet and the receipts consisted mainly of blackberries, which closed at $3.50@4.00 for Wilsons, $3 for Lawton, and $1.75@2.00 for wild. Cheese was quiet at unchanged prices; quotable at 5@9c for poor to good, and 10½@11c for prime. Dried fruits were firmer and a fairly active business was reported. The market closed at 10c for prime Eastern apples, 11½c for halves peaches and 11½c for blackberries. Dried peas dull at $2.00@2.10 for choice green and $1.35@1.75 for marrowfat. There was nothing of consequence done in feathers; quotable at 48@52c for prime live geese, and 20@25c for choice turkey tail. Green fruits were fairly active, out prices under surplus offerings closed weak and lower. Apples closed at $1.00@3.00 per bbl for common to prime cooking, and $3.00@3.50 for eating. Peaches 75c@$1.00 in ⅓-bu boxes, and about 75c for ⅝-bu baskets. Plums, $1.00 per basket for Green Gages and Damson plums, $2.00@2.50 for Delaware Bartletts, $1.00@1.25 for Southern do, and 50@75c for common descriptions. Grapes sold at 6@9c per lb. Hides were in fair demand and firm at 8½c for green salted all round, and 12@13c for calf. Hops dull at 10@18c per lb. Melons were dull at $10.00@20.00 per 100 for watermelons, according to quality. Nutmegs sold at 50@75c in small crates, and 75c@$1.00 in crates containing two dozen. Potatoes were dull, and outside lots were almost unsalable. Salt remains steady at $1.50 for Onondaga and Saginaw fine, and $1.70 for ordinary coarse. Sweet potatoes sold slowly at $4.75 per brl for Jerseys, and $3.50 for yellow Illinois. Wool remains dull and unchanged. Sales of veal were slow at 5@8c, according to quality.

SEEDS AND HIGHWINES.

There was considerable new timothy seed received during the week, but there was a very good demand and prices ruled steady and a fairly active business was transacted. The quality of the seed arriving was rather poor, and of prime the offerings were only moderate. Sales were made at $2.40@2.65 for poor to good, and $2.70@2.75 for prime. Clover was inactive and nominal at $8.00@8.20 for good to choice medium. Flax met with a fair demand and prices were steady. Sales ranged at $1.50@1.60 for fair to good crushing. The other descriptions were inactive and nominal. Highwines were steady and a fair trade was reported at $1.19½.

COOPERAGE, LUMBER AND WOOD.

The quietness of several weeks back again existed in this market during the past week, but as usual the feeling that prevailed was one of steadiness, and former prices were maintained. Quotable at $1.12½@1.15 for pork barrels, $1.35@1.45 for lard tierces, $1.90@2.10 for whisky barrels, and 45@55c for flour barrels. There was a better demand for lumber, but the supply of cargoes was rather light, and the market for this reason ruled quiet. Prices were steady at $6.25@8.50 for joist and scantling, $8.75@15.00 for common strips and boards, $2.10@2.70 for shingles, and $1.50 for lath. There was no business of consequence doing in wood, and prices remain unchanged; quotable at $8.00 per cord for hickory, $6.50 for maple, $5.50 for beech, and $4.00 for slabs at the yard.

Telegraphic Market Reports.

NEW YORK.

Beeves	$7 50	@13 00
Hogs—Dressed	10¾	@ 11
Cotton	14½	@ 15
Flour—Superfine Western	4 70	@ 5 25
Wheat—No. 2 Chicago	1 26	@ 1 32
Corn	74	@ 78
Oats	57	@ 59
Rye	98	@ 1 06
Pork—New Mess	20 80	@20 90
Lard—Steam	13¾	@ 14

ST. LOUIS.

Wheat—No. 2 Red	1 39	@ 1 40
Corn—No. 2	60	@ 62
Oats—No. 2	34¼	@ 34½
Rye—No. 2	77	@ 78
Pork—Mess	21 67½	@21 75
Lard	12¾	@ 13
Hogs	7 50	@ 8 00
Cattle	2 50	@ 6 35

MILWAUKEE.

Wheat—No. 1	..	@ 1 20½
No. 2	..	@ 1 16½
Corn—No. 2		@ 61½
Oats—No. 2	31	@ 35
Rye	..	@ 81
Barley—No. 2		@ 1 08

CINCINNATI.

Wheat	80	@ 1 35
Corn	73	@ 74
Oats	49	@ 50
Rye	..	@ 86
Pork—Mess	20 50	@20 75
Lard	13¾	@ 14

TOLEDO.

Wheat—Extra	..	@ 1 43
Amber	..	@ 1 32
Corn	63	@ 67
Oats	38	@ 40

DETROIT.

Wheat—Extra	..	@ 1 44
Amber	..	@ 1 29
Corn	..	@ 74
Oats	36	@ 44

CLEVELAND.

Wheat—No. 1 Red		@ 1 54
No. 2 Red		@ 1 28
Corn	78	@ 79
Oats	41	@ 43

Capt. Webb's Wonderful Swimming Feat.

The cable furnishes the following particulars of the marvelous feat achieved by Capt. Webb, of swimming across the English channel:

Capt. Webb started (Aug. 24) on his swim across the channel, at the rate of 20 strokes to the minute. The weather was calm. At 5:20 he lunched on ale and beef tea, and at 8 o'clock on beef tea and beer. He then rested, floating on his back. At 9 o'clock he was troubled with floating seaweed. At 11 o'clock, cod-liver oil was given him. The moon rose at 1 in the morning. He indulged in brandy and tea. At this time Webb declared the accomplishment of the feat a sure thing. At 3 he partook of coffee. Then the tide turned, running northward, and the Captain appeared exhausted. His trainer stripped, ready to render assistance, but Webb laughingly declined his services. His strokes at this time were at the rate of 20 per minute. Fears arose that the northern tide would drift him abreast of Calais sands, and, as the sequel proved, he had four miles further to swim. Daylight broke at 4 o'clock, finding him drowsy, when he indulged in coffee and brandy. At 5:30 Riden's buoys were sighted, and their position located. At 7 there was a westerly breeze and chopping sea, retarding in their influences, and it was only indomitable pluck that insured success. A skiff was kept on the weather side, Webb swimming slowly from this time. He indulged in brandy straight every twenty minutes. Soundings were taken at 8 o'clock, and 10 fathoms reported. Steamers now made their appearance from Calais, and steamed along the weather side of the swimmer, breaking the sea. Cheers rung on incessantly, giving fresh hope to the gallant swimmer, who laid a direct course for Calais sands, westward of the pier. At 10:30 o'clock he was in shallow water, and at 10:40 to-day, incredible to relate, the brave Matthew Webb stood on land. He was tired, but soon recovered, and was conveyed to a hotel in a carriage, where he was rubbed down and put to bed. Capt. Webb, naked, beats Paul Boyton about two hours. In London, the wildest enthusiasm prevails. It is pronounced by the press the greatest physical feat of the century.

FINANCIAL WRECKS.

Collapse of the Bank of California—Liabilities Estimated at $35,000,000 to $50,000,000—Great Excitement in California—Heavy Failure of a Baltimore Sugar House.

THE BANK OF CALIFORNIA.

A San Francisco dispatch gives the following particulars of the collapse of the Bank of California, the leading financial institution of the Pacific coast:

The Bank of California has failed. The city is convulsed with excitement, and rumors of the wildest nature are in circulation. The whole city is discussing the situation, and Montgomery street is blocked with the throng. The burning of half the city could not have caused more intense feeling. One reason for this is that so many here are interested in speculative enterprises, which must all feel the shock. It has long been known that Ralston's management of the bank was the reverse of conservative, and for months rumors of trouble have been quietly circulated. The excitement in Nevada mining stocks and the bursting of the "bonanza" bubble of last year are known to have entailed heavy losses upon the bank; while Pacific Mail speculations in lands and railways, and the building of costly "palace" hotels have also had their influence. No one knows what the liabilities are; they are estimated all the way from $35,000,000 to $75,000,000; and the assets from $10,000,000 to $25,000,000.

When it became known to the officers of the bank that the coin in their vaults was gone, they made every effort to secure relief from other banks, and also from the United States mint and subtreasury, but without avail. The other banks, which for years have looked with jealousy and distrust upon the Bank of California, were only too glad to see it go under, but it is doubtful if this was wise, for the ruin which has befallen the giant, bids fair to destroy the pigmies. Ralston, the President of the bank, is blamed for his extravagance, and to that is attributed the failure, but it will probably appear that a few of the trustees and officers of the institution have feathered their nests and profited, while the depositors and stockholders have lost their all. The bank's capital is $5,000,000, and its deposits about that sum. It has done a large foreign business, and in connection with the immense wheat, tea, silk, and general trade of this port has issued bills on English, German, Chinese, Japanese, and South American cities. The bank has notified its agencies all over the coast to stop payment, and this will necessarily prostrate business east as well as west of the Sierra Nevadas. Ralston tries to bear up under his adversity, but he feels his fall deeply and will neither show himself nor give any information as to the affairs of the bank. He has spent money lavishly and foolishly, and those who have lost have been heard to utter threats against his life. If it should once appear that he had been more than extravagant, that he has been dishonest, that there has been fraud, Ralston would probably adorn a lamp-post. Luckily the class of depositors of the bank comprises those who can better afford to lose than if they were poor. The workingmen are not largely represented among the depositors. The morrow is looked forward to with fear and trembling.

SUICIDE OF W. C. RALSTON, PRESIDENT OF THE BANK.

A San Francisco dispatch of Aug. 28 gives the following particulars of the suicide of Ralston, the President of the suspended bank:

About 10 minutes past 5 a close carriage drove rapidly to the side door of the Bank of California, a gentleman jumped out in a state of excitement, and into the bank. In response to inquiries, the hackman said he had just left the body of Ralston in charge of an officer on the beach, near the smelting works, in the south part of the city. It was quickly learned that Ralston rode to Sellig's Smelting Works wharf and jumped off the dock.

From the best information, it appears he went to a sea-bathing establishment at the north beach, about 3:25 p. m., undressed, went into the water, swam about 200 yards, and disappeared behind a vessel. Soon after, his body was discovered floating by the Selby Lead Works, and was brought ashore, still alive. A physician was summoned, but efforts to resuscitate him failed, and he died at 10 minutes to 5 o'clock. A boy named Festus Mazzele states that he saw Mr. Ralston before he reached the bath-house; saw him sit on the clay bank near the smelting works; saw him tear up several papers and throw the scraps into the water. A close search was made for the pieces, but none could be found. He is also reported to have been seen to drink the contents of a phial before going into the water. The general impression is that he took poison before entering the water. The board of directors of the Bank of California held a meeting to-day. Ralston was requested to resign as President and Director, which he did.

HEAVY FAILURE IN BALTIMORE.

Stirling, Ahrens & Co., of Baltimore, the largest sugar importing house in the United States, have suspended payment. The liabilities amount to $2,500,000, of which $1,000,000 is due in Baltimore to merchants, banks, and private banking houses. The firm employed 350 men in their refineries and barrel factory. It is said the business of the firm footed up $40,000,000 per year. They were proprietors of two large sugar refineries, the Merchants' and Chesapeake, and agents of two others, the Calvert and Maryland. It is thought that if the assets are judiciously administered the creditors can ultimately be paid dollar for dollar. The failure is attributed to the general depression of business and the shrinkage in value of coffee and sugar, of which the firm have large stocks. They have also a large amount of real estate not at present available.

An Annoying Interruption.

At a place bearing the remarkable name of Souse Creek, Moore county, Tenn., a religious meeting was seriously disturbed a few days ago. The preacher was holding forth to the congregation upon the necessity of living good lives, as a preacher should, when up to the door of the building rode a man named Wagner, whose melon patch had been invaded by some unknown person a few days previously. Wagner, as he rode by, called out to a young man named Casey, saying: "You are the man I have been looking for," and then added, "I understand you deny being in my watermelon patch." Casey promptly replied, "Yes, I do deny it; I was not there." The result of this answer was that Wagner denounced Casey as a liar, and as the latter was rising from his seat, shot him dead. The meeting was so interrupted by this interesting episode that preaching closed, and several men started out in pursuit of Wagner. At last accounts he had not been caught.—St. Louis Republican.

TURKEY'S TROUBLES.

The Inciting Causes of the Revolt Against the Sick Man's Rule in Herzegovina.

There are probably few persons in this country, says the Boston Globe, who comprehend clearly the causes, purposes, and possible results of the frequent insurrections in the Northern Provinces of Turkey, and it is a very difficult subject on which to form a judgment. The Turkish empire is a sort of theocracy, founded on the Koran. The Sultan is regarded as the immediate representative of the Prophet and the viceregent of God, and hence the government is a combination of Church and State, in which the church is predominant. While it is regarded as essential to good citizenship to be a good Mohammedan, and Christians are accounted infidels and dogs, who forfeit their right to considerate treatment by the mere fact that they are not followers of the Prophet and consequently submissive to the government founded on faith in him, a very large portion of the actual subjects of the empire in the Northern Provinces are Christians. Although theoretically various concessions have been made to them, in reality they are still treated as intractables and ground down by an intolerable despotism. As a consequence, the spirit of rebellion always pervades those Provinces, and every now and then there is an outbreak in Bosnia, Montenegro, Servia, Bulgaria, or some other quarter, where there is a predominance of the Sclavic race and the Greek religion.

Herzegovina, which is attached to the eyalet of Bosnia in the northwest, is in itself insignificant, its entire population is less than 300,000, of which nearly 200,000 are adherents of the Greek Church, while there are enough Roman Catholics and Jews to reduce the Mohammedan element to a minority of about one-sixth of the whole. If the present outbreak was a merely local affair, arising from the discontent of a single Province, it would be easily crushed, but the cause is a common one with all the Sclavic people of Northern Turkey, and the spirit of rebellion once kindled spreads like wildfire. We hear already of reinforcements to the insurrection in the neighboring Provinces. Precisely what these people would aim at if they had the union which alone could give them power, it is hard to say. There is a considerable party which would aspire for independence for each of the petty principalities, but that object seems to be out of the question, and there is no such harmony or desire for union as would make an independent Confederacy of the Sclavic Provinces possible.

The subject is further complicated by the attitude of foreign powers. If left to herself, Turkey might be able to subjugate the Provinces which seem to have no bond of union but their common discontent, even if the insurrection were to become general; but Russia has an interest in the matter and sympathizes with the adherents of her national church. Austria, too, is directly concerned, as these people are closely connected with her own in race and blood. Both these Empires, too, are far from friendly to the religion and government of Turkey. Then Germany is anxious that neither Russia nor Austria shall acquire any further advantage in the East, unless she can come in for a share, while England is jealous of any disturbance of the present equilibrium of power on the continent, especially if it is to extend the Russian influence and power. France is less concerned than the rest of the great European nations, and is in no danger of being drawn into the contest if a great war were to come out of these small beginnings.

There is a bare possibility, hardly more, that this insurrection may attain such proportions as to provoke outside interference and bring into conflict the interests of the three great Empires of Northern and Central Europe. If this should happen, the result is not likely to be independence for any or all of these discontented provinces of Turkey. Their special interests and aspirations would be treated as a minor consideration, and there would be either a partition of their territory under certain conditions and guarantees agreed upon, more or less liberal as regards the freedom of the people; or, as is more probable, Turkey would be confirmed in her possessions in the matter of religious and civil rights, which would assure peace and order. The little fire that has started in Herzegovina may not kindle any such great matter; but these outbreaks are pretty sure to continue, and ulimately to assume proportions which will compel important modifications to the internal policy of the Ottoman Empire, through concessions enforced either from within or from without. Turkey will find it impossible much longer to withstand the influences of the civilization of Europe, with which it is in such close contact, but with which it has little sympathy.

Stopping a Train.

A trick that can only be played once on the same conductor, was perpetrated on the gentleman who ran the 5:40 train from New York last Thursday. A gentleman on the train who lives between New Rochelle and Mamaronic, and who evidently wanted to get home in a hurry, came to the conductor, and with feigned excitement and earnest tones, said that the train had just run over a man, and for God's sake to stop. The conductor at once pulled the bell-cord, and the train soon came to a standstill. A number of passengers got off and ran back some distance, but could see nothing of the mangled remains the inexorable iron-horse had made. After the train had again started, the only passenger left behind was the man who gave the information, and he, having thoughtfully taken his bundle under his arm, was seen crossing lots toward his home. Some of the brakemen "allowed" that he would have more than his ticket "punched" the next time he got on that train.—Stamford Advocate.

AUBURN COURIER

T. C. HAYS, PUBLISHER.

GOSSIP OF THE DAY.

WHEN Andrew Johnson was Governor of Tennessee, an ex-blacksmith was Chief-Justice of the Supreme Court, and the Governor with his own hands made a vest for the Chief-Justice, while the Chief-Justice went to a forge and made a shovel and tongues to present to the Governor.

A [illegible] affliction has befallen the grocery keepers of Brownsville, Texas. Swarms of bees infest their stores, stinging the customers and driving them away. A perpetual war is being waged upon the sugar-seekers, but so far new comers arrive faster than they can be killed off, and every grocery in Brownsville has been transformed into a smoke house.

A MAN who narrowly escaped drowning in the recent floods revenges himself by perpetrating this parody on our school-boy calendar ditty:

"Dirty days hath September,
April, June and November,
And from February until May
The rain it raineth every day;
All the rest have thirty-one,
With scarce a single gleam of sun!
And if any should have thirty-two,
They'd be dull and dirty too."

THE editor of the Ogden (Utah) Freeman has accomplished more in the last six months than usually falls to the lot of even the hardest-worked of the profession, judging from the following extract from that journal: "Be it recorded as part of the history of Utah, that a Virginia born and bred lady came into Utah unacquainted with a single soul, and, within a period of six months, organized, established, and conducted the Ogden Freeman, took charge of two infant sons, and gave birth to a third."

AN amusing episode recently occurred in the British Parliament. Dr. Kenealy, who is a firm believer in the validity of the Tichborne claimant, protested against the leniency of Col. Baker's sentence, as Tichborne was sentenced to hard labor, while Baker was only imprisoned without hard labor, which Kenealy considered no punishment at all. At this juncture a member arose and mentioned the unpleasant fact that when the learned doctor was found guilty of brutal treatment of his illegitimate son and sent to prison for a month, he thought the penalty severe enough, though there was no hard labor in it. The Doctor stammeringly replied that he thought this reference to his past history unnecessary and ungentlemanly, and then quietly subsided.

OTHER countries beside America, it seems, are subject to grasshopper plagues. A Roumanian correspondent of the London Times, writing from Galatz on Aug. 1, describes a swarm of locusts which he had witnessed that day, that was from three to four miles wide, fifteen miles long, and was about five hours in passing. The correspondent says: "All over this part of the country lately all the horses in the village have been kept saddled, and the instant the locusts are reported in the neighborhood all the people turn out and gallop after them, and raise an awful din with pots and pans, and so on, to prevent them from alighting. If once the flock alight it is all up; but by this means they manage to frighten them from alighting, and cause them to move on elsewhere." This a remedy for grasshoppers our Western farmers have never tried.

RECENTLY, two religious exhorters were arrested in Lawrence, Kansas, for beating a man. In defense they stated that the Lord had revealed to them an earnest desire that this particular man should be converted, and that having used all the earnest persuasiveness within their power upon the obdurate sinner without effect, they thought themselves justified in trying the experiment of corporal punishment for the salvation of the man's soul. The Judge disagreed with them in the justice of their proceeding, and sent them to jail. And now another egotistical interpreter of holy writ, named Rynders, a pastor in Havana, Ill., refused to take the oath when produced in court as a witness, it being in conflict with his belief of the express instructions of scripture, and the Judge sent him to the County Jail for thirty days for contempt of court. These three fanatics undoubtedly consider themselves martyrs in the cause of the Master.

THE long-debted project of connecting Great Britain with the continent by means of a railroad tunnel beneath the English channel assumes definite shape. This will be the greatest engineering task ever undertaken in the world. But the nations that joined the two shores of the Atlantic with an electric cable; that cut a ship canal through the isthmus of Suez, and penetrated through the towering Alps, are committed to its consummation, and the work will go forward, doubtless, to ultimate completion. The soundings already made give the greatest depth of water in the channel as 185 feet. Investigation on either shore reveals a chalk formation hundreds of feet below the surface, and this formation doubtless extends beneath the intervening twenty miles of water. When the tunnel is excavated, however, it is quite likely many unlooked-for difficulties will oppose the engineers, but these will only render their final triumph more complete. Before many years elapse, we may hope the ears of our English cousins will be greeted with the exclamation of the railway conductor, "All aboard for Paris!" The completion of the work will doubtless increase to a surprising extent the already universal spirit for travel and change of scene, and greatly aid in hastening forward the happy day when the present lines of national difference and prejudice will be forever obliterated, and the human race become one family, indissolubly united in reaching forward to its highest earthly aim, that of "life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness." Another great work is engaging the attention of the enquiring and scientific minds of Europe. The project proposes to connect the vast desert of Sahara, in northwestern Africa, into an inland sea, upon whose shores busy cities shall usurp the place of the wild denizens of the jungle, and above the skeleton remains of the soon-to-be-forgotten caravan the white wings of commerce shall safely penetrate to the heart of this vast and comparatively unexplored region. Wild as this scheme may appear in its supposed general results, as a work of engineering it is trifling in comparison with the skill and labor necessary to the successful tunneling of the English channel. It has long been known that the vast bed of the Great Desert of Sahara is below the surface of the Atlantic ocean, and that at one time it must have formed a portion of it. A bar forming on the present northwestern coast of Africa ages since finally cut off this portion from the parent ocean, and the inland sea was eventually dissipated in evaporation exerted by the equatorial sun, leaving in its stead the vast and barren African desert. To restore the condition of things which prevailed in Africa so long ago, it is only necessary to make a canal of some six miles in length through the ancient bar and present shore of the Atlantic, and the depression will be again filled up with the briny waters of the ocean, furnishing a means of transit by steamer and sail over a territory which has so long been a huge cemetery for adventurous traders and their faithful camels.

MERE MENTION.

M. THIERS is 78.

JAY GOULD is a Jew.

VERMONT owes $167,000.

THE picnic season is over.

THE fair season has begun.

ALL quiet on the Rio Grande.

CHICAGO has 18 grain elevators.

OXEN sell for $1 a head in Egypt.

GOV. TILDEN is worth $7,000,000.

BEECHER won't lecture next winter.

OUR Cardinal McCloskey is in Rome.

PAUL BOYTON writes for the magazines.

BAYARD TAYLOR is rusticating in New York.

MRS. LINCOLN has recovered her mental poise.

LADY FRANKLIN never had a picture taken.

THE Pope still suffers from rheumatism.

GARIBALDI likewise has pains in his joints.

THEY complain of excessive heat in the East.

A PENNSYLVANIA cow has given birth to triplets.

A NEW bedstead is made of polished brass rods.

A CLEVELAND man advertises "women's shirts."

A SIX-FOOT alligator has been caught at Hannibal, Mo.

CHICAGO handles 90,000,000 bushels of grain annually.

OPPRESSIVE taxation caused the Herzegovinian revolt.

AN umbrella attachment for plows has been patented.

SARTORIS, Nellie and the baby have sailed for England.

COL. D. R. ANTHONY, of Leavenworth, is on his pegs again.

SOME numismatics can tell the age of a coin by tasting it.

A DEAD dog was buried in a fine rosewood coffin at Albany.

THERE is a great crop of oranges this year about Sacramento.

REVIVALIST MOODY is staying with his mother in Massachusetts.

SANKEY, Moody's evangelical partner is resting in Pittsburgh.

KATE FIELD says Disraeli never gets eloquent till he gets mad.

"CENTENNIALVILLE" is what they are calling Philadelphia now.

SENATOR JONES, of Nevada, is said to have ordered a $7,000 hat rack.

THE national tobacco crop is twenty per cent. bigger than last year.

PUTRID water from a roof tank gave a San Franciscan the typhoid fever.

A GRANDSON of a former President is in jail in Kansas for robbing the mails.

A ST. LOUIS man with a crazy wife chains her to a post in the cellar during her spells of raving.

CUBAN insurgents, it seems, are torchering the planters by burning them out of houses and homes.

THIS summer has been prolific of rains, potato-bugs, pull-back skirts, and defaulting bank cashiers.

WERE every State as thickly peopled as Massachusetts we would have a population of over 600,000,000.

INDIANA NEWS.

THERE is some talk of annexing to Rushville her suburbs.

GRAVE robbers are bearing the [illegible] market in Lake county.

FORT WAYNE merchants will organize a Chamber of Commerce.

EVANSVILLE sons dust the jackets of their fathers with ox-goads.

INCENDIARIES have been operating in Kokomo during the past week.

SEVERAL Terrehautentots have in contemplation emigration to Texas.

THRESHING machine men report their business non-paying this year.

WINCHESTER claims to not have a single empty business room in town.

THE colored people of Franklin demand a teacher of their own color.

THE Y. M. C. A. of Spiceland is rapidly getting into condition to assume the offensive.

HARRISON county has two sisters whose aggregate weight is upward of 500 pounds.

BISHOP DWENGER, of Fort Wayne, has decided to locate the new hospital at Lafayette.

FRANCIS L. BUCKHART, of Johnson county, was fined $25 for stabbing his horse eleven times.

BETWEEN forty and fifty companies are expected to participate in the firemen's tournament at Fort Wayne.

CLINTON county has commenced the erection of a new jail. Private apartments for the accommodation of sixteen will be provided.

AT Farmersburg, Sullivan county, the roof of a coal-mine fell in recently, crushing a young man named James Cowan. It took an hour to get the body out of the debris.

A BAND of robbers made a raid on Kendallville Saturday night. They set fire to a building in the center of town, and then, taking advantage of the excitement produced, entered several houses.

AN intoxicated school-teacher, named Mandell, was run over by a passenger train, the other day, near Sullivan, and killed. He was during the war a Captain in the Confederate service.

AN Indiana husband has actually died of grief occasioned by the death of his his wife. His name was William Doudican, of Lafayette, and he died of a broken heart the day following her decease.

THE Laporte County Agricultural Society have decided to hold their fair on the 12th, 13th, and 14th of October. The cash premiums amount to about $3,000. Premiums for trotting horses, $1,000.

A SOUTH BEND jury has decided that the Superintendent of the County Asylum has no right to inflict personal chastisement on paupers. A Mr. Lewis tried it on a fellow who refused to work, and was fined.

CALEB SCUDDER was the first addition to the white population of Tippecanoe county. His first squall rung out on the air on April 11, 1828. Caleb still takes his annual ague on the banks of the Wabash.

THE Commissioners of Vermillion county have concluded this is not a good year to increase taxes, and have therefore decided not to let the contract for the building of a new county asylum.

A MAN named Jerome C. Merrill has been arrested at Delphi on a charge of swindling parties in Fort Wayne by selling notes to the amount of $7,000 claimed to have been forged by him. Merrill was taken to Fort Wayne and lodged in jail.

FROM the last report of the Indiana State Prisons it appears that of the 455 inmates of the Northern Prison 89 were farmers, and the lawyers and patent right men had each but one representative. There are seven times as many single men as married men.

JOSEPH JENKINS, a miner, in the employ of Veatch, Hall & Co., Brazil, was killed by a blast of powder in the mine of that firm, on Wednesday of last week. The explosion took place in the room adjoining the one in which Jenkins was at work, and prostrated the partition, mangling and killing him.

THE Delphi Journal says a little daughter of Joseph Centner, of Rock Creek township, aged 9 years, was playing with some other children in a deadening near her father's house, when the top of a burning tree fell upon her with such force as to bury her so deep that they had to dig her out from beneath the debris.

A HOMICIDE was committed on a small flatboat at Jeffersonville last week, a man, Henry J. Lowther, having been shot in the breast by a woman, his paramour, named Nancy McKee. The woman and two supposed accomplices, James H. Moffett and John Houston, were arrested and placed in jail. The whole party are an exceedingly bad lot.

A HEARTRENDING accident occurred near Goshen one day last week, by which a farmer named Amos Beechtle accidentally killed his daughter, a promising girl aged 11 years. Mr. Beechtle was engaged in threshing, assisted by his daughter, who carried the grain bags to the machine to be filled with wheat. The farmer went to step over the belt, carrying a heavy pitchfork in his hands. The fork caught on the rapidly revolving belt, and was thrown in the air, falling with great force, the tines of the fork striking the girl on the right temple and penetrating her brain, from the effects of which she died.

A PARTY of Crawfordsville chicken hunters, says the Indianapolis Journal, on a recent visit to Illinois took with them a full-sized silver band instruments, and when the party got weary hunting the wary chicken they varied the monotony by making the prairies echo to military quicksteps. The chickens could stand their fire without the flutter of a feather, but rather than endure their music tucked their heads under their wings and laid down and died in agony.

RECENT postal changes in this State: Established—Pleasant Ridge, Greene county, Mrs. Ann [illegible], Postmistress. Discontinued—Red House, Morgan county. Postmasters Appointed—Beaver City, Newton county, John McCarthy; Carpentersville, Putnam county, James M. Taylor; Crothersville, Jackson county, Charles H. Kutchback; Fillmore, Putnam county, Matthew A. Brown; Huth, Franklin county, Martin Meyer; Pike's Peak, Brown county, Jeremiah H. Fravel; Red Cloud, Knox county, N. B. Edwards.

JACKSON ROYER, a farmer living north of Union City, committed suicide last week. Two years ago he was wounded by a sickle on a reaper while working in a harvest field. He has since spent over $2,000 in the Surgical Institute at Indianapolis, without material benefit. Returning home a few days ago, he found his crops nearly ruined with the rains. Dressing in his best clothes, bidding his wife good-bye, without stating where he was going, he left the house, walking out to the barn. Half an hour afterward his wife's suspicions were aroused, and, going to the barn, found him hanging lifeless.

The Hamiltons--An Unfortunate Family

"Knickerbocker" writes to the Cincinnati Gazette from New York: This family was shadowed by paternal greatness, which is always injurious, and is sometimes crushing. The children might, under other conditions, have reached eminence, but the best that can be said is that they maintained respectability. Alexander Hamilton, who has just been carried to the grave at the age of 90, was a quiet and retired man, who married rich and had a fine place on the Hudson. He had held a position under government, and was a member of the bar of this city, but his chief labor was to collect and edit his father's productions. The senior Alexander Hamilton married a daughter of the patriotic Gen. Schuyler, who survived him a half century. He is buried in Trinity churchyard, in this city, by the side of his eldest son, Philip, who likewise fell in a duel. This is the only instance on record where both father and son met this fate. Philip was a talented youth of 20, and had just graduated at Columbia College. One evening in October, 1842, he and a friend named Price insulted a young lawyer at the theater. The latter was of opposite politics, and, being of rural origin, was ridiculed on this account. He returned the insult, and added that he expected to hear from them. They were compelled by the laws of honor each to send him a challenge, and he accepted both. Then the rural lawyer, whose name was Eacker, showed his nerve. The next Sunday both duels came off. Price had precedence. Five shots were exchanged, when the seconds interfered, and honor was said to be vindicated. Then came Hamilton's turn, and at the first fire he fell mortally wounded. He was borne home, and died the next day. Within two years his father was also brought back mortally wounded by Aaron Burr. What a trial for a mother and a wife! But Eliza Schuyler was a woman of strong heart, and she endured this bitter agony. Eacker was then 24, and was not as hardened as Burr, who was twice his age. His conscience accused him of Philip Hamilton's death, and he broke down in health and died six months before Burr and Hamilton met. His gravestone is still to be seen in St. Paul's churchyard. Such were some of the tragedies connected with the laws of honor, and recalled by the recent death of the second Alexander Hamilton.

A Human Analysis.

DR. Lancaster, of London, recently analyzed a man, and presented the results of his investigation in palpable form to his audience during a late chemical lecture. The body operated upon weighed 158.4 lbs. The lecturer exhibited upon the platform 23.1 lbs. carbon, 2.2 lbs. lime, 22.3 ozs. phosphorus, and about 1 oz. each sodium, iron, potassium, magnesium, and silicon. He apologized for not exhibiting 5,595 cubic feet of oxygen, weighing 121 lbs., 105,900 cubic feet of hydrogen, weighing 15.4 lbs., and 52 cubic feet of nitrogen, likewise obtained from the body, on account of their great bulk. All of these elements combine into the following: 121 lbs. water, 16.5 lbs. gelatin, 1.32 lbs. fat, 8.8 lbs. fibrin and albumen, 7.7 lbs. phosphate of lime and other mineral substances.

TALKING WITH A FOOL.—Somebody interviewed George Francis Train, and the latter said: "Do you see these hands? See the blood runs into them! There's health for you! All comes from vegetable diet, sir. No meat for me. I eat nothing but vegetables. Vegetables make muscle, sinew, strength, manhood." "Yes, George," said his auditor laughing, "you're right; meat is weakening. I always notice all the strong animals live on vegetables. There's the weak lion and panther, they live on meat; and there's the sturdy sheep, the goose, the calf and jackass, they live on vegetables entirely. They ——" "It always makes me mad to talk to an infernal fool!" said Train, coloring up, while he turned on his heel and left in a huff.

AGRICULTURAL AND DOMESTIC.

[illegible] the trunk of the tree and lift the earth carefully. This process exposes the tender rootlets to little danger.

NEVER let tomatoes rest on the ground, if possible, as they bear more abundantly, last longer, and are better flavored when bushed or trellised.

WHITELEAD ground in oil, mingled with Prussian blue similarly prepared, to give the proper shade, and finally mixed with a little carriage varnish, is an excellent and durable paint for farm machinery and agricultural tools.

THE New England Farmer says experiments with forage crops the past season prove that winter rye, spring rye, oats alone or with peas, and corn can be grown so as to give a succession of green fodder from the middle of May to the first hard frost of autumn.

A CORRESPONDENT of the American Farm Journal writes: "A thorough trial has convinced us that coal ashes scattered around the roots of plum trees from five to six inches in depth, and for an extent of about four feet in circumference is the best remedy for the annihilation of that destroyer of this luscious fruit, the curculio."

A CORRESPONDENT of the Cincinnati Gazette gives the following plan for preventing flies troubling horses: Dissolve a lump of asafœtida in some grease and rub on the horse's legs, and keep the other parts of your horse covered with a net or cover. The flies will not bother where they come in contact with the asafœtida, and the grease is good to make it stay on. I use this for horses that stand in the stable. Some may think the remedy worse than the disease, but I think different. One application every day is enough.

SMALL farms make near neighbors; they make good roads; they make plenty of good schools and churches; there is more money made in proportion to the labor; less labor is wanted; everything is kept neat; less wages have to be paid for help; less time is wasted; more is raised to the acre; besides, it is tilled better; there is not so much watching of hired help; the mind is not kept in a worry, a stew, a fret, all the time. There's not so much fear of a drought of weather, of a frost, of small prices. There's not so much money to be paid out for agricultural implements. Our wives and children have time to read, to improve their minds. The work on a small farm is always pushed forward in season. Give us small farms for comfort; aye, and give us small farms for profit.

THE location of farm buildings should be carefully considered. In some parts, when the country was new, roads were not laid out, and as a road had to lead to the house the track remained as first made, being altogether too near the dwelling, while, to make matters worse, the barn was located directly across the road. Others located at springs at quite a distance from the road, which was almost as bad, because in such localities careless habits are likely to be adopted, and as children see strangers but seldom, they are apt to have a scared look. A house to be located properly should stand a little over 100 feet from the road, so that trees of various kinds can be planted in front through which a driveway may be laid, and so that dust from the road will not offend the family. It is important, too, that the house should stand back a little, because sometimes there is loud talking, or one of the youngsters gets hauled over the coals, and passers-by have no business to be listening. Nor should the house be so near the road that passing people can look into the window, if the curtain is not down, and see what is going on, both down and up-stairs. A house should have at least an acre and a half of land to itself, devoted to trees, shrubbery, and small fruits, and there should be a lawn of half an acre, well kept, where clothes can be spread for bleaching.—New York Tribune.

About the House.

TO CLEAN japanned articles, such as tea-trays, etc., rub gently with the hand a little olive oil over the article, and then rub off with a piece of flannel. Warm water destroys the varnish.

WHITE CAKE.—One cup of sugar, the whites of two eggs, half cup of butter, half cup of milk, two cups of flour. Season with lemon. Use half a teaspoon of soda and half a teaspoon of cream of tartar.

HAIR OIL.—Take olive oil two pints, attar of roses one drachm; mix. It may be colored red by steeping a little alkanet root in the oil, with heat, before scenting it. It strengthens and beautifies the hair.

RED ANTS.—Take ten cents' worth of carbolic acid to one quart of water, sprinkle on your shelves, and they will take themselves away, and if they return repeat the dose, and you will be troubled no more.

REMOVING TAN.—Tan can be removed from the face by dissolving magnesia in soft water—beat it to a thick mass, spread on the face and let it remain a minute or two. Then wash off with Castile soapsuds, and rinse with soft water.

BLACKBERRY WINE.—To one pint of clear juice add one-half pound loaf sugar, one tablespoonful each of cloves and cinnamon (ground). Excellent for dysentery and all similar diseases. No family should be without it. The berries must be fresh and sweet.—

PREPARING SMALL FISH.—Any kind of small fish may be prepared in the following manner: After being well washed and wiped it is put in a pan with a little butter, and sprinkled over with pepper, salt, and crumbs of bread scraped from a crusty loaf, with an onion chopped small, and fried in the oven twenty minutes to half an hour.

A FARMER having written a long article published in an agricultural exchange advocating the use of green wood, a housewife responds that if moisture makes the wood better she still prefers to have it dry to begin with, and will add the water to suit herself. She concludes that if the farmer's wife has to burn green wood the house sometimes gets too hot for him, and that is the reason why he thinks green wood makes such a hot fire.

[illegible] mosquitoes or other blood-suckers infest our sleeping-rooms at night, we uncork a bottle of the oil of pennyroyal, and these animals leave in great haste, nor will they return so long as the air in the room is loaded with the fumes of that aromatic herb. If rats enter the cellar, a little powdered potash thrown in their holes or mixed with meal and scattered in their runways never fails to drive them away. Cayenne pepper will keep the buttery and storeroom free from ants and cockroaches. If a mouse makes an entrance into any part of your dwellings, saturate a rag with cayenne, in solution, and stuff it into the hole, which can be repaired with either wood or mortar. No rat or mouse will eat that rag for the purpose of opening communication with a depot of supplies.—Scientific American.

Fearful Struggle with a Bull.

The Shullsburg (Wis.) correspondent of the Galena Gazette gives the following account of an attack by a bull on a man and boy, near that place, lately:

On Sunday, Mr. Buck, with his little boy, 10 years old, attempted to cross an adjoining pasture, in which was kept an embodiment of hell, biding his time of destruction, in the shape of a monstrous wicked bull, the property of a Mr. Collins. When but a short distance in the pasture the bull made for the boy, and seeing the terrible danger to which himself and the child were exposed from the attack of the furious beast, the father bid the son to run for his life, while he remained and fought the monster with a club. The terrible struggle for life then commenced. The horrors of a life-time were concentrated in that short space of twenty minutes. The paternal impulse was to save his child, even at the expense of his own life (which subsequently proved to be the tribute paid), and next to save himself, for the more he hit the bull the more ferocious it became, while the unfortunate man was fast exhausting his energies. The charge was keenly felt by Mr. Buck, for never can a man see so much at a place as when in a situation of extremity. He began to back towards some trees that were standing not far behind him, hoping to find there some refuge from his furious assailant. Fortunately he succeeded in reaching the trees, and after dodging about from one to another, climbed one out of reach of the bull. The physical prostration and his mental condition after so terrible a struggle can only be imagined, and, to add to its intensity, the mad beast reached the tree, and standing under it tore the ground with his hoofs. His agony of mind for fear of the limb breaking could have known no bounds, for during his delirium for days before his death the only audible ejaculations he uttered would be his fear of the limb breaking or that he would fall. While in the tree he took a chill, but started to work the next day, during which he was obliged to go home. From that time he began to sink until Friday morning, when death terminated his sufferings.

The Siamese Twins Outdone.

This strange freak is in the shape of a double child; or, more strictly speaking, two children joined together. The curiosity is the offspring of colored parents, Crittenden and Sarah Jones, of Beech Island, S. C. One of the children is a perfectly developed female, large for her age, and with every appearance of health. The other, who is a male, is but imperfectly developed, has only the rudiments of limbs, and does not eat, depending for sustenance upon its sister. These two beings are joined together by a wide band, in the center of which one of the lungs of these strange creatures seems to be located. Touch the male and the female will shrink; pinch it and she will cry. Reverse the operation, and still it is the female who manifests sensibility. The head of the female is small and misshapen, the ears presenting more the appearance of those of an animal than a human being. The pulsations of the heart and the act of respiration can be plainly perceived in the ligament joining the bodies. This ligament, if such it can be called, is joined to the girl at the end of the breast bone, and to the male lower down. It is broad and thick, covered with skin like the rest of the body. Whether there are two distinctive sets of vital organs, or whether both are dependent upon one, has not yet been determined. The latter opinion seems to prevail, however. It is apparent, at any rate, that the male receives nourishment through its companion. A well-known physician of this city examined the twins yesterday and pronounced them to be the most wonderful natural phenomenon of the kind in the world. The mother and father of the children are strong and healthy.—South Carolina Letter.

The Time Record of Trotters Shortening

The trotting horses of the country are getting over the ground faster and faster every year, says the Louisville Courier-Journal, and the time is not far ahead of us when a horse that can't make his mile in two minutes will be considered fit to be used on funeral occasions only. Every year produces the "fastest time on record." Goldsmith Maid has long been considered the Queen of the Turf, but she abdicated a few days ago, in the nineteenth year of her age, and the young Princess Lula was crowned in her place. That was not the fastest trotting on record at Rochester last Saturday, when Lula bore away the crown and scepter as Queen of the Turf, but it is pronounced the greatest on record, all the four heats having been made in remarkably quick time. As the reader of course knows, the first heat was won by Goldsmith Maid in 2:16¼, the second, third and fourth by Lula in 2:16½, 2:15¾ and 2:17 respectively. Next year, if not this, the chances are that Lula will yield the crown to some rival, and another Queen of the Turf will receive the homage of the lovers of fast trotters. Mr. Robert Bonner must be growing a little ashamed of the discrowned Dexter by this time.

MRS. JOHN MORRISSEY is as combative as her spouse. The other day she discovered a vagrant in the back yard of her Saratoga premises, and, armed with a revolver, sailed down upon him, snapping the weapon in his face, but failing to discharge it, whereupon the fellow scaled the fence and escaped.

BARGAINS

AT THE

Great Clearing Out SALES!

OF G. H. MUNN.

I shall sell some at COST; I Shall sell some at LESS than COST.

GREAT BARGAINS

In Dress Goods!

BOOTS AND SHOES

AND HATS,

25 per cent. BELOW COST. Call and see him in Auburn, at the Grand Central, one door south of Jno. L. Davis' Hardware.

GEO. H. MUNN.

FRUIT HOUSE BULLETIN!

GRANGER HEADQUARTERS.

Twenty Per Cent. Saved on the $1. No Advance in Prices.

Teas, Fish, Spices, Sugars, Syrups, Wines, Liquors & Tobac's

Cheaper than Ever.

TEAS—Our Tea trade is the wonder of the country. No one ever dreamt such a trade could be built up. We sell more chests daily than some houses do pounds, and still our trade is increasing. It is no uncommon thing for us to purchase two hundred chests at a time, and here is the great element of our success. As by purchasing such larger quantities direct of the Importers we save our consumer, at least the three extra profits of jobbers, speculator and wholesale grocer, who make 10 to 20 cents per pound. This our customers get the benefit of. No middle men with us. As with teas, so with sugar coffee, syrup and all other goods. No secret—it is simply in purchasing all our goods at first hands and re-selling direct to our customers at small margin, and save them at least 20 to 40 cents a pound on tea and 20 per cent on all other goods.

Young Hyson	30, 50, 80, $1, 00, best 1 10	Oolong	30, 60; best 95
Gunpowder	60, 1 00; best 1 10	Uncolored Japan	50, 60; best 9
Imperial	60, 90; best

SUGARS! SUGARS!

WHITE, YELLOW AND BROWN.

Coffee A,	10½c	N. O. Genuine,	9c
Coffee B,	9½c	Good Brown	8c

COFFEE! COFFEE! COFFEE!

Best Rio, per pound,	28c	Roasted Coffee,	30 and 27c
Second Best Rio,	23c

CANNED FRUITS.

At Prices never Before Heard of.

Peaches per can	20c	Damsons per can,	20c
Blackberries per can,		Green Gages per can,
Tomatoes per can,	10 c	Strawberries per can,
Corn per can,	10 c

Wines and Liquors.

Still a few Gallons Left.

Sherry and Port per gallon,	$1 50 and 2 00	Old '76 for medical use	$3 00
Sherry and Port in bottles,		Port Wine per gallon	1 50 and 2 00
California Angelica and Sweet Muscatelle, per gallon,	1 50 2 00	California wine per gallon	1 50 and 2 00
New England Rum, per gallon,	best 2 00	Sweet Cawba Wine per gallon	1 25
Holland Gin, Old Tom,	1 50 and 2 50

SYRUPS, SYRUPS.

Best Sugar, Loaf, per gallon,		Extra Golden per gallon,	80
White Dripps, per gallon,	85 $1 00	New Orleans per gallon,	70c to 1 00
Silver Dripps per gallon,	75	Cuba Molasses per gallon,

CANDIES! CANDIES!

Stick, French and American.

Best Stick per pound	18c	Bon Bons	30c
French Mixed	25c	Japanese Cocoa Nut	25c

☞We have a hundred other different kinds of candies☜

No Middle Men with us, either on Teas, Coffees, or Sugars. With all the complaints of dull times, our Tea trade has doubled within the last three years. No secret in it—simply purchasing of the Importers and selling direct to the consumer, thereby saving to our customers the profits of the Speculator, Jobber and Wholesale Grocer, which is at least 10 to 20 cents on each dollar,

Oils! Oils! Oils!

Fish and Neats Foot Oil per gallon,	1 00	Head Light Oil per gallon,	25c
Coal and Rose Oil per gallon,	20c	Machine Oil per gallon,	50c

FISH, FISH, FISH, FISH,

A Large Assortment of both Salt Water and Lake Fish

No. 1 White Fish ½ bbl	6 00	No. 1 Mackeral in Kits	1 25
No. 2 do do	5 00	No. 1 Family in Kits
No. 1 Lake Shad ½ bbl,		George's Bank Codfish per pound
No. 1 Pickeral ½ bbl		Extra Mess Mackeral	1 50 and 1 75
White Fish in kits No. 1	1 25	Herrings each	1c
White Fish family No. 3	1 00	Pickeral and Trout ½ bbl	50

TOBACCOS, TOBACCOS.

The duty of 4c cents per pound goes on tobacco March 1st. This thing we anticipated, and in consequence we have a large stock ahead, so that our customers, as long as the present stock lasts, shall have goods at the old price.

Choice Plug, Five Bros. per pound		Fine Cut	60, 80, and 90c
Good Richmond Navy per pound	50c	Shorts	40c
Ladies Twist, very fine	65c	Smoking	35c best 40c
Long John Tom	50c

25 Cents on the Dollar Saved at

THE FRUIT HOUSE

STORE ESTABLISHED IN 1839.

GEO. DeWALD & CO.

Dry Goods & Notions.

Black Silks & Fine Dress Goods a Specialty.

We can make it to the interests of every person to trade with us. We buy for CASH and sell for CASH, keep the best goods, and sell at one price

ALSO AGENTS FOR THE

"Domestic" PATERNS.

The Best in Use. Send for a Catalogue.

Geo DeWald & Co
No. 1 Columbia Street
Fort Wayne Ind.,

THE OLD RELIABLE.

F. E. DAVENPORT,

Corner Main and Eighth-Sts.,

—DEALER IN—

Pure Drugs and Medicines,

DYE STUFFS, PERFUMERY,

Toilet Soaps Cosmetics, Hair Oils, Brushes, Combs, Toilet Mirrors and Druggists' Sundries in General.

BOOKS AND STATIONERY!

Wall and Window Paper!

Oiled, Linen and Slat Window Shades, and Shade Fixtures.

All the lattest POEMS and MISSELANIOUS BOOKS constantly on hand or ordered. Blank Books, Pocket Memorandas, Portmonies and Bill Books, WRITING PAPERS. All Styles and prices ALBUMS! ALBUMS! ALBUMS just received for the Holliday trade.

Over $300.00 worth of Juvenile and Toy Books, which will be sold at panic prices. Smith's Gold Pens, warranted the best. Also steel Pens, Penholders, Pencils, Ink and Ink Stands &c

SCHOOL BOOKS

Covered with best Cover ever invented Free Of Charge

Dav exclusive right to use this book cover in Auburn, and will give the benefit of the same

---

GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICES AT

ABRICT'S

In American & Swiss Watches,

TOYS

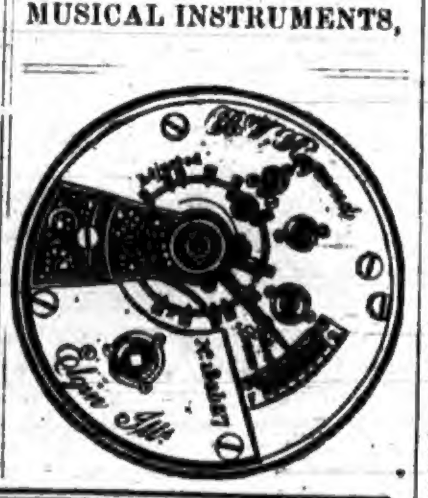
FANCY GOODS,

and everything kept in a first class jewelry establishm'nt It will pay you to call and be convinced that I am selling goods cheaper than any firm in Northern Indiana.

J. Abright.

Repairing fine Watches a Specialty

Ladies Gold Watches,
Jewelry,
Clocks, Silver Ware!
GOLD PENS,
Ladies GOLD Chains,
Gents Chains,
Gold and Silver Rings,
MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS,



V. A BEARD

Grocer in Auburn, North of Court House on Seventh Street,

DEALER IN

GROCERIES and PROVISIONS

TEAS, COFFEES, SUGARS, SALT FISH.

Flour and Feed, Tubs Pails, Buckets, Sugars Boxes, Etc. A large variety

TOBACCOS AND CIGARS,

Confectioneries of all kinds, and Fancy Notions, Cove Oysters, &c, A speciality in Green and Dried Fruits, and Canned Fruits. Goods delivered inside the coporation.

RAIL ROADS.

Indianapolis Peru & Chicago R. R.

TIME TABLE No. 12—Dec. 20, 1874.

Northward.

Stations.	No. 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Indianapolis	6 30a	12 25p	3 50p	12 20
Noblesville	7 44	12 39	5 10	1 30
Tipton	8 20	1 15	5 57	2 15
Miami	9 37	1 50	6 38	3 55
Kokomo	9 11	2 28	7 04
Peru	10 00	3 15	7 40

Southward.

Stations.	No. 2	No. 4	No. 6
Indianapolis	6 00p	4 15a	9 55a
Noblesville	4 45	[illegible]	[illegible]
Tipton	3 56	2 29	7 44
Kokomo	3 13	[illegible]	[illegible]
Miami	2 38	1 15	6 55
Peru	2 10	12 35	6 00

R. C. MURPHY, Sept. Mich. Div.
R. M. HAWLEY, Master of Tran.
C. R. ROBINSON, General Sup't.
F. P. WADE, Gen. Ticket Agt.

Lake Shore & Mich. Southern R. R

Air Line Division

ON and after Sunday, Nov. 15, 1874 Passenger Trains will leave Waterloo city and other Stations as follows, daily except Sundays:

GOING WEST

	Special Ex.	Pacific Ex.	Accom'd'n
Butler	2:40 p m.	x 2:35 a m.	8:00 p m
Waterloo	2:56 "	2:53 "	8:19 "
Sedan	3,05	3,00	8:30 "
Corunna	3,10	3,06	8:35 "

GOING EAST.

Corunna	2.15 pm	11.30 pm	6:50 p m
Sedan	2.20	11,35	7:02 "
Waterloo	2:28 "	11:44 "	7:11 "
Butler	2:40 "	x12:01a m.	7:55 "

CHAS. PAINE, Gen. Supt.
J. W. CANY, Gen Tic. Agt
J. E. CURTIS, Division Su

Ft. Wayne, Muncie & Cin R. R.

Time Table to take effect May 23, 1875.

Going South.

Fort Wayne	1 15 pm	2 00a.m	5 35pm
Ossian	2 02		6 42
Bluffton	2 30	3 10	7 17
Keystone	3 02		7 57
Montpelier	3 12	3 44	8 08
Hartford	3 40pm	4 05	8 40
Eaton	4 02		9 06
Muncie	4 37	4 47	9 45
McCowan's	4 53	5 05
New Castle	5 30	5 40
Cam. City	6 05	6 11
Bessons	6 22	6 27
Connersville	6 35	6 40
Indianapolis	6 30	6 50
Louisville	11 10	12 45pm
Cincinnati	10 30	9 40

Going North.

Cincinnati	7 30am	1 20pm
Louisville		2 40	7 00pm
Indianapolis		7 25	4 30am
Connersville	10 32	7 35
Bessons	10 45	7 52
Cam City	11 04	8 12
New Castle	11 40	8 55
McCowans	12 15pm
Muncie	12 32	9 55	6 50am
Eaton	1 02	10 28	7 29
Hartford	1 24	10 50	7 54
Montpelier	1 40	11 17	8 30
Keystone	1 58		8 36
Bluffton	2 30	11 58	9 15
Ossian	2 50	11 20am	9 52
Ft. Wayne	3 45	1 15	11 00

W. W. WORTHINGTON, Supt.
Robt. Rillie, Gen'l Ticket Agt.

Ft. Wayne, Jackson & Sag. R. R

Short Line Between

Michigan and the South.

Time card in effect Aug. 15,—run by Chicago time

Going North.

Stations	Mail	Accom.		Ind. Exp.
Cincinnati		7 30		4
Louisville	7 30pm
Indianapolis	4 35am
Ft Wayne	10 45	4 35
Auburn	11 40	6 07
Waterloo	11 56	6 35
Summit
Pleasant Lake
Ar Angola	12 35p	7 55	5 15	4
Reading	1 7	8 40	6 40	4 4
Bankers	1 12	10 05	7 10	5 04
Jonesville	2 30	10 35	7 38	5 19
Jackson	3 40	12 35	9 25	6 30
Detroit	6 30p m	3 40		10 15
Grand Rapids	9 30	6 10		5 10
Lansing	5 17			8 37
Saginaw	9 05			11 40
Bay City

Going South.

Bay City
Saginaw	7 30 a m			3 30p
Lansing	10 40			9 55
Grand Rapids	6 20		12 00	12 00
Detroit	9 50		3 30	5 40
Jackson Dep	12 40p m		6 45	9 35
Jonesville	1 55		8 00	10 25
Bankers	2 12		8 26	10 52
Reading	2 26		8 53	11 03
Ar Angola	3 25	6 15	10 20	11 52
Pleasant Lake
Waterloo	4 05	7 26		12 30a
Auburn	4 20	7 55		12 45
Auburn Junction
Fort Wayne, Arrive	5 15	9 25		1 30
Indianapolis		6 30p		6 50
Louisville		11 10		12 45p
Cincinnati		10 30		9 40a

P. B. LOOMIS, Pres't
S. K. HOOPER Gen. Ticket Ag't.

DETOIT, EEL RIVER & ILLINOIS Rail Road.

Short Line between Auburn and the East and West.

Trains run on Cleveland time. Through trains will run on the following time, in effect Sunday June 20th, 1875.

Going East.				Going West.
No. 7 Thro'	No. 5 Frei't	Mail	STATIONS	Mail	No. 6 W. F	No. 8 Local
3.40p	7.00a	10 50	lv Logans't ar	6.15p	7.25p	12.10p
4.08	7.30	11,08	Adamsboro.	5,55	7.00	11.43
4.30	7.55	12.23	Hoover's	5,41	6.40	11.23
4.50	8.25	11.32	Mexico	5,33	6.25	10.55
6.00	10.30	11.45	Denver.	5,23	6.00	10.28
					5.10	10.50
6.15	9 50	12.15	Chili	5.13	4.55	9.05
6.46	10.40	12.31	Roann	4,57	4.25	9.20
7.14	11.20	12.47	Laketon	4.40	3.50	8.48
7.40	12.10	12.57	N. Manchest'r	4.29	3.25	3. 0
8.00	1.10p	1.06	Lib. Milles	4.19	2.40	8.10
8.25	1.40	1,16	Collamer	4.07	2.00	7.47
8.40	2.10	1.22	S. Whitley	4.02	1.50	7.40
9.05	2.35	1.33	Taylor's	3.50	12.30	7.20
9.50	2.57	1.47	Columbia city	3.38	12.05	7.00
10.15	4.10	2.03	Collin's	3.18	11. a	6.15
10.45	4.50	2.14	Churubusco	3.08	10.32	5.50
11.10	5.15	2.24	Potter's	2.57	9.53	5.20
11.30	5.35	2.34	G. R. Crossing	2.49	9.35	5.05
11.45	5.55	2.40	Cedar Creek	2.40	9.20	4.50
12.15	6.30	2.52	Aub. Juncti'n	2.26	8.50	4.20
12.30	7.00	2.58	Auburn	2.20	8.00	4.10
1.00	7.30	3.15	Mooreville	2.02	6.57	3.35
1.25a	7.55	2.25p	ar. Butler lv.	1.50	6.25	6.25

CONNECTIONS—At Logansport with Pittsburgh, Cincinnati & St Louis, Logansport, Crawfordsville & Southwestern and Toledo, Wabash & Western R. R's. At Denver with Indianapolis, Peru & Chicago Railway, for Rochester, Plymouth, LaPorte, Michigan City, Peru, Kokomo and Indianapolis At N Manchester with Cincinnati, Wabash & Mich R'y. At Columbia City with Pittsburg, Ft. W. & Chicago, for Ft Wayne Lima, Crestline and Pittsburg. At Grand Rapids crossing with Grand Rapids R'y. At Auburn Junction with Ft. Wayne Jackson & Saginaw, for Angola, Jackson and Saginaw R'y. for Butler with Lake Shore & Mich. Southern Caw. Toledo, Detroit and all eastern cities.

J. A. HUGHSTON, Gen. Ticket Agt.
A. B. SCUTRAHD, Gen. Supt.

S. U. Tarney

AUBURN MEAT MARKET!

KEEPS ALWAYS ON HAND

Fresh Beef, Pork, Veal, Mutton and Bologna Sausage, clean and sweet. Prices reasonable. Main-st first door north of Miller & Casebeer's store.

Pittsburg, Ft. W. & C. R. R.

Condensed time card, May 23, 1875.

GOING WEST.

	No. 1 Fast ex.	No. 3 Mail	No. 7 Pac. ex.	No. 5 Night ex
Pittsburgh	2 00 a.m	——	8 00 a.m	2 00 p.m
Rochester	3 00 "	——	9 15 "	3 13 "
Alliance	5 25 "	——	12 30 p.m	5 54 "
Orrville	7 10 "	——	2 25 "	7 31 "
Mansfield	9 07 "	——	4 40 "	9 26 "
Crestl'e ar.	9 40 "	——	5 15 "	9 55 "
" lv.	10 00 "	4 50 a.m	5 20 p.m	11 00 "
Forest	11 18 "	6 30 "	7 27 "	11 34 "
Lima	12 20 p.m	8 10 "	8 45 "	12 27 a.m
Ft. Wayne	2 40 "	11 20 "	11 35 "	2 55 "
Plymouth	4 40 "	2 25 p.m	2 30 a.m	5 25 "
Chicago	7 50 "	6 30 "	6 30 "	8 50 "

GOING EAST.

	No. 4 Night ex	No. 2 Fast ex.	No. 6 Pac. ex.	No. 8 Mail.
Chicago	9 20 p.m	9 20 a.m	5 35 p.m	5 15 a.m
Plymouth	12 50 a.m	12 15 p.m	[illegible]	[illegible]
Ft. Wayne	3 20 "	2 43 "	11 45 "	12 20 p.m
Lima	[illegible]	4 25	1 [illegible] a.m	3 40
Forest	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Crestl'e ar.	8 20 "	6 55 "	4 40 "	[illegible]
" lv.	9 40 "	7 15 "	4 50 "	8.25 "
Mansfield	10 20 "	7 42 "	5 20 "	———
Orrville	12 45 p.m	9 33 "	7 10 "	———
Alliance	3 05 "	11 10 "	9 00 "	———
Rochester	5 40 "	1 07 a.m	11 12 "	———
Chicago	6 55 "	2 10 "	12 15 p.m	———

No. 1, daily, except Monday. Nos. 2, 4, 5, 7 and 8, daily except Sunday. Nos. 3 and 6 daily.

F. R. MYERS,
General Pass. and Ticket Agent.

BALTIMORE & OHIO R. R

FROM 135 TO 6 MILES

The shortest route from the West to

Washington, Baltimore

AND THE EAST.

CONDENSED TIME TABLE, THRO' TRAINS

VIA PARKERSBURG, Dec: 13, '74	Express	Fast Express,	St. Louis Ex.
Lve. Cincinnati	9 00 am	†4 30 p m	‡11 10pm
Arr. Chillicoth	12 55d n'n	s7 46	3 00 am
" Portsmouth	5 35 p m		11 10
" Marietta	5 56	12 06 n't	7 22
" Parkersburg	5 25 s	11 30	b6 50
Arr. Grafton	9 45	3 40 a m	11 10
" Cumberland	2 00 a m	s7 40	b3 20
" Martinsburg	4 35	10 15	6 10
" Harper's F'y	5 19 a m	10 54	6 51
" Staunton		5 15 p m
" Washington	7 15	12 40 n'n	8 50
" Richmond		10 30p m	4 30 am
" Baltimore	§9 05 a m	1 50 a m	10 20‡pm
" Philadelphia	1 20 p m	6 50 p m	2 35 am
" New York	§5 10	10 22	‡6 15
" Boston.	5 30 a m		4 50 pm

VIA BELLAIRE—Dec 13, 1874	Express	Fast Express.	Fast Line
Lve. Cincinnati (via Dayton S. L.)	6 30 a m		‡3 50 p m
" Cincinnati (via P. C. & St. L.)	†7 00		†7 10 p m
" Columbus	11 35	4 00‡p m	12 20‡
Arr. Newark	1 00 p m	5 25	1 45 a m
" Zanesville	2 10	6 56	2 57
" Bellaire	5 20	10 35	6 30
" Wheeling	6 45 p m	12 50 ngt	9 00
" Grafton	9 35	3 35 a m	11 05
" Cumberlain	2 00 a m	7 40	b3 30 pm
" Martinsburg	4 35	10 15	6 10
" Harper's F'y	5 19 a m	10 54	6 51
" Washington	7 15	12 40 n'n	8 50
" Richmond		10 30 p m	4 30 a m
" Baltimore	9 05	1 50†	10 20‡pm
" Philadelphia	1 20 p m	6 50	2 35 a m
" New York	5 10	10 22†	‡6 15
" Boston	4 50 a m		4 50 p m

B—Breakfast. 1—Dinned. S—Supper. †Dail'y ‡Daily ex. Sunday. §Daily ex. Monday.

PULMAN PALACE SLEEPING CARS

from Louisville, St. Louis, Cincinnati and Columbus, to

WASHINGTON AND BALTIMORE!

—AND—

PHILADELPHIA

WITHOUT CHANGE.

Through Tickets, and further information, can be obtained at all principal Ticket Offices throughout the West and South West.

THOS. P. BARRY, West. pass agt., Cin.
L. M. COLE, Gen'l ticket agt., Bal. Md.
THOS. R. SHARP, Mas. of Tran.

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

IN EFFECT JUNE, 1875.

GOING WEST.

STATIONS:	Exp.	Fst. Line	Fast E
Chicago Junction	7 30am	7 50pm	5 15pm
Tiffin	8 50	8 53	6 39
Fostoria	9 30	9 23	7 15
Deshler	10 33	10 32	8 38
Defiance	11 32	11 33	9 50
Auburn	1 00pm	1 05am	11 50
Auburn Junction	1 03	1 07	11 55
Garrett	1 10	1 15	12 05am
Avilla	1 30	1 34	......
Milford Junction	2 47	2 44	......
Walkertown Junction	4 06	4 00	......
Chicago	7 30	7 30	......

GOING EAST.

Chicago	8 25pm	....	8 40am
Walkertown Junction	12 13am	....	12 17pm
Milford Junction	1 41	....	1 46
Avilla	3 01	....	3 04
Garrett	3 15	6 25am	3 20
Auburn Junction	3 31	6 34	3 38
Auburn	3 36	6 40	3 53
Defiance	5 10	8 43	5 30
Deshler	6 12	10 00	6 36
Fostoria	7 06	11 16	7 40
Tiffin	7 46	11 51	8 11
Chicago Junction	8 45	1 00pm	9 10

L. M. COLE, Gen. Tic. Agt.

J. G. FLEDDERMAN,

No. 27, East Main-St.

FORT WAYNE, IND'A

Has the largest and finest stock of

CLOTHS, COATINGS, CHEVIOTS,

—AND—

CassimereS

in Ft. Wayne. The finest line of

Made up Clothing!

ever shown in Fort Wayne

Youths' and Children's Clothing!

Furnishing Goods, &c.

Mrchant Tailoring.

All work done in all the latest styles, promtly attended to. Go and see his large stock of G

BRICK FOR SALE

FRITZ GROESCOP.

Having just burned a fine kiln of brick, about one hundred thousand, is now ready to supply all who want good brick at reasonable figures. Residence two miles north of Auburn on the Kutzner road; three miles south west of Waterloo.

Wait! Wait!

Wait for the fine display of splendid Stoves, to be made in a few days, at Goodman's. New styles, and new patterns, and something different than has ever been exibited before. tf.

Recorder's Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Devoted to the Interests of the Democratic Party and to the Collection of Local and General News.

Volume 5. AUBURN, DeKALB COUNTY INDIANA, SEPT. 16th, 1875. Number 36.

The Auburn Weekly Courier

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY, BY

TOM. C. MAYS.

One Year,........$2. | Six Months,......$1.

Advertising Rates.

Space.	1m.	3m.	6m.	1y.
One Square.......	2 50	5 00	7 00	12 00
¼ Column.........	6 00	12 00	18 00	30 00
½ Column.........	10 00	18 00	30 00	50 00
One Column.......	18 00	30 00	50 00	100 00

Legal Notices 10 cents per line, first insertion, 5 cents each insertion thereafter. Business cards Five Dollars.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

Penfield & Moody.

ATTORNEYS AT LAW. Office under Odd Fellow's Hall north of Court House, Auburn, Ind. Practice in all Courts of the State.

ROSE & HARTMAN,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW. Have complete abstracts of the records of DeKalb County. Office in Case's Block, Auburn, Indiana.

H. C. PETERSON,

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public. Office over Davis' hardware store, Auburn, Ind.

WOODHULL and CROXTON,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW Angola, Indiana. Practice in Steuben and DeKalb Counties.

RICKEL & TEFFT.

ATTORNEYS AT LAW, Auburn, Ind. Office in the Court House.

J. W. RICKEL. R. DEXTE TEFFT.

A. F. PINCHIN

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public, Butler, DeKalb Co., Ind. Insurance and real estate business promptly attended to.

McBRIDE and MORLAN

ATTORNEYS AT LAW, Waterloo, Indiana. Will practice in any of the courts of the State. Office over O. T. Clark's Dry Goods store.

GUY PLUM,

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public. Office in the Court House. Special attention paid to the collection of claims. Also agent for Home Insurance Company.

CHAS. A. O. McCLELLAN.

ATTORNEY AT LAW, Waterloo, Indiana. Will practice in the Courts of DeKalb and Steuben counties. Liberal Advances Made on all First-class Claims left in my hands for collection.

COURTS IN STEUBEN CO.	COURTS IN DEKALB CO.
1st Monday in February	3rd Monday in Feb.
4th Monday in April	2nd Monday in May
1st Monday in September	3rd Monday in Sep.
Monday in November	2nd Monday in Dec

PHYSICIANS.

DR. J. A. COWAN,

PHYSICIAN & SURGEON, Auburn, Ind. Office on Main street, over Central Grocery.

W. S. ALLEN.

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON, Office over McQuiston's store, Cool's Block, North of Court House.

J. J. LITTLEFIELD,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON. Office over Davenport's Drug Store Auburn, Indiana.

DR. J. M. SHUTT.

ELECTIC PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON, will attend to all calls belonging to the medical profession, promptly. Possessing all the benefits that can be derived from forty-two years experience, of one of the most active and successful Physicians in the western part of Ohio and several years of personal experience enables me to treat all famous of diseases with the best of success, "without the use of calomel. My medicines are purely vegetable, and therefore, I am able to treat all kinds of diceases without producing any bad effect, upon the nervous system," and will break the worst case of ague, without the use of quinine. No matter what your disease is, give me a call, for I am prepared to handle all, at my office on fifth street, between Main and Cedar Auburn Indiana.

HOTELS.

SWINEFORD HOUSE.

CORNER MAIN AND NINTH STREETS, opposite the Court House. S. C. SWINEFORD, Pro.

AVELINE HOUSE,

MILLER & MORITZ, Prop'rs., corner Calhoun & Berry Sts., Fort Wayne, Ind.

AMERICAN HOUSE

AT FORT WAYNE, only $2 a day. Good accommodations for traveling men.

C. B. OAKLEY, Prop'r.

WOOD'S HOTELL.

NOS. 34 & 36 EAST WASHINGTON STREET, opp Field, Leiter, & Co's retail dry goods store; and adjoining D. B. Fisk's wholesale millinery store, between State street & Wabash Avenue, Chicago. O SANDS, Prop'r.

$2.00 per day. GEO. S. PALMER, Clerk.

MISCELLANEOUS.

H. Wartenslaben

PAINTER and paper hanger. House painting a specialty. Residence corner Williams and Cedar street.

Medical Society.

OF DeKALB COUNTY, meets at Auburn, Ind., the 2nd Tuesday in each month.

J. H. FORD, Pres't.

J. A. COWAN, Sec'y.

Joseph H. Stophlet.

ARCHITECT. Office over No. 17 Court street 1st door north of Empire Line office, Ft. Wayne, Ind, Drawings and specifications furnished for all classes of buildings, at reasonable rates.

PRINTING.

COURIER OFFICE.

JOB-PRINTING neatly executed. Fine work a specialty. Office in Odd Fellows' Building 2nd floor.

John M. Miller,

Manufacturer and Dealer in

FINE FURNITURE,

CHAIRS

Husk & Hair Matrasses

50 and 52 East Main Street,

FORT WAYNE, IND.

Thomas Baldock

Building Contractor

AUBURN INDIANA.

will be ready at all times with an experience corps of workmen to erect Houses, Barns, and do carpenter and joiner work of all kinds at reasonable rates.

J. J. VanAuken,

COUNTY SURVEYOR.

Will attend promptly to all surveying. Office with Rose & Hartman, Auburn Indiana. Persons requesting work by letter, should give township and section.

THE PHŒNIX TILE MACHINE.

It is well adapted to the wants of Tile Makers. It is usually driven by the power of two horses. It delivers tile at the two opposite ends of the machine. It may be converted into a single delivery machine. It has a simple and ready means of taking up the wear on the plunge head and sides of the chamber, thus correcting all leakage of mud, and adding years of service to the machine. It makes from 300 to 700 rods of tile per day. It is fully warranted. It may readily be adapted to Steam Power. The dies are finished with much care. Doors and Trucks at moderate prices.

CHANDLER & TAYLOR

Patentees and Manufacturers,

Indianapolis, Ind.

SEND FOR CIRCULARS.

THE AUBURN

Marble Works!

The undersigned beg leave to announce that they have permanently located in Auburn, and are now prepared to attend to all orders for which they are prepared to turn out in a superior manner at reasonable rates. Works west the Bakery.

Monuments, Tomb-Stones, &c.,

J. A. SAWYER & CO.

JAS. CLIFFORD,

WATERLOO, IND.

Keeps constantly on hand the best and choicest brands of all kinds of

Wines and Liquors,

Cigars, Tobaccos &c.

He also has, in connection with the above a first-class

BILLIARD HALL.

To our citizens and the traveling public, we would say that this is the populor resort at Waterloo. First door south of the railroad.

BAKER BROS.

PROPRIETORS OF Auburn Bakery!

AND

EATING HOUSE

Fresh baked Pies, Cakes etc, always on hand. Good lunches served at all hours.

BAKER BROS.

A NEW PLACE

TO GET A

Nobby Suit!

TOM WILLIAMS,

The champion cutter of Fort Wayne formerly with M. E. Woodward, is now going it alone, and can be found at No. 21 Calhoun street with Mr. A. Foster, where he will be pleased to see all his old friends, and a list of new ones. If you want a nice nobby suit made to fit you, you will find him the an.

AUBURN LIVERY

—AND—

SALE STABLE!

RYAN & FORD Prs

Having on hand everything in the line of

Carriages, Buggies, Wagons, etc

y are prepared to furnish rigs at all times a nable prices. Stable east of Court House.

South Main Street

re now in full running order and all orders fo

WAGONS BUGGIES &c.

promptly attended to Special care taken in getting the best Seasoned Timber. Our prices are very reasonable and we solicit the public to give a call and ascertain our prices.

The Auburn

WAGONS

Made from the Best Materials,

And constructed with all the late improvements—

The new and extensive

WAGON SHOPS

—OF—

J. W. SHAFFER

Work of every description done promptly, and warranted. Blacksmithing attended to in good style.

CARPETS.

FOR 1875.

Are offered at prices lower than have prevailed for many years. Our stock fo all grades is large, well selected and we invite inspection. We have added to our stock and the line is unusally fair.

Wall Paper

Terrys,
Reps,
Gimps,
Fringes and a general line of Upholstery Goods with Shades,
Lace Curtains,
Oil Cloths,
and Mattings
in great variety. The manufacture of Lambrequins a specialty.

ELLSWORTH, ANDREW & CO,

26 East Berry street

The Pioneer

HARDWARE

Emporium!

Now full to overflowing with an immense stock o

HEAVY AND SHELF

Hardwaer. Cutlery, Tin Ware,

I would call special attention to my depatment of

HARDWARE,
FURNISHING &
BUIDERS STOCK,

n which will be found everything at the very

LOWEST PRICES,

Such as:—

OILS, PAINTS,
GLASS,
NAILS,
SASH,
DOORS, ETC.

—A FIST-CLASS—

Tin Shop,

In connection with the Hardware Store, with a skillful foreman. All kinds of Tin-ware manufactured and repaired on short notice.

JOHN L. DAVIS,

A Disagreeable Companion.

As a test of nerve the recent experience of a waygarer, traveling a wood road near Olympia, Washington Territory, was as remarkable as any on record. The man was a speculator looking out wild land, and he truged through the forest, following the almost unused path formed by an old road made by pioneers in the wilderness. His mind was devoted to one subject—the critical examination of the kind of trees upon the land about him and of the character of the soil, and he failed to notice for some time a "pit-a-pat" upon the dead leaves near him. He at first scarcely looked down, when he felt something rubbing against his legs and heard a slight purring, but when he did look his heart came up to his mouth, a cold sweat started as suddenly as though he were suspended by a weak rope over Niagara. Pressing itself softly against his legs; twining about him as he walked, moving its flexible body swiftly against but with never a sound, turning up fierce eyes with something almost like a terrible laugh in them, was a huge cougar! No chicken was this man in the woods, but his account of the manner in which his hat was raised by his hair is not to be considered as apocryphal at all.—Sleek and supple and muscular, the beast glided about, and at intervals would come colser again and press its body against the legs of the man, the light touch making goose flesh of every inch of his form. It was a terrible experience, that interview with the cougar in the forest primeval, and it was well for the man that his nerves were of the kind to do honor to a frontier adventurer. Steadily pursuing his course with steps that would falter a little occasionally, he kept on, and with him the beast continued its treacherous gambols. At times it would glide a few paces to the front and roll over and over in the road and wait for the man to come up, and then it would circle around him until the impulse, almost to storng to be resisted, would come upon him to spring upon the brute, opposing fists to fangs, and ending the intolerable suspense at any risk. The movements of the terrible animal were but as the playing of a cat with a mouse; and the man knew it. The moment came, at length, when the strain could be borne no longer, and the man kicked desperately at the beast as it passed him. In an instant it bounded in front and crouched for a spring, growling hoarsely and showing its teeth. The man stopped and shouted hopelessly for aid, while the cougar did not spring at once, but appeared waiting to to gratify its humor a little longer. The shout, fortunately, was not in vain.

There were hunters and dogs in the immediate vicinity, as rare fortune would have it, and the hounds dashed suddenly from the covert as the cougar, seeing them, leaped for a tree. A few moments later the beast fell a victim to bullets, and the man with whom it had taken a stroll was telling his story and trying to restore the normal condition of his nerves by internal applications from a small flask. It was one of the episodes which turn men's hair gray—one which would, doubtless have brought death to a man with less nerve than the hero of the affair.

Donaldson's Sweetheart.

By this time we had strolled around to where the ladies were mountig their glossy thoroughbread for a race in the ring. Thomas introduced me to several of these bespangled damsels with one of whom, a Miss Tailor, I was conversing, when I heard the voice of Dan Castello roaring in the big tent. Stepping to the entrance I caught announcement that a dispatch had been recived that Grimwood's body had been Found in Lake Michigan. Don't tell Miss Taylor," said Thomas to the surrounbing athletes and houris "She thinks of Donadson." But already she had pressed forward on her handsome gray, and demanded to know what the announcements was. When the question was evaded her eagerness increased, for her suspicions were aroused.—She was to have married Donalson a month ago At last they had to tell her, and the poor girl leaned upon the mare's mane and deluged it with tears She writhed in agony in her beautiful jacket of scarlet silk, and presently she jumped down and ran into a covered-wagon, where she could have a cry all to herself. After a little respectful delay, during which the audience waited and wondered what was the matter, the ladies hurdle race was called. Miss Taylor came forth, mounted her gray, and won the race. All of the five, in their colored bodices and gay streamers, seemed to be doing their utmost, but I wondered if any of the competitors for their luck a lag a little in order to give victory to the sad faced rider whose eyes were fixed upon her lover's body drifting along upon the lake of storms—New York Graphic.

As Good as he Gave.

"Speaking of shooting duck," says Dr. F. "puts me in mind of the great storm that occured when I lived on the island. As you are well aware our island was near Cisco Bay. An awful storm arose, and was so fierce that it drove all the ducks in the bay into a pond, covering about an acre near my house. In fact, so many ducks crowded into the pond, that I could not see a drop of water."

"Sho," says Smith, "didn't ye shoot any of em?"

"That's what I was coming at. I went into the house, got my double-barreled shot gun and discharged both barrels right into the midst of them, but to my astonishment they arose in the air leaving not a solitary duck on the pond."

"Good gracious! You don't say so," says Smith. "Didn't you have any shot in your gun, or what in thunder was the matter?"

"Well, I'm coming to that. It astonished me at first, but as soon as the ducks arose a few hundred yards in the air and commenced to separate a little, ducks began to drop, and whether you believe it or not, I picked up twenty-nine barrels full, and it was a poor season for ducks, too. You see the ducks were wedged in solid on the pond, and when they arose they carried the dead ones in the air with them, and when they separated, down came twenty-nine barrels of dead ducks."

"Oh, I am not surprised at that at all or the big lot of ducks you bagged, for it was an awful storm. I remember it well, Doctor; I had at that time a corn barn full of corn; on the out side a knot hole; and during the storm the wind blew so fierce that it blew every ear of corn right through the knot hole; and the hole being just the size of a cob the imp was, that it shelled every ear, leaving the corn in the barn, and the next morning I found my corn barn half full of shelled corn, and not a single cob. I had a curiosity to know where the cobs had gone. I went to the rear of the barn, and followed the line of these cobs over eleven miles, and at a distance of five miles a large first-growth pine tree stood in the track, and darn me if the wind didn't drive cobs into the tree from top to bottom. Oh, Doctor, it was an awful storm."

"Yes," sighed the Doctor, "awful."

◆

"Darling," said Mr. Maguffin when his wife seated herself at the breakfast table yesterday, "you look charming this morning."

"Well, love, I like to look pretty when you are here," was the amirable reply, and Mr. Maugffin proceeded to adjust his napkin and settle down comfortably for his breakfast. When Thomas set his plate before him he scanned the steak narrowly and remarked that it, seemed a little greasy. "I guess not,' said Mrs. Maguffin in a deprecatory tone.

"Well, I guess it is, and if there's any thing I have it's grease."

"I don't see any grease."

"Don't you? Well, I see oceans of it.'

"Well, I think you're very particular this morning, Mr. Maguffin. I don't see anything there that will hurt you?"

"You don't eh? Well, I never could eat grease."

"Couldn't you? Well, I knew a Russian once that ate a box o' candles at one meal."

"Well, by G—oodness!" said Maguffin checking himself just in time to avoid a fearful oath, "I should say he had enough."

"Well, he didn't." screamed Mrs. Maguffin, "for he called for another box!"

◆

In his Urbana speech Mr. Morton said: "That the period has gone by when any increase of the currency would do good in checking the panic I am free to say and believe it must run its course until the times are relieved by economy, industry, and the operation of general causes." And to prove how sincere Mr. Morton's hard money policy is, it is only necessary to quote a passage from a speech he delivered in the senate in February, 1874. He says, "I think it for the best interests of the east, the west and the south, that there shall be an additional amount of currency. I believe that at least forty or fifty millions of additional bank currency is demanded by the best interests of the country." The condition of the country has undergone no change whatever since the above speech was delivered, yet Mr. Morton now prescribes a very different remedy. What a jewel of consistency the legless senator is!—Fort Wayne Sentinel.

How Truffles Did it

I returned to Ashville after an absence of three years and found my friend Truffles grown fat and jovial, with a face the very mirror of peace and selfisfaction. Truffles was the village baker and he was not like this when I went away.

"Truffles," said I "how is it? You have improved."

"Improved! how."

"Why in every way. What have you been doing.

Just then a little girl came in with a tattered shawl and barefooted, to whom Truffles gave a loaf of bread. "Oh, dear, Mr. Truffles," the child said with brimming eyes, as she took the loaf of bread "mamma is getting better, and she says she owes so much to you. She blesses you, indeed she does."

"That's one of the things I've been doing."

"You are giving the suffering family bread?"

"Yes."

"Have you any more cases like that?"

"Yes three or four of them. I give them a loaf a day, enough to feed them.

"And you take no pay?"

"Not from them."

"Ah! from the town?"

"No, here, I'll tell you. One day over a year ago a poor woman came to me and asked for a loaf of bread, for which she could not pay—she wanted it for her poor suffering children. At first I hesitated, but finally gave it to her, and as her blessings rang in my ears after she had gone, I felt my heart grow warm.—Times were hard, and there was a good deal of suffering, and I found myself wishing, by and by, that I could afford to give away more bread. At length an idea struck me. I'd stop drinking, and give that amount away in bread, adding one or two loves on my own account. I did it, and it's been a blessing to me.—My heart has grown bigger, and I've grown better every way. My sleep is sound and sweet, and my dreams are pleasant. And that's what you see, I suppose."

◆

Mr. Beecher has conducted himself since his trial in a manner so offensive to decency, so inconsistant with his sacred calling, and so out of relation to the character he claims for himself and his partisans ask the public to believe is his, that we are not surprised to hear startling reports as to his actions. The following, however, from the White Mountains correspondence of the "Express," is almost to disgraceful for belief:

"The Beecher excitement is quite died out. At first there was a great rush to see him, and hear him, but now the fun is over, and last Sunday his entire audience did not exceed 2,000 people. He is to return to Brooklyn this week, much to the displeasure of the Barrons, who kept the hotel where he is staying.—They have gave him his board and $50 a week to stay and preach at their house He thinks they are making too much money out of him, and demands that they pay him $200 a week. The Barrons say this is too much, and Beecher says, 'All right gentlemen, I go home this week.' 'If you do we will sue you for breach of contract; for, Mr. Beecher, you agreed to stay till the third Sunday in September.' Beecher coolly replies, 'Sue away, if you like. I should think after what you have seen of my success in the law business, that you would know better than to undertake a suit with me.' The Barrons are furious.—They say they have done everything for Beecher; that they defended him in the newspapers, and have petted him always But they can't help themselves. When Mr. Beecher makes up his mind to go, he will start if the whole regiment opposes."

The previous report that Mr. Beecher was a dead head at the Twain Mountain House, paying his way by exhibiting himself there, was discreditable enough but the above is an outrage to honor and decency that we are not able to believe even of Mr. Beecher.

◆

The horrible mob and fatal violence at Clinton, Mass., is one of the deplorable fruits of passion which must ever impend over that region while the hostility of races in nourished and cherished by the dominant element of the government. The negros have been under special tuition for the last ten years, educating them for deeds of violence on the slightest provocation. The incident which began the difficulty was insignificant, and might occur anywhere at any time. But it could only expand into widespread riot by the impulse of a class fury which raged without any other cause than a common impulse of passion. The affair is terrible to contemplate, but its real cause is more alarming, for it is liable to produce similar effects any moment. The remedy is in a change of influence in the government of the nation.

AUBURN COURIER

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 16, 1875.

THE NEWS CONDENSED.

THE EAST.

BODY, the defaulting State Treasurer of New Jersey, has had a preliminary trial. The exact amount of his deficit is ascertained to be $44,116. The Justice held him in $75,000. No bail was offered, and he was fully committed.... There is now strong grounds for believing that little Charlie Ross is alive and may yet be restored to his parents. Mrs. Mosher, the wife of Bill Mosher, the abductor of the child, virtually acknowledges that the child is living, but does not know his present whereabouts.

THE Pennsylvania State Normal School, at Bloomsburg, has been destroyed by fire. Loss, $60,000.... South Deerfield, Mass., was visited last week by a disastrous conflagration. Property of the estimated value of $590,000 was destroyed.

TILTON'S woolen mill, at Cavendish, Vt., was destroyed by fire last week. Loss estimated at $170,000; insurance $160,000.... Three of the Schuylkill county (Pa.) Commissioners have been convicted of malfeasance in office and sentenced each to two years' imprisonment and $1,000 fine.... It is announced that Tilton has abandoned all hopes of a new trial in the Beecher case, because he (Tilton) cannot raise the funds to conduct the prosecution.... The population of Massachusetts, according to the census just completed, is 1,640,000.... A disease similar to the old epizootic has broken out among the cattle near Avon, N. Y. Forty died within two weeks.

JUDGE GILBERT, of Brooklyn, in the case of a colored man who applied for a mandamus to compel the Board of Education to admit his son to a school set apart for white children, decided that the system of common school education was established for the public, and all persons had access to it. The Board of Education had no power to exclude any.

CAPT. JOHN C. JONES, of New York city, committed suicide by jumping over Niagara Falls, a few days ago.... Three men were killed and a number wounded by the explosion of a celluloid factory, at Newark, N. J., last week.

THE WEST.

GORDON, the Black Hills adventurer, has backed out of the suit which he commenced with so much flourish against the military authorities at Omaha for false imprisonment, and paid the costs of the litigation.... A fire at Virginia City, Nevada, last week, destroyed $125,000 worth of property.... The jury of inquest in the case of Ralston, the San Francisco banker, returned a verdict of accidental death.

IT now transpires that the failure of the Bank of California was not caused so much by a conspiracy on the part of its enemies as by the rascality of the late President. The directors of the institution authorize the statement that Ralston's defalcation will amount to between three and four millions of dollars, and that a large over-issue of stock has also been discovered. The directors, for a mysterious reason, decline to let the public know what particular use was made of this large sum of money.... John N. Edwards, of the St. Louis Times and Emory S. Foster, of the St. Louis Journal, fought a bloodless duel last week in Winnebago county, Ill. One round was fired at twenty paces with navy revolvers, the bullets whistling harmlessly in the air. Edwards demanded another shot, but Foster declined. After considerable parley the affair was amicably settled, the belligerents shook hands, the genial Bourbon was produced, and the agreeable termination of the trouble generously toasted. The difficulty grew out of the Jeff Davis Winnebago county controversy.... Another aeronaut has met with a tragic death. A man calling himself Prof. Ariel, traveling with a circus, made an ascension in a hot-air balloon at Jackson, Mich., last week. On descending, the balloon seemed in danger of striking on the railroad bridge, and the occupant, to save himself, jumped into the water and was drowned.... The pesky grasshopper has turned up again. Millions of them have recently been seen traveling over Central and Southern Illinois in a southeasterly direction. Fortunately they can do but little harm to the crops this season, but damage is to be apprehended next year in localities where they may alight at this time.

MR. FISHER, an Alderman of St. Paul, was recently expelled from the City Council for accepting bribes and appropriating to his own use some property purchased by the city—the property being seventy-five bushels of oats.

THE Commissioners appointed to treat with the Sioux Indians for the purchase of the Black Hills arrived at Red Cloud Agency on the 5th of September. About 16,000 savages had collected at the Agency. The Commissioners were hopeful of being able to make a treaty.... A serious Indian outbreak is reported in Eastern Nevada and Western Utah. Gen. Schofield has sent troops to that region, and will himself go to the scene of the disturbances.... The amount of grain in store in Chicago on the 8th inst. was 611,717 bushels of wheat; 1,517,689 bushels of corn; 311,125 bushels of oats; 58,855 bushels of rye, and 32,080 bushels of barley, making a grand total of 2,531,466 bushels, against 2,983,958 bushels at the same period last year.

A NUMBER of serious railroad accidents occurred on the Northwestern road in the vicinity of Harvard, Ill., on the night of the 8th inst., all them caused by rain-storms and defective bridges. An express train ran off the end of an embankment into a creek. Henry Morris, engineer; James Fury, baggage master; W. J. Grouse, a passenger; and Mr. Black, news agent, were instantly killed. Hall, express messenger; Frank Gish, fireman; James Ranons, conductor; and several passengers were very seriously injured, but it is hoped not fatally. A freight train ran into a break in a culvert, instantly killing the engineer and fireman. Another freight train ran into a similar trap and twelve cars were wrecked, and a brakeman named Herrick killed. Still another train found a watery reception near Beloit, Wis., on the same fatal night. The engine and several cars were wrecked, but fortunately no one was killed.... The friends of the late W. C. Ralston held a meeting in San Francisco last week, and passed resolutions eulogistic of the deceased and denunciatory of the Evening Bulletin and Morning Call for their "brutal and unjustifiably attacks upon the character of the deceased."

PROF. C. V. RILEY, State Entomologist of Missouri, informs the editor of the Chicago Journal, that the swarms of grasshoppers recently seen flying over Illinois are not the rapacious kind from the Western frontier.... The great Inter-State Exposition at Chicago, on the 8th inst., was attended by an immense throng of people. The Chicago papers describe it as a magnificent display of arts, industrial ingenuity and other attractions. The great show will remain open to the public until Oct. 8.

THE SOUTH.

A DISPATCH from Sandersville, Ga., says the trial of Corday Harris, the negro accused of attempting to incite insurrection among the blacks in Washington and Burke counties, resulted in a verdict of acquittal. It thus turns out that the alleged insurrection was only a big scare.... Louis Rehm, the Louisville bank teller, [illegible] robbing the bank for some time, and covering the thefts by false entries.... On Friday, the 3d day of September, the good citizens of Fort Smith, Ark., were regaled by a sight that never before met the view of any other people within the United States in time of peace, namely, the simultaneous hanging of six murderers on one gallows. The culprits were John Whittington, white, aged 31; Daniel Evans, white, aged 20; Smoker Mankiller, an Indian, aged 19; Samuel Fooy, a half-breed Indian, aged 26; James H. Moore, white, aged 17; Edmund Campbell, a negro, aged 20. Two thousand people witnessed the ghastly spectacle. All of them died "game."

MORE race troubles are reported in Mississippi. During the progress of a colored political meeting at Clinton on the 4th of September, a white man in the audience called one of the speakers a liar, which led to an indiscriminate fight. Over a hundred shots were fired, and three whites and four blacks were killed, and a large number wounded on both sides.... At the recommendation of the grand jury of Washington county, Ga., all the negroes indicted for complicity in the alleged insurrection have been discharged from custody.

TOUCHING the riot between whites and blacks at Clinton, Miss., a press dispatch from Vicksburg gives the following version of the origin of the row: There is a law prohibiting the sale of liquor in Clinton. Young men from Raymond brought a bottle with them, and while speaking was going on, Martin Severly and some of his friends went off a short distance to take a drink. The negro Marshal for the occasion approached them and forbid their drinking. This order was not regarded, when the negro attempted to take the bottle out of Severly's hand. Severly finally struck the negro over the head with a bottle. Senator Caldwell (colored), started to settle the difficulty, and was followed by some 20 negroes, whom he ordered back, but about 100 more came rushing up, when some one fired a shot, which was followed by a general firing and stampede.

A DISPATCH from Vicksburg, Miss., dated September 7, says: "A white man named Heffer is reported lynched at Utica yesterday morning. Two negroes are also reported killed at Raymond last night. One of the negroes who mutilated the body of Sively, at Clinton, is reported killed. John Neal, one of the whites wounded at Clinton, is since dead. The total number of negroes killed in the fight at Clinton is now estimated at twenty-five. All is quiet now in the lately disturbed districts, and the negroes are suing for peace. No further trouble is apprehended in any quarter. Gov. Ames has issued a proclamation calling on all armed bodies of men, organized in defiance of law, to disperse.

THE bank of F. B. Hancock & Co., at Greenville, Ky., was recently entered by burglars and robbed of $34,460.... Jeff Davis delivered an address before the Agricultural Society at De Soto, Mo., on the 8th of September.

THE officers of the secret service recently made a raid upon a gang of counterfeiters at Decatur, Ala., and captured eleven of the number. The prisoners are men of prominence in that locality, being wealthy farmers and landowners. The operations of the gang were extensive, for owing to their well-known "respectability" they were not suspected of manufacturing or shoving "the queer."

GENERAL.

THERE is a prospect of a row between the United States and Great Britain. An American vessel was recently sold in British waters in violation of American law regarding such sales. A demand was made upon Great Britain for the return of the vessel to this country for seizure, but the British government refused to comply. The United States government has therefore given orders to seize the vessel if ever found in American waters.

A BOLD robbery is reported from Huntington, West Virginia. Three men entered a bank at noon, and, placing pistols at the head of the Cashier, compelled him to open the safe, from which they took $15,000 and decamped.... The New York and Erie Bank, of Buffalo, N. Y., has suspended.

THE Philadelphia experiment of shipping peaches to England has proved a failure. The fruit all rotted before reaching Liverpool.

THE Governor of Mississippi, Adelbert Ames, telegraphed to President Grant, on the 7th inst., regarding the alleged domestic violence in Hinds and Yazoo counties, and inquiring if his proclamation of December last was still in force, and stating if it was not, he would at once make formal application for Federal aid in accordance with the provisions of the Constitution. The President replied that the proclamation of December was not in force. Gov. Ames immediately telegraphed back that domestic violence prevails in various parts of the State beyond the power of the State authorities to suppress, and made formal application for such aid from the Federal government as may be necessary to restore peace to the State, and protect its citizens.

A WASHINGTON dispatch says a gang of Italians has gone West, for the purpose of passing off a lot of well-executed counterfeit notes on the First National Bank of Philadelphia. Look out for them.... The American Pomological Society has just held an interesting session at Chicago. A large number of delegates were present from all parts of the country.

POLITICAL.

THE Democrats of California have elected their State ticket by about 30,000 plurality.

THE New York Republican State Convention assembled at Saratoga on the 8th of September and nominated the following ticket: Secretary of State, Frederick W. Seward; Comptroller, Francis E. Spinner; Treasurer, Edwin A. Merritt; Attorney-General, George B. Danforth; Engineer and Surveyor, Oliver H. P. Cornell; Canal Commissioner, Wm. L. Tinsley; Inspector of State Prisons, Benjamin D. Ives. The platform pronounces against an increase of the currency, favors a speedy return to specie payments, and opposes the election of a President for a third term.... The Democrats and Reformers of Wisconsin held their convention at Milwaukee, on the 8th inst. The present State officers were nominated by acclamation, as follows: Governor, Wm. R. Taylor; Lieutenant-Governor, Charles D. Parker; Secretary of State, Peter Doyle; State Treasurer, Ferdinand Kuehn; Attorney-General, A. Scott Sloan; Superintendent of Public Instruction, Edward Searing. The platform favors a sound currency, in coin or equivalent, a tariff for revenue only, and the sovereignty of the State over corporations of its own creation.

THE Democratic State Convention of Pennsylvania, in session at Erie on the 9th of September, nominated Judge Cyrus L. Pershing, of Cambria county, for Governor on the eleventh ballot. The platform opposes a further contraction of the currency, favors the permanent retirement of all national bank circulation and the substitution of legal-tenders, and demands the extinction of the present national banks and the establishment in their stead of a system of free banks, under such regulations as the States respectively may prescribe.

FOREIGN.

THE London Times urges the interference of Great Britain in the Herzegovinian troubles.... The Chinese government is preparing to send diplomatic representatives to the leading Western nations. According to the report, they will be preceded by a roving mission, similar to Burlingame's, under Mr. Hart, Inspector of Customs.

LATE European advices state that the leaders of the Turkish insurrection have agreed upon a manifesto, demanding the independence of Bosnia and Herzegovina under a Christian Prince, to be chosen from one of the European dynasties.... Advices from Spain state that an English steamer has succeeded in landing at Motrico a large cargo of war material for the Carlists, including four pieces of artillery, 5,000 rifles, and 100 cases of cartridges.

THE London Mark Lane Express of Sept. 7 says the bulk of the European wheat crop has been gathered in good order. The crop is short as a whole, and the quality inferior.... The German pilgrimage to Lourdes will not take place this year.

THE Russians have gained a great victory over the Khokand rebels in Central Asia.... A dispatch from Constantinople says order has again been completely restored in Bosnia; and almost restored in Herzegovina.

THE harvest in Sweden and Denmark is over. The yield is a bounteous one, both countries having a large surplus of wheat for export.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

Weekly Review of the Chicago Market.

FINANCIAL.

Currency has been going into the interior quite freely during the past week, indicating the early marketing of crops. Money is abundant and borrowers with good collateral have no difficulty in obtaining favors. Rates 7@10 per cent., according to time and security. Bonds firm and steady at former quotations.

BREADSTUFFS.

The grain markets have attracted considerable attention from speculators and operators generally, and quite an extensive business was transacted. Values have been somewhat irregular on the whole range, but the closing quotations show some improvement on wheat and oats, although the fine weather for the growing crop prevents any material advancement or permanent improvement in the corn market. The September shorts have been making provision for their contracts, and at the close of the trading had settled mainly in the October option. The receipts of all kinds of grain except corn are increasing, while the shipments were somewhat larger, especially of corn. The bulk of shipments of the latter were of corn received on matured or maturing contracts of options and forwarded by the receiver. The demand from August shorts forced wheat up to $1.17½ early in the week, but the market closed easier under less activity in the demand. Oats were fairly active on speculative account. Rye and barley, quiet.

The following table shows the prices current at the opening and close of the past week:

	Opening.		Closing.
No. 2 sp'g wheat, cash		@1.13¼		@1.14¾
No. 2, seller September	$1.13¼	@1.13⅝		@1.14¾
No. 2, seller October		@1.13¼		@1.13¾
No. 2 corn, cash		@ .62	.62	@ .62¾
No. 2 corn, seller Sept.		@ .62		@ .62¼
No. 2 corn, s. October		@ .63		@ .62¾
No. 2 oats, cash	.34	@ .34½		@ .35½
No. 2 oats, seller Sept.		@ .34	.34½	@ .35
No. 2 oats, s. October		@ .37½		@ .38½
No. 2 rye, cash		@ .81		@ .78½
No. 2 rye, s. Sept.	.78	@ .79		@ .78½
No. 2 barley, cash		@1.10	1.08	@1.09
No. 2 barley, s. Sept.		@1.08		@1.08
No. 2 barley, s. Oct.		@1.04		@1.04
No. 3 barley, cash		@ .94		@ .85

PRODUCE.

Trade in butter during the past week was again only moderate and transactions were confined mainly to the local trade. The arrivals during the week were rather meager, particularly of choice, of which the supply at the present time is very light. The advices received from the East continue unfavorable and the demand on shipping account consequently was limited. For the better qualities of butter the demand continues good, and prices ruled firm, but medium grades were but little called for, and for these it was found difficult to make sales. There was no change of importance in prices. Beans under a light demand ruled dull and very quiet. Prices were unchanged and quotations were at $1.75@1.80 per brl for good to prime Eastern mediums, and $1.00@1.75 for Western, according to quality. There was nothing of consequence done in beeswax; quotable at 26@28c for prime yellow. The reports received from the country in regard to broom-corn were more encouraging, and holders were more disposed to realize. There was rather a weak feeling developed, though no particular alteration was exhibited in values. We quote hurl at 10½@12c for No. 1 to extra, such as can be worked into a choice hurl broom 10½@11c, and good do 9@10c; crooked 6@8½c. The arrivals of berries were fair, and they consisted mainly of blackberries, for which there was a fair demand when in prime order, but there were some received that were common lots on the market, which were slow sale. The market closed at $3.50@4.00 for choice Wilsons, in sixteen-quart cases, $3.00@3.25 for Lawtons, and $1.00@1.06 for wild, according to quality. There has been some accumulation in the stock of cheese, but there was no improvement in the demand, and the market was a shade easier. Quotable at 10c for prime factory in lots, and at 11c in a retail way; common ranged at 5@9c. There were some new cranberries on the market, but they were not desirable and could not be sold. Dried fruits were steady and firm, though the amount of business transacted was light. Eastern apples quotable at about 10c when choice and repacked. Halves peaches firm at 11c, and blackberries quotable at about 11c. There was no sale for dried peas, and prices were nominal at $2.00@2.50 for choice green and $1.60@1.75 for marrowfat. The supply of eggs was ample, but there being so many lots in bad order, buyers were rather reluctant about purchasing. The market closed at 13½@14c for guaranteed in cases; lots in tubs and barrels were almost unsalable. Prime live geese feathers were a shade firmer, but the other kinds remain unchanged; quotable at 52@53c for the above-named kind, 25c for turkey tail, and 3c@5c for chiken. The receipts of all kinds of green fruits were more than sufficient to supply the demand, and the market ruled dull. A good many consignments were received in poor order, and these in a good many instances had to be thrown away. Apples ranged at 50c@2.00 for poor to fair, $2.25@2.75 for good cooking, and $3.00@3.50 for choice eating. Peaches sold all the way from 10c to $3.00 a box for Eastern, and the market closed at about $2.00@2.20 for good to choice. The majority of the pears offered were in poor order, and for this reason sales were exceedingly slow. Quotable at $2.00@2.50 for Eastern in good order in ⅓-bu boxes, and 75c @$1.00 for ⅓-bu boxes. Plums quiet at $1.00 @1.25 for baskets of damsons; wild were unsalable. Grapes sold at 5@10c per lb, according to quality. The game received was in very poor order, and but few lots sold at remunerative prices. Choice of all descriptions was in fair demand. Prairie chickens in good order sold at $2.00@2.50 per doz. Hides were as active as the offerings would admit and former prices were maintained. Quotable at 8½c for green salted, 15c for calf and 6½c for damaged. Honey was unsalable. There was a fair demand for choice nutmeg melons at $1.00@1.25 per crate, but the bulk of the offerings were green or else in poor order. Potatoes remain dull at 75c@$1.00 per brl. Sweet potatoes sold slowly at $3.50@3.75 per brl for yellow Jerseys, $3.00 for yellow Illinois, and from 30@40c in one-third bushel boxes. Veal was dull and prices were rather weak, receivers generally being anxious to keep their stock well closed out, on [illegible]. Sales ranged at 4@7c for common to choice [illegible] also dull, and the offerings of all kinds were in excess of the demand. Prices were weak, as follows: 50c per bu for tomatoes, $1.00@1.50 per brl for onions, 75c@1.00 per doz for egg plant, and $1.00@2.00 per doz for cauliflower.

COOPERAGE, LUMBER AND WOOD.

There was no business of consequence doing in the market for cooperage. Notwithstanding transactions were limited a steady feeling prevailed, and there was no change to note in prices. Quotations range at $1.12½@1.15 for pork barrels, $1.35@1.45 for lard tierces, $1.90 @2.10 for whisky barrels, and 45@55c for flour barrels. There was a good supply of lumber on the market, and there the demand was also very good. Prices were steady at the following quotations: Joist and scantling, $8.00@8.25; boards and strips, $8.00@16.00, according to quality; shingles, $2.00@2.70; and lath, $1.50. The movement was again very light in wood, and there was no alteration to note in values. Quotable at $8.00 per cord for hickory, $7.00 for maple, $6.00 for beech, and $5.00 for slabs at the yards.

SEEDS AND HIGHWINES.

There was quite a brisk movement in timothy during the week, but prices under largely increased offerings were a shade easier. The arrivals consisted largely of common qualities, but the offerings of really prime were light. The market closed at $2.20@2.50 for poor to good, and $2.50@2.60 for prime. Clover was very quiet, and light sales of prime medium were reported at $8.00. Flax was steady and in fair demand. Sales at $1.40@1.50 for fair to good crushing. The other kinds were entirely nominal. Highwines were quiet, and the market closed a shade easier, sales being at $1.18½.

PROVISIONS.

There was more interest developed in this market during the week just past, and transactions were generally made at a shade better prices, excepting lard, which was a trifle weaker. The market was governed mainly by local speculative influences. The receipts of hogs during the week were only moderate and for these prices were generally maintained. Mess pork was in good demand and closed firm at $21.00 cash and seller September, and $20.85 seller October. Cash lard closed at $13.00@13.10, seller September at $12.95@13.00, and seller October at 13.05.

Telegraphic Market Reports.

NEW YORK.

BEEVES	$8 00	@13 00
HOGS—Dressed	10	@	10¾
COTTON	14½	@	15¼
FLOUR—Superfine Western	4 10	@	5 20
WHEAT—No. 2 Chicago	1 24	@	1 26
CORN	69	@	73
OATS	48	@	55
RYE	90	@	96
PORK—New Mess	20 26	@	20 75
LARD—Steam	13¼	@	13⅜

ST. LOUIS.

WHEAT—No. 2 Red	1 48	@	1 49
CORN—No. 2	58	@	59
OATS—No. 2	34	@	35
RYE—No. 2	71	@	72
PORK—Mess	21 25	@	21 75
LARD	12¾	@	13
HOGS	7 85	@	8 10
CATTLE	5 25	@	6 25

MILWAUKEE.

WHEAT—No. 1	1 10	@	1 20
No. 2	1 13	@	1 15
CORN—No. 2	56	@	58
OATS—No. 2	33	@	35
RYE	77	@	79
BARLEY—No. 2	1 06	@	1 10

CINCINNATI.

WHEAT—New	80	@	1 30
CORN	70	@	73
OATS	30	@	50
RYE	..	@	82
PORK—Mess	20 75	@	21 00
LARD	13	@	14

TOLEDO.

WHEAT—Extra	1 38	@	1 40
Amber	1 28	@	1 30
CORN	58	@	62
OATS	39	@	42

DETROIT.

WHEAT—Extra	1 36	@	1 39
No. 1 White	1 25	@	1 27
No. 2 White	1 10	@	1 21
Amber	1 20	@	1 21
CORN	62	@	64
OATS	39	@	42
BARLEY—No. 3	..	@	1 25
PORK—Mess	..	@	22 00

CLEVELAND.

WHEAT—No. 1 Red	..	@	1 38
No. 2 Red	..	@	1 35
CORN	60	@	70
OATS	43	@	44

Love and a Mule.

The Newark Evening Courier, a newspaper remarkable for its veracity, says of one of its citizens: "He rose early and gulped down his morning cup of coffee, as if his life depended upon his haste. Then he rushed to the grand-delivery window of the postoffice, and inquired for a letter. The clerk handed him a perfumed missive, directed in a fair round hand. He ripped open one end of the envelope with his lead-pencil sharpener, and commenced to read as he crossed Broad street toward Center Market. What to him were the country wagons, with their loads of beets and cabbages? He read: 'As I sit by the open window and hear the waves thunder upon the shore —' There he stopped suddenly and tumbled into a basket of squashes, as if a thunderbolt had been launched at the seat of his thirty-inch pataloons. That was where it struck. 'Hello, mister. Say, can't you keep away from that mewl?' sang out a bronzed agriculturist from Caldwell. 'Help yourself to squash,' yelled one of Lew Francis' students from the tonsorial chambers of the market building. He gathered up his girl's letter dripping with black mud, surveyed the photograph of the mule's foot upon the base of his pantaloons, and limped disconsolately away. The course of true love never did run smooth."

Extraordinary Chess Playing.

Mr. William H. Mundy, of Seneca Falls, N. Y., recently played at that place twenty-four games of chess at one time, against twenty-four different players, without sight of men or boards. The games were played at the residence of Judge Josiah T. Miller, the player meanwhile sitting on the stoop, chatting and answering questions about the games. This is eleven more games than were ever attempted at one time before. A dispute arose about the position of the pieces in two of the games, and Mr. Mundy stood up before the guests and called off all the moves that had been made in the games and the position of the pieces on the boards. He had previously played six games at once in Hudson, N. Y., and again in Geneva, N. Y. When 14 years old he beat some of the best players then living, but has played little since.

THE Adams Express Company employs 8,000 men, 1,900 horses, and 1,200 railway cars, and their special messengers travel over 100,000 miles a day.

BANK OF CALIFORNIA.

Reaction of Popular Feeling—The Conspiracy That Drove the Bank to the Wall and Ralston to His Death—Resumption of Business.

(San Francisco (Sept. 9) Cor. Chicago Times.)

The public seem to have lost all interest in politics, and to think and talk only of Ralston and his bank. There was a time in the history of California that the men who hastened this great catastrophe, and hounded to his death the most enterprising citizen in California, would have been seized and hanged to the first lamp-post. But the old days of vigilance committees and unrestrained passions have passed. San Francisco to-day is a city of civilized and [illegible], and the vengeance which individuals deal out to the authors of calamities like these is the vengeance of social ostracism. The two newspapers which have aided the main conspirators in this hellish work are losing their subscriptions by hundreds. Their managers are repudiated by the public, and there is but one sentiment expressed for the dead financier—that with all his faults he was a man among men, and all his troubles, which ended in his tragic death, have been caused by the successful scheming of his enemies, and not from any fault, much less crime, of his own. This is the situation in the financial world of San Francisco to-day. Our people are divided into two classes—the men who swear by Ralston and are determined to vindicate his honor at all sacrifices, and those who depend on Flood & O'Brien, the men who aspire to take Ralston's place, and who, of course, hurl epithet on epithet at the dead man, the latchet of whose shoe they are not worthy to unloose. It is capital pitted against capital, and the only question is, which of the parties—the Bank of California or the new Bank of Nevada, Flood & O'Brien—can swing at once the most brains. The Bank of California, when it begins anew, will represent an aggregation of capitalists, while the Bank of Nevada will represent simply Messrs. Flood & O'Brien, who control the Big Bonanza. The sympathy of the public at large is decidedly with the bank which has long represented the State abroad, and its credit, in spite of the unfortunate events of the past week, is in no way impaired. All its large creditors have agreed to give it an elaborate extension of time, and the Oriental Bank extends all the credit it desires until the present difficulty is tided over. While Mr. Ralston was living, and the first shock of the awful calamity was thrilling the public, the friends whose fortunes he had made, and stockholders and Directors of the banks, whom honor should have made to stand with him, deserted him in a body. This was the crowning blow which broke the great banker's heart. He was a man of honor, and the moment the crash came, he turned every cent of his personal property, to be applied to the payment of its debts. The Directors repudiated him, and forced him to resign his position as President. Then he went forth to his death, and Ralston dead is appreciated by those who deserted him living. "I am worth," said Mr. Sharon, at the Directors' meeting yesterday, "fifteen millions in solid wealth and permanent real estate. Mr. Ralston was my friend. Through him I made it, and I shall devote the full half before there shall come a stain on his honor." D. O. Mills, so cold and impassive as we had thought him, responded to the generous sentiment. Michael Reese gave his adherence to the determination to banish all idea of liquidation through bankruptcy, and the board, with entire unanimity, resolved that California's great financial institution should not go down in shame and dishonor.

The Chronicle this morning publishes a positive statement to the effect that the bank has reliable assets of $14,000,000, and nominal assets of $20,000,000, and an indebtedness of $13,000,000; the coin in its vaults is $850,000; a guaranty fund of $5,000,000 to $10,000,000 is nearly all pledged, and resumption is assured immediately. Similar statements are being spread abroad.

Biography of Ralston.

William Chapman Ralston, late President of the Bank of California, who so strangely lost his life, was born in the village of Wellsville, 45 miles from Pittsburgh, and was at one time clerk on a steamboat plying between that city and Cincinnati. He is very well known in Pittsburgh, and Mr. J. N. McCullough, General Manager of the Pennsylvania company's railroad lines, and Gen. F. R. Myers, General Passenger Agent of this institution, were boyhood companions of Ralston. The latter's father was owner of a saw and planing mill at Wellsville, and conducted boat-building, and in the years 1847 and 1848, he succeeded in placing his son as second clerk on a steamboat. In this position, and more responsible ones subsequently, he became acquainted with quite a large number of our merchants and business men. He became engaged to a lady in New York, about 1848, who, through death's intervention, was not destined to become his companion. Shortly after the breaking out of the excitement attending the discovery of gold in California, Mr. Ralston also caught the gold fever, and left the river trade to seek his fortunes in Eldorado, via Panama. Very early in his career he jumped into all sorts of speculations, and soon amassed a handsome competency. Stock operations and mining enterprises were his favorite fields. He entered the ill-fated Bank of California when it was quite a small institution. Ralston, in course of time, rose to be its cashier, and afterward President; and its capital stock being increased from $2,000,000 to $5,000,000, the bank, under his management, soon became a very influential institution.

Cause of Floods.

The frequent and protracted droughts that have afflicted the earth during some years past have been ascribed to the increasing destruction of forests, and now the excessive rains and floods of the present season are in a measure referred to the same cause. Forests have a great effect in equalizing the distribution of ice and snow under the influence of the summer heat. The existence of lumber on hillsides also tempers the flow of surface water and restrains the accumulation of torrents. It is a notable fact that the violence of spring and summer floods is increasing in proportion to the denudation of forest and woodlands. When will men learn the unwisdom of disturbing the equilibrium of nature, and take care not to set desolating forces at work by a selfish disregard of aught but their immediate personal interests?

A Strange Tragedy.

Reading was on Tuesday the scene of one of the most terrible tragedies that has occurred in this State for a number of years. At about 6:30 o'clock on the evening in question a woman of medium height and full figure was observed passing over the Harrisburg bridge, a short distance from the city proper. She was accompanied by three children, two of them girls, aged 9 and 5 years, and the [illegible] side of the river the little party descended to the tow-path of the Union Canal, and proceeded in the direction of the Tulpehocken Creek. The children skipped along merrily, delighted with their ramble in the country, whilst the mother walked moodily with them. At a point about two and a half miles from the city of Reading she was seen by a young lady to stop and fill a large basket she had with her with stones.

This done, she strapped it tightly to her waist, and picking up the little boy she threw him on her breast, and then taking one of the girls under each of her arms, deliberately threw herself into the canal. But a few moments intervened between the filling of the basket and the fatal act, and before the aid, which came in the person of Mr. Forney and several farm-hands, who rushed to the water's edge upon hearing the cries of the children, could effect a rescue, the mother and children had disappeared. There was a moment of struggling and battling with the waters, and then the woman, borne down by the weight of the basket of stones and the children, sank to the bottom. The rescuing party began grappling for the bodies, and in a short time recovered two of the children; presently the third was obtained, and finally the body of the mother was found. The mother and children were well dressed. The bodies of the four were laid upon the bank of the stream. Notice was at once sent to the Coroner, and a jury was impaneled, none of whose members were able to recognize the dead woman or her children. Their verdict was that the woman came to her death by suicidal drowning, whilst the children came to theirs by the willful act of the person (supposed to be the mother) who was with them. The dead bodies were taken to the city, and were about to be buried, when a Mrs. Bockmuehl, who had viewed them at the undertaker's office, recognized the woman as the wife and the children as the offspring of Philip Bessinger, a German saloon-keeper. He was at once summoned, and made acquainted with the sad event which had deprived him of a wife and a family of children.—Pittsburg Chronicle.

A SEQUEL TO THE ABOVE.

A dispatch from Reading says: "There was great excitement here at the funeral of Mrs. Bessinger and her three children, drowned Tuesday last. It seems from the stories of people that the woman had lived unhappily with her husband, owing to the introduction by him of another woman into the house, and that this unhappiness resulted in a quarrel Monday, when the husband ordered his wife to leave the house and take the two girls with her, while he would retain the boy. Next day she went to leave with the children, and after filling a basket with stones, in which operation the children assisted, she bound the basket securely to her body, and taking the three children in her arms leaped into the canal and all were drowned. As soon as the bodies were recovered and taken to their former home, the police had to guard the house to save the husband from assault, and at the funeral procession today, which included about one thousand people on foot, surrounded his carriage. When the bodies were lowered into the graves the people hooted Bessinger and made a rush for him. In the confusion one shot was fired, when the police hurriedly placed him in a carriage and drove off, receiving on passing the cemetery gates another shot, which it is thought wounded him, as he was carried into the house. The police are still on guard, and the people, including many women, continue their threats.

A Religious View.

"You see, when you done shuffle off dis mortuary coil, and de sperritt persente itself at the Golden Gates," argued a colored revivalist, on the levee, yesterday, "Gabr'el gwine to ask you what church you 'longed to in de flesh."

"Yaas, I speck so," said the listener.

"If you 'longed to the Missiunary Baptist; he gwine tole you walk right in and set by de foot-stool.

"Ef you 'long to de Methomdist Church he say stay on de outside whar your shoutin' won't 'sturb de angels.

"Ef you's 'Piscumpalion—"

"Hole on, Mr. Middleton, de ain't no niggers 'Piscumpalions. Dem's all white folks," interrupted the listener.

"Dat don't make no difference," continued the expounder of religion; "de principle's de same, ain't it? Ef you're a 'Piscumpalion, de angel say to you, 'go over dar 'mong de white folks.'

"Ef you's Caffolick, de angel pint you to de Virgin Mary, and tell you—"

"But look heah, Mr. Middleton, sposen he didn't 'long to no church in de flesh?" queried the listener.

"Well, what he be doin' dar den?" asked the colored divine, scornfully.

"Well," replied the unconverted sinner, "I thought in dat case, he could do'at he dam please."—Vicksburg Herald.

What Illinois Lost During the War.

A correspondent writes, wishing to know how many soldiers Illinois lost during the war of the rebellion. The following are the statistics as learned from the Adjutant General: "Officers killed, 307; enlisted men killed, 5,453; officers died of wounds, 125; enlisted men died of wounds, 2,890; officers who died of disease, 372; enlisted men died of disease, 19,035; officers lost at sea on steamer General Lyon, 11; enlisted men at sea on the General Lyon, 189; total officers, 905; total enlisted men, 27,576. In addition to these there were 867 deaths of Illinois officers and men in the Andersonville prison pen—making the grand total of deaths of Illinois soldiers during the war, 28,348."—Pekin (Ill.) Times.

AUBURN COURIER

T. C. MAYS, Publisher.

GOSSIP OF THE DAY.

SPAIN will send over, during September and October, 22,000 troops to fertilize the soil of Cuba.

MOODY and Sankey, the evangelists, will open their fall campaign in Washington at the 1st of October.

THE cable announces that seven more Cardinals are to be created at the next Consistory. Six of them will be appointed from Italy, and one—Archbishop of Rennes—from France.

THE two children of Prof. Donaldson, the lost aeronaut, are from a divorced wife, whom he married in Reading, Pa., and who is still living. The children are at present being well cared for in Buffalo, N. Y. The Professor always evinced much affection for his little ones.

A NEW wonder has been discovered in California—a rival to the famous Yo Semite Valley. The new valley is on Kings river, is forty-five miles in length from east to west, and has an average width at the bottom of about half a mile. It lies 5,000 feet above the sea, and its walls, which are about 3,000 feet high, are very precipitous.

COMMENTING upon the fact that at a recent trial in Fitchburg, Mass., the plaintiff put one of his ears in as evidence—it having been bitten off by the defendant—the St. Louis Republican is cruel enough to say: "It is interesting to imagine a Chicago man thus mutilated offering to produce the same evidence, and the Judge detailing four policemen to bring in the ear."

IF the telegraph is to be believed, Gen. Sherman is the fastest traveler that ever packed a traveling-bag. A dispatch from San Francisco, dated Aug. 31, printed in the Chicago Times, announces his arrival on that day in Portland, Oregon. In the same column of the Times is another telegram from Montreal, nearly 4,000 miles away, announcing the General's arrival in the Canadian metropolis. Wonder if he was propelled by the Keely motor?

THE "Irish giant" and prize-fighter, O'Baldwin, is said to be dying of consumption. Nearly all the noted professional pugilists who have had sharp experience in the ring have died of lung disease in one form or another. Tom Sayers, John C. Heenan and Aaron Jones "went to grass" in this way. What a pity these athletes, upon whom nature has lavished such magnificent bone and sinew, should waste the precious gifts in worse than brutal business.

RALSTON, the suicide-banker, has more birth-places than any man we have heard of lately. Pennsylvania, Ohio, New York and Massachusetts, have each put in a claim to the honor of having given the great financier to the world. George Alfred Townsend says he was born in Ohio. As George Alfred is the greatest falsifier that has lived since the days of Ananias, we forthwith ignore the claim of Ohio. As between the other three States, "you pays your money and takes your choice."

"ITALIAN Crimes"—"Murder of an Englishman at Naples for a Trifling Offense"—"Trial of Brigands in Viterbo." Such was the caption, in flaming black type, that greeted the eyes of the Chicago Times readers, the other morning. Upon perusing the article, however, what must must have been the astonishment of its thousands of readers to find no mention of "Italian crimes," but simply a tame account of a Spiritual seance in New York. Evidently the Chicago Times' types were on a big spree that day. Or mayhap, the foreman belongs to a "whisky ring."

THE Bank of California was a private bank, chartered by the State of California, and issued no notes. It had a paid-up capital of $5,000,000, and deposits varying from $6,000,000 to $9,000,000. It has been identified with the history of the State. It was founded in 1864, and was originally intended to secure the business of the mines; its owners became rich, and their ambition found new and other fields for operation. It grasped control of the commerce of the Pacific coast. It secured a monopoly of the quicksilver production. It entered into the business of buying mining stocks, and played bull or bear, as circumstances demanded. It extended its operations to Oregon, British Columbia, and even grasped the control of the fur trade in Alaska. It erected itself into a financial despot. It controlled the grain market; it dictated to all the other banks; it regulated the rates of discount and the terms on which loans were made. It crushed merchants and bankers remorselessly. It, in one way or the other, controlled the trade with Japan and China, and the importation of teas. The whole coast trade and that with the Sandwich Islands was under its command. It was universally feared and hated, but it defied all opposition. Its business with England was immense, and it had also large transactions with France. It made the foreign exchange for California and all the Pacific States, and for the Sandwich Islands, and for the Japan and China trade done through San Francisco. It had correspondents and financial agents in all countries, and there is scarcely any kind of business or stocks in which it did not dabble. It also went extensively into politics. It violated all the legitimate laws of banking, and has paid dearly for the penalty.

A MR. QUINN has been giving illustrations in Chicago of the Paul Boyton life-preserving apparatus. It consists of two sections of inflated rubber for the upper and lower portions of the human body, ingeniously fastened at the waist so as to render the suit waterproof. The apparatus is inflated by projecting tubes, the exit of the air being prevented by thread-buttons of brass. Mr. Quinn entertained large numbers of night-seers on Lake Michigan by attaching a sail to the ankle of his rubber outfit, and steering with a paddle he held in his hand. In this manner he floated over the boisterous waves as securely as though aboard the staunchest craft. The inflated portion of the apparatus being in compartments, he could vary his position from the horizontal to the vertical at pleasure. Accompanying him was an inflated rubber bag, containing the morning paper, cigars and matches, luncheon, and the same black bottle which accompanies all well-ordered excursions, all of which he appeared to enjoy with more gusto than the observers on the steamers. The apparatus is ingenious and novel, but we do not believe it can ever become of general practical utility.

MERE MENTION.

GEN. SHERMAN is 55.

JOHN B. GOUGH is 58.

BOSTON has 476 schools.

THE farmers are happy.

SNAKES eat potato-bugs.

RALSTON was 50 years old.

COL. FORNEY is in Holland.

CARL SCHURZ is in Switzerland.

THE cholera has abated in Syria.

OXEN are a dollar a head in Egypt.

CALIFORNIA has 800,000 inhabitants.

QUINCY, Ill., has 35,000 population.

THE Pope is rid of his rheumatism.

FLORIDA rivers are hard to navigate.

WHITELAW REID is a skilled violinist.

THE potato-rot has reappeared in Ireland.

DELANO is still confined with rheumatism.

A CALIFORNIA man owns a 45,000-acre ranch.

THE crop prospects deserve making an oat of.

A GEORGIA farmer is putting in a crop of tea.

THERE is talk of a Chinese college in Nevada.

THE British Museum has 1,100,000 volumes.

THE richest woman in America is at Newport.

EX-SENATOR HARLAN, of Iowa, is ill in Colorado.

GERMANY has 1,000,000 more women than men.

W. C. RALSTON was born near Pittsburgh, Pa.

AUGUSTA, Ga., shipped 264,000 melons this season.

THE height of folly—Three miles up in a balloon.

THE assessment of Boston figures up $793,767,000.

A VIRGINIA man has found a double-headed turtle.

CINCINNATI announces a trial of sausage machines.

NEW YORK sends out 40,000 foreign letters a day.

BARNUM has paid $20,000 for a baby hippopotamus.

ST. PETER'S Church at Rome will hold 54,000 persons.

THE grasshopper plague has turned up in Germany.

P. C. ARMIJO, of New Mexico, owns 2,000,000 sheep.

A BROTHER of the late Sam Houston lives in Chicago.

FRANCE is importing large numbers of horses from Russia.

BANKING and speculating don't get along well together.

A TENNESSEE editor takes huckleberries on subscription.

THE butchers of Montreal are going to start a newspaper.

A MAN in Liverpool killed his opponent in a prize-fight.

COMMODORE VANDERBILT'S property is all in his son's name.

DURING last year 150,000,000 stamped envelopes were made.

SARTORIS and Nellie are coming back to live in this country.

BEN BUTLER and Theodore Tilton have been clam-eating together.

THE Grand Opera House, New York, has been sold for $500,000.

IN England $585,000,000 is invested in the production of alcohol.

SAN FRANCISCO has a female frog catcher; she wears breeches.

W. C. RALSTON was formerly a clerk on a Mississippi river steamer.

IN 59 years the American Bible Society has issued 31,893,332 copies of the Bible.

OVER 93,000 persons have been killed in the country by accident in six months.

A PENNSYLVANIA man lately succeeded in setting on the largest-sized French boot, but in trying to get it off again he broke his leg. Which is another argument for the duty of protecting home manufactures.

INDIANA NEWS.

THE raw material for "pig tail" has never been surpassed in Warrick county.

MR. GEO. H. HOUSE gave $7,000 to build the new Methodist church at Romney, now put under way.

THE Commissioners of Bartholomew county voted to allow the Superintendent 50 days in which to visit 100 schools.

IN Evansville the lowest salary paid to an assistant school teacher is $300, and the highest salary to the principal $1,900.

A HUNTER near Remington filled the nose of his friend with shot, and got out of it by saying that he mistook it for a red-bird.

THE [illegible] says [illegible] night fourteen head of fine steers belonging to Mr. John Shields, twelve miles north of town, were killed by a single flash of lightning.

MR. JOSEPH O'CONNOR, editor of the Indianapolis Sentinel, has terminated his connection with that paper, and is succeeded by R. J. L. Matthews, formerly of the New Albany Ledger.

THE Plymouth Magnet mentions the report of seven cases in which lightning struck metallic clothes lines hanging to the houses, and was thus conducted to the buildings and inflicted damage.

TWENTY-ONE wives abandoned by their husbands, applied at the Township Trustee's office, in Indianapolis, in the month of August for passes to enable them and their children to reach their friends.

AT Brazil, on Saturday afternoon, Hugh Stevenson, one of the members of the Caledonia Coal Company, while engaged about the mine, accidentally fell down the shaft, and was instantly killed.

WILLIE, the youngest son of W. C. Depauw, a well-known resident of New Albany, while loading a pistol last Saturday evening, shot himself through the heart. He was alone at the time, and when the family found him he was lying on the floor, dead.

THOMAS WITLE, a farmer south of Lafayette, was found dead on his place, a short distance from his house, Saturday morning. He had taken a gun and gone out into the fields to look after some work, and in getting over a fence it is supposed the gun was discharged. The whole charge of fine shot was found in his left ear.

THE Directors of the B., S., O. and B. railroad met contractors Clark, Bull & Co., of Chicago, recently, at Owensburg, and signed the contract to build the above named road from Bedford to Bloomfield, within three months, and have cars running by Dec. 25, 1875. This will open the largest mining interests in the State.

AT the firmen's tournament in South Bend, last week, Alert Hose Co. No. 10, of that city, took the first prize, $200; the Wide Awakes, of Laporte, second, $100; Young Hoosier No. 4, of South Bend, third, $50; and Standpipe No. 6, fourth; $25. In the hook and ladder contest the home company got the first money, $50, and the Elkhart company second, $25.

THE publisher of the Wabash Free Trader relates his experience in these words: "Some people who owe the printer, appear to think that he can live and support his employes, during the summer season, on hot air. It is a mistake. It would be a good thing if a printing office could be run on the caloric principle, but it can't be done. We have tried it."

MISS FRANCES A. TREANOR, daughter of John Treanor, druggist, South Bend, fell, last Thursday night, from a third story window to the sidewalk below, killing her instantly. The family had just moved into a new building near the Court-House, and it is thought that the striking of the town clock frightened her in awakening so as to cause her to spring to the window.

INDIANA postal affairs: Office Established—North Indianapolis, Marion county, Eugene Udell, Postmaster. Postmasters Appointed—Dorsey, Blackford county, Adam S. Rinard; Inglefield, Vanderburgh county, Levi Newman; La Otto, Noble county, Robert Taylor; Otwell, Pike county, Mason R. Palmer; Sunman, Ripley county, George B. Ashton.

ON Tuesday of last week, a son of Mrs. Stoy, of Lafayette, with a companion named Linwood, was playing with a gun, and the gun was discharged, the contents passing through Stoy's hand, shattering it terribly. Stoy jumped on to a horse with his companion, rode a mile to a physician, where his wounds were dressed, and he returned home a wiser lad, minus part of his left hand.

LAST January, Elihu Baldwin, an old bachelor, of Fort Wayne, died, leaving his entire estate, valued at about $40,000, to be divided equally between the American Board of Foreign Missions, and the American Home Missionary Society. His brothers and sisters have just begun suit in the Circuit Court to have the will set aside, on the ground that at the time of the execution of the will the testator was insane. In his will he directed that a plain tombstone be erected over his remains, with his name, age, and date of death inscribed thereon, and the words: "Here lies a poor sinner—all unrighteousness. Perhaps God will have mercy. Let Him do as He will."

AGRICULTURAL AND DOMESTIC.

Around the Farm.

GEORGIA will pay $3,500,000 for fertilizers this year.

GRASSHOPPERS do not eat peas. A valuable hint for farmers in the infected districts.

A MINNESOTA woman destroyed 43 bushels of grasshoppers for which she received $48.

DO NOT kill the toads. In Paris they are sold at fifty cents a dozen, in order to protect vineyards and gardens from insects. A toad will swallow the biggest kind of a tomato worm.

TO HAVE plenty of eggs in winter, the fowl must have warm roosting and nesting places, warm food, if possible, with some kind of animal food at least once a [illegible] gravel and lime must be always at hand, and the poultry house must be kept scrupulously clean, and the fowls out of the way of vermin and free from lice.

LICE may be destroyed by the application of lard or sweet oil in which carbolic acid has been mixed at the rate of one part of acid to one hundred of oil or lard. For poultry, the mixture should be rubbed beneath the wings and on top of the head, except in the case of sitting hens, which should never have grease of any kind applied to them, if the eggs are to be hatched.

IN order to ascertain the gain in weight of growing cattle an experiment was tried as follows: A short-horn bull calf was weighed on the 12th of April, 1874, when he was just 14 months old, and his weight was found to be 503 pounds. May 12 he weighed 592 pounds; June 12, 703 pounds; July 12, 801 pounds; August 12, 880 pounds, and September, 1,200 pounds, a total gain in five months of 463 pounds, or 92¼ pounds per month.

DURING the warm weather troubles from sore shoulders on horses are common, very largely the result of poorly-fitting collars. The proper way to prevent this trouble is to remove the cause on the start. Where the breast has become galled, wash frequently with some stringent solution, such as alum water or a decoction of white oak bark. Arnica is excellent for galls, and should be applied at night after the horse has finished work, and well rubbed in.

PROFESSOR LAW gives the following directions for the treatment of blind staggers in pigs: When the hogs are attacked, dash a bucketful of cold water over the body, throw purgative injections into the rectum, composed of six ounces of sulphate of soda and one or two tablespoonsful of spirits of turpentine in ten ounces of water. Setons saturated with turpentine may be inserted under the skin behind the ears, or the back of the neck may be blistered by rubbing in the following mixture: Spirits of turpentine and liquid ammonia, one ounce each; powdered cantharides, two drams.

VICIOUS horses are mostly made so by the bad treatment of attendants. Kindness and gentleness are the first requisites in the care of colts. If the attendant kicks or hits the colt with a stick or fork when he passes him, what more natural than that the colt should catch the evil disposition and kick back! Some speak of a wild colt as if that condition was to be expected, but if colts are properly treated while young, few will ever be wild. This wild condition arises from the wild, uncivilized disposition of the attendant. Uniform kindness will give the colt confidence in man, and he will be as easy to handle as a pet kitten. Harshness in an attendant should be a cause for his discharge. The idea that wildness is an inclination of stamina is totally unfounded. Hundreds of instances of the greatest endurance and pluck with the greatest gentleness and obedience can be cited. The Arab horse is under the most implicit obedience, and at the same time capable of great feats. The best of food, given with good judgment, and the best care humanely bestowed, are necessary to grow a colt in the best manner.

About the House.

PRESERVE eggs by a quick dipping in boiling water, and packing with fresh salt, small end down.

LINEN can be glazed by adding a teaspoonful of salt and one of finely-scraped white soap to a pound of starch.

INK stains may be removed from books by wetting the spot with a solution of oxalic acid, one ounce; water, half a pint.

JELLY CAKE.—Four eggs, one cup of sugar, one cup of flour, two teaspoonfuls of cream tartar, one of soda; bake in a large bread pan; when done, turn out on a paper; spread jelly on the bottom side, and roll up tight in the paper.

TO WASH LINEN OR CALICO.—Take soft water, and make flour starch; thin with cold soft water so that the starch will not be too thick; wash your dresses in this without soap, and rinse in thin starch; hang in the shade, wrong side out, to dry, and they will not fade. This is a good way to wash prints for children.

HOMESPUN.—Take one part stale bread in two parts cold potatoes; chop fine; put in enough sweet cream and butter so it will ball up nice; season with salt, pepper and a little sage; make into balls; put them on a dripping pan and set in the oven till they are warmed through and a little brown on the top. We call them potato balls and think they are nice.

FROSTING FOR CAKE.—The whites of two eggs to a half pound of fine white sugar; beat the eggs to a stiff froth; then add the sugar, and beat until it falls in flakes from the knife. When spreading it on the cake, dip the knife occasionally in cold water. Dredge that side of the cake which rested upon the tin while baking with sifted flour (to remove whatever grease may be left) before spreading the icing.

IN removing grease spots from clothing with benzole or turpentine, the usual way is to wet the cloth with the detergent and then to rub it with a sponge or the like. This often spreads the grease, without removing it. The following method is given by the Scientific American: Place soft blotting paper beneath and top of the grease spot, after the latter has been thoroughly saturated with the benzole; then press well. The fat is thus dissolved and absorbed by the paper, and entirely removed from the clothing.

An Adventure with a Hat.

M. Arsene Houssaye, in one of his Paris letters to the New York Tribune, relates the following:

I once had a hat adventure myself. It was in 1850. I was at the ball of the Hotel de Ville, escorting Mme. Victor Hugo, while M. Hugo gave his arm to Madame Houssaye. There was a chair empty, and the next one to it contained a hat. I took up the hat and gave the chair to Mme. Hugo. Of course I did not propose to hold the hat all night, so I put it on the floor. Its owner soon arrived. It was a celebrated duelist, M. Sherbette, a Deputy from Soissons. He came straight to the chair which had had the honor of holding his hat. He was about to attack Madame Victor Hugo, but as I was talking with her, he turned upon me.

"Is it you, sir, who have displaced my hat?" "Yes, sir." "Did you put it on the floor?" "Yes. Do you think I ought to have put it on my head?" "But, sir, you have insulted me. Here is my card."

I took out a card and threw it in his hat.

"Monsieur!" said the Deputy, furiously, "do yo suppose I am going to pick up my hat?"

"Do you suppose," I said, "that I am going to put it on your head?"

Victor Hugo laughed, Madame Hugo smiled, but Madame Houssaye was not at all amused.

"I require, sir," said the Deputy of Soissons, "that you replace my hat on the chair where it was." I began to laugh. A little circle had gathered. M. Sherbette finally picked up his hat under pretext of taking my card.

"Monsieur Arsene Houssaye," he said, "we are from the same place, a reason more for our meeting."

"I await your seconds, M. Sherbette," I replied.

"At what hour?" "At this hour. We can fight as soon as we leave the ball."

M. Sherbette bowed to the two ladies, and went off in search of two seconds. I asked Victor Hugo and the Marquis de Belloy to act as my witnesses in this ridiculous affair. M. Sherbette's seconds soon appeared. It was decided that we should fight with pistols at twenty paces at the Bolsade Boulogne at daybreak. It was then hardly midnight, but we resolved to pass the rest of the night at a ball. At that time I was very fond of waltzing. They told Madame Houssaye that the affair was amicably settled, so that we amused ourselves pleasantly until nearly dawn.

As ill-luck would have it, we all met in the cloak-room, principals and seconds. "It is a nuisance," said one of Sherbette's seconds, "to go to the Bois in this snow-storm." "Come," said the other laughingly to M. Sherbette, "as you are the injured party, you can apologize." "Never!" said M. Sherbette.

The two seconds came to me. "Say one word to free us from this task. We want to go to bed." "Never!" I cried in my turn. M. Sherbette put on his hat with a slant over the right ear. I put on mine with a slant over the left. The four seconds besieged us, and said they would not accompany us unless we were more good-natured about it.

"After all," said Victor Hugo, "I think that Arsene Houssaye, having insulted M. Sherbette's hat, might make his apolgies to it."

At this moment, a word from M. Sherbette changed the face of things. "If M. Arsene Houssaye declares that in offending my hat he did not mean to offend me, I will hold myself satisfied with this declaration."

I declared that I had not aimed at M. Sherbette under his hat, and the duel was at an end. It was agreed in the verbal process-verbal, that whenever we met thereafter we were to salute each other by a touch of the hat.

The First and Last Census.

The following table shows the population of the thirteen original States in 1790, first census, and in 1870, last census; also, population of Maine, Vermont, Kentucky and Tennessee, States formed from the original thirteen, and admitted to the Union subsequent to 1790. As the nation is about to enter upon its centennial year, this table will be of value and interest. The truth of the saying, "Westward the star of empire takes its way," may be seen from the fact that, in 1790, the center of population was about twenty-three miles east of Baltimore. In 1810, it was forty miles northwest of Washington, D. C. In 1830, it was about Staunton, Va. In 1850, it was near Parkersburg, W. Va. In 1870, it was about forty-eight miles Northeast of Cincinnati:

States.	Population.		Gain.
	1790.	1870.
Maine	96,540	626,915	530,375
New Hampshire	141,885	318,300	176,415
Vermont	85,425	330,551	245,126
Massachusetts	378,787	1,457,351	1,078,564
Rhode Island	68,825	217,353	148,528
Connecticut	237,946	537,454	299,508
New-York	340,120	4,382,759	4,042,639
New Jersey	184,139	906,096	721,957
Pennsylvania	434,373	3,521,951	3,087,578
Delaware	59,096	125,015	65,919
Maryland	319,728	780,894	461,166
Virginia	747,610	1,225,163	477,553
North Carolina	393,751	1,071,361	677,610
South Carolina	249,073	705,606	456,533
Georgia	82,548	1,184,109	1,101,561
Kentucky	73,677	1,321,011	1,247,334
Tennessee	35,691	1,258,520	1,222,829
Total	3,929,214	19,970,409	16,041,195

Travers on Fisk and Gould.

One day last summer, Col. Fisk was showing Mr. Travers over the Plymouth Rock, the famous Long Branch boat. After showing the rest of the vessel, he pointed to two large portraits of himself and Mr. Gould, hanging, a little distance apart, at the head of the stairway.

"There," says the Colonel, "what do you think of them?"

"They're good, Colonel—you hanging on one side and Gould on the other; f—i—r—s—t-rate. But, Colonel," continued the wicked Mr. Travers, buried in thought, "w—w—where's our Saviour?"

Mr. Travers, who is a vestryman in Grace Church, says he knows it was wicked, but he couldn't have helped it if he'd been on his dying bed.—Eli Perkins's New Book.

TOM THUMB has won a prize in a yacht race.

FIFTY QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

An Interesting Collection of Conundrums.

An ingenious correspondent of the Herald of Health gives the following fifty questions, each to be answered by the name of a well-known author. The guessing of these questions will form a pleasant evening entertainment:

1. What a rough man said to his son when he wished him to eat properly.
2. Is a lion's house dug in the side of a hill where there is no water?
3. Pilgrims and flatterers have knelt low to kiss him.
4. Makes and mends for first-class customers.
5. Represents the dwelling of civilized men.
6. Is a kind of linen.
7. Is worn on the head.
8. A name that means such fiery things, I can't describe their pains and stings.
9. Belongs to a monastery.
10. Not one of the four points of the compass, but inclining toward one of them.
11. Is what an oyster heap is like to be.
12. Is a chain of hills containing a dark treasure.
13. Always youthful as you see; but between you and me, he never was much of a chicken.
14. An American manufacturing town.
15. Humpbacked but not deformed.
16. An internal pain.
17. Value of a word.
18. A ten-footer whose name begins with fifty.
19. A brighter and smarter than the other one.
20. A worker in precious metals.
21. A very vital part of the body.
22. A lady's garment.
23. A small talk and a heavy weight.
24. A prefix and a disease.
25. Comes from a pig.
26. A disagreeable fellow to have on one's foot.
27. A sick place of worship.
28. A mean dog 'tis.
29. An official dreaded by the students of English universities.
30. His middle name is suggestive of an Indian or a Hottentot.
31. A manufactured metal.
32. A game and a male of the human species.
33. An answer to "Which is the greater poet, William Shakespeare or Martin F. Tupper?"
34. Meat! What are you doing?
35. Is very fast indeed.
36. A barrier built by an edible.
37. To agitate a weapon.
38. Red as an apple, black as night, a heavenly sign or a perfect fright.
39. A domestic worker.
40. A slang exclamation.
41. Pack away closely, never scatter, and doing so you'll soon get at her.
42. A young domestic animal.
43. One that is more than a sandy shore.
44. A fraction in currency and the prevailing fashion.
45. Mamma is in perfect health, my child; and thus he named a poet mild.
46. A girl's name and a male relation.
47. Take a heavy field piece, nothing loth.
48. Put an edible grain 'twixt an ant and a bee, and a much-loved poet you'll see.
49. A common domestic animal, and what it can never do.
50. Each living head, in time 'tis said, will turn to him though he be dead.

ANSWERS.

1. Chaucer. 2. Dryden. 3. Pope. 4. Taylor. 5. Holmes. 6. Holland. 7. Hood. 8. Burns. 9. Abbott. 10. Southey. 11. Shelley. 12. Coleridge. 13. Young. 14. Lowell. 15. Campbell. 16. Akenside. 17. Wordsworth. 18. Longfellow. 19. Whittier. 20. Goldsmith. 21. Harte. 22. Spencer. 23. Chatterton. 24. De Quincey. 25. Bacon. 26. Bunyan. 27. Churchill. 28. Curtis. 29. Proctor. 30. W. Savage Landor. 31. Steele. 32. Tennyson. 33. Willis. 34. Browning. 35. Swift. 36. Cornwall. 37. Shakespeare. 38. Crabbe. 39. Cook. 40. Dickens. 41. Stowe. 42. Lamb. 43. Beecher. 44. Milton. 45. Motherwell. 46. Addison. 47. Howitzer. 48. Bryant. 49. Cowper. 50. Gray.

African Snakes.

The Rev. Josiah Tyler, a missionary at Natal, South Africa, writes to the Observer a letter about snakes. Snakes are over plenty there, the python being the largest, often growing twenty feet long and eight inches thick in the largest part. It is not much feared, however, because it is not poisonous. The natives kill it with spears and clubs, and eat parts of its flesh. A python will attempt to swallow any living thing, and Mr. Tyler avers that recently one of them began on a sleeping boy, drawing in one of his legs before discovery and release. A more dangerous snake is called inamba, and will attack human beings unprovoked. It is usually ten to fifteen feet long, and is venomous. "The appearance of a snake in a native's dwelling," he says, "is always regarded as a bad omen. Ordinarily after such a visitation an ox is slaughtered as a propitiatory sacrifice to the spirits which have sent the snakes on some evil errand. A part of the beef is generally laid aside especially for these reptiles."

Poisoned by Potato Bugs.

An Ithaca (N. Y.) physician has undertaken a case of a patient who was poisoned by Colorado potato bugs. The man was working in his potato patch and several bugs got into one of his boots through a slit in the top. By the time he pulled it off they had worked down under the sole near the toe, and his foot in this part began to smart severely. When the doctor was called, the bottom of the foot presented the appearance of having been badly scalded, the skin being raised in white blisters. He says he has heard of persons being poisoned in the throat by taking something into the mouth after handling potato bugs, but the like of this case he never saw or heard of before.

THE English Earl of Dunraven has bought a large piece of land in Estes Park, Colorado, and designs to preserve the game there for sporting purposes. The neighboring settlers do not approve of this, and his lordship will probably have to employ a large force of gamekeepers.

A CROCODILE race on the Nile is to be the event of next month in Egyptian sporting circles.

AUBURN COURIER.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 16, 1875.

THE NEWS CONDENSED.

THE EAST.

SOOY, the defaulting State Treasurer of New Jersey, has had a preliminary trial. The exact amount of his deficit is ascertained to be $44,116. The Justice held him in $75,000. No bail was offered, and he was fully committed....There is [illegible] believing that little Charlie Ross is alive and may yet be restored to his parents. Mrs. Mosher, the wife of Bill Mosher, the abductor of the child, virtually acknowledges that the child is living, but does not know his present whereabouts.

THE Pennsylvania State Normal School, at Bloomsburg, has been destroyed by fire. Loss, $60,000....South Deerfield, Mass., was visited last week by a disastrous conflagration. Property of the estimated value of $500,000 was destroyed.

TILTON's woolen mill, at Cavendish, Vt., was destroyed by fire last week. Loss estimated at $170,000; insurance $100,000....Three of the Schuylkill county (Pa.) Commissioners have been convicted of malfeasance in office and sentenced each to two years' imprisonment and $1,000 fine....It is announced that Tilton has abandoned all hopes of a new trial in the Beecher case, because he (Tilton) cannot raise the funds to conduct the prosecution....The population of Massachusetts, according to the census just completed, is 1,640,000....A disease similar to the old epizootic has broken out among the cattle near Avon, N. Y. Forty died within two weeks.

JUDGE GILBERT, of Brooklyn, in the case of a colored man who applied for a mandamus to compel the Board of Education to admit his son to a school set apart for white children, decided that the system of common school education was established for the public, and all persons had access to it. The Board of Education had no power to exclude any.

CAPT. JOHN C. JONES, of New York city, committed suicide by jumping over Niagara Falls, a few days ago....Three men were killed and a number wounded by the explosion of a celluloid factory, at Newark, N. J., last week.

THE WEST.

GORDON, the Black Hills adventurer, has backed out of the suit which he commenced with so much flourish against the military authorities at Omaha for false imprisonment, and paid the costs of the litigation....A fire at Virginia City, Nevada, last week, destroyed $125,000 worth of property....The jury of inquest in the case of Ralston, the San Francisco banker, returned a verdict of accidental death.

IT now transpires that the failure of the Bank of California was not caused so much by a conspiracy on the part of its enemies as by the rascality of the late President. The directors of the institution authorize the statement that Ralston's defalcation will amount to between three and four millions of dollars, and that a large over-issue of stock has also been discovered. The directors, for a mysterious reason, decline to let the public know what particular use was made of this large sum of money....John N. Edwards, of the St. Louis Times and Emory S. Foster, of the St. Louis Journal, fought a bloodless duel last week in Winnebago county, Ill. One round was fired at twenty paces with navy revolvers, the bullets whistling harmlessly in the air. Edwards demanded another shot, but Foster declined. After considerable parley the affair was amicably settled, the belligerents shook hands, the genial Bourbon was produced, and the agreeable termination of the trouble generously toasted. The difficulty grew out of the Jeff Davis Winnebago county controversy....Another aeronaut has met with a tragic death. A man calling himself Prof. Ariel, traveling with a circus, made an ascension in a hot-air balloon at Jackson, Mich., last week. On descending, the balloon seemed in danger of striking on the railroad bridge, and the occupant, to save himself, jumped into the water and was drowned....The pesky grasshopper has turned up again. Millions of them have recently been seen traveling over Central and Southern Illinois in a southeasterly direction. Fortunately they can do but little harm to the crops this season, but damage is to be apprehended next year in localities where they may alight at this time.

MR. FISHER, an Alderman of St. Paul, was recently expelled from the City Council for accepting bribes and appropriating to his own use some property purchased by the city—the property being seventy-five bushels of oats.

THE Commissioners appointed to treat with the Sioux Indians for the purchase of the Black Hills arrived at Red Cloud Agency on the 5th of September. About 10,000 savages had collected at the Agency. The Commissioners were hopeful of being able to make a treaty....A serious Indian outbreak is reported in Eastern Nevada and Western Utah. Gen. Schofield has sent troops to that region, and will himself go to the scene of the disturbances....The amount of grain in store in Chicago on the 8th inst. was 611,717 bushels of wheat; 1,517,689 bushels of corn; 311,125 bushels of oats; 58,855 bushels of rye, and 32,080 bushels of barley, making a grand total of 2,531,466 bushels, against 2,983,958 bushels at the same period last year.

A NUMBER of serious railroad accidents occurred on the Northwestern road in the vicinity of Harvard, Ill., on the night of the 8th inst., all them caused by rain-storms and defective bridges. An express train ran off the end of an embankment into a creek. Henry Morris, engineer; James Fury, baggage master; W. J. Grouse, a passenger; and Mr. Black, news agent, were instantly killed. Hall, express messenger; Frank Gish, fireman; James Ranons, conductor; and several passengers were very seriously injured, but it is hoped not fatally. A freight train ran into a break in a culvert, instantly killing the engineer and fireman. Another freight train ran into a similar trap and twelve cars were wrecked, and a brakeman named Herrick killed. Still another train found a watery reception near Beloit, Wis., on the same fatal night. The engine and several cars were wrecked, but fortunately no one was killed....The friends of the late W. C. Ralston held a meeting in San Francisco last week, and passed resolutions eulogistic of the deceased and denunciatory of the Evening Bulletin and Morning Call for their "brutal and unjustifiably attacks upon the character of the deceased."

PROF. C. V. RILEY, State Entomologist of Missouri, informs the editor of the Chicago Journal, that the swarms of grasshoppers recently seen flying over Illinois are not the rapacious kind from the Western frontier....The great Inter-State Exposition at Chicago, on the 9th inst., was attended by an immense throng of people. The Chicago papers describe it as a magnificent display of arts, industrial ingenuity and other attractions. The great show will remain open to the public until Oct. 8.

THE SOUTH.

A DISPATCH from Sandersville, Ga., says the trial of Corday Harris, the negro accused of attempting to incite insurrection among the blacks in Washington and Burke counties, resulted in a verdict of acquittal. It thus turns out that the alleged insurrection was only a big [illegible]....Lewis Baker, the Louisville bank teller, confesses that he had been robbing the bank for some time, and covering the thefts by false entries....On Friday, the 8th day of September, the good citizens of Fort Smith, Ark., were regaled by a sight that never before met the view of any other people within the United States in time of peace, namely, the simultaneous hanging of six murderers on one gallows. The culprits were John Whittington, white, aged 31; Daniel Evans, white, aged 20; Smoker Mankiller, an Indian, aged 19; Samuel Fooy, a half-breed Indian, aged 26; James H. Moore, white, aged 17; Edmund Campbell, a negro, aged 20. Two thousand people witnessed the ghastly spectacle. All of them died "game."

MORE race troubles are reported in Mississippi. During the progress of a colored political meeting at Clinton on the 4th of September, a white man in the audience called one of the speakers a liar, which led to an indiscriminate fight. Over a hundred shots were fired, and three whites and four blacks were killed, and a large number wounded on both sides....At the recommendation of the grand jury of Washington county, Ga., all the negroes indicted for complicity in the alleged insurrection have been discharged from custody.

TOUCHING the riot between whites and blacks at Clinton, Miss., a press dispatch from Vicksburg gives the following version of the origin of the row: There is a law prohibiting the sale of liquor in Clinton. Young men from Raymond brought a bottle with them, and while speaking was going on, Martin Severly and some of his friends went off a short distance to take a drink. The negro Marshal for the occasion approached them and forbid their drinking. This order was not regarded, when the negro attempted to take the bottle out of Severly's hand. Severly finally struck the negro over the head with a bottle. Senator Caldwell (colored), started to settle the difficulty, and was followed by some 20 negroes, whom he ordered back, but about 100 more came rushing up, when some one fired a shot, which was followed by a general firing and stampede.

A DISPATCH from Vicksburg, Miss., dated September 7, says: "A white man named Heffer is reported lynched at Utica yesterday morning. Two negroes are also reported killed at Raymond last night. One of the negroes who mutilated the body of Sively, at Clinton, is reported killed. John Neal, one of the whites wounded at Clinton, is since dead. The total number of negroes killed in the fight at Clinton is now estimated at twenty-five. All is quiet now in the lately disturbed districts, and the negroes are suing for peace. No further trouble is apprehended in any quarter. Gov. Ames has issued a proclamation calling on all armed bodies of men, organized in defiance of law, to disperse.

THE bank of F. B. Hancock & Co., at Greenville, Ky., was recently entered by burglars and robbed of $34,460....Jeff Davis delivered an address before the Agricultural Society at De Soto, Mo., on the 8th of September.

THE officers of the secret service recently made a raid upon a gang of counterfeiters at Decatur, Ala., and captured eleven of the number. The prisoners are men of prominence in that locality, being wealthy farmers and landowners. The operations of the gang were extensive, for owing to their well-known "respectability" they were not suspected of manufacturing or shoving "the queer."

GENERAL.

THERE is a prospect of a row between the United States and Great Britain. An American vessel was recently sold in British waters in violation of American law regarding such sales. A demand was made upon Great Britain for the return of the vessel to this country for seizure, but the British government refused to comply. The United States government has therefore given orders to seize the vessel if ever found in American waters.

A BOLD robbery is reported from Huntington, West Virginia. Three men entered a bank at noon, and, placing pistols at the head of the Cashier, compelled him to open the safe, from which they took $15,000 and decamped....The New York and Erie Bank, of Buffalo, N. Y., has suspended.

THE Philadelphia experiment of shipping peaches to England has proved a failure. The fruit all rotted before reaching Liverpool.

THE Governor of Mississippi, Adelbert Ames, telegraphed to President Grant, on the 7th inst., regarding the alleged domestic violence in Hinds and Yazoo counties, and inquiring if his proclamation of December last was still in force, and stating if it was not, he would at once make formal application for Federal aid in accordance with the provisions of the Constitution. The President replied that the proclamation of December was not in force. Gov. Ames immediately telegraphed back that domestic violence prevails in various parts of the State beyond the power of the State authorities to suppress, and made formal application for such aid from the Federal government as may be necessary to restore peace to the State, and protect its citizens.

A WASHINGTON dispatch says a gang of Italians has gone West, for the purpose of passing off a lot of well-executed counterfeit notes on the First National Bank of Philadelphia. Look out for them....The American Pomological Society has just held an interesting session at Chicago. A large number of delegates were present from all parts of the country.

POLITICAL.

THE Democrats of California have elected their State ticket by about 30,000 plurality.

THE New York Republican State Convention assembled at Saratoga on the 8th of September and nominated the following ticket: Secretary of State, Frederick W. Seward; Comptroller, Francis E. Spinner; Treasurer, Edwin A. Merritt; Attorney-General, George S. Danforth; Engineer and Surveyor, Oliver H. P. Cornell; Canal Commissioner, Wm. L. Tinsley; Inspector of State Prisons, Benjamin D. Ives. The platform pronounces against an increase of the currency, favors a speedy return to specie payments, and opposes the election of a President for a third term....The Democrats and Reformers of Wisconsin held their convention at Milwaukee, on the 8th inst. The present State officers were nominated by acclamation, as follows: Governor, Wm. R. Taylor; Lieutenant-Governor, Charles D. Parker; Secretary of State, Peter Doyle; State Treasurer, Ferdinand Kuehn; Attorney-General, A. Scott Sloan; Superintendent of Public Instruction, Edward Searing. The platform favors a sound currency, in coin or equivalent, a tariff for revenue only, and the sovereignty of the State over corporations of its own creation.

THE Democratic State Convention of Pennsylvania, in session at Erie on the 9th of September, nominated Judge Cyrus L. Pershing, of Cambria county, for Governor on the eleventh ballot. The platform opposes a further contraction of the currency, favors the perma- [illegible] and the substitution of legal-tenders, and demands the extinction of the present national banks and the establishment in their stead of a system of free banks, under such regulations as the States respectively may prescribe.

FOREIGN.

THE London Times urges the interference of Great Britain in the Herzegovinian troubles....The Chinese government is preparing to send diplomatic representatives to the leading Western nations. According to the report, they will be preceded by a roving mission, similar to Burlingame's, under Mr. Hart, Inspector of Customs.

LATE European advices state that the leaders of the Turkish insurrection have agreed upon a manifesto, demanding the independence of Bosnia and Herzegovina under a Christian Prince, to be chosen from one of the European dynasties....Advices from Spain state that an English steamer has succeeded in landing at Motrico a large cargo of war material for the Carlists, including four pieces of artillery, 5,000 rifles, and 100 cases of cartridges.

THE London Mark Lane Express of Sept. 7 says the bulk of the European wheat crop has been gathered in good order. The crop is short as a whole, and the quality inferior....The German pilgrimage to Lourdes will not take place this year.

THE Russians have gained a great victory over the Khokand rebels in Central Asia....A dispatch from Constantinople says order has again been completely restored in Bosnia; and almost restored in Herzegovina.

THE harvest in Sweden and Denmark is over. The yield is a bounteous one, both countries having a large surplus of wheat for export.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

Weekly Review of the Chicago Market.

FINANCIAL.

Currency has been going into the interior quite freely during the past week, indicating the early marketing of crops. Money is abundant and borrowers with good collateral have no difficulty in obtaining favors. Rates 7@10 per cent., according to time and security. Bonds firm and steady at former quotations.

BREADSTUFFS.

The grain markets have attracted considerable attention from speculators and operators generally, and quite an extensive business was transacted. Values have been somewhat irregular on the whole range, but the closing quotations show some improvement on wheat and oats, although the fine weather for the growing crop prevents any material advancement or permanent improvement in the corn market. The September shorts have been making provision for their contracts, and at the close of the trading had settled mainly in the October option. The receipts of all kinds of grain except corn are increasing, while the shipments were somewhat larger, especially of corn. The bulk of shipments of the latter were of corn received on matured or maturing contracts of options and forwarded by the receiver. The demand from August shorts forced wheat up to $1.17½ early in the week, but the market closed easier under less activity in the demand. Oats were fairly active on speculative account. Rye and barley, quiet.

The following table shows the prices current at the opening and close of the past week:

	Opening.		Closing.
No. 2 sp'g wheat, cash		@1.13¾		@1.14¾
No. 2, seller September	$1.13½	@1.13¾		@1.14¾
No. 2, seller October..		@1.13½		@1.12¾
No. 2 corn, cash......		@ .62	.62	@ .62¾
No. 2 corn, seller Sept.		@ .62		@ .62¼
No. 2 corn, s. October		@ .63		@ .62¾
No. 2 oats, cash......	.34	@ .34½		@ .35¾
No. 2 oats, seller Sept.		@ .34	.34½	@ .35
No. 2 oats, s. October.		@ .37½		@ .34½
No. 2 rye, cash.......		@ .81		@ .78¾
No. 2 rye, s. Sept....	.78	@ .79		@ .78½
No. 2 barley, cash....		@1.10	1.08	@1.09
No. 2 barley, s. Sept..		@1.08		@1.08
No. 2 barley, s. Oct...		@1.04		@1.04
No. 3 barley, cash.		@ .94		@ .85

PRODUCE.

Trade in butter during the past week was again only moderate and transactions were confined mainly to the local trade. The arrivals during the week were rather meager, particularly of choice, of which the supply at the present time is very light. The advices received from the East continue unfavorable and the demand on shipping account consequently was limited. For the better qualities of butter the demand continues good, and prices ruled firm, but medium grades were but little called for, and for these it was found difficult to make sales. There was no change of importance in prices. Beans under a light demand ruled dull and very quiet. Prices were unchanged and quotations were at $1.75@1.80 per brl for good to prime Eastern mediums, and $1.00@1.75 for Western, according to quality. There was nothing of consequence done in beeswax; quotable at 26@28c for prime yellow. The reports received from the country in regard to broom-corn were more encouraging, and holders were more disposed to realize. There was rather a weak feeling developed, though no particular alteration was exhibited in values. We quote hurl at 10½@12c for No. 1 to extra, such as can be worked into a choice hurl broom 10½@11c, and good do 9@10c; crooked 6@8½c. The arrivals of berries were fair, and they consisted mainly of blackberries, for which there was a fair demand when in prime order, but there were some received that were common lots on the market, which were slow sale. The market closed at $3.50@4.00 for choice Wilsons, in sixteen-quart cases, $3.00@3.25 for Lawtons, and $1.00@1.06 for wild, according to quality. There has been some accumulation in the stock of cheese, but there was no improvement in the demand, and the market was a shade easier. Quotable at 10c for prime factory in lots, and at 11c in a retail way; common ranged at 5@9c. There were some new cranberries on the market, but they were not desirable and could not be sold. Dried fruits were steady and firm, though the amount of business transacted was light. Eastern apples quotable at about 10c when choice and repacked. Halves peaches firm at 11c, and blackberries quotable at about 11c. There was no sale for dried peas, and prices were nominal at $2.00@2.50 for choice green and $1.60@1.75 for marrowfat. The supply of eggs was ample, but there being so many lots in bad order, buyers were rather reluctant about purchasing. The market closed at 13½@14c for guaranteed in cases; lots in tubs and barrels were almost unsalable. Prime live geese feathers were a shade firmer, but the other kinds remain unchanged; quotable at 52@53c for the above-named kind, 25c for turkey tail, and 3c@5c for chiken. The receipts of all kinds of green fruits were more than sufficient to supply the demand, and the market ruled dull. A good many consignments were received in poor order, and these in a good many instances had to be thrown away. Apples ranged at 50c@2.00 for poor to fair, $2.25@2.75 for good cooking, and $3.00@3.50 for choice eating. Peaches sold all the way from 10c to $3.00 a box for Eastern, and the market closed at about $2.00@2.50 for good to choice. The majority of the pears offered were in poor order, and for this reason sales were exceedingly slow. Quotable at $2.00@2.50 for Eastern in good order in ½-bu boxes, and 75c @$1.00 for ⅓-bu boxes. Plums quiet at $1.00 @1.25 for baskets of damsons; wild were unsalable. Grapes sold at 5@10c per lb, according to quality. The game received was in very poor order, and but few lots sold at remunerative prices. Choice of all descriptions was in fair demand. Prairie chickens in good order sold at $2.00@2.50 per doz. Hides were as active as the offerings would admit and former prices were maintained. Quotable at 8½c for green salted, 13c for calf and 6½c for damaged. Honey was unsalable. There was a fair demand for choice nutmeg melons at $1.00@1.25 per crate, but the bulk of the offerings were green or else in poor order. Potatoes remain dull at 75c@$1.00 per brl. Sweet potatoes sold slowly at $3.50@3.75 per brl for yellow Jerseys, $3.00 for yellow Illinois, and from 20@40c in one-third bushel boxes. Veal was dull and prices were rather weak, receivers generally being [illegible] account of the warm weather that prevailed. Sales ranged at 4@9c for common to choice carcasses. Vegetables were also dull, and the offerings of all kinds were in excess of the demand. Prices were weak, as follows: 50c per bu for tomatoes, $1.00@1.50 per brl for onions, 75c@1.00 per doz for egg plant, and $1.00@2.00 per doz for cauliflower.

COOPERAGE, LUMBER AND WOOD.

There was no business of consequence doing in the market for cooperage. Notwithstanding transactions were limited a steady feeling prevailed, and there was no change to note in prices. Quotations range at $1.12½@1.15 for pork barrels, $1.35@1.45 for lard tierces, $1.90@2.10 for whisky barrels, and 45@55c for flour barrels. There was a good supply of lumber on the market, and there the demand was also very good. Prices were steady at the following quotations: Joist and scantling, $8.00@8.25; boards and strips, $8.00@16.00, according to quality; shingles, $2.00@2.70; and lath, $1.50. The movement was again very light in wood, and there was no alteration to note in values. Quotable at $8.00 per cord for hickory, $7.00 for maple, $6.00 for beech, and $5.00 for slabs at the yards.

SEEDS AND HIGHWINES.

There was quite a brisk movement in timothy during the week, but prices under largely increased offerings were a shade easier. The arrivals consisted largely of common qualities, but the offerings of really prime were light. The market closed at $2.20@2.50 for poor to good, and $2.50@2.60 for prime. Clover was very quiet, and light sales of prime medium were reported at $8.00. Flax was steady and in fair demand. Sales at $1.40@1.50 for fair to good crushing. The other kinds were entirely nominal. Highwines were quiet, and the market closed a shade easier, sales being at $1.18½.

PROVISIONS.

There was more interest developed in this market during the week just past, and transactions were generally made at a shade better prices, excepting lard, which was a trifle weaker. The market was governed mainly by local speculative influences. The receipts of hogs during the week were only moderate and for these prices were generally maintained. Mess pork was in good demand and closed firm at $21.00 cash and seller September, and $20.85 seller October. Cash lard closed at $13.00@13.10, seller September at $12.95@13.00, and seller October at 13.05.

Telegraphic Market Reports.

NEW YORK.
Beeves	$8 00	@13 00
Hogs—Dressed	10	@	10¾
Cotton	14¾	@	15¾
Flour—Superfine Western	4 10	@ 5 20
Wheat—No. 2 Chicago	1 24	@ 1 26
Corn	69	@	73
Oats	48	@	55
Rye	90	@	96
Pork—New Mess	20 25	@20 75
Lard—Steam	13¼	@	13¾
ST. LOUIS.
Wheat—No. 2 Red	1 48	@ 1 49
Corn—No. 2	58	@	59
Oats—No. 2	34	@	35
Rye—No. 2	71	@	72
Pork—Mess	21 25	@21 75
Lard	12¾	@	13
Hogs	7 86	@ 8 10
Cattle	5 25	@ 6 25
MILWAUKEE.
Wheat—No. 1	1 19	@ 1 20
No. 2	1 13	@ 1 15
Corn—No. 2	56	@	58
Oats—No. 2	33	@	35
Rye	77	@	79
Barley—No. 2	1 06	@ 1 10
CINCINNATI.
Wheat—New	80	@ 1 30
Corn	70	@	73
Oats	30	@	50
Rye	..	@	82
Pork—Mess	20 75	@21 00
Lard	13	@	14
TOLEDO.
Wheat—Extra	1 38	@ 1 40
Amber	1 28	@ 1 30
Corn	58	@	62
Oats	39	@	42
DETROIT.
Wheat—Extra	1 36	@ 1 39
No. 1 White	1 25	@ 1 27
No. 2 White	1 19	@ 1 21
Amber	1 20	@ 1 21
Corn	62	@	66
Oats	39	@	42
Barley—No. 3	..	@ 1 25
Pork—Mess	..	@22 00
CLEVELAND.
Wheat—No. 1 Red	..	@ 1 23
No. 2 Red	..	@ 1 35
Corn	60	@	70
Oats	43	@	44

Love and a Mule.

The Newark Evening Courier, a newspaper remarkable for its veracity, says of one of its citizens: "He rose early and gulped down his morning cup of coffee, as if his life depended upon his haste. Then he rushed to the grand-delivery window of the postoffice, and inquired for a letter. The clerk handed him a perfumed missive, directed in a fair round hand. He ripped open one end of the envelope with his lead-pencil sharpener, and commenced to read as he crossed Broad street toward Center Market. What to him were the country wagons, with their loads of beets and cabbages? He read: 'As I sit by the open window and hear the waves thunder upon the shore —' There he stopped suddenly and tumbled into a basket of squashes, as if a thunderbolt had been launched at the seat of his thirty-inch pataloons. That was where it struck. 'Hello, mister. Say, can't you keep away from that mewl?' sang out a bronzed agriculturist from Caldwell. 'Help yourself to squash,' yelled one of Lew Francis' students from the tonsorial chambers of the market building. He gathered up his girl's letter dripping with black mud, surveyed the photograph of the mule's foot upon the base of his pantaloons, and limped disconsolately away. The course of true love never did run smooth."

Extraordinary Chess Playing.

Mr. William H. Mundy, of Seneca Falls, N. Y., recently played at that place twenty-four games of chess at one time, against twenty-four different players, without sight of men or boards. The games were played at the residence of Judge Josiah T. Miller, the player meanwhile sitting on the stoop, chatting and answering questions about the games. This is eleven more games than were ever attempted at one time before. A dispute arose about the position of the pieces in two of the games, and Mr. Mundy stood up before the guests and called off all the moves that had been made in the games and the position of the pieces on the boards. He had previously played six games at once in Hudson, N. Y., and again in Geneva, N. Y. When 14 years old he beat some of the best players then living, but has played little since.

THE Adams Express Company employs 8,000 men, 1,900 horses, and 1,200 railway cars, and their special messengers travel over 100,000 miles a day.

BANK OF CALIFORNIA.

Reflection of Popular Feeling—The Conspiracy That Drove the Bank to the Wall and Ralston to His Death—Resumption of Business.

[San Francisco (Sept. 3) Cor. Chicago Times.]

The public seem to have lost all interest in politics, and to think and talk only of Ralston and his bank. There was a time in the history of California that the men who hastened this great catastrophe, and hounded to his death the most enterprising citizen in California, would have been seized and hanged to the first lamp-post. But the old days of vigilance committees and unrestrained passions have passed. San Francisco to-day is a city of civilised and law-abiding citizens, and the vengeance which individuals deal out to the authors of calamities like these is the vengeance of social ostracism. The two newspapers which have aided the main conspirators in this hellish work are losing their subscriptions by hundreds. Their managers are repudiated by the public, and there is but one sentiment expressed for the dead financier—that with all his faults he was a man among men, and all his troubles, which ended in his tragic death, have been caused by the successful scheming of his enemies, and not from any fault, much less crime, of his own. This is the situation in the financial world of San Francisco to-day. Our people are divided into two classes—the men who swear by Ralston and are determined to vindicate his honor at all sacrifices, and those who depend on Flood & O'Brien, the men who aspire to take Ralston's place, and who, of course, hurl epithet on epithet at the dead man, the latchet of whose shoe they are not worthy to unloose. It is capital pitted against capital, and the only question is, which of the parties—the Bank of California or the new Bank of Nevada, Flood & O'Brien—can swing at once the most brains. The Bank of California, when it begins anew, will represent an aggregation of capitalists, while the Bank of Nevada will represent simply Messrs. Flood & O'Brien, who control the Big Bonanza. The sympathy of the public at large is decidedly with the bank which has long represented the State abroad, and its credit, in spite of the unfortunate events of the past week, is in no way impaired. All its large creditors have agreed to give it an elaborate extension of time, and the Oriental Bank extends all the credit it desires until the present difficulty is tided over. While Mr. Ralston was living, and the first shock of the awful calamity was thrilling the public, the friends whose fortunes he had made, and stockholders and Directors of the banks, whom honor should have made to stand with him, deserted him in a body. This was the crowning blow which broke the great banker's heart. He was a man of honor, and the moment the crash came, he turned every cent of his personal property, to be applied to the payment of its debts. The Directors repudiated him, and forced him to resign his position as President. Then he went forth to his death, and Ralston dead is appreciated by those who deserted him living. "I am worth," said Mr. Sharon, at the Directors' meeting yesterday, "fifteen millions in solid wealth and permanent real estate. Mr. Ralston was my friend. Through him I made it, and I shall devote the full half before there shall come a stain on his honor." D. O. Mills, so cold and impassive as we had thought him, responded to the generous sentiment. Michael Reese gave his adherence to the determination to banish all idea of liquidation through bankruptcy, and the board, with entire unanimity, resolved that California's great financial institution should not go down in shame and dishonor.

The Chronicle this morning publishes a positive statement to the effect that the bank has reliable assets of $14,000,000, and nominal assets of $20,000,000, and an indebtedness of $13,000,000; the coin in its vaults is $850,000; a guaranty fund of $5,000,000 to $10,000,000 is nearly all pledged, and resumption is assured immediately. Similar statements are being spread abroad.

Biography of Ralston.

William Chapman Ralston, late President of the Bank of California, who so strangely lost his life, was born in the village of Wellsville, 45 miles from Pittsburgh, and was at one time clerk on a steamboat plying between that city and Cincinnati. He is very well known in Pittsburgh, and Mr. J. N. McCullough, General Manager of the Pennsylvania company's railroad lines, and Gen. F. R. Myers, General Passenger Agent of this institution, were boyhood companions of Ralston. The latter's father was owner of a saw and planing mill at Wellsville, and conducted boat-building, and in the years 1847 and 1848, he succeeded in placing his son as second clerk on a steamboat. In this position, and more responsible ones subsequently, he became acquainted with quite a large number of our merchants and business men. He became engaged to a lady in New York, about 1848, who, through death's intervention, was not destined to become his companion. Shortly after the breaking out of the excitement attending the discovery of gold in California, Mr. Ralston also caught the gold fever, and left the river trade to seek his fortunes in Eldorado, via Panama. Very early in his career he jumped into all sorts of speculations, and soon amassed a handsome competency. Stock operations and mining enterprises were his favorite fields. He entered the ill-fated Bank of California when it was quite a small institution. Ralston, in course of time, rose to be its cashier, and afterward President; and its capital stock being increased from $2,000,000 to $5,000,000, the bank, under his management, soon became a very influential institution.

Cause of Floods.

The frequent and protracted droughts that have afflicted the earth during some years past have been ascribed to the increasing destruction of forests, and now the excessive rains and floods of the present season are in a measure referred to the same cause. Forests have a great effect in equalizing the distribution of ice and snow under the influence of the summer heat. The existence of lumber on hillsides also tempers the flow of surface water and restrains the accumulation of torrents. It is a notable fact that the violence of spring and summer floods is increasing in proportion to the denudation of forest and woodlands. When will men learn the unwisdom of disturbing the equilibrium of nature, and take care not to set desolating forces at work by a selfish disregard of aught but their immediate personal interests!

A Strange Tragedy.

Reading was on Tuesday the scene of one of the most terrible tragedies that has occurred in this State for a number of years. At about 6:30 o'clock on the evening in question a woman of medium height and full figure was observed passing over the Harrisburg bridge, a short distance from the city proper. She was accompanied by three children, two of them girls, aged 9 and 5 years, and the other a boy of 3. Upon reaching the far side of the river the little party descended to the tow-path of the Union Canal, and proceeded in the direction of the Tulpehocken Creek. The children skipped along merrily, delighted with their ramble in the country, whilst the mother walked moodily with them. At a point about two and a half miles from the city of Reading she was seen by a young lady to stop and fill a large basket she had with her with stones.

This done, she strapped it tightly to her waist, and picking up the little boy she threw him on her breast, and then taking one of the girls under each of her arms, deliberately threw herself into the canal. But a few moments intervened between the filling of the basket and the fatal act, and before the aid, which came in the person of Mr. Forney and several farm-hands, who rushed to the water's edge upon hearing the cries of the children, could effect a rescue, the mother and children had disappeared. There was a moment of struggling and battling with the waters, and then the woman, borne down by the weight of the basket of stones and the children, sank to the bottom. The rescuing party began grappling for the bodies, and in a short time recovered two of the children; presently the third was obtained, and finally the body of the mother was found. The mother and children were well dressed. The bodies of the four were laid upon the bank of the stream. Notice was at once sent to the Coroner, and a jury was impaneled, none of whose members were able to recognize the dead woman or her children. Their verdict was that the woman came to her death by suicidal drowning, whilst the children came to theirs by the willful act of the person (supposed to be the mother) who was with them. The dead bodies were taken to the city, and were about to be buried, when a Mrs. Bockmuehl, who had viewed them at the undertaker's office, recognized the woman as the wife and the children as the offspring of Philip Bessinger, a German saloon-keeper. He was at once summoned, and made acquainted with the sad event which had deprived him of a wife and a family of children.—Pittsburg Chronicle.

A SEQUEL TO THE ABOVE.

A dispatch from Reading says: "There was great excitement here at the funeral of Mrs. Bessinger and her three children, drowned Tuesday last. It seems from the stories of people that the woman had lived unhappily with her husband, owing to the introduction by him of another woman into the house, and that this unhappiness resulted in a quarrel Monday, when the husband ordered his wife to leave the house and take the two girls with her, while he would retain the boy. Next day she went to leave with the children, and after filling a basket with stones, in which operation the children assisted, she bound the basket securely to her body, and taking the three children in her arms leaped into the canal and all were drowned. As soon as the bodies were recovered and taken to their former home, the police had to guard the house to save the husband from assault, and at the funeral procession to-day, which included about one thousand people on foot, surrounded his carriage. When the bodies were lowered into the graves the people hooted Bessinger and made a rush for him. In the confusion one shot was fired, when the police hurriedly placed him in a carriage and drove off, receiving on passing the cemetery gates another shot, which it is thought wounded him, as he was carried into the house. The police are still on guard, and the people, including many women, continue their threats.

A Religious View.

"You see, when you done shuffle off dis mortuary coil, and de sperritt persente itself at the Golden Gates," argued a colored revivalist, on the levee, yesterday, "Gabr'el gwine to ask you what church you 'longed to in de flesh."

"Yaas, I speck so," said the listener.

"If you 'longed to the Missiunmary Baptist; he gwine tole you walk right in and set by de foot-stool.

"Ef you 'long to de Methomdist Church he say stay on de outside whar your shoutin' won't 'sturb de angels.

"Ef you's 'Piscumpalion—"

"Hole on, Mr. Middleton, de ain't no niggers 'Piscumpalions. Dem's all white folks," interrupted the listener.

"Dat don't make no difference," continued the expounder of religion; "de principle's de same, ain't it? Ef you're a 'Piscumpalion, de angel say to you, 'go over dar 'mong de white folks.'

"Ef you's Caffolick, de angel pint you to de Virgin Mary, and tell you—"

"But look heah, Mr. Middleton, sposen he didn't 'long to no church in de flesh?" queried the listener.

"Well, what he be doin' dar den?" asked the colored divine, scornfully.

"Well," replied the unconverted sinner, "I thought in dat case, he could do's he dam please."—Vicksburg Herald.

What Illinois Lost During the War.

A correspondent writes, wishing to know how many soldiers Illinois lost during the war of the rebellion. The following are the statistics as learned from the Adjutant General: "Officers killed, 307; enlisted men killed, 5,453; officers died of wounds, 125; enlisted men died of wounds, 2,890; officers who died of disease, 372; enlisted men died of disease, 19,035; officers lost at sea on steamer General Lyon, 11; enlisted men at sea on the General Lyon, 189; total officers, 905; total enlisted men, 27,576. In addition to these there were 867 deaths of Illinois officers and men in the Andersonville prison pen—making the grand total of deaths of Illinois soldiers during the war, 28,348."—Pekin (Ill.) Times.

AUBURN COURIER

T. C. MAIS, Publisher.

GOSSIP OF THE DAY.

Spain will send over, during September and October, 22,000 troops to fertilize the soil of Cuba.

Moody and Sankey, the evangelists, will open their fall campaign in Washington at the 1st of October.

The cable announces that seven more Cardinals are to be created at the next Consistory. Six of them will be appointed from Italy, and one—Archbishop of Rennes—from France.

The two children of Prof. Donaldson, the lost aeronaut, are from a divorced wife, whom he married in Reading, Pa., and who is still living. The children are at present being well cared for in Buffalo, N. Y. The Professor always evinced much affection for his little ones.

A new wonder has been discovered in California—a rival to the famous Yo Semite Valley. The new valley is on Kings river, is forty-five miles in length from east to west, and has an average width at the bottom of about half a mile. It lies 5,000 feet above the sea, and its walls, which are about 9,000 feet high, are very precipitous.

Commenting upon the fact that at a recent trial in Fitchburg, Mass., the plaintiff put one of his ears in as evidence—it having been bitten off by the defendant—the St. Louis Republican is cruel enough to say: "It is interesting to imagine a Chicago man thus mutilated offering to produce the same evidence, and the Judge detailing four policemen to bring in the ear."

If the telegraph is to be believed, Gen. Sherman is the fastest traveler that ever packed a traveling-bag. A dispatch from San Francisco, dated Aug. 31, printed in the Chicago Times, announces his arrival on that day in Portland, Oregon. In the same column of the Times is another telegram from Montreal, nearly 4,000 miles away, announcing the General's arrival in the Canadian metropolis. Wonder if he was propelled by the Keely motor?

The "Irish giant" and prize-fighter, O'Baldwin, is said to be dying of consumption. Nearly all the noted professional pugilists who have had sharp experience in the ring have died of lung disease in one form or another. Tom Sayers, John C. Heenan and Aaron Jones "went to grass" in this way. What a pity these athletes, upon whom nature has lavished such magnificent bone and sinew, should waste the precious gifts in worse than brutal business.

Ralston, the suicide-banker, has more birth-places than any man we have heard of lately. Pennsylvania, Ohio, New York and Massachusetts, have each put in a claim to the honor of having given the great financier to the world. George Alfred Townsend says he was born in Ohio. As George Alfred is the greatest falsifier that has lived since the days of Ananias, we forthwith ignore the claim of Ohio. As between the other three States, "you pays your money and takes your choice."

"Italian Crimes"—"Murder of an Englishman at Naples for a Trifling Offense"—"Trial of Brigands in Viterbo." Such was the caption, in flaming black type, that greeted the eyes of the Chicago Times readers, the other morning. Upon perusing the article, however, what must must have been the astonishment of its thousands of readers to find no mention of "Italian crimes," but simply a tame account of a Spiritual seance in New York. Evidently the Chicago Times' types were on a big spree that day. Or mayhap, the foreman belongs to a "whisky ring."

The Bank of California was a private bank, chartered by the State of California, and issued no notes. It had a paid-up capital of $5,000,000, and deposits varying from $6,000,000 to $9,000,000. It has been identified with the history of the State. It was founded in 1864, and was originally intended to secure the business of the mines; its owners became rich, and their ambition found new and other fields for operation. It grasped control of the commerce of the Pacific coast. It secured a monopoly of the quicksilver production. It entered into the business of buying mining stocks, and played bull or bear, as circumstances demanded. It extended its operations to Oregon, British Columbia, and even grasped the control of the fur trade in Alaska. It erected itself into a financial despot. It controlled the grain market; it dictated to all the other banks; it regulated the rates of discount and the terms on which loans were made. It crushed merchants and bankers remorselessly. It, in one way or the other, controlled the trade with Japan and China, and the importation of teas. The whole coast trade and that with the Sandwich Islands was under its command. It was universally feared and hated, but it defied all opposition. Its business with England was immense, and it had also large transactions with France. It made the foreign exchange for California and all the Pacific States, and for the Sandwich Islands, and for the Japan and China trade done through San Francisco. It had correspondents and financial agents in all countries, and there is scarcely any kind of business or stocks in which it did not dabble. It also went extensively into politics. It violated all the legitimate laws of banking, and has paid dearly for the penalty.

A Mr. Quinn has been giving illustrations in Chicago of the Paul Boyton life preserving apparatus. It consists of two sections of inflated rubber for the upper and lower portions of the human body, ingeniously fastened at the waist so as to render the suit waterproof. The apparatus is inflated by projecting tubes, the exit of the air being prevented by thread-buttons of brass. Mr. Quinn entertained large numbers of sight-seers on Lake Michigan by attaching a sail to the ankle of his rubber outfit, and steering with a paddle he held in his hand. In this manner he floated over the boisterous waves as securely as though aboard the staunchest craft. The inflated portion of the apparatus being in compartments, he could vary his position from the horizontal to the vertical at pleasure. Accompanying him was an inflated rubber bag, containing the morning paper, cigars and matches, luncheon, and the same black bottle which accompanies all well-ordered excursions, all of which he appeared to enjoy with more gusto than the observers on the steamers. The apparatus is ingenious and novel, but we do not believe it can ever become of general practical utility.

MERE MENTION.

Gen. Sherman is 55.

John B. Gough is 58.

Boston has 476 schools.

The farmers are happy.

Snakes eat potato-bugs.

Ralston was 50 years old.

Col. Forney is in Holland.

Carl Schurz is in Switzerland.

The cholera has abated in Syria.

Oxen are a dollar a head in Egypt.

California has 800,000 inhabitants.

Quincy, Ill., has 35,000 population.

The Pope is rid of his rheumatism.

Florida rivers are hard to navigate.

Whitelaw Reid is a skilled violinist.

The potato-rot has reappeared in Ireland.

Delano is still confined with rheumatism.

A California man owns a 45,000-acre ranch.

The crop prospects deserve making an oat of.

A Georgia farmer is putting in a crop of tea.

There is talk of a Chinese college in Nevada.

The British Museum has 1,100,000 volumes.

The richest woman in America is at Newport.

Ex-Senator Harlan, of Iowa, is ill in Colorado.

Germany has 1,000,000 more women than men.

W. C. Ralston was born near Pittsburgh, Pa.

Augusta, Ga., shipped 264,000 melons this season.

The height of folly—Three miles up in a balloon.

The assessment of Boston figures up $793,767,000.

A Virginia man has found a double-headed turtle.

Cincinnati announces a trial of sausage machines.

New York sends out 40,000 foreign letters a day.

Barnum has paid $20,000 for a baby hippopotamus.

St. Peter's Church at Rome will hold 54,000 persons.

The grasshopper plague has turned up in Germany.

P. C. Armigo, of New Mexico, owns 2,000,000 sheep.

A brother of the late Sam Houston lives in Chicago.

France is importing large numbers of horses from Russia.

Banking and speculating don't get along well together.

A Tennessee editor takes huckleberries on subscription.

The butchers of Montreal are going to start a newspaper.

A man in Liverpool killed his opponent in a prize-fight.

Commodore Vanderbilt's property is all in his son's name.

During last year 150,000,000 stamped envelopes were made.

Sartoris and Nellie are coming back to live in this country.

Ben Butler and Theodore Tilton have been clam-eating together.

The Grand Opera House, New York, has been sold for $500,000.

In England $585,000,000 is invested in the production of alcohol.

San Francisco has a female frog catcher; she wears breeches.

W. C. Ralston was formerly a clerk on a Mississippi river steamer.

In 59 years the American Bible Society has issued 31,893,332 copies of the Bible.

Over 93,000 persons have been killed in the country by accident in six months.

A Pennsylvania man lately succeeded in setting on the largest-sized French boot, but in trying to get it off again he broke his leg. Which is another argument for the duty of protecting home manufactures.

INDIANA NEWS.

The raw material for "pig tail" has never been surpassed in Warrick county.

Mr. Geo. H. House gave $7,000 to build the new Methodist church at Romney, now put under way.

The Commissioners of Bartholomew county voted to allow the Superintendent 50 days in which to visit 100 schools.

In Evansville the lowest salary paid to an assistant school teacher is $300, and the highest salary to the principal $1,900.

A hunter near Remington filled the nose of his friend with shot, and got out of it by saying that he mistook it for a red-bird.

The Rensselaer Union says: "A few nights since fourteen head of fine steers belonging to Mr. John Shields, twelve miles north of town, were killed by a single flash of lightning.

Mr. Joseph O'Connor, editor of the Indianapolis Sentinel, has terminated his connection with that paper, and is succeeded by R. J. L. Matthews, formerly of the New Albany Ledger.

The Plymouth Magnet mentions the report of seven cases in which lightning struck metallic clothes lines hanging to the houses, and was thus conducted to the buildings and inflicted damage.

Twenty-one wives abandoned by their husbands, applied at the Township Trustee's office, in Indianapolis, in the month of August for passes to enable them and their children to reach their friends.

At Brazil, on Saturday afternoon, Hugh Stevenson, one of the members of the Caledonia Coal Company, while engaged about the mine, accidentally fell down the shaft, and was instantly killed.

Willie, the youngest son of W. C. Depauw, a well-known resident of New Albany, while loading a pistol last Saturday evening, shot himself through the heart. He was alone at the time, and when the family found him he was lying on the floor, dead.

Thomas Witle, a farmer south of Lafayette, was found dead on his place, a short distance from his house, Saturday morning. He had taken a gun and gone out into the fields to look after some work, and in getting over a fence it is supposed the gun was discharged. The whole charge of fine shot was found in his left ear.

The Directors of the B., S., O. and R. railroad met contractors Clark, Bull & Co., of Chicago, recently, at Owensburg, and signed the contract to build the above named road from Bedford to Bloomfield, within three months, and have cars running by Dec. 25, 1875. This will open the largest mining interests in the State.

At the firmen's tournament in South Bend, last week, Alert Hose Co. No. 10, of that city, took the first prize, $200; the Wide Awakes, of Laporte, second, $100; Young Hoosier No. 4, of South Bend, third, $50; and Standpipe No. 6, fourth; $25. In the hook and ladder contest the home company got the first money, $50, and the Elkhart company second, $25.

The publisher of the Wabash Free Trader relates his experience in these words: "Some people who owe the printer, appear to think that he can live and support his employes, during the summer season, on hot air. It is a mistake. It would be a good thing if a printing office could be run on the caloric principle, but it can't be done. We have tried it."

Miss Frances A. Treanor, daughter of John Treanor, druggist, South Bend, fell, last Thursday night, from a third story window to the sidewalk below, killing her instantly. The family had just moved into a new building near the Court-House, and it is thought that the striking of the town clock frightened her in awakening so as to cause her to spring to the window.

Indiana postal affairs: Offices Established—North Indianapolis, Marion county, Eugene Udell, Postmaster. Postmasters Appointed—Dorsey, Blackford county, Adam S. Rinard; Inglefield, Vanderburgh county, Levi Newman; La Otto, Noble county, Robert Taylor; Otwell, Pike county, Mason R. Palmer; Sunman, Ripley county, George B. Ashton.

On Tuesday of last week, a son of Mrs. Stoy, of Lafayette, with a companion named Linwood, was playing with a gun, and the gun was discharged, the contents passing through Stoy's hand, shattering it terribly. Stoy jumped on to a horse with his companion, rode a mile to a physician, where his wounds were dressed, and he returned home a wiser lad, minus part of his left hand.

Last January, Elihu Baldwin, an old bachelor, of Fort Wayne, died, leaving his entire estate, valued at about $40,000, to be divided equally between the American Board of Foreign Missions, and the American Home Missionary Society. His brothers and sisters have just begun suit in the Circuit Court to have the will set aside, on the ground that at the time of the execution of the will the testator was insane. In his will he directed that a plain tombstone be erected over his remains, with his name, age, and date of death inscribed thereon, and the words: "Here lies a poor sinner—all unrighteousness. Perhaps God will have mercy. Let Him do as He will."

AGRICULTURAL AND DOMESTIC.

Around the Farm.

Georgia will pay $3,500,000 for fertilizers this year.

Grasshoppers do not eat peas. A valuable hint for farmers in the infected districts.

A Minnesota woman destroyed 48 bushels of grasshoppers for which she received $48.

Do not kill the toads. In Paris they are sold at fifty cents a dozen, in order to protect vineyards and gardens from insects. A toad will swallow the biggest kind of a tomato worm.

To have plenty of eggs in winter, the fowl must have warm roosting and nesting places, warm food, if possible, with some kind of animal food at least once a [illegible] and lime must be always at hand, and the poultry house must be kept scrupulously clean, and the fouls out of the way of vermin and free from lice.

Lice may be destroyed by the application of lard or sweet oil in which carbolic acid has been mixed at the rate of one part of acid to one hundred of oil or lard. For poultry, the mixture should be rubbed beneath the wings and on top of the head, except in the case of sitting hens, which should never have grease of any kind applied to them, if the eggs are to be hatched.

In order to ascertain the gain in weight of growing cattle an experiment was tried as follows: A short-horn bull calf was weighed on the 12th of April, 1874, when he was just 14 months old, and his weight was found to be 503 pounds. May 12 he weighed 592 pounds; June 12, 703 pounds; July 12, 801 pounds; August 12, 880 pounds, and September, 1,200 pounds, a total gain in five months of 463 pounds, or 92½ pounds per month.

During the warm weather troubles from sore shoulders on horses are common, very largely the result of poorly-fitting collars. The proper way to prevent this trouble is to remove the cause on the start. Where the breast has become galled, wash frequently with some stringent solution, such as alum water or a decoction of white oak bark. Arnica is excellent for galls, and should be applied at night after the horse has finished work, and well rubbed in.

Professor Law gives the following directions for the treatment of blind staggers in pigs: When the hogs are attacked, dash a bucketful of cold water over the body, throw purgative injections into the rectum, composed of six ounces of sulphate of soda and one or two tablespoonsful of spirits of turpentine in ten ounces of water. Setons saturated with turpentine may be inserted under the skin behind the ears, or the back of the neck may be blistered by rubbing in the following mixture: Spirits of turpentine and liquid ammonia, one ounce each; powdered cantharides, two drams.

Vicious horses are mostly made so by the bad treatment of attendants. Kindness and gentleness are the first requisites in the care of colts. If the attendant kicks or hits the colt with a stick or fork when he passes him, what more natural than that the colt should catch the evil disposition and kick back? Some speak of a wild colt as if that condition was to be expected, but if colts are properly treated while young, few will ever be wild. This wild condition arises from the wild, uncivilized disposition of the attendant. Uniform kindness will give the colt confidence in man, and he will be as easy to handle as a pet kitten. Harshness in an attendant should be a cause for his discharge. The idea that wildness is an inclination of stamina is totally unfounded. Hundreds of instances of the greatest endurance and pluck with the greatest gentleness and obedience can be cited. The Arab horse is under the most implicit obedience, and at the same time capable of great feats. The best of food, given with good judgment, and the best care humanely bestowed, are necessary to grow a colt in the best manner.

About the House.

Preserve eggs by a quick dipping in boiling water, and packing with fresh salt, small end down.

Linen can be glazed by adding a teaspoonful of salt and one of finely-scraped white soap to a pound of starch.

Ink stains may be removed from books by wetting the spot with a solution of oxalic acid, one ounce; water, half a pint.

Jelly Cake.—Four eggs, one cup of sugar, one cup of flour, two teaspoonfuls of cream tartar, one of soda; bake in a large bread pan; when done, turn out on a paper; spread jelly on the bottom side, and roll up tight in the paper.

To Wash Linen or Calico.—Take soft water, and make flour starch; thin with cold soft water so that the starch will not be too thick; wash your dresses in this without soap, and rinse in thin starch; hang in the shade, wrong side out, to dry, and they will not fade. This is a good way to wash prints for children.

Homespun.—Take one part stale bread in two parts cold potatoes; chop fine; put in enough sweet cream and butter so it will ball up nice; season with salt, pepper and a little sage; make into balls; put them on a dripping pan and set in the oven till they are warmed through and a little brown on the top. We call them potato balls and think they are nice.

Frosting for Cake.—The whites of two eggs to a half pound of fine white sugar; beat the eggs to a stiff froth; then add the sugar, and beat until it falls in flakes from the knife. When spreading it on the cake, dip the knife occasionally in cold water. Dredge that side of the cake which rested upon the tin while baking with sifted flour (to remove whatever grease may be left) before spreading the icing.

In removing grease spots from clothing with benzole or turpentine, the usual way is to wet the cloth with the detergent and then to rub it with a sponge or the like. This often spreads the grease, without removing it. The following method is given by the Scientific American: Place soft blotting paper beneath and top of the grease spot, after the latter has been thoroughly saturated with the benzole; then press well. The fat is thus dissolved and absorbed by the paper, and entirely removed from the clothing.

An Adventure with a Hat.

M. Arsene Houssaye, in one of his Paris letters to the New York Tribune, relates the following:

I once had a hat adventure myself. It was in 1850. I was at the ball of the Hotel de Ville, escorting Mme. Victor Hugo, while M. Hugo gave his arm to Madame Houssaye. There was a chair empty, and the next one to it, contained a hat. I took up the hat and gave the chair to Mme. Hugo. Of course I did not propose to hold the hat all night, so I put it on the floor. Its owner soon arrived. It was a celebrated duelist, M. Sherbette, a Deputy from Soissons. He came straight to the chair which had had the honor of holding his hat. He was about to attack Madame Victor Hugo, but as I was talking with her, he turned upon me.

"Is it you, sir, who have displaced my hat?" "Yes, sir." "Did you put it on the floor?" "Yes. Do you think I ought to have put it on my head?" "But, sir, you have insulted me. Here is my card."

I took out a card and threw it in his hat.

"Monsieur!" said the Deputy, furiously, "do yo suppose I am going to pick up my hat?"

"Do you suppose," I said, "that I am going to put it on your head?"

Victor Hugo laughed, Madame Hugo smiled, but Madame Houssaye was not at all amused.

"I require, sir," said the Deputy of Soissons, "that you replace my hat on the chair where it was." I began to laugh. A little circle had gathered. M. Sherbette finally picked up his hat under pretext of taking my card.

"Monsieur Arsene Houssaye," he said, "we are from the same place, a reason more for our meeting."

"I await your seconds, M. Sherbette," I replied.

"At what hour?" "At this hour. We can fight as soon as we leave the ball."

M. Sherbette bowed to the two ladies, and went off in search of two seconds. I asked Victor Hugo and the Marquis de Belloy to act as my witnesses in this ridiculous affair. M. Sherbette's seconds soon appeared. It was decided that we should fight with pistols at twenty paces at the Boisde Boulogne at daybreak. It was then hardly midnight, but we resolved to pass the rest of the night at a ball. At that time I was very fond of waltzing. They told Madame Houssaye that the affair was amicably settled, so that we amused ourselves pleasantly until nearly dawn.

As ill-luck would have it, we all met in the cloak-room, principals and seconds. "It is a nuisance," said one of Sherbette's seconds, "to go to the Bois in this snow-storm." "Come," said the other laughingly to M. Sherbette, "as you are the injured party, you can apologize." "Never!" said M. Sherbette.

The two seconds came to me. "Say one word to free us from this task. We want to go to bed." "Never!" I cried in my turn. M. Sherbette put on his hat with a slant over the right ear. I put on mine with a slant over the left. The four seconds besieged us, and said they would not accompany us unless we were more good-natured about it.

"After all," said Victor Hugo, "I think that Arsene Houssaye, having insulted M. Sherbette's hat, might make his apolgies to it."

At this moment, a word from M. Sherbette changed the face of things. "If M. Arsene Houssaye declares that in offending my hat he did not mean to offend me, I will hold myself satisfied with this declaration."

I declared that I had not aimed at M. Sherbette under his hat, and the duel was at an end. It was agreed in the verbal process-verbal, that whenever we met thereafter we were to salute each other by a touch of the hat.

The First and Last Census.

The following table shows the population of the thirteen original States in 1790, first census, and in 1870, last census; also, population of Maine, Vermont, Kentucky and Tennessee, States formed from the original thirteen, and admitted to the Union subsequent to 1790. As the nation is about to enter upon its centennial year, this table will be of value and interest. The truth of the saying, "Westward the star of empire takes its way," may be seen from the fact that, in 1790, the center of population was about twenty-three miles east of Baltimore. In 1810, it was forty miles northwest of Washington, D. C. In 1830, it was about Staunton, Va. In 1850, it was near Parkersburg, W. Va. In 1870, it was about forty-eight miles Northeast of Cincinnati:

States.	Population.		Gain.
	1790.	1870.
Maine	96,540	626,915	530,375
New Hampshire	141,885	318,300	176,415
Vermont	85,425	330,551	245,126
Massachusetts	378,787	1,457,351	1,078,564
Rhode Island	68,825	217,353	148,528
Connecticut	237,946	537,454	299,508
New York	340,120	4,382,759	4,042,639
New Jersey	184,139	906,096	721,957
Pennsylvania	434,373	3,521,951	3,087,578
Delaware	59,096	125,015	65,919
Maryland	319,728	780,894	461,166
Virginia	747,610	1,225,163	477,553
North Carolina	393,751	1,071,361	677,610
South Carolina	249,073	705,606	456,533
Georgia	82,548	1,184,109	1,101,561
Kentucky	73,677	1,321,011	1,247,334
Tennessee	35,691	1,258,520	1,222,829
Total	3,029,214	19,970,400	16,941,186

Travers on Fisk and Gould.

One day last summer, Col. Fisk was showing Mr. Travers over the Plymouth Rock, the famous Long Branch boat. After showing the rest of the vessel, he pointed to two large portraits of himself and Mr. Gould, hanging, a little distance apart, at the head of the stairway.

"There," says the Colonel, "what do you think of them?"

"They're good, Colonel—you hanging on one side and Gould on the other; f—i—r—s—t-rate. But, Colonel," continued the wicked Mr. Travers, buried in thought, "w—w—where's our Saviour?"

Mr. Travers, who is a vestryman in Grace Church, says he knows it was wicked, but he couldn't have helped it if he'd been on his dying bed.—Eli Perkins's New Book.

Tom Thumb has won a prize in a yacht race.

FIFTY QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

An Interesting Collection of Conundrums.

An ingenious correspondent of the Herald of Health gives the following fifty questions, each to be answered by the name of a well-known author. The guessing of these questions will form a pleasant evening entertainment:

1. What a rough man said to his son when he wished him to eat properly.
2. Is a lion's house, dug in the side of a hill where there is no water?
3. Pilgrims and flatterers have knelt low to kiss him.
4. Makes and mends for first-class customers.
5. Represents the dwelling of civilized men.
6. Is a kind of linen.
7. Is worn on the head.
8. A name that means such fiery things, I can't describe their pains and stings.
9. Belongs to a monastery.
10. Not one of the four points of the compass, but inclining toward one of them.
11. Is what an oyster heap is like to be.
12. Is a chain of hills containing a dark treasure.
13. Always youthful as you see; but between you and me, he never was much of a chicken.
14. An American manufacturing town.
15. Humpbacked but not deformed.
16. An internal pain.
17. Value of a word.
18. A ten-footer whose name begins with fifty.
19. A brighter and smarter than the other one.
20. A worker in precious metals.
21. A very vital part of the body.
22. A lady's garment.
23. A small talk and a heavy weight.
24. A prefix and a disease.
25. Comes from a pig.
26. A disagreeable fellow to have on one's foot.
27. A sick place of worship.
28. A mean dog 'tis.
29. An official dreaded by the students of English universities.
30. His middle name is suggestive of an Indian or a Hottentot.
31. A manufactured metal.
32. A game and a male of the human species.
33. An answer to "Which is the greater poet, William Shakespeare or Martin F. Tupper?"
34. Meat! What are you doing?
35. Is very fast indeed.
36. A barrier built by an edible.
37. To agitate a weapon.
38. Red as an apple, black as night, a heavenly sign or a perfect fright.
39. A domestic worker.
40. A slang exclamation.
41. Pack away closely, never scatter, and doing so you'll soon get at her.
42. A young domestic animal.
43. One that is more than a sandy shore.
44. A fraction in currency and the prevailing fashion.
45. Mamma is in perfect health, my child; and thus he named a poet mild.
46. A girl's name and a male relation.
47. Take a heavy field piece, nothing loth.
48. Put an edible grain 'twixt an ant and a bee, and a much-loved poet you'll see.
49. A common domestic animal, and what it can never do.
50. Each living head, in time 'tis said, will turn to him though he be dead.

ANSWERS.

1. Chaucer. 2. Dryden. 3. Pope. 4. Taylor. 5. Holmes. 6. Holland. 7. Hood. 8. Burns. 9. Abbott. 10. Southey. 11. Shelley. 12. Coleridge. 13. Young. 14. Lowell. 15. Campbell. 16. Akenside. 17. Wordsworth. 18. Longfellow. 19. Whittier. 20. Goldsmith. 21. Harte. 22. Spencer. 23. Chatterton. 24. De Quincey. 25. Bacon. 26. Bunyan. 27. Churchill. 28. Curtis. 29. Proctor. 30. W. Savage Landor. 31. Steele. 32. Tennyson. 33. Willis. 34. Browning. 35. Swift. 36. Cornwall. 37. Shakespeare. 38. Crabbe. 39. Cook. 40. Dickens. 41. Stowe. 42. Lamb. 43. Beecher. 44. Milton. 45. Motherwell. 46. Addison. 47. Howittzer. 48. Bryant. 49. Cowper. 50. Gray.

African Snakes.

The Rev. Josiah Tyler, a missionary at Natal, South Africa, writes to the Observer a letter about snakes. Snakes are over plenty there, the python being the largest, often growing twenty feet long and eight inches thick in the largest part. It is not much feared, however, because it is not poisonous. The natives kill it with spears and clubs, and eat parts of its flesh. A python will attempt to swallow any living thing, and Mr. Tyler avers that recently one of them began on a sleeping boy, drawing in one of his legs before discovery and release. A more dangerous snake is called inamba, and will attack human beings unprovoked. It is usually ten to fifteen feet long, and is venomous. "The appearance of a snake in a native's dwelling," he says, "is always regarded as a bad omen. Ordinarily after such a visitation an ox is slaughtered as a propitiatory sacrifice to the spirits which have sent the snakes on some evil errand. A part of the beef is generally laid aside especially for these reptiles."

Poisoned by Potato Bugs.

An Ithaca (N. Y.) physician has undertaken a case of a patient who was poisoned by Colorado potato bugs. The man was working in his potato patch and several bugs got into one of his boots through a slit in the top. By the time he pulled it off they had worked down under the sole near the toe, and his foot in this part began to smart severely. When the doctor was called, the bottom of the foot presented the appearance of having been badly scalded, the skin being raised in white blisters. He says he has heard of persons being poisoned in the throat by taking some thing into the mouth after handling potato bugs, but the like of this case he never saw or heard of before.

The English Earl of Dunraven has bought a large piece of land in Estes Park, Colorado, and designs to preserve the game there for sporting purposes. The neighboring settlers do not approve of this, and his lordship will probably have to employ a large force of gamekeepers.

A crocodile race on the Nile is to be the event of next month in Egyptian sporting circles.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN INDIANA, SEPT., 16, 1875.

The hog crop of Indiana for 1875 is more than 485,000 less than that of last year.

◆

~~The Radical organs may as well let up on that Clinton (Miss.) affair.— Owing to some cause or other~~ perhaps to the genera' stagnation of business caused by the Radical contraction policy—the outrage market is not brisk in Ohio this fall.

◆

They tell us that Sam Cary is not making any votes for the Democratic ticket in his canvass through Ohio, but we notice that when Sam heaves in sight, the Republican newspapers turn their broadsides on him with great viciousness. That's a good indication that he is making him elf troublesome.

◆

REPUBLICAN PYRAMID

Rhode Island.

Total electoral vote, 9. But suppose we give them Main and Vermont 12, total, 18. So far so good. Now when the Democracy carry Ohio and Pensylvania, there will not be a grease spot left of such men as Morton and Grant. Our friends in Ohio promise the Buckeye State by 25 000, and the Keystone by 30,000, and all this added together will be doing pretty well for 1875.

◆

It has not been long since pyramids were quite popular, especially in our Repubican exchanges. But of late we do not see so many of them. The names of States that went for them a few years ago afforded them ample opportunity to show their strength, but of late it has changed, and no more does State after State respond to the vices of Radicalism. Here is the way pyramids appear for 1875.

Kentucky.
California.
Connecticut.
North Carolina.

A total electoral vote of 34 for the Democracy.

◆

In his inaugural address Governor McCreary, of Kentucky, said: "I desire an era of honesty, economy and justice in the administration both of our State and Federal governments, and peace and prosperity and progress not only in Kentucky but in every part of the Union. I want to see the records of secession coercion and reconstruction filed away forever, and the people of the whole country earnestly advocating peace and reconciliation, and all looking to the Constitution as the guarantee of our liberties and the safeguard of every citizen."

◆

The wages of labor have fallen on an average 33½ per cent, in the last two years, while food and fuel are as high as ever. Thus the laborer who three years ago earned $3 a day, on the average, now earns only $2—if he can get work at all—while the prime necessaries of life cost just as much as they did before. Where is the fault? Who is responsible for this destruction of industry, for this suffering of honest, workingmen? The Republican party and its system of Grantism and plunder. Let workingmen remember this, and vote accordingly.

◆

WELL SAID.

The Cincinnati Gazette, answering a correspondent says:

"The currency is now: Legal tenders (August 1), $374,824,985; fractional notes, $41,445,393; bank notes (August 7), $348,937,930; total, $764 908,216.

The currency in 1865 was: Legal tenders, $432,687,000; fractional currency, $25.005,000; bank notes, $181,000,000; total, $628 692,000.

The increase of currency since 1865 is therefore, $136,216,317.

We will add a little supplemental information.

The gold premium on the 21st day of August, 1865, was 44¼.

The gold premium on the 21st day of August, 1875, (yesterday), was 14¼.

An increase of the currency amounting, according to the Gazette's figures to $136,216,317 in ten years, has been a reduction of thirty-one cents in the gold premium.

According to these figures a little more expansion would wipe out the gold premium entirely.—Terre Haute Express.

Rag Money and its Value.

"Well, bub," replied Bijah, as he finished hanging up the broom, "this currency question bothers many besides you, though it's clear enough to me You see that twenty-five cent scrip don't you?"

The boy remarked that he did, and Bijah placed it on the window sill, weighted it down with a peach stone and continued:

"That bit of paper is ma ked 25c. but is it twenty-five cents?" Is it anything more than a piece of paper?"

"I dunno," solemnly replied the boy.

"Has that bit of paper any real value beyond its being a promise to pay?"

"What paper?"

"That'ere twenty-five——" "

He stopped there. Someone had sneaked up the alley and slyly stolen both scrip and peach stone.

"Never mind," condoled the boy, "it hadn't any intrinsic value"

"It hadn't eh?" growled the old janitor, "I just want to catch the wolf who absorbed it!"

◆

It was but recently charged that there was an alliance between the Democratic party and the Catholic church in Ohio. The Democratic papers denied it. Through the workings of a clique. Geghan of Cincinnati was nominated in a Democratic campaign for the Legislature, and thrust upon the party as a virtual endorsement of such an alliance. The Enquirer now repudiates the nomination, and in so doing, does right. We hope the Democratic party will not ally with any church or religious denomination. Church and State should be kept separate. We hope the voters of Hamilton county will repudiate this Geghan, not because o the Geghan Bill for the most fair-minded protestants will fail to find anything in imical in his creed on that bill. But it has been the misfortune of Mr. Geghan to ha e his name used as the symbol of a supposed alliance between the Catholic church and the Democratic party, and it must be confessed that he and his friends have not done much to discourage the use of his name, in that way. It is this that makes him objectionable. He has been put on the Democratic ticket again in Cincinnati, and this time he goes as a Catholic candidate. A man who runs for office as a Catholic candidate, as a Protestant candidate, as a Mormon candidate, or an infidel candidate, ought to be voted down."

◆

With a few more riots around,—Vicksburg and Jackson, (Miss.,) we should think they would dispose of the desperate characters that seem to afflict that community.

A riot occured near Jackson last week at a place called Clinton. Several white men and a number of negroes were killed. A dispatch says:

"After hearing all the statements we think the following about correct: There is a law prohibiting the sale of liquor in Clinton. Some young men from Raymond brought a bottle with them. While the speaking was going on, Martin Severly and some of his friends went off a short distance to take a drink. The negro Marshal for the occasion approached them and forbid drinking. This order was not regarded, when the negro attempted to take the bottle out of Severly's hand. Severly finally struck the negro over the head with the bottle. Senator Caldwell (colored) started to settle the difficulty, and was followed by some twenty negroes, whom he ordered back but about one hundred more came rushing, when some one fired, which was followed be a general firing and stampede. Severly fired all the barrels of his pistol. The negroes then demanded his surrender. He surrendered and gave up his pistol, after which the negroes shot him, then brained him, robbed him of his clothes and cut off his finger in order to get his ring. The infuriated mob found Charles Chilton in his yard, and shot and killed him in the presence of his family.

◆

We have been picturing to ourselves the magnitude of the shadow which passed over the Grecian countenance of M. Marble, Esq., of New York, when that "Rag Baby" from Pensylvania was thrust under his pendant proboscis.

Farmers, Mechanics, Everybody!
Go to and See the Large Stock of
Hardware,
TINWARE, STOVES, ETC., ETC.
—Just Received by—
GEO. HENSLER,
BUTLER, IND. He keeps a large variety of both Cooking and Heating Stoves, for sale at the lowest prices. Tin-ware in large assortment. Give him a call.

Commissioners Allowances.

EXPENSE OF PUBLIC BUILDINGS:
J. R. Duncan & Co advanced in going to South Bend to examine Court House	8 35
Crane, Duncan & Co. repairing done on court rooms	62 00
Same labor and material Sept. estimates	912 00
Same " "	11 642 00
EXPENSE OF COURT.
W. L. Meese summoning Juors and Com	48 60
Same service at Com. court Sept. term	12 00
J. R. Lanning transfering estate, &c. by order of Judge Circuit Court	141 75
EXPENSE OF CRIMINALS.
W. Meese boarding and attending Crim	174 65
J. L. Davis sundry article for crim. exp.	7 20
C. C. Shaffer table for prisioners	2 50
BOOKS, STATIONERY AND PRINTING:
Blank books for court officers, &c	88 00
Willis & co. pens and envelopes	6 28
Baxter & Kennedy printing for officers	21 83
R. H. Weamer same	15 00
T. C. Mays same	34 33
SALARY OF OFFICERS:
N. Ensley treas. 6 days, fee & saly. bill	16 67
J. A. Barnes, services county superin't.	65 50
I. Hague making duplicate for 1875	566 40
Same footing and proving same	150 00
Same other services as county Auditor	687 87
N. Griffith services as Com. Sept. term	24 00
C. R. Wanemaker same	24 80
Geo H. Duncan same	24 00
EXPENSE OF ROADS & BRIDGES:
C. L. Gilmore, lumber for bridges	60 00
S. H. Bartlett for building a bridge	65 00
B. F. Cornelius same	66 00
Bair & McNall lumber for bridge	50 00
J. B. Bowers building bridge	43 00
David Hackathorn same	58 00
Hiram Brundage same	42 00
Saml Brown same	50 00
D. Culver same	144 00
Same same	73 00
Same same	315 00
Griswold & Culver same	190 00
Same same	350 00
Smith & Scott same	16 00
M. Hollopeter lumber for bridge	98 00
N. Griffith Supt. and Letting Bridges	35 00
C. R. Wanemaker same	9 00
Geo. H. Duncan same	18 00
W. L. Meese serving prec'ts road viewe's	30 30
B. Maxwell grading road in creek bot'm	30 00
J. Hogue delivering road lists to trustees	16 00
F. D. Ryan livery looking after bridges	1 50
D. Gonser viewing road	2 50
L. D. Britton same	2 50
Joseph Craig same	2 50
Jermiah Plum same	2 50
J. R. Walker roads	5 00
John Fisk same	5 00
J. B. Henning road	2 50
R. G. Daniels same	4 00
W. Teeters same	2 00
D. B. Olinger same	2 50
Harvy Moody same	2 50
J. M. Goetschins same	2 50
D. Lintz same	2 50
D. Thomas same	2 50
P. B. Nimmons same	4 00
H. Gunsenhouser same	4 00
Jacob Ginter same	4 00
Jacob Marks, digging ditch	17 50
EXPENSE OF POOR:
I. Williams, coffin for a poor person	8 00
J. Kahn, goods for county poor	8 50
Hoopingarner & Son groceries medicines	4 10
B. B. Long, livery conveying paupers to poor farm	5 60
J. A. Cowan, medical service	10 00
W. L. Meese, taking paupers to poyr farm	3 00
A. C. Brown boarding &c for W. Barclay a pauper	116 25
N. H. Mathews, provisions furnished R. Rickets	4 80
F. E. Davenport, goods for Co. asylum	3 75
Ed Eldrige, groceries same	46 11
Auburn Woolen Mf'g co, goods "	25 51
R. D. Tufft, cash to send a paper away	4 45
I. N. Cool, flour furnished Mrs Kesslburn	7 90
Barney & Sons, goods for poor persons	18 44
H. W. Coburn, goods, Mary Barr	12 00
F. D. Ryan, livery, looking after poor	7 50
J. Spooner, phycician, attending poor	25 00
C. Sheets, reaper for poor farm	180 00
Same, Shoe	3 00
J. Spencer, flour furnished by DeLong	3 65
W. S. Allen med. service for poor	18 00
A. S. Lease, livery looking after poor	3 00
C. C. Shaffer, goods for county poor	17 75
J. L. Davis, goods for county asylum	15 59
Miller & Casebeer, goods "	18 62
John Griffith, work done at Co. Assylum	23 87
Lydia Bowman same	2 00
W. H. Brown same	34 67
L. Jackson same	24 00
J. W. Wyatt, service as Supt & provisions	184 72
EXPENSE ASSESSING REVENUE:
J. R. Cosper, one day	2 00
MISCELLANEOUS EXPENSE:
J. J. VanAuken, cash to repair surveyers instruments	28 80
L. M. Nind, Fees as atty in bond case	300 00
A. A Chappin same	500 00
N. Griffith, attending co. bus. and fare to and from Albion	16 10
C. R. Wanemaker same	18 90
Geo H. Duncan same	21 10
C. C Shaffer, table for Recorder's office	10 00
I. Hague, P. O. Stamps for office, &c	2 03
Jno. Getiner, making foundation in treas office for safe	34 00
Hall's Safe & Lock Co, safe for treas	950 00

ISAAC HAGUE, AUDITOR.

Pittsburg, Baltimore & Ohio R.R
IS COMING.

Therefore buy your
Dry Goods,
Notions, etc., of
CHARLES KLOTZ
AT HIS
Old Stand
ON MAN STREET,
Opposite Court Square
AUBURN, INDIANA

Where he may be found at all times ready to accommodate customers and sell them such goods as they may need,

CLOTHING
Of all descriptions, and
HANDSOME SUITS
Made to Order!

TAKE
SIMMONS'
LIVER
REGULATOR

Nearly all diseases originate from Indigestion and Torpidity of the liver, and relief is always anxiously sought after. If the Liver is regulated in its action, health is almost invariably secured. Want of action in the Liver causes head ache, Constipation, Jaundice, Pain in the shoulders, cough, chills, dizziness, sour stomache, bad taste in the mouth, billious attacks, palpitation of the heart, depression of spirits, or the blues, and a hundred other symptoms, for which Simons' Liver Regulator is the best remedy that has ever been discovered. It acts mildly, effectually, and being a simple vegetable compound, can do no injury in any quantities that it may be taken. It is harmless in every way; it has been used for 40 years, and hundreds of the good and great from all parts of the country will vouch for its being the purest and best.

Simmons' Liver Regulator,
OR MEDICINE,
Is harmless,
Is no drastic violent medicine,
Is sure to cure if taken regularly,
Is no intoxicating beverage,
It is a faultless family medicine,
Is the cheapest medicine in the world,
Is given with safety and the happiest results to the most delicate infant,
Does not interfere with business,
Does not disarrange the system,
Takes the place of Quinine and Bitters of every kind.
Contains the simplest and best remedies.
Price $1. Sold by all Druggists. April 22, 1875
For sale at F. E. DAVENPORT'S drug store.

GREAT
New York Store
—IN—
GARRETT,
LITMAN BROS. & GOODMAN
Will be found a complete assortment of
FALL AND WINTER GOODS.
The goods have all been well selected, and make as nice a stock as there is in the county. The stock consists of a complete assortment of
DRY GOODS,
LADIES' FANCY GOODS,
MENS YOUTHS' & CLOTHING,
a complete stock, and the latest styles of Hats and Caps. We have a complete line of
BOOTS AND SHOES,
Made to our order, and the nicest stock of Gaiters for the ladies. We will offer our goods very low. Prints at 8 cents per yard, Bleached or Unbleached Muslin at 8 cents and 10 cents. The best bargains in Clothing and in Boots and Shoes, as we are receiving new goods most every day. Therefore we can afford to sell at the bottom prices. All invited to call and see us, whether they purchase or not. Come one, come all, and see our goods before purchasing elsewhere. Bargains will be given as we will carry the largest stock in Garret and we will make it an object for all to buy. Call at the Brown building opposite large hotel. The farmers will do well to come to trade in Garret. You can sell your produce for the highest market price and get the cash, and you can buy goods as cheap as any place and you will be satisfied.
No. 34—6m LITMAN BROS. & GOODMAN

AUBURN LIVERY
—AND—

SALE STABLE!
RYAN & FORD Prs
Having on hand everything in the line of;
Carriages, Buggies, Wagons, etc
y are prepared to furnish rigs at all times a nable prices. Stable east of Court House.
South Main Street
re now in full running order and all orders fo
WAGONS BUGGIES &c.
promptly attended to Special care taken in getting the best Seasoned Timber. Our prices are ery reasonable and we solicit the public to give a call and ascertain our prices.

WANTED.

Five Hundred Cords of Elm Stave Bolts, is wanted immediately at the Stave Factory of Beugnot & Co., for which they will pay the cash.

THE
NEW YORK STORE

ROOT & COMPANY,
Wholesale and Retail Dealers in
DRY GOODS,
CARPETS,
CURTAINS,
NOTIONS, ETC., ETC.
AT BOTTOM PRICES
We are now clearing out our entire stock of.
SUMMER GOODS
and offering all above mentioned goods at a great reduction from former prices
Examine our great
CARPET DEPARTMENT
before you purchase, and save money
GRAIN BAGS all the best brands at
ROOT & COMPANY'S
46 and 48 Calhoun St., Fort Wayne,
Opposite the Court House.

A New Store
With an entire new stock of
BOOTS & SHOES.
New STYLES of all kinds at the LOWEST PRICES at
J. E. WOODFORD'S
I have located at Auburn with a fine stock of BOOTS and SHOES, which will be sold at the Lowest Figures for Cash!
My Facilities for making CUSTOM WORK are not excelled anywhere and those favoring me—with their orders may be certain of getting the best material.
W. W. HUMES, Foreman.
To the trade, great inducements are offered in Leather, Findings, &c. Please call and examine my stock before purchasing.

C. P. HOUSER.

THE FIRST

National Bank

OF AUBURN, INDIANA.

Capital Stock $50,000

Deposits received on time or subject to check on sight

Exchange, available in the United States, Canada and Europe, furnished.

Checks and drafts, payable in any part of th U. S. cashed at our counter, or collected and proceeds accounted for to holder.

Collections made and promptly remitted for on day of payment.

Loans negotiated and business papers discounted

Government and other securities bought and sold.

Directors:

J. R. LANNING, J. H. FORD,
S. W. RALSTON, WM. McINTYRE,
GEO. HAZZARD.

Officers:

JOSEPH R. LANNING, Prest.
JAS. V. HAZZARD, Cashier.
April 29, 1875.

Auburn Courier.

Local and Miscellaneous.

Very Dry and Dusty.

Grapes are ripening.

Ague is not scarce.

Roasting-ears played out.

The town pumps are good.

Wood-sawers are scarce.

The days warm and nights cold.

The Fort Wayne fair all week.

The corn will escape Jack Frost.

Beugnot's building is going rapidly.

Canning fruit has begun among our ladies.

The outside of the jail building is completed.

Work has commence on Mr. McIntyre's new brick.

Lee Zern, now at Kendallville, was in the city Sunday.

Seeding is now the order of the day among our farmers.

The Misses Kissingers of Bryan, Ohio are visiting friends in the city.

Miss Mary Kline has been very sick with diphtheria for several days past.

Tom Morris, of Angola, was driving his fast nags over our streets last Sunday.

Jas. Clifford's new billiard tables have arrived, and they are the finest in the State.

Hank Brandon is putting the tin roof on Shull's building, assisted by Thomas Sommers.

Mr. Laufferty left the forepart of the week for the east, to purchase a stock of clothing

Many of our citizens attended the fair at Fort Wayne this week. Crowds will go to-morrow.

Ground was broke on Tuesday last for the erection of the McIntyre block, opposite the Swineford House.

A. F. Zay, with Miller & Casebeer, who has been quite ill with fever, is improving slowly.

It is hoped the Bank will erect their building in connection with the McIntyre block at the same time

Many of our citizens were buggy riding last Sabbath, the day being so desirable for such amusement.

J. A. Smith has stopped work at the Excelsior Hardware, the season for selling machinery having passed.

A paper asks, "where's them watermellons." Great heavings, where am those grammer that we done sent you.

Curlie's Lunch Room, at Garrett City, is the popular resort of the place. Call in when an opportunity is afforded.

A number of citizens from Waterloo in town Monday to witness the defeat of their celebrated runner, Mr. Long. He got nicely scooped.

Sprott & Son make a specialty of Robinson's fine work. They are the best fitting and most durable goods manufactured.

LOST—A Mossagate Sleeve Button, supposed to have been lost between F. D. Ryan's residence and the school house. A liberal reward will be given the find-

The middle aged and older men, of Auburn, will play an old fashioned base or town ball, game on the Eel River grounds Friday, September 25th, 1875.

The Fort Wayne, Muncie and Cincinnati R. R. Co., have made a change in the running of trains. Look on the 4th page.

Sprott & Son have just received another invoice of the beautiful fitting and durable Gaiters for ladies' wear. Call and see them.

The temperance lecture, at the M. E. church, Sabbath evening, was too lengthy to be good. The moral law was short compared with it.

See the new advertisements of our enterprising Hardware Merchant of Butler Mr. Geo. Hensler. He keeps a fine stock of everything and asks the public to call and see him.

The unfinished appearance of the top of the jail may be handsome in the eyes of some, but it looks to us like a muly cow with one horn knocked off.

James Lowrie is among our citizens again, looking 'earty and acting as jovial as ever. The girls mus'nt get excited, for his main hold is "Old folks how do you do."

Don't fail to attend the Grand Concert at the Catholic Church to-night. Prof. John B. Young, of Fort Wayne, will be present, and many other prominent musicians.

A gentleman by the name of David D. Siles will open an Art Gallery over Martin Bros. store this week, where he will be pleased to have the public call and try his work.

Quite a number of our citizens went to Waterloo last Tuesday, to see Long and Osgood run a foot race. This sport is becoming popular since the Newville chap got beaten.

Michael Long, Sr., we understand, contemplates building a large brick where his residence now stands. A very desirable place for a nice block of buildings.

Mr. W. M. Seifort of Kendallville, leads to the alter to-day, the beautiful and accomplished Miss Eliza Easler, of Butler, and we wish them many happy returns of the joyous occasion.

Fred Shoemaker and his partner was running their horse down Main street Tuesday night, and never stopped until they came in contact with a farmers wagon. The buggy was smashed.

The Streets of New York, a splendid play for the stage, will be presented to our citizens in the course of three or four weeks. Not having anything of the kind for so long, a crowded house may be anticipated.

We are obliged to Hank Ford for a large sized melon. We presented it to several young ladies, but ever since that they don't seem to be kindly disposed towards us. One was overheard to remark that it wasn't a melon.

Miss Proclamation Emancipation Coggeshall, of Ohio, is the name to which she is compelled to submit. Her patriotic father thus afflicted her because of the date of her birth, poor creature.

They'll call her "Procklie" no doubt for short.

A. J. Little, attorney at law, has opened an office at Garrett City, on Wednesday of each week. All legal business entrusted to his care will be attended to with promptness and fidelity. The remainer of the week he can be consulted at his office in Auburn.

A young farmer living near town has sent in after whisky six times this season to cure snake bites, and some people are uncharitable enough to express the opinion that he keeps a snake on ice and thaws it into a state of ferocity whenever he gets thirsty.

When directing a letter be sure to write the name of the town, county and state, distinctly; also put on a three-cent postage stamp; and if you are not in an awful hurry, write the name of the person whom you want the letter delivered to somewhere on the outside of the envelope.

FOOT RACING.—Several foot races have taken place this week, and the boys have been considerabaly excited over the result. Long of Waterloo ran against a young man from Ohio, last Monday and got beat. On Tuesday, Long ran Osgood at Waterloo, and got beat again. So far Osgood is ahead in the County.

Sheriff Meese made a trip to Indianapolis last week, taking with him the wife of Jacob H. Smith, who resides at the Junction. When the Sheriff got there he found the asylum so full that he was compelled to bring Mrs. Shrader back, though the poor woman is in as bad a condition as ever.

Now that the pic-nic season is drawing to a close, we may give the result of some of our close observations—as follows:

Girls with holes in their stockings never get sprained ankles.

Girls with striped stockings are the the fondest of round dances.

Girls with small feet are the most venturesome in climbing trees or wading swamps.

The store of Rakestraw & Jackman was entered Tuesday night and two suits of clothes were taken. The thieves entered by taking out a pain of glass in the rear end of the store. Messrs Jackman and Zimmerman were in the second story at the time, and had a revolver, but they failed in capturing their visitors.

The Odd Fellows, at Garrett, contemplate organizing a lodge in that town.—There are members of the order there and we do not see why it will not succeed. They have already held two meetings and will hold another on Tuesday evening the 21 inst, to complete arrangements for organization. All brothers are invited to be present.

A party of "roosters" at Garret hired a fellow to take them to Kendallville, last Sunday. The charges were paid, and, as the fellow thought, the contract filled; so he turned his team and went home. The boys did'nt understand it that way, but when they hired a rig to take them back, they had the bargain understood.

The Butler Schools are flourishing to an unusal degree. The attendance is large, and a great interest is being taken in their managment. Prof. Bowersox is giving excellent satisfact'on and is thorough and practical in all he does. With a good building and fine corps of teachers, nothing short of great success can be realized.

We are authorized to say that a meeting of the citizens of Wilmington-tp., will be held at Center School House, next Saturday evening, Sept., 18th, for the purpose of organizing a detective society. The fact is there is too many horses being stolen, and our friends over there want to know the reason why.

Next Tuesday an excursion will leave Logansport stopping at all stations, for Toledo and Put-in-Bay. The fare from Auburn Junction to Mooresville will be $3 including a ride on the lake in the splendid steamer "Chief Justice Waite" It will leave Auburn at 11:50 a. m., and tickets good for return until the 25th.

The Largest, Cheapest and best selected stock of GOODS ever brought to DeKalb Co., Ind., is just received by Miller & Casebeer, the leading merchants of Auburn. Call and examine goods and prices.

As required by the new school law, the different township Trustees have selected the following days for the transaction of township business. Butler and Richland, Monday and Saturday of each week; Jackson and Concord, on each Saturday; Franklin, every other Saturday; Union and Fairfield, Tuesday and Fridays; Smithfield and Wilmington Wednesdays and Saturdays. As the remaining townships are not represented at the meeting of the County Board, it is not known what days will be selected by them. But it is understood that each trustee will post notices in his own township so as to have the time well understood, as all contracts, and payment of claims can be attended to only on such designated days.

We dashed into Hamilton the other morning, and found that quiet but handsome little place, in the engagement of a good business. There is a fine farming region surrounding the town, equal to the best in the county. We found our friend B. F. Greenwood, Esq., situated on as fine a tract of land as heart could desire. By his enterprise and energy he is getting it under a fine state of cultivation and improvement. In fact all the way down from Hamilton to Waterloo, you see nothing but fine farms and splendid improvements, such as Hon. Mr. Waterman, Mr. Clark, Taylor, and the Kelly's. Bytheway, Hon. Freeman Kelly, is erecting a brick residence, which for good common sense and practical utility beats anything we have yet seen in the county. Its main features will not be elaborate costiness, and gaudy finish, but such as will contribute to the comfort of the occupants. Eleven foot ceelings capacious rooms, a cellar that can be ventilated, and other fixtures harmoniously blended to gether in its construction.

In answer to the "Republican" we would say that Auburn does afford a Marshal, and he has filled the position with ability. When Auburn gets so that it cannot afford a Marshal to do nothing else during the year but work for the town, then the remark of the "Republican" would perhaps be appropriate. But at present our citizens do not care to be burdened with that expense. Mr. Houghton, our Marshal, is engaged some little in farming and at this time is engaged in putting in his crops, a very important matter just about this time of the year. He could not engage a hand to do it for him, and the Board could not reasonably expect him to abandon his work. Besides there was no lumber of the right kind to be had, and there is but very little work to do without lumber. We don't know of any old boots or tin cans before the doors of our business houses its a libel on the town, and we trust our neighbor won't commence abusing our business people before he is here a year The insinuations as to the town Board is too cowardly to merit notice. If you know anything that is not right, speak it out like a man, and don't sneak around and insinuate you know something, when Temperance Lecture.

Miss Anna Rapier, of Ann Arbor, Mich., delivered a lengthy address at the M. E. Church last Sabbath evening, to a very large audience. Miss Rapier's address showed considerable care and preparation. There was a style of diction, a nicity of language, a seeming earnestness in its delivery, and a great deal of theorizing in its make up. Miss Rapier might keep on delivering this address for a thousand years, were she permitted to live that long, and yet contribute very little to the great cause of temperance. To be effective you must abandon theory, and come down to the practical. The suffering of the drunkard has been described with a tragic effect, perfectly thrilling, time and again, until our children know it by heart, and yet this is made one of the great features of our modern temperance lectures. Again the saloon keeper is made the scape-goat for all this wretchedness and woe, while man, that great moral agent, endowed with certain inalienable rights, is permitted to go and throw himself away, and not a word is uttered in condemnation of his course. Somewhat thin, we think.

As to the license law, if things under the present law do not develope a better state of sobriety during the year throughout our state, than under the Baxter Prohibitory law, then we shall be greatly mistaken. This being the result then will it be an outrage to sanction by law the sale of liquors, as Miss Rapier has asserted. If a license law holds these saloon keepers responsible, and makes them responsible by the bonds of other men, forbids them to sell to a drunkard forces them to the obeyance of great restriction in the traffic, must it be characterized as an outrage. Had Miss Rapier urged the necessity of having the license law enforced to the very letter, she would have been much more effective in the course of temperance in our midst, than in the character of making fine periods and pathetic appeals. If there was more attention paid to the education of the country generally, if she had made an appeal to parents to keep their boys off the streets at late hours, instead of allowing them to howl and swear and curse, as some of them did on their way home from that lecture, on Sabbath evening, there would be less desposition to indulge in those deadly poisons, which she labored so hard to describe.

AS TO CONGRESS

taking jurisdiction of this qustion, it was an idea of beautiful seeming, but one that will scarcely be realized. It was no vogue to merit any particular attention. We believe Miss Rapier wants to do good, and we hope she will be able to gather wisdom rapidly and soon be more effective in the great cause.

That Fair, Not Fair.

MR. EDITOR:—Allow me a few lines in your paper on a subject not national but purely local—one which I have heard spoken of quite frequently, which seems to show how some people live and act and how they hate. It is this question I want answered: How comes it that every time a fair is held at Waterloo, the band of some town out of the county must be employed to discourse music, when it is notorious we have good first-class bands in the county and only a few miles from the site of the fair. We have no objection to the Angola Band, it is a good one, and its members are gentlemen, but why is it that Auburn and Butler must get the "go by" everytime? From these two places, outside the immediate locality of Waterloo came three-fourths of the people who attended the fair. Take Auburn as an instance and you find that more people go by cars to the fairs at Waterloo than from all other R. R. points put together The people at Auburn have taken a large interest in the fair, and attended "en masse," yet their brass band cannot be invited. Our people spend at such fairs probable $2,000 or $3,000 yearly, yet their little brass band cannot even play gratuitously for them. Even our 'Bus cannot go there to haul our folks from the depot to the grounds, unless driven away with a license of $15 or $20 per day charged them. If we take our wives, babies, or stock we have to drink creek water, for their wells are sometimes guarded and the pumps chained. Isn't these things extremely small, so mean and low, I feel almost ashamed to mention it for fear some may think I am as mean as they. But decency civility and the ordinary courtesies of life require the mention, and for their own good, the good of the enterprise, the good of the people who will attend, this own right littleness should be exposed. Now, the Waterlooites will howl over this, but who cares; they will say it is done to hurt the fair and their town and that it is only an Auburn growler. Let me ask when ever was there a thing going on at Waterloo that Auburn did not attend largely, so with Butler. How is it with Waterloo in returning these compliments, unless it be to break up and divide a crowd as they did a 4th of July celebration at Auburn, a few years ago.

I believe, had I the power I would keep every Butler, and Auburn person away from their fair—the great N. E. (neither end) fair, until they practice a little less meanness.

Yours,
DEMOCRACY.

Miller & Casebeer are the leading merchants in clothing, in DeKalb County. Always look around before you buy and

IF·YOU NEED

CLOTHING!

VISIT

KAHN'S Clothing House!

It will Pay You.

Ensly's Block, Two Doors East Post Office

AUBURN, IND.

Base Ball Mention.

—The Blue Stockings have challenged the Hay Makers for a series of games.—Not accepted yet.

—The Little Blues had a game at the Junction Saturday, and came out over two to one ahead.

—The Blue Stockings and Star of the West play a game one week from Saturday on the grounds of the latter, west of the city two miles.

—Why don't the Angola nine show up? Our boys are in good shape—they practiced with Newville two weeks ago, and not a boy has played since—but, then, a little practice is better than none, you know.

—Newville and Edgerton clubs had a game—no, that ain't what we mean.—They arranged for a game—now we're coming to the point—and Edgerton done the playing; Newville the chasing.

—The Hay Makers and Red Pants had their second game of ball last Saturday, resulting in favor of the latter 15 to 25 The visiting club were straight, honest fellows, and gave up the defeat like little men.

—The Star of the West and Corunna Rangers had a match game on the grounds at Sedan. The Stars got scooped nasty—because the Umpire would'nt let 'em run on a foul ball. They played Saturday afternoon, and had supper at Sedan on Sunday night—it cost them the round sum of a quarter a piece, and they would have got the worth of their money, if the landlord had been notified the forepart of the week. None of 'em got hurt with the ball—it was yarn, and they all got their bases on three balls but one captain. He everlastingly belted that ball, and it never stopped until it reached the pitchers abdomen. This being the seventh inning they mutualy agreed to "cheese it" The scorer whittled up the tally stick (a fence rail) before the Umpire found out what the score was.

IT IS HERE.

WHAT

The Largest Fall Stock of Fine

CLOTHING

Ever brought to Indiana, now on display,

SAM, PETE & MAX

No. 5 Main, and 33 Calhoun Streets.

Star Clothing House!

FORT WAYNE, IND.

Sheriff's Sale.

By virture of an Execution to me directed from the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court, in a cause wherein James Sanborn and William C. Haskill are Plaintiff's, and Aaron D. Moore and Isaac Meese are Defendant's, requiring me to make the sum of One Hundred Fifty Dollars and thirteen cents, with interest on said judgment and costs, I will expose at public sale to the highest bidder on Saturday, October 9th, 1875.

between the hours of 10 o'clock A. M. and four o'clock P. M. of said day, at the door of the Court House of DeKalb County, Ind., the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years of the following real estate, to-wit:

The undivided one third part of the south half (½) of the south-west quarter of section nine [9] Township thirty-three north of range fourteen [14] east in DeKalb County, Indiana.

If such rents and profits will not sell for a sufficient sum to satisfy said judgment, interest and costs I will at the same time and place, expose at public sale the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to discharge said judgment, interest and costs.

Sale will be made without any releief whatever from valuation and appraisement law.

WILLIAM L. MEESE, SHERIFF.
Rose & Hartman, atty's for plf.
Auburn, Ind. Sept. 16, 1875.

$8.00

AN ORDINANCE.

SECTION 1st. Be in ordained by the Board of Trustees of the Town of Auburn, in the County of DeKalb and State of Indiana, that it shall be unlawful for any person, owning or having the control of any Cattle, Horses Mules or Swine, to permit such Cattle, Horses, Mules or Swine to run at large within the corporate limits of said town between the hours of 8 o'clock in the evening and 5 o'clock in the morning from the first day of July to the first day of December in each year.

SECTION 2nd. Any person or persons violating the provisions of section one of this ordinance, upon conviction, shall be fined in any sum not less than $1, nor more than $5.

SECTION 3rd. It shall be unlawful for any person or persons owning or having control of any Cattle, Horses or Mules to permit such Cattle, Horses or Mules to run at large, at any time, within the corporate limits of said town from the 1st day of December, in each year, until after the 1st day of April following.

SECTION 4th. Any person or persons violating the provisions of section three of this ordinance, upon conviction, shall be fined in any sum not Wait! Wait!

Wait for the fine display of splendid Stoves, to be made in a few days, at Goodman's. New styles, and new patterns, and something different than has ever been exibited before. tf.

Is Your Life Worth 10 Cents.

SICKNESS prevails everywhere, and everybody complains of some disease during their life.—When sick, the object is to get well; now we say plainly that no person in this world that is suffering with Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint and its effects, such as Indigestion, Costiveness, Sick Headache, Sour stomache, Heart-burn, Palpitation of the Heart, Depressed Spirits, Biliousness, &c. can take GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER without getting relief and cure. If you doubt this, go to your Druggist and get a sample bottle for ten cents, and try it. Regular size 75 cents. Two use will relieve you.

GILES' LINIMENT

TRADE MARK

IODIDE OF AMMONIA

Cures Neuraligia, Face ache, Rheumatism, Gout, Frosted Feet, chilblains, sore throat Erysipelas, Bruises or Wounds of every kind in men or animal

Giles' Liniment Iodine of Ammonia has been used by myself and family with satisfactory results. I recommend it to all persons suffering with pains or aches of any kind. It surpasses anything I have ever used. G. H. MILLER, Pres. Real Estate a Savings Bank, Baltimore Md. Sold by all Druggists. Depot No. 451 Sixth avenue, New York. Only 50c and $1 per bottle

Sold by J. H. EHLERS.

No. 29 4w

AT BOND'S NOVELTY STORE!

Muslins, Flannels, Hosiery, Gloves and other staple goods in large stock.

YARNS

Germantown yarn, first quality.
Germantown yarn, first quality, Balmoral.
Merino yarn, Shetland wool.
Saxony yarn, Saxonia yarn.
Knitting yarn of all kinds, including the celebrated German knitting yarn.
Knitting cotton, Crochet cotton.
Cotton especially for mending stockings, in small skeins.
RUG canvas and other kinds.
Infant's bootees, sacks and shirts, and all kinds of knit goods made to order.

Stamping.

Braiding and Embroidery done to order.
German knitting Cotton, complete stocking darner, stocking supporters.
Corsets in varity, including Madame Foy's corset at $1.
French embroidery silk, shaded embroidery silk, large skeins 5 cents.
And a large stock of staple and fancy goods at exceedingly low prices.

21 West Main St.

Notice to Tax Payers.

Tax payers are hereby notified, that the Legislature of last winter changed the time in the law for paying the 2nd installment of taxes. The time expires this year on the 30th day of October instead of the 15th day of November, as it has been before. The following is the section of law passed by the Legislature.

SECTION 1st. Any person or tax payer, charged with taxes on a tax duplicate in the hands of a county Treasurer may pay the full amount of such taxes on or before the 3rd Monday of April or may at his option, pay one half thereof, on or before such 3rd Monday of November following, provided, however, that all road taxes so charged shall be paid prior to the first Monday of November, in the manner provided by law, and provided further, that in all cases where as much as one half of the amount of the taxes charged against a tax payer, shall not be paid on or before the 3rd Monday in April, the whole amount shall become due and be returned delinquent and collected as provided by law.

Remember that the time expires this year on the 30th day of October instead of the 15th day of November as heretofore. The new law requires me to commence my settlement with the Auditor on the first Monday of November, so that all taxes remaining unpaid at that date will be returned delinquent, with 10 per cent. penalty and collected as required by law.

Collectors will be entitled to mileage from the Court House door to where the delinquent tax payer lives under the new law instead of from the voting place of the tax payer to where he lives, as it was under the old law.

Do not put off paying until the last few days but come early, or we cannot make the receipts, for as yet only a few have paid their 2nd installment.

Yours respectfully,
NICHOLAS ENSLEY, Treas.
DeKalb County, Ind.
Auburn, Ind. Sept. 8th, 1875.

BRICK FOR SALE

FRITZ GROESCOP.

Having just burned a fine kiln of brick, about one hundred thousand, is now ready to supply all who want good brick at reasonable figures. Residence two miles north of Auburn on the Kutzner road; three miles south west of Waterloo.

Final Settlement.

Notice is hereby given that Daniel Houser Administrator of the estate of Philip Albright deceased, has filed his final settlement report in my office, which will be heard at the next term of the DeKalb Circuit Court.

L. B. LANNING, Clerk.
Bickel & Tefft, atty for est. Sept 16

Notice of Administration

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed Executor of the estate of Benjamin Rufner late of DeKalb county, deceased. Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

THE HERITAGE.

BY JAMES RUSSELL LOWELL.

The rich man's son inherits lands,
And piles of brick, and stone, and gold;
And he inherits soft, white hands
And tender flesh that fears the cold,
Nor dares to wear a garment old;
A heritage, it seems to me,
One scarce would wish to hold in fee.

The rich man's son inherits cares:
The bank may break, the factory burn,
A breath may burst his bubble shares,
And soft white hands would scarcely earn
A living that would serve his turn;
A heritage, it seems to me,
One would not wish to hold in fee.

What doth the poor man's son inherit?
Stout muscles and a sinewy heart,
A hearty frame, a hardier spirit;
King of two hands, he does his part
In every useful toil and art;
A heritage, it seems to me,
A king might wish to hold in fee.

What doth the poor man's son inherit?
Wishes o'erjoyed with humble things,
A rank adjudged by toil-worn merit,
Content that from employment springs,
A heart that in his labor sings;
A heritage, it seems to me,
A king might wish to hold in fee.

What doth a poor man's son inherit?
A patience learned by being poor;
Courage, if sorrow come, to bear it;
A fellow feeling that is sure
To make the outcast bless his door,
A heritage, it seems to me,
A king might wish to hold in fee.

O, rich man's son! there is a toil
That with all other level stands;
Large charity doth never soil,
But only whiten soft, white hands—
This is the best crop from thy lands;
A heritage, it seems to me,
Worth being rich to hold in fee.

O, poor man's son! scorn not thy state;
There is worse weariness than thine,
In merely being rich and great;
Toil only gives the soul to shine,
And makes rest fragrant and benign
A heritage, it seems to me,
Worth being poor to hold in fee.

Both heirs to some six feet of sod,
Are equal in the earth at last;
Both, children of the same dear God,
Prove title to your heirship vast
By record of a well filled past,
A heritage, it seems to me,
Well worth a life to hold in fee.

THE BRIDAL WINE-CUP.

"Pledge with wine—pledge wine," cried the young and thoughtless Harvey Wood. "Pledge with wine," ran through the bridal party.

The beautiful bride grew pale—the decisive hour had come. She pressed her white hands together and the leaves of the bridal wreath trembled on her brow; her breath came quicker and her heart beat wilder.

"Yes, Marion, lay aside your scruples for this once," said the judge in a low tone, going toward his daughter, "the company expect it. Do not so seriously infringe the rules of etiquette; in your own home do as you please; but in mine, for this once, please me."

Every eye was turned toward the bridal pair. Marion's principles were well known. Henry had been a convivalist, but of late his friends noticed the change in his manners, the difference in his habits—and to-night they watched him to see, as they sneeringly said, if he was tied down to a woman's opinion so soon.

Pouring a brimming cup, they held it with tempting smiles towards Marion. She was very pale, though more composed; and her hand shook not as, smiling back, she gracefully accepted the crystal tempter and raised it to her lips. But scarcely had she done so when every hand was arrested by her piercing exclamation of—"Oh! how terrible!"

"What is it!" cried one and all thronging together, for she had slowly carried the glass at arm's length, and was fixedly regarding it as though it were some hideous object.

"Wait," she answered, while a light which seemed inspired, shone from her dark eyes, "wait," and I will tell you. "I see," she added, slowly, pointing one jeweled finger at the sparkling ruby liquid—"a sight that beggars all description; and yet listen—I will paint it for you if I can. It is a lovely spot; tall mountains crowned with verdure rise in awful sublimity around; a river runs through, and bright flowers grow to the water's edge. There is a thick, warm mist, which the sun seeks vainly to pierce. Trees, lofty and beautiful, wave to the airy motion of the birds; but there a group of Indians gather; they flit too and fro, with something like sorrow upon their dark brows. And in their midst lies a manly form—but his cheek how deathly, his eye wild with the fitful fire of fever. One friend stands beside him—nay, I should say kneels, for see, he is pillowing that poor head upon his breast.

"Genius in ruins. Oh, the high, holy-looking brow! why should death mark it, and he so young? Look how he throws back the damp curls! see him clasp his hands! hear his thrilling shrieks for life! mark how he clutches at the form of his companion, imploring to be saved! Oh! hear him call piteously his father's name—see him twine his fingers together as he shrieks for his sister—his only sister—the twin of his soul—weeping for him in his distant native land.

"See!" she exclaimed, while the bridal party shrank back, the untasted wine trembling in their faltering grasp and the Judge fell overpowered upon his seat—"see! his arms are lifted to heaven—he preys, how wildly, for mercy! hot fever rushes through his veins. The friend beside him is weeping; awe-stricken the dark men move silently away and leave the living and dying together."

There was a hush in that princely parlor, broken only by what seemed a smothered sob from some manly bosom. The bride stood yet upright, with quivering lip and tears stealing to the outward edge of her lashes. Her beautiful arm had lost its tension and the glass, with its little troubled red waves, came slowly towards the range of her vision. She spoke again—every lip was mute. Her voice was low, faint, yet awfully distinct; she still fixed her sorrowful glance upon the wine-cup.

"It is evening now; the great white moon is coming up and his beams lay on his forehead. He moves not; his eyes are set in their sockets; dim are their piercing glances; in vain his friend whispers the name of father and sister—death is there. Death—and no soft hand, no gentle voice to bless and soothe him. His head sinks back—one convulsive shudder—he is dead!"

A groan ran through the assembly. So vivid was her description, so unearthly her look, so inspired was her manner, that what she described seemed actually to have taken place then and there. They noticed also that the bridegroom hid his face in his hands and was weeping.

"Dead!" she repeated again, her lips quivering faster and faster and her voice more and more broken; "and there they scoop him a grave; and there, without a shroud, they lay him down in that damp, reeking earth. The only son of a proud father, the only idolized brother of a fond sister. And he sleeps to-day in that distant country, with no stone to mark the spot. There he lies—my father's son—my own loved brother—a victim to this deadly poison. Father—oh, my father!"—turning suddenly, while the tears rained down her beautiful cheeks—"father, shall I drink it now?"

The form of the old Judge was convulsed with agony; he raised not his head, but in a smothered voice he faltered—"No, no, my child—no!"

She lifted the glittering goblet and letting it suddenly fall to the floor, it was dashed into a thousand pieces. Many a tearful eye watched her movement, and instantaneously every wine-glass was transferred to the marble table on which it had been prepared. Then, as she looked at the fragments of crystal, she turned to the company, saying, "Let no friend hereafter, who loves me, tempt me to peril my soul for wine. Not firmer are the everlasting hills than my resolve, God helping me, never to touch or taste the poison cup. And he to whom I have given my hand—who watched over my brother's dying form in that last solemn hour, and buried the dear wanderer there by the river, in that land of gold—will, I trust, sustain me in that resolve. Will you not, my husband?"

His glistening eye, his sad, sweet smile, was her answer. The Judge left the room and when, an hour after, he returned, and with a more subdued manner took part in the entertainment of the bridal guests, no one could fail to read that he, too, had determined to banish the enemy at once and forever from his princely home.

Those who were present at that wedding can never forget the impression so solemnly made. Many from that hour renounced forever the social glass.

DONALDSON.

The Aeronaut's Own Account of Some of His Ascensions, Showing Him to have been a Most Extraordinary Dare-Devil.

The Cincinnati Enquirer gives some interesting extracts from a diary left by Washington H. Donaldson, the ill-fated balloonist: In describing the thrilling and blood-curdling event that occurred in an ascension made from Norfolk, Va., on the 18th day of January, 1872, we will simply quote Donaldson's own words.

At 4:20, the balloon being full, the aeronaut stepped forward and grasped the trapeze bar, gave his orders to cast loose the ropes, when the balloon went up and off very rapidly: "The balloon ascended with a calm, steady motion. When about 300 feet high I went through with my performances. After being in the air about fifteen minutes I thought it was time to descend, and pulled the valve-rope to allow the gas to escape. The valve did not open, and I pulled again; it still remained closed; I had no time to lose, the ocean was near. I pulled led with both hands; again a failure. I then gave a strong, steady jerk. There was a sharp, hissing sound, as if made by the tearing of cloth, followed by a rushing noise; then I knew that the balloon had burst. The balloon did not collapse, being prevented from doing so by the rush of air from beneath, but closed up at the sides; the balloon, swaying from side to side, descended with frightful velocity. I clung with all my strength to the hoop; I could not tell how bad I was frightened, but I felt as though my hair had all been drawn out. I scarcely had time to realize that I was alive—I was so frightened; but with a crash, tearing and crushing, I was projected with the velocity of a catapult into a bur chestnut tree. The netting and rigging, catching in the tree, checked my velocity, and I had my grasp jerked loose, and was precipitated through the limbs, and landed flat upon my back, with my tights nearly torn off, and my legs, arms, and body lacerated and bleeding."

After his fall he soon rallied, and was himself again, and proceeded to immediately examine his balloon, when he discovered a rent extending from top to bottom. He packed it up, and left it with a Mr. Newman, and in his bruised condition walked five miles back to Norfolk.

On Jan. 22, 1872, Donaldson made another ascension from Norfolk in the balloon "Comet," but encountered the most fearful descent upon record where a man came out alive. We give the aeronaut's own account of his thrilling adventure:

"After cutting the basket loose the balloon darted up very rapidly. I pulled the valve-rope and opened the valve, but the gas escaped too slowly. I was then almost to the water's edge, and going at the rate of a mile a minute. Quick work must be done or a watery grave. I had either to cut a hole in the balloon or go to sea, and as there were no boats or vessels in sight I chose the lesser evil. Seizing three of the cords I swung out of the ring into the netting, the balloon careening on her side. I climbed half way up the netting, opened my knife with my teeth, and cut a hole about two feet long. The instant I cut the hole the gas rushed out so fast that I could scarcely get back to the ring. I came near being suffocated, but I managed to get back to the ring, though half stupefied. After reaching the ring I lashed myself fast to it with a rope. While I was cutting the hole in the side of the balloon my cap fell off, and so fast did I descend that before I got half way down I caught up with and passed the cap. Continuing to descend, I struck the ground in a large cornfield, and was dragged nearly a thousand feet, the wind blowing a perfect gale. Crashing against a rail fence, I was rendered insensible. When I came to I found myself hanging to one side of a tree and the balloon to the other side, ripped to shreds. I could have thrown a stone into the ocean from where I landed, and the tree on which I was a hanging was the last one on the land. After resting myself, I concluded to climb the tree and get the fragments of my balloon, but on attempting this feat one of the limbs of the tree broke, and I had a fall of about fifteen feet, knocking the breath out of me.

"On this trip I traversed ten miles in seven minutes; the balloon was emphatically in ribbons."

Donaldson thus describes an ascension which he made from Chillicothe, Ohio, April 29, 1872: "When the balloon was loosened I saw that it would strike against the wall of Lansing's drug-store, and I put my feet out; they struck the building with great violence. After striking the balloon rose, then the ring struck the wall and was almost doubled; passing over the roof I was dragged over the chimney, tearing off sixteen layers of brick. I was almost instantly hurled against a second chimney, tearing a number of bricks from that also. I thought once I would let loose and drop, but concluded to hold on as there were no more objects for me to come in contact with. I rose to the height of a mile or over. Finding myself much exhausted and bruised, I was not in a condition to go through my performance on the trapeze; I therefore concluded that for my own safety, the best thing I could do was to descend. In looking for the valve-rope to enable me to do this I was disappointed in finding it out of my reach, and it was with difficulty I could climb to the concentrating ring to reach it. I finally succeeded, however, and pulling the rope, descended rapidly, landing in a field belonging to a Mr. Bonner. The landing was very rough, and I rebounded three times, striking first a stone wall, then a tree, and then a fence, to which last I succeeded in fastening my trapeze rope. I was then driven in a carriage to the Emmitt House, physicians were called, and upon examination they found that my ankle was sprained, my leg scratched and bruised, and my shoulder badly injured. My injuries not being of a serious character, I was able to be out in a few days."

The daring air-navigator had another narrow escape from death during an ascension from Reading, Pa. We quote from the diary:

"As soon as I had fairly cleared the outskirts of the city I climbed up into the ring, took hold of the valve rope, and gave it a vigorous pull. It resisted my efforts for some time, until finally a strong jerk tore a hole in the silk, and the gas began escaping at a fearful rate. The balloon fell with appalling rapidity, the rent increasing as the gas escaped, until it was torn nearly three-fourths of the length of the balloon, and the latter was turned partially inside out. While thus falling with such velocity, the balloon, or rather the hoop and trapeze, struck the top of a large tree in the swamp in 'Buzzard Neck,' on Tanner's creek, which broke the force of the fall and let me down at a considerable less velocity, but still hard enough to give me a terrible shaking."

His account of an ascension from Chicago on the 4th of July, 1872, is the most thrilling of all. We give the story in his own words:

"I had no trouble in filling, and all was ready by half-past 11; the ropes were cut, and up I went, performing my feats upon the trapeze-bar. At the height of 1½ miles I was surrounded by large bodies of clouds, and beginning to suffer from the intense cold. Upon reaching the higher strata, I was carried eastward over Lake Michigan. Not knowing the geography of the country, I was afraid to cross the lake. I pulled the valve open quick, and tied it to the ring. It was fully twenty minutes after I pulled the valve before the balloon began to descend and struck the water. A heavy breeze was blowing that dragged me through the water rapidly enough to keep pace with an outward-going passenger train. Not knowing whether they saw me or not, I took out my pocket handkerchief, squeezed it as dry as I could, and waved it at them, and instantly it was responded to by a hundred handkerchiefs fluttering from the windows. I since learned that the interest manifested by the passengers was heartfelt and intense. As the cars ran into Kenwood Station the balloon approached the shore, driven at perilous speed. I was finally brought up against a stone pier, striking with fearful force, and bounded up only to come down again in the surf, where I was dragged like a bullet skipping the water to the shore, and landed upon a pile of stones, nearly breaking my ribs. I was numb and senseless from cold, and could not speak. I was picked up by the kind people and placed in bed, rubbed with dry towels, and kindly cared for. I soon rallied, and was enabled to reach Chicago that evening.

"The force of the water tore my traveling-bag open that I had tied to the ring, and a new suit of clothes and $120 in money was lost in the lake. I passed a propeller, and had I not been waist deep in the water I would have far eclipsed the train in speed."

Attacked by a Grizzly.

H. Wilburn, of the Sespe, on Wednesday night about 10 o'clock, while with his band of sheep on the east side of the Sespe, in the hills, heard his dog barking savagely at some object, but was not alarmed. Suddenly the dog came howling to him, with a bear immediately behind. He had no firearms, and no time to think what was best to do—and before he could even turn around was attacked and thrown, he thinks, about ten or fifteen feet. He fell upon a sharp rock and was severely cut in the hip. After falling the bear came upon him and scratched him badly about the abdomen and shoulders, but did not bite him. Wilburn remained perfectly quiet as if dead, and the bear hearing the dog barking at the cubs which she had left behind, ran off swiftly. He then hobbled home, about one mile distant. He has six or eight severe cuts on his body, and a dozen or more scratches and severe bruises. He will recover, but will be confined to his bed for several weeks. Wilburn says that if the dog had not attacked the cubs he would have been devoured.—Ventura (Col.) Signal.

A JACK rabbit was killed in Marshall county, Kan., the other day, which measured fourteen inches from ear-tip to ear-tip.—Lawrence Standard. If there is any Milwaukee editor traveling in Kansas, his family may as well put on mourning and send for the corpse, for the above item clearly shows that he has met with an untimely fate. "Gone to meet the Cincinnati jackass."—Chicago Times.

THE heat on the Southern Pacific railroad-grade, near the Colorado desert, is so intense that the thermometer often marks 120 degrees in the shade, when shade can be found. A considerable number of the laborers on the road have died of the heat. There is probably no other spot in the United States that can equal this.

LOST IN A CORNFIELD.

A Frenchman Loses Himself on an Illinois Farm.

We have received a report this morning from one of the townships in the eastern part of the county, adjoining the State of Indiana, and among other items of interest is the following, which illustrates in a striking manner not only the unequalled fertility of the soil of Illinois, but particularly the extreme growth which crops of all kinds have attained this season:

A Frenchman by the name of Cantell A. Goodlie, living in the French settlement, having occasion on Saturday last to visit his brother-in-law, living some five miles distant on the prairie, left home about 5 o'clock in the afternoon, and to save a considerable distance, attempted to shorten his walk by taking a cut-off through the intervening cornfields.

To those unaccustomed to seeing Illinois corn-fields, it may be well to say here that in that section of the country corn is almost the only crop raised over the whole extent of the country for miles and miles, and the country being comparatively young, there are but few fences or even hedges to mark the dividing line.

To the eye it is a sea of corn, and to Mr. Goodlie nearly proved a wilderness as dangerous as the trackless North woods.

Shortly after he left home a severe storm, such as we have had numbers of during the summer, arose and came driving down upon him, and he was drenched to the skin. The walking became fatiguing at every step; the earth, moistened by the rain, adhered to his boots in great quantities, until it became impossible for him to drag them after him. He took them off, and pushed on the best he could; but minute by minute the soil became softer until he sank nearly to his knees in the porous black earth. Night approached and darkness settled down upon the fields. He was miles from any habitation; wet, tired, and nearly exhausted; unable to get any landmark, however slight, by which he might be guided to home or friends. The tall corn waved over him, and its depths were impenetrable to his eyes, and he realized that he must pass the night in solitude as profound as if he were alone in the midst of an African jungle.

As he could no longer tell the direction to go, and could scarcely drag one foot in advance of the other, he gave up the hopeless attempt, and with a clasp-knife—his constant companion—cut down enough of the waving stalks to make him a bed and covering, and shivering with cold and exposure, he sank into a heavy sleep.

Night passed, and the glowing sun rose above the horizon and took its slow but tireless course along the trackless sky, and still he slept profoundly insensible to the passage of time. The second night sped by, and just as the gray light of early dawn was lighting up the world, he awoke. Confused by the light after his long sleep, although unaware that more than one night had gone by during his rest, he stumbled about in uncertainty for a few minutes, until, ascending a small hillock, he cast his eyes about and there beheld his own home within a few minutes' walk. In the darkness he had become confused, and instead of getting forward, had constantly crossed his own track, finally lying down within a stone's throw of his own fireside.

We can easily imagine with what eager haste he crossed the dividing space, for in his lonely condition the sight of a familiar face seemed an oasis in the desert of life. And great was his surprise at his wife and children greeting him as returned from the grave, for his protracted stay had made them fear that the lightning had struck him in his lonely path, and search had been at once instituted, but without any result, as they had not thought to search the adjacent cornfield. All hope was departing from them when he returned.—Joliet Sun.

Fast Horses.

But two horses have made any considerable reputation this year on the turf—Grinstead and Rutherford. Grinstead is the property of Puryear, a South Carolinian, residing in New York. In the great race with Rutherford, Wild Idle, Sprinkbok and Preakness, resulting in a dead heat between the last two, Grinstead was but a trifle behind them. Ten thousand dollars have been offered and refused for him. Rutherford is the brother of Fellowcraft, the great four-mile racer of last year. As frequently happens among gamblers and horses, Rutherford has been twice sold during the Saratoga meeting, first for $7,500, and next for $10,000; he will go to California with Springbok to compete for the $30,000 purse. Springbok was sold by old McDaniel for $15,000 to his partner Barnard; this is a price seldom received for a horse. Belmont gave $20,000 for Kentucky, and the great Lexington was first purchased for $2,500, next one-half was sold for $3,500, and the racer was finally bought by Alexander for $15,000. It is believed that Springbok, when retired from the turf, will become the greatest native sire of this racing period; his size, speed and pedigree are all first-class. He is an Australian colt out of a Lexington dam, with Glencoe blood in him, and Henry Clay was the owner of his parent some generations back. The amount of money made by horsemen this season has been very unequal. McDaniel has had poor luck; and his supporters, accustomed to back his horses heavily, are much disheartened. McGrath lost here much of his winnings at Jerome Park and Long Branch. Sanford has had fair luck. He sold his horse Brigand, which had superb parts, but no confidence in himself, and the next buyer filled the horse with whisky, by which he got drunk and ran away from the whole stable on two successive days, winning five times his value. Meanwhile, new adventurers on the turf, like Lorillard, have won enormously, and Belmont won three races in a single day. The camp followers, whose name is legion, have lost almost everything, while the book-makers and pool-sellers have had immense profits. About one hundred thousand dollars are laid out in French pool tickets on each day's races. You understand that system of betting; the horses are bought uniformly at $5 apiece, though there are also $25 tickets. Holders of tickets on the winner divide the gross sum, less five per cent., which the gambling association takes; this five per cent. makes $5,000, and twelve day's racing will net Morrissey, Reed and Spencer $60,000. Their percentage on the field pools, which are sold at auction, probably amounts to as much. Then Morrissey, as a "book-maker," will probably clear $50,000. A book-maker is one who individually bets certain odds that no horse will win. Probably one million of dollars is invested on the Saratoga races by wagerers of all classes, and this business is rapidly working out the old system of gambling at faro and roulette.—Saratoga Letter.

Useful Information.

THE ammoniacal solution of oxide of nickel will dissolve silk; that of copper dissolves cotton also.

RUNNING up and down stairs is woman-killing work, and should be avoided as much as possible by having one or more bedrooms below.

EQUAL weights of acetate of lime and chloride of calcium, dissolved in twice their weight of hot water, is a fire-proofing mixture for fabrics.

THE French method of administering castor oil to children is to pour the oil into a pan over a moderate fire; break an egg in it, and stir up; when it is done, add a little salt or sugar, or some currant jelly.

SAVE the corn cobs for kindlings, especially if wood is not going to be plentiful next winter. To prepare them melt together sixty parts resin and forty parts tar. Dip in the cobs, and dry on sheet metal heated to about the temperature of boiling water.

A DARK house is always an unhealthy, an ill-aired house, and a dirty house. Want of light stops growth and promotes scrofula, rickets, etc., among the children. People lose their health in a dark house; and if they become ill they cannot get well in it.

THE German washerwomen use a mixture of two ounces turpentine and one ounce spirits of ammonia well mixed together. This is put into a bucket of warm water, in which one-half pound of soap has been dissolved. The clothes are immersed twenty-four hours and then washed. The cleansing is said to be greatly quickened, and two or three rinsings in cold water remove the turpentine smell.

IN hot weather it is almost impossible to prevent the sinks becoming foul, unless some chemical preparation is used. One pound of copperas dissolved in four gallons of water, poured over a sink three or four times will completely destroy the offensive odor. As a disinfecting agent, to scatter around premises affected with any unpleasant odor, nothing is better than a mixture of four parts dry ground plaster of Paris to one part of fine charcoal, by weight. All sorts of glass vessels and other utensils may be effectually purified from offensive smells by rinsing them with charcoal powder, after the grosser impurities have been scoured off with sand and soap.

PROF. WILDER gives these short rules for action in case of accident: For dust in the eyes, avoid rubbing; dash water in them; remove cinders, etc., with the round point of a lead pencil. Remove insects from the ear by tepid water; never put a hard instrument into the ear. If an artery is cut compress above the wound; if a vein is cut compress below. If choked get upon all fours and cough. For light burns dip the part in cold water; if the skin is destroyed, cover with varnish. Smother a fire with carpets, etc.; water will often spread burning oil and increase the danger. Before passing through smoke take a full breath, and then stoop low, but if carbon is suspected, then walk erect. Suck poisonous wounds, unless your mouth is sore. Enlarge the wound, or better, cut the part out without delay. Hold the wounded part as long as can be borne to a hot coal, or end of a cigar. In case of poisoning, excite vomiting by tickling the throat, or by water or mustard. For acid poisons give acids; in case of opium poisoning give strong coffee and keep moving. If in water, float on the back with the nose and mouth projecting. For apoplexy, raise the head and body; for fainting, lay the person flat.

Fall Fashions.

DRESS MATERIALS.

Nothing is called for this season but black, the darkest shades of navy blue, invisible green, and brown. There are some slate and iron grays which will sell later, because they afford so fine a background to the fashionable cardinal scarlet, and later still invisible green, the choicest of all dark shades, will come to the front, but for early buyers there is nothing but navy blue and different shades of brown, the darkest being considered the most desirable.

TIED BACK SKIRTS.

Skirts are tied back as tight as ever, and there is no immediate prospect of emancipation. A plain walking-skirt does not now measure more than three yards round at the bottom. The front and side breadths are gored so that they can be set on the bands perfectly plain, leaving all the fullness to be massed into three inches at the back. The demi-trained skirts are wider. These have gores set in so that they form a fan-shape or peacock's tail, which is spread over a new and peculiar tournure, a distension very narrow at the waist and almost flat, but which gradually swells out until it acquires its greatest depth and width at the bottom of the skirt. The objection to these tournures is that they ought not to be worn going up-stairs, and cannot be worn in the street without the risk of a shocking contretemps.

AUTUMN HATS.

All the new hats for autumn day wear are of very dark or very light felt, a finished felt nearly as rich as velvet. The shapes as yet do not materially differ from those which have preceded them. They are, at least some of them, smaller, the crowns lower and more oval, the brims straight or rolled instead of being turned sharply back. In the very dark shades, with their beautiful trimmings of serge or natte silk, velvet, and feathers, they are very handsome and very becoming. The new Russian lace is much used in conjunction with flowers as well as feathers upon the imported hats and bonnets, but these are for early use as patterns and models, and afford little indication of what the later winter styles will be.—New York Graphic.

EPITHALAMIAN OBITUARIES.

[A correspondent of the New York Graphic, having grown weary of the obituary poetry now so prevalent, contributes to that paper a new style of epithalamium:]

John Jones has married Mandy Smith,
His face no more we'll see,
Amanda's mother wanted him
Her son-in-law to be.
Gone to get his hair pulled.

Dearest Thomas, thou hast left us,
And thy loss we deeply feel;
Mary Ann of thee bereft us,
And her mother [illegible]
Gone to [illegible] plaster.

We had a large-sized Johnny once,
Who used to take his tod;
He'll never take a drink again,
For mother-in-law has thrown the [illegible]
Into the [illegible]
Gone [illegible] feet in [illegible]

Put away the colored meerschaum
That our Johnnie used to wear;
He again will never use it,
Mother-in-law the thing can't bear.
Gone to buy a cradle.

Once we had a fragrant blossom
[illegible]
A young [illegible]
For to make it [illegible]
Gone to meet his mother-in-law.

Pith and Point.

A LUMINARY for impetuous individuals—A rush light.

WHEN a hog roots in a snow bank its nose knows snows.

WHY does a cat run after a rat? Because the rat runs away from it.

JAY GOULD has a baby two months old, and it is said that she can't squall for over fifteen cents on the dollar.

"YOU look as fine as a hired girl!" is the compliment a Hudson miss of tender years paid her mother the other day.

"WAS not her death quite sudden?" said a condoling friend to a bereaved widower. "Well, yes, rather, for her!"

A BLIND English mendicant wears this inscription round his neck: "Don't be ashamed to give only a half-penny; I can't see."

"CHARITY begins at home" is well defined by a little Sunday-school child as "giving to others what we don't want ourselves."

IT is a great comfort to bald-headed men in these red-hot, star-spangled, centennial days, to reflect that the eagle, too, is bald-headed. Style is nohair.

A MAN never knows what it is to feel alone in the world until he has grabbed at a penny on a show-case window and discovered that it is fastened to the lower surface of the glass.

"YESTERDAY afternoon," says a Tennessee paper, "the handsome Miss Jennie Taylor was borne to the cemetery before a large concourse of grieving men, women, and vehicles."

FEMININE LOGIC.—Precise old aunt—"It's no use, Emily; I should never alter my opinion of the young man, not if you were to convince me ever so much. I don't like him, and even wild horses couldn't make me."

A VILLAGE pedagogue, in despair with a stupid boy, pointed to the letter A and asked him if he knew it. "Yes, sir." "Well, what is it?" "I know him very well by sight, sir—but rat me if I can remember his name."

HERE is an aquatic fancy: An ingenious milliner is decorating the ladies' bonnets with prepared seaweed—far more beautiful than artificial flowers.—Fashion Note. Glad to hear it; because, you see, weed give anything for a change.—Albany Argus.

THE story that Mrs. Sartoris' infant had cut his first tooth is denounced by an exchange as "tooth in." It was, in fact, tooth O lessly accepted as likely. Alas! the little lady still knows "how sharper than a serpent's thank it is to 'ave a toothless child."—Inter-Ocean.

EVEN after the appearance of this verse in his paper, George W. Childs says that he is no poet:

"A cherry, incompletely ripe,
His little business did for him;
And now, serenely free from gripe,
He is a bob-tailed cherubim."

DOWN the river road when a boy of 5 or 6 leaves the house his mother asks: "Going away, Bill?" "Yaas." "Where?" "Down to play on the saw-logs." "Well, young man, I want to tell you in advance that if you go down on them logs and fool around and fall in and get drowned I'll lick the life out of you!" "Yum," answers Bill, and he wanders away.—Detroit Free Press.

Some Fat Men.

They had a fat men's clam-bake at Norwalk the other day, and this is what the newspaper says of them: The fat men came down upon Norwalk yesterday like the hippopotami on the fold, and the sands trembled beneath their tread. They numbered but a little above one hundred, and they weighed considerably more than twelve tons. When they sat down to meat, five of them to each table, that accommodates ten thinner mortals, their trencher performances by no means belied their fat and hungry looks. Having, in defiance of a venerable precedent, devoured such comparatively lean kine as mutton and fowls and roasting-ears which had first been set before them, they proceeded to business with due gravity. A truly great and probably truly good man (for the acute delineator of Falstaff included one fat man among the three good men unhanged in all England, and made Cæsar sigh for an entourage of pinguid patriots), wearing all his weight of 369 pounds lightly as a flower, was made president and received the cane, a staff fit for the mast of some great admiral, while over a ton and a half of vice-presidents, eleven in number, were chosen to aid him in emergency with counsel of weight. After this the audience threaded the mytic mazes of the dance to the heavy fantastic toe, and departed homeward, it is needless to state, by "a special train."

OLD Dr. A—— was a quack, and very ignorant. On one occasion he was called by mistake to attend a council of physicians in a critical case. After considerable discussion, the opinion was expressed by one that the patient was convalescent. When it came to Dr. A——'s turn to speak, he said, "Convalescent! Why, that's nothing serious; I have cured convalescence in twenty-four hours!"

THE fire insurance companies of the country have lost $26,000,000 in six months.

THE BLACK HILLS.

The Grand Council to Negotiate for Their Purchase—How the Indian Ring Has Been Magnifying the Red Skins' Ideas of Remuneration—They Now Want Over a Hundred Millions for Their Title.

[Cheyenne Correspondence of the Chicago Tribune.]

The Sioux Indian Commission arrived here, and will leave by special conveyance to-morrow for Red Cloud Agency, where the council will be held with the dusky dead-beats now fattening upon the bounty of the government. There will be nearly 25,000 of them present in person, all of whom will be fed to gorge during the pendency of the negotiations. The work of the Commission promises to be far more difficult than was first supposed, from several reasons. The Indian ring has been discovered figuring extensively in the matter among the Indians, and the object is very plain. The first reports from the Indians were to the effect that but a small price would be asked for the ceding of the Black Hills and Big Horn country, but that tune has been changed since the agents and understrappers of the ring have gone through the tribes. Now, not less than seven millions will be asked as a bonus, and to which an attempt will be made to add the additional tax of a full suit of clothing for each Sioux—man, woman and child—yearly, and sustenance for the same, for the period of fifty years.

This is certainly "cheeky," even for the Indian Ring; but will make its demand through the ones from whom it steals and fattens with a vigor that is appalling to honest men and taxpayers throughout the country. Notwithstanding that certain great efforts have been made to put an end to the wrong-doing that has been going on at the various posts, the same old work of "addition, division, and silence" moves right along as of yore, and pockets that once were as lean as the fabled kine now puff out with the fatness of wealth, stolen in the process of humanizing and civilizing the Indian, whose untutored mind takes only kindly to that which is closely akin to the devilish. The ring-paid scribblers and papers will slosh on the usual amount of whitewash, but facts that I have gathered on this matter will make some good people rub the dust of blind faith from their eyes, and quietly use expressive adjectives.

What I have above given is the news that comes to me direct from several agencies, and the thundering professions of reform of these abuses are considered by all not in the employ of the powerful ring as entirely "too thin" to be preached. The object, then, that the ring has in prevailing upon the redskins to hold out for an enormous price is apparent. The more annuities and goods granted that it handles, the better for it; and the longer the time agreed to, just so much longer can the stealing silently proceed. To aid in this matter, every "Indian" man is heard constantly prating about the untold richness of the mines—duplicating the reports of Prof. Jenney three or four fold—all this to get up a breeze near the Commission that shall have its proper influence, and that in favor of a fat and flowing stream of rich annuities. A treaty of the kind above named would foot up enormously, estimated at present rates, and in the aggregate be not less than one hundred and ten millions!

No wonder that about all the interpreters of the Sioux find it convenient just now to go up to the Agency, ostensibly to see the grand pow-wow, but known in private as workers among the easily prejudiced scalp-lifters for the Big Bonanza treaty. How well the effort will succeed remains to be seen; but I am of the opinion that the trouble with the hungry cormorants will be serious. They will strike a snag in the Commission of such dimensions that will either cause the adoption of a treaty fair alike for the people and the paupers, or defeat any negotiations of the character named as particularly settled by the ring, and, perhaps, by the obstinacy of the Indians, a failure entirely.

There is danger of a failure in making a treaty, and, should that happen, troublesome times will be upon the country north of this. With many among the tribes circulating all kinds of fabulous stories concerning the gold in the Hills, and the elevation of the ideas of the Indian to ring-mark, a disappointment would lead to fighting. Gen. Crook is of the opinion that the Sioux desire just that sort of a performance; and, furthermore, that a good, sound drubbing, is the only thing that will make the insolent fellows keep their proper station. In the spring not less than 30,000 miners will go into the Hills, whether a treaty is made or not, and the efforts of the handful of troops now scattered through that section would prove entirely abortive in keeping them out. Then it would be "nip and tuck" between the miners and the savages, and the miners would hold their own, and the Hills too.

Donaldson's Sweetheart.

By this time we had strayed around to where the ladies were mounting their glossy thoroughbreds for a race in the ring. Thomas introduced me to several of these bespangled damsels, with one of whom, a Miss Taylor, I was conversing, when I heard the voice of Dan. Castello roaring in the big tent. Stepping to the entrance I caught the announcement that a dispatch had been received that Grimwood's body had been found in Lake Michigan. "Don't tell Miss Taylor," said Thomas to the surrounding athletes and houris. "She thinks of Donaldson." But already she had pressed forward on her handsome gray, and was demanding to know what the announcement was. When the question was evaded her eagerness increased, for her suspicions were aroused. She was to have married Donaldson a month ago. At last they had to tell her, and the poor girl leaned upon the mare's mane and deluged it with tears. She writhed with agony in her beautiful jacket of scarlet silk, and presently she jumped down and ran into a covered wagon, where she could have a cry all to herself. After a little respectful delay, during which the audience waited and wondered what was the matter, the ladies' hurdle race was called. Miss Taylor came forth, mounted the gray and won the race. All of the five, in their colored bodices and gay streamers, seemed to be doing their utmost, but I wondered if any of the competitors let their horses lag a little in order to give victory to the sad-faced rider whose eyes were fixed upon her lover's body drifting alone upon the lake of storms.—St. Paul Correspondence New York Graphic.

African Cannibals.

At a late meeting of the French Geographical Society, Col. Chaille-Long-Bey, of the Egyptian army, gave an account of his perilous explorations of the Upper Nile. The narrator, who is a young man of French origin, penetrated as far as the country of Niam-Niam. The tribe who people those regions are for the most part cannibals. In one, where neither a white man nor a horse had been seen, he was the cause of immense astonishment, mingled with superstitious fear, and was, in fact, taken for a centaur. By the aid of his interpreter, he asked for an interview with their chief. The latter being informed of the presence of this stranger, received him in the royal hut, and the traveler had the signal honor of sitting by the side of the negro King. Whilst the Colonel and His Majesty exchanged words of friendship, loud cries were heard outside. These proceeded from thirty poor wretches who had been ordered to be decapitated in honor of the visitor. In reflecting that he was the cause of the death of so many victims, the young traveler's feelings revolted against the barbarous custom; but as he was among savages, his own safety depended on not showing his indignation, even in his countenance. The black King offered him a dozen women, which he refused. Nevertheless, wishing to have some proof of his visit, he selected a youth of a dozen years of age, whom he persuaded to follow him, and made the same proposition to a young girl. "I want very much to go with you," she said, "but it must be on condition that you will not eat me." Col. Chaille-Long was attacked at Urobli by the tribe which, in 1872, had fought against Sir Samuel Baker, causing him serious loss. The intrepid voyager was in a canoe, accompanied by two soldiers and some servants. A flotilla composed of boats of rude form, in which the negroes were packed like herrings, advanced to the encounter. The chieftain was at the head, lance in hand. As soon as they were within range the Colonel, armed with revolvers, as were also his men, gave orders to fire. The negro leader, struck by an explosive bullet, fell dead. Each projectile made a victim among their assailants, who finally decided to retreat, after having lost eighty-two of their number. When at the extreme limit of his explorations, Col. Chaille-Long perceived a curtain of smoke, which appeared to indicate that the country beyond was peopled by other tribes, but all is yet mystery concerning those unexplored regions.

A Fat Grave-Yard.

At a vestry meeting at East and West Looe, Cornwall, on Saturday, the chairman, Rev. H. Mayo, Vicar of Talland, described the state of the church-yard at Talland, which is the burial place for West Looe. Over 8,000 bodies have been interred, he said, in a little more than a half an acre of ground. The usual depth of graves was about four and a half feet deep, deeper graves being out of the question owing to the friable nature of the soil, which was being continually turned over. There are no spaces between the graves, and whenever a person had to be buried the remains of others had of necessity to be disturbed. The sexton had a curious mode of determining whether or not he would be safe in opening any particular spot. He drove a long iron bar down to the requisite depth, and if he met with no substantial obstacle, the grave was dug. Only last week, the chairman said, he saw a woman beside a newly-opened grave in bitter distress, because the remains of the dear to her had been ruthlessly dug up and exposed. The repeated burials had raised the soil to such an extent that the church appeared to be in a pit, and the polluted atmosphere rendered the sacred edifice unfit for public service. There was constantly oozing from the graves in the higher part of the yard a horrible slime, which came on the floor of the belfry. He was obliged to keep disinfectants for the safety of the ringers. Fresh primroses, which were gathered and placed in the church for decoration on Easter Saturday, were almost black by the following evening, and a scientific friend had told him it was owing to the presence of sulphuretted hydrogen in the atmosphere in such quantities as would endanger human life. On Ash Wednesday so fetid was the air in the church that the congregation was obliged to withdraw.—London Times.

The Excessive Rainfall and Its Cause.

The amount of rain which has fallen in this city during the present month is already nearly ten inches, and the heavy storm clouds have not yet disappeared from the sky. Any explanation of the cause of so extraordinary a downfall of rain is interesting. The officer in charge of the Signal Bureau in New York says, according to a morning journal, that two months ago winds were observed blowing across the Gulf of Mexico into the Southern States. These winds carried with them great quantities of moisture, and, passing over the Apalachian range to the Alleghany mountains, forced the moisture into a colder stratum of air, where it was condensed and converted into rain. The southerly winds which have prevailed recently have, according to this explanation, wafted the rain clouds northward to our shores. It is satisfactory to learn from the same authority that a cool atmospheric wave is advancing toward us from the northwest, and that there is a prospect of cooler and dryer weather in store for us.—New York Evening Post.

Good News from Washington City.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE,
WASHINGTON, Aug. 23, 1875.

WILSON SEWING MACHINE COMPANY, Cleveland, Ohio:

There have been received at this department a MEDAL and a DIPLOMA awarded to WILSON SEWING MACHINE COMPANY, as an exhibitor at the Universal Exposition, held at Vienna in 1873.

I will thank you to inform me what disposition you desire to have made of them. The department will deliver then to such agent as you may suggest, or to Adams Express Company, addressed as you may indicate upon the return to the department of the inclosed receipt, duly signed. When the same are delivered in either way the responsibility of the department will terminate.

Your obedient servant,
W. HUNTER, Acting Secretary.

SAFE, PERMANENT AND COMPLETE!—Wilhoft's Tonic cures Chills and Fever, Dumb Chills and Bilious Fevers—those Titans that kill their thousands where this remedy is unknown. It cures Enlargement of the Spleen. It cures Hypertrophy of the Liver. It hurts no one. It cures all types of Malarial Fevers, and is perfectly protective in all its effects. Try Wilhoft's Tonic, the great infallible Chill Cure. WHEELOCK, FINLAY & CO., Proprietors, New Orleans.
FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

THE most astonishing cure of chronic diarrhea we ever heard of is that of Wm. Clark, Frankfort Mills, Waldo county, Me.; the facts are attested by Ezra Treat, Upton Treat and M. A. Merrill, either of whom might be addressed for particulars. Mr. Clark was cured by Johnson's Anodyne Liniment.

HON. JOSEPH FARWELL, Mayor of Rockland, Me.; Isaac M. Bragg, Bangor, and Messrs. Pope Bros., Machias, Me., lumber merchants, fully indorsed the Sheridan's Cavalry Condition Powders, and have given the proprietor liberty to use their names in recommending them.

HOW TO GET A HOME. See advertisement.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP, FOR THE CURE OF CONSUMPTION, COUGHS AND COLDS.

The great virtue of this medicine is that it ripens the matter and throws it out of the system, purifies the blood, and thus effects a cure.

SCHENCK'S SEA WEED TONIC, FOR THE CURE OF DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, ETC.

The Tonic produces a healthy action of the stomach, creating an appetite, forming chyle, and curing the most obstinate cases of indigestion.

SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS, FOR THE CURE OF LIVER COMPLAINT, ETC.

These Pills are alterative and produce a healthy action of the liver without the least danger, as they are free from calomel and yet more efficacious in restoring a healthy action of the liver.

These remedies are a certain cure for Consumption, as the Pulmonic Syrup ripens the matter and purifies the blood. The Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, create a healthy bile, and remove all diseases of the liver, often a cause of Consumption. The Sea Weed Tonic gives tone and strength to the stomach, makes a good digestion, and enables the organs to form good blood; and thus creates a healthy circulation of healthy blood. The combined action of these medicines, as thus explained, will cure every case of Consumption, if taken in time, and the use of the medicines persevered in.

Dr. Schenck is professionally at his principal office, corner Sixth and Arch Streets, Philadelphia, every Monday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. Schenck's medicines for sale by all Druggists.

SILVER TIPPED SHOES — Ragged stockings and protruding toes are not seen on the feet where SILVER TIPS are worn. Parents remember this, they last twice as long. Also, try Wire Quilted Soles.

Something for everybody. Cable Screw Wire — CABLE SCREW WIRE. Boots and Shoes, elegant, durable, easy, and keep the feet dry. Also, try Wire Quilted Soles.

WANTED AGENTS. Samples and Outfit free. Better than Gold. A. COULTER & CO., Chicago.

$12 a day at home. Agents wanted. Outfit and terms free. Address TRUE & CO., Augusta, Maine.

EVERY FAMILY WANTS IT. Money in it. Sold by Agents. Address M. N. LOVELL, Erie, Pa.

ON SALARY only. Agents wanted, Male and Female. Address, G. B. Christian, Marion, Ohio.

$5 to $20 a day at home. Samples worth $1 sent free. STINSON & CO., Portland, Me.

$10 ≥ $25 per day. Send for Chromo Catalogue. J. H. BUFFORD'S SONS, Boston, Mass.

STAR OF THE WEST, the best Strawberry. 3 Millions of trees and plants at Pomona Nursery. Send for Circular. WM. PARRY, Cinnaminson, N. J.

Guns — Catalogue Free. Rudolph & Co., 1018 N. 5th St. Louis, Mo.

AGENTS, 20 ELEGANT OIL CHROMOS, mounted, size 9x11 for $1; 140 for $5. Largest variety in the world. National Chromo Co., PHILADELPHIA.

SWEET POTATOES. HOW to keep them through the winter. Information of great value in this pamphlet. By mail, 50 cts. P. UNDERWOOD, Lawrence, Kansas.

REVOLVERS! The New BUFFALO BILL REVOLVER for only $4—Immense sale. Circular Free. WESTERN GUN WORKS, CHICAGO, Ill.

CLARK'S BOOK-KEEPING. Self-instructive. Short method. Price $1.00, postpaid. Send for Circular. W. S. CLARK & CO., 143 Race Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

GEO. P. ROWELL & CO.

OPIUM and Morphine habit absolutely and speedily cured. Painless; no publicity. Send stamp for particulars. Dr. Carlton, 187 Washington St., Chicago, Ill.

$490 A MONTH and EXPENSES to all. Articles new, staple as flour. Samples free. C. LININGTON, NEW YORK or CHICAGO.

$250 A MONTH—Agents wanted everywhere. Business honorable and first class. Particulars sent free. Address WORTH & CO., St. Louis, Mo.

DOUBLE YOUR TRADE. Druggists, Grocers and Dealers—Pure China and Japan Teas, in sealed packages, screw-top cans, boxes, or half chests—Grocers' prices. Send for circular. THE WELLS TEA COMPANY, 201 Fulton-st., N. Y.—P. O. Box 4560.

CINCINNATI DOLLAR WEEKLY STAR. An Independent Family Newspaper. 8 Pages. 48 Columns of Reading. Specimen Copy FREE. $1 Per YEAR. Free of Postage. Address The "STAR" CO., Cincinnati, Ohio.

YOUNG MEN Wanted to learn Telegraphing and take offices on new lines which we are furnishing with operators. Salary from $40 to $100 per month. Particulars mailed free. Address N.W. TELEGRAPH INSTITUTE, Janesville, Wis.

GOLD and SILVER.—Every one thinking of going West, desiring a good HOME AND FORTUNE, will obtain PAPERS and INFORMATION how the same may be secured, by addressing, with stamp inclosed, ROSAN & CO., Box 144, Hutchinson, Reno Co., Kan.

FOR SALE. Chicago Suburban Lots at $100 each, $15 down and $5 monthly for balance, within a short distance of City Limits, with hourly trains and cheap fare. Send for circulars. IRA BROWN, 142 LaSalle-st., Chicago, Ill.

AGENTS WANTED for Dr. March's Great Work, NIGHT SCENES IN THE BIBLE, and a magnificent NEW BOOK just from Press. Address, J. C. McCURDY & CO., Chicago, Ill.

THIS Paper is printed with Ink made by G. B. Kane & Co., 121 Dearborn Street, Chicago, and for sale by us in large or small quantities. CHICAGO NEWSPAPER UNION, 114 Monroe Street, Chicago, Ill.

PENNSYLVANIA Military Academy, Chester, Pa. Opens Sept. 8th. Civil Engineering, the Classics, English and Military Art thoroughly taught. For circulars apply to COL. THEO. HYATT, President.

F. J. NASH, 781 BROADWAY, New York, manufacturer of SOLID GOLD JEWELRY of every description. The stock is large, very choice, and is offered at retail at trade prices to keep our workmen going. Bills under $15, P.O. order in advance. Over $15, C.O.D. privilege to examine. Catalogues free.

AGENTS WANTED. All men out of employment can make large wages selling Haskell's Maps, Charts, Pictures and Frames. The latest and best selling Maps and Charts in the country. Address the proprietors, O. G. Haskell & Co., 64 Lake-st., Chicago.

WANTED AGENTS FOR THE best-selling Prize Package in the world. It contains 15 Sheets Paper, 15 Envelopes, Golden Pen, Pen Holder, Pencil, Patent Yard Measure, and a Piece of Jewelry. Single Package, with elegant Prize, post-paid, 25 cents. Circular free. BRIDE & CO., 769 Broadway, New York.

PIERCE WELL AUGER. Company offers $1,000 to any one that will successfully compete with them in boring a 20-inch well, through soapstone and sandstone, and in taking up and passing bowlders and loose stones. Agents wanted in every State. $25 PER DAY GUARANTEED. Send for Catalogue. Free. Address CHAS. D. PIERCE, Peru, Illinois.

HOW TO GET A HOME. IOWA LANDS, 800,000 ACRES. Rich Soil, good Climate, excellent Water, growing Settlements, good Schools. We offer the Lands of the Sioux City and St. Paul R. R. and the McGregor and Missouri River R. R. at $4 to $8 per acre, on easy payments. Two years rent will buy a farm. Apply to DAVIDSON & CALKINS, R. R. Land Office, Sibley, Osceola Co., Iowa.

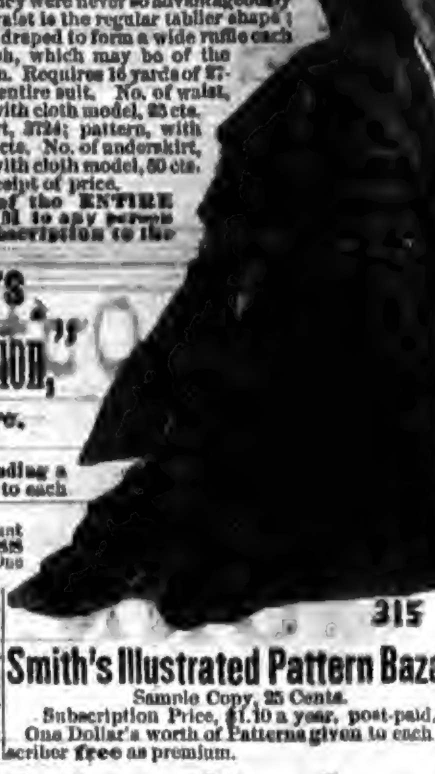
Pleasant and Profitable Employment.—"Beautiful!" "Charming!" "Oh, how lovely!" "What are they worth?" &c. Such are exclamations by those who see the large elegant new Chromos produced by the European and American Chromo Publishing Co. They are all perfect gems of art. No one can resist the temptation to buy when seeing the Chromos. It requires no talking to sell the pictures, they speak for themselves. Canvassers, Agents and ladies and gentlemen out of employment, will find this the best opening ever offered to make money. For full particulars, send stamp for confidential circular. Address F. GLEASON & CO., 738 Washington St., Boston, Mass.

FASHIONS and GOLD COIN PRESENTS!

Smith's "Instant Dress Elevator." This CUT shows the Upper Part of the Skirt (wrong side out), with the "Elevator" fixed in. You can raise your skirt while passing a muddy place, and then let it fall, or you can keep it raised. It Looped the skirt in a Tasteful and Fashionable Manner. It draws the fullness to the back, making the "straight front." It Saves more than Ten Times its Cost. It can be changed from One Dress to another. Price, 40 cents each. Mailed.

No. 315. This Costume wins the admiration of all. It is one of those styles that is sure to please, especially as it is appropriate for any material, and requires less goods to make than any other suit of equal beauty. It is one of the leading costumes of our city. The stout lady will find it possesses just the secret charm that improves her figure, while the slight or perfect form may feel they were never so advantageously attired. The waist is the regular tablier shape; the overskirt is draped to form a wide ruffle each side of the sash, which may be of the same, or Ribbon. Requires 16 yards of 27-inch goods for entire suit. No. of waist, 3793; pattern, with cloth model, 25 cts. No. of overskirt, 3724; pattern, with cloth model, 25 cts. No. of underskirt, 3795; pattern, with cloth model, 30 cts. Mailed on receipt of price.

OR the Patterns and Cloth Models of the ENTIRE SUIT will be GIVEN FREE as PREMIUM to any person who sends $1.10 to us, as one year's subscription to the "PATTERN BAZAAR."



315

A. BURDETTE SMITH'S
Monthly "World of Fashion,"
FINE ARTS and POLITE Literature.
Single Copies 25 Cents.

Subscription Price, $3 a year, post-paid, including a premium of Two Dollars' worth of patterns free to each subscriber.

We send our CERTIFICATES for this amount upon receipt of subscription. (TWO of our DRESS ELEVATORS will be given IN PLACE of One Dollar's worth of Patterns, if desired).

The "MONTHLY WORLD OF FASHION," the very finest, most beautiful, attractive magazine to be found in this country, and every person who begins with taking it, will NEVER discontinue it while it is published.

Smith's Illustrated Pattern Bazaar
Sample Copy, 25 Cents.
Subscription Price, $1.10 a year, post-paid, One Dollar's worth of Patterns given to each subscriber free as premium.

$4,500.00 in Gold Coin to Give Away!

We will give $2,000.00 in GOLD COIN to 65 persons who send us the largest number of subscribers to our "World of Fashion," at $3 each, before March 5, 1876.

As follows: To the Getter-up of the Largest Club	$300.00	in Gold Coin.

2d Largest Club	200.00	in Gold Coin.
3d Largest Club	150.00	in Gold Coin.
4th Largest Club	130.00	in Gold Coin.
5th Largest Club	120.00	in Gold Coin.
6th Largest Club	110.00	in Gold Coin.
7th Largest Club	100.00	in Gold Coin.
8th Largest Club	75.00	in Gold Coin.
9th Largest Club	50.00	in Gold Coin.
10th Largest Club	35.00	in Gold Coin.
11th Largest Club	25.00	in Gold Coin.

and so on to the 65th Largest Club.

We will give $2,500.00 in GOLD COIN to 133 persons who send us the largest number of subscribers to our "Bazaar," at $1.10 each, before March 1, 1876.

As follows: To the Getter-up of the Largest Club	$200.00	in Gold Coin.

2d Largest Club	200.00	in Gold Coin.
3d Largest Club	150.00	in Gold Coin.
4th Largest Club	125.00	in Gold Coin.
5th Largest Club	100.00	in Gold Coin.
6th Largest Club	75.00	in Gold Coin.
7th Largest Club	50.00	in Gold Coin.
8th Largest Club	25.00	in Gold Coin.
9th Largest Club	25.00	in Gold Coin.
10th Largest Club	25.00	in Gold Coin.
11th Largest Club	25.00	in Gold Coin.

and so on to the 133d largest Club.

YOU get a premium for every subscriber you send us. AND every subscriber gets a premium. BOTH of these Gold Coin Presents offers will be found at full length in the September Number, besides the names and P. O. addresses of 102 persons to whom we have just paid $2,135.00 in Gold, according to our previous offers. You can write to one or all of them, and they will tell you that we do exactly as we promise.

YOUR BEST way is to send your own subscription to either of our Magazines, when you will get the first number and your Certificates of Premiums, which you can show, and at once begin getting subscribers, or send 25 cents for one copy. Send Stamp for Fashion Catalogue.

A. BURDETTE SMITH,
P. O. Box 5055. 914 Broadway, New-York City.

Chicago Business Directory.

AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS.
CHICAGO SCRAPER & DITCHER CO., 36 LaSalle.
AWNINGS, TENTS, TWINES AND CORDAGE.
GILBERT, HUBBARD & CO., 202 to 208 South Water.
BAKING POWDER AND EXTRACTS.
DR. PRICE'S, Steele & Price M'f'rs, 201 & 203 S. Water, Chicago, 204 N. 2d, St. Louis, 244 Main, Cincinnati.
BANNERS AND GLASS SHOW-CARD WRITERS.
MUNN & DRUM, 215 W. Madison.
BOOTS AND SHOES—AUCTION AND COMMISSION.
JAS. P. McNAMARA & CO., 27 E. Washington.
CANNED FRUITS AND CRYSTAL LAKE PICKELS.
F. A. WAIDNER, 45 and 47 River.
COWING'S DRIVE AND WELL PUMPS, &c.
DOWNER & WOOLNER, 98 and 100 Franklin.
CROCKERY, CHINA AND GLASSWARE.
ABRAM FRENCH & CO., 101 and 103 Wabash av.
ENGRAVER, SEALS, PRESSES, STEEL AND BRASS STAMPS, STENCIL TOOLS AND STOCK.
C. H. HANSON, 38 South Clark.
ENGRAVERS.
S. D. CHILDS, JR., & CO., 115 Franklin.
ENGRAVER, DIE SINKER & MANFR. OF STENCILS.
L. BOCHE, 171 E. Randolph.
FLOWERS AND STRAW GOODS—SPECIALTY.
DALY, HENROTIN & CO., 144 and 146 Wabash-av.
FURNITURE.
A. L. HALE & BRO., 200, 202, 204 and 206 Randolph.
GRASS SEEDS.
ALBERT DICKINSON, 117 Kinzie.
GUNS—CUTLERY MANUFACTURERS.
W. E. SPENCER & CO., 54 State. Send for price-list.
HARDWARE AND CUTLERY—WHOLESALE.
EDWIN HUNT & SONS, 58 and 60 Lake.
HEAVY HARDWARE—WHOLESALE.
KIMBARK BROS. & CO., 80 to 84 Michigan-av.
HOTELS.
WOOD'S HOTEL, 116 & 118 Fifth-av. Enoch Wood, prop., late proprietor of Wood's Hotel, State-st.
BREVOORT HOUSE, 143 and 145 E. Madison. On the European plan. H. M. Thompson, proprietor.
METROPOLITAN HOTEL—$2.50 per day. Cor. State & Wash'n, site of old St. James, opp. Field, Leiter & Co.
OGDEN HOUSE—First class in every particular. Barber & Ferrey, prop'rs. Cor. Washington and Franklin.
WOOD'S HOTEL, 34 & 36 Washington. O. Sands, prop. Price $2 per day. G. S. Palmer (late City Hotel), clerk.
LUMBER.
THE PESHTIGO CO.—Green Bay Lumber. North Pier. W. E. Strong, Pres't; G. C. Hempstead, Sec'y.
MNFRS. OF WARWICKSHIRE AND COLUMBIA SAUCES, IMPORTED CATSUPS, FLAVORING EXTRACTS.
LEWIS & CO., 163 E. Kinzie. Send for price-list.
REAL ESTATE.
JAS. B. GOODMAN & CO., 73 Dearborn.
SAW MANUFACTURERS.
HENRY DISSTON & SON, N.W. cor. Randolph & Market
SEWING MACHINE COMPANIES.
HOME S. M. CO., Johnson, Clark & Co., 141 State.
WASHING MACHINES.
For Circulars, etc., address CALKINS CHAMPION Washer Co., 207 Clark. Agents wanted everywhere.
WATCHES, JEWELRY AND JEWELERS' SUPPLIES.
COGSWELL, WEBER & CO., 106 and 107 State.

WORK that PAYS: $150 per Month is made by Agents selling our splendid assortment of NEW Maps and Pictures. Catalogue free. E. C. BRIDGMAN, 5 Barclay St., New York, and 179 West 4th St., Cincinnati, O.

SEA FOAM — F. & F. Rice & Co., Grocers, Boston, say:—"Your Sea Foam gives perfect satisfaction. It is excellent." Cornells & Mumford, Grocers, Providence, R. I., say:—"Your Sea Foam is wonderful. Our sales are immense. Everybody praises it." "It makes Bread Richer, Lighter, Whiter, Purer, Sweeter, and More Wholesome than any other way." The greatest thing to sell you ever saw. Send at once for Circular to GEO. F. GANTZ & CO., 170 Duane St., New York.

Great Central HOTEL, CHICAGO. Market, between Washington & Madison-sts. $2.50 PER DAY. PASSENGER ELEVATOR. J. A. WILSON, Propr.

ELASTIC TRUSS.

This new Truss is worn with perfect comfort night and day. Adapts itself to every motion of the body, retaining rupture under the hardest exercise or severest strain until permanently cured. Sold cheap by the Elastic Truss Co., No. 683 Broadway, N. Y. City. Sent by mail. Call or send for Circular and be cured.

INQUIRE FOR W. A. DROWN & CO'S UMBRELLAS. PHILADELPHIA and NEW YORK.—The qualities marked with their name are confidently recommended.

Shot Guns, Rifles, Revolvers, and Sporting Goods of every description. Large discount to Clubs and Cash Buyers. Send stamp for illustrated price list. Address Great Western Supply Co. F. H. HILL, Manager, 53 9th-st., Pittsburgh, Pa.

AGENTS WANTED FOR PATHWAYS OF THE HOLY LAND. Being a Full Description of Palestine, its History, Antiquities, Inhabitants and Customs, according to the Great Discoveries recently made by the Palestine Exploring Expeditions. It sells at sight. Send for our extra terms to Agents, and see why it sells faster than any other book. NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO., Chicago, Ill., or St. Louis, Mo.

N. F. BURNHAM'S TURBINE WATER WHEEL Was selected, 4 years ago, and put to work in the Patent Office, Washington, D. C., and has proved to be the best. 19 sizes made. Prices lower than any other first-class Wheel. Pamphlet free. N. F. BURNHAM, York, Pa.

ELECTRICITY IS LIFE.

MEDICINE RENDERED USELESS! VOLTA'S ELECTRO BELTS and Bands are indorsed by the most eminent physicians in the world for the cure of rheumatism, neuralgia, liver complaint, dyspepsia, kidney disease, aches, pains, nervous disorders, fits, female complaints, nervous and general debility, and other chronic diseases of the chest, head, liver, stomach, kidneys and blood. Book with full particulars free by VOLTA BELT CO., Cincinnati, Ohio.

RUBBER PAINT CLEVELAND. Best in the World. Ready for the Brush. Send for Sample Card. Branch Offices and Factories—306 West street, New York; 210 South Third-st, St. Louis, Mo.; 83 West Van Buren st, Chicago, Ill.

MERIDEN CUTLERY COMPANY. Manufacture all kinds of Table Cutlery. Exclusive makers of the "PATENT IVORY" or Celluloid Knife. The most Durable WHITE HANDLE known. Original makers of the HARD RUBBER HANDLE. Always call for "Trade-Mark MERIDEN CUTLERY CO., on the Blade. Warranted and sold by all dealers in Cutlery and by the MERIDEN CUTLERY CO., 49 Chambers Street, New York.

S. H. HARRIS SAFE THE BEST. MANUFACTORY AND SALESROOM, 23 & 25 RANDOLPH St., CHICAGO.

Smith Organ Co., BOSTON, MASS. These Standard Instruments Sold by Music Dealers Everywhere. AGENTS WANTED IN EVERY TOWN. Sold throughout the United States on the INSTALLMENT PLAN: That is, on a System of Monthly Payments. Purchasers should ask for the SMITH AMERICAN ORGAN. Catalogues and full particulars on application.

DEATH IS DELAYED BY USING MEAT TONIC ELIXIR & LIQUID EXTRACT OF BEEF, IN SUCH DOSES AS IT IS PRESCRIBED FOR.

TARRANT'S SELTZER APERIENT. Nothing like it in medicine. A luxury to the palate, a painless evacuant, a gentle stimulant to the circulation, a perspiratory preparation, an anti-bilious medicine, a stomachic, a diuretic and an admirable general alterative. Such are the acknowledged and daily proven properties of Tarrant's Effervescent Aperient. SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

The Wonders of Modern Chemistry.
Sarsaparillian and Its Associates.
Changes as Seen and Felt as They Daily Occur after Using a Few Doses of
DR. RADWAY'S
Sarsaparillian Resolvent,
THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER.

1. Good spirits, disappearance of weakness, languor, melancholy; increase and hardness of flesh and muscles, etc.

2. Strength increases, appetite improves, relish for food, no more sour eructations or waterbrash, good digestion, calm and undisturbed sleep, awaken fresh and vigorous.

3. Disappearance of spots, blotches, pimples; the skin looks clear and healthy; the urine changed from its turbid and cloudy appearance to a clear sherry or amber color; water passes freely from the bladder through the urethra without pain or scalding, little or no sediment; no pain or weakness.

4. Marked diminution of quantity and frequency of involuntary weakening discharges (if afflicted that way), with certainty of permanent cure. Increased strength exhibited in the secreting glands, and functional harmony restored to the several organs.

5. Yellow tinge on the white of the eyes, and the swarthy, saffron appearance of the skin changed to a clear, lively and healthy color.

6. Those suffering from weak or ulcerated lungs or tubercles will realize great benefit in expectorating freely the tough phlegm or mucous from the lungs, air cells, bronchi or windpipe, throat or head; diminishing of the frequency of cough; general increase of strength throughout the system; stoppage of night sweats and pains and feeling of weakness around the ankles, legs, shoulders, etc.; cessation of cold and chills, sense of suffocation; hard breathing and paroxysms of cough on lying down or arising in the morning. All these distressing symptoms gradually and surely disappear.

7. As day after day the SARSAPARILLIAN is taken, new signs of returning health will appear; as the blood improves in strength and purity, disease will diminish, and all foreign and impure deposits, nodes, tumors, cancers, hard lumps, etc., be resolved away and the unsound made sound and healthy; ulcers, fever sores, syphilitic sores, chronic skin diseases gradually disappear.

8. In cases where the system has been salivated, and Mercury, Quicksilver, Corrosive Sublimate, (the principal constituent in the advertised Sarsaparillas, associated in some cases with Hyd. of Potass) have accumulated and become deposited in the bones, joints, etc., causing caries of the bones, rickets, spinal curvatures, contortions, white swellings, varicose veins, etc., the SARSAPARILLIAN will resolve away these deposits and exterminate the virus of the disease from the system.

9. If those who are taking these medicines for the cure of Chronic, Scrofulous or Syphilitic diseases, however slow may be the cure "feel better," and find their general health improving, their flesh and weight increasing or even keeping its own, it is a sure sign that the cure is progressing. In these diseases the patient either gets better or worse—the virus of the disease is not inactive; if not arrested and driven from the blood, it will spread and continue to undermine the constitution. As soon as the SARSAPARILLIAN makes the patient "feel better," every hour you will grow better and increase in health, strength and flesh.

The great power of this remedy is in diseases that threaten death—as in Consumption of the Lungs and Tuberculous Phthisis, Scrofula, Syphiloid Diseases, Wasting, Degeneration, and Ulceration of the Kidneys, Diabetes, Stoppage of Water (instantaneous relief afforded where catheters have to be used, thus doing away with the painful operation of using these instruments), dissolving stone in the bladder, and in all cases of Inflammation of the Bladder and Kidneys, in Chronic cases of Leucorrhea and Uterine diseases.

In tumors, nodes, hard lumps and syphiloid ulcers; in dropsy and venereal sore throat, ulcers, and in tubercles of the lungs; in gout, dyspepsia, rheumatism, rickets; in mercurial deposits—it is in these terrible forms of disease, where the human body has become a complete wreck, and where every hour of existence is torture, wherein this great remedy challenges the astonishment and admiration of the sick. It is in such cases, where all the pleasures of existence appear cut off from the unfortunate, and by its wonderful, almost supernatural agency, it restores the hopeless to a new life and new existence where this great remedy stands alone in its might and power.

In the ordinary skin diseases that every one is more or less troubled with, a few doses will in most cases, and a few bottles in the more aggravated forms, work a permanent cure.

Those afflicted with chronic diseases should purchase a package containing one dozen bottles. Price $10 per dozen, or $5 per half dozen bottles, or $1 per bottle. Sold by druggists.

RADWAY'S
READY RELIEF
WILL AFFORD INSTANT EASE.

INFLAMMATION OF THE KIDNEYS.
INFLAMMATION OF THE BLADDER.
INFLAMMATION OF THE BOWELS.
CONGESTION OF THE LUNGS.
SORE THROAT, DIFFICULT BREATHING,
PALPITATION OF THE HEART.
HYSTERICS, CROUP, DIPHTHERIA,
CATARRH, INFLUENZA.
HEADACHE, TOOTHACHE, MUMPS,
NEURALGIA, RHEUMATISM,
COLD CHILLS, AGUE CHILLS.

The application of the READY RELIEF to the part or parts where the pain or difficulty exists will afford ease and comfort.

Twenty drops in half a tumbler of water will, in a few moments, cure CRAMPS, SPASMS, SOUR STOMACH, HEARTBURN, SICK HEADACHE, DIARRHEA, DYSENTERY, COLIC, WIND IN THE BOWELS, and all INTERNAL PAINS.

Travelers should always carry a bottle of RADWAY'S RELIEF with them. A few drops in water will prevent sickness or pains from change of water.

IT IS BETTER THAN FRENCH BRANDY OR BITTERS AS A STIMULANT.

Price 50 Cents. Sold by Druggists.

DR. RADWAY'S
REGULATING PILLS

Perfectly tasteless, elegantly coated with sweet gum, purge, regulate, purify, cleanse and strengthen. RADWAY'S PILLS, for the cure of all disorders of the Stomach, Liver, Bowels, Kidneys, Bladder, Nervous Diseases, Headache, Constipation, Costiveness, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Bilious Fever, Inflammation of the Bowels, Piles and all Derangements of the Internal Viscera. Warranted to effect a positive cure. Purely Vegetable, containing no mercury, minerals, or deleterious drugs.

☞ Observe the following symptoms resulting from Disorders of the Digestive Organs:

Constipation, Inward Piles, Fullness of the Blood in the Head, Acidity of the Stomach, Nausea, Heartburn, Disgust of Food, Fullness or Weight in the Stomach, Sour Eructations, Sinking or Fluttering at the Pit of the Stomach, Swimming of the Head, Hurried and Difficult Breathing, Fluttering at the Heart, Choking or Suffocating Sensations when in a Lying Posture, Dimness of Vision, Dots or Webs before the Sight, Fever and Dull Pain in the Head, Deficiency of Perspiration, Yellowness of the Skin and Eyes, Pain in the Side, Chests, Limbs, and Sudden Flushes of Heat, Burning in the Flesh.

A few doses of RADWAY'S PILLS will free the system from all the above named disorders. Price 25 Cents per Box. SOLD BY DRUGGISTS.

Read "FALSE AND TRUE."

Send one letter-stamp to RADWAY & CO., No. 32 Warren Street, New York. Information worth thousands will be sent you.

Dr. C. Fulton, of Bucyrus, Ohio, says:—"Hon. Judge Lee of this county had been troubled with Kidney affection for some months; I put him on your Buchu and Dandelion, and in a few days he was improved. In two weeks time, without other medicines, he passed from his bladder, an irregular calculus, an inch in length and a quarter of an inch in diameter, which he will send down to you as a remarkable specimen of its kind. He is now free from all pain and a sound man." The specimen referred to may now be seen in the office of the KNESS MANUFACTURING COMPANY, Cincinnati, Ohio, Together with many other certificates of cures.

Not a Mad Stone.

EVERY BOOK AGENT in the land should at once send for circulars, and take hold of our new work, Arabistan, OR, THE LAND OF THE ARABIAN NIGHTS, By COL. WM. PERRY FOGG, with an INTRODUCTION by BAYARD TAYLOR. The most fascinating book of travel published. Agents Wanted. Royal octavo. 100 beautiful illustrations. Tinted paper. Elegantly bound. Price low to meet the times. IT EXCELS ALL. OUTFIT FREE to all that will work. Write for illustrated Circulars, and large terms, to nearest office. DUSTIN, GILMAN & CO. Hartford, Ct., Chicago, Ill., or Cincinnati, O.

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS please say you saw the advertisement in this paper.

BARGAINS

AT THE

Great Clearing Out SALES!

OF G. H. MUNN.

I shall sell some at COST; I Shall sell some at LESS than COST.

GREAT BARGAINS

In Dress Goods!

BOOTS AND SHOES

AND HATS,

25 per cent. BELOW COST. Call and see him in Auburn, at the Grand Central, one door south of Jno. L. Davis' Hardware.

GEO. H. MUNN.

FRUIT HOUSE BULLETIN!

GRANGER HEADQUARTERS.

Twenty Per Cent. Saved on the $1. No Advance in Prices.

Teas, Fish, Spices, Sugars, Syrups, Wines, Liquors & Tobac's

Cheaper than Ever.

TEAS—Our Tea trade is the wonder of the country. No one ever dreamt such a trade could be built up. We sell more chests daily than some houses do pounds, and still our trade is increasing. It is n uncommon thing for us to purchase two hundred chests at a time, and here is the great element of our success. As by purchasing such larger quantities direct of the Importers we save our consumer, at least the three extra profits of jobbers, speculator and wholesale grocer, who make 10 to 20 cents per pound. This our customers get the benefit of. No middle men with us. As with teas, so with sugar coffee, syrup and all other goods. No secret—it is simply in purchasing all our goods at first hands and re-selling direct to our customers at small margin, and save them at least 20 to 40 cents a pound on tea and 20 per cent on all other goods.

Young Hyson,	30, 60, 80, $1, 00, best 1 10	Oolong	30, 60; best 95
Gunpowder	60, 1 00; best 1 10	Uncolored Japan,	50, 60; best 9
Imperial,	60, 90; best

SUGARS! SUGARS!

WHITE, YELLOW AND BROWN.

Coffee A,	10½c	N. O. Genuine,	9c
Coffee B,	9½c	Good Brown	8c

COFFEE! COFFEE! COFFEE!

Best Rio, per pound,	25c	Roasted Coffee,	20 and 27c
Second Best Rio,	23c

CANNED FRUITS.

At Prices never Before Heard of.

Ceaches per can	20c	Pamsons per can,	20c
Blackberries per can,		Green Gages per can,
Tomatoes per can,	10 c	Strawberries per can,
orn per can,	10 c

Wines and Liquors.

Still a few Gallons Left.

Sherry and Port per gallon,	$1 50 and 2 00	Old '76 for medical use	$3 00
Sherry and Port in bottles,		Port Wine per gallon	1 50 and 2 00
California Angelica and Sweet Muscatelle,		California wine per gallon	1 50 and 2 00 per gallon,	1 50 2 00	Sweet Cawba Wine per gallon	1 25
New England Rum, per gallon,	best 2 00
Holland Gin, Old Tom,	1 50 and 2 50

SYRUPS, SYRUPS.

Best Sugar, Loaf, per gallon,		Extra Golden per gallon,	60
White Dripps, per gallon,	85 $1 00	New Orleans per gallon,	70c to 1 00
Silver Dripps per gallon,	75	Cuba Molasses per gallon,

CANDIES! CANDIES!

Stick, French and American.

Best Stick per pound	18c	Bon Bons	30c
French Mixed	2 c	Japanese Cocoa Nut	25c

☞ We have a hundred other different kinds of candies ☜

No Middle Men with us, either on Teas, Coffees, or Sugars. With all the complaints of dull times, our Tea trade has doubled within the last three years. No secret in it—simply purchasing of the Importers and selling direct to the consumer, thereby saving to our customers the profits of the Speculator, Jobber and Wholesale Grocer, which is at least 10 to 20 cents on each dollar,

Oils! Oils! Oils!

Fish and Neats Foot Oil per gallon,	1 00	Head Light Oil per gallon,	25c
Coal and Rose Oil per gallon,	20c	Machine Oil per gallon,	50c

FISH, FISH, FISH, FISH,

A Large Assortment of both		Salt Water and Lake Fish
No. 1 White Fish ½ bbl	6 00	No. 1 Mackeral in Kits	1 25
No. 2 do do	5 00	No. 1 Famis in Kits
No. 1 Lake Shad ½ bbl.		George's Bank Codfish per pound
No. 1 Pickeral ½ bbl		Extra Mess Mackeral " "	1 50 and 1 75
White Fish in kits No. 1	1 25	Herrings each	1c
White Fish family No. 3	1 00	Pickeral and Trout ½ bbl	50

TOBACCOS, TOBACCOS.

The duty of 4c cents per pound goes on tobacco March 1st. This thing we anticipated, and in consequence we have a large stock ahead, so that our customers, as long as the present stock lasts, shall have goods at the old price.

Choice Plug, Five Bros. per pound		Fine Cut	60, 80, and 90c
Good Richmond Navy per pound	50c	Shorts	40c
Ladies Twist, very fine	60c	Smoking	35c best 40c
Long John Tens	60c

25 Cents on the Dollar Saved at

THE FRUIT HOUSE

STORE ESTABLISHED IN 1839.

GEO. DeWALD & CO.

Dry Goods & Notions.

Black Silks & Fine Dress Goods a Specialty.

We can make it to the interests of every person to trade with us. We buy for CASH and sell for CASH, keep the best goods, and sell at one price

ALSO AGENTS FOR THE

"Domestic" PATERNS.

The Best in Use. Send for a Catalogue.

Geo DeWald & Co
No. 1 Columbia Street
Fort Wayne Ind,

THE OLD RELIABLE.

F. E. DAVENPORT,

Corner Main and Eighth-Sts.,

—DEALER IN—

Pure Drugs and Medicines,

DYE STUFFS, PERFUMERY,

Toilet Soaps Cosmetics, Hair Oils, Brushes, Combs, Toilet Mirrors and Druggists' Sundries in General.

BOOKS AND STATIONERY!

Wall and Window Paper!

Oiled, Linen and Slat Window Shades, and Shade Fixtures.

All the lattest POEMS and MISSELANIOUS BOOKS constantly on hand or ordered. Blank Books, Pocket Memorandas, Portmonies and Bill Books, WRITING PAPERS. All Styles and prices ALBUMS! ALBUMS! ALBUMS just received for the Holliday trade Over $300.00 worth of Juvenile and Toy Books, which will be sold at panic prices. Smith's Gold Pens, warranted the best. Also steel Pens, Penholders, Pencils, Ink and Ink Stands &c.

SCHOOL BOOKS

Covered with best Cover ever invented Free Of Charge

Dav exclusive right to use this book cover in Auburn, and you is the benefit of the same

---

GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICES AT

ABRICHT'S

In American & Swiss Watches,

TOYS

FANCY GOODS,

and everything kept in a first class jewelry establishm'nt It will pay you to call and be convinced that I am selling goods cheaper than any firm in Northern Indiana.

J. Abright.

Repairing fine Watches a Specialty

Ladies Gold Watches,
Jewelry,
Clocks, Silver Ware!
GOLD PENS,
Ladies GOLD Chains,
Gents Chains,
Gold and Silver Rings,
MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS,

V. A BEARD

Grocer in Auburn, North of Court House on Seventh Street,

DEALER IN

GROCERIES and PROVISIONS

TEAS, COFFEES, SUGARS, SALT FISH.

Flour and Feed, Tubs Pails, Buckets, Sugars Boxes, Etc. A large var it

TOBACCOS AND CIGARS,

Confectioneries of all kinds, and Fancy Notions, Cove Oysters, &c, A speciality in Green and Dried Fruits, and Canned Fruits. Goods delivered inside the coporation.

RAIL ROADS.

Indianapolis Peru & Chicago R. R.

TIME TABLE No. 12—Dec. 20, 1874.

Northward.

Stations.	No. 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Indianapolis	6 30a	12 23p	3 55p	12 20
Noblesville	7 44	12 29	5 10	1 30
Tipton	8 20	1 13	5 57	2 15
Miami	9 27	1 50	6 38	2 55
Kokomo	9 11	2 26	7 04
Peru	10 00	3 15	7 40

Sotuhward.

Stations.	No 2	No. 4	No. 6
Indianapolis	6 00p	4 15a	9 55a
Noblesville	4 47	3 13	8 34
Tipton	3 56	2 29	7 44
Kokomo	3 13	1 50	7 02
Miami	2 46	1 15	6 35
Peru	2 10	12 35	6 00

E. C. MURPHY, Supt Mich. Div.
E. M. HAWLEY, Master of Tran.
C. B. ROBINSON, General Sup't,
F. P. WADE, Gen. Ticket Agt.

Lake Shore & Mich. Southern R. R

Air Line Division

ON and after Sunday, Nov. 15, 1874 Passenger Trains will leave Waterloo city and other stations as follows, daily except Sunays:

GOING WEST

	Special Ex.	Pacific Ex.	Accom'd'n
Butler.	2:40 p m.	x 2:35 a m.	8:00 p m
Waterloo	2:56 "	2:53 "	8:19 "
Sedan	3,05	3,00	8:30 "
Corunna	3,10	3,06	8:35 "

GOING EAST.

Corunna	2.15 pm	11,30 pm	6:50 p m
Sedan	2.20	11,35	7:02 "
Waterloo	2:28 "	11:44 "	7:11 "
Butler	2:40 "	x12:01a m	7:55 "

CHAS. PAINE, Gen. Supt.
J. W. CARY, Gen Tic. Agt
J. E. CURTIS, Division Su

Ft. Wayne, Muncie & Cin R. R.

Time Table to take effect May 23, 1875.

Going South.

Fort Wayne	1 15 pm	2 00a.m	5 35pm
Ossian	2 02		6 42
Bluffton	2 30	3 10	7 17
Keystone	3 02		7 57
Montpelier	3 12	3 44	8 08
Hartford	3 40pm	4 05	8 40
Eaton	4 02		9 06
Muncie	4 37	4 47	9 45
McCowan's	4 53	5 05
New Castle	5 30	5 40
Cam. City	6 05	6 11
Beesons	6 22	6 27
Connersville	6 35	6 40
Indianapolis	6 30	6 50
Louisville	11 10	12 45pm
Cincinnati	10 35	10 05am

Going North.

Cincinnati	7 30am	5 20pm
Louisville		2 40	7 00pm
Indianapolis		7 25	4 30am
Connersville	10 32	8 30
Beesons	10 45	8 44
Cam City	11 04	9 01
New Castle	11 40	9 32
McCowans	12 15pm
Muncie	12 32	1 25	6 50am
Eaton	1 02	10 52	7 29
Hartford	1 24	11 11	7 54
Montpelier	1 49	11 37	8 52
Keystone	1 58		8 36
Bluffton	2 30	12 15am	9 15
Ossian	2 59	12 42	9 52
Ft. Wayne	3 45	1 30	11 00

W. W. WORTHINGTON, Supt.
ROBT. BILLIE, Gen'l Ticket Agt.

Ft. Wayne, Jackson & Sag. R. R

Short Line Between

Michigan and the South.

Time card in effect Aug. 15,—run by Chicago time

Going North.

Stations	Mail	Accom.		Ind. Exp.
Cincinnati		7 30		420p
Louisville	7 30pm
Indianapolis	4 55am			7 25
Ft Wayne	10 45	4 35		1 35a
Auburn	11 40	6 07		2 38
Waterloo	11 56	6 35		2 57
Summit
Pleasant Lake
Ar Angola	12 15mp	7 55	5 15	2 46
Reading	1 7	6 40	6 48	4 49
Bankers	2 12	10 05	7 10	5 04
Jonesville	2 30	10 25	7 38	5 19
Jackson	3 40	12 35	9 25	6 30
Detroit	6 30p m	3 50		10 15
Grand Rapids	9 30	6 10		5 10
Lansing	5 47			8 37
Saginaw	9 03			11 40
Bay City

Going South.

Bay City
Saginaw	7 30 am			3 30p
Lansing	10 40			9 55
Grand Rapids	6 20		12 00	12 00
Detroit	9 50		3 30	5 40
Jackson Dep	12 40p m		6 05	9 35
Jonesville	1 55		8 00	10 35
Bankers	2 12		8 26	10 52
Reading	2 26		8 53	11 03
Ar Angola	3 25	6 15	10 20	11 52
Pleasant Lake
Waterloo	4 05	7 26		12 30a
Auburn	4 20	7 55		12 45
Auburn Junction
Fort Wayne, Arrive	5 15	9 25		1 30
Indianapolis		8 30p		6 50
Louisville		11 10		12 45p
Cincinnati		10 30		3 40a

P. B. LOOMIS, Pres't
S. K. HOOPER Gen. Ticket Ag't.

DETOIT, EEL RIVER & ILLINOIS Rail Road.

Short Line between Auburn and the East and West.

Trains run on Cleveland time. Through trains will run on the following time, in effect Sunday June 20th, 1875.

Going East. Going West.

No. 7 Thro'	No. 5 Frei't	Mail	STATIONS	Mail	No. 6 W. F	No. 8 Local
3.40p	7.00a	10.50	lv Logans't ar	6.15p	7.25p	12.10p
4.08	7.30	11.08	Adamsboro.	5.55	7.00	11.43
4.30	7.55	12.23	Hoover's	5.41	6.40	11.23
4.50	8.25	11.32	Mexico	5.33	6.25	10.55
6.00	9.30	11.45	Denver.	5.23	6.00	10 25
					5.10	10.50
6.15	9 50	12.15	Chili	5.13	4.55	9.05
6.46	10.40	12.31	Roann	4.57	4.25	9.20
7.14	11.20	12.47	Laketon	4.40	3.50	8.48
7.40	12.10	12.57	N. Manchest'r	4.29	3.25	8.30
8.00	1.10p	1.06	Lib. Mills	4.19	2.40	8.10
8.25	1.40	1.16	Collamer	4.07	2.00	7.47
8.40	2.10	1.22	S. Whitley	4.02	1.50	7.40
9.05	2.35	1.33	Taylor's	3.50	12.30	7.20
9.50	2.57	1 47	Columbia city	3.38	12.05	7.00
10.15	4.10	2.03	Collin's	3.18	11. a	6.15
10.45	4.50	2.14	Churubusco	3.08	10.32	5.50
11.10	5.15	2.24	Potter's	2.57	9.53	5.20
11.30	5.35	2.34	G. R. Crossing	2.49	9 35	5.05
11.45	5 55	2.40	Cedar Creek	2.40	9.20	4.50
12.15	6.30	2.52	Aub. Juncti'n	2.26	8.50	4.20
12.30	7.10	2.58	Auburn	2.20	8.00	4.10
1.00	7.30	3.15	Mooresville	2.02	6.57	3.35
1.25a	7.45	3.25p	ar. Butler lv.	1.50	6.25	6.25

CONNECTIONS—At Logansport with Pittsburgh, Cincinnati & St Louis, Logansport, Crawfordsville & Southwestern and Toledo. Wabash & Western R. R's. At Denver with Indianapolis, Peru & Chicago Railway, for Rochester, Plymouth, LaPorte, Michigan City, Peru, Kokomo and Indianapolis At N Manchester with Cincinnati, Wabash & Mich R'y. At Columbia City with Pittsburg, Ft. W, & Chicago, for Ft Wayne Lima, Crestline and Pittsburg. At Grand Rapids crossing with Grand Rapids R'y. At Auburn Junction with Ft. Wayne Jackson & Saginaw, for Angola, Jackson and Saginaw R'y. for Butler with Lake Shore & Mich. Southern Caw. Toledo, Detroit and all eastern cities.

J. A. HUGHSTON, Gen. Ticket Agt.
A. B. SCUTRAHD, Gen. Supt.

S. U. Tarney

AUBURN MEAT MARKET!

KEEPS ALWAYS ON HAND

Fresh Beef, Pork, Veal, Mutton and Bologna Sausage, clean and sweet. Prices reasonable. Main-st first door north of Miller & Casebeer's store.

Pittsburg, Ft. W. & C. R. R.

Condensed time card, May 23, 1875.

GOING WEST.

	No. 1 Fast ex.	No 5 Mail.	No. 7 Pac. ex.	No. 3 Night ex
Pittsburgh	2 00 a.m	———	8 00a.m	2 00p.m
Rochester	3 09 "	———	9 22 "	3 13 "
Alliance	5 52 "	———	12 30p.m	5 54 "
Orrville	7 10 "	———	2 25 "	7 31 "
Mansfield	9 07 "	———	4 40 "	9 28 "
Crestl'e ar.	9 40 "	———	5 15 "	9 55 "
" lv.	10 00 "	6 50a.m	5 30p.m	11 00 "
Forest	11 18 "	6 30 "	7 27 "	11 34 "
Lima	12 20 p.m	8 10 "	8 45 "	12 27a.m
Ft. Wayne	2 40 "	11 20 "	11 35 "	2 55 "
Plymouth	4 40 "	2 25 p.m	2 35a.m	5 25 "
Chicago	7 50 "	6 30 "	6 30 "	8 50 "

GOING EAST.

	No. 4 Night ex	No. 2 Fast ex.	No. 6 Pac. ex.	No. 8 Mail.
Chicago	9 20 p.m	9 20a.m	5 35 p.m	5 15a
Plymouth	12 50a.m	12 15 p.m	9 05 "	9 20 "
Ft. Wayne	3 50 "	2 45 "	11 45 "	12 20p.m
Lima	6 15 "	4 35 "	1 55a.m	40
Forest	7 36 "	5 34 "	3 02 "	56
Crestl'e ar.	9 20 "	6 55 "	4 40 "	55
" lv.	9 40 "	7 15 "	4 50 "	———
Mansfield	10 20 "	7 43 "	5 20 "	———
Orrville	12 45 p.m	9 33 "	7 10 "	———
Alliance	3 05 "	11 10 "	9 00 "	———
Rochester	5 40 "	1 07a.m	11 12 "	......
Chicago	6 55 "	2 10 "	12 15 p.m	———

No. 1, daily, except Monday, Nos. 2, 4, 5, 7 and 8, daily except Sunday, Nos. 3 and 6 daily.

F. R. MYERS,
General Pass. and Ticket Agent.

BALTIMORE & OHIO R. R

FROM 135 TO 6 'MILES

The hortest route from the West to

Washington, Baltimore

AND THE EAST.

ONDENSED TIME TABLE, THRO' TRAINS

VIA PARKERSBURG, Dec. 13, '74	Express	Fast Express,	St. Louis Ex.
Lve. Cincinnati	9 00‡ am	†4 30 p m	‡11 10pm
Arr. Chillicoth	12 55d n'n	s7 46	3 00 am
" Portsmouth	5 35 p m		11 10
" Marietta	5 56	12 06 n't	7 22
" Parkersburg	5 25 s	11 30	B6 50
Arr. Grafton	9 45	3 40 a m	11 10
" Cumberland	2 00 a m	s7 40	D3 20
" Martinsburg	4 35	10 15	6 10
" Harper's F'y	5 19 a m	10 54	6 51
" Staunton		5 15 p m
" Washington	7 15	12 40 n'n	8 50
" Richmond		10 30p m	4 50 am
" Baltimore	‡9 05 a m	1 50 a m	10 20‡pm
" Philadelphia	1 20 p m	6 50 p m	2 25 am
" New York	‡5 10	10 22	†6 15
" Boston.	5 50 a m		4 50 pm

VIA BELLAIRE—Dec 13, 1874	Express	Fast Express.	Fast Line
Lve. Cincinnati (via Dayton S. L.)	6 30 a m		‡3 50 p m
" Cincinnati (via P. C. & St. L.)	†7.00		†7 10 p m
" Columbus	11 55	4 00‡p m	12 20†
Arr. Newark	1 00 p m	5 25	1 45 a m
" Zanesville	2 10	6 55	2 37
" Bellaire	5 20	10 55	6 50
" Wheeling	6 45 p m	12 50 ngt	8 00
" Grafton	9 35	3 35 a m	11 05
" Cumberlain	2 00 a m	7 40	D3 30 pm
" Martinsburg	4 35	10 15	6 10
" Harper's F'y	5 19 a m	10 54	9 31
" Washington	7 15	12 40 n'n	8 50
" Richmond		10 30 p m	4 50 a m
" Baltimore	9 05	1 50†	10 20†pm
" Philadelphia	1 20 p m	6 50	2 35 a m
" New York	5 10	10 22†	†6 15
" Boston	4 50 a m		4 50 p m

B—Breakfast. D—Dinned. S—Supper. †Daily ‡Daily ex. Sunday. ‡Daily ex. Mondar.

PULMAN PALACE SLEEPING CARS

from Louisville, St. Louis, Cincinnati and Columbus, to

WASHINGTON AND BALTIMORE!

—AND—

PHILADELPHIA

WITHOUT CHANGE.

Through Tickets, and further information can be obtained at all principal Ticket Offices through out the West and Sobth West.

THOS. P. BARRY, West. passagt., Cin.
L. M. COLE, Gen'l ticket agt., Bal. Md
THOS. R. SHARP, Mas. of Tran. "

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

IN EFFECT JUNE, 1875.

GOING WEST.

STATIONS	Exp.	Fst.Line	Fast E
Chicago Junction	7 30am	7 50pm	5 15pm
Tiffin	8 50	8 53	6 39
Fostoria	9 30	9 25	7 15
Deshler	10 31	10 32	8 33
Defiance	11 32	11 33	9 50
Auburn	1 00pm	1 03am	11 50
Auburn Junction	1 03	1 07	11 55
Garrett	1 10	1 15	12 05am
Avilla	1 39	1 34	......
Milford Junction	2 47	2 44	......
Walkertown Junction	4 06	4 08	......
Chicago	7 30	7 30	......

GOING EAST.

Chicago	8 25pm	......	8 40am
Walkertown Junction	12 13am	......	12 17pm
Milford Junction	1 41	......	1 46
Avilla	3 01	......	3 04
Garrett	3 15	6 25am	3 20
Auburn Junction	3 33	6 34	3 48
Auburn	3 26	6 40	3 52
Defiance	5 10	8 43	5 30
Deshler	6 12	10 00	6 34
Fostoria	7 6	11 16	7 40
Tiffin	7 46	11 51	8 11
Chicago Junction	8 45	1 00pm	9 10

L. M. COLE, Gen. Tic. Agt.

J. G. FLEDDERMAN,

No. 27, East Main-St.

FORT WAYNE, IND'A

Has the larfest and finest stock of

CLOTHS, COATINGS, CHEVIOTS,

—AND—

CassimereS

in Ft. Wayne. The finest line of

Made up Clothing!

ever shown in Fort Wayne

Yeuths' and Children's Clothing!

Furnishing Goods, &c.

Mrchant Tailoring.

All work done in all the latest styles, promtly attended to. Go and see hislargestock of G

WANTED.

Five Hundred Cords of Elm Stave Bolts, is wanted immediately at the Stave Factory of Beugnot & Co., for which they will pay the cash. tf.

ARE YOU DYSPEPTIC?

If so, and you desire immediate relief, go to the drug store of F. E. Davenport and get a bottle of DeCosta's Radical cure. It will tone up the stomach, assist digestion restore the appetite regulate the liver, and in fact make a new man of you. Delicate females will fine it peculiar adapted to their various disorders. It is the most efficacious antidote for all diseases arising from a disorded stomach, liver or a low state of the system, that has ever been prescribed or advertised. Try it just once, and you will, like thousands of others become its enthusiastic advocate Trial sized 25 cents.

Auditor's Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Devoted to the Interests of the Democratic Party and to the Collection of Local and General News.

Volume 5. AUBURN, DeKALB COUNTY INDIANA, SEPT. 23rd, 1875. Number 37.

The Auburn Weekly Courier

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY, BY

TOM. C. MAYS.

One Year,........$1. | Six Months,......$1.

Advertising Rates.

Space.	1m.	3m.	6m.	1 y.
One Square......	2 50	5 00	7 00	12 00
¼ Column.........	6 00	12 00	18 00	30 00
½ Column.........	10 00	18 00	30 00	50 00
One Column.......	15 00	30 00	50 00	100 00

Legal Notices 10 cents per line, first insertion, 5 cents each insertion thereafter. Business cards Five Dollars.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

Penfield & Moody.

ATTORNEYS AT LAW. Office under Odd Fellow's Hall north of Court House, Auburn, Ind. Practice in all Courts of the State.

ROSE & HARTMAN,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW. Have complete abstracts of the records of DeKalb County. Office in Case's Block, Auburn, Indiana.

H. C. PETERSON,

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public. Office over Davis' hardware store, Auburn, Ind.

WOODHULL and CROXTON,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW Angola, Indiana. Practice in Steuben and DeKalb Counties.

RICKEL & TEFFT.

ATTORNEYS AT LAW, Auburn, Ind. Office in the Court House.
J. W. RICKEL, R. DEXTE TEFFT.

A. F. PINCHIN

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public, Butler, DeKalb Co., Ind. Insurance and real estate business promptly attended to.

McBRIDE and MORLAN

ATTORNEYS AT LAW, Waterloo, Indiana. Will practice in any of the courts of the State. Office over O. T. Clark's Dry Goods store.

GUY PLUM,

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public. Office in the Court House. Special attention paid to the collection of claims. Also agent for Home Insurance Company.

CHAS. A. O. McCLELLAN.

ATTORNEY AT LAW, Waterloo, Indiana. Will practice in the Courts of DeKalb and Steuben counties. Liberal Advances Made on all First-class Claims left in my hands for collection.

COURTS IN STEUBEN CO.	COURTS IN DEKALB CO.
1st Monday in February	3rd Monday in Feb.
4th Monday in April	2nd Monday in May
1st Monday in September	3rd Monday in Sep.
Monday in November	2nd Monday in Dec

PHYSICIANS.

DR. J. A. COWAN,

PHYSICIAN & SURGEON, Auburn, Ind. Office on Main street, over Central Grocery.

W. S. ALLEN.

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON, Office over McQuiston's store. Cool's Block, North of Court House.

J. J. LITTLEFIELD,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON. Office over Davenport's Drug Store Auburn, Indiana.

DR. J. M. SHUTT.

ELECTIC PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON, will attend to all calls belonging to the medical profession, promptly. Possessing al the benefits that can be derived from forty-two years experience, of one of the most active and successful Physicians in the western part of Ohio, and several years of personal experience enables me to treat all famous of diseases with the best of success, "without the use of calomel. My medicines are purely vegetable, and therefore, I am able to treat all kinds of diseases without producing any bad effect, upon the nervous system," and will break the worst case of ague, without the use of quinine. No matter what your disease is, give me a call, for I am prepared to handle all, at my office on fifth street, between Main and Cedar Auburn Indiana.

UTELS.

SWINEFORD HOUSE.

CORNER MAIN AND NINTH STREETS, opposite the Court House. S. O. SWINEFORD, Pro.

AVELINE HOUSE,

MILLER & MORITZ, Prop's., corner Calhoun & Berry Sts., Fort Wayne, Ind.

AMERICAN HOUSE

AT FORT WAYNE, only $2 a day. Good accommodations for traveling men.
C. B. OAKLEY, Prop'r.

WOOD'S HOTELL.

NOS. 34 & 36 EAST WASHINGTON STREET, opp Field, Leiter, & Co's retail dry goods store; and adjoining D. B. Fisk's wholesale millinery store, between State street & Wabash Avenue, Chicago. O SANDS, Prop'r.
$2.00 per day. GEO. S. PALMER, Clerk.

MISCELLANEOUS.

H. Wartenslaben

PAINTER and paper hanger. House painting a specialty. Residence corner Williams and Cedar street.

Medical Society.

OF DeKALB COUNTY, meets at Auburn, Ind., the 2nd Tuesday in each month.
J. H. FORD, Pres't.
J. A COWAN, Sec'y.

Joseph H. Stophlet.

ARCHITECT. Office over No. 17 Court street 1st door north of Empire Line office, Ft. Wayne, Ind. Drawings and specifications furnished for all classes of buildings, at reasonable rates.

PRINTING.

COURIER OFFICE.

JOB PRINTING neatly executed. Fine work a specialty. Office in Odd Fellows' Building 2nd floor.

John M. Miller,

Manufacturer and Dealer in

FINE FURNITURE,

CHAIRS

Husk & Hair Matrasses

50 and 52 East Main Street,
FORT WAYNE, IND.

Thomas Baldock

Building Contractor

AUBURN INDIANA.

will be ready at all times with an experiense corps of workmen to erect Houses, Barns, and do carpenter and joiner work of all kinds at reasonable rates.

J. J. VanAuken,

COUNTY SURVEYOR.

Will attend promptly to all surveying. Office with Rose & Hartman, Auburn Indiana. Persons requesting work by letter should give township and section.

THE PHŒNIX TILE MACHINE.

It is well adapted to the wants of Tile Makers. It is usually driven by the power of two horses. It delivers tile at the two opposite ends of the machine. It may be converted into a single delivery machine. It has a simple and ready means of taking up the wear on the plunge head and sides of the chamber, thus correcting all leakage of mud, and adding years of service to the machine. It makes from 300 to 500 rods of tile per day. It is fully warranted. It may readily be adapted to Steam Power. The dies are finished with much care. Discs and Trucks at moderate prices.

SEND FOR CIRCULARS.

CHANDLER & TAYLOR
Patentees and Manufacturers,
Indianapolis, Ind.

THE AUBURN

Marble Works!

The undersigned beg leave to announce that they have permanently located in Auburn, and are now prepared to attend to all orders for which they are prepared to turn out in a superior manner at reasonable rates. Works west the Bakery.

Monuments, Tomb-Stones, &c.,

J. A. SAWYER & CO.

JAS. CLIFFORD,

WATERLOO, IND.

Keeps constantly on hand the best and choicest brands of all kinds of

Wines and Liquors,

Cigars, Tobaccos, &c.

He also has, in connection with the above a first-class

BILLIARD HALL.

To our citizens and the traveling public, we would say that this is the popular resort at Waterloo. First door south of the railroad.

BAKER BROS.

PROPRIETORS OF Auburn Bakery!

AND

EATING HOUSE

Fresh baked Pies, Cakes etc, always on hand. Good lunches served at all hours.

BAKER BROS.

A NEW PLACE

TO GET A

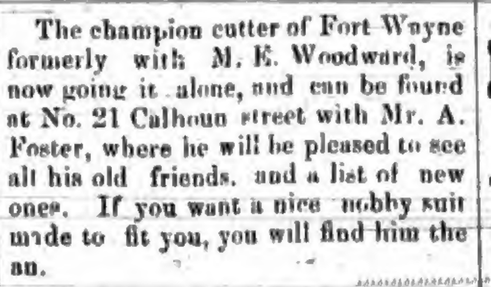
Nobby Suit!

TOM WILLIAMS,

The champion cutter of Fort Wayne formerly with M. E. Woodward, is now going it alone, and can be found at No. 21 Calhoun street with Mr. A. Foster, where he will be pleased to see all his old friends, and a list of new ones. If you want a nice nobby suit made to fit you, you will find him the an.

AUBURN LIVERY

—AND—



SALE STABLE!

RYAN & FORD Prs

Having on hand everything in the line of

Carriages, Buggies; Wagons, etc

are prepared to furnish rigs at all times at reasonable prices. Stable east of Court House.

South Main Street

are now in full running order and all orders for

WAGONS BUGGIES &c.

promptly attended to. Special care taken in getting the best Seasoned Timber. Our prices are very reasonable and we solicit the public to give a call and ascertain our prices.

The Auburn

WAGONS

Made from the Best Materials,

And constructed with all the late improvements—The new and extensive

WAGON SHOPS

—OF—

J. W. SHAFFER

Work of every description done promtly, and warranted. Blacksmithing attended to in good style.

CARPETS.

FOR 1875.

Are offered at prices lower than have prevailed for many years. Our stock for all grades is large, well selected and we invite inspection. We have added to our stock and the line is unusally fair.

Wall Paper

Terrys,
Reps,
Gimps,
Fringes and a general line of Upholstery Goods with Shades,
Lace Curtains,
Oil Cloths,
and Mattings
in great variety. The manufacture of Lambrequins a specialty.

ELLSWORTH, ANDREW & CO,

26 East Berry street

The Pioneer

HARDWARE

Emporium!

Now full to overflowing with an immense stock o

HEAVY AND SHELF

Hardwaer. Cutlery, Tin Ware,

I would call special attention to my department of

HARDWARE,

FURNISHING &

BUIDERS STOCK,

in which will be found everything at the very

LOWEST PRICES,

Such as:—

OILS, PAINTS,
GLASS,
NAILS,
SASH.
DOORS, ETC

—A FIST-CLASS—

Tin-Shop,

In connection with the Hardware Store, with a skillful foreman. All kinds of Tin-ware manufactured and repaired on short notice.

JOHN L. DAVIS,

Cruel as the Fates

In refering to the duel which occured a year and a half ago between Artelle Bienvenue and Audrea Phillips, in which the former was shot dead, the St. Louis Times relates the history of three sisters which is terribly tragic. They were marvels of beauty, born of wealthy parents and distinguished in a country remarkable for the brilliant loveliness of its women. Their influence upon the men they married was fatal. The oldest sister was married to Dr. Sharp, of Tuscaloosa, Ala., a polished, graceful, gentleman, whose love and devotion might have contented any woman less prone to the allurements of society and the admiration of men.

It was in the first years of the war, and the most brilliant society in the south was gathered at Mobile and New Orleans. With an apetite whetted to fever heat by a few mouths' abstinence from social pleasures, she plunged rizkleasly into a whirlpool of gayety. The married flirt wears no armor of innocence. Her love of admiration is pitted against man's duplicity and cunning. She staked and lost. From folly there is but one step to imprudence and that step was taken despite a husband's jealousy and sense of honor. The end was inevitable A challenge and a duel, and her husband fell pierced to the heart by the bullet of her seducer. There was no pity for a woman like this; society repelled her, her friends discarded her and she fled to New Orleans to lead the life of an adventuress.

The second sister shortly afterwards married the son of a distinguished journalist in Mobile. The fate of her elder sister was no bar to a career of similar folly. Society received her with open arms. Wealth, influential connections, and alliances with a distinguished family obscured for a time the recollections of a sister's inprudence. But gossip soon grew busy with her name. From one folly to another she passed with fatal haste and seeming indifference, until in a fatal hour her husband learned that the woman he loved, the wife that he idolized, was a thing to be scorned. It broke his heart. With the downfall of his idol, his reason wavered and he perished by his own hand. For all his brilliant talents, and the promise of a splendid woman, he died the victim of a woman's perfidy.

The younger sister became the wife of Bienvenue, a young broker of New Orleans. Rich, beautiful and accomplished, she was at once a leader in society. Courted, flattered, and carressed, she plunged headlong into the vertex. Men laveshed praises upon her—women hated and smiled upon her. What cared she? beautiful, reckless, heartless and indifferent to all alike, she cared only for that social admiration which was the sunshine of life. Her large fortune gave an income in her individual right. This gave wings to her extravagance and enabled her to contract bills in her own name. One of them—a milliner's bill—was overdue; suit was brought and execution issued, which Mr. Philips the lawyer, had levied for satisfaction upon her carriages and horses. In an interview subsequently had with the lady regarding the settlement of the bill, words which she construed into an insult were charged upon the attorney. Her husband resented it—a challenge ensued—and then the fatal duel on that sad April morning, when a husband's life ebbed away its purple tide upon the lonely beach, the last unhappy victim of the fatal sister folly and extravagance.

* * *

From the latest and most reliable advices so far, the Main elections is not so much a victory for the republicans as to warrant a vote of thanks to Senator Morton for his well meant efforts in waving his ensanguned undergarment in the breezes of that pine-clad, lake-dotted state. Main has always been a republican state, returning majorities of from 9,506 for governor in 1870 to 32,335 for prisident in 1874. The republican majority last year reached 11,897. The majority this year is only a little more than 2,000, with a number of towns to hear from. That there will be some important democratic gains in some of these there can be no doubt, which will still further dimnish the republican majority, if they do not entirely annihilate it. The people of Main were impressed with Mr. Morton's peculiar orator, and the impression is that they have had about enough of him and his party.

* * *

The young lady who went out into the country making hay, with [illegible] intent to be a Maud Muller, has come home again. The only judge she [illegible] saw was judge of whisky and he was so far gone that a glass of water would have struck him dead. But the skin is peeling off her with sunburn her nose is like a banana, and she has the most beautiful pair of swelled feet you ever heard of.

Commissioners Proceedings.

The Board of County Commissioners' met Monday September 1st, and transacted the following business;

PETITIONS.

By E. F. Williamson for a public highway in Union-tp., commencing at the south end of Cherry street, Waterloo, thence south to the Auburn road. Viewers appointed, Jas Barton, Heman Bangs and Gilbert Shears.

By E. Knauer for a highway in Corunna. Viewers appointed, T. D. Dally T. F. Franks and Levi Harding.

By John Cool for a road in Jackson-tp commencing at the center just between sections 8 and 17. Viewers appointed John Coy, Wm. Magginus and John McClellan.

By J. A. Miller and others for a bridge in Butler-tp., across on the road running south from Cedar Creek station. Com., Griffith to superintend the work.

By Miller Jackman, for a highway in Franklin-tp., commencing at the south west corner of section 31 and running north ½ mile. Viewers appointed John Parnell, Jacob Meyers and J. N. Clark.

By James Smith and others, for a bridge across Little Cedar west of the Junction on road to Garrett. Com., Griffith to superintend the work.

By S. W. Sprott and others, for a road in Union-tp., in section 19. Viewers appointed Geo Clark, C. Sheets and D. Culver.

By George Clark for construction of a ditch in Butler-tp., in section 1. Viewers appointed A. Rakestraw, C. Sheets and Jas McClellan.

By W. Testison and others, for a highway in Concord-tp., east side of section 15 thence south, thence west. Viewers appointed D. Moody, D. H. Murry and A. J. Andrews.

By John Parnell and others for a ditch in Fairfield and Smithfield-tp's. Viewers appointed J. M. Brunback, John Buchanan and W. Childs.

By C. S. Mader and others, for a ditch in Union-tp. Viewers appointed Thos Shrieves, W. Walsworth and J. R. Cosper.

By B. E. Childs for a drain in Fairfield-tp. Viewers appointed L. D. Britton, J. M. Brunback and John Buchanan.

By J. H. Miller and others, for a bridge across Cedar Creek east of Stoners' saw mill. Com., Griffith to superintend the work.

By W. Teeters and others, for an appropriation to pile and plank a butment of bridge in Richland-tp. Dismissed.

REPORTS.

Viewers report in favor of vacation change and locating of a road in Butler tp., asked for at June term.

Viewers report favorable for change of road in Franklin-tp., asked for at June term. Reviewers appointed J. Plum, John Leas and J. D. Kelly.

Viewers report in favor of change of road in Fairfield-tp., asked for at last term.

Viewers report unfavorable on petition for change of road in Franklin-tp.,

Viewers report against petition for a proposed highway in Richland-tp., presented last term.

The Auditor made report of orders issued since last session.

Nichalas Metzskers was discharged from the payment of taxes.

* * *

Civil Rights in Brooklyn.

Chicago Times.

NEW YORK, Sept, 13—An important civil rights case has been decided in Brooklyn. Mr. Wm. F. Johnson, a wealthy and intelligent colored man, applied to one of the public schools to have his son, a lad of ten years, admitted as a pupil. The principal declined to receive the lad, on account of his being a negro The father applied to the courts for a mandamus compelling the principal to take the boy. The judge declared to-day that the principal could not be forced to receive the pupil. It is claimed by the negros that the judges' decision is contrary to the express and implied provisions of the laws of the state of New York, and of the United States, and there is consedrable excitement in consequece.

* * *

Moody and Sankey, the champion revivalists, have returned from England with scarcely a less load of honor than was brought back by the nine team. They have demonstrated the fact that as mouth shootists they can wax anything in Old England or anywhere else, for that matter. They have already begun their series of revivals, beginning at Northfield, Mass. It is privately whispered in revival circles that Mr. Moody has announced his intention to "lay for" old Ben Butler, though he would much sooner try a tilt with the old Nick.

* * *

If you want bill heads, litter heads, note heads, statements, or job work of any kind. Give the Courier a call and have your work done in the latest styles.

Vassar Girls

When a young woman at Vassar sees another whose appearance, general style talents, or eyes (especially the latter,) she admires, instead of seeking her acquaintance in an orthordox manner, straightway she announces to her friends and cronies, with the most mysterious and confidential air, that she is hopelessly, completely, entirely, utterly "smashed," in fact, "dead gone." Then follows a series of the most idiotic performances. "Smash" notes are written; elegant flowers, boxes of candy, costly books, etc. are sent by the "smashee" to the "smasher;" appointments are made in dark corridors to kiss each other good night; smirking and ogling are in vogue in the dining-room and in the chapel.—This state of affairs are kept up for some time,—length of time depends upon the violence of the attack. Then the "smash" develops into an astonishing friendship, or the parties drop one another by mutual consent.

It is not uncommon to hear some bright girl say; "O, I am so smashed on Miss So-and-so. I just adore the ground she walks on. I have the 'palps' so when I see her that I can scarcely stand up." I have known girls whose great power of intellect could not be denied, who stood at the head of their classes, to make absolute fools of themselves over other girls. I have seen girls cry themselves sick because their loved one smiled more favorable on some rival than them. I have known of $6 boxes of confectionery and $15 boquets being sent through some zealous friend by the victim to the victor. And speaking of these tokens of pure, unadulterated affection, reminds me of something funny. These offerings are often more practical than poetical. Dishes of pineapple, hot lemonade, fried oysters, etc., are common, and one young woman of an intensely practical turn of mind sent to her adored one a hot boiled sweet potato! I apprehend that in a few years it will be no uncommon thing to express this holy emotion by means of a raw onion, or, more appropriately, a cabbage head.

* * *

Now let Morton canvass all the doubtful states, and a democratic victory this fall will be a foregone conclusion. Morton is an able speaker and can make white appear black any day in the week And when he makes a campaign speech his auditors, knowing his ability in this sort of legerdemain, always understand him to mean just what he does not say, and thus Oliver becomes a useful creature. Even the tumble bug was not created in vain, and shall we dispise God's humblest creature? Nary.

* * *

Logansport is in earnest about waterworks, and means to have a protection from fire before the first freeze. The common council of that plucky city is now wrestling with the propositions of the several water-works construction companies. This is an unpleasant prelude, but it need not delay business for many days. Fort Wayne has not got its eyes fairly rubbed open yet, but there is hope yet. When it does get awake something will have to be done.

* * *

They tell a wicket story about a jovial soul that came to see the gates of Heaven and asked admission. "No," said St. Peter severely; "you can't get in; you are not fit." The traveler stepped back, looked the old saint steadily in the eye and crowed three times. St. Peter colored, shuddered and fumbled for his key. "You can go in," said he, in a rather shaky voice, "but don't do that to me again.

* * *

Josh Billings gives the following advice: "When you hear a man say, "Life if but a dream," tread on his toes and wake him up. "Life is real, life is earnest." If he is a poet, subscribe to get rid of him, and have him deposited in the far West with a gun and omunition, and a blanket for sole covering; he will know very soon whether life is a dream or not.

* * *

Brooklyn is to have another queer trial. Mr. Hugg was the accepted suitor of Sarah Williams, a poor but honest young person. An aunt died and left Miss Williams $40,000, and she jilted Hugg. What true woman wouldn't forswear all sorts of Huggs for $40,000? Now Huggs sees her again; this time before Judge Nelson.

* * *

Mrs. Little & Fair, have just received their fall stock of Millinery goods, and invites the publice to call and examine their prices. The keep always on hand a good supply of everything in their line of business, and of the very best material.

* * *

Miller & Casebeer are the leading merchants in Clothing in DeKalb County. Always look around before you buy and then you're always satisfied.

AUBURN COURIER

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 23, 1875.

THE NEWS CONDENSED.

THE EAST.

OIL CITY, Pa., had a destructive fire recently, in which the works of the Imperial Oil Refining Company were consumed, with a loss of about $200,000 on machinery, stock, etc. Forty thousand barrels of oil went up in the blaze.... The Fall River (Mass.) operatives voted to return to work at a reduction on the opening of the shops provided they can retain their old positions.... A fatal cattle disease has broken out in the vicinity of [illegible], N. Y., and several [illegible] have died.

[illegible] announces that Goldsmith Maid will not start in another race.... The town of Middlebury, Vt., has been visited by a disastrous fire. A paper mill, a woolen mill, thirty business houses, two public halls and six dwellings were swept away. Loss, $170,000; insurance, $82,000.... Dr. Hembold, of "Buchu" fame, has commenced suit against the parties who were concerned in his incarceration in an insane asylum.

THE lightning mail train from New York to Chicago, over the Pennsylvania railroad, has commenced running, and is making the schedule time.... Two hundred more Russian Mennonites have arrived, bound for Dakota.

THE firm of Mallory & Butterfield, of New York, the largest dealers in paper-board in the United States, has failed.

THE District Attorney of Brooklyn desires to withdraw the libel suit instituted by Beecher against Moulton; but the latter will not consent to withdrawal of the case and insists upon going on with the trial.... Two members of the New Haven (Ct.) professional base-ball club have been arrested for thefts committed on one of their recent tours.... In New York, last week, while a number of men were experimenting with Mrs. Uda's aerial ladder, a terrible accident occurred. The ladder had been raised, and about a dozen men were on it, some at a height of 100 feet, when the ladder suddenly snapped in two, precipitating the men to the ground. The Chief of the Aerial Battalion and two other men were instantly killed, and the balance seriously injured, some fatally.

THE horses in Buffalo, N. Y., are suffering from a mild form of the epizootic. Three-fourths of the horses in the city are affected with it.

THE WEST.

A COLLISION of two trains, on the Ohio and Mississippi railroad, near Dillsborough, Ind., a few days ago, caused $15,000 damage to engines, and freight, besides killing three boys who were riding for pleasure.

ONE of the most heart-rending circumstances connected with the terrific storm which recently swept over Lake Michigan, was the loss of the propeller Equinox, with all on board. The ill-starred vessel left Saginaw, Mich., on Sunday, Sept. 5, her cargo consisting principally of salt, and was overtaken by the gale when off Point au Sauble, on the night of Thursday, the 9th. The Equinox had in tow the schooner [illegible] Mayes. Capt. Lusk, who commanded the Mayes, states that he never experienced so terrible a gale before. The night loomed up before them like a black mountain. The waves ran to a fearful height, and frequently broke over the bark. When the storm began to rise in the evening the officers and crew of the schooner on watch observed that the propeller was evidently laboring. She was seen to run suddenly to the leeward, then recover her course. She would then run to the windward, and occasionally lie to for a few moments. At about 2 o'clock she was suddenly observed to go to the windward, her lights showing her location. About this time Capt. Lusk let go his tow line. The propeller was seen to turn her head to the wind. A moment afterward she was lying between two monstrous waves. She careened, and pitched upward. Her foresail dipped into the water. Cries of distress from those on board were plainly heard by the officers and crew of the Mayes. The shrieks of the hapless women could be plainly distinguished above the hoarse roar of the waves and the howling of the winds. The impenetrable darkness increased the horror of the scene. It was impossible for human aid to save. The unfortunate ship for a moment lay poised on the surface of the black waters, then her lights disappeared, and the terrifying shrieks of those unhappy beings was heard no more. The brave men who witnessed the catastrophe say it was the most appalling moment of their lives. Not a sign or vestige of the vessel was seen afterward. The schooner Mayes was also in danger of foundering. It required the constant attention and the utmost energy of the officers and men to keep her before the wind and to attend to navigating her. The Equinox was commanded by Capt. Dwight Scott, of Cleveland. There were twenty-five persons on board, including two passengers, a daughter and granddaughter of Capt. Scott, both of them young ladies.

B. F. MURPHY, of Chicago, has, like his late partner, B. F. Allen, joined the grand army of Bankrupts. Liabilities, $425,000; assets, $500, consisting of personal property and clothing.... Mrs. Abraham Lincoln has been released from the asylum at Batavia, Ill., and is now the guest of her sister at Springfield.... The second trial of P. P. Wintermute, for the murder of Gen. McCook, at Yankton, Dakota, has resulted in a verdict of not guilty.

NEXT to the loss of the propeller Equinox, the most serious disaster caused by the recent hurricane on Lake Michigan was the wreck of the propeller Mendota, off Big Point Sauble. The number of persons on board the propeller previous to the disaster was twenty, including the officers, passengers and crew. Of this number only seven were saved by taking to the boats, and after remaining on the lake for twenty-nine hours, were picked up by the schooner Addie, off Manitowoc, and were taken to that port. The remaining thirteen went down with the vessel.

A DISPATCH from Red Cloud Agency says there will be no difficulty in treating with the Indians for the purchase of the Black Hills country. They are perfectly willing to sell, and will take whatever is offered them, as they say that the white men are going to occupy that country anyway. It is thought that the Commission will not offer the Indians much money, but will provide for their sustenance for a long term of years, which arrangement would be preferable for all parties, as the government must support them anyway.

REV. JOHN H. H. BROWN, of Cohoes, N. Y., has been elected Bishop of the Diocese of Fond du Lac, Wis. The dispute over the Episcopal Bishopric of Illinois has also been settled by the election of the Rev. Dr. McLaren, of Cleveland, to succeed the late Bishop Whitehouse. Dr. McLaren was until very recently a Presbyterian minister. His leanings are toward the High Church wing of the Church.

A MAN named [illegible], who has spent fifteen years among the Missouri River Indians, arrived at Sioux City the other day. He says there is very great dissatisfaction among them in regard to the Black Hills matter. Many of the Indians at Standing Rock and other agencies refuse to attend the Red Cloud council, and openly avow their intention of going on the war path if the Hills are opened to the whites.... Another great banking institution is about to be established in San Francisco, by the Lazard Brothers.... A shocking casualty is reported from Terre Haute, Ind. The boiler of a threshing machine engine exploded, and the straw surrounding the machine catching fire, three [illegible]

THE SOUTH.

THE Supreme Court of West Virginia has decided that the act removing the capital from Charleston to Wheeling is constitutional and valid.

A CINCINNATI dispatch says the people of the Southwest are not altogether satisfied with the fast mail arrangements. They charge Postmaster-General Jewell with discriminating against their section of the country in favor of Chicago and the West.

A DISPATCH from Nashville, Tenn., says five more counterfeiters have been arrested at Tuscaloosa, Ala. A basketful of spurious money was also captured.

GARRET D. SMITH, Cashier of the Louisville Gas Company, is a defaulter to a large amount, variously estimated at from $30,000 to $60,000.

WASHINGTON.

IN accordance with the request of the press, it has been decided to hold the sessions of the commission to investigate the charges made by Prof. Marsh in public.

GENERAL.

CABLE rates from New York to England and France have been reduced to one shilling sterling per word.... The recent storm on the lakes caused serious loss to shipping in the vicinity of Chicago, and a number of disasters are reported. Seven vessels were stranded and one sunk off that city. The loss of life was fortunately very small, compared to the number of shipwrecks.

HON. HENRY T. BLOW, a wealthy and prominent citizen of St. Louis, ex-Member of Congress and ex-Minister to Venezuela, died last week at Saratoga, aged 85 years.... The single scull race for the championship of the world between Morris and Coulter, at Pittsburgh, last week, resulted in a victory for the former.... Cable rates between the United States and the United Kingdom have been reduced to one shilling per word.

IT is reported that a rich silver-bearing district—one of the richest in the world in natural indications—has been discovered in Alaska.... A teller in the Bank of Commerce, of Montreal, has absconded with $50,000 of the bank's funds.... President Grant has returned to Washington.... Carl Schurz has arrived home from Europe.... The National Association of Lumbermen met in Chicago last week. J. G. Thorpe, of Wisconsin, presided.... The great stallion race for the championship of the United States and Canada and a purse of $10,000, at Mystic Park, Boston, was won by Thomas Jefferson. Time, 2:26; 2:25¼; 2:26.

THE Society of the Army of the Cumberland had their annual reunion at Utica, N. Y., last week. There was a large attendance, including President Grant, Gens. Sherman, Hooker and other notables.

POLITICAL.

VICTOR C. POILLETTE is the Democratic candidate for State Treasurer in Pennsylvania. He is the leader of the Grange movement in the State.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL PIERREPONT, on the 10th inst., telegraphed to Gov. Ames, of Mississippi, that United States troops had been put in readiness, and asking him if there was such an insurrection against the government as could not be put down without Federal assistance. Receiving no reply, the Attorney-General again telegraphed to the same effect on the 11th. On the 12th Ames replied in a very long telegram, giving an explanation that it was a question of race, and he still thought there was necessity for troops. The correspondence was all turned over to President Grant.

A DELEGATION of Mississippi Republicans visited Washington last week, for the purpose of invoking Federal aid to suppress disturbances in that State. Upon the subject of disturbances at the present time, the delegation was united in the admission that none existed. What they represented was, that there was always danger of serious difficulties unless the State government, which is utterly unable to give them protection, shall have the assistance of the general government. In fact, the State government could not be carried on without the aid of the United States.

CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS has written a letter in which he positively declines to become a candidate for the Presidency next year.

FOREIGN.

MAIL advices from India bring news of a disastrous fire at the town of Sreenugger, by which 1,500 houses were destroyed.... It is reported from Vienna that the Pope has instructed the Catholic Bishops in Bosnia and Herzegovina to use their influence in calming the people and to facilitate the pacification of those Provinces.

THE foot-and-mouth disease is still playing havoc with the cattle of Great Britain, all efforts to stay its progress having failed.

THE south of France has had another disastrous flood, as have the Mediterranean regions generally.... Eleven persons recently perished from gas in the Downington Wood Colliery, in Shropshire.... The latest report from the insurrection in Herzegovina represents the insurgents as gaining strength all the time.

THE Bonapartist movement in France is rapidly spreading, and copies of the Pays and Ordre and M. Duval's recent speech are being circulated in the Paris barracks. The French government is considerably alarmed.... It is not improbable that Servia will participate in the Turkish revolt. A portion of the Servian Chamber are in favor of an immediate declaration of war against the Porte. A number of distinguished Servian officers have gone to Bosnia.... A cable dispatch says 612 men and 158 women have been indicted in Russia for participating in the Socialist movement.

IF the dispatches from Constantinople are to be believed, the Herzegovinian insurrection against Turkey is practically ended. A few bands of rebels still maintain their positions in the mountain fastnesses, and make occasional incursions into the surrounding territory. They are always hotly pursued by the Turks, however, and suffer severe losses by each raid.

LATEST accounts from the Fiji Islands tell of the awful epidemic of measles which has raged with unabated fury for the past four months. It is estimated that the disease has already carried off one-third of the population, and that unless checked it will in a short time wipe out the native element.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

Weekly Review of the Chicago Markets.

FINANCIAL.

There was no change to note in rates, the abundance of money and comparatively light demand enabling borrowers with good security to obtain favors at 7@10 per cent. Government bonds firm and steady, with a good inquiry.

BREADSTUFFS.

The grain markets during the past week have attracted considerable attention from speculators, and a liberal business was transacted. The markets have been very unsettled, and fluctuations in values were both frequent and severe. The closing quotations, however, show a slight advance on wheat, oats and barley and a decline on corn. The main influence governing the movements of speculators was the weather. Fine favorable weather produced a desire to sell, while prices would rule lower under the heavy offerings, then again when it would be cold sellers would hold off and buyers would take hold freely, causing a reaction and an improvement in values. The receipts were generally higher and the shipments heavier, the stock in store showing a steady decrease, and holders are therefore firmer in their views. Corn was the chief center of interest, the market at one time ruling 4c lower, then recovered 2@3c, and closed steady. Eastern advices were generally favorable. The markets closed steady all round.

The following table shows the prices current at the opening and close of the past week:

	Opening.	Closing.
No. 2 sp'g wheat, cash	$1.14½@1.15	@1.15¼
No. 2, seller September	@1.14¼	$1.13¾@1.15¼
No. 2, seller October	1.12¾@1.12¾	@1.12¾
No. 2 corn, cash	@ .61½	@ .60¼
No. 2 corn, seller Sept.	.60 @ .60½	@ .59¼
No. 2 corn, s. October	.60½@ .61	.58¾ bid
No. 2 oats, cash	@ .34½	.36¼ bid
No. 2 oats, seller Sept	@ .34½	@ .35¼
No. 2 oats, s. October	.33½@ .33½	@ .34
No. 2 rye, cash	.78 @ .78½	.78½@ .78¾
No. 2 rye, s. Sept	.78 @ .78½	@ .76
No. 2 barley, cash	1.08 @1.09	@1.12
No. 2 barley, s. Sept.	1.07 @1.08	@1.12
No. 2 barley, s. Oct.	@1.03	@1.06¼
No. 3 barley, cash	@ .78	@ .74

PROVISIONS.

The aggregate amount of business transacted in this market was quite liberal, but prices were rather irregular, being higher for mess pork, but a shade easier on lard. Eastern advices were not very favorable in tenor, but the market was governed mainly by local speculators, and outside reports had but little influence in directing the course of the market. At the close of the week sales of cash mess pork sold at $21.75@22.00, closed quiet at $21.75; seller September sold at $21.60@21.75, closed at the inside; seller October closed steady at $21.00. Cash lard closed quiet at $12.85, and seller October at $12.90@12.95.

PRODUCE.

There was no particular alteration in the condition of the butter market during the past week. There was but little demand on shipping and there were but few repackers on the market buying. The receipts were again very light and the supply of the better grades was barely sufficient to meet the requirements of the trade. The advices received from Eastern markets were again discouraging in tenor, but these reports had no apparent effect in the market, and although the business transacted was light prices were steady and firm, and they are at present higher at this market than any other large distributing point. The market closed at 23@28c for extras, 18@22c for firsts, 16@17c for seconds, 14@16c for thirds, and 12@13c for inferior stock. There was nothing worth mentioning done in beans and values remain without alteration. Quotable at $1.80 for prime Eastern mediums, and $1.25@1.75 for Western do. Beeswax remains dull at 26@28c for prime yellow. There was a good trade reported in broom corn and prices were firm, as follows: 10½@12c for No. 1 to extra hurl, 10@11c for stalk braid and 6@8½c for crooked. Cheese was rather quiet, but a firm feeling pervaded the market and former prices were maintained. Quotations range at 5@8c for common, 9@10c for good, and 10½c for prime in lots. There were several lots of cranberries received, but these were not very choice and no sales of consequence were made. Dried fruits were very quiet, but prices remain steady and unchanged. Quotable at 10c for prime Eastern apples, 11c for halves peaches, and 11c for blackberries. There was a fair demand for choice fresh eggs and prices were steady, but old and new lots in barrels were almost unsalable. The market closed at 13@14c, the outside being in a small way. Feathers were firmer owing to an improvement in the demand. Quotable at 53@55c for prime live geese, 20@25c for turkey tail, and 3@5c for chicken. Game when in good order met with an urgent demand, but as nearly all of the consignments received were in poor order the market ruled dull. Sales ranged at $2.50@3.00 per doz for prairie chickens, $2.50@3.00 for mallard ducks, and $1.75@2.00 for small. Green fruits were in fair demand, but the stock was so excessively large that prices ruled very low. Good cooking apples sold at $2.00@2.25 in lots; common descriptions sold all the way from 75c@$1.50 per brl, according to quality. Eating apples quotable at $2.50@3.00 in a retail way, and good choice fruit offered in lots at $2.00@2.25. Baskets and boxes were almost unsalable. Siberian apples quotable at $1.00@1.50 per brl, and 10@25c for baskets. Transcendents $2.00@3.50 per brl, and 20@30c for baskets. Quotations for grapes range at $1.00@1.10 for crates of two baskets; $1.00@1.25 for cases of 16 quarts, and $1.50@1.75 for crates of 24 lbs. Crates containing 12 3-lb boxes of Concords sold at $3.00. Choice Delaware sold at $5.00@5.40 for 36-lb crates, containing boxes of 2 and 1 lb each. Pears quotable at 40@60c for Michigan baskets, $1.50@2.00 for Delaware baskets, and $5.00@8.00 for New York in brls. Green and Purple Gage plums in ⅓-bu boxes sold at 50c@2.00 for poor to common, and $3.50@4.00 for good to choice; Damsons in the same sized packages sold at $4.50 for choice, and for Bradshaws $4.50 was also received. One-eighth-bu baskets of Lumbards, Green and Purple Gages and Damsons sold at $1.00, but some green Lumbards had to be disposed of at 50c. Peaches sold at $1.00@1.75 in boxes containing ⅓-bu, and 50c@$1.00 in baskets containing ⅝ bu, according to quality. The demand was rather light for melons and the market ruled quiet. Quotations ranged at $18.00@25.00 for good to choice watermelons per 100 and nutmegs sold at $1.00@1.25 per doz for choice. Potatoes remain dull at 75c@$1.00 per brl, $3.00@4.50 for sweet, according to quality. Salt was fairly active and firm at $1.50 for Onondaga and Saginaw fine, and $1.70 for ordinary coarse. Veal was in good demand and firm at 4@9c for common to choice carcasses. Vegetables were very dull, and the offerings of all kinds were in excess of the demand. Quotations range at 75c@$1.00 per brl for onions, 20@30c per bu for tomatoes, 50@75c per doz for egg plant, and $1.00@1.75 for cauliflower, according to quality. Wool was also dull, but prices remain steady at 38@42c for fine to coarse washed, 25@33c for do unwashed, and 40@48c for poor to prime tub.

SEEDS AND HIGHWINES.

Timothy seed was quite active during the week, but there was a large amount of common received, and for this grade ruled easier, but prime under only moderate offerings was steady and firm. The market closed with sales [illegible] 2.50 for [illegible]@2.35 for common to good, $2.40@ [illegible] choice old, and $2.70 was paid for a lot of [illegible] prices in the highwines were inactive, and quotable at about $1.[illegible] sales were nominal;

COOPERAGE, LUMBER.

The usual quietness again pervaded the market for cooperage, but as there is little stock pressing on the market, [illegible] but prices were maintained. Quotations ranged at $1.12½@1.15 for pork barrels, $1.35@1.45 for lard tierces, $1.90@2.10 for whisky barrels, and 45@50c for flour barrels. Lumber was again rather quiet, and, although the offerings were only moderate, there was more than sufficient on the market than was necessary to supply the demand. The market closed at $7.75@8.00 for joist and scantling, $8.00@16.00 for common strips and boards, $2.00@2.70 for shingles, and [illegible] for lath. Wood continues to rule dull, and prices remain without essential change. Quotable at $8.00 per cord for hickory, $7.00 for maple, $6.00 for beech, and $5.00 for slabs.

Telegraphic Market Reports.

NEW YORK.
BEEVES	8 00	@12 50
HOGS—Dressed	10½	@ 11¼
COTTON	14¼	@ 14¾
FLOUR—Superfine Western	4 75	@ 5 25
WHEAT—No. 2 Chicago	1 23	@ 1 24
CORN	72	@ 76
OATS	39	@ 56
RYE	90	@ 96
PORK—New Mess	21 00	@21 25
LARD—Steam	13½	@ 13¾
ST. LOUIS.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	1 57	@ 1 58
CORN—No. 2	[illegible]	@ 60
OATS—No 2	36	@ 38
RYE—No. 2	[illegible]	@ [illegible]
PORK—Mess	21 50	@21 75
LARD	13	@ 13
HOGS	7 20	@ 7 80
CATTLE	6 25	@ 6 35
MILWAUKEE.
WHEAT—No. 1	1 19	@ 1 21
No. 2	1 13	@ 1 14
CORN—No. 2	58	@ 61
OATS—No. 2	34	@ 36
RYE	76	@ 78
BARLEY—No. 2	1 10	@ 1 12
CINCINNATI.
WHEAT—New	1 15	@ 1 35
CORN	69	@ 74
OATS	38	@ 50
RYE	78	@ 90
PORK—Mess	21 40	@21 50
LARD	13	@ 13
TOLEDO.
WHEAT—Extra	1 36	@ 1 38
Amber	1 27	@ 1 29
CORN	65	@ 67
OATS	41	@ 42
DETROIT.
WHEAT—Extra	1 35	@ 1 37
No. 1 White	1 26	@ 1 27
No. 2 White	1 24	@ 1 26
Amber	1 25	@ 1 28
CORN	66	@ 66
OATS	43	@ 46
BARLEY—No. 2	1 00	@ 1 02
PORK—Mess	..	@22 50
CLEVELAND.
WHEAT—No. 1 Red	..	@ 1 38
No. 2 Red	..	@ 1 28
CORN	69	@ 71
OATS	45	@ 49

Export Provision Trade.

From the reports of the Bureau of Statistics the New York Bulletin compiles an interesting table, showing the remarkable increase of our export provision trade during the past five years. In 1869 the value of our exports of hog products and breadstuffs was as follows:

Hog products	$18,300,000
Wheat	24,300,000
Flour	18,800,000
Indian corn	6,800,000
Total	$68,200,000

In 1874 the value of the same articles was:

Hog products	$ 58,500,000
Wheat	101,400,000
Flour	29,300,000
Indian corn	24,800,000
Total	$214,000,000

This shows an increase of $145,800,000, or more than 200 per cent. in the contribution of the leading agricultural products to our export trade, within a period of six years. Facts like these must, as the Bulletin says, soon have their effect upon the commercial prosperity of the nation.

The London Times.

A correspondent of the New York Graphic states that the "Thunderer" contains 120 columns of solid matter. There are twenty pages packed solid, without a vacant line. There is no leaded matter, except the leading articles, special dispatches, and one of the foreign letters. He estimates that the amount of matter given to any of the New York dailies, except the Sun, would fill no less than forty pages. The sixty-seven columns of advertising in one day bring in as high as £1,765. All the year round the Times averages about fifty columns of advertisements a day. At this rate its income must reach about £430,000 a year, and it is from this source that it must wholly—or chiefly—pay all its expenses other than those of papermakers, compositors, and presswork. Out of the £430,000 received for advertisements all its other expenses must be defrayed. The clear profit is estimated at £120,000 per annum.

Plant-Life.

Professor Clark, of Amherst Agricultural College, gives in his late paper on plant life an experiment performed by J. J. H. Gregory on a growing squash vine. When a shingle was set upright in the ground near the growing tip, the plant turned toward it. On removing the shingle to the opposite side, the vine changed its course toward the shingle. Another squash vine, after running along the ground ten or twelve feet, passed under the branches of a tree four feet above it. It stopped, and turned upward, and grew in this direction until it could no longer sustain itself, and fell to the ground; it again rose, and again fell. A third effort was made with a like result, and it then ceased trying.

OUR NATIONAL GAME.—Cricketers, heads of public schools, of athletic clubs, and of the universities in England, have been long deliberating over the merits of base ball. Their decision is at last arrived at, and it is a unanimous one. It is to the effect that base-ball is more fit for boys under 12 or 14 than for men, and that it is never likely to find favor with English adults. It is acknowledged to be an improvement upon the old game of "rounders," but another objection is thus stated: "The authoritative and dictatorial powers wielded in the game by the umpires are sufficient to militate against the possibility of its ever becoming popular in England."

RUNS IN THE FAMILY.—A Missouri family history runs thus: Sallie White ran away some years ago with her brother-in-law, Aaron Davis; he, however, returned to his wife, and she married a Mr. Neely, who eloped and left her. Two years ago her cousin, Ezekiel, ran away with a Mrs. Windham, both parties leaving families. Last month Aaron Davis' son, Myron, a boy of 19, ran away with his mother's sister, a woman of 30, and to complete matters his father again eloped with his sister-in-law, Sallie.

A SAN FRANCISCO man refused to take his photographs because they made him look too ugly; the photographer sued for his pay, the picture was put in evidence and the jury decided that the man must pay his bill.

A CORRESPONDENT of a London paper asserts that the inhabitants of Montenegro are the dirtiest people on earth.

The Houses of Parliament and Westminster Abbey.

The houses of Parliament—the House of Commons and the House of Lords—stand close by the river at Westminster, with the Abbey in the rear. Probably you will be more pleased with them than with the other buildings that you have seen in London. For, while they are large and imposing, they have a sort of airy grace, which is produced by numerous towers, spires, and abundant scroll-work. To what can I compare them? They seem so finely wrought that they might be woven of lace instead of stone, and they realize all one's ideas of a palace, even of a fairy palace. At night, too, when the Parliament is in session and all the windows stream forth light, they are still more beautiful and still more inviting to the fancy. The interior is also exquisitely grand; and this is the great legislative hall where the Queen, the Lords and the Commoners meet in council to frame laws for the people.

Westminster Abbey is a much older and nobler building than the houses of Parliament. Within its walls rest the remains or monuments of all those Englishmen who have distinguished themselves by brave deeds in peace and war. "Victory or Westminster Abbey," cried Lord Nelson in entering one of his sea-fights, and he echoed a common ambition. Burial in this sacred place is the highest honor that can be paid to an Englishman, and it is only allowed to the greatest. At one side there is a small space called the "Poets' Corner," containing the fresh grave of Charles Dickens. Silent neighbors to him are the memorials or remains of Chaucer, Spenser, Shakespeare, Camden, Ben Jonson, Milton, Dryden, Addison, Handel, Garrick, Goldsmith, Sheridan, Macaulay, Thackeray, Palmerston, and others no less famous in history and literature. Another part of the abbey is divided into ten chapels, within which repose the kings, queens and princes; and the transepts and aisles also shelter illustrious dead.—St. Nicholas for September.

A Pull-Back Incident.

The Norristown (Pa.) Herald has this: A subscriber in the country sends us a graphic account of a thrilling and ludicrous incident that happened in his neighborhood last week. A fashionable city girl came out to visit his sisters. She wore a jaunty hat, a coquettish spit curl, and the pull-backedest sort of a pull-back dress. On Thursday his two sisters and the city girl meandered out the shady lane to drink the beauties of the scenery and talk about the beaux. Presently a loud bellowing was heard, and a mad bull was seen pawing the dirt at the other end of the lane, and coming toward the ladies. The country girls, admonishing their friend to "run quick," went over a four-rail fence into an adjoining field with the agility, if not the grace, of a circus actor. The city damsel attempted to "run quick," but it was a mournful failure. She was only five yards from the fence, but the longest step she could achieve was not over six inches, and her frantic efforts to escape the impending danger were painful to witness. The bull was coming nearer and nearer, with mischief in his eye, and his tail switching ominously. For a minute or two the situation was such as would have filled the soul of a newspaper reporter with joy. But the fashionably-dressed young lady proved equal to the emergency. She just laid down and rolled to the fence, and by an overwhelming effort, "busted" the pin-back arrangement, and went over the fence regardless of etiquette, or anything else, and the bull passed on with a sample of her dress on his horns, muttering all the while about the rainy spell, or something that way. That city girl says the next time she visits the country she will wear skirts expansive enough to permit her to step over a hay wagon, should necessity or a cross bull require it.

Dropped Into His Boot.

Young men should be prepared for weddings, especially their own, and clergymen should be more particular than in the story told by the Kingston (N. Y.) Freeman, which says: "A couple who undertook to get married the other day, had rather a troublesome time of it. They went, accompanied by the bridesmaid and groomsman, to one of our churches, and were ushered into the sacred edifice and escorted to the altar by the sexton, who, however, got the parties mixed up, stationing the bridesmaid next to the bridegroom, and the bride and groomsman in corresponding wrong positions. The clergyman, not noticing the mistake, went on with the ceremony and began marrying the bridesmaid to the bridegroom, when the bride served an injunction on him by exclaiming that she was the marrying party. The mistake being remedied, the clergyman took another hitch at it and the performance went smoothly along until the time came for the bridegroom to produce the ring essential to the completion of the ceremony. But when that gentleman felt in his vest pocket it wasn't there; in the other—not there; in the trowsers pocket—not there; and then he dove down to the bottom of the remaining pocket, and finally exclaimed, 'Well, sure, there's a hole in me pocket and the ring has slipped down into me boot.' And the only way to finish the ceremony was for the bridegroom to sit down, pull off his boot, take out the ring, pull on his boot, stand up like a man, put the ring where it ought to go, and walk out with his bride—and all this he did."

Romance of Female Barbers.

A feature of the fashionable watering-places in Virginia this season is the female barbers. One of them has an establishment at the White Sulphur Springs, and her skill with a razor is only excelled by the fascinations of her person and her manners. The other day as a Baltimore lady was passing the shop, she met her husband, who is perfectly beardless, coming out, and with such a pleased expression on his face that her indignation was aroused.

"What are you doing in there, sir?" she savagely inquired.

"Taking a shave, my dear," he placidly replied.

"Taking a shave! Why, you barefaced old prevaricator, you couldn't raise half a dozen hairs on that brass cheek of yours if your life depended on it."

"That's very true, my dear," returned the incorrigible man, "but I like to have her feel for 'em."—Brooklyn Argus.

The Home Doctor.

WARTS.—Lunar caustic carefully applied so as not to touch the skin, will destroy warts.

GALLING.—To prevent galling in persons confined to their beds, take the white of an egg, beat it to a strong froth, and drop in gradually, while beating, two teaspoonfuls of spirits of wine; put the mixture into a bottle of wine, and apply occasionally with a feather.

TO PREVENT FELONS.—The following directions, carefully observed, will prevent those cuticular and osseous abominations known as felons: As soon as the disease is felt, put directly over the spot a fly blister, about the size of your thumb nail, and let it remain for six hours, at the expiration of which time, directly under the surface of the blister may be seen the felon, which can instantly be taken out with the point of a needle or lancet.

NOSE-BLEED.—To stop bleeding at the nose, press the finger firmly upon the little artery that supplies the blood to the side of the face affected. Two small arteries branching up from the main arteries on each side of the neck, and passing over the outside of the jawbone, supply the face with blood. If the nose bleeds from the right nostril, for example, pass the finger along the edge of the right jaw till the beating of the artery is felt. Press hard upon it and the bleeding will cease. Continue the pressure five minutes, until the ruptured vessels in the nose have time to contract.

BRUISES.—The best application for a bruise, be it large or small, is moist warmth; therefore, a warm bread-and-water poultice in hot moist flannels should be put on, as they supple the skin. If the bruise be very severe, and in the neighborhood of a joint, it will be well to apply ten or a dozen leeches over the whole bruised part, and afterwards a poultice. But leeches should not be put on young children. If the bruised part be in the knee or ankle, walking should not be attempted till it can be performed without pain. Inattention to this point often lays the foundation for serious mischief in these joints, especially in the case of scrofulous persons.

GLUE AS A CURE FOR CUTS.—A correspondent of the Scientific American writes as follows: "For the last twelve or fourteen years I have been employed in a shop where there are over 300 men at work, and, as is the case in all shops of this kind, hardly a day passes without one or more of us cutting or bruising our limbs. At first there were but few who found their way to my department to have their wounds bound up; but after awhile it became generally known that a rag glued on a flesh wound was not only a speedy curative, but a formidable protection against further injury. I was soon obliged to keep a supply of rags on hand, to be ready for any emergency. I will here cite one among many of the cases cured with glue: A man was running a boring machine, with an inch and a quarter auger attached. By some means the sleeve of his shirt caught in the auger, bringing his wrist in contact with the bit, tearing the flesh among the muscles in a frightful manner. He was conducted to my department (the pattern shop), and I washed the wound in warm water, and glued around it a cloth, which, when dry, shrunk into a rounded shape, holding the wound tight and firm. Once or twice a week, for three or four weeks, I dressed the wound afresh, and it was well. The man never lost an hour's time in consequence. The truth of this statement hundreds can testify to. I use, of course, the best quality of glue."

A Flood Incident.

Last Saturday, says the Des Moines Register, Michael McDonaugh, with his wife and three children, who live a mile southwest of B. F. Allen's residence in Coon Bottom, were surprised by the flood, and before they were able to move out found the water flooding the floor of their house. They were compelled to reach a higher place, and climbed to the roof, where they remained, children and all, until Monday noon, with nothing save a few ears of green corn for food. One of the children was a babe, and the mother was unable to sleep for fear of rolling off the roof. The whole family were thus compelled to sit on the inclined roof for forty-eight hours with scarcely any food and no sleep. The neighbors thought they had escaped to their relations, while the relations concluded that the neighbors had cared for them; and through this misunderstanding they were left in this condition until Mr. McDonaugh's mother-in-law tried to reach their house, and being unable to, went to McDonaugh's brothers to see them. Not finding them she became alarmed, and the brothers endeavored to reach them Sunday night, but could not on account of the current. Monday they obtained a skiff and rescued them, almost starved, from their perilous position. In the afternoon efforts were made to remove their things, but they found all destroyed. All their stock was drowned or lost, and as this home was their all it leaves the family in a destitute condition.

An Elaborate Suicide.

George G. Howard, a student of Monmouth Academy, committed suicide on the 31st ult, by shooting himself. He took off a part of his clothing and hung it on a tree, laying aside also his knife and wallet. Across two large stones, almost breast high, he laid a stick on which to rest the gun, cutting notches in the stick to prevent the gun from slipping, and confining each end by placing on it rocks for a weight. By tearing cloth into shreds he formed a string, which he attached to the trigger, and thence carried it over the stick as a purchase, designing, evidently, to pull it after he had seated himself against a great boulder, with the muzzle of the gun in his mouth. But the string broke, and he then discharged the gun by pushing against the trigger with the ramrod. The top of his head was blown off, and pieces of his skull were found several rods distant. With his clothing he left a paper collar, on which he had written these words: "I have lived long enough, so here goes. I have got in a mighty charge."—Portland (Me.) Press.

POLKTON, N. C., is conspicuous for a gosling with two alimentary canals.

AUBURN COURIER

T. C. BAYS, PUBLISHER.

GOSSIP OF THE DAY.

Mr. [illegible] is putting his best foot forward in the race for Sheriff of a Minnesota county.

James Gordon Bennett, Jr., of the New York Herald, is going to marry the daughter of "[illegible]" [illegible].

A double marriage recently took place in an Iowa corn-field between a couple of romantic young men who left home with their girls ostensibly to go to a circus.

The champion heavy couple are Mr. and Mrs. Bates, of Whitesburg, Ky. He weighs 478 pounds, and she 413; both measure 6 feet 11 inches in height, he is 28, she 27.

At a meeting of the merchants of Windsor, Canada, opposite Detroit, recently, it was agreed that hereafter a discount of 20 per cent. should be charged on United States silver coin.

We thought they would before long. The mediums have commenced getting communications from Ralston. He hasn't told yet what he did with the $4,000,000 he defaulted, or whether he suicided or not.

Barry Sullivan, the Irish tragedian, received a great ovation at the hands of his countrymen in New York. The Sixty-ninth regiment escorted him to Booth's theater, the neighborhood of which was thronged with enthusiastic people.

There was recently a wholesale shooting of illicit traders in horse-flesh in New Mexico. Four notorious horse-thieves were taken out of the Fort Augustine jail at night, marched to a little grove, tied to one tree and shot down like dogs.

The Prince of Wales has ordered the manufacture of several hundred gold and silver medals bearing his noble profile, which he intends to distribute in his contemplated Indian tour, and the world will be forever indebted to the royal philanthropist.

Krupp, the German cannon founder, has refused to sell the British government one of his big guns. In reply to a request for one he said he was "willing to contract for the arming of as many forts and ships as England wanted, at home or abroad, but he must decline to part with specimens for experimental purposes."

All the waiters at the Twin Mountain House, where Beecher makes his summer headquarters, are either students or teachers, who are spending their vacation in a healthful atmosphere, and obtaining a fair remuneration for light labor. What they lack in experience is more than compensated by careful attention and agreeable manners. Suitable provision is made for their comfort and the preservation of their self-respect, and they are in no way identified with the ordinary servants of the hotel.

The Philadelphia Press states that the long-projected and secretly-negotiated air-line road from Boston to the West, which is designed to be a great rival to all the other roads now running from the Eastern seaboard to the Rocky Mountains, is gradually working its way through Pennsylvania by a series of links which are regarded as mere local roads by the people living along the line, but which, when all finished, will constitute one of the great thoroughfares of travel, if it does not rival and override several which are now regarded as monopolies.

An English paper, giving some evidence with regard to the tenacity with which snails hold on to life, relates that a lady, having collected some with prettily marked shells, wished to preserve them. She therefore subjected them to a bath in boiling water, and put them on a shelf to dry. The next morning, to her astonishment, she found the boiled snails crawling about the shelf, and some of them taking their breakfast upon the paste she had meant to use in cementing their shells together. The tender-hearted lady sat down and had a "good cry," and resolved that she would never attempt to boil snails again.

A curious relic of old slavery times turns up in the shape of a race of negroes, ex-slaves of the Seminole Indians. These people were moved with their owners, the Seminoles, from Florida to Texas, many years ago. Subsequently they fled into Mexico, and, induced by certain promises that were never kept, returned to Texas, where they are now in an impoverished condition. They want rations and transportation to Florida, in which State they think they can make homes for themselves. They number about 500, men, women and children; are a distinct race from the Seminoles, and are like all negroes, except that they are accustomed to bearing arms, are brave and daring, and superior to the Indians in fighting qualities. The army officers in Texas and their superiors unite in advising the Indian Department to send them to Florida.

The circumstances of Mr. Ralston's death now indicate at least an equal probability that it was from apoplexy, suddenly developed in going into the water for a bath while in a highly excited condition of mind and warm state of body. It would be more agreeable to his friends to accept this view, yet nothing seems to us more natural than that he should choose to end his life at this great crisis in his career. He was large enough to be a philosopher in the end but he had not the culture which brings it as a ready minister in times of trial; and we do not think it can be held a fatal charge against his character that, in a moment of so great a revulsion, he chose to accept death rather than read just life.

Mr. Wm. Fouh, of Hoboken, N. J., recently had a thrilling adventure with an escaped madman. While driving leisurely along the highway he was accosted by a sprightly-looking, well-dressed gentleman of some thirty years old, who declared he was fatigued and sadly in need of a ride. Mr. Fouh, being of a kindly disposition, gave him a seat in his buggy. The conduct of the lunatic who accompanied Hood in the balloon was gentle compared with that of this stranger. He began by twisting his face into a variety of convolutions; then his eyes glared as if with rage or torture; he stared menacingly at the driver, and made a powerful effort to snatch the reins. Mr. Fouh affected not to notice this much, and drew up the horse. He coaxed his dangerous companion to alight and adjust the bit in the animal's mouth. The lunatic jumped out, and then Fouh plied his whip with fury. The horse flew away, and the driver was blessing his stars, but on looking behind him, to his horror he saw a man clinging to the vehicle and leaning over him, with a huge knife flashing in his hand. Fouh seized his whip and dealt him a heavy blow on the head, felling him on the road. The horse still rushed on, and the madman rose and followed closely for some time, when his strength failed him and he was lost sight of. It is safe to wager that the next stranger that applies to Mr. Fouh for a ride, will not be so readily accommodated.

MERE MENTION.

Fly-time is nearly over.

Detroit has a Sunday law.

A. H. Stephens weighs 96.

A Norwich, Ct., cat has 26 toes.

Kentucky has 100,000 Grangers.

The camp-meeting season is over.

A Pennsylvania hen catches mice.

Ku-Kluxism in Illinois is about ended.

Iowa's population has increased 100,000.

Gilt-edged paper collars are the latest.

Boston has 17,305 more males than females.

The Marquis of Lorne has written a poem.

Boston is to have a University for women.

France makes 175,000,000 bottles every year.

Gov. Tilden is a bachelor, and worth $5,000,000.

A man has just died in Brazil at the age of 150.

Sewing-Machine Singer left a fortune of $13,000,000.

Bayard Taylor protests against the prize candy business.

Col. Hatch urges that the Seminoles be returned to Florida.

Vanderbilt is said to own no real estate in his own name.

Storey, of the Chicago Times, is building a $40,000 residence.

Over 4,500,000 missives go to the Dead Letter Office yearly.

Barnum has an advertising car which will fit any street railroad.

"Grasshopper Hump" is the new name for the pin 'em backs.

Two children in Cedar Rapids were nearly killed by chewing green card-board.

A bust of President Lincoln has been ordered for the public library at Springfield, Ill.

The Chilian government contemplates the introduction of salmon into the rivers of Chili.

Mr. Moody's admirers in Chicago propose to finish his mission church for a welcome home.

The Bible is now printed in no fewer than 210 languages. In 1854 it was printed in only 50.

Gov. Kirkwood, of Iowa, has avowed himself a believer in the distant advent of woman's suffrage.

Anthracite coal, in large quantities, has been discovered in the Shenandoah Mountains of Virginia.

In Des Moines recently the life insurance agents had a crack base-ball nine, who could beat any amateur club in the vicinity. A wag made a bet with the leading man of the insurance interest that within three days he could get up an amateur nine to beat the insurance club in a friendly game. The bet was taken, and when the day came, the agents were horrified to discover that every man in the opposing nine carried a heavy policy on his life. The effect was that the agents did not dare to bat, throw, nor run hard, for fear of injuring some of their policy holders, and the insured were triumphant victors over the insurers.

After all he has said about oat-meal diet, Dio Lewis has the dyspepsia.

INDIANA NEWS.

Mishawaka has a Pop-the-Question avenue.

Fifteen thousand spelling-books were sold in Terre Haute last year.

H. C. Stewart has paid his subscription to the Kokomo Tribune up to Jan. 1, 1881.

A burglar in Covington stole ten cents from a man and then tried to cut his throat.

The paper mills at Milton were burned last Saturday night; loss, $25,000; fully insured.

Crawfordsville has a steamboat on Sugar creek capable of holding seven passengers.

A "one-hoss shay," pulled by a veritable bull, excited merriment in Michigan City lately.

Monarch, Jr., the Kokomo flyer, is entered for the $20,000 purse at Baltimore next fall.

In a foot race at Warsaw, between a peddler and a hotel landlord, the peddler came out victorious.

Ligonier's glory as the best grain market in Northern Indiana has been triumphantly re-established.

An applicant for a license to teach in Allen county, named "Franklin, Demosthenes and Cicero" as the leading orators of revolutionary times.

Alonzo McGinnis and Cyrus Gentry, employed in the stone quarry at St. Paul, were crushed to death by a fall of stone and earth, on Saturday last.

Henry Smith, a young man of Patriot about 17 years of age, died of pyaemia recently, which was caused by a catfish finning him on the foot some eight days previous.

Report says that a large poplar tree in the southern part of Harrison county recently sank into the earth and entirely disappeared, all but a few of the top branches.

A large brick building owned by Mr. Cherry, of Anderson, was entirely destroyed by fire Sunday night. Loss, $6,000. No insurance.

The new furnace at Knightsville, erected by the Runser Iron Company, is for the purpose of smelting the cinder accumulated at the various large furnaces.

Contractor Goldsmith expects to drive the last spike of the portion of the Lafayette, Muncie and Bloomington road connecting Muncie with Lafayette, October 20.

N. D. Lovelly, an old resident of Plymouth, was instantly killed at his farm, eight miles north, last Monday, by the large limb of a falling tree striking him on the head.

Dr. Lemuel Moss, of Chicago, has been elected President of the Indiana State University, Bloomington. Dr. Moss, though for many years a Chicagoan, is a native of Indiana.

Twenty-one wives abandoned by their husbands, applied at the Township Trustee's office, in Indianapolis, in the month of August for passes to enable them and their children to reach their friends.

The Clerk of Marshall county estimates his fees under the new fee bill at $1,650. Out of this he pays clerk hire to the amount of $1,300, leaving $350 for himself, and with which to pay for his blanks, etc.

A tall, lank man in Indianapolis, the other day, was wondering why every one that passed him commenced laughing when they looked at him. Having occasion to take off his coat, he discovered the cause of their mirth. On his coat a paper was pinned, on which was written, "Bread and potatoes wanted. Inquire within."

The corner-stone of the Rose Polytechnic Institute, the industrial school endowed with $450,000 as the free gift of Chauncey Rose, of Terre Haute, was laid with appropriate ceremonies in that city last Saturday. Twenty thousand people were present. Speeches were made by Col. W. K. Edwards and Barnabas Hobbs.

The Indianapolis Journal says: "The Cincinnati, Lafayette and Chicago Railroad Company are trying the expediency of employing lady telegraph operators, having two already employed. From a conversation with Superintendent Waldron we are informed that it is the intention of the company to place one at each station along the line."

Wm. Crim, the President of the State Board of Agriculture, has filed with the County Commissioners his protest against the granting of licenses to sell liquor on the fair grounds during the exposition, and all licenses will therefore be refused. This is the result of the very determined opposition to the measure throughout the State.

Dr. E. R. Hawn, a well-known evangelist, says the New Albany Ledger-Standard, is busily engaged in organizing societies of Latter-Day Saints near Marietta, in Crawford county. Several of the prominent saints have presented the Doctor with an elegant white gown, the tail of which sweeps the earth for twenty yards in every direction, and the portion of it which covers the huge abdomen of the evangelist is ornamented by a life-size portrait of Brigham Young and a splendid view of Salt Lake City.

AGRICULTURAL AND DOMESTIC.

Around the Farm.

Edward Clemens, of Levant, Me., has a pair of steers four months old, that girt four feet five inches and weigh 1,060 pounds.

The receipts of wool at Chicago from January 1 to August 20 were 26,480,418 pounds; the shipments amounted to 34,725,271 pounds.

Save the soot that falls from the chimneys, when the latter are cleaned. Twelve quarts of soot to a hogshead of water makes a good liquid manure to be applied to the roots of plants.

The Michigan Farmer, published at Detroit, has purchased a large four-cylinder Hoe press. The Farmer is the only agricultural paper printed in Michigan, and its prosperity proves that the farmers of the Wolverine State are a reading class.

Cure for Texas Fever.—The St. Louis Stock Yards Reporter says: One of the largest ranchmen in Texas assures us that one quart of sweet oil and a tablespoonful of calomel given to a beef, when first stricken with the disease, is an infallible cure for the fever, and that he has used this remedy with success for years.

A Pennsylvania farmer writes to the Bucks County Intelligencer that the Colorado beetles attack the tubers as soon as they are dug and the vines withered. In this case the potatoes were covered with the beetles and it was found necessary to gather them and remove them from the field to prevent the beetles from destroying them.

Many horses are ruined by harsh treatment when they are colts. Their dispositions are soured, and they come to look on man as a demon and an enemy. Teach the colt by every act that you are his friend. Be kind to him always and you will gain his confidence to that degree that he will always obey the word when he understands your meaning.

A correspondent of the Prairie Farmer, who has kept sheep for ten years, gives the following statement of his expenditures and receipts. He commenced with 32 sheep, and at different times bought 42 more. He has raised 356 lambs, killed 158 sheep, sheared 726 fleeces, or 4,136 pounds of wool, worth $1,357.92, and has sold 206 sheep for $475. Each sheep has paid him $2.51 per year.

Windgalls are the result of inflammation of the sheaths of the tendons, by which is caused an excessive secretion of the synovial fluid. The inflammation is generally caused by over exertion, sprains, or strains in driving or drawing. They cannot be permanently removed when once they are formed. They may be temporarily removed by pressure and cold bandages, or by careful blistering; but as they return on the first occasion of extra exertion the treatment is scarcely worth while.

Save Your Soapsuds.—A person who would throw away a barrel of soft soap, or a boxful of hard soap, would be called wasteful, as such material will operate like an excellent fertilizer when spread around fruit-trees of any sort, or berry-bushes. After a barrel of soap has been diluted, and has passed through the washtub, the elements of fertility in the mass will be even more valuable to growing trees and plants than if applied in any other manner.—Exchange.

Rye for Pasture.—The past winter and spring clearly demonstrated the great value of rye for winter and spring pasture. The unusual scarcity of grain and hay for stock consequent upon drought and grasshoppers proved beyond question the profit in a field of fall sown rye. It served not only for fall, winter and spring pasture, but where stock had not been allowed to run upon the field during wet weather, good crops of grain were harvested. The rye pasture is especially good for young stock of all kinds, and where farmers do not feel able to put in a large area for their entire stock, a small patch for the weanlings will richly pay. Prepare the ground well and sow early.—Kansas Farmer.

About the House.

Doughnuts.—One cup of sugar; one cup of cream, or if you don't have it, take a cup of sweet milk; add a lump of butter the size of an egg; one teaspoonful of cream tartar; half a one of soda; flour enough to roll.

To make feather brushes to use in greasing pans, or brushing egg over tarts or pastry, boil the wing feathers of a turkey or chicken for about ten minutes, then rinse them in tepid water, dry and tie them up in bunches.

Rub fresh lard over every part of a tin dish, and then put it in a hot oven and heat it thoroughly. Thus treated, it is said that tinware may be used in water constantly, and remain bright and free from rust an indefinite length of time.

To Wash Linens.—Put in the water, used for washing them, a little dissolved pipe clay; it will give the dirtiest linens the appearance of having been bleached, and cleans them more thoroughly with one-half the labor and one-fourth the soap.

A few drops of perfumed oil will often secure books and manuscripts from the deteriorating effects of mold and damp. The species of leather so extensively used by bookbinders owes its power of withstanding the effects of those destructive agents to the tar of the birch tree.

To remove fine particles of gravel from the eye, syringe it with lukewarm water. Be careful not to worry the eye under the impression that the substance is still there, which the enlargement of some of the minute vessels makes the patient believe to be actually the case. If the eye should feel sore avoid a strong light.

Green Grape Jam.—Put the grapes in a jar, and let them cook in a kettle of boiling water until they are soft and can be separated from the seeds. Strain through a fine colander, and to every pound of grapes put a pound of white sugar. Boil all together very gently until a thick jam is formed, and then put in small moulds or glasses, and cover with paper brushed over with the white of an egg.

To Preserve Ice.—To preserve small quantities of ice for the sick-room, or any ordinary household purpose in a small family, it is recommended that the ice be put in a vessel covered with a plate, which vessel should be placed on a feather bed and covered with a feather pillow or cushion, feathers being very bad conductors of heat. Six pounds of ice kept in this way will last, it is said, a week.

To Pickle Pears and Peaches.—Select medium-sized pears and smooth freestone peaches; stick them full of cloves. Boil seven pounds of sugar with one gallon of vinegar; an ounce of mace and an ounce of allspice. When it boils put in the fruit and let it cook gently till a straw will pierce it. Remove the fruit with a skimmer and boil the sirup down for a few minutes; then pour it over the fruit. Cover close.

At the Detroit Police Court.

He was a young man with a sentimental air. His hair was drawn back over his ears; his eyes had a far off look; one could see poetry in all his motions, especially in the way he stubbed his toes against the stove as he balanced out. In searching him the night before the police had taken away his last poem. It was a poem entitled "A Wail." One verse will introduce the young man's merits:

When I look around me and see other boys happy
it makes me feel quite sad
To be a lonely boy since mother is dead
Hark! I hear a voice saying, my child rejoice, be of good cheer,
Tho' out of sight, yet in my soul's memory you are ever dear.
My happy days of childhood I wish I could again recall;
Some happy days since then I spent, but them surpassed all.
Mother is dead and gone, I hope her soul is with the angels bright—
May she rest in peace with the saints who enjoy eternal life.

"Ferdinand Thompson, did you write this trash?" asked his Honor after pouring over the poem for five minutes.

"Yes, sir—that poetry."

"And your mother is dead?"

"Yes, sir."

"Well, I don't blame her for dying. I wonder that her ghost doesn't go around groaning with the bilious colic."

"I think I am a good judge of poetry," stiffly replied the young man.

"You are, eh! Well, now you hear me. It was your first drunk, and you may go, but if I ever catch you here again with any more poems in your pocket I'll legally and theoretically make your heels mash your shoulder-blades! Those verses are trash, sir—regular skim-milk nonsense, and it's my business to warn you that it will be forty times better for you to hunt for an ax and a woodpile than to go any further with the poet's trade."—Free Press.

Children's Fears.

The objects that excite the fears of children are often as curious and unaccountable as their secret intensity. Miss Martineau told me once that a special object of horror to her, when she was a child, were the colors of the prism, a thing in itself so beautiful that it is difficult to conceive how any imagination could be painfully impressed by it; but her terror of these magical colors was such that she used to rush past the room, even when the door was closed, where she had seen them reflected from the chandelier, by the sunlight, on the wall.

A bright, clever boy of 9, by no means particularly nervous or timid, told me once that the whole story of Aladdin was frightful to him; but he never was able to explain why it made this impression upon him. A very curious instance of strong nervous apprehension, not, however, in any way connected with supernatural terror, occurred to a young girl about 8 years old, the daughter of a friend of mine. The mother, the gentlest and most reasonably indulgent of parents, sent her upstairs for her watch, cautioning her not to let it fall; the child, by her own account, stood at the top of the stairs with the watch in her hand, till the conviction that she certainly should let it fall took such dreadful and complete possession of her that she dashed it down, and then came in a paroxysm of the most distressing nervous excitement to tell her mother what she had done.—Mrs. Kembe, September Atlantic.

A Pugnacious Goat.

His head was the shape and size of a Bullitt county watermelon, and he was so black that charcoal would make a light mark on him. The goat was asleep, leaning against the side of the house. The darkey was smoking a decayed cigar. He espied the goat, looked at the lit end of the cigar, grinned, then at the tail end of the goat, "grinned louder," looked all around to see that nobody was looking, and touched the lit end of that cigar to the tail end of that goat. The goat turned a handspring, and the negro opened his big mouth to laugh, but the goat butted him so quickly between the chin and his breeches-pockets that his jaws came together, making a noise louder than the report of a gun. The negro's hat, boots and cigar lay in a pile, ten feet off, while the body was curled up like a horse-shoe in the mouth of a sewer-opening. When he "came to" he looked around at each one in the crowd, and dispersed the crowd by saying: "Will some ob you gemmen' shoot me wid a pistol? A nigga dat's as big a fool as I ain't got no business libin."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Jenny Lind.

The Hon. Lyman Tremain, writing from Carlsbad, Germany, relates the following: "On Sunday before last quite an interesting little incident occurred at the conclusion of the services in the English Church. As there was no regular organist, the Rector had requested that if any lady present was willing to play on the melodeon the next Sunday, he would be obliged if she would inform him. At the close a lady, who was a stranger to him, volunteered her services. Discovering that she spoke in broken English, he said: 'Do you think you are competent to play upon the melodeon?' Said she, 'I think I am. Perhaps you may not doubt it when I tell you my name. It is Jenny Lind Goldschmidt.' He cheerfully acquiesced, and propounded no more questions as to her capacity. She appeared to be a woman of fifty or upward, with nothing about her to attract attention, and was dressed with great plainness and simplicity without ornament of any kind. Her countenance, no longer beautiful, seemed to me plainly marked by sorrow, sadness and care."

A Double-Headed Child.

Dame Nature, who moves in mysterious ways sometimes, revealed one of her most curious freaks in the confinement of Mrs. J. H. Hyatt, the estimable landlady of the Hyatt House of this place, on the 27th and 28th of last month, by which she gave still-birth to a child with two heads on one body, which, at the solicitation of friends, the parents consented to have preserved, and on Sunday Lyman Clark, Esq., encased it in alcohol, where we were permitted to see it on Monday and obtain this description for publication.

The corpse is twenty inches long from top of head to end of toes, and between six and eight inches from point to point of shoulder, the encasement preventing exact measurement, and weighed twelve pounds at birth. The body is a perfect female figure, fully and handsomely developed, without deformity in any particular, though there is a little distortion of the ankles and one of the heads, caused by the severity of manipulation required in the delivery, and the two arms, hands, fingers, legs, feet and toes have the distinct and perfect form of a natural and healthy child, the only distinguishable difference of the entire body being in the unusually broad shoulders, upon which rest two distinct, independent and perfectly developed heads, of the average size of an eight or nine-pound child, both apparently of a size.

The faces are perfect, resemble each other in every detail, and each possessing a beauty rarely seen in infants—the eyes, ears, noses and mouths being distinct, and fully and equally matured on each head.

The necks are of usual length, and Drs. Allen and Brown are satisfied that a branch of the spinal cord extends to each head and has a junction with the main cord high up in the back, and are of the opinion that there is but one heart and one pair of lungs.

From each head to the point of the shoulder is about the same distance as on children in general, and the heads, in an upright position, are separated by a short space, the ears nearly touching, and on the back of the shoulders is a fleshy substance just rising above the surface of the skin between the two heads. In short, it is a perfectly and beautifully developed female form, with two equally developed and beautiful mental organizations upon it, and an entire absence of any other deformity in even the minutest particular.—Windom (Minn.) Reporter.

Odd Fish.

Frogs, toads and serpents never take any food but that which they are satisfied is alive.

If a bee, wasp or hornet stings, it is nearly always at the expense of his life.

Turtles dig holes in the sand by the sea-shore and bury their eggs, leaving them to be hatched by the sun.

Lobsters are very pugnacious, and fight severe battles. If they lose a claw another grows out.

Naturalists say that a single swallow will devour six thousand flies a day.

The tarantula of Texas is nothing more than an enormous spider.

A single codfish produces more than a million eggs in one season.

A whale suckles its young, and is therefore not a fish. The mother's affection is remarkable.

Toads become torpid in winter and hide themselves, taking no food for five or six months.

Serpents of all species shed their skins annually, like sea-crabs and lobsters.

Turtles and tortoises have their skeletons partly outside of, instead of within, the body.

It is believed that crocodiles live to be hundreds of years old. The ancient Egyptians embalmed them.

In South America there is a prolific honey bee that has not been furnished with a sting.

In the darkest night fishes pursue their usual movements the same as by daylight.

Serpents never feed on anything but animal food, which they themselves put to death or swallow alive.

Seals are as intelligent as dogs, and may be made to perform many tricks like them.

The head of a rattlesnake has been known to inflict a fatal wound after being separated from the body.

If the eye of a newt is put out another perfect eye is soon supplied by rapid growth.

Fishes have no eyelids, and necessarily sleep with eyes open.

Alligators fall into a lethargic sleep during the winter, like a toad.

There are agricultural ants in Texas that actually plant grain and reap before the harvest.

Horse Racing Time this Season.

The Syracuse Standard gives the following table of records made at Eastern courses this season:

Lulu, Buffalo	2:15
Goldsmith Maid, Rochester	2:15¼
American Girl, Poughkeepsie	2:17¼
Judge Fullerton, Cleveland	2:18
Lady Maud, Rochester	2:18¼
Lucille Golddust, Rochester	2:19¼
Hopeful, Springfield	2:20
May Queen, Utica	2:20
Gen. Garfield, Utica	2:21
Clementine, Rochester	2:21
Rarus, Rochester	2:22
Mollie Morris, Buffalo	2:22
Adelaide, Utica	2:22¼
Joker, Springfield	2:23
Idol, Rochester	2:23
Joe Irving, Springfield	2:23
Lucy Turpin, Rochester	2:23
Cozette, Cleveland	2:23
Bonner, Utica	2:23
Sensation, Poughkeepsie	2:23¼
Nerea, Rochester	2:23¼
York State, Cleveland	2:23¼
Little Fred, Springfield	2:24
Grafton, Cleveland	2:24¼
Carrie, Cleveland	2:24¼
Albert, Buffalo	2:25
John W. Hall, Utica	2:25
Honest Harry, Buffalo	2:25
Orient, Rochester	2:25¼
Eva, Cleveland	2:25¼
Breeze, Utica	[illegible]
Nellie Walton, Rochester	[illegible]
Lowenall, Cleveland	[illegible]
St. Julien, Poughkeepsie	2:26¼
Duke, Cleveland	2:26¼
Annie Collins, Utica	[illegible]
Frank Ferguson, Poughkeepsie	2:27
Great Eastern, Utica	2:27¼
Twilight, Poughkeepsie	2:27¼
Tom Moore, Poughkeepsie	[illegible]
Sandhill, Cleveland	2:31
Jack Draper, Poughkeepsie	2:31¼
White Cloud, Poughkeepsie	[illegible]

And now here's another argument in favor of stealing: "A Connecticut boy was kicked by a horse the other day and he would have been killed had not the force of the kick been broken by some stolen apples which he had secreted in his hat under his coat."

urn Courier.

BURN INDIANA, [illegible]

Ex-Senator Schurz has taken the stamp in Ohio for the Republicans. Will the organs now retract the charges that they made against him last campaign.

Mr. Morton and other leaders were imported into Maine to instruct the people in their local duties, and to stir up prejudices with the worn-out stories of the rebellion, dead and buried ten years ago. The consequence is a great falling off of the Radical majority, and largely increased Democratic vote.

◆

The Republican papers get over the California election as easily as possible. One says their ticket was divided, another that the temperance ticket did the business. There was two tickets against the Democracy, and yet we beat them to the tune of 30,000. The temperance ticket received 1000 votes, and yet this split was as they say, the cause of the Radical defeat.

◆

We are glad that Mr. Joseph O'Connor has cut loose from the Indianapolis Sentinel. Mr. O. may have been a most graceful writer, and his editorials may have been "elaborate specimens of pure and chaste English' but we are not so particular about the language, so we get good American ideas. We regard the Sentinel of to-day, as being better that when under the pure English of O'Connor.

◆

Judge C. L. Pershing, nominated for Governor of Pensylvania, is a citizen of Cambria County, and was born in 1825. In 1860 he was elected to the legislature and served five years. In 1869 he was a candidate for the Supreme Judgeship, but was defeated by Judge Williams. In 1870 he was elected president Judge by a large majority and has discharged his official duties acceptably.

The Maine Election

From California and Maine comes flattering news for the Democracy. A hard fight was made on both sides in Maine, and the result shows large Democratic gains. Morton went there with his "bloody shirt" stories of the war, and he has been repudiated.—Maine gave Grant 32,000 majority in 1872, and has generally been Republican by 20,000, now shows up only about 3,000 for the Republican ticket. The Democrats gained every where, and have a pretty good showing in the Legislature. It is, really, a grand victory for the Democracy.

◆

The Democrats of Ohio demand that the government shall issue greenbacks, in place of Bonds. There are now over $300,000,000 of bonds in the hands of bondholders drawing 6 per cent interest, amounting every year to $18,000,000. What the working men, the industries of our country ask is that these bonds be taken up and greenbacks issued in their places which will be a saving to the government of $18,000,000 a year, and no increase in the debt. It is not inflation in the strict sense of the word. The bullionists want a change just the other way, by issuing bonds, buying gold with them, and redeeming the greenbacks. Look at it, ye who toil day after day. The wealthy, those who own these bonds, want you to pay more by increasing the bonded debt, which alone calls for interest, while the other side want less interest debt, and more greenbacks. There is not an intelligent farmer, mechanic, or laborer in the country, but who can see, that the former is in favor of the wealthy, which the latter is in the interest of common humanity.

◆

The New York Times in the East, and the Indianapolis Journal in the West, really abandon the fight on behalf of the Republican party in 1876. The Indianapolis Journal says that "times are hard and business depressed It admits that:

"The consequences of the panic are still felt in many burdensome ways.—Trade languishes, and the wheels of commerce move slowly. These are hard facts, and being so it is the disposition of human nature to hold some body responsible and to cast about for relief. What more natural for unthinking men than to hold the Republican part responsible?"

It is not only natural for "unthinking men" to hold the Republican party responsible for this state of affairs, but it is still more "natural" for thinking men.

The Democracy of New York in convention last week, declared for hard-money. The simple fact that the moneyed interest of the country is in New York explains it all.

◆

The Republican gives an extract from a letter from Jacksonville Florida written to the Albion New-Era, which was not very flattering to that part of the country. But the Republican adds that we fell in love with that land. Our impression of Jacksonville is not much better than that of the correspondent, and if Bro. Weamer will take the trouble to refer back he will find that we did not give this part of Florida a very big [illegible]. The land we fell in love with, was around Tallahassee and that does not include the whole State no more than the beautiful farms around South Bend and Laport, include the swamps of Stark county. We dont like to be misrepresented even in a general way. Here is the way another correspondent writes to the New Era from the same place:

As yet, I have not seen enough of Florida to 'write it up,' fully, but can say in truth that it will be 'the' country above all other states before many years. It is not a wheat or corn country, but for tropical fruits it is a decided success, and is the only State of the Union where all the fruits of the West Indies can be cultivated successfully.

* * * * *

Where I am settled, frost is seldom seen. Planting can be done in any month—December, January and February being the principal planting months. All kinds of vegetables are raised here, and in the market from four to six weeks ahead of any other state. The result is that they command the very highest prices. I am making arrangements to plant watermelons about January 15th, so that they will be ready for the northern market by May.

ARE YOU DYSPEPTIC?

If so, and you desire immediate relief, go to the drug store of F. E. Davenport and get a bottle of DeCosta's Radical cure. It will tone up the stomach, assist digestion restore the appetite regulate the liver, and in fact make a new man of you. Delicate females will find it peculiar adapted to their various disorders. It is the most [illegible] antidote for all diseases arising from a disordered stomach, liver or a low state of the system, that has ever been prescribed or advertised. Try it just once, and you will, like thousands of others become its enthusiastic advocate [illegible]

THE SIMMONS' LIVER REGULATOR

Nearly all diseases originate from Indigestion and Torpidity of the liver, and relief is always anxiously sought after. If the Liver is regulated in its action, health is almost invariably secured. Want of action in the Liver causes head ache, Constipation, Jaundice, Pain in the shoulders, cough, chills, dizziness, sour stomache, bad taste in the mouth, billious attacks, palpitation of the heart, depression of spirits, or the blues, and a hundred other symptoms, for which Simons' Liver Regulator is the best remedy that has ever been discovered. It acts mildly, effectually, and being a simple vegetable compound, can do no injury in any quantities that it may be taken. It is harmless in every way; it has been used for 40 years, and hundreds of the good and great from all parts of the country will vouch for its being the purest and best.

Simmons' Liver Regulator,

OR MEDICINE,

Is harmless,
Is no drastic violent medicine,
Is sure to cure if taken regularly,
Is no intoxicating beverage,
It is a faultless family medicine,
Is the cheapest medicine in the world,
Is given with safety and the happiest results to the most delicate infant,
Does not interfere with business,
Does not disarange the system,
Takes the place of Quinine and Bitters of every kind.
Contains the simplest and best remedies.

Price $1. Sold by all Druggists. April 22, 1875

For sale at F. E. DAVENPORT'S drug store.

Notice to Tax Payers.

Tax payers are hereby notified, that the Legislature of last winter changed the time in the law for paying the 2nd installment of taxes. The time expires this year on the 30th day of October instead of the 15th day of November, as it has been before. The following is the section of law passed by the Legislature.

SECTION 1st. Any person or tax payer, charged with taxes on a tax duplicate in the hands of a county Treasurer may pay the full amount of such taxes on or before the 3rd Monday of April or may at his option, pay one half thereof, on or before such 3rd Monday of November following, provided, however, that all road taxes so charged shall be paid prior to the first Monday of November, in the manner provided by law, and provided further, that in all cases where as much as one half of the amount of the taxes charged against a tax payer, shall not be paid on or before the 3rd Monday in April, the whole amount shall become due and be returned delinquent and collected as provided by law.

Remember that the time expires this year on the 30th day of October instead of the 15th day of November as heretofore. The new law requires me to commence my settlement with the Auditor on the first Monday of November, so that all taxes remaining unpaid at that date will be returned delinquent, with 10 per cent. penalty and collected as required by law.

Collectors will be entitled to mileage from the Court House door to where the delinquent tax payer lives under the new law instead of from the voting place of the tax payer to where he lives, as it was under the old law.

Do not put off paying until the last few days but come early, or we cannot make the receipts, for as yet only a few have paid their 2nd installment.

Yours respectfully,
NICHOLAS ENSLEY, TREAS.
DeKalb County, Ind.
Auburn, Ind. Sept. 6th, 1875.

What sense is there in paying a taylor four prices for clothing, when a more stylish cut, superior made garment, can be procured for a much less price at the Star Clothing House, Fort Wayne. The best dressed people are wearing Derlins, Carhart & Whitford's makes, sold by, Sam, Pete & Max.

Farmers, Mechanics, Everybody!
Go to and See the Large Stock of
Hardware,
TINWARE, STOVES, ETC., ETC.
—Just Received by—
GEO. HENSLER,
BUTLER, IND. He keeps a large variety of both Cooking and Heating Stoves, for sale at the lowest prices. Tin-ware in large assortment. Give him a call.

Final Settlement.

Notice is hereby given that Saml W. Sprott, Administrator of the estate of Calmerue Palmer, deceased, has filed his final settlement report in my office, which will be heard at the next term of the DeKalb Circuit Court.

J. R. LANNING, Clerk.
Sept 17, 1875.

NOTICE.

NOTICE is hereby given that a petition will be presented to the Honorable Board of Commissioners of DeKalb County, in the State of Indiana, at their next regular session, commencing on the first Monday in December, 1875, asking for the vacation of a part of Randolph street, in the Town of Garrett, in said county, described as follows, to-wit:

A strip fifty feet in width off of the east side of Randolph street, extending from the south line of the Baltimore, Pittsburg & Chicago Railway Company's (Indiana Division,) right of way, to the north line of Quincy street, produced eastwardly.

THE BALTIMORE, PITTSBURG & CHICAGO RAILWAY COMPANY, INDIANA DIVISION,
By JOHN K. COWEN, Attorney. se23

TOWN ORDINANCE.

WHEREAS, In the opinion of the Board of the incorporated Town of Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, public convenience requires that the sidewalks of said town, hereinafter particularly described, should be planked, therefore SECTION 1. Be it ordained, by the Board of Trustees of said town, that the owners of lots or parts of lots adjoining the streets in said town as hereinafter described, shall plank said sidewalks with good pine or oak plank, not less than one and one-fourth inches in thickness, and not more than eight inches in width, placed upon three sleepers of sound oak timber three by five inches. Said walks to be six feet wide, and built on a grade with the street crossings between which they are placed.

Description of sidewalks to be planked:

Town lots	Location.	Street.
Nos. 42, 43 and 44	Old Plat	Main
No. 2	Hoffman's add.	"
" 1	Spangler's add.	"
" 13, 28 and 66	Old Plat	Seventh
" 16 25 and 72	"	Fourth
" 20, 21 and 79	"	First
" 105 and 126	"	Twelfth
" 115 and 166	"	Cedar
" 30	Western add.	Jackson
" 25	"	Twelfth
Nos. 8, 33 and 56	"	"
No. 18	"	Jackson
Nos. 15 and 15	"	"
" 10, 13 and 14	"	"
No. 2	"	"
" 22 and 23	Kuhlman's add.	Van Beur'n
" 40	"	Douglass
" 2	Parks' add.	Main

SEC. 2. This ordinance shall take effect in ten days from and after its passage

SEC. 3. The planking of the sidewalks above described shall be completed within thirty days from the time this ordinance goes into effect.

Done at the regular meeting of the Board of Trustees, on the 20th day of September, 1875.

WM. McINTYRE, Pres't.
H. C. PETERSON,
W. W. HUMES,
THOS. C. MAYS.
Town Trustees.
Attest, C. D. HARE, Town Clerk.

Sheriff's Sale.

By virtue of an Execution to me directed from the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court, in a cause wherein James Sanborn and William C. Haskill are Plaintiff's, and Aaron D. Moore and Isaac Meese are Defendant's, requiring me to make the sum of One Hundred Fifty Dollars and thirteen cents, with interest on said judgment and costs, I will expose at public sale to the highest bidder on Saturday, October 9th, 1875.

between the hours of 10 o'clock A. M. and four o'clock P. M. of said day, at the door of the Court House of DeKalb County, Ind., the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years of the following real estate, to-wit:

The undivided one third part of the south half (½) of the south-west quarter of section nine [9] Township thirty-three north of range fourteen [14] east in DeKalb County, Indiana.

If such rents and profits will not sell for a sufficient sum to satisfy said judgment, interest and costs I will at the same time and place, expose at public sale the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to discharge said judgment, interest and costs.

Sale will be made without any relief whatever from valuation and appraisement law.

WILLIAM L. MEESE, SHERIFF.
Rose & Hartman, atty's for plff.
Auburn, Ind. Sept. 16, 1875.
$8.00

BRICK FOR SALE

FRITZ GROESCOP.

Having just burned a fine kiln of brick, about one hundred thousand, is now ready to supply all who want good brick at reasonable figures. Residence two miles north of Auburn on the Kutzner road; three miles south west of Waterloo.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed Executor of the estate of Benjamin Rufner late of DeKalb county, deceased. Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

JAMES BARTON, ADM'R.
Sep. 3.

Starr—Miller. At Woodstock, Ill., by Rev. J. Emory Fisher, on Thursdry, September, 16th, 1875, Mr. J. F. Starr, of Bryan, Ohio, and Miss Mattie E. Miller, of Auburn, Ind.

In the good old days of John, and Matthew, and Mark, people went east when they wanted to find a Star, but things have changed, and now we find them going in an opposite direction.

Some people will purposely misconstrue, because somebody has said: "Westward the star of empire takes its way," they really believe it has gone, and have started in pursuit. Well, we wish Mr. Star, and especially the new Star, a bright horizon, where their light may shine forth radiating joy and happiness in a thousand directions. And if perchance a tiny Star should show its little light, "Twinkling, twinkling all the night," though this night business wouldn't suit us, then may it be the harbinger of perfect happiness to a prosperous household.

GREAT
New York Store
—IN—
GARRETT,
LITMAN BROS. & GOODMAN
Will be found a complete assortment of
FALL AND WINTER GOODS.

The goods have all been well selected and make as nice a stock as there is in the county. The stock consists of a complete assortment of

DRY GOODS,
LADIES' FANCY GOODS.
MENS YOUTHS' & CLOTHING,

a complete stock, and the latest styles of Hats and Caps. We have a complate line of

BOOTS AND SHOES,

Made to our order, and the nicest stock of Gaiters for the ladies. We will offer our goods very low. Prints at 8 cents per yard, Bleached or Unbleached Muslin at 8 cents and 10 cents. The best bargains in Clothing and in Boots and Shoes, as we are receiving new goods most every day. Therefore we can afford to sell at the bottom prices. All invited to call and see us, whether they purchas or not. Come one, come all, and see our goods before purchasing elsewhere. Bargains will be given as we will carry the largest stock in Garret and we will make it an object for all to buy. Call at the Brown building opposite large hotel. The farmers will do well to come to trade in Garret. You can sell your produce for the highest market price and get the cash, and you can buy goods as cheap as any place and you will be satisfied.

No. 34—6m LITMAN BROS. & GOODMAN

AT BOND'S NOVELTY STORE!

Muslins, Flannels, Hosiery, Gloves and other staple goods in large stock.

YARNS

Germantown yarn, first quality.
Germantown yarn, first quality, Balmoral.
Merino yarn, Shetland wool.
Saxony yarn Saxonia yarn.
Knitting yarn of all kinds, including the celebrated German knitting yarn.
Knitting cotton, Crochet cotton.
Cotton especially for mending stockings, in small skeins.
RUG canvas and other kinds.
Infant's bootees, sacks and shirts, and all kinds of knit goods made to order.

Stamping.

Braiding and Embroidery done to order.
German knitting Cotton, complete stocking darner, stocking supporters.
Corsets in varity, including Madame Foy's corset at $1.
French embroidery silk, shaded embroidery silk, large skeins 5 cents.
And a large stock of staple and fancy goods at exceedingly low prices.

21 West Main St.

AN ORDINANCE.

SECTION 1st. Be in ordained by the Board of Trustees of the Town of Auburn, in the County of DeKalb and State of Indiana, that it shall be unlawful for any person, owning or having the control of any Cattle, Horses Mules or Swine, to permit such Cattle, Horses, Mules or Swine to run at large within the corporate limits of said town between the hours of 8 o'clock in the evening and 5 o'clock in the morning from the first day of July to the first day of December in each year.

SECTION 2nd. Any person or persons violating the provisions of section one of this ordinance, upon conviction, shall be fined in any sum not less than $1, nor more than $5.

SECTION 3rd. It shall be unlawful for any person or persons owning or having control of any Cattle, Horses or Mules to permit such Cattle, Horses or Mules to run at large, at any time, within the corporate limits of said town from the 1st day of December, in each year, until after the 1st day of April following.

SECTION 4th. Any person or persons violating the provisions of section three of this ordinance, upon conviction, shall be find in any sum not less than $1 nor more than $5.

SECTION 5th. This ordinance shall take effect from and after the 4th day of October, A. D. 1875.

Attest: C. D. HARE, Town Clerk.

GILES' LINIMENT
TRADE MARK
IODIDE OF AMMONIA

Cures Neuralgia, Face ache, Rheumatism, Gout, Frosted Feet, chilblains, sore throat Erysipelas, Bruises or Wounds of every kind in man or animal.

Giles' Liniment Iodine of Ammonia has been used by myself and family with satisfactory results. I recommend it to all persons suffering with pains or aches of any kind. It surpasses anything I have ever used. G. H. MILLER, Pres. Real Estate & Savings Bank, Baltimore Md. Sold by all Druggists. Depot No. 451 Sixth avenue, New York. Only 50c and $1 per bottle Sold by J. H. EHLERS.

No. 29 4w

THE
NEW YORK STORE

ROOT & COMPANY,
Wholesale and Retail Dealers in
DRY GOODS,
NOTIONS, ETC., ETC.
We are now clearing out our entire stock of
SUMMER GOODS
and offering all above mentioned goods at a great reduction from former prices
Examine our great
CARPET DEPARTMENT
before you purchase, and save money
GRAIN BAGS all the best brands at
ROOT & COMPANY'S
46 and 48 Calhoun St., Fort Wayne,
☞ Opposite the Court House. ☜

A New Store
With an entire new stock of
BOOTS & SHOES,
New STYLES of all kinds at the LOWEST PRICES at
J. E. WOODFORD'S

I have located at Auburn with a fine stock of BOOTS and SHOES, which will be sold at the Lowest Figures for Cash!

My Facilities for making CUSTOM WORK are not exceeded anywhere and those favoring me—with their orders may be certain of getting the best material.
W. W. HUMES, Foreman.

To the trade, great inducements are offered in Leather, Findings, &c. Please call and examine my stock before purchasing.

Grand Display
The Largest, Finest and Cheapest Stock of
Wall and Window Paper!
SHADES AND FIXTURERS.
SCHOOL BOOKS!
Miscellaneous and Blank Books,
Pocket Books, Bibles,
Bill Books, Albums,
Wallets, Testaments,
Memorandas, Pass Books,
PLAIN AND FANCY
STATIONARY,
Pictures, Picture cord and Tassel,
Box Papers in great variety,
School Supplies of all kinds,
—AT—
C. P. HOUSER'S,
Main Street, opposite Ford's Block, AUBURN, IND.

THE FIRST

National Bank

OF AUBURN, INDIANA.

Capital Stock $50,000

Deposits received on time or subject to check on sight

Exchange, available in the United States, Canada and Europe, furnished.

Checks and drafts, payable in any part of th U. S. cashed at our counter, or collected and proceeds accounted for to holder.

Collections made and promptly remitted for on day of payment.

Loans negotiated and business papers discounted

Government and other securities bought and sold.

Directors:

J. R. LANNING, J. H. FORD,
S. W. RALSTON, WM. McINTYRE,
GEO. HAZZARD.

Officers:

JOSEPH R. LANNING, Prest.
JAS. V. HAZZARD, Cashier.

April 29, 1875.

Auburn Courier.

Local and Miscellaneous.

The best hats and caps, are at T. B. Totten's.

The latest styles of window paper at Houser's.

Miss Mary Kline is yet quite low with typhoid fever.

The best undershirts and drawers at T. B. Totten's.

A tip top whith shirt for $1.50 at Rakestraw & Jackmans.

The fire door in the Odd Fellows Hall has been repaired.

Splendid pictures furnished at low rates at the new gallery.

For a good cigar go to Davenport's and call for the "Fancy."

Albert Davis, oldest son of J. L. Davis is lying very low.

Call and see the fine lot of pocket books at Houser's.

The "Fancy," the best 5 cent cigar in town, at Davenport's.

There will be a dance in Ensly's Hall to-night. All are invited.

You can get the Halls Patent Husking Gloves at T. B. Totten's.

Mrs. Kenninger, of Bryan, O. has been visiting friends here.

If you want a good picture, go to Siler's gallery over Martin's store.

Frank Bacon, Justice for Butler-tp., has moved his office to Garrett.

Now is the time, and Houser's is the place to buy your wall paper.

The Warm Meal House on Main St., is no more. It closed last Monday.

We received a communication from Logansport too late for this issue.

Mrs. Dr. Littlefield, returned this week from a protracted visit to Michigan.

Goodman Bros. will soon move into their new store room, on Seventh street.

S. U. Tarney intends erecting a large and tasty brick dwelling house in a short time.

The Excursion to Put-in-Bay passed through here Tuesday at 10:40 am. well loaded.

Rev. Mr. Welch has been visiting friends out of the city for several days this week.

Pressed brick that cost $60 a thousand will be used for the front of McIntyre's new block.

The Corunna and Union nines play a game of ball here to-day, at the Eel River grounds.

Ladies who admire house plants ought to know that the oleander is dangerous and poisonous.

Hats, caps, and prices to suit everybody, call and see for yourselves. Rakestraw & Jackman.

Rakestraw & Jackman have on hand their new stock of gloves, which they will sell at the lowest prices.

Somebody said there was a fight on Eight street Saturday night. The Dr. vas shut up usht von hour pefore.

John Hebel's new brick presents the appearance of a pony beer. Well, Its time John was begining to take ponies.

For the best and all kinds of groceries go to Beards. He don't take no back seat for anybody.

The steam shovel engine at Avilla exploded last Saturday, and wounded the firemen, not seriously.

Mr. Baker has fenced in the commons used by the boys as a ball ground. The Eel River ground will be put in shape again.

Dr. W. C. Fluke, of Clayton, Mich. is in the city. He reports doing a fine business in the drug line at the above place.

Court begins next Monday with 337 cases before His Honor. This is the largest docket ever had in the DeKalb Court.

For several days past we had morning and evenings quite cold, making stoves a necessary article, and nice to have around.

Several of our young lads are just returning home from the Fort Wayne Fair Dinna, any tother kind 'o soup; Dis is too thin.

F. E. Davenport, the main spoke in the drug trade at this place, is preparing to build a large brick where his frame now stands.

We are just receiving our new stock of clothing, overcoating, cloaking &c., which are the very best in the market. Rakestraw & Jackman.

Some dark night a fellow will pick himself up, and gently place his hands on his bowels, if that sidewalk ain't fixed in fron't of Shull Bros. brick.

Scribners' Illustrated Magazine for girls and boys for October cannot be excelled. Every family should be furnished with a copy of this fine work.

One of our hands was thinking about his Jane so much that he forgot to set up the Commissioners Proceedings, last week. They can be found on the first page.

Our old and reliable drayman Mr. Roth, has been overhauling his vehicle, until now it looks tony. It might be called the "Red Line;" just for brevity, you know.

We forgot to mention, last week, the enlargment of the Hicksville "Independent." It is very much improved in appearance. Bro. Brooks is making it a spicy paper.

We have seen the great snakes, the fishes of the sea, and the crocodiles in the air, but we have never seen underclothing sell at such low prices as at Rakestraw & Jackman's.

The frame house, at the north end of town, owned by Mr. Spake, took fire last Tuesday morning and destroyed the roof on the back end. No further damage was done.

The Grangers will hold a rally at Waterloo on September 28th, 1875. Prominent speakers will be present to address the hearers, and all who attend may expect a good time.

We are glad to announce that Garrett has a poet. He contributes to the COURIER which will will appear next week, a very pathetic answer to "Silver Threads Among the Gold."

Scribner's Monthly for October is before us replete with most excellent reading. We have not time to tell of the good things to be found in this number Get a copy at Houser's.

A fashionable-dressed young woman, putting on the finishing touches, was heard singing: "Backward, pin backward, oh, skirts in your flight; make me look small again, just for to-night."

WOOD.—Will those of our subscribers who intend to pay us in wood, bring it now? We want our wood this year before winter begins, and we hope our friends will attend to it right away.

Prof Siler, of North Manchester, has opened a new picture gallery over Martin's store in the frame block, where he would be pleased to receive a call from those who want a good picture.

Col. Enoch Zollars, of Fort Wayne, has rented the Odd Fellows Store Room and will be here in a few days with a mammoth stock of groceries and provisions, when he will make things lively Harper's Magazine for October will be found very interesting. It opens with a beautiful idyl of country life by Jean Ingelow, and is followed by many other attractive articles with fine illustrations Houser has it.

Gold garter-buckles, upon which there is a delicate spray of flowers, in stones of suitable color, or the owner's monogram, is the latest in that line. So say the papers; but how is one to tell a monogram, unless they see it.

The Ligonier "Banner" claims that a report is current that Judge Best contemplates tendering his resignation as Judge of this district. It is not because he has not given general satisfaction, for all speak high of his ability and fairness as a judge.

Wait! Wait!

Wait for the fine display of splendid Stoves, to be made in a few days, at Goodman's. New styles, and new patterns, and something different than has ever been exibited before. tf.

There is a man in Chicago whose name is J. Confucius McGillicuddy. We would suppose that a man with that name and the neuralgia and one or two other things of that sort would be apt to think that he was the victim of all the accumulated ills of earth.

We have now a regular correspondent at Garrett, Butler, and Angola, we would like to have one at other points. We hope some one will have enough interest in their respective localities to send in items for the COURIER.

Our young friend Daniel Littlefield, while handling phospohrus the other day had his left hand terribly burned, especially the fingers. If we had our choice between nitro-glycerine and phosphorus we would take phospohrus.

The young lads at Garrett are compelled to come to Auburn on Sunday to "teach their Sabbath-school class." But after evening services they had better stop "swinging on the gate," if they don't want the old man to chastise dem wid a club.

VARIETIES.—The Tamerack Varieties will open this Thursday evening at Garrett, with a good troupe, of both male and female characters. The hall has been fitted up with stage, seats and every arrangement made to entertain a large audience.

W. H. Dills, Esq., has consented after earnest solicitation, to deliver an address on the subject of Temperance next Monday evening at the M. E. Church. Mr. Dills has the ability to treat the subject intelligently, and the experience to give the lecture a practical character. We hope to see a large audience present.

Bro. Welsh, of the M. E. Church, will deliver a discourse next Sabbath evening on "The Phylosophy of Profanity." We hope there will be a large attendance, especially of those boys who regard neither time nor place in the practice of this vice. The parents of a few of them should take especial pains to get them out.

While at Garrett last Saturday, we got a lot of new subscribers, among them some of the best men in the city, such as Messrs Cowan, Bonnel, Spencer, Moore, Allen, David Bros., Hyman & Co Purdue, Bicknell, and several others nearly all of them good sound Democrats, and therefore honest and happy as men, as men can be.

Auburn Fruit House.

Next Monday will be the grand opening of the Auburn Fruit House, in the Odd Fellows' room, by Mr. E. Zollars of Fort Wayne. The prices of the leading articles used, will be greatly reduced, and all warranted to be of a good quality The best white sugar at 10c, the best coffee 22 and 25c, &c. He will make a specialty of Teas. Keep your eye on the COURIER for a price list.

Mat. Zirwes, of Waterloo, will open an eating house on the fair grounds at that place, during the coming fair, week after next, where he will be ready to supply everybody with a good meal.—Mat has been there several times and knows how to cater to the wants and taste of the public.

He will also give a grand ball each evening, at Matson's Hall, for which he has already engaged a splendid string band from Ft. Wayne.

New Clothing Store.

An entire new stock of clothing has been purchased by Mrs. Samuel Lauferty and is now being opened out in the Granger store, in the Rainier building until Hebel's new building is finished, when it will be removed to that point. The store will be under the superintendence of Mr. Lauferty, and he asks the public to call and examine the large new stock just received.

NOTICE.—All those indebt to me on book or slip account will please call and settle with in the next 20 days, or they will be left for collection.

V. A. BEARD.

Sept 23d, 1875.

No Connection

We are authorized to state that the popular clothing man of Waterloo Jacob Kahn, has just returned from the east with an immense stock of clothing dry goods, Boots & shoes, and has now the entire stock opened out for the inspection of the public. He also wishes us to say that he is not connected with any other firm in the county in the clothing line, but that he will sell at figures that cannot be duplicated in the county. He is still buying all kinds of produce for cash. Call and see him.

Soldiers Attention

There will be a meeting of the soldier boys next Saturday evening at the Court House at 7 o'clock precisely to make arrangements to go to Fort Wayne on October 5th and 6th, to the soldiers Reunion. An effort should be made to organize a company for this occasion. All soldiers and others interested are invited to attend this meeting. We suggest that a similar meeting be held in other places in the county and that they get up as large a squad as possible.

Is Your Life Worth 10 Cents.

SICKNESS prevails everywhere, and everybody complains of some disease during their life—When sick, the object is to get well; now we say plainly that no person in this world that is suffering with Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint and its effects, such as Indigestion, Costiveness, Sick Headache, Sour stomache, Heart-burn, Palpitation of the Heart, Depressed Spirits, Biliousness &c. can take GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER without getting relief and cure. If you doubt this, go to your Druggist and get a sample bottle for ten cents, and try it. Regular size 75 cents. Two doses will relieve you.

A Fine Concert.

Everybody was delighted with the concert given at the Catholic church last Thursday evening by the Maennerchor, and choir of St. Mary's Church, Fort Wayne. The train which brought up our musical friends from the city in the evening, being behind time caused some delay in the commencement, but the delay was soon forgotten in the enjoyment of what followed. Miss Young opened the programme with an instrumental selection from Martha, which she played with much spirit and style. "Seiduns" was then rendered by the Maennerchor, but what Seiduns is we cant exactly say, but as there was good music to the words it satisfied the audience. Miss Graffe then sang, "Let Music and Song," and delighted everybody. Another chorus followed, when Miss Scheiber sang in most splended style, the "Song of the Robin." The choir then ventured on "Veni Creator," and sung it admirably, followed by Miss Young in that fine selection, "Not for Gold," which was well adapted to show the fine range and compass of her voice. The choir closed the first part with "O, Salutaris."

The second part opened with "Storm" by Miss Young, which gave her the first encore, and a fine selection by the choir followed by Miss Graffe with a beautiful song, "Mountain Home" which she sang in good style. After the choir, came "Spring Time" by Miss Scheiber, which was loudly applauded, and which we thought the best effort of the evening. "Magnificat" by the choir was the best quartete on the programme and it was finely rendered

"A Wet Sheet" by Miss Young seemed to please everybody. "Weh dass wir sheiden mussen," by the Maennerchor, delighted everybody, because everybody understood it. It put us in mind of Dass is neicht wor, so help me gracious, only a little more so.

The whole programme was well rendered, and most enjoyable to all present. Prof Young presided with his usual ability, and our Fort Wayne friends may be assured that they left pleasant impressions among our people.

A POOR FAIR.

Fairs were originally instituted for the purpose of exhibiting the farming, mechanical and industrial interests of the country, and they were properly looked upon as a grand gala day—a respite from the monotony of hard labor to be indulged in once a year. But fairs have sadly deteriorated within a few years, if the exhibition given at Fort Wayne last week is to be considered a modern fair. The general feature of that fair was lager beer saloons, wheels of fortune, and a few of the worst horse races we ever saw started on a track.—Now, we don't care much for a few saloons, a wheel of fortune or two, or a poor race sandwiched among some good ones, but when they are the general features, we don't feel like endorsing it on complimentary terms. We have no reason to be abusive, because all connected with the fair are our friends, but we must say it was a most thorough failure in most every respect. The agricultural implement exhibition was splendid and a few other minor things might be rated from fair to middling.

The show of hogs and sheep was far from good, cattle a little better, while the horse department was not good by any means.

But the most prominent fraud was discernable in the races. The stud of speed horses would hardly have done credit to a farm establishment, and the manner of conducting the races was a palpable swindle. Horses that could have distanced the winner in several of the races were distanced instead. In the 2:30 race only three horses started, there being but little inducement offered to bring horses of that class to the fair.

Trotting and other races now constitute the greatest attractions of our fairs and are generally recognized as a legitimate amusement. But burlesques in this line disgust and offend, and the people are not slow to withdraw their patronage when these are thrust upon them. Allen County is capable of getting up a good fair, and of making it one of the most enjoyable occasions during the whole year. With splendid grounds, a fine track; good buildings and ample water priviliges, there is no excuse for a failure in this direction. An intelligent public demands something more than was realized last week.

Grand reunion of the soldiers of Northern Indian, at Fort Wayne, October 5th and 6th, 1875. Excursion trains will run at half fare on all the roads leading into Fort Wayne. Ample preparations are made by which 10,000 soldiers can be served with a free dinner. On the evening of the 5th a grand military ball will be given; and to the best organized delegation, there will be presented, on the 6th, a handsome silk banner. Among those who have signified their attention to positively be present, we mention Generals Sherman, Willich, Gibson, Brady and Browne; Senators Morton and McDonald, and Gov. Thos. A. Hendricks. Several millitary organizations will be present, among which we mention Myers' Toledo Cadets, Logansport Greys, and Valley City Guards. Soldiers come to our reunion, and let us extend our acquaintance, and talk over our trials and experience of over ten years ago. JAS. HARPER, Chairman.

The Bluestockings and Star of the West will play a match game of base ball Saturday, on the grounds of the latter.

IF YOU NEED

CLOTHING!

VISIT

KAHN'S Clothing House!

It will Pay You.

Ensly's Block, Two Doors East Post Office

AUBURN, IND.

Garrett City.

There is no longer disguising the fact that Garrett City will ere long be one of the features of DeKalb county. For a long time, we thought it would never rise to more than a country village, from the rumor that the shops were to employ but a hundred or two of men, from the disadvantage of its location, and also from the impression very general for a long time that it was a mere speculation on the part of a few, to make a pile of money, and then finally come back to the Junction. But the permanent character which the place is so rapidly assuming, and above all the extensive establishments of the Railroad now being erected in the way of mammoth buildings precludes the possibility of its being less than a thriving industrial city. The dimensions of these will suffice to convince any one of this, and we give them as follows:

The Round House, 264 feet in diameter, containing stalls for 32 engine each.

A machine shop 100 feet wide 265 long in which employment will be given to about 200 men.

A blacksmith shop 50 feet wide and 265 feet long, with 70 forges, giving employment to 150 men.

A car shop 250 feet in diameter, for the employment of 200 men

Paint shop, 70 feet wide and 250 feet long, where 50 men will be engaged.

Saw mill 70 feet wide and 200 feet long, where a hundred men will find employment.

Wheel house, 80 feet square 50 men.

Boiler shop, 80 feet wide and 110 feet long, 50 men.

Freight house, 45 feet wide and 180 feet long.

Elevator, 45 feet wide and 140 feet long.

Hotel 70 feet long and 48 feet wide, 3 stories, with 42 rooms.

Passenger depot, 80 feet wide and 150 feet long 2 stores in the center.

This estimate makes a total of 700 men to be employed in the machine shops alone, and does not include employees in round houses, freight or passenger depot, nor employees on the outside, which at low estimate will make a total of 1000 men. This alone will insure a sprighly little city in a few years'

From Angola.

SEPTEMBER 21st, 1875.

—Money is easier and business improving.

—Potatoes are not only plenty, but in several instances have grown full on the tops to the size of goose eggs.

—Robt. Squires has opened up a new meat Market on the north-west corner of public square, and will sell good meat cheap. Bob is a good fellow.

—Scoville & Latson sell more goods than other house in town. They are boss fellows to deal with. They have the best clerk in the State.

—Fairs are plenty in Steuben County. There is to be one at Orland, though I have forgotten the date, one at Pleasant Lake, Thursday and Friday of this week and one at Angola soon.

—I had heard long ago of corn that had three ears on every stock, and instead of tassels a gourd growing on every stock full of shelled corn. There has been a greater number of bushels of farm products raised in this county than ever before in one year. Some farmers average over 31 bushels of wheat to the acre. The yield of apples, this year, is very light.

In reply to an article in the "DeKalb Republican" I would say that it reminds me of the old saying, "swallowing a camel and choking on a knat." If the people had been deceived on the Lansing excursion to the extent they were on the Jackson excursion, from your place, then there would be good grounds for complaint. Talk of being swindled! I went through the cars on the side track next morning after your excursion, all box cars, a dirty sticken lot, too. Part of them had been used for shipping cattle and were smeared with manure.—Our place did not blaze it to the world either, though our wives and children were shipped in them, without water or any of the conveniences that should accompany such excursions. Our people submitted and said nothing, but now the very smart editor of the "Republican" comes out and says the people were swindled. He has no word of condemnation for the Jackson excursion, but when Angola gets up one with much better accommodations he cries, swindled. We don't believe it is the expression of the people from Auburn, but merely the silly nonsense of an unmitigated ass.

We done the best we could, and did not spare money for the sake of gain, and therefore can't brag of $1,500. Our churches did'nt make anything, barely enough to pay for the blowing they had on excursion day.

ANGOLA.

FROM BUTLER.

SEPTEMBER 22, 1875.

Discovered some frost Saturday morning, though not severe.

A. F. Pinchin's new brick residence, on North street, is a handsome building; wish more of the same kind were in progress.

F. W. Oberlin is putting up a large brick bakery in the rear of his grocery.

Those who have heard the Rev. J. N. Morris, the young minister at the Lutheran church, say he delivers very pleasing sermons.

Mr. A. H. Frost, a reporter, of Erie Co., Ohio, made a brief visit with the family of our Post Master, last week.

Our German friends had a grand wedding on Thursday night. Miss Eliza Hensler to Mr. Gilbert of Kendallville. Mr. Hensler made his daughter a wedding present of the best cook-stove in his large hardware establishment.

Rev. Peddycord delivered a short address from the text:—"Whole Am't $30.00," after his usual discourse Sunday evening.

It is supposed that some young man, in attempting to go up stairs, walked through J. D. Prince's store window, Thursday night.

The Fast Line Mail Train passed through here on the morning of the 17th, at 1.10—going west. Many were down at the depot to witness the sight. One could almost imagine it to be a phantom train—a line of white, gone almost as soon as seen. Besides the four white mail cars, were three Palace cars containing Directors. It is expected that before long they will make the distance in less time.

On Tuesday evening every two weeks, the Masons have a social in their Lodge room, attended by their families. Music generally, refreshments occasionally, and a pleasant time particularly, is the programme for the evening's entertainment. "LENA."

Garrett Items.

Cold weather sends us shivering from point to point, giving us a foretaste of what we are soon to realize.

—Fix up your stoves for winter. A fine assortment of new stoves for sale at the hardware store opposite the Garrett House. Mr. Robbins the gentlemanly superintendent is ready to take orders, and have them put up in good style.

—The Garrett House will soon be completed.

—O. C. Clark will soon have another fine business room completed.

—Our enterprising friend, W. J. Frederick is erecting a fine dwelling house on Keyser street.

—Kendallville is well represented here. They are moving houses down here in sections already lathed and plastered.

—The walls of the machine shop are going up lively, under the supervision of that excellent workman Mr. John Canaway. He is thorough and practical, and a skilled mechanic of large experience.

—John L. Davis will soon be in his new store room, which is one of the best in the town. He will put in a large stock of stoves and hardware.

—It is thought work will soon commence on the new passenger depot.

—A bag of cats made things lively one evening last week between two buildings.

—Our citizens here are just beginning to find out that the COURIER is the Democratic paper of the county, and a large number will want it, as it is the best paper in the county.

CONSERVATIVE.

HER CHOICE.

BY MRS. C. E. CRESWELL.

The [illegible] Carlotta [illegible],
[illegible]
The [illegible]
The [illegible]

The wealthy banker [illegible]
[illegible]
The [illegible]
With [illegible]

The [illegible]
Whereon he [illegible] oft wearily;
And yet an honest heart had he—
An humble heart at her command.

The banker daily pressed his suit;
The brave Judge, with his coursers gay,
Drove her through parks in his coupe;
At eve young Eugene proffered fruit.

The maid appeared to [illegible]
[illegible] smile,
And [illegible] while,
None knew the [illegible]

At length the [illegible]
He ne'er had breathed his passion deep—
Smothered and hid he tried to keep
The flame that burned unceasing still.

"Til unto death!" Carlotta's heart
Was stirred as ne'er 'twas moved before;
Her light feet strayed to Eugene's door
"Great Father, let him not depart!"

She clasped his head, she kissed his brow;
[illegible] his white face from the wall,
"The humble heart's the best of all!
My darling! wilt thou love me now?"

STORY OF A WILL.

"Thrown off his horse and killed!" I read, in the city weekly paper just issued, as I sat in my law office one morning in Wellington, the county seat of a certain Franklin county.

It was on Thursday morning, in September; and the paragraph went on to say that on Wednesday morning, Stephen Edwards, a wealthy old farmer, who had lived near a place called the Cross Roads, three or four miles from Wellington, was found dead on the road, within half a mile of his house, and that appearances indicated that he was thrown from his horse and killed on Tuesday night on his way home from the latter place.

"Why, I declare!" I said to myself, "It was only the day before yesterday that I wrote his will, and it was signed and witnessed here in my office. How singular! Killed that very night?"

Mr. Edwards was a somewhat singular man. I knew that he changed his mind often, for I had drawn several wills for him. In this last one, which I now very emphatically declared should be the last, he had bequeathed the bulk of his wealth to a dissipated nephew, Ross Edwards, reserving barely enough for his only daughter to make the will valid. He did not tell me why and it was no part of my business to ask him, although, knowing the family well, I had wondered at it.

I had scarcely finished reading the paragraph relating to the accident, when Mr. Brush, the constable, stepped in. He was not a very learned man, was very excitable, and entertained a keen sense of the solemnity of his duties as an officer.

"Have you heard about Edwards?" he asked.

"I have just read of it," I replied. "It is a sad thing."

"Well, there is a suspicion of something wrong about it."

"Ah! How so?" I asked.

"You drew his will, didn't you?"

"In favor of Ross?"

"Yes."

"I did. What's wrong about it?"

"Why, his daughter Lucy has come into town this morning, and got a warrant out to arrest her cousin Ross, on suspicion of murder. She says he knew that the will was to be made in his favor that day, and as the old man had changed his mind so often, and might do it again, she believes that he waylaid and murdered him, so as to make sure of the property. You know Ross is called a hard case. It's suspicious."

"It looks bad," I replied.

"It does so. Well, I have the warrant for his arrest, and I am going to ride out to Cross-Roads and get him. Will you go along? You are a lawyer, and I would like you to go along. You might notice things that I wouldn't."

"Yes, I'll go with you," I said. "Wait just a minute."

I had a horse, which I soon saddled and bridled, and in a few minutes Mr. Brush and I were galloping away over the country toward the Cross-Roads, a place that aspired to be a village on account of its having a postoffice, grocery store, and three or four dwelling houses.

"By the way," said the Constable, as he rode along, "did Edwards leave his will in your care?"

"No; he took it with him. Was it found in his pocket?"

"I didn't ask the girl, but we'll know when we get there. He won't be buried until an investigation is made. The Coroner is coming out to-day."

We learned on the way that Ross Edwards made his quarters at the Cross-Roads tavern, and when we arrived in front of the little two-story building, we saw him sitting on the porch reading the country newspaper. He did not seem to notice us dismounting, and we had secured our horses at the hitching-post and stepped upon the piazza before he was aware of our presence.

"Ross Edwards," said Mr. Brush, in a very impressive tone, as he laid his hand on the startled man's shoulder, "I arrest you for the murder of your uncle, Stephen Edwards, whom you waylaid on Tuesday night, and knocked from his horse with a club, to secure the immediate benefit of his will."

Grave as the occasion was, I could scarcely keep from smiling at this pompous speech, which I think Mr. Brush had mentally prepared and committed to memory on the way. It was the first time that he had ever been called upon to arrest a man on a charge of murder, and he evidently intended to make the most of it.

Ross Edwards looked up into the Constable's face, then at me with apparent surprise; after which he turned very pale, and seemed trying to speak, though unable to utter a word.

"I'm sorry," said Mr. Brush, in a less official tone, "and I hope the charge may prove false, but I must do my duty. Your cousin Lucy has made the complaint, and got the warrant out. Here it is." And he began to read—"Commonwealth of—"

"Never mind reading it," interrupted Ross Edwards, recovering his self-possession, and speaking very calmly. "I know what a warrant is, and I know you are the Constable. I will go with you at once; but rest assured that there is some mistake about this."

He arose and put on his hat as he spoke.

"I hope it will turn out so," said Mr. Brush.

"Ross," said I—for I had often addressed him by his first name—"do you happen to know that your uncle made a will in your favor?"

"No," he replied, coolly.

"You don't?"

